Council Votes for Voluntary Adoption of Open Housing

Reacting to a fervent appeal by Mrs. Rose Amberg for positive action in promoting fair housing, the city council, at its last pre-election meeting on September 11, voted unanimously to ask owners and managers of Greenbelt apartments to consider voluntary adoption of non-segregated rental practices and policies.

Mrs. Amberg presented a minority report of the Greenbelt Community Relations Advisory Board (CRAB) which pointed out that voluntary compliance with non-discriminatory rental practices could obviate the need for a compulsory ordinance. Such an ordinance, proposed by a group of citizens at the August 14 council meeting, had been referred by council to CRAB with instructions to report back at the September 11 meeting.

The city manager, in referring the matter to CRAB, omitted to mention a deadline for reply. The majority of the board therefore had no prepared report for the Monday meeting. Mrs. Amberg said that she and the Rev. Edward H. Birner, however, felt that comment on the matter was needed for the meeting.

Several members from the audience urged that council introduce for first reading the proposed fair housing ordinance covering apartments so as to demonstrate Greenbelt's seriousness about ending segregation. A petition signed by 13 Greenbelters to that effect was presented to council by Leo Walder, who termed the council's voluntary approach "a substitute for action."

To Wait for County
Mayor Edgar Smith and councilman Gerald Gough said that consideration of a fair housing ordinance at this time would be premature in view of the imminence of a county-wide ordinance being adopted by the county commissioners. Both observed that for cities to pass individual laws in light of the county's preempting the field would create chaos in administration and enforcement.

Walder argued that effective county action was more than a year away because of the need for State legislative action and the possibility of court challenges. Gough questioned this assumption quoting from a Sunday Star article of September 10 which gave a timetable of the county's intentions. Smith questioned whether this council should bind the next council on the issue. He said that public hearings and further legal review would be necessary. Mrs. Peg Baldwin, speaking for the majority of CRAB, also expressed the view that further time was needed to study ordinances in the field and to get legal advice.

Powell Resigns

The ordinance had been sent to acting city solicitor Mel Powell for review, but no recommendations were received because of his recent resignation. Powell has obtained full-time employment with the National Association of Counties and informed the city he would be available only for emergency legal advice. City Manager James Giese expects to make recommendations for his replacement to the new city council.

Perimeter Road

A request by the Springhill Lake apartment developers to relocate the perimeter road further west through an area now being utilized by a golf course got a cool reception by council. According to Giese, the developers are asking for the shift because the present route would lessen the number of apartment units that could be built.

Giese said that the relocated route would require more fill to bring the road up to the level of a bridge over the Beltway. To compensate for this extra cost, estimated at $90,000, the developers have proposed to dedicate the entire perimeter right-of-way needed between Springhill Drive and the Beltway for a set period of time (ten years). The council instructed Giese to inform the Park and Planning Commission that the original site was preferred.

Dismissal Plea Scheduled In News Review Lawsuit

Attorneys for the Greenbelt News Review have moved to dismiss the $2,000,000 libel suit filed by Charles S. Bresler, local developer, against the weekly newspaper. The motion will be heard on Monday, September 18, at 10 a.m. in the Prince Georges Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro.

The basis for the motion is the paper's allegation that Bresler has refused to produce certain documents regarding his land transactions in connection with the Charlestowne Village tract. Circuit Court Judge Roscoe H. Parker had ruled at a hearing on February 23 and also subsequently that the newspaper was entitled to examine records and documents which would show the profitability of his dealings with the land in question.

Bresler has responded that the documents requested are either not in existence or not under his control.

This action is the latest in a series of legal steps, starting with a suit filed by Bresler in July 1966, which charged that material published in the newspaper was made "without reasonable justification or excuse" and injured him "in his business and occupation and in his financial credit and transactions."

The News Review denied the allegation, declaring that the articles in question were constitutionally protected and privileged, since they were fair reports of "official public and judicial proceedings" and they constituted fair comment upon matters of public interest.

Representing the News Review are the firm of Royall, Koegel, Rogers, and Wells of New York and Washington, D.C., and David Reich of the District and Maryland bar.

