"Lame Duck" GDC Faction Balked In By-Law Revision Try; Two Resign

By Russ Greenbaum

At a special meeting of the GDC board last Thursday night members of the "lame duck" faction attempted to push through a revision of the GDC by-laws that would have made it difficult for the new GHI board to remove them. However, the move was defeated when GDC President Bernard Bordenet, a former campaign colleague of the group, gave precedence to a motion to adjourn over a motion on the floor calling for the by-law change.

At the conclusion of the meeting GDC Director Joe Comproni handed in his previously prepared typewritten resignation to which Allen Morrison added his signature. In the GHI meeting that immediately followed, it was voted 7-2 to petition the GDC board to call a special meeting to elect a new board of directors. With the resignation of Comproni and Morrison, Bordenet is the only present member of the GDC board not on the present GHI board.

At the start of the GDC meeting Director Bill Helm protested the action of GHI President Harry Zubkoff in calling a special meeting the previous week to elect a new GDC board. Helm said he had challenged the legality of the meeting since the proper procedure for calling such an election had not been followed. Although the GHI board members met, Zubkoff, in view of Helm's challenge, did not officially call the meeting to order and directed that no minutes be kept. Helm said that this prevented him from placing his protest on the record.

Charging that Zubkoff had seriously violated proper parliamentary procedures in attempting to remove GDC board members, Helm stated that Zubkoff should be removed instead. He then formally moved that the GDC board remove Zubkoff as a director, but this quickly died for lack of a second.

By-Law Revisions

Helm then followed this by proposing a series of revisions to the GDC by-laws, one of which would have set up an elaborate procedure for removing GDC board members, including a signed statement of charges and a hearing complete with witnesses and the use of counsel. Other proposed by-law changes would have established regular quarterly meetings of the GDC board, limit the calling of special meetings to the president, change the annual meeting from March to June and make it possible to revise the by-laws by a unanimous vote at a regular GDC meeting. Director Charles Schwan objected to the immediate consideration of these by-laws before board members had a chance to study them. His motion to delay consideration was defeated by a 4-4 vote.

Comproni agreed with the validity of Schwan's argument but said that the revision concerned with the procedure for removing directors was urgent since the agenda on the GHI meeting that followed called for a future election of a new GDC board. He moved that this revision and one other be approved and was seconded by Helm. After further debate Zubkoff, pointing out that it was already well past the scheduled starting time for the GHI meeting, moved to adjourn. Although Comproni then called for the question on his motion, Bordenet called for the vote on Zubkoff's adjournment motion and on a voice vote ruled that it passed.

Center to Have Flowers

The planting beds in the Center Mall will soon be gay with cannas, salvia, petunia, marigolds, and zinnias, replacing the spring pansy display. Recent heavy rains have helped establish the sod which was laid there not long ago.

Marcus Nusinov Wins Lion Club Scholarship

Marcus Nusinov son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Nusinov of 26-B Ridge Road, has been selected by the faculty of the High Point High School to receive the $800 Greenbelt Lions Club Scholarship.

This money is awarded to the recipient at the rate of $100 per semester over the four years of college. Scholarship funds are earned by the Lions Club through the sale of fruit cakes during the Thanksgiving-Christmas seasons.

Marcus has been an outstanding science student, particularly in the field of physics which he has chosen for his major course of study at the University of Maryland.

In high school Marcus was a member of the school and county orchestra for the past three years, the Mathematics Club, Radio Club, Biology Club, and participated in the school science fairs. He is also an active ham operator at the present time.

Marcus joins Stephen Mintz, who has concluded his second year at Johns Hopkins, and Elaine Fields now attending New York University as winners of the Lions Club scholarship.

Free Safety Car Checkup

The Greenbelt Police Department will hold a free ten-point safety car check on Sunday, June 23, 1963, at the Greenbelt American Legion parking lot from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Assisting the Police Department in this first vehicle safety check will be the local National Guard Unit Battery C, 110th, Co-op Service Station, and the Flying A Service Station.

There will be four safety lanes and the following will be checked: brakes, front lights and turn signals, rear lights and turn signals, steering, exhaust, glass, windshield wipers, tires, rear-view mirror, and horn.

After cars are checked, owners will receive a free safety-check sticker for the vehicle's windshield and a safety sticker.

Zubkoff announced that it would be discussed at greater length at future meetings before any action is taken on the recommendations.

The board also voted to petition the GDC board to convene a special meeting of the stockholders to elect a new board of directors for GDC, the wholly owned subsidiary of GHI. On hand with a legal opinion was the corporation's Maryland attorney, Al Ginzberg, who described the proper procedure by which the corporation could take such action and upheld the right of the GHI board, as the parent corporation, to elect a new GDC board at any time.

