GHI Board of Directors Unchanged; Criteria for Townhouses Discussed

by Al Skolnik

Without dissent, the board of directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., at its May 27 meeting re-elected its present officers for another year. Charles F. Schwan, Jr. was named president; Edward Burgoon, vice-president; Nat Shinderman, secretary; and John O'Reilly, treasurer.

The main topic of discussion was the proposed GHI building program of 4 and 5-bedroom free-standing homes and townhouses. The site for the free-standing homes is 4 lots located in the Woodland Way-Northway area and for the townhouses the 3-acre plot across from the North End School.

Mrs. Catherine Foster, 36-J Ridge, told the board that she had been delegated to speak for a group of 25 or so members who are interested in purchasing large homes. She urged the board to go forward, as part of the co-op "pioneering spirit."

She said her group felt that both the free-standing and townhouse projects should be considered as a unit, since the former would obviously not meet the needs of the membership. She also felt that there might be savings in architects' fees, construction costs, etc. if both programs were undertaken together.

The board said that these questions, plus such other matters as the criteria for establishing priority lists for sales of new homes, the desire of members with respect to home features, and the price range that people can afford are being explored with the membership.

Publicity Needed

Leo Walder, 17-D Ridge, stated that the board should also make certain that all aspects of the program are publicized so as to answer any doubts and questions from members.

Dave Lange, former audit committee member, stressed the need, according to his interpretation of the by-laws (Article VII, Section 8), for the board to get approval of the members at a membership meeting before the board can advance beyond the planning stage.

At the annual membership meeting on May 19, no vote was taken on this matter because of lack of a quorum. Also, according to Lange, membership must be notified 30 days in advance of all cost implications. This was not done for the May 19 meeting. O'Reilly added that probably a mail referendum would also be advisable.

Oil Bids

Superintendent Dave Kane reported that 8 oil companies were asked to submit fuel oil bids, but only 4 replied. The board awarded No. 2 fuel oil bid to its current supplier, Sinclair Refining Company. This bid was slightly higher than the lowest bid, but the satisfactory service and reliability of Sinclair was considered to be worth the slightly extra money involved. The No. 6 oil bid was given to the low bidder, Humble Oil Company, which is now supplying the fuel.

Seymour Kaplan, newly-elected audit committee member, suggested to the board that GHI open a commercial charge account with large mail order houses so as to give members the advantage of a 10 percent discount off the catalogue prices. Kaplan also suggested a GHI-sponsored financing plan for payment of such purchases.

Starting with its next meeting on June 10, the board will go into its summer schedule. Meetings will start at 8:15 p.m. and there will be just one meeting a month in June, July, and August — the second Thursday of each month.

Youth Corpsmen Here

Three teenage boys started work in Greenbelt last Friday, May 28, under the auspices of the Neighborhood Youth Corps training program. They are the first of a total of seven who will be working in the city's parks through the end of September.

The United Planning Organization, under contract to the federal government, is administering the experimental program. Its purpose is to provide work experience for school dropouts from families with low incomes. The boys, who are working a 32-hour week, have been cleaning away debris left in the lake park after the Memorial Day weekend.

CFPG Seeks Help Of Other Groups

Citizens For a Planned Greenbelt (CFPG) will seek the cooperation of other communities in its fight against the Area 13 North master plan, it was decided Tuesday night.

Representatives of Berwyn, Berwyn Heights and College Park will be asked to meet with members of the CFPG Steering Committee to discuss mutual concerns.

Meanwhile, as the "Save Greenbelt" campaign enters the stretch, more than 1,600 residents have signed petitions in support of the Greenbelt Master Plan and many of the volunteers have yet to report. These petitions will be forwarded to the County Commissioners.

More than 350 families so far have become paid-up members of CFPG with a minimum contribution of $1. The contributions are being used to finance the battle to keep the population density of Greenbelt low, keep four-lane highways out of interior Greenbelt, and to keep Greenbelt green.

The petitions are being circulated by more than 100 volunteers.

