City Dedicates Roads To State For New Highway System Around Greenbelt

by Russell Greenbaum

The city of Greenbelt has formally dedicated part of its road system to the state as part of the new highway system that is to be built in this area. The action was taken by the city council at its regular meeting on Monday, April 21.

Principally involved in the dedication are Greenbelt rd. between the new Kenilworth blvd. and the beginning of Southway and also Edmonston rd. from a point halfway between the junior high school and sewage plant all the way to the Beitsville Farm. The State Roads Commission expects to take over these two roads within 30 days when final papers for the purchase of part of the right-of-way from Warner-Kanter, Inc. will be signed.

Work on converting the portion of Greenbelt rd. obtained from the city into a dual lane pkwy. (already started at the junction of Kenilworth blvd. and Greenbelt rd.) is expected to get underway in the near future. The dual lane road will end at the new Greenbelt access roads to the Washington-Baltimore pkwy. The new Greenbelt entrance and exit roads for the pkwy. will be built on the Greenbelt side of the Glenn Dale rd. bridge to permit room on the other side for the huge cloverleaf connecting the pkwy and the Circumferential hwy.

The portion of Edmonston rd. that passes by the junior high which is to be retained by the city will become a dead end street blocked off by the cloverleaf for the Circumferential hwy. crossing of Kenilworth blvd. The portion of Edmonston rd. running up toward Beitsville will be rebuilt as an extension of Kenilworth. A small portion of Crescent rd. which now joins Edmonston rd. at the sewage plant also was given over to the state and will be abandoned when a new section is built to connect with the new Kenilworth.

The care and maintenance of the dead end Edmonston Road will remain the responsibility of the city. The new pattern will mean that residents driving to the junior high from the North End will have to take the new Kenilworth Boulevard to Greenbelt Road and then cut back into Edmonston.

New Municipal Center

Another decision by the city council affecting the future of Greenbelt made at this meeting was the passing of a resolution to borrow $18,500 from the federal government for the architectural planning of the proposed $375,000 three-unit municipal center. The three buildings will house the city offices, a youth center, and the volunteer fire department and rescue squad.

The architects selected for the municipal center are Satterlee and Smith, Washington prize-winning architects. A detailed contract has been worked out and will be signed shortly. When the plans for the center have been completed, they will be presented to the citizens who will then vote in a special referendum election on the question of floating a bond issue to finance the construction. If this is turned down by the voters, the money borrowed for planning does not have to be paid back to the government.

One matter has yet to be settled is the location of the site for the municipal center. A tentative site had been set on Crescent Road between Parkway and St. Hughs Church and Parochial School. In fact, City Manager Charles McDonald said he understood that this site was definite and had conducted negotiations on this basis. The council, however, did not recall it had made any definite commitment on the site and decided to explore possible sites in a tour of the city this Saturday morning.

Police News

The council also heard a letter from Harry Zubkoff, editor of the News Review requesting that the newspaper be allowed free access to the police blotter so that police news might be reported to the community. The council, divided in its mind as to whether the newspaper should have the same privilege as in other communities in being allowed to examine recorded arrests and complaints or whether the publication of such news might be damaging to the community, decided to ask Zubkoff to attend a future meeting to discuss the matter further.

Canoes on Lake

In the matter of whether to permit canoes on Greenbelt Lake, an issue raised by Bruce Bowman, the council with only Councilman Ben Goldfaden objecting strongly, appeared sympathetic to the idea. The city manager was directed to prepare an ordinance for council consideration which would allow licenses to be issued to adults (18 or over) for the use of canoes with the same restrictions that now apply to rowboats.

Complaint on Bidding

Lee Williams, local citizen and an officer in the ABC Construction Company, complained to the council his firm and another small contractor were excluded from the bidding on the construction of the new Center School play area because the bid invitation specified a ten-ton roller. Williams reported that the successful bidder actually used a three-to-five-ton roller.

McDonald explained that the bid invitation included a clause which said that bids could be submitted based on other recommended specifications. He said this was inserted to obtain a wide variety of bidding in order to get the lowest price. The ten-ton roller specification was based on the specifications of the County board of education. Williams maintained that alternate specifications usually implied a different type of construction rather than different equipment.