Committees Revised

The last major item of business centered on a review of the standing and ad-hoc committees. In the discussion which followed, board member Charles Schwan expressed serious reservations about the functions of both the Sales Committee and the Maintenance Committee. Helm took exception but despite his protests, the board voted to discontinue the Sales Committee and agreed to revise the functions of the Maintenance Committee. President Zubkoff submitted a lengthy list of names of members who will be contacted in the near future to accept committee assignments.

The board met in its redesigned and refurbished board room, which Zubkoff announced was now available without charge to organizations for meetings and social gatherings. Membership in GHI is not a requirement.

Police Chief Seeks Passage Of Anti-Loitering Law

By Mary Louise Williamson

Last Monday night city council began discussion of a potentially controversial anti-loitering ordinance, proposed by Police Chief O'Brien, and an anti-littering ordinance submitted by Councilman Dick Pilski. Both proposed ordinances were introduced for first reading. The meeting will be continued next Monday.

Council Gives Preliminary Okay to New Bus Service

The city council at its regular meeting Monday night gave initial approval to the proposal by WMA Transit to inaugurate bus service between Greenbelt-NASA (Goddard Space Flight Center) and the District beginning July 8. Final action will be taken at a special council meeting next Monday night. The delay is to give citizens a further opportunity to express their views since acceptance of the proposal would mean the termination of the present city bus service to Route #1 (Baltimore Blvd.).

WMA has requested final approval by the council prior to a public hearing on its proposal by the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission on July 2. WMA officials have stated that their large buses with 12-ton air conditioners would be used on the Greenbelt run. The buses will operate every day except Sunday.

The bus route will serve the North End. Proceeding from the Center to the District, it will go up Eastway, left on Ridge to Laurel Hill and then down Hillside to Crescent and out to Springhill Lake. Returning from the District, it will follow the reverse route. There was also an indication that on the non-rush hour runs the bus will also go west on Crescent as far as Westway. The city will establish the bus stops within Greenbelt.

Only on four morning and three evening rush hour runs will the bus travel all the way to and from 11th and Pennsylvania, N. W. For the other five runs the District terminal point will be Kenilworth Junction (Eastern and Kenilworth) where passengers can transfer to a D. C. Transit bus.

WMA has guaranteed that the proposed bus service will operate the proposed schedule (see page 2) for at least a year, with additional runs put on if and when needed. The fare all the way to 11th and Pennsylvania will be 60 cents or a token costing 57½ cents.

New ZIP Code 20770 For Mail to Greenbelt

The new, five-digit ZIP Codes to be used by residents of Greenbelt were announced recently by Postmaster Emory A. Harman, with instructions for proper use of the improved system to speed mail deliveries.

If you receive your mail through the Greenbelt Post Office, your ZIP Code numeral is 20770, with the exception of Goddard Space Flight Center, the number of which is 20771.

Postmaster Harman stressed that ZIP Code goes into effect nationally as of July 1, and urged that all residents of Greenbelt learn the ZIP Code that serves them now, and use it in their return address on all correspondence. In answering mail, he said, ZIP Codes taken from return addresses on incoming mail should be used.

"The ZIP Code is literally the last word in mail addressing," Mr. Harman said. "It should follow the city and state in addresses."

He cited this example of the correct use of ZIP Code:

Postmaster Emory A. Harman
U. S. Post Office
Greenbelt, Maryland 20770

"When the national ZIP Code plan is fully operational," Postmaster Harman said, "it will provide the United States with the most modern system of mail distribution and dispatch ever devised."

"The possibility of mis-sent mail will be cut to a minimum, and the time between deposit and delivery will be sliced, in many cases by as much as 24 hours" he said.

The loitering ordinance would make it illegal to "loiter, loaf, or idle" in any public place between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. After the offender has been previously warned by written notice, he may be charged with a misdemeanor.

In an attempt to place the responsibility on parents of teenagers, if the violator is a minor, the parents or guardian will be considered in violation of the ordinance for permitting the minor to be in violation. Lastly, an operator or employee of any establishment shall be considered in violation for allowing loitering by a minor on the premises.

Chief O'Brien noted that between May 10 and June 15 a total of 54 incidents occurred which might have been handled in a more satisfactory manner if an ordinance of this type had been available to the officer. Councilman Champion noted that the Civil Liberties Union has opposed this type of anti-loitering ordinance in the past. However, he felt it necessary to take this step in order to correct the current problem. Mayor White also noted the severe nature of the ordinance in restricting the rights of citizens in what he termed the time honored American custom of idling.

Councilman Pilski introduced for first reading some detailed additions to the present anti-littering ordinance involving contractors and developers in particular. This ordinance would make it unlawful to spill, drop or track any type of dirt, sand, rubbish, etc., from any sort of vehicle on any street or sidewalk. Any such accumulation of spilled dirt would have to be cleaned up at the end of each day.

