Primary on Tuesday At Center School

Tuesday, May 17, is primary day in Greenbelt, with the polls at Center School open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The major contest is in the Democratic primary between incumbent House Representative Richard E. Lankford and chief challenger Walter L. Green, College Park businessman. Lankford, whose home county is Anne Arundel, has represented the Fifth Congressional District since 1954 and defeated Green in two previous primaries in 1952 and 1954. A third candidate is Ray Martin, Glen Burnie publisher who lives in Langley Park.

The Democratic primary also sees a contest between Senator Robert F. Kennedy (Mass.) and Senator Wayne Morse (Oregon) for Maryland's 24 presidential convention votes.

Among the Republicans, former Prince George's State Attorney Carlyle J. Lancaster of Bowie is considered the front runner among six candidates for Congressional representative from the 5th District.

A Greenbelt man, W. Gordon Gemeny, 6 Greentree Pl., is one of 10 candidates for the 7-man delegation from Prince George's County to the Republican State Presidential Convention, to be held June 11.

There are no senatorial or gubernatorial contests in Maryland this year.

There are about 2,600 registered voters in Greenbelt, of whom 1,763 are Democratic, 681 are Republican, and the remainder are independents.

Police News Review

A three-year-old boy, not a resident of Greenbelt, was struck by an automobile at 1 court of Laurel Hill on Saturday. The child apparently had crossed the street and suddenly decided to re-cross. The driver of the car, a Greenbelt woman, saw the child cross and had slowed down. With the obstruction of parked cars on both sides of the street, she did not notice that he was re-crossing.

Police have not yet determined whether the boy ran into the car or the car hit the boy. This, coupled with the fact that there were no reported witnesses to the accident, has led the police to the decision to place no charge against the driver of the car. The child is in critical condition in Leland Memorial Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull.

A stray dog was reported to have gotten into a garage housing a cat and her litter of kittens. The dog injured two kittens, but was gone when police arrived on the scene.

The theft of baby clothes, hanging on a line in the basement of 34 Crescent, was reported to police this week.

A set of hub caps were stolen from a car in front of 18 Court of Ridge last Saturday.

Officer Byrd caught a fifteen year old boy in the act of marking the walls of an underpass last week. The boy was made to scrub the markings off.

A number of calls, intended for Greenbelt police, have been received by Prince Georges County Police. Their number, RE 5-5555, was the number that Greenbelters were told to call when the overnight police clerk was discontinued. But the overnight clerk is again on duty and the number to call at all times is GR 4-5454. This is the number for the City Office and all calls for the City Manager, Clerk, Recreation Department, City maintenance, as well as the police department, are received at GR. 4-5454.

The Greenbelt Police Department will be sending a five-man team to the National Law Enforcement Officers Pistol Match being sponsored by the White House Police on Saturday, May 14. The Greenbelt men will be competing with teams from various East Coast state forces, as well as men from U. S. Customs, U. S. Secret Service, U. S. Coast Guard, and many others. The match will take place in the morning. The public is invited to attend and observe.

CITY BUDGET MEETINGS

Shifting into high gear on the budget, the city council has scheduled budget meetings for both Thursday and Friday, May 19 and 20 at 8:30 p.m. Items to be taken up include bus fares and charges for trash collection. The council must adopt the budget by June 10.

NORTH END PTA ELECTS

The newly elected officers of North End School's PTA are Jean Durbin, President; Harvey Geller, Vice President; Barbara Werner, Secretary; Hugh Stewart, Treasurer and Margaret Loftus, Historian.

City Council Begins Final Budget Review, Slashes Conference Funds

By Al Skolnik

Getting down to brass tacks on the budget, the city council last Monday night upheld a motion to cut expenditures for conferences and training, voted down a motion to cut recreation expenditures, and refused to consider a proposal to shift the costs of overtime in connection with festive affairs to the sponsoring organizations. All these actions were taken subject to final confirmation at a later date.

The most controversial item was the proposal by Mayor Alan Kistler to cut assistance to athletic teams for umpires, referees, scorers, and coaches, and to the community band for instruction - from a proposed $2,250 to $1,500.

