Babe Ruth League Fireworks Show Set Little League Chatter Play-off on Friday For Braden Field

Late Tuesday the Coop team defeated the Tobacco Shoppe 3-2 to finish the first half in a tie for first place with the Fire Department. The Fire Department also finished the first half with a 5 win - 1 loss record. The play-off game will be held on Friday at 6 p.m. at Braden Field. The winner will meet the league leader of the Quantico Marine Base Babe Ruth League in a game at Braden Field on Saturday, July 16, at 6 p.m.

On Monday evening the fans saw one of the finest games ever played in the Greenbelt League when the Fire Department squeezed by the Tobacco Shoppe, 2-1. The Fire Department, needing a victory to stay in first place, trailed by a 1-0 score from the 2nd to the 7th innings. Then with two outs and nobody on base, they stirred up a rally to score two runs and go home victorious.

Tom Delany, 13-year old rookie, pitched a superb game for the Tobacco Shoppe, and only because Tim Moore was equally superb was he defeated. Moore allowed only three hits and struck out 11 men in his seven innings. Brunatt's double was the only extra-base hit. Three consecutive hits by McLaughlin, Moore and captain Kirk McCauley contributed to the two-run outburst in the seventh. Robbie White doubled for the Fire Department's only extra base hit.

Beebe Emerges Second In Soapbox Derby Heat

Fourteen-year-old Bill Beebe of 47-E Ridge, was second by only .39 of a second in the first heat of last week's District Soap Box Derby. Since he was second, he was automatically eliminated from further competition, but his hopes are high for the future. Bill said, "It was a great experience and well worth the effort. The fun is in building the car. I intend to build an entirely new car and enter again next year."

The winner of the District Soap Box Derby was Tim Medlin, 15, of Arlington, Va. His time was 29.73 seconds, while Bill's was 30.12, which goes to show how close the competition is in Soap Box Derby racing.

PLAYGROUNDS GET PAINT

City recreation director Warren Ledick has announced that a program of painting the equipment at the neighborhood playgrounds will begin after July 1. Another public works program already in progress is the marking-off of parking places in the courts. Numbering of the marked-off spaces will begin in the next week or two, city manager Charles McDonald has told the News Review.

SUMMER THEATRE PLAY

Busily at work with three plays now in production, the University of Maryland Summer Theatre is preparing to offer White Sheep of the Family this Wednesday, July 6 through Friday, July 8. The play was a hit British comedy and is recommended to everyone who must laugh. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. in the University's Central Auditorium.

Climaxed by a spectacular display of fireworks on the Fourth of July at 9:30 p.m. at Braden Field, the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad will hold its annual carnival on July 1, 2, 3, and 4 at the Center behind the statue on the mall. The city is co-sponsor of the fireworks display.

The carnival will start on July 1 at 5 p.m. featuring rides for the youngsters and a variety of booths. On July 2 festivities will open at 1 p.m. On July 3 the booths will be closed with only the rides open. On July 4 the carnival will start at 11 a.m.

LIONS PICK SANDILANDS

Scott Sandilands of 11-R Ridge, was installed as the Greenbelt Lions Club's new President at the annual installation dinner - dance held last Friday evening, June 24 at the Legion Hall. Bill Smith, newly elected District Governor, conducted the installation ceremony as 13 Lions were duly initiated into office.

Eli Don Bullion, Chairman of the affair, arranged a program which included singing and dancing acts by the University of Maryland Flying Fillies, plus Marjorie Green, Glenda Haber, Imogene Haber, Olga Miranda and Judy Roth. The music was furnished by the Baltimore All-Girl orchestra.

Approximately 130 Lions, wives and guests attended this highlight program of the Lion's year.

NO PARADE THIS FOURTH

There will not be a Fourth of July Parade in Greenbelt this year. Although plans have been completed for a carnival and a gigantic fireworks display, no plans were made for marchers. Many more children's riders have been added to the list of amusements.