Council passed a resolution establishing fees for adult swimming lessons at $4.00 for residents of Greenbelt and $7.50 for non-residents. The resolution also included a fee of $2.50 per staff member per hour for organizations using the pool after regular hours.

Two ordinances involving traffic regulation were given final passage—the temporary measure for allowing a left turn from Centerway into the east parking lot was made permanent. The second will prohibit on-street parking within 25 feet of a service court entrance if so marked.

Charles M. Cormack Dies

Charles M. Cormack, 63, long-time Greenbelt resident and prominent in civic affairs, died last Thursday at George Washington of a brain tumor. He had been in Europe on official business when he fell ill and was brought home for hospitalization. His death came a few days later. Burial took place Monday at Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Cormack, employed as Director of the Fiscal Management Branch of the Public Housing Administration, served as community manager of Greenbelt for PHA from 1946 to 1949 during the period when the town was operated by the Federal Government. He was a member of the Advisory Planning Board and had just been elected to the GHI Audit Committee. He was a past president of the Lions Club and a member of the Community Church and local American Legion post.

In addition to his 25 years as an employee of PHA, Cormack was a veteran of both world wars and held the rank of lieutenant colonel at the close of World War II. Born in Buffalo, N. Y., he was a graduate of Cornell University.

He leaves his wife Vilma of 6-D Ridge Road, and two sons, Charles M. "Bud" Cormack, formerly of Greenbelt and now residing in Seabrook, and Robert of Philadelphia. Other survivors are two brothers, James A. of Buffalo, and Bruce L. of Rowayton, Conn., and a sister, Miss Maribelle Cormack of Providence, R. I. Five grandchildren also survive.

He Served Us Nobly

If anyone has personified the spirit of Greenbelt throughout the years, that man was Charles Cormack. No other resident, past or present, has served the community for so long so effectively and in so many different capacities. Going back to the early days of government-owned Greenbelt when he served as community manager for PHA from 1946 to 1949 and bringing his record up to only last month when he received the highest number of votes in his election to the GHI Audit Committee, he was always available to serve us whenever we needed him. His sudden death last week will be sharply felt throughout the entire community, just as his passing is mourned by all those who knew and worked with him and which adds up to a substantial portion of our citizenry. The loss of Charles Cormack is especially critical, coming as it does as Greenbelt faces a tremendous transition period. There is no one person who can fill the vacancies he has left, and his guidance and advice will be sorely missed in the days ahead.

Charles Cormack was that rare paradox — a civic leader who made no enemies. Yet it was not in him to be a glad-hander or a politician. He was able to win the great respect in which he was universally held and to make many friends by following a simple, straightforward course. He never once thought of his own self-interest but only of the welfare of his community or the good of the organization he served. Whether it was the Lions Club or the Advisory Planning Board, of which he was a current member, his colleagues could rely on him to come up with thoughtful ideas and not mere empty bombast. Charlie did not always take the most popular viewpoint, but his proposal was always worth considering. A man of deep conviction, utter sincerity and high principle, he spoke up for his beliefs but never offensively or with personal invective.

Our great regret is that Charlie has left us before we could properly thank him for all he has done for us. However, if we will cherish and continue to value highly the legacy of selfless public service he has bequeathed us, perhaps we can in part make belated repayment to a man who for so many years served us well and nobly.

POETRY FESTIVAL LAUDED THANKS

To the Editor:

The Poetry Festival of the Greenbelt Poetry Club, held last Wednesday evening at the Center School, was a refreshing occasion. Greenbelters who attended the meeting, and all others familiar with the project, are aware of the spontaneous appreciation and talent brought out by the group under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Muir of the Prince Georges County Memorial Library.

Perhaps less known to Greenbelters — in person, at least — was the guest speaker at that meeting, Vincent Godfrey Burns, who is Maryland's poet laureate. His characterizations brought his poems to life with unusual vivacity. His imaginative quality is the kind that gets across to children in a big way.

As a rule, children do not go for the modern and sophisticated trends in poetry. Even some grown people do not. I, for one, can enjoy verse that is simple and clear, so long as it has rhythm, sparkle, and humor.

I thought it was a relaxing, enlivening program — an evening well spent.

City Manager James Giese reports that the construction of a peninsula in Greenbelt Lake has been completed. The project was originally undertaken to correct a swampy condition that had developed at the eastern end of the lake. The area was dredged, and the fill dirt used to construct the

by Earl Zubkoff

The last day of school was met with cries of joy and tears of sorrow at GJHS as more than 900 students left a memorable year of school for the restful summer ahead. For some 300 of these students, June 14 represented the end of junior high school and the time to start preparing for their final and perhaps most difficult stage of secondary education.

June 14 also marked the day of an annual event at GJHS - the awards assembly. All of the students and teachers gathered in the gym for their final assembly and for the honoring of Greenbelt's most outstanding students. The gym became quiet, and the most looked-forward-to program of the year was begun.

