APPEALS COURT EXTENDS FILING DATE ON GOLDEN TRIANGLE CASE

by Elaine Skolnik

In a race with the clock, Joseph De Paul, the city's zoning attorney, together with Albert Ginsberg, Greenbelt Homes, Inc. attorney, and William Avrutis and Joseph Vance, First National Realty attorneys, spent last week in a tremendous rush job to prepare the necessary briefs and printed transcripts for filing the city's appeal of the Golden Triangle zoning case. Over 200 manhours were spent in preparing the briefs, doing the necessary research, and proofreading the transcripts which were needed for meeting the Court of Appeals deadline of Monday, December 19.

The News Review learned that this was done under great pressure, since the attorneys involved had other normal professional duties. Two attorneys were tied up in court cases for a period of 3 days and another had been called out of the State.

This rush job was necessary, since the city could not take a chance that its request for an extension of the December 19 deadline would be denied and the case lost on a forced dismissal.

As it turned out, the Court of Appeals on December 19 did grant a 30-day extension. The appellants had originally hoped that their request for an extension would have been ruled on at an earlier date thus avoiding the last minute rush.

However, the owner of the Golden Triangle, Milton E. Selig, through his attorneys. Welsh and Lancaster, objected to the extension and the court did not rule on the city's motion prior to the December 19 deadline.

The city's request for a delay was based on the following considerations: (1) the final decision of the city council to appeal was not taken until December 3; and (2) a voluminous amount of material needed to be included in the transcript. Welsh and Lancaster requested that everything in the record be included without omissions.

In their communication opposing the extension, Welsh and Lancaster stated that the reasons cited by the city for a delay were not valid in that there was no showing of any undue hardship and personal inconvenience to the appellants or their counsel. It was also noted that there were substantial amounts of money involved and that delay could cause serious financial loss to Selig.

The Golden Triangle, which is located on the north side of Greenbelt Rd. between the Capital Beltway and Kenilworth Ave., is slated for a regional shopping center under the C-2 zoning granted by the county commissioners and upheld by the ruling of the Circuit Court. Possible loss of financing for this regional shopping center was indicated by Selig.

Two briefs will be submitted in opposition to the C-2 zoning—one by the city and GHI and the other by First National Realty, developers of the Beltway Plaza. A separate brief is necessary since the lower court had ruled that First National Realty was not an aggrieved party.

SANTA CLAUS VISIT

Santa will be in the Greenbelt Youth Center on Friday, Dec. 23, from 10 to 12 noon, to take Christmas gift suggestions from all good boys and girls, preschool and elementary ages only.

There will be a continuous showing of Christmas cartoons for those waiting to see Santa. Children will all receive Santa cookies and there will be hot coffee for patient parents.

City Notes

Monday, Dec. 26, will be an official holiday for municipal employees—trash men included. The Tuesday trash crew will try to make as many of the regular Monday pickups as possible, though some homes may have to wait till Wednesday.

Among other holiday news are these items: the city lent its ladder truck to the city of Bowie for use in putting up their Christmas decorations. It had already been used for that purpose by both the city and GHI in decorating their respective Christmas trees. A third large decorated tree turned up in Greenbelt last week—atop the roof of the highrise apartment at the south end of the lake. At night it seems to glow from a spot in outer space.

The Public Works Dept. has been planting trees along the streets in Springhill Lake. These are the major share of a group of 226 Norway maples and pin oaks, ordered from the state nursery. The property owner will pay for the trees. Thirty trees, however, are being reserved by the city to be planted in old Greenbelt. Exact locations have not yet been decided upon.

Seasonal weather also has been occupying the city crew. A big truck, two small trucks, and a jeep were put into action on Tuesday, Dec. 13, to clear away snow. They finished the job about 10:30 at night. In the morning hours, they had spread salt on the streets as the snow was falling. The available group of snow removal vehicles was expected to be augmented this week, with delivery of a new International Harvester Scout. equipped with a snowplow attachment and electrically operated windshield wipers.

Another seasonal note: steam pipes from the heating plant for the commercial buildings in the Center have broken again—evidently an annual affair. As usual, there have been extensive excavations among the flower beds, where tulip bulbs and winter pansies were recently planted.