The activities most affected by this proposal would have been the Little League and the Boy's Club, as well as the recreation department sponsored softball, basketball, and football leagues. The amounts allocated to the Little League would have been reduced from $375 to $250 and the Boy's Club from $250 to $167. The band's allotment of $625 would have been reduced by a third.

Kistler Defends

In defense of his proposal, Kistler explained that his object was to encourage outside activities to become self-sustaining. He stated that he was not satisfied with the fiscal accountability of these organizations and felt that the city should exercise stricter controls over their activities and finances. He was joined in these sentiments by councilman David Champion.

City manager Charles T. McDonald, who originally suggested in his budget message of March 21 a review of city policy with respect to subsidization of athletic teams and other outside activities, expressed a preference for the city making outright grants to various recreation agencies, based on demonstrated need and the relative contributions the organizations are making to the city's recreation program. In this way, the needs of all organizations would be given equal consideration. He also noted that the accounting problems for the city would be simplified by direct subsidies.

It was suggested that the newly-appointed recreation Advisory Committee might be instructed to assume a supervisory role with respect to outside organizations - requesting that proper fiscal records and activity reports be kept, reviewing their requests for city assistance, and forwarding such requests to the city council with recommendations.

Smith Opposes

Councilman Edgar Smith, while agreeing to the need for further controls over outside organizations, felt that cutting their budgeted amounts by a third was not the proper way to achieve the desired reforms. "The organizations should first be given fair warning that the council is not satisfied with the way they are running their affairs and that unless certain fiscal reforms are instituted by next budget time, the council will most likely consider reducing the allotted amounts."

The vote to defeat the Kistler motion was 3-2, with council members Bruce Bowman and Tom Canning joining Smith in opposition.

Training Funds

The amount of $1,775 proposed in the budget for conferences and training of employees was reduced to $550 by unanimous vote. Of this amount, $100 was allocated for council, $200 for manager, and $250 for department heads and other employees. The council also stipulated that expenditures for training should be limited to sessions held within a radius of 250 miles of Greenbelt. The manager was instructed to develop priorities with respect to the use of conference and training funds, subject to approval of council.

Overtime

McDonald in his budget message expressed concern over the payment of overtime to city employees for working on weekends and holidays in connection with the 4th of July and Labor Day festivities. He suggested that the tab for this should be picked up by the committee sponsoring the affair. Last Monday night the council, however, refused to take action on this proposal, although approving another proposal of the manager's - already reflected in the budget - that department heads would not be paid overtime for performing regular workloads.

Come Down And See

Now that the News Review 1960 fund-raising drive is over and has responded to so generously by you, the residents of Greenbelt, we have an invitation to extend.

Why don't you come down to our offices and see where your money is going? The newspaper office is open every Tuesday evening from 8:30 to 11 p.m. in the basement of the apartments at 15 Parkway (just follow the clatter of the typewriters).

Here is where each week's paper begins to take shape. Copy is turned in by our regular reporters and by organizations and other individuals. The copy is then reviewed and edited and headlines are written. Stories needing rewriting or follow-up are assigned to special rewrite persons. Decisions are made as to which stories to feature and the general allocation of space for the various features. At the same time, the advertising department is busy soliciting, assembling, and preparing advertising copy, and our business manager is busy posting the financial accounts and settling bills.

We, of course, have a selfish motive in asking you to pay us a visit. We hope that the smell of printer's ink and the buzz of activity will induce you to think of offering your services to the newspaper.

For example, we are desperately in need of reporters to cover special news events. Too many times in the past such events have been given inadequate coverage because we did not have a reservoir of reporters on whom we could call for special assignments.

If you are inclined more toward "inside" work, we have need for rewrite editors, copy editors, proof readers, and headline writers. If your interests lie more in the commercial aspects of the paper, we are in need of advertising solicitors. We pay 15 percent commissions on advertising secured outside of Greenbelt.

So there is something for everybody at the community newspaper. If you are tired of westerns on TV, how about trying Tuesdays at the News Review?

Cost of New Homes Rising, Says Report

Higher prices and high interest on borrowed money are the prospects facing home buyers this year, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine. Although the number of new houses built will be fewer than in 1959, the editors of the magazine foresee no shortage for 1960.