Following is a complete list of the awards presented at the assembly.

Major Honor Awards

The American Legion Awards, the highest awards that Greenbelt can bestow upon any of its students, were received by Barbara Bowman and David Jefferson. Runners-up were Barbara Skolnik and Bruce Springer. These awards were based on "the qualities of honor, courage, scholarship, leadership, and service", and winners were selected by a vote of the teachers.

The Knapp and Eshbaugh memorial awards, ranked second-highest in the school, were presented to Charles Durbin and Maureen Holmes respectively. These were selected on the same basis as the American Legion Awards.

Earlier this year, the teachers honored two outstanding students with the county's "Superintendent's Award". This award, which goes to only two students in each school, went to Barbara Bowman and Charles Durbin for all-around good citizenship and leadership.

The Student Council gives an award every year for the person who contributed most - and this year it went to President David Weiner.

Academic Achievement awards, presented to the two students who attain the highest academic average, went to Barbara Bowman and Bruce Springer.

WHEN ONE EXTENSION WILL NO LONGER DO... THE PRACTICAL THING IS TO MAKE IT TWO

A flood of talk near the main phone. Dad fixing his necktie by the bedroom extension. But Mom makes her call in peace. She has a second extension in the kitchen. Modern extensions in smart decorator colors fit anywhere. A wall phone—just right for kitchens. A Princess® phone—for charm in bedrooms. The table model—perfect for living room or den.

And for the last word in telephone service—there's Home Interphone. You can phone from room to room. Even talk to unknown callers without opening the door.

Why not see how modern telephone services can bring you new dimensions of convenience and comfort? Just call your C & P Business Office, or see your Telephone Man.

The Police Blotter

Numerous complaints are being received at the Police office regarding noisy dogs. City Ordinance #458 makes the owner of an animal responsible for the animal. Chief Robert A. O'Brien will enforce this ordinance when necessary. It reads in part, "excessive, continuous or untimely barking, howling or making of other noises, molesting passers-by, chasing vehicles, habitually chasing other domestic animals, trespassing upon school grounds or tearing up any other property in such a manner as to damage property or excreting on property other than owner's shall be deemed a nuisance."

A prowler and a Peeping Tom were reported last week. The prowler was reported on Southway last Thursday evening. The Peeping Tom was reported looking into a window of a residence of Ridge last Friday.

Three sixteen-year-old Greenbelt youths were picked up by police on charges of making noise and breaking coke bottles under the underpass near the Center. These youths were apprehended a little after midnight last Thursday night.

Some boys were reported destroying trees by breaking branches last Saturday morning but were gone when police arrived. The complainants could not furnish identification of the boys.

A series of complaints kept police on the move Saturday night. A police officer on patrol discovered a trash receptacle overturned at the rear of the Youth Center at 11:21 p.m. About sixteen minutes later a citizen reported a girl lying in a ditch on Crescent Road. The incident was the result of a teen-age argument and the girl had been beaten. She declined to make any formal complaint against her boyfriend. Shortly after that, police had to check a report of a loud party in an apartment on Crescent. A few minutes later, a 26-year-old College Park man was picked up and arrested on Northway and Hillside. He was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. There were six other passengers in the vehicle, ages ranging from 14 to 17 years. Four of these were from Greenbelt. The driver was charged and incarcerated in Hyattsville jail. Several unopened beer cans were found in the car.

On Sunday afternoon, a citizen on Plateau called police and informed them that his son had found a live hand grenade in the wooded area right behind their house. The Greenbelt Fire Department was called to help keep the area clear pending the arrival of a Fort Meade Demolition team. The grenade was removed to Fort Meade by

Elementary School Awards

The end of the school year brought awards presentations at both Greenbelt elementary schools. The American Legion Awards at North End school were presented to Connie Stratton and Michael Danahay by "Pop" Bell; runners-up were Nancy Weyel and Stephen Ford. The American Legion Awards at Center School went to Susan Gregerson and Malcolm Hartnell; Nancy Daffron and Michael Ellerlin were runners-up.

City Notes

City Manager James Giese reports that the mosquito control program began last week. The sprayer truck will make the rounds every Thursday, and housewives may wish to wait until the truck has passed before hanging out the wash.

Work is proceeding rapidly on the new municipal building. Workmen are now laying concrete block and installing the electrical conduits.

The Lakewood drainage project is nearing completion. The contractor has finished installing a concrete drainage ditch, and all that remains to be done is to finish the final grading and seed the area.

Sgt. Ramsey of the Fort Meade Demolition Team.

At 10:51 p.m. on Sunday evening, the police officer on duty dispersed about 25-30 noisy juveniles who were congregating at Braden Field and involved in horseplay.