Louk Wins Cubs' Derby Wolf Badges Awarded

Eleven sleek racers in red, yellow, blue, green, and silver, hand-made and hand painted and decorated, sped down the pinewood track at the monthly Cub Scout meeting of Pack No. 746 at Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church, Friday evening. Winner of the derby, the first for Pack 746, was Walter Louk, jr., with a four-ounce silver and red speeder. Third was won by Robert Stapler with a sleek 2 1/2 ounce red with black trim coaster. Only about a 7-inch car length separated the winners and the "also-rans". Others in the contest were Clay Harmon, Ronald Kolbe, Emory Harmon, Calvin Stapler, Wayne Pase, Billy Smith, Kevin Perry and Wayne Keyes. Cub Master Arthur "Pat" Heizer was the official starter and recorder, and Quentin Pase was the finish line judge.

Cub Master Heizer awarded Wolf rank badges to Kevin Perry and Walter Louk, jr. Louk also received a golden arrow award for having completed ten elective achievements of Wolf rank. A colorful plaque was presented by the Cub Master to Louk, and all other contestants were given miniature racer pins. The Junior Chamber of Commerce helped in furnishing trophies.

Next month's meeting, according to Heizer, is being planned to coincide with the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Colorado Springs, and will be on Saturday, July 23. This is to be an "all day" affair at some nearby recreation area, and will include a variety of activities for the whole family, and a picnic supper. The theme will be a combination of "Show Boat" and "Olympic Games".

Advisory Planning Board Awaits Final Approval By City Council

The Advisory Committee on Planning is ready to submit its final recommendations to the city council for the establishment of an Advisory Planning Board in Greenbelt, it was revealed this week. The committee, headed by Charles F. Schwan, has prepared two documents.

Police News Review

Thieves broke into the office of Dr. William Eisner at 30 Ridge Rd. on Thursday evening. The entire office was ransacked and $32.00 stolen. The police have some leads which they are following up in order to apprehend the thieves.

Littering, ball playing in restricted areas, and barking dogs seem to be the main complaints registered with the Greenbelt police this past week.

The monthly report of activities showed an increase in parking violations. A total of 34 summonses and 22 warnings for parking in restricted areas was reported as against 7 and 12 respectively which were issued last year. The amount of money forfeited for tickets issued during the month totalled $85.00 paid to the city and $104.40 paid to the state.

Nearly one half of the juvenile complaints were for loitering in the Center and the adjoining places of business. Two juvenile complaints of breaking and entering were recorded for the month. One case, the theft of sacramental wine from St. Hugh's, reports the case against the boy still pending. The other case, involving the theft of 75 records from North End School, reports the boy being released to his parents.

National All Stars Win

By Bud Dean

Brautigam's double in the top of the sixth coupled with two errors allowed the National Leaguers the one run they needed to beat the American Leaguers, 1-0 in the ninth annual Greenbelt Little League All-Star game played Sunday at McDonald Field.

It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish. Zollner started for the American League and Figlia for the National League. Both boys had a little trouble getting the ball over but pitched scoreless ball for the two innings they worked. Clark took over for the American League and Mikesell for the National. These two came out in great form, setting the sides down in order in the third and fourth, allowing no hits or runs in their stint on the mound.

In the fifth and sixth, Hudson and R. Nuzzo assumed the pitching duty and pitched hitless ball in the fifth. In the top of the sixth Hudson threw a cripple to Brautigam who slammed it for a double with no outs. Klem, catching for the American League let a ball get by him, advancing the runner to third. Hudson had a passed ball allowing Brautigam to score. A. Nuzzo singled but died on base as Hudson tightened up the rest of the way. R. Nuzzo shut the door on the AL in the bottom of the sixth and that was the ball game.

Lonnie Palmer, manager of the National League and his assistants, along with Ray Hudson, manager of the American League and his assistants, have put together two fine teams. This was the best game yet in the series, in which the American League leads five games to four.