Any resident who has not yet been contacted by a CFPG volunteer is asked to get in touch with one of the following individuals: Charles Schwan, 7-A Crescent; Elaine Skolnik, 2-E Northway; Francis White, 42 Lakeside; Allen Douglas, 8 Fayette; and Harvey Geller, 117 Northway.

Recreation Budget Studied

The question of softball field lights, new tennis courts, restoration of the lakefront, and the Youth Center skating program featured Monday night's examination of the recreation budget by the city council.

The budget calls for $5,000 to be spent in new wiring and a lighting system on existing poles at Braden Field. Council is seeking ways of getting offsetting revenue to meet these costs.

Councilman Cliff Simonson asked for a start on a construction program for new tennis courts. Starting from scratch, each new court would cost $4,000. A long-term program with a couple of new courts each few years is being visualized.

Simonson also asked for additional funds for a reforestation program at the lake, but agreed that the first problem is the demarcation of city-owned land.

The problem of keeping an adequate supply of skates on hand for the Youth Center skating program was discussed. One suggestion was a switch to shoe skates, but this would require an initial investment of several hundred dollars.

The council is tentatively setting aside Monday, June 7, to make final decisions on the 1965-66 budget. The budget must be adopted by June 10.

Square Dance

The "Springhill Stars" will continue to square dance the first and third Saturdays during the summer months. For information, call Mrs. Fominaya, 474-4405.

NEW GREENBELT PARK FACILITIES UNDER CONSTRUCTION THIS WEEK

by Virginia Beauchamp

Work is expected to start this week on the construction of three comfort stations at the proposed new campground in Greenbelt Park, according to C. W. Stark of Alexandria, Va., whose company was awarded the $85,492 contract by the National Park Service. Completion of these facilities, which is part of the Mission 66 program of the Park Service, is scheduled for late October. (Mission 66 is a long-range program for preservation of scenic, historic, and scientific resources throughout the Park Service system. It is to be completed in 1966)

The new campsite will be located at the end of the park nearest to Good Luck Road. It will be at the east side of the main roadway a few hundred feet south of a stream that intersects the road. One hundred camping spaces will be provided. Of these an as yet undetermined number will accommodate trailers. The rest will be tent sites, with no space for vehicles directly adjacent to the sites. The three 14 by 28-foot comfort stations—each with sewer lines, water, and electricity — will be located about 500 feet apart. A picnic site with parking spaces for 100 cars will also be constructed at this location.

Temporary Campground

At present the only accommodations for campers are located in a temporary campground in the large loop of the main paved roadway. Situated only a short distance south of Greenbelt Rd., this campground is accessible only from Good Luck Rd. entrance to the park. All tents and gear must be carried along the hiking trails provided from the parking area to the numbered tent sites. Each of these, cleared of undergrowth, has a picnic table and charcoal burner. Drinking water is available from occasional spigots through the area, and a comfort station is located near the paved parking lot. Eventually this area will be converted into a picnic ground exclusively. The parking lot there holds 100 cars.

Still a third picnic site is to be built near the present maintenance area just off Greenbelt Rd. A parking lot and comfort station are already available there. Construction of the site will entail little more than clean-up of trash and debris, according to a spokesman for the National Park Service.

Deep in the Forest

Although the 1100-acre park is set in an area bordered by four major highways—Kenilworth Ave., the Baltimore - Washington Parkway, the Capital Beltway, and Greenbelt Rd.—the park itself gives the illusion of being far-removed from urban encroachment. The camper must traverse a quiet, two-mile stretch of deep, unexploited forestland before he comes to the paved parking area that gives access to the present tent campground. Suddenly he bursts out onto a crest overlooking the busy Beltway. Yet the campground itself is quiet, hidden deep in the woods below the crest.

At the parking area is the main information center for the park, where campers may select their own tenting site. No reservations are required, and there are no fees, but in the busy season campers are limited to 3-day stops. Neither laundry nor shopping facilities are available. For these services campers are directed to various shopping centers within the area. A map of Greenbelt on the park's bulletin board locates available churches.