Garden Contest in May

The Greenbelt Garden Club is sponsoring a lawn-flower garden contest for the residents of Greenbelt. Three classes are to be judged. They are: (1) semi-formal—to include lawn, flower beds and/or trees; (2) park-lawn—to include lawn, a few flowers and/or trees; and (3) lawn—to include lawn and/or trees only. Those persons wishing to enter the contest must register with Mrs. Virginia Wilkinson (9504), Calvin Aulisio (5306), or R. S. Dyal (3032) before May 6.

It is expected that a picture will appear in the May 18 issue of at least one of the Washington papers of the entry judged to be the best over all. The names of gardeners judged to be second and third best will also appear.

Litterbugs, Note!

Under the City of Greenbelt's Ordinance No. 207, littering is a violation that can be punished by fines from Two to Ten Dollars for each separate offense. Arrests are made when deliberate littering occurs. There are, however, many violations of this ordinance that the residents apparently are not aware of and are guilty of when, for instance, they place leaves, brush, or any other materials or rubbish in the public street or public spaces such as the courts. Because of the vast accumulation of leaves and other yard debris, the city has been accustomed to set aside several days in the spring and again in the fall in which the mechanical leaf loader travels around through the community, and on those occasions residents are encouraged to put leaves and such material in a convenient space where it can be reached and loaded into the large truck through its suction equipment. The next three Saturdays are set up as leaf collection days, during which this truck will be traveling around through the community to assist the residents in disposing of the leaves and such material. The truck will begin its rounds at 9 a.m.

This does not mean that such material as discarded furniture, mattresses or the like should be placed on these piles in the streets or courts, not only because they are most unsightly, but more importantly because they cannot be handled by this suction equipment. The city provides special pick-up collections for just such material, and a telephone call to the city office will bring the collectors to your house on Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday of any week.

The office of the city manager urges that you do not put such material on the street or in the courts.

The city also has an ordinance that restricts the burning of this material except by a special permit. These permits are issued particularly in cases of construction of new homes or where clearing is being done under supervision. The burning of leaves or rubbish without permission may result in an arrest and a fine.

Clean-up Campaign Starts Saturday; Mechanical Leaf Loader Tours Town

by Virginia Beauchamp

At 9 a.m. Saturday, April 26, Greenbelt's official Clean-Up campaign will begin, as the city's mechanical leaf loader starts its continuous rounds throughout town on this and the two succeeding Saturdays of the campaign.

Formal recognition of the drive has already been taken in the resolution of the Greenbelt City Council appearing elsewhere in this issue of the News Review. A large banner announcing the campaign will also be hung in the municipal center, according to Robert Mogel, Chairman. Materials for the banner have been donated by Greenbelt Homes, Inc.; the painting of the sign is the gift of the Lions Club. A limited number of smaller banners and bumper banners are being given out.

Participation by the local elementary schools will begin today and Friday, Mogel stated, with the showing of a movie, "The House in the Middle." This film, produced by Civil Defense, demonstrates how a house with clean, uncluttered premises survives a nearby atomic blast more effectively than its cluttered neighbors. At these showings of the movie, lapel pins featuring the picture of a robin and a clean-up slogan will be distributed to the children.

Added this week to the list of businesses and organizations participating in the campaign is the Greenbelt Realty Company, Mogel stated. But the main impetus in the drive, he emphasized, must come from local neighborhood participation. Reiterating his plea that any eyesores in the community be reported to him directly, he promised to coordinate needed clean-up work with groups willing to do the jobs.

The Middleman

A common American—perhaps a universal—failing is to believe that "whoever is not for me is agin me," or, put in another way, that whoever has not an equally emotional commitment to a point of view must therefore be an enemy.

But there are times when nations, groups, and individuals choose not to interfere in a highly contested dispute between neighbors. Such was the attitude of the Greenbelt News Review in the recent referendum on the proposed changes to the city charter. We came out strongly in favor of holding the referendum, believing that so important a question should be decided by the citizenry at large. We came out equally strongly for a general review of the whole city charter, a position which we believe both sides in the controversy will agree.

But in dealing with the proposed charter amendments themselves, we did not take a stand either for or against. In a special eight-page election issue, offered as a public service and carried financially by this newspaper, we attempted to set forth as possible all of the pertinent facts concerning the election and the meaning of the amendments. We also tried, in as objective a fashion as possible, to present the arguments given by both the proponents for and the opponents to the amendments. If our Letters-to-the-Editor columns were weighed heavily to one side of the controversy, this was because its advocates simply made more effort to send us their views.