SUMMER FISHING CONTEST

A summer fishing contest for children 16 years and under is being offered through the Prince George's County playgrounds. A child can win in anyone of five fish categories: largest bass, cat fish, crappie, blue-gil and carp. The contest begins at the Annual Playground Fishing Rodeo to be held at the Greenbelt lake on Thursday, July 14 and continues through August 12th.

Winners will receive a fishing trophy as well as a full day's fishing trip on Chesapeake Bay.

Fish caught can be registered at anyone of the 64 playgrounds in Prince George's County. For additional rules and information contact your nearest playground or call the Rec. Dept., AP 7-8696.

The first is a report by the committee reminding the council of the valuable planning history connected with Greenbelt, and the future possibilities of growth and its impact on the community. It emphasized the "advisory" position of the board, but urged the council to select members without any "clear conflict of interest." Also, the committee urged the council to study state legislation which permits cities reaching a certain growth of population to establish its own independent planning agency. In this regard, it also suggested the possibility of hiring paid professional staff members to work on Greenbelt planning. In the interim, available sources of planning information and assistance are to be sought and utilized.

The second document submitted is an ordinance for the council's approval which establishes a planning board composed of nine members—a city councilman, the city manager, and seven citizen-members—to "engage in such planning activities as are necessary to provide the council with workable solutions to such problems as residential, commercial, and industrial land development park and recreational land development; zoning changes; building and housing codes; urban renewal; transportation and community facilities; capital budgeting; and other activities." The board will hold public hearings when necessary, and report to the city council. Any matter related to the board's activities by the city manager immediately for consideration.

Members of the board will serve for three years; but the first board will have two members appointed for one year, two members for two years, and three members for three years. They will serve without pay, and meet once a month. The city manager will act as liaison between the council and board and provide the board with services and supplies within the board's appropriated funds.

Serving on the committee were city manager Charles McDonald, city councilman Edgar Smith, Charles Schwan, Isadore Parker, Lewis Bernstein, Rex Tugwell, Sam Ashelman, Hans Jorgensen, and Paul Campbell. The latter disclosed the contents of a preliminary draft of the committee's work to the board of directors of Greenbelt Housing, Inc., at a regular meeting two weeks ago. The final formal report is expected to be made at a regular city council meeting in July.

McDonald Participates In Municipal Conference

City Manager Charles McDonald was in Ocean City, Md., last week, where he attended the spring conference of the Maryland Municipal League. The League is an organization of municipalities throughout the state, who meet semi-annually to discuss matters of general concern. Theme of this conference, held June 19-21, was urban renewal. McDonald was moderator of a panel discussion on "Codes and Code Enforcement."

The theme of urban renewal was chosen especially to acquaint the representatives of the various municipalities—mostly mayors and council members—of the subject of a referendum in the November election. One Maryland city—Baltimore—will be eligible for federal assistance for an urban renewal program, pending a favorable outcome from state voters on the referendum.

McDonald attended the conference at the request of council. He was the only representative from Greenbelt.

NO BUSES ON FOURTH

There will be no bus service in Greenbelt on Monday, July 4. A new bus schedule and a new rate schedule will go into effect on July 11.

The GHI Transfer Fee

Two main reasons have been advanced to justify the increase in the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. transfer fee from $25 to $100—a level far in excess of the actual costs of processing the paperwork.

The first is that the increased fee would provide a source of additional income which would be used along with every other possible source to hold the line as far as possible on monthly charges.

The second is that it might operate as a sort of price control measure, and help the corporation to recoup some—albeit a small part—of the excess profits made by departing members.

There is, of course, no quarrel with the thought that the transfer fee should be high enough to cover costs (including all the steps from membership to transfer of the mutual ownership contract) so that there would be no expense incurred by the existing membership.

The difference of opinion arises over whether the corporation as a matter of policy should raise the transfer fee above costs and use it as a source of income. Most other charges of the corporation to its members are set at what the service costs—which is a general reflection of cooperative housing philosophy.

