GHI Board Permits Dual Ownership; Rescinds 'Pet' Eviction For Three

By Al Skolnik

A lively discussion concerning corporation policy on the ownership of more than one housing unit by a member featured the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors meeting on Friday, December 20. The discussion arose when a resident of a frame home in the 10-Southway court requested board permission to sublet his unit because he couldn't get the price he wanted. The member was buying an original brick home in Greenbelt.

The board, in the past, has generally granted a member leaving Greenbelt permission to sublease his unit if he could not find a suitable purchaser. Such permission, in the current case, would result in dual ownership which has been frowned upon by the corporation.

2 Year Grace

The mutual ownership contract provides that when a member is unable to sell his unit and the corporation does not exercise its option to repurchase the unit, the member may sublet his dwelling after giving the corporation 30-day notice of his intention to sell. Such subleasing, which may be for as long as 2 years, requires the consent of the corporation. No distinction is made in the contract between a member leaving Greenbelt and a member transferring to another GHI house.

GHI secretary Bruce Bowman traced previous board thinking on this problem. In the early years of the cooperative, the board forbade dual ownership or the purchasing of homes for speculation or rental income since it wanted to avoid the dangers of absentee ownership which had plagued other mutual housing projects in this area. This is still official policy, confirmed as lately as September 28, 1956, when the board adopted the Lastner committee recommendations on sales procedures. Nevertheless, Bowman pointed out, with the overwhelming majority of homes being occupied by members, the fears of absentee ownership have receded and the board has made exceptions to the rule of one house to a member. (A News Review examination of board minutes shows that on June 24, 1955, the board approved the subleasing of a frame unit of a member moving to a brick unit under circumstances similar to the current case.)

GHI manager Walker, in presenting the circumstances surrounding the current case, stated that the member had received offers for his dwelling at a price which the corporation considered reasonable for this time of the year. The member, however, felt that he could get a much better price in late spring, and wished therefore to sublet his unit for a period of 6 or 18 months.

Pro And Con

Board member Frank Kriby objected to the member's line of reasoning. He said that the member apparently took advantage of the poor selling season to buy an original brick Greenbelt home, and now he wants the corporation to assist him in avoiding the sale of his present unit in the same unfavorable market. He believed this was a member's responsibility and not the corporation's.

Director Percy Andros, however, pointed out that when the corporation at the end of 1953 lifted its ban against the selling of units at a profit, it in effect also relinquished its right to judge the amount of profit, it in effect also relinquished the corporation, through its sales office, could if requested certainly advise a member as to whether his asking price was reasonable or not in light of the present market, it certainly should avoid, Andros said, any indication that it was dictating the price.

Treasurer Lloyd Moore, while supporting Andros's position, laid greater stress on the fact that the board should not take any action that would be considered discriminatory against a member who chooses to stay in Greenbelt. He felt that the board should treat the case of a member staying in Greenbelt no differently than that of a member leaving Greenbelt. In fact, he said, the board should lean backwards to favor a member staying in Greenbelt, in light of its long-standing policy of encouraging the transfer of members from lower-priced to higher-priced units.

Moore's position prevailed with the board which voted, with one abstention, that the same subleasing regulations which apply to departing members should also be applied to members who are transferring to another GHI unit.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Frank Lastner, acting GHI president in the absence of recuperating Ed Burgoon, appointed a committee consisting of George Eshbaugh, chairman, Kriby, and Andros to evaluate current subleasing procedures and to recommend any changes needed for their improvement.

Land Payment Due

Walker announced that GHI has agreed to a 60-day extension for the Continental Construction Company on the default period of the $26,200 payment due GHI on the sale of the undeveloped land. Joseph Kanter, president of CCC, requested the moratorium because he was initiating negotiations for the development of the land with a well-known local builder. Peoples Development Corporation (which has a much larger amount due on its land loan note) also agreed to the extension. Lastner stated that CCC has maintained its current obligations, such as taxes due on the land and interest owed PHA.

Fire Insurance

The board heard Sidney Spindel, representing Merchants Businessmen's Mutual of Harrisburg, and Anthony Madden of Nationwide Mutual present bids for GHI's fire and extended coverage insurance. Since the inception of the corporation, January, 1953, this insurance has been underwritten by Nationwide. Last July, the final six months of the 5-year policy was cancelled and a new 5-year policy purchased in order to avoid a hike in insurance rates. Because of insufficient time, no competitive bids were obtained, a situation which the corporation is now seeking to rectify. The board decided to postpone action until its next meeting on Friday, January 10, when management will present its analysis of the bids.