Flora and Fauna

According to the leaflet distributed by the National Park Service at the main information center, the woodland consists chiefly of pines and oaks, with examples of sweet gum, hickory, yellow poplar, sassafras, and red maple also common. Not noted by the official description but clearly visible to all visitors within the last month were many specimens of white dogwood, standing out like white lace against the darker green forest cover throughout the park. As a point of interest, campers might keep a weather eye peeled for poison ivy, which is also present in the ground cover.

The park, which is a wildlife sanctuary, attracts a surprisingly large animal and bird population. Smaller mammals, such as squirrels, foxes and opossums, are to be expected, but the Park Service claims that a number of deer also can be seen there. Both migratory and permanent species of birds are in abundance.

CHARLESTOWNE VILLAGE

Newest of Greenbelt's civic groups is the Charlestown Village Citizens Association, which held its first meeting on May 16. The following officers were elected: Clell Harral, president; Dr. Keith Burrows, vice president; and Robert Schlossberg, secretary - treasurer. Disputes over the proposed construction of a swimming pool in Charlestowne Village led to the formation of the group.

Clell Harral, president of the CVCA, spoke on behalf of the group at the City Council Meeting on Monday, May 17. Harral later indicated that residents expect to use the pool this summer, stating that developer Charles Bresler has promised them a 45-day completion date if the county commissioners grant his application on May 21 for a special exception for construction of the pool. He said that the contract has already been awarded to the Ira C. Rigger Construction Corporation.

The first meeting of the CVCA was attended by 64 residents. Approximately 100 units are now occupied at Charlestowne Village. The group has several projects in mind for the future, including the obtaining of a school bus service to the Center School (at present, Charlestowne Village children either walk, cutting through the woods, or are driven to school by their parents); playground improvement; and completion of terracing and landscaping.

Registration Set For Pre-Schoolers

Registration of pre-school age children and of children who have moved into Prince Georges County from other districts will be held by the Board of Education Friday, June 4, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at North End and Center Schools. Parents registering first grade children, who must be six years of age before Jan. 1, 1966, should bring the child's birth certificate.

Verification of the child's smallpox and diphtheria immunization must be presented to the school on or before the opening of school Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Local Democrats Hold Up Decision on Split

Greenbelt Democratic Club President Walter (Bud) Dean announced that he would not place the matter of the club's possible withdrawal from the Prince Georges County Council of Democratic Clubs for consideration as had been rumored, until further consideration of a letter recently received.

Dean, a delegate from Greenbelt to the Council, was one of those who walked out at the last Council meeting in protest after a two-hour hassle about the legality of the elections taking place at that meeting. The conflict was brought about when the number of delegates registered and the number of votes tallied did not agree.

In a letter from John B. Kinkle, President-elect of the Council, written to Dean, it was stated that the possibility of Greenbelt's withdrawal from the Council was very disturbing news. It was also stated that Greenbelt and Dean play an important role in the county.

The incident was the result of a general sense of mix-up, Kinkle wrote, and a discussion of the problem was requested. It was suggested that a calmer evaluation of the incident be made before the Greenbelt Club withdraws.

On the basis of the letter, and the fact that the incident and possible withdrawal were not mentioned in the letters to club members announcing the May meeting, Dean suggested no action until the meeting with Kinkle is held. There was no opposition to Dean's remarks from the local body.

Art Exhibit at Twin Pines

The current exhibition of the Arts and Crafts Guild at Twin Pines features studies and sketches made as a result of the last series of Wednesday night classes given by Jack Dillinger. Rather than a showing of finished paintings only, the display gives an interesting opportunity to compare the various media used and the development of subject matter from quick sketches to more complete forms.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING

There will be a special meeting of City Council Monday, June 7, 1965 at 8:00 P.M. in the City offices for consideration of the 1965/66 Budget

Hats Off!

Hats off to the 100 or so volunteers who are circulating petitions among their neighbors in support of the Greenbelt Master Plan. It is the sort of job that no one really relishes, yet it is a necessary job if Greenbelt's voice is to be heard.