During the last four years, City Manager James K. Giese reports only three blocks of new streets for which permits had been taken out with the city, have been formally accepted. Streets in the Lakecrest subdivision and Boxwood Village, though primarily complete, have yet to be approved because of various minor defects. At the present time the city is pursuing with both the developer, Charles Bresler, and the bonding company efforts to have this final work completed. The bonding company has already approved the finishing of those streets in Boxwood for which another builder, Schultz, was responsible. The construction company headed by Schultz filed bankruptcy proceedings some months ago. Most streets in Springhill Lake also have not yet been accepted-primarily at the instance of city officials who prefer that streets not be fully completed until they are no longer being used by heavy construction equipment.

GHI Townhouse Zoning Approved by MNCPPC

The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission approved last week the request by Greenbelt Homes, Inc. for a R-T (townhouse) zoning which will permit the corporation to construct 25 townhouses on the tract opposite the North End School. The request now goes to the County Commissioners for final approval.

GHI is planning 25 homes on 5.1 acres for an average density of 5 units per acre, which is below the present GHI density of 7 units per acre. R-T zoning permits up to 10 units per acre. A unique feature of the new R-T zoning is that site plan approval is required.

PARK SUIT DATES MARCH 7 AND 14

Jury trial dates in connection with the city's condemnation suit against 4 parcels of land around Greenbelt Lake sought for parkland have been set. For parcels 9 and 10, owned by Crescent Leasing Corporation, the date set is March 7. For parcels 11 and 12, owned by Charles Bresler and associates, the date set is March 14.

The owners have challenged the city's need for additional parkland. The city solicitor, Thomas Brooks, has filed a motion for summary judgement, requesting dismissal of the complaint.

The city has received an open space grant of $167,575 from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to assist in the purchase of the land.

GHI Accepts Bids

The Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors on December 15 accepted the low bids submitted by Nationwide Insurance for the corporation's automotive and D.D.D. policies. For its workmen's compensation coverage it chose Employer's Assurance after taking into consideration the sliding scale of dividends offered by the company.

The board received a report of the maintenance standards, and improvements committee containing 3 recommendations. Two dealt with the garbage can enclosures problem. Members not using the garbage closet would be required to use a garbage can enclosure adjacent to the house and this would be of approved construction and painted the same color as the house. Metal garbage can storage sheds would also be suitable and the committee suggested that they be made available at cost to the members.

The final recommendation dealt with a suggestion that at time of resale, management withhold monies from sale proceeds in order to assure cleanliness of houses.

The board put these items on the agenda of the next meeting which is scheduled for Thursday, January 12, 1967

GHI BOARD APPROVES RAISE IN 1967 MONTHLY CHARGES

by Al Skolni

Making just two changes in the proposals submitted by general manager Roy Breashears, the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors approved on Thursday, December 15, a $1,629,700 budget for 1967. To balance the budget, monthly charges will be raised effective January 1, 1967.

The increase will range from $1.25 to $2.50 for brick homes and from $1.75 to $2.50 for frame homes.

The board however, alerted the membership that a supplemental plan may have to be adopted in the coming year to take care of growing maintenance and replacement needs. Concern was expressed over the "slippage" that has occured in keeping roofs, gutters, downspouts, and other items up to standard. A major question involved is the extent to which such work should be financed through use of reserves, current monthly charges, or borrowings.

Changes in Budget

The two changes made in management's budget consisted of (1) an increase by $2,000 to cover GHI's cost of appealing the Golden Triangle commercial zoning case; and (2) an increase in sales office fees to cover the cost of services rendered, which is expected to increase income by $5,000. The net effect of these two actions was to relieve monthly charges by $3,000, leaving a total of $37,600 that the corporation had to raise through increased monthly charges in 1967.

A motion by GHI treasurer John O'Reilly that would have reduced monthly charges by another $11,-100 by charging the extra ½ year's city tax levy to contingency reserves was defeated 4 to 3. Acting president Nat Shinderman broke a tie which had developed after directors Gerald Gough and Steve Polaschik supported the O'Reilly motion, while directors Cliff Simonson, Jim Smith, and Norman Weyel opposed.