We believe it is a departure from this philosophy to single out the buyers and sellers of some 250 GHI homes each year and to shoulder them with a special charge in order to produce income to the corporation. If there is a real need for such income, it would be much more equitable to raise monthly charges and spread the cost among all 1575 members.

While we therefore deem it questionable policy to use one operation of the corporation to subsidize another function, we nevertheless can see a justification for it, if some social purpose is thereby served. In this case, the argument is made that the increase in transfer fee might operate to stabilize prices and reduce the profits of departing members.

Unfortunately, it is not at all certain that increasing the transfer fee would contribute toward this desired objective. In fact, the results may produce the opposite effects. If the real estate market remains favorable, the seller in most cases will simply shift the cost of the transfer fee to the buyer by hiking the price of his unit $100 and walking out of Greenbelt with the same amount of profit.

Furthermore, if the increased transfer fee is looked upon as a means of recouping some of the excess profits, consideration should be given to the fact that not every member selling his home is making an "exorbitant" profit on it. It is a known fact that few of the brick homes are selling at huge profits, especially when improvements are considered. Yet, the flat transfer fee of $100 would apply to all transactions. It would certainly seem that that part of the transfer fee which is in excess of costs should somehow be geared to the "profits" involved in an individual transaction.

In view of the inequities involved in quadrupling the transfer fee and its uncertain effects on real estate prices and sales, we believe the corporation would be on much sounder grounds to charge just what the service costs.

Who's To Blame?

Who's to blame when a youngster gets into trouble? Is it the three-year-old who finds the door to a car unlocked, climbs inside, releases the brake, and damages another car in the area? Or is it the fault of the child's parent? Or maybe the person who failed to lock the door of the car? Who's to blame when a teenager—considered an adult in court because he's 18—is caught stealing a car? Who's to blame when a small child, finding matches and excitedly showing his friends how to light them, causes a damaging fire? Who's to blame when a dozen children together march into the drugstore for a drink of water, forgetting all manners? Can the child help it if he's thirsty? Can the store owner afford to refuse? Who's to blame when six Greenbelt youths are the victims of an auto accident that occurs almost at dawn? Who's to blame that these fellows, ages 17, 18, and 19 were not at home but out, speeding along at 75 mph when they hit a heavy concrete marker?

Are we, the parents to blame? Is the high cost of living, the desire to "keep up with the Joneses" or the club-joining urge put before the health and safety of our children? Are we too worried and too busy with adult affairs and personal desires to consider the problems of the younger generation? Is it the town itself? Does it accept the problems of youth and try to find outlets for their growing pains? Where is the outlet?

Let's recommend a new way of life for all of us. Let's have a "Children's Night" every week. We can have one night when no organizations meet. Let's turn off the television sets that night, put the tools away, forget the ironing, and take the time to talk to and, most important, listen to what our own children have to say. We may find out what our younger generation is thinking. We may understand their problems a little more clearly. We may even find out who's to blame!

Joy Through Recreation

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles on various kinds of pleasure to be derived from recreation.

The joy of creation is a major source of pleasure to human beings. All civilization affords illustrations of the potency and universality of man's urge to make and to create, and of his desire and capacity for creative craftsmanship. The child building a castle in the sand, primitive man shaping and carving his canoe, and the artist painting on his canvas are all giving expression to this desire. We must respect the remarkable variety of things that man throughout history has done with his hands.

Among adults this urge to use the hands finds expression chiefly in the arts and crafts. These take such a wide variety of forms that every person, regardless of age, sex, education, occupation, or skill, can find a suitable medium. The materials available for those activities are limitless—wood, clay, leather, metals, oils, cloth, paper, and an infinity of others. Among children, the creative urge may find expression in the making of mud pies and the construction of realistic animals for the circus parade.