And this voice sorely needs hearing. Take the latest action of the owner of the Golden Triangle, Milton E. Selig, in leveling the trees and denuding the land of all vegetation. This action was taken even before a decision as to the property's future development had been reached by the county zoning authorities. It bears witness to the disdain with which the Greenbelt concept of a planned community with ample parkland and green areas is viewed by some developers.

If anyone doubts that the community is seething at such actions, let him or her talk to those volunteers who have been knocking on doors. They have been getting almost 100 per cent response to the Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt (CFPG) drive for signatures in support of maintaining Greenbelt as a low-density residential community with spaciousness and minimum traffic congestion.

Need New Procedures

The News Review wishes to express its concern once again, as it did last year, that the budget procedures adopted by the present city council leave much to be desired. The council is observing all the proper formalities with respect to the budget — it has met department heads in meetings open to the public, and it has held an official public hearing on the entire budget.

But we do not believe that this is enough. The general public has no knowledge of how the individual councilmen stand on key issues in the budget such as the Hillside-Greenhill Rd. cut-through, parkland acquisition, increased police protection, softball field lights, additional expenditures for zoning and planning, and the payment of taxes in connection with the conversion of the tax year.

Previous councils adopted the wise procedure of taking tentative votes on each part of the budget after hearing the department heads. In this way, the public learned early in the budget process which areas were relatively noncontroversial and which areas involved differences of opinion.

By the time of the public hearing, the citizens were in a position to voice their views on what the councilmen were going to do to the budget proposed by the city manager. Moreover, the public hearing could be pinpointed to the areas involving major decisions.

Such a procedure also served to help crystalize the views of the councilmen and give them a chance to reflect on their tentative decisions.

As it stands now, all the decisions of the city council with respect to the 1965-66 budget will be concentrated within the space of a few days, as the council rushes to meet the June 10 deadline for adopting the budget.

Elderly Housing Rumors

To the Editor:
Possibly, two of the most divisive, if not generally unpopular, issues in Greenbelt over the last five years have been in the areas of apartment construction and elderly housing.

At the present time, there is a persistent story in Greenbelt to the effect that those favoring elderly housing have once again thrust their interests above those of the community and are actually dealing with Mr. Bresler, the developer, in an attempt to build an apartment house on the lake, despite the fact that this would require a zoning change that could establish a tragic building pattern in the lake area.

I believe that if these elderly housing proponents are a group of ordinary citizens who have decided to proceed with a "general-public-be-damned" attitude, it is their prerogative to do so, although the News Review has an obvious duty to keep Greenbelters advised of the group's activities as known to the News Review's staff.

If, however, any members of this group are now holding office of any sort in the City or G.H.I., they are clearly placing themselves in a compromising position, and should seriously consider:

1. relinquishing one endeavor or the other.
2. making an immediate public statement regarding their intentions, and how they propose to reconcile their activities with their official obligations (if that is possible).

Hopefully, the News Review is in a position to comment on the truth or inaccuracy of these rumors at this time, as well as reveal the individuals encompassing this group, should it exist.

Virginia Sanders

(Ed. Note: In its May 6 issue, the News Review reported that the question of an elderly housing site had been tabled by the city council. A special meeting that had been set up with the group sponsoring the elderly housing project was cancelled since with the federal extension of funds for elderly housing, there was no longer any need for urgent action.)

High Point High Points

by Rachelle Chasnoff

Junior Albert Pines has been selected to fill a tenor position on next year's Summit Singers, the extra-curricular madrigal group directed by James Porterfield.

Two Greenbelters will aid High Point in the spirit boosting area for the coming school year. Filling the bill as a pom-pom girl will be Eva Garin, a junior. Presently a ninth grader at Greenbelt Junior High, Connie DePriest looks forward to serving as a majorette during her sophomore year.

Barbara Bowman, a junior, has been elected to lead the Girls' Sports Association as president for 1965-1966.

Tomorrow, June 4, an informal Stepping-Up Dance will be held for High Pointers at 8 p.m.

High Point's Annual Spring Concert will be presented on Saturday, June 5, at 8 p.m. in Northwestern's new theatre. Tickets may be purchased at the school.