An article in the current issue of the magazine states that this year will see something like 1.2 million new houses built, as against 1.3 million in 1959. This total would make 1960 the fifth best housing year in the past 20 years — only in 1950, 1954, 1955 and 1959 did the number of new homes top 1.2 million.

The price forecast is about 3% higher than last year, with nearly every cost component on the rise. In a single day recently, the article notes, 4% price hikes were announced for asbestos-cement siding, mineral wool insulation and glass fiber insulation. In addition, there are increases in the cost of acquiring well-located land and developing it.

The editors found that many local governments have upgraded standards for streets, lot sizes and community facilities. The lofty new standards usually are desirable, but they are expensive.

There will be money to borrow, but the price will be high and the lenders will be choosy. The article points out, for instance, that savings and loan associations are empowered to make loans in excess of 80% of the appraised value of a house, but not many borrowers have talked them into doing it.

Interest rates on mortgage money are higher than they have been for 30 years. GI loans bring 5½%. FHA loans are 5¾%; with their ½ of 1% insurance they come to 6¼%. The little FHA loans of $8,000 or less carry an additional service charge that brings their effective rate to 6¾%. For conventional loans, the interest rate is anywhere from 6% to 7% — the lower rate is prevalent in the East, the higher rate common in the South and West.

The high interest rates, the editors note, mean a real pocketbook worry. The monthly payment on a $15,000, 20-year loan at 5½% interest is $103. For the same loan at 6½% the monthly payment is $112. Total interest payments over the life of the loan are $2,067 more, $11,825 as against $9,758. To beat the high cost of borrowing, buyers are advised to borrow less, borrow for a shorter term, or both.

On the while, the editors conclude, this is not a particularly auspicious time to buy a house unless the need is real. But if a change is genuinely needed, there is little point in waiting. The good 1960 house is as good or better than any ever offered the American family. No technological development is in sight that will make today's house obsolete tomorrow. More important, nothing revolutionary is on the horizon that will make houses cheaper in the years just ahead.

Johnson-Feliz

Otho Linwood Johnson, 21-C Ridge, announces the marriage on May 7 of his daughter Sara Anne Johnson to David Arnold Feliz of San Gabriel, California, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. James E. Feliz of Newport News, Virginia.

Mr. Johnson gave the bride in marriage in a double ring ceremony, performed at the Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church, by the Rev. Charles H. Gill. A reception at the church followed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a dress of white nylon lace. Her headpiece was of white net. She carried white roses and a stephanotis corsage on a white prayer book. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl on a gold chain, a gift of the groom. The matron of honor, Mrs. Chase H. Benson, aunt of the bride from Greensboro, N. C., wore aqua organza. She carried a nosegay of pale yellow chrysanthemums.

The best man was Mark F. Ferber of Kensington, Maryland.

The bride attended school in Stuttgart, Germany, and graduated from Arundel High School, Arundel County, Maryland, and Strayer Business College, Washington, D.C. She was an accountant with National Business Publishers in Washington.

The bridegroom graduated from American High School, Stuttgart, Germany, where his father was stationed. He is employed by the city of Los Angeles.

Little League Chatter

By Bud Dean

The Little League opened its season Monday night (May 2) after being rained out on Sunday.

Monday night the Athletics met the Orioles and behind the one-hit pitching of Billy Clark the Athletics took the measure of the Orioles 20 to 0. Tuesday night the Indians met up with the Cardinals, and with the superb pitching of Misell who pitched a no-hitter and struck out 17 out of 18, the Indians scalped the Cardinals 13 to 0.

Wednesday, with Paul Oppermann tossing a three-hitter and Doug Brautigan hitting a single, double and a homer, the Tigers beat the Lions 12 to 2. Thursday - with a grand slam homer by Passavani and a good pitching job by Moraz the Athletics won their second game, beating the CO-OP 10 to 4.

Friday night under the lights saw a real slugger battle with the Giants outlasting the Orioles 20 to 12. Saturday, May 7, the Official Opener was played between the Tigers and the Giants. Ray Hudson of the Giants was awarded the Most Valuable trophy for 1959. The Tigers with Bobby Nuzzo throwing a three-hitter against the Giants kept up their winning way, taking the Giants by a score of 6 to 1.