8 Candidates Vie for 5 Vacancies In Next Tuesday's City Election

About 1,300 Greenbelters are expected to trek to the polls next Tuesday, Sept. 19, to cast their votes for the five city councilmen who will head the city's government for the next two years. The balloting will be at the council chambers in the Municipal Building and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Eight candidates will compete for the five vacancies. The five incumbents - Mayor Edgar Smith, William Hoff, Richard Pilski, Francis White, and Gerald Gough - are running as a slate.

The challengers are Hal Siegel, Leo Gerton, and Clifford Simonson. Simonson is a former councilman who was defeated in the 1965 election. For Siegel and Gerton, this is their first attempt.

Biographies of the candidates appear on the inside pages.

In addition to electing a new council, voters will be asked to vote on an advisory referendum questions on municipal powers. The question asked is: "Shall the existing home rule authority of the city of Greenbelt and other municipalities (present and future) be guaranteed by a new Maryland Constitution?"

City officials are looking for a "Yes" vote in order to bolster their opposition to a draft of the new constitution which would freeze home rule powers of cities at the existing level and would, in the future, make cities creatures of the county rather than of the State.

Election Procedures

All councilmen are elected at large. In order for a candidate to be elected, he must receive more than 40 percent of the votes cast. If fewer than five candidates receive such a vote, a run-off election will be held one week later on Tuesday, Sept. 26.

CITY COUNCIL CANDIDATES EXPRESS THEIR VIEWS ON LOCAL ISSUES

by Sid Kastner

Seven of the eight candidates for City Council, running in next Tuesday's election, were "thrown to the lions" at the Greenbelt Lions' Club Candidates Forum on Tuesday night. After the candidates had given their views, marked mainly by a clash between the challengers (Leo Gerton, Hal Siegel, Cliff Simonson) and the incumbents (the slate of Gerald Gough, Dick Pilski, Edgar Smith, Francis White), the audience of over sixty persons bombarded them with thirty-odd questions.

The incumbents took a stand on their records of the past two years, emphasizing they had fought for "balanced growth" and against undesirable zoning. Smith expressed his intent to push for acquisition of more parkland and recreational facilities. Pilski supported a long range fiscal program, the use of federal aid programs and home rule for municipalities. White defended the formation of the slate, saying we may not always have agreed, but we worked with unity of purpose. Gough, recently appointed to council upon the resignation of David Champion, stated he would continue to fight against high density zoning and noted that each citizen is free to vote upon the record of each candidate.

Challengers' Charges

Siegel charged that despite its claim of unity, the slate had voted 3-2 on many zoning issues. He also found a "lack of follow-up actions", citing the delay in a requested Community Relations Advisory Board report, and the continued existence of the Beltway Plaza mudslide danger. Simonson characterized as "myths" the claims of the incumbents that they worked in harmony, that they made effective use of the appointed advisory boards, and that they had a long-range program for capital improvements. Lack of foresight and careless drawing up of covenants, on the part of the incumbents, were blamed by Gerton for the "ant-heap" of high density near the lake.

Members of the audience then subjected the candidates, one at a time, to intensive questioning. The questions fell into ten categories: (1) youth problems, (2) civil liberties, (3) stands on open housing, (4) zoning issues, (5) tax rate, (6) appointees to advisory committees, (7) advisory committee roles, (8) communication between citizens and council, (9) needs of older citizens, and (10) pollution.

In the zoning area, Louis Pohoryles asked Siegel (presently president of Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt) to take a stand on the office plaza proposed by the developers of Springhill Lake, which is presently favored by the city's Advisory Planning Board. Siegel stated that he opposed it, because of the absence of a master plan. In answer to a question by Nat Shinderman on what he would do differently if elected, Siegel repeated he would support the master plan.

A series of questions on the problems of young adults of Greenbelt was posed to both the incumbents and the challengers by William Barber. He asked for their views on a) the creation of a liaison committee, (b) an "unofficial" vote in city elections for persons between 18 and 21, (c) possible reopening of the bowling lanes, (d) opening the Youth Center to young adults on Sunday, and (e) handling of valid complaints against police officers. Generally all the candidates gave affirmative answers, except on the question of the right to vote; Gough alone came out bluntly for giving everyone over 18 the right to vote in city elections. Smith defended the record of the city's police department, while agreeing with the usefulness of liaison with the city's youth.

