Maryland Health Dept. Reviews One Year Of Polio Vaccine Program

The state health department has issued a review of poliomyelitis vaccine inoculations in Maryland as of November 1, 1956.

In the special program sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, first and second grade school children received a grand total of 220,371 inoculations—118,452 first and 101,919 second injections. In the main these first shots were given in the spring of 1955 and the second inoculations in November and December, 1955.

In addition there were used in Maryland up to November 1 a total of 1,164,684 cubic centimeters of vaccine (1 c.c. equals 1 injection). Slightly more than sixty per cent was commercial vaccine sold to private physicians, and slightly less than forty per cent was purchased by the state health department for use in clinics. In addition a substantial number of shots were given in Maryland by the numerous military installations, and a significant number by D. C. physicians to Maryland residents, particularly in Prince Georges and Montgomery counties.

In Maryland the age group from birth to nineteen years of age inclusive, which is the major objective of this immunization effort, comprises an estimated 963,396 individuals. As of November 1 it is estimated that 64.8% of this group has received at least one injection. About 53.3% had had two or more injections.

A final study of the data in Maryland for 1955 indicated that a single inoculation reduced the number of paralytic cases in the vaccinated group about 60% below the level of paralysis among the not-vaccinated children of comparable age. For 1956—January 1 - November 1—there have been 74 cases of paralytic polio. This compares with the same period in preceding years as follows: 1955, 160 cases; 1954, 185 cases; 1953, 294 cases; 1952, 194 cases.

For the U.S. as a whole the Public Health Service reports that for the period January 1 - October 27, 5,928 cases of paralytic polio were reported in 1956, compared to 9,311 cases in 1955.

The health department pointed out that it is becoming increasingly clear that although the process of immunity is started by a single injection and some degree of protection is conferred, three injections are required to achieve a complete immunization. It is disappointing that in the important late teen-age group the coverage is especially poor. Although the risk of paralysis is slightly less for this age group as compared to younger children, this is balanced by the increased severity of paralysis which they experience. The department also recommended that adults over 20 years, particularly those between the ages of 20 and 35 who live in households with young children, should get the injections.

The winter season—right now—is the ideal time to start protection. The initial two shots can be given at an interval of one month, followed by the important third injection next spring before the polio season starts. Each individual can make a real contribution to the public health by securing injections for himself and his family.

Woodland Hills Group Starts Building Homes

By Isadore Parker

A check for $380,000 was turned over to the building contractor for the start of construction of 21 homes in the Woodland Hills housing development, in the offices of Henry Johnson, FHA administrator for cooperative housing yesterday morning. Presenting the check for the group was Tony Madden, president, and Charles McDonald, secretary.

The check represents a construction loan from the First National Bank of Baltimore; the remaining mortgage for the homes will be secured through Nationwide Insurance.

Ground will be broken for construction following the signing of documents. Woodland Hills, a development by Woodway Homes, Inc., was organized by a group of local residents, who purchased land from Warner-Kanter Construction company, in order to build individual homes cooperatively. There are 49 lots in the development, and 24 lots are still available for purchase, according to Madden. Purchase price includes all utilities and streets.

One of the 21 homes being built is owned by Rex Tugwell, former federal official, who originally planned the construction of Greenbelt and its two sister towns. Tugwell is now residing in Chicago, but plans to move here upon completion of his home.

The homes are of brick construction, on a wooded hillside site, and have from 3 to 5 bedrooms. Variations of one plan are used.

Archers Seek Range

The Greenbelt Archery Club, which will operate in cooperation with the city recreation department, has requested community support, according to president Ken Guppy, who also stated that this sport is a "new trend in outdoor activity for this area". Club membership is now 45, and immediate problems are to find a location for the archery range and a way to finance the necessary fence to enclose it.

VARIETY SHOW

North End PTA is sponsoring the annual Variety Show tomorrow night, Friday, at 8 p.m. at the North End school. The program will feature songs, dances, comedy, and dramatics.

Recreation Review

Recreation is for everyone
Not for just a few,
So don't hold back,
Join in and see what you can do.
by W. G. Leddick

Saturday, November 24 the Youth Center will hold a "Turkey Trot" dance from 8 to 11:30 p.m. at the Community Center. Dress will be khaki or slacks for the boys and skirts and socks for the girls. 25c stag—50c drag.

Recently the officers of the Youth Center met with the recreation director to consider new ideas for the center. It was decided to have a dance every other Saturday night. Also, the center is to be controlled by the teen-agers, themselves. The present officers will call a meeting to set up separate committees on decoration, buying records, and planning. These committees will meet once a month with the recreation director to plan a program for the month. The officers decided to have the group use their own money for the music, with the proceeds going to the building fund for the new youth center.

A Golden Age group is being formed by the recreation department. This club is exclusively for women over 65. Any ladies interested please contact the office of the Director of Recreation, either by mail or phone, GR 3-2011.