Some people achieve the joy of creation through the composing of music, others through the writing of poetry or the creation of characters in a story or play. In a sense too, the dancer, the actor and the director of a dramatic production create when they bring a role or a play to life. The true gardener joins forces with the Creator in bringing into being a place of beauty.

In fact, mankind tends to measure the variety of any experience by the degree to which it calls forth the creative spirit.

How to Visit Patients

When Mrs. Brown left the hospital after visiting hours, she was pleased with herself. She felt she'd done a good job of cheering up poor Dorothy. But back in her hospital room, poor Dorothy was having hysterics.

Mrs. Brown meant well but she broke most of the rules for making a hospital visit a welcome one. Here they are:

Call the hospital to find out if the patient wants visitors that day. A hospital patient who is feeling particularly tired or ill or who has been given a sedative may not want to see anyone.

Don't say, insincerely, "How well you look". But also don't say with obvious shock, "Good heavens, you poor thing, you look awful."

Don't complain about the tough time you had getting to the hospital or how long you had to wait downstairs because you arrived too early.

Don't make the patient dissatisfied with the way the hospital is run or with the treatment given. This is especially important in long-time illness such as tuberculosis, when the patient may be anxious to leave the hospital anyway, though against medical advice.

Don't talk about your own ill health or hospital experience.

Don't press for details if the patient seems unwilling to talk about the illness.

Don't tout a pet home remedy that's "every bit as good as a hospital—such expense!"

Enter a hospital room quietly, keep your voice low, don't lean or sit on the bed, and don't stay more than fifteen minutes unless the patient insists. This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by: Your Tuberculosis Association.

When The SIREN BLOWS

By Rita Fisher

June 28

Three fire calls and one 9-I had the triple siren going off four times this past week. A small trash fire in a crawl space under the Junior High school building was reported on June 22. Fire in a pile of scrap lumber close to some electric lines at the Space agency on Glendale Road sent our equipment on its way later the same day. This fire was put out by both booster lines using approximately 500 gallons of water. A brush fire along Greenbelt Road, presumably caused by a cigarette tossed from a car, was the reason for the third triple blast which sent our men and equipment to a spot just opposite the American Legion Home. The 9-I (auto accident) occurred on June 28 at 7:15 a.m., and was on the B-W Parkway, south of Good Luck Road. One injured person was carried to Prince Georges Hospital by our ambulance and another man was transported by the Bladensburg Rescue Squad, which was also called to the scene.

The early part of the week was rather quiet for the Rescue Squad the only call for assistance coming on June 22, when they were called to transport an expectant mother to Georgetown hospital. An emergency call sent the men to Braden Field on Sunday and they carried a man, (a member of the Bladensburg Fire Department) to Prince Georges Hospital with a dislocated shoulder. Incidentally, through some movement made, the man's shoulder was reset in place while the ambulance was enroute. A routine transportation was made earlier that day when our men carried a woman from George Washington Hospital to her home in Greenbelt after undergoing back surgery.

On June 27, the Rescue Squad carried a woman with a heart condition to a doctor's office and then carried her to Prince Georges Hospital. Later the same day, a woman who was pouring bleach from a gallon bottle into a glass, had some of the bleach splash into her eye, possibly burning the cornea. She was taken to a doctor's office for treatment. (This can be a serious and painful accident, ladies. Lets all resolve to be more careful and put the bleach bottle out of small children's reach.)

I happened to be down at the firehouse when an emergency call came in for a woman who burned herself on the right forearm and hand. She had been making tea. The men applied a foille spray to the burned area and recommended that she see a doctor. When they returned from that call, they were on their way on a routine trip to Prince Georges Hospital to bring a woman home who had been confined to the hospital for about four months. Welcome home, Mrs. W.

A request from Fire Department Chief Vince Dutton to the people who have fire hydrants adjacent to their property. It would help the men do their work more efficiently if the grass was cut and the hedges trimmed back so that the way to and around these hydrants is clear. Will do?