Open Housing

The question of views on open housing started with Louis Pohoryles asking Siegel to give his attitude on the usefulness of an open housing ordinance. Siegel took the position that it was a matter of balancing rights of citizens, and not a proper campaign issue. In answer to a question by Lily Goldberg, Pilski stated he would favor the weaker ordinance proposed by the county. Simonson was also questioned on this by Pohoryles; Simonson favored an ordinance covering commercial housing, for the present, and said he would have taken action before now on the report of the Community Relations Advisory Board. Gough, replying to Arthur Goldstein on the same issue, said he felt either of the two ordinances proposed by the county would be useful, and that he did not favor a referendum. Smith took the same position as Gough, and added he felt it was unfortunate it had been made an issue.

In connection with the arrest of a member of a protest group at the festival grounds, this week, Robert Crowley questioned Smith on whether proper guidance should not be given to police officers in situations which are unclear. Smith agreed, but defended the police department as a good one in spite of some inexperience.

Harvey Geller, stating that a local developer was still the city's main problem, questioned White critically on his (unsuccessful) choice of a candidate to fill the post of David Champion, who resigned from the council a few months ago. White's candidate, Geller charged, had business contacts with the developer. White replied that he also had voted for Mr. Geller, and that it was good to look at the positive contributions as well.

Relife came for the candidates at 11 p.m., with the end of the forum. As one observer remarked, probably very few people's minds were changed, but everyone was a little more enlightened.

Vote "Yes" On Referendum

A home rule referendum will appear on the ballot in the city council election on Tuesday, September 19. City officials hope that the response will be overwhelmingly favorable, demonstrating grass roots support for the independence of municipal governments.

We, too, should like to add our support for a "Yes" vote. Local home rule has permitted municipalities like Greenbelt to structure their government and to provide services that meet the special needs of their residents. As a result, Greenbelt is able to provide police, recreation, and other services that surpass those offered by Prince Georges County. Surely, in a democracy, we should encourage rather than discourage efforts to keep government as close to the people as possible.

A "Yes" vote is our best insurance for continuation of local self-government in Greenbelt.

Letters to the Editor

Get Out and Vote

To the Editor:

Greenbelt has always been a sleepy little town, nestled in the beautiful woods, away from the hustle and bustle, race riots and vandalism of the big city. We put in a hard day's work and come home to rest with our family and friends and attend our small social gatherings. We have our own little newspaper that weekly brings us the local current events, but, like Rip Van Kinkle, the time has come for us to wake up and really take a close look at some of the activities that have been going on around Greenbelt.

Over this past month, two house-breakings occurred within one day, two cars were stolen, a group of Greenbelt teenagers were drunk, the Center School was broken into and a typewriter stolen, a bullet was fired through a glass window at the Police Station, the cigar store at the center was broken into and robbed, a Greenbelt boy, who had been drinking, put his hand through Tanner's window, the glass door of High's was smashed, the display window of Ben Franklin's was broken, area playground equipment was destroyed, picnic tables, brought from the lake for use at the Labor Day Festival, were stacked in a pyramid and then the spike used for the horse-shoe pitching contest was dug up and used to destroy some of the tables. This is the wanton destruction and vandalism that has taken place within a month's time, while the citizens of Greenbelt slept. I wonder how many other incidents occurred that I know nothing about?

Greenbelt has a group of wonderful teenagers who are a credit to our town and to us, as parents, but, what are we going to do about the 5% who destroy our town's reputation, our property and trespass in our homes?

Citizens of Greenbelt, we have a problem and we can't ignore it any longer. It's election time again and right now, we need your vote to elect a strong City Council who will recognize the fact that there is a serious juvenile delinquency problem here in Greenbelt and will do something about it. Meet your candidates! Find out how they plan to combat delinquency and this wanton vandalism. How do they intend improving police protection for their citizens? Do you feel asking the teenagers is going to help, or do you feel a strong hand is needed?

The future of this lovely town depends on the decisions of its leaders. YOU, as citizens, pick these leaders by voting. Please, for the good of this community, get out and vote. Then and only then, will you have the right to complain when things go wrong in Greenbelt.

Cathy Foster

Appalled by Vandalism

To the Editor:

I am appalled at the wave of vandalism in Greenbelt's beautiful shopping center. Not only is this behavior dangerous and costly, but it can lead only to grief for the offenders and their parents if it is not checked immediately.