For the purpose of presenting scholarships, awards, and honors, Senior Night will take place on Saturday, June 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the boys' gymnasium. All seniors and their families are invited to attend.

The Class of 1965 will hold commencement exercises in the Cole Activities Building of the University of Maryland on Tuesday, June 15 at 8 p.m. Barbara Hoff, a senior from Greenbelt, has been honored as one of the four student speakers for the graduation.

to proceed with the proposed free standing homes. I can even understand his impatience in inquiring "once and for all, are we going ahead with these homes?" However, I can not understand how, as reported by the News Review, Mr. O'Reilly's motion was adopted by the Board of Directors. Without a "by your leave" from the membership, the board decided that "once and for all" GHI would proceed with the project.

This project will further dwindle the limited amount of land suitable for homesites that GHI owns. Before the land is committed to development, a few questions should be resolved in a manner that meets membership approval. For example:

1. Will all GHI members have an opportunity to get one of the sites and have some say in the type of house that will be built?
2. Will the method of selection be equitable to all members of GHI?
3. Will any GHI funds be expended without first securing general membership approval?

Speaking Sternly . . . by David Stern

by David Stern

Ah, the annual car show . . . if it doesn't rain the sun is beating down, kids yell, dogs bark and so do loudspeakers, ancient motors cough and sputter while fanatic owners wipe fingerprints off gleaming 1910 fenders. And there they stand all lined up, the grand old names of motoring—Stutz, Hupp-mobile, Edsel, Studebaker . . . What a perfect day, what a great and memorable time for Greenbelt!

By the time we arrived the show was well under way. The curbside was lined with antique cars—a few even had to park on the grass across the way. Some had their hoods open, allowing the layman to gaze upon the mysteries of, say, a 1922 Franklin air-cooled engine, while others had their windows rolled up, their doors locked and a neat card on the windshield: "Look, admire, reminisce — but please don't touch." Miss Greenbelt was busily inspecting one car after another, nodding approvingly as the mechanical niceties were explained to her. Bob and Fran's was doing land-office business

So many of the antique cars were shiny bright that we felt ashamed of our '62 Rambler—and how could it match that wonderful "oo-gah" horn? At closer range, though, we soon discovered how far carmaking has come since the good old days. Many old-time cars had no provision at all for carrying luggage and on others the "trunk" was just that—a baggage trunk tied by rope to a rack at the rear of the car. The twin tires tied just above it (with neither rims nor tubes) inspired little enthusiasm and neither did the acetylene generator for the headlights and the manually operated windshield wiper. Oh yes, the glass pane separating the driver from the rear seemed a pretty good idea to us—we have one very agile child—but why then put a roof only over the rear of the car and leave the poor driver exposed to the weather?

Maintaining the antique car is a full time occupation, as we learned from the lady copilot of a 1931 Chrysler luxury limousine, which we stopped to admire. "Naturally," she said "my husband did a complete reupholstery job and put a new top on and overhauled the engine. And replated all the chrome. But we love it." So did we, we said. Does she let her children drive it? Of course not, don't be ridiculous. But they do exhibit it practically every week throughout the summer. And that powerhouse beneath the long hood is still in fine shape. No, they still haven't found out how fast she'll go.

A few conversations like this convinced us that many of these immaculate cars were not just "as good as new." They were better. Yes, our good ol' Rambler could never win a trophy if we left it the way George Romney delivered it to us - not if we didn't repaint, rechrome, simonize, hone, and tune it until we had something resembling perfection. How lucky we were, we mused, to get away with an oil change once a month. Before leaving we walked up to Rita Fisher who was masterminding the loudspeakers from behind a table near Ben Franklin's five and dime. The tabletop was crowded with trophies, each carrying a statue of a sportsman triumphantly raising a torch. "How's business?" we asked.

"Not bad" she replied "although there has been a last minute mix-up regarding the trophies. There was supposed to be a replica of an antique car on them. Fortunately you can unscrew the statue from the top, so we are asking all winners to take their trophies down to the trophy shop and have the statues replaced by cars".