North End Property

Walker announced that plans to remodel the North End Store units have been delayed because estimates received from contractors have been much higher than the optimistic figure of $2,500 per unit, originally quoted by Alfred Kastner, consulting architect. Walker said efforts are continuing to get the estimates down to a reasonable level.

The Tail End

The board voted to rescind its termination of contract notices to the following three members who have disposed of their pets: Lee Barnes, 5-C Plateau; Charles Kendall, 7-U Research; and Mrs. Ruth Taylor, 25-H Ridge.

Final 1958 Budget Figure $260,802; Tax Rate $1.57, Drops Nine Cents

By Russell Greenbaum

Ending up with a figure of $260,802, the city council on Thursday, December 19, approved a 1958 city budget that reduced the city manager's proposed budget $10,500. This sets a real estate tax of $1.57 per $100 assessed evaluation for the coming year, a nine-cent drop from last year's rate.

The new budget figure includes the addition of $1600, to be divided equally between the city clerk's office and the treasurer or finance department, and also $2400 to pay the entire rent of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department for 1958. The tax on industrial property was set at 40 percent of the established rate or 63 cents.

Income, Outgo

Taxes paid by Greenbelt residents will provide a revenue for the city of $119,250 or less than half the funds needed to meet the budget. Other major sources of income are state taxes and motor vehicle licenses, which will bring in nearly $40,000, the rent of the community building (Center School) to the county board of education, which comes to $22,500 a year, and fees for trash removal, swimming pool admissions, and bus fares, all of which are estimated to bring in about $62,000.

The income from the last three items, however, is artificial since the estimates are arbitrarily set to balance the funds that are established by the council to maintain and operate these items. For example, the income from trash removal fees originally set by the manager and based on the 17 cents a month increase for three collections a week was $36,000, but this estimate was cut to $33,500 in the final budget. The income from the swimming pool, on the other hand, was originally estimated by the manager to be $14,000 but raised to $15,640 in the final budget. Since less than $14,000 was actually taken in by the pool last year, there may be a deficit of as much as $2,000 in this account at the end of 1958.

Despite the apparent "deficit financing" and unexpected additional expenses, there is generally a surplus at the end of the year, which is applied to the following year's budget to keep the tax rate down. About $14,000 was left over from the 1957 operating expenses, greater than had been anticipated.

"Watchdog"

In 1958 there may be an additional surplus of as much as $4700 as the result of a point raised and vigorously argued, by Bernard Sisco, Greenbelt's budget watchdog. In the past the city has been accustomed to levy a property tax at the same rate as the real estate tax and based on a 100 percent evaluation of inventory. However, the only city business firm from which this tax has been collected has been GCS since it is difficult to evaluate inventory of small business (some of whose stocks may be kept out of town) whereas corporations—like GCS—must provide records of their inventory. Recent court decisions have considered this practice, generally followed throughout the state, as discriminatory.

Recently the GCS comptroller wrote the city manager calling attention to this, although not actually filing a formal protest. McDonald told the council that a protest appeared likely and since it would be upheld, he decided to cut the personal property tax in half—$1.57 per two hundred dollars evaluation, which would not be considered an unfair tax.

Sisco, however, pointed out that (1) the GCS board was already aware of this discriminatory tax practice but felt that the high rate should be paid in order to help support the community, and (2) even if GCS protested, the city would certainly not be required to cut the tax rate as much as one-half. At his suggestion, the council decided to levy the original full rate. Any funds collected over one-half of the amount would be placed in a special surplus account. It was also noted that this tax is not collected until the end of the year and that the matter should be clarified and settled by that time. The difference between the full rate and half the rate would add $4700 to the city's income from GCS.

RATZKIN BAR-MITZVAH

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ratzkin, 17-K Ridge, invite all their friends and neighbors to attend the Bar-Mitzvah of their son Michael, on Saturday, Dec. 28, at 10 a.m. Rabbi Morris Gordon will conduct services at the JCC Building, Ridge and Westway. A kiddush will follow the services.

The Battle of the Budget

The long, laborious battle of the budget is over for this year, and no one could be happier than the News Review, except possibly the councilmen's wives. Again this newspaper has carried out its policy of following closely all the special budget meetings in order to provide our readers with a running account of the council's deliberations on the budget. Counting the two regular meetings and the public hearing, the council met nine times during the month or an average of twice a week. Undoubtedly the councilmen earn their year's pay for this month's work alone.