William R. Phillips

Anti-Slate

To the Editor:

I was greatly disturbed when I first heard that the present City Council was running as a slate in the election. The reason for my concern is that it is basically a dangerous precedent and detrimental to good government. Anyone taking the time to think through the implications and consequences has to come to the same conclusion.

The basic reason for an election campaign is to provide an opportunity for the issues to be debated. With the present Council running as a slate, this will be a sterile campaign. All differences that have existed or may exist among the present City Council will be swept under the rug for the sake of harmony. This combination of forces was not undertaken to wage a more effective debate. The only reason for this action by the "in" group is to maintain and expand their control of the city. This may be good politics, but it is certainly not in keeping with the principles of democracy. This uniting of all the power in one group is what one would expect from a totalitarian organization. One wonders how this is justified to a POD class.

What is of even greater concern is the harmful effect this action will have on the future development of the city. In order to maintain the facade of harmony, debate of the issues that face the city will be held to a minimum. Any differences that will exist among the members of Council will be ironed out in secret or executive meetings. All that will be presented to the public will be the accomplished facts with no real pro or con debate. Further, all information or facts needed to evaluate the actions of Council will be withheld or doctored to prevent criticism. This is not idle conjecture, but what existed during the time that the White-Goldfaden-Phillips-Pilski slate controlled the 1961-1963 Council. A good deal of the problems that confront the city today are the results of the actions or lack of actions of that Council.

Another result of this grab for power will be the development of a city political machine to continue the control of the City. This also means that applicants to Committees and Advisory Boards will be evaluated by Council not on their qualifications, but on their allegiance to the members of Council.

Candidates on Campaign Trail Before Lakeside Association

by Dorothy Sucher

Six candidates for the City Council discussed a variety of topics, including the record of the present council, fair housing, and park improvements at a "Meet the Candidates" night sponsored by the Lakeside Citizens' Association (LCA) on September 7. The incumbents present included Mayor Edgar Smith and Councilmen Richard Pilski and Francis White; the challengers were Leo Ger-ton, Harold Siegel, and former councilman Clifford Simonson.

Siegel, a Lakeside resident and former president of the LCA, came out swinging with an attack on the record of White, a fellow Lakesider. He felt that "probably two councilmen from Lakeside would not be elected," and that White "could have pushed" projects favored by Lakesiders (such as the program of new paths and sidewalks), but had not done so. He also criticized White for voting in favor of several projects by land developers that the council as a whole had defeated, 3-2, and recalled that White had been mayor at the time of the enactment of the Charlestowne Village covenants with Charles Bresler, which are now in litigation.

White Replies

White replied: "We councilmen are not parochial in our representation. We are elected at large to serve the city at large." He added that the Lakeside projects had been part of the overall maintenance program for Greenbelt and that all the councilmen had supported them. As for the covenants, White stated that he would not have signed the covenants if he had had the "advantage of 20/20 hindsight."

Fair Housing

A question from the audience by David Falk, 8 Olivewood, on the subject of fair housing brought out the candidates views on a subject Pilski felt was "no issue whatsoever in this campaign." Smith, White, and Simonson said they would favor a fair housing ordinance dealing with commercial housing, but Smith added he would oppose an ordinance affecting private homes, White underlined the Further, they will not take any actions which would have the affect of upsetting the unity theme. This will lead to ineffective groups who will be carrying out the will of Council rather than advising them.

Finally, this slate is contrary to the spirit of non-partisan elections. The broader meaning of non-partisan implies not only independent of national political parties, but independent of any power group. Each candidate should run on his own merit, and not hide his qualifications or lack of them within a group. In past elections we have seen the whittling away of the non-partisan nature of our city elections. In this election we have now reached the ultimate, in that not only is this election a partisan one, it is also the attempt at the formation of a one-party system for our city.

Unfortunately there is little that can be done at this late stage to combat this "power politics" play by members of our city council. I for one cannot go along with the philosophy that they are unbeatable and we will have to work with them, therefore, it is better to join them. I suggest that those who believe as I do, get out and campaign slate voting. I urge everyone to look at all of the candidates and evaluate them not only on what they say, or their platform, but the actions that they have taken as councilmen. Look at their entire voting record, not just the last six months or so. I would also like to remind the voters that it is not necessary to vote for five candidates. If there are only three or four whom you in all good conscience can vote for, then only vote for these. By voting for a candidate you really cannot support, you may be eliminating one you can support. Finally, as a sign of protest, I would suggest that if there are not five candidates that you can support, then you use one of your votes for a write-in vote. This would act as a visible sign of protest, and it doesn't matter whose name is written in.

need for public hearings, and Simonson said he would prefer an ordinance concerning "unethical real estate practices."