Snatches of conversation at North End School's Science Fair last week revealed a most favorable response to the school's first science exhibit. Under the moon and planets, volcanoes erupted; a chameleon kept everyone guessing; grass, plants, and flowers flourished; and an electric bell sounded while a telegraph clicked away. Almost 200 projects were on display. "Although the sequential teaching of science has been part of the curriculum for years, the public today, more than ever, is vitally concerned with the progress children are making in their scientific pursuits. For this reason, the nation's schools are having science fairs in order to initiate interest and to display the results of the student's activity," said Mrs. Maxine B. Grimm, principal.

Our Greenbelt youngsters did very well in the Washington Spelling Bee. With 97 students competing, Barbara Feller, 11-M Ridge, representing Greenbelt Junior High, placed 18th, and Brian McDonnell, 2-J Northway, representing St. Hugh's, placed 11th.

Center School and North End Kindergarteners enjoyed their morning at the Zoo! And it was loads of fun travelling together on a big bus!

Mrs. Greenbelt at Home

by Vivian Greenbaum

The other evening I heard Russ tell Rachelle that it was time to wash up for supper.

"What shall I do with my caterpillar?" she asked.

"Put it in mama's potted plant," he suggested.

At this, I came shrieking out of the kitchen and ordered Rachelle out of the house and not to return until she had disposed of her friend.

She came back into the house and joined us at the table.

"What a house," she said. "Why did I have to be born into this family, anyway? I can't have anything. Why can't I have a pet, Daddy?"

Russ had his nose in the paper and didn't hear her, so Rachelle leaned across the table and jabbed him with her fork. Rachelle has a vicious streak that comes out at times. Not that she got it from my side of the family.

"Wha-what?" asked Russ, returning to the family scene.

"Your daughter wants to know why she can't have a pet," I said, mopping up ketchup from Eric's hair.

I didn't listen to what Russ had to say on this subject. I already know it by heart. We are not going to get a dog because we already have two hyperactive children, and a dog barking and frisking after them would drive us over the border of sanity. Furthermore, Russ doesn't want a cat sitting around staring at him either.

"I didn't have a pet when I was a child," he finished. "Why do you need one?"

"You didn't want a pet," I pointed out. "Neither did you want to run away to join the circus, or to play hookey from school. What a dull child you must have been!"

"R. and D.," said Russ, pounding the table with his knife. This does not stand for research and development. It stands for respect and decorum. "I will have some respect around this house even if it's only simulated."

Rachelle turned her attention to me. "Mommy, you want a pet don't you?"

Thus put on the spot, I began to hedge. Actually, I share Russ's views. A dog nipping at the children's heels as they race around the house is not a prospect to fill me with glee. Also I wouldn't enjoy being scrutinized for hours on end by a cat either. To tell the truth, I don't have any empty feeling inside me that owning a pet would fill. I already have a son with eyes like a cocker spaniel, a daughter who hoards things like a squirrel, and a husband, who when he can't find the evening paper, roars like a bull elephant. What do I need with more animals?

When The SIREN BLOWS

By Rita Fisher

May 10

Two brush fires had the men on the run on Friday. The first call came in at 4:25 p.m., giving the location at the rear of 62 court on Ridge. Besides brush, the men found some couch padding burning. They list the possible cause of this fire as children playing with matches. The second call was at 6 p.m. This time the location was to the rear of Parkway Rd. Brush and a tree were burning, and the men took care of the situation. A fire, started at the city dump, located down the road in front of 50 Court Ridge, spread into the wooded area and the men were called into action on Saturday at 2:20 p.m.

Engine number 353 will be used at Maryland University on Sunday morning for demonstration purposes. On Saturday and Sunday some of the men will be attending the Ninth Annual Pumper School at the University.

Youth Fitness Week demonstrations had the men on the Rescue Squad on the alert all week. At the tumbling demonstration at Center School on Wednesday evening, a girl skinned her knee and need first aid in the form of a 2 by 2 compress to cover the injured area. A bicycle mishap on Thursday saw the men treating two school boys for injuries to their hands. At the fishing rodeo on Saturday, at the Lake, the treatments were for: 1 boy, fishhook in mouth; 1 girl, fishhook in finger; one two month old duck named Rodeo, fishhook in upper bill.