Labor Day Festival Plans

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee met at the Youth Center on May 12 and commenced making arrangements for the gala three-day affair which has become an exciting yearly event, climaxing the summer season.

A pancake breakfast is again being planned by the Lions Club. The possibility of an amateur contest was also discussed. The NSA Chorus, under the direction of Greenbelter Frank Lewis, will present a musical program. Also scheduled is a public dance, an art show, the popular Miss Greenbelt contest, an AAU swim meet and a variety of amusements.

A gigantic parade is already being organized by Sgt. Austin Green of the Greenbelt police force. Bands and marching units are being contacted.

Mrs. Rita Fisher has taken over the arrangements for providing booths for all those interested in participating in the outdoor area. A letter or post card must be sent to Mrs. Fisher at 2H Gardenway by all groups who wish to reserve a booth or who seek information. Mrs. Fisher would like to present an estimate of requirements at the next committee meeting which is scheduled for Wednesday, June 9 at the Youth Center at 8 p.m.

Victor M. Fisher, 2-H Gardenway, was selected by the Steering Committee of the Greenbelt Festival Committee to succeed David Lange, 6-X Plateau, as Treasurer for the Committee. Lange and his family will be moving to Princeton, New Jersey in the near future.

4-H CLUB NEWS

by Linda Simonson

A dozen Greenbelt 4-H'ers participated in the Prince Georges County 4-H Junior and Senior Style Revue.

The three seniors who modeled in the senior show held May 15 in Forestville were Elise Geller, Laura Simonson, and Linda Simonson. Elise who modeled a copy of a French creation was chosen one of the top five seamstresses of the show, winning blue ribbons for construction and modeling. Laura and Linda, modeling their separates, received red ribbons for their efforts in construction and modeling.

Nine Juniors participated in the Junior 4-H style show held May 22. Many of the girls are working on their first sewing unit—the ABC's of hand-stitching.

For her print scarf and hand towel, Patty Zanin returned victoriously with a blue ribbon—"excellent" work. Towels won blue ribbons for Holly Geller and Cynthia Whittaker. Gail Neumann won a blue ribbon for her sewing box, as did Maureen Geiger for her pink gingham scarf. Patty Geiger received a red ribbon—"very good"—for an official 4-H print scarf.

Diane Prager also received a red ribbon for her pink embroidered band.

From the third sewing unit—"sew a simple blouse and skirt"—Jenny Simonson earned a blue ribbon for modeling and construction, and was chosen one of the four best seamstresses in the 9 to 11 year old age group.

Ellen Hanyok, working in the fourth unit—dresses—modeled an attractive green dress and won a blue ribbon.

These garments and others can be viewed at the exhibit tables and in the style show at Greenbelt's 4-H night, to be held June 11 at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Greenbelt Center School. The public is invited.

Travel Club Special Rates

Peter Whittaker, tour leader for the Greenbelt Travel Club, has announced special rates for children on the June 26 trip to the New York World's Fair. Children must be accompanied by one or both parents, and sit in the back seat of the bus.

For further details, call the Twin Pines Savings & Loan office, 474-6900.

Little League Schedule

The following is the up-coming schedule for Greenbelt Little League: June 4, Friday, Athletics vs. Giants; June 7, Monday, Indians vs. Tigers; June 8, Tuesday, Giants vs. Orioles; June 9, Wednesday, Cubs vs. Athletics; June 10, Thursday, Lions vs. Cardinals; June 11, Friday, Orioles vs. Cubs.

Pet Dog Show June 5

The third annual Pet Dog Show will be held at the Columbia Kennels and Pet Center, 9455 Lanham Severn Rd., Seabrook, on Saturday, June 5, at 1 p.m. Any child may show a dog in any category, such as Largest, Smallest, Trick, Costumed, and Best Cared For.

The show is sponsored jointly by the Columbia Kennels, the Quaker Oats company, and the Seabrook Civic Association. All gifts and prizes have been donated by the sponsors and local merchants. There are no fees.