Siegel, however, said he favored putting the question of fair housing to a referendum, and Pilski felt that the community has already been integrated smoothly. "There's no great problem," he said. "Why bring it up?"

Parks and Recreation

The appearance of Greenbelt Lake and the surrounding parkland came in for criticism from the audience, as well as suggestions including school anti-litter campaigns, augmenting of the Public Works department to insure regular cleaning of the parks, and passing an ordinance "with teeth" to prevent pollution of the lake through silting from land stripped by developers.

Smith objected that the last suggestion might be impractical, since all the city storm sewers drain into the lake. He did not see what could be done about the surface runoff from new developments when it drains into the lake by way of the sewers.

Simonson said he would "dearly love to see the city pioneer" in this area, and added that although such an ordinance might be thrown out by the courts, this would be "no worse than the situation now."

Inquiries from the audience about the resurfacing of the tennis courts brought the response from Smith that the council had felt it was more important to develop the lake park and the Center Mall first. Simonson, a tennis player, said he was enthusiastically in favor of Greenbelt's building six good courts laid out north-south instead of the present three inferior courts." Siegel, noting that the tennis court project had been postponed for several years, commented: "You can't push any project to the bottom of the pile indefinitely."

Both Simonson and Siegel, as well as members of the audience, criticized the present council for a lack of efficiency that was described variously as "lack of communication" and "buck passing." Said Simonson: "There are a thousands way to drag your feet to avoid doing something you don't want to do in the first place."

Siegel stressed the necessity of "followup" to insure that city administrative personnel carry out promptly the policies set by the council.

Mayor Smith commented that he usually talks to the city manager four or five times a day and doesn't agree that the problem is serious.

COUNCIL from p. 4

The Board saw advantages in the city's acquiring both sites, not to obtain the use of the buildings for any one age segment or interest group, but to possess land on which to create community recreation facilities for total community use. The board asked that a comprehensive long-range recreation master plan for the City of Greenbelt be developed with which to measure the best use of the two sites. The Board also asked that the park-school concept of community use of school facilities be explored with the Board of Education.

Geller Resigns

Harvey Geller submitted his resignation from the city's Advisory Planning Board. In a biting letter to council, he complained of politics being played in the appointments and functioning of the Board which have "had a deleterious effect on the operations of the PB." His resignation was accepted after Smith expressed his regrets at the decision.

Other Action

Adopted for final passage was a comprehensive charter amendment listing all existing powers of the city, plus all powers contained in the model charter enacted by the State Legislature.

Council accepted a low bid of $19,161 for concrete curb and gutter construction and sidewalk replacement, including the resurfacing of Parkway Road. Coincidentally, the low bidder—Reliable Contractors Co., Inc.—was the lone bidder of two weeks ago when council decided to keep the bidding open another two weeks to get additional bidders.

Council approved a $180 bill from the Maryland Municipal League to cover special League costs incurred in connection with the fiscal reform bill and the coming Constitutional Convention.

Giese was asked by councilman Francis White to look into the possibility of moving an abandoned house in Berwyn to a suitable site in Greenbelt for temporary use as a Golden Age clubhouse.

Appointed as alternate election workers were Mrs. Mae Zoellner and Jane McCully.

C. of C. Planning Meeting

On Thursday, August 31, 1967, a group of local businessmen headed by Mr. Leo Gerton met in the G.C.S. Hospitality Room at 10 a.m. to hear Mr. Frank Farrell of the Prince Georges Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gerton and his committee are exploring the possibility of establishing a Chamber of Commerce for the city of Greenbelt.