Last year, the GHI budget had estimated that the extra ½ year's tax would amount to $33,742, of which the board decided half ($16,871) would be charged against 1967 monthly charges. The extra levy, which GHI has already paid, actually turned out to be only $27,936, so that the amount remaining to be charged against 1967 monthly charges came to $11,065.

O'Reilly felt that this amount, since it involves a special, one-time levy could well be covered by contingency reserves which are set up to meet unexpected expenses. Simonson, in opposition, felt that the board had set down a reasonable policy last year of spreading the costs over two-year's monthly charges and saw no need for deviating from the board de-

Lions Sponsor Dance On New Year's Eve

Once again the Lions Club of Greenbelt is sponsoring a community benefit, the twelfth annual New Years Eve Dance held at the Greenbelt Armory. The dance begins at 9:30 p.m. with Lee Maxfield's orchestra providing the music.

For those people who are new to the area, these dances were begun twelve years ago and sponsored by the Greenbelt Lion's club in order to allow the people of Greenbelt to enjoy New Years festivities without having to leave Greenbelt. As in all Lion's Club sponsored projects, this is a nonprofit affair. All money coming from the community is returned to the community.

The dance this year is under the over-all chairmanship of Donald McCaughey. Other chairmanships are held by the following business and civic leaders. Decorations: Francis W. White assisted by David Champion and Edward Wuermser. Max Zobin, Refreshments; Elizabeth Ann and Edward Wuermser, reservations; Roy Robertson, ticket distribution; Edward McLarney, custodial renovations and Howard Chasanow, table setup with Gordon Gemeny serving as an able assistant.

For reservations call 474-6012.

Shinderman, who broke the tie by voting against the O'Reilly motion, expressed concern about the other drains on the reserves which the corporation is expected to face through an accelerated maintenance and replacement program. He felt that any relief granted to monthly charges at this time will only mean greater increase in monthly charges later. Breashears noted that the tax reserves had been exhausted by the extra backyear taxes paid in 1965 as the result of the county increase in the assessed valuation of GHI property.

Factors in Increase

The major factors accounting for the extra $37,600 needed from monthly charges are (1) a new category of expenses, namely, maintenance of court parking lots ($9,000); (2) additional maintenance costs of $18,100; and (3) a rise in heating costs, due mainly to fuel oil prices ($12,900).

Prior to this year, the city maintained the court parking lots but, due to legal rulings by the city's solicitor, has turned them back to GHI for maintenance and controlling. There are approximately 58,000 square yards of area in GHI courts, with about one-third of the area serving brick homes and two-thirds serving frame homes.

Total Budget

Of the total budget of $1,629,700, $1,452,900 would come from monthly charges. The balance would come from sources other than monthly charges ($151,900) and from established contingency reserves ($25,000).

The $25,000 from contingency reserves is to help finance the water line replacement program for frame houses ($20,000) and the reroofing program for flat-top masonry homes ($5,000). Another $10,000 for the water line program and $5,000 for the re-roofing program will be charged currently against members.

Beard Discussion

Prior to adoption of the budget, the board engaged in a philosophical discussion on the purpose of reserves and how they could be used most effectively. There was general agreement that current maintenance costs should be included in current charges to members and that long-term replacement items need not be charged currently to members but can be charged over a period of years.

The general difficulty arose over the financing of the long-term replacement items. From the start the corporation followed a policy of building up reserves in anticipation of these replacement items. In more recent years, the corporation has stopped building up reserves, but has followed a conservative course of charging part of the cost of replacement items to current monthly charges rather than to reserves. The effect of this policy has been to maintain reserves at a fairly stable level.

O'Reilly expressed concern that the reserves are not being used most effectively. He suggested that study should be given to the question of whether these reserves should be utilized to a greater extent to finance more of the current budget. It might, he suggested, even be appropriate to borrow money for major replacement items which, in effect, cover the lifetime of a structure.

Opponents expressed the view that any substantial use of reserves at this time will find the corporation in a greatly weakened position to meet the huge backlog of maintenance and replacement items that will be coming due in the next few rars. Breashears expressed the hope that the corporation would never get into the position of having to borrow money to meet current operating expenditures.