JCC Women's Group Installs New Officers

An installation of officers and tea was held last Thursday by the Women's Group of the Jewish Community Center. JCC's president, Nathan Shinderman, installed Evelyn Barnett, Helen Justman, Ethel Rosenzweig, the presidium; Edith Ratzkin, treasurer; Helen Kushner, recording secretary; Esther Gerson, corresponding secretary.

Following the installation, Martin Berkofsky, well-known young pianist, offered several selections, and Frieda Vernoff entertained the group with a reading from Sholom Aleichem.

GVHC Board Discusses Problems Brought On By Sales Procedures

by Al Skolnik

Clarification of recently adopted procedures governing the sale of Greenbelt Veteran Housing Corporation houses absorbed the attention of the GVHC board of directors at its regular meeting last Friday night.

The problem brought before the board concerned the requirement that sellers and agents furnish prospective purchasers with signed fact sheets giving such pertinent financial information for the individual housing unit as GVHC book basis, initial down payment, unpaid balance of GVHC contract, and monthly charges. The purpose of this requirement was to give the prospective buyer in writing all the fiscal information concerning his purchase before he bought, so that there would be no grounds for misunderstanding or ill feeling after the sale was consummated. The prospective buyer, by signing the fact sheet, would indicate his understanding of the financial details associated with the sale and of his future obligations.

Procedure Challenged

A challenge to this procedure arose when three membership applications were submitted to the board for approval unaccompanied by signed fact sheets. In one of these cases, the seller declined to furnish the buyer with a fact sheet on the grounds that it was contrary to usual real estate practice for the seller to divulge to a prospective buyer the amount initially paid for the property. In the other two cases, the sellers were unacquainted with the new procedure GVHC had also received some complaints from sellers who felt that divulging original list price and initial down payment impair their chances for selling.

The board felt strongly that any attempt to conceal from new members information already available to old members was bound to hurt the reputation of the corporation and approved the applications with the stipulation that the GVHC sales office furnish the information to the purchasers and secure their signatures on the fact sheets. Such disclosure was necessary, the board argued, if the new member was to be fully aware of his fiscal and to his fellow-members. Moreover, part of his monthly charges are based on the original book basis and would be unexplainable unless related to book basis.

Fact Sheet Procedures

GVHC manager Paul Campbell asked for further clarification of the fact sheet procedures. He pointed out that the major problem is not just the furnishing of information to prospective buyers, but the timing of such information so as to be received by the purchaser before the sale is consummated. The mere furnishing of information can be done at any time by GVHC, which has all the data (except, of course, the final selling price, which is the prerogative of the seller).

In fact, Campbell continued, the GVHC sales office is furnishing just such information now to all prospective buyers of homes listed with GVHC for sale. The major problem arises in the case of homes that are not listed with GVHC, where GVHC has no knowledge of who the prospective buyer is. It was in order to protect such buyers, by requiring that pertinent financial information be furnished them before they bought, that the new procedures were adopted, stated Campbell.

Director Al Long pointed out that since the corporation has no way of knowing whether the fact sheet was signed before or after a sale was consummated, it was useless for GVHC to become embroiled in that question. It would satisfy the corporation's needs, Long stated, if at the time the purchaser applied for screening at the GVHC sales office he submitted a signed fact sheet. If said purchaser had received no fact sheet, then GVHC would have the obligation to furnish the required information to the buyer.

Director Frank Lastner, acting president in the absence of convalescing Ed Burgoon, observed that one of the aims of his committee in recommending the new procedure was to avoid just such a situation as described by Long whereby the prospective buyer would receive this financial information from GVHC instead of from the seller or outside real estate broker with whom he might be dealing directly. In the past, the disclosure of such information formed the basis for a complaint by a local realty firm that its prospective sales were being hurt.

Another board member, however, pointed out that if a seller or real estate broker failed to disclose this financial information to a prospective purchaser, as requested by GVHC, then he would have no one to blame but himself if a sale failed to go through because the prospective buyer became displeased by later-disclosed information.

The majority of the board concluded that since the new procedures have just gone into effect, it would be inadvisable to make any changes until more experience has been acquired.

Quarterly Meeting

Campbell announced that the GVHC fiscal report for the first nine months of 1956 will be presented at the quarterly membership meeting Monday, November 19, at the GVHC administration offices. This fiscal report will provide the basis for drawing up the budget and determining monthly charges for 1957.

Front Porch Lights

Director Frank Kribby announced that GVHC has made tentative arrangements with a local electrician to install front porch lights in original Greenbelt homes on a cost fee basis. The cost would vary from $5 to $35 per home, depending upon the location of the outlet, the type of fixture, etc. Members who are interested in getting cost estimates should call the GVHC maintenance office. Kribby explained that consideration had first been given to having the GVHC maintenance force install the lights, but the staff is too thinly manned to undertake any special tasks at this time.