Proclamation Postal Services Day

Whereas, the Greenbelt post office performs many vital services for the community; and
Whereas, each resident of Greenbelt has available to him the full resources of advancing technology to process ever increasing volumes of mail with speed and accuracy, and
Whereas, Postmaster Emory A. Harman and his employees are our friends and neighbors in addition to being dedicated public servants, and
Whereas, it is in the mutual interest of both individuals and business mailers to cooperate with the Postal Service in its public service programs designed to promote the general welfare and serve the common good,
Therefore, I, Edgar L. Smith, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Greenbelt, do hereby proclaim September 19, 1967, as Postal Services Day and call upon all citizens of the City of Greenbelt to join in observance of this day during which we may pay tribute to Postmaster Emory A. Harman and his employees as well as all postal employees everywhere in these United States who daily perform many thankless and unrecognized tasks that benefit us all.
This 11 day of September, 1967.

Fire Prevention Tip FIRE HURTS

Destructive fire is like a branding iron, leaving an incredible imprint upon the life of each person it touches. Long after flames have been extinguished, embers have been cooled, and smoke has drifted away, the deep HURT of fire remains. These hurts—physical, emotional, financial,—can be agonizing and permanent.
Estimates by the National Fire Protection Association indicate that a total of more than 2½ million fires in the United States and Canada last year killed more than 12,500 persons and destroyed property valued at nearly 2 billion dollars.
Dwelling fires alone annually hurt well over a half million families who lose homes, personal treasures, and other possessions they may have spent a lifetime acquiring. Most tragic of all, nearly 7,000 Americans—a third of them children—lose their most precious possession, life itself, as the result of fires in one-and two-family houses.
Fire hurts outside the home too. Annually a quarter of a million fires damage or destroy U. S. and Canadian factories and warehouses, offices and stores. These fires interrupt and abruptly and forever end activities upon which literally millions of persons rely for employment and income.
Only when everyone practices fire prevention at all times in all places are ugly and unwanted fires avoided and the hurts of fire significantly reduced.

ZIP CODES SUPPLIED

On Postal Services Day, Sept. 19, letter carriers will begin delivering to every householder a kit of eight postal cards which can be mailed back to the Post Offices to obtain the ZIP Codes for "zipless" addresses.
Each completed card will be sent to the post office which services the addressee needing a ZIP Code. There the proper five-digit number will be added before the form is returned to the sender. No postage will be needed on the cards.
Extra kits will be available at the post office.

Plans for U. N. Weekend Free Polio Vaccine

The third meeting of the planning committee for the United Nations Weekend for Greenbelt and area churches buzzed with excitement Thursday night, August 31 at Greenbelt Community Church, as plans got underway for the two day celebration to be held October 28 and 29.

The Adult Education Building at the University of Maryland was selected for the dinner to be held on Saturday night, October 28, at which time the foreign guest invited to speak in the local churches will be introduced. Plans were also made for the Sunday community wide meeting, open to all, which will feature a United Nations film, a round table discussion, music and refreshments.

Several short films which will be on loan from the United Nations Headquarters in Washington will be reviewed at the next meeting to be held Thursday, September 14 at 8 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Church. A selection will be made of one that will tie in with the theme of "Family Life In a United World." All churches interested in joining in this observance of United Nations Weekend are invited to attend.

The Maryland State Department of Health has begun the distribution of free trivalent oral polio vaccine, according to Dr. John H. Janney, Chief of the Division of Communicable Diseases. The oral polio vaccine is being supplied to local health departments, where it will be used in well baby clinics and distributed to local physicians.

This vaccine is furnished to the State without cost, through the Federal Immunization Act. Its use is restricted to preschool children.

The oral vaccine is given by dropper or on a sugar cube and requires no needle.

The State Department of Health recommends that the first dose of trivalent polio vaccine be administered to babies at two months, with a second dose to follow in eight weeks. The third dose should be given between 13 and 15 months, and a booster should be given before entering school.

Parents in doubt about the immunization status of their children are urged by the State Department of Health to consult their private physician or their local Health department.

Hospital Receives Award

Harry W. Penn, Jr., Administrator, Prince George's General Hospital, announced that the hospital has received three-year approval from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The hospital was commended by the Commission for "maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for constant effort to improve the quality of patient care."

A hospital that has been surveyed and granted the Certificate of Accreditation of the Commission is considered a hospital that is progress-minded, constantly striving to improve its services, and one that meets high standards of patient care.

Prince George's General has also been awarded a certificate of membership in the Council of Teaching Hospitals, Association of American Medical Colleges for "demonstrating a significant commitment to medical education."