That we succeeded rather well in reaching the objectivity we aimed for seems born out clearly in this fact: that the major spokesmen for BOTH sides in the campaign have accused us of slanting our presentation to favor their opponents. Well, as we said at the beginning, it's an old American weakness . . .

Only Half The Problem Solved

During the past two years there has been a marked increase in the recovery of mental hospital patients. Most of us are so heartened by this news that we fail to note that with recovery, only half the problem is solved.

When a patient is discharged from a mental hospital, he needs a warm welcome. But too many ex-patients are met with suspicion, mistrust, and outright rejection, even by members of their own family. When a patient is discharged from a mental hospital, he needs a place to live. But in many cases, the patient's family has moved away, and when he attempts to find a rooming or boarding arrangement, he is turned away because of his past mental illness. The same thing happens in so many instances when the recovered ex-patient tries to find a job.

Faced with this kind of discrimination and rejection, many recovered patients break down again and have to return to the mental hospital.

Each of us can help by joining in the observance of Mental Health Week, April 27th to May 3rd. Get in touch with the Prince George's County Mental Health Society, 5104 42nd Avenue, Hyattsville, to find out what you can do.

TROOP 202

By F. Barry Coggins, Scoutmaster

On Thursday, April 17, we were honored to have as guests Troop 746 of the Mowatt Methodist Church here in Greenbelt. At this meeting we saw various methods for testing the butterfat content in milk. The Babcock Test was skillfully demonstrated by Mr. Norm Hooven. We compared this test with the Bureau of Daily Industry Detergent Test.

Troop 202 were the guests of Troop 746 Friday night. We saw an excellent program of camping and hiking. Thank you Troop 746.

On Saturday several boys went on a field trip to the University of Maryland with the Scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmaster. There the boys actually milked a cow, thanks to Mr. William Ensor. We saw many of the various dairy and beef breeds, plus various other farm animals. The boys especially like the Dairy Building, where they got a chance to sample some of the Maryland Dairy ice cream.

The reason that Troop 202 has put so much emphasis on Dairying and Beef Production in the past month and a half is that this will be our part in the 1958 Scouting Exposition.

Twin Pines Has Drive

The Board of Directors of Twin Pines Savings and Loan Association is planning a one month drive for new members. People will be contacted by mail and invited to start saving some of their money in the local cooperative financial institution.

To make saving at Twin Pines even easier and more profitable, the Board agreed that from now on Twin Pines will pay postage both ways.

Also at its monthly meeting on April 21, the Board learned that a line of credit had been established at the Suburban Trust Company and that the services of a Notary Public are now available during regular office hours. This service is being made available to members without charge.

A "FORGOTTEN PEOPLE"

To the Editor:

In the April 17 issue of the News Review you stated you wanted suggestions about improving our community. I have had a few in mind for some time and thought this would be a good opportunity to tell about them.

The suggestions are not only mine, as they are ideas my neighbors and I have shared and talked about for almost three years and during which time nothing has ever been done. For one thing, the playground equipment in our area is very inadequate for the number of children having to use it. In our row of six homes there are 16 children—probably a fairly average number found everywhere in Greenbelt, in the Defense Housing especially. In the playground there are two swings—but what are these among so many? There are several rows of houses having to use this playground site. Children constantly climb (and are pulling down) my fence to reach two swings I have in my yard. I believe we have great need of see-saws, monkey bars and perhaps even a sand box for the little ones so they won't be digging up the yards. Until these things are provided, we will have to put up with torn down fences and dug up yards (which we are reminded in various news items to keep in good condition).

Another condition, and a dangerous one, is the torn up sidewalk. Our walk between the houses of our court is nothing but crumbled stones now, and on many occasions I have turned an ankle or slipped on the loose stones.

So many people have commented on how lovely Greenbelt is as you enter, but when you come back in our court it looks sadly neglected as far as grass, trees and repairs are concerned. Are we a "forgotten people" up here on Plateau Place? Despite my complaints, I like Greenbelt and hope some good things come from this "Clean-Up Campaign."

JUVENILE COURT

Since 1943, the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County has been interested in and has studied the Juvenile Court situation. Since 1947, when the first legislation was passed setting up a Juvenile Court, there has been a great deal of civic interest and many organizations actively supported the passage of the present Juvenile Court legislation.