The chief feature about the 1958 budget is the drop of nine cents in the tax rate, probably the biggest ever made. Yet only one service was reduced—the midnight to eight a.m. city switchboard service. On the other hand, the manager's office and the treasurer obtained the extra clerical help they badly needed, the Fire Department received an unexpected bonus of a free year's rent, and city employees are going to get at least straight time (instead of the $2.50 maximum) for overtime work. The recreation director couldn't convince the council to spend $3500 for major repairs to the tennis courts needed to keep them from deteriorating, but he got nearly everything he wanted for his increasingly varied and imaginative recreation program. In other words, it appears that despite rising costs, the city is still providing the facilities of deluxe communities for its citizens at a steadily decreasing tax rate—from about $2.10 about four years ago to $1.57.

The credit must go to both the manager and the council. Each looks at costs from a different viewpoint, as they both should. The council has shown increasing ability and willingness to examine the individual budget items closely and to think of ways of reducing the budget (and the tax rate) without hampering the city's operation and the services in which we take such pride. At the same time, the manager has tried to lay the figures on the line honestly and with full explanations, and he has shown his willingness to make concessions on items which would lessen his administrative problems but which he can get by without if the council feels it necessary.

Finally, the community at large, which shows little interest or concern in the budget proceedings, can thank its self-appointed representative who shows up at all the budget meetings each year and is listened to with respect by the council and manager. He is Bernard Sisco, who is virtually the "sixth councilman" during this period. Although he lives in Lakeside and normally represents that area, his long experience as a government accountant and his broad knowledge of community affairs makes him a valuable asset to the budget meetings for all of us. He is the taxpayer's friend, not the manager's nemesis.

All in all, the citizens of Greenbelt may be assured that their tax money is being carefully, and for the most part, wisely spent, and that this is one place where we won't have to shake our fists at "those robbers in city hall."

'Tree Burning'

Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department with the cooperation of the Recreation Department will sponsor our annual "Burning of the Greens" on Friday, Jan. 3, at 7:30 p.m. on Braden Field.

In order to get all the trees possible each boy or girl who brings a tree to this designated area on Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m.—J.C.C., North end School and Braden Field—will be given a pass to a special matinee on Wednesday, Jan. 8, at 1 p.m. at the Greenbelt Theatre. The Community Band will be present along with five talented majorettes followed by a community sing. The Fire Department will have their new truck on display during the ceremony.

Fatality on New Road Mars Traffic Record

A 68-year-old Glenn Dale resident, Bert Shaffner, died of injuries following a collision between his car and a truck belonging to the County Board of Education. The accident occurred last Thursday morning at the intersection of Greenbelt rd. and the newly opened Kenilworth ave. extension. Shaffner's wife, Pauline is reported to be in fair condition in Prince Georges Hospital.

Driver of the truck, John Schmidt, 53, of Temple Hills, was charged with man slaughter, reckless driving and failure to stop at a stop sign. According to one source, Schmidt said he saw the warning signs but thought they meant the barricade at the end of Kenilworth ave., several hundred feet beyond Greenbelt rd.

According to city manager Charles McDonald, it is the first traffic fatality within the Greenbelt city limits in eight years and the first caused by a collision in 20 years. McDonald warned that planned communities (like Greenbelt) are always in danger when new superhighways come close, and that citizens must exercise greater caution when on or near the new roads.

The intersection was the subject of serious comment by the city council during the public hearing on the budget the evening before the accident, when it was disclosed that stop signs were placed for Kenilworth ave. traffic, making Greenbelt rd. the "through" street.

Troop 746

The first 5 boys to become charter members of Troop 746 are: Richard Wertz, Brian Hunt, Skipper Perkins, Bucky Kelso, and Michael Lammons.

Many exciting things are being planned for this coming year by the Troop Committee which now includes: Albert F. Cousin, Rodney S. Wright, Lawrence Levine, Harold King, and Nathaniel Rothstein.

The next committee meeting will be held on Thursday, Jan. 2, at 8 p.m. at the Methodist Church.

TEEN DANCE

There will be a Teen Dance at American Legion Hall on Sunday afternoon, December 29, from 2-6 p.m. Admission 25c.

Councilman urged the manager to request four-way stop signs from the State Roads Commission. McDonald replied that he had already contacted the Commission regional engineer, and was informed that the matter was being considered.

The day following the fatal accident, 4-way stop signs were erected on the Kenilworth-Greenbelt crossing and the Edmonston-Greenbelt intersection.