A National Memorial Service for the poet Carl Sandburg, biographer of Abraham Lincoln, will be held at the Lincoln Memorial at 6 p.m. Sunday, September 17. Sandburg died on July 22 at the age of 89.

Brief eulogies will be delivered by Archibald MacLeish and Mark Van Doren, distinguished American poets who were friends of Sandburg. Charlie Byrd will perform favorite guitar selections of Sandburg, who frequently sang folk tunes to his own guitar accompaniment. A few of Sandburg's short poems will be read aloud.

The Police Blotter

On August 31, between 3 and 4 a.m., there was a case of breaking and entering at the Greenbelt Variety store. Police found evidence leading to identification of two boys, who were charged and will go to Juvenile Court. A total of $18.10, which had been reported as missing, as well as a number of magazines, were recovered.

A car stolen at Springhill Lake was recovered by police at Beltway Plaza. The owners of the car, parents of one of the young men involved, are prosecuting.

Two runaway girls, apprehended at the airport, have been returned to their homes.

Advisory Referendum On Home Rule For Cities

Advisory Referendum Question

"Shall the existing Home Rule Authority of the City of Greenbelt and other Municipalities (present or future) be guaranteed by a new Maryland Constitution?"

Should small cities such as Greenbelt be considered a non-conforming use? Are such cities anachronisms—something needed at one time but no longer of any use? Should existing small cities be allowed to only exist as they are or wither and die, but not grow? Should the county be the basic unit of local government?

Last Tuesday, the Maryland Constitutional Convention convened for its first session. Within 120 days it will have the responsibility for drafting a new constitution to replace the existing 100-year-old document. Part of the convention's responsibilities will be to provide answers to the above questions.

Eney Commission Recommendations

In preparation for the Constitutional Convention, Governor Tawes appointed a Constitutional Convention Commission to study the present constitution and make recommendations for a new constitution. Chaired by H. Vernon Eney (who is now chairman of the Constitutional Convention), this commission made recommendations relating to municipalities which, if adopted, would virtually make cities non-conforming uses.

- Counties would be made the basic unit of local government.
- Cities would be delegated their powers by the counties rather than by the state, and such powers would be dealt with on an individual basis for each city rather than the existing broad grant of powers to all cities.
- Home rule authority which enables each city to adopt its own charter would no longer be recognized by the constitution.
- Counties would be permitted to alter the boundaries of a city without the consent of the city or the residents involved.
- Existing cities would keep their existing powers but could not obtain any new powers except from the county.
- The county would be able to prevent residents in a new urban area from incorporating as a city.

The Referendum Question

Because these recommendations would so vitally affect the future role and status of the City of Greenbelt, the City Council felt that Greenbelt citizens should be given an opportunity to express themselves on this matter. Consequently, at the September 19th City election you will find an advisory question on the ballot upon which you may express your opinion. The text of the question is found above.

Existing Home Rule Powers

Presently, the City of Greenbelt and other municipalities throughout the state have a broad grant of "home rule" authority. Unlike other sections of the state constitution, the section relating to cities is relatively new — an amendment having been adopted in 1954. This amendment gives to cities the power and authority to adopt, amend, or repeal their own charters and local ordinances relating to incorporation, organization, form of government, and administration of local affairs. The constitution further provides that the state legislature may grant additional powers to cities but that all cities shall be dealt with uniformly by the state legislature, except that cities may be grouped into classes by population and each class of cities treated separately. The state legislature has granted to cities a broad range of powers.

The Reasoning Behind the Commission's Proposals

The Governor's Constitutional Convention Commission expressed the belief that "democratic and responsive local governments can best be obtained if local governments are free to solve their problems without securing prior approval of the state legislature." It concluded, also, that the state legislature was spending too much of its time on purely local legislation for the counties. Therefore, it recommended that counties be made the primary unit of local government and be granted a broad range of home rule powers.

The Commission further concluded that municipal corporations shall continue to be governments of limited jurisdiction within the counties. In order to avoid irresolvable conflicts between the "home rule" counties and municipal corporations, it recommended that counties be given the power to provide for the creation, incorporation, and dissolution of any new municipal corporations within their boundaries and for the methods and procedures of changing and merging municipalities and altering their boundaries.