Our original premise was that preventive measures should be used in controlling delinquency and that specialized treatment by professionals has always been needed.

As is well known, the present Juvenile Court legislation passed in the 1957 Session of the General Assembly left the Juvenile Court on the Magistrates level for an 18-month period (to end December 15, 1958). The intention of this legislation was that this delay in moving the court to the Circuit Court level would actually implement the establishment of the staff by giving time for the added staff to demonstrate its effectiveness. It was hoped that the added staff would be permanently continued on the Circuit Court level.

Therefore, we felt, it was time to see the following statement in a newspaper in connection with gang violence and the delinquency of the youth who shot young Schlosser: "Juvenile Court Judge Emmett H. Nanna doesn't think the situation will improve until the County supports a detention facility for youth, a juvenile squad and specialized court workers." We have long supported these principles and felt that the needs must be met.

An investigation is being made of the needs of the County for a Juvenile Squad, and the findings will be reported to the County Commissioners. The League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County strongly recommends that this report be given to the press and made available to the public.

A Juvenile Squad can be a preventive measure in two ways: 1) by controlling gang phenomena and 2), and more importantly, by early recognition of delinquent behavior and early apprehension of delinquents. Prompt referral to the court of these cases could help to correct delinquent tendencies before the offenses become serious. Delinquents and their parents are often unable or unwilling to cope with their problems because they do not understand them. They need the services of specially trained court workers and, in more serious cases, of psychiatrists to get at the basic causes for their failures.

Since we believe that treatment facilities of other agencies are already overloaded, we urge Judge Nanna to request additional funds for specialized treatment on a case basis and/or work with the Circuit Court Judges for the establishment of a staff of specialized workers attached to the Juvenile Court. When the Juvenile Court is transferred to the Circuit Court level in Dec. 1958, an adequate staff would then already be made an integral part of the Court.

Members of the League also chose for the coming year to study the organization and functioning of the county government, including a review of past recommendation concerning home rule, county executives, and the merit system. A study item on planning and zoning problems affecting the orderly development of the county is to be continued.

The lighter side of the League was represented by a skit based on "My Fair Lady," produced by members of the Silver Hill and Forest Heights units.

Recreation Review

Summer Jobs: All persons being employed at the pool or on the playground for the summer will be notified by April 25. Due to the large number of applicants we regret not being able to inform each person individually. You will know our decision by this date. A total of 58 persons applied this spring for summer employment, we have approximately 13 positions available. Consideration is given first of all to year round employees of the recreation department, previous experience at our pool, proper certificates, residence and age.

Miss Donna Finlay, 6 Forestway, sang with the Temple University Choir at the Academy of Music last Friday afternoon, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday nights, and again on Tuesday in Carnegie Hall. The choir composed of 200 voices were accompanied by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra conducted by Eugene Ormandy. The choir and the orchestra together performed Beethoven's Ninth Choral Symphony and the psalm No. 6 by Adolph Busch. The latter work was the first performance given in the United States. Busch's widow came to Philadelphia from Switzerland for the occasion. Donna's mother, Mrs. Thelma Finlay attended on Friday afternoon, and described the performance as "thrilling." Donna is a freshman at Temple.

Monday, April 28, is the date set for the annual membership meeting of the Greenbelt Cooperative Kindergarten. This meeting will be held in the Social Room of the Center School at 8:15. Parents of both this year's and next year's classes are urged to attend. Election of next year's officers will take place, and this year's group will wind up any official business.

Our program chairman, Mrs. Jorgenson, has lined up an important program. Mrs. Marjorie Muir, Greenbelt librarian, will speak on books for the five and six year olds. There will also be a panel discussion composed of four members who have held office or a chairmanship and who have served this past year on the Board of Directors. The panel will discuss the topic, "What Is a Cooperative Kindergarten?" Their viewpoints and experiences from this year are expected to be of special interest to next year's membership. Those on the panel are Mrs. Anamae MacIntyre, Drs. Ruth Myers, Mrs. Mary Ellen Lentz, and Mrs. Helen Slepitzka. Moderator will be Mrs. Barbara Werner, president.

Refreshments will be served. A good turn-out of both the "old" and "new" parent is expected.