Youth Plan Havride

The Catholic Youth Organization of St. Hugh's Church plans a hayride Saturday, November 24, 8:30-11 p.m. They will leave the church promptly at 8:30. Tickets may be gotten from Eddie King, 2-R Gardenway (phone 3561).

Letters To The Editor UNFAIR ATTACK

As far as the City Council is concerned, the continuance of the Q&S trailer in the commercial center depends on whether the Prince Georges County Building Inspector, in granting the temporary permit therefor, acted in conformity to applicable laws and regulations.

At the meeting of the City Council to which Mr. Parker referred in his letter printed in the November 8 issue of the Greenbelt News Review, the City Manager was requested to obtain from the City Attorney an opinion as to the legality of the permit and of the action of the Building Inspector in granting it. Ordinary prudence would seem to dictate that the City, before taking any action, should first ascertain its legal rights in the matter. Whether the permit is determined to be legal or illegal, Mr. Parker and others concerned may rest assured that the City Council will take appropriate action to preserve the commercial center from intrusion by trailers or by temporary structures, neither of which conform to the existing pattern of the center.

While I refuse to be drawn into Mr. Parker's long standing wrangle with Greenbelt Consumer Services, I reply merely to set the record straight, and to express my resentment of his controversy-provoking efforts and his very unfair attack on the City Council.

Thomas J. Canning,
Mayor

RIGHT TO CRITICIZE

As a member of the present City Council, I hope Mr. Parker's recent description of that body as the "most inept so far" reflects momentary anger rather than deliberate judgment.

Whatever the cause, Mr. Parker has a singular right to criticize Council action—or, as he would interpret it, inaction—on the controversial commercial trailer now located in the shopping center, because he was one of the few concerned enough about what happens to our City to attend last Monday's Council meeting.

If his letter arouses more interest in the current problems besetting the community, especially those dealing with zoning and overall planning, then let's have more such communications. Criticism, no matter how harsh, is preferable to indifference, in a democratic society.

I do think, however, the letter would have presented a more complete picture of what took place at the meeting had it reported that the Council, through the Mayor, had instructed the City Manager to obtain from the City Solicitor an opinion as to what recourse was available to the Council in the given circumstances.

This may be an indication of ineptness, but I believe the Council, on so important a matter as zoning, should not act unless there is at least a reasonable certainty that its action can withstand challenge.

DISGRACEFUL LITTER

The Maryland Department of Inland Fishing and the University of Maryland have just completed about 10 days research at our own Greenbelt Lake, and though nothing official will be made known until further information has been tabulated, a report is expected about December 25.

This is the end of a five year study of Greenbelt Lake and very fine results can be expected. This work was carried on under the direct supervision of Charles Milton, fish culturist of Maryland, and upwards of 15 men worked hard against continuous rain to complete the job. There were several other departments involved, including the University of Maryland National Wild Life League, U. S. Army Medical Corps, and others.

I talked to nearly all of those present, met them all and was very much pleased as to what they thought of our lake. They were all unanimous in saying it is indeed a beautiful place. However, they were all just as unanimous in saying it was a disgrace to see so many bottles, cans, etc. had been thrown in the water. Not only in the water, but around the parking lot. Cannot something be done to break up this practice? I drove over there Tuesday morning and there certainly must have been a terrific beer party on the parking lot. There are or were at least 100 empty cans thrown in one place. It would seem that all the residents of our community should get together and see that something is done at once.

The Department of Inland Fishing has spent a very large sum of money and many man hours in making and completing the study of Greenbelt Lake. I believe with many others that it is up to our town council to do a little something.

I have made every effort to get organizations to help clean it up, but to no avail. In the past, the local Isaac Walton League has undertaken the project. They, too, have become disgusted. Let's do something and do it now!

JCC Sunday School Plans Fund Drive

Sunday, November 18, the students of the JCC Youth School will join Hebrew and Sunday Schools, and youth organizations throughout the U.S. in the annual collection for the Jewish National Fund.

The Jewish National Fund proceeds are used to acquire and develop land in Israel. It seeks to reclaim the barren wastelands and swamps to fertility and productivity, through irrigation projects, stone clearance and swamp drainage. Afforestation, road-building and preparing land for settlement by new immigrants are among the numerous projects of the Jewish National Fund.

A special Jewish National Fund program will be broadcast on the "Eternal Light", on station WRC-NBC Radio, Sunday, November 18, at 12:30 p.m. Paul Muni will narrate.

Message to our readers

This week the Greenbelt News Review has a half page, 40 column inches of space, left over. This space could be used for advertising or for news, but we are short of both.

We will keep trying to get more advertising but you can help us with the news.

The many active organizations in town certainly want news of their activities to get in the paper. We ask your cooperation. You furnish the news, and we'll do our best to print it.

Send your stories to the News Review, P. O. Box 68, Greenbelt, or bring them down to our office in the basement of 9 Parkway on Tuesday nights.