On May 6 the men carried a man to Mt. Alto, and on May 7 they carried a man to Prince Georges Hospital. On May 6 also, they were called to carry an employee of a construction firm to Prince Georges Hospital at a doctor's request. Oxygen was administered all the way to the hospital.

A three year old Colmar Manor child was struck by a car on Laurel Hill Rd. on Saturday afternoon. The child was carried to Leland Memorial Hospital with a possible fractured skull.

On Sunday afternoon, a sixteen month old Silver Spring girl was brought to the Police Station because she had a high fever and was in need of immediate hospitalization. The men took her to Walter Reed and applied cotton pads soaked with alcohol under her armpits and knees. They did this three times while en route in an attempt to keep the fever from going any higher. Early Sunday evening, another call came for the Rescue Squad when a little boy jumped off a bed and got his fingers caught in the night stand. The child was taken to Prince Georges Hospital and stitches were applied to save the tip of his finger. He was then brought home by the men.

The last blast of the siren on Sunday was a slight error on the part of the fire board. I was at the fire house when the ambulance was out on the previous call. The fire board called for an ambulance in another area and our signal was touched off in error. Back to the firehouse in the rain came the men who had just returned home. They were told that it was a false alarm

Woman's Club Sets Up $125 Scholarship Fund

The Fine Arts Department will meet on May 26 for a planning meeting at the home of Mrs. Frederick R. Hess. All committee members are urged to be present.

The 6th District 44th Annual Meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs was held May 5, at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Baldensburg, Maryland. The following members of the Greenbelt Club attended: Mrs. Adelbert C. Long, Pres., Mrs. Clayton S. McCarl, Mrs. James W. McCarl, Mrs. Lawrence O. Mott, Mrs. Charles M. Cormack, Sr., and Mrs. Nellie T. Daniels.

The State Convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs was held at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore on April 25 and 26. Those from Greenbelt attending were: Mrs. Adelbert C. Long, Pres., Mrs. C. Wayne Tucker, Vice Pres., and Mrs. Beverly G. Fonda, Finance Chairman.

Mrs. Fonda was 6th District winner in the Vogue Fashion Contest and one of the six contestants for the State prize.

by one of the men who used the hand mike in an attempt to keep the men from getting out of their cars.

Two additional calls came in late today after my report for the week was written. For those of you who are curious, I supplement my column. The triple siren went off this afternoon at 4:14 p.m. The call came from 14 Court of Ridge. Firemen found that the reason for the call was burning grease inside a burner on a stove. The grease was no longer burning when the men arrived. Also today, a Rescue Squad call for a five-year-old boy who was hit on the back of the head, probably with a rock, while swinging in a playground on Southway. The child was carried to Prince Georges Hospital for treatment of a cut on the head, after first-aid was administered at the firehouse where the child had been brought.

The Board of County Commissioners for Prince George's County announced today the results of their clean-up drive the last two weeks of April. The Department of Public Works, using an average of 175 men, concentrated for three days on picking up bottles, tin cans and trash from the County Roads. A total of two hundred and fifty truck loads were picked up and disposed of. In dollars, this amounts to an approximate cost of $7,000 for personnel only.

In addition to this there were twenty truck loads of trash and debris picked up as a result of county residents placing material on county roads and then calling Public Works for this service.

"Over half of my service business comes through the Yellow Pages" says Milton L. Klein, President, A.C. Electric Co., Washington.

Mr. Klein founded A.C. Electric Co. in 1945, as a one-man one-car operation. Today he has 27 employees, with 14 service trucks, 4 company cars for estimating, and one station wagon. From the start, Mr. Klein has advertised in the Yellow Pages. "As far as I am concerned, it is the only advertising there is!" he says.

Why does Mr. Klein feel the Yellow Pages are such a good investment? His reasons:

Universal local coverage—in the areas you serve, the Yellow Pages carry messages into almost every home and office!

The message is timely—always there when the people you want to reach want to reach you!

Great for new business—since newcomers to your community almost always make first contacts with local stores and services through the Yellow Pages!

Mr. Klein reports that "if it weren't for the Yellow Pages, my service business would be doing only half as well as it is today. They have proven to be the most profitable means of advertising, with the greatest results!"