The Commission stated that it recognized that certain existing municipal corporations are presently the dominant forces of local government in their respective areas of the state. Therefore, it recommended the inclusion in a new constitution of a grandfather clause to protect the continued existence of those municipal corporations which now exist but qualified to the extent that existing municipalities could be dissolved or have withdrawn existing powers if consented to by the state legislature or the municipality's governing body.

Finally, the Commission concluded that if its recommendations are adopted "the existence and status of municipal corporations will not be changed . . . except that it will be the county rather than the General Assembly which will incorporate municipalities . . . and . . . will be the source of the powers of municipalities."

Criticism of Commission's Report

The Commission's report has been strongly criticized by the Maryland Municipal League and municipal officials throughout the state for its sections relating to municipalities.

- The Commission completely discarded all provisions of the 1954 Municipal Home Rule amendments.
- Its constitution draft makes no provision for city charters.
- Because it recommends "home rule" powers for counties, and because it fears irresolvable conflicts between counties and cities, it places cities under county authority. This is the same as granting to one of the boxers in the ring the authority to be referee as well.
- Decision-making authority of the residents of an area to determine by referendum whether or not to incorporate or to be annexed would be superseded by the authority of the County Commissioners.
- Cities would lose their political strength inasmuch as they would be dealing with 23 separate county governments instead of one legislature and would be dealt with individually rather than as a group.

Recommendations of the Cities

For these reasons, the City Council, the Maryland Municipal League, the Prince George's Municipal Association, and municipalities throughout the state have urged the rejection of the Governor's Constitutional Convention Commission proposals as related to municipalities and have urged the Constitutional Convention to maintain existing home rule authorities as granted by the present state constitution and the state legislature.

Furthermore, the City Council and the Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt have urged Greenbelt residents to vote "Yes" on the advisory referendum question.

ALTERNATE EXAM DATE FOR JEWISH STUDENTS

This year, the pre-college Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) will be held, in most (but not all) schools, on Saturday, October 14, a date which coincides with the Jewish Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur). Because of this, the Jewish Community Council of Greater Washington has notified parents and students that an alternate exam time has been made available to Jewish students, namely 3 p.m. the following day, Sunday, October 15.

A choice of two locations is given to students intending to make use of the alternate date, both in Washington - the Hebrew Academy at 6045 16th str. N.W. and the Yeshiva High School at 1529 Q st., N.W. Requests for the alternate date should be submitted in writing to Rabbi Noah Golinkin, Director, Board of Jewish Education, by September 25, and should include name, address, telephone, school and location preferred for the test. For any questions, call Rabbi Golinkin, 347-1143.

Electronic Control Center Links County Fire Depts.

The first local fire control system to link volunteer companies in the nation, the Prince Georges County Fire Board is beginning its 25th year with one of the most up-to-date electronic centers now in existence. The new nine-channel system dispatches some of the more than 300 pieces of emergency equipment now in service in Prince Georges over 100 times each day.

Keeping pace with the expanding County population, the control center has incorporated both direct phone lines and radio communication with all fire companies in the County as well as the District of Columbia, State and County police, neighboring counties, State Forestry Service, civil defense and Andrews Air Force Base.

Direct lines also link with Prince George's General Hospital, Leland Memorial Hospital and the County Fire Marshal's office and home.

Total fire calls have tripled in the past ten years, according to Fire Board Director Frank Briguglio, who listed a total of 43,460 calls during last year. These broke down into 3,313 fire calls, 28,412 ambulance calls and 5,735 other emergency runs.

"To date this year," he said, "we have recorded an increase of 28-150 calls over the same time period last year."

County Commissioner M. Bayne Brooke, who is liaison commissioner with the Fire Services, saw the new system as "one which, we believe, will be expandable to serve the needs of the County for a good while yet to come. As new subdivisions and businesses fill our County," he continued, "more and better fire service is going to be necessary to keep ahead of the demands, I feel we now have the the communications end of it well under control, and along with other steps the County is taking to

by Anne Galligher

Greenbelt Junior High School came alive once more as the mass of students surged through its green doors for the thirtieth year. Greetings were exchanged as last year's students returned and new ones were welcomed. Jostled through freshly painted halls, the 342 new seventh graders, when added to 317 eighth graders, 351 freshmen, and the 30 special education students, ring up a grand total of 1040 students for Greenbelt.

Seventh graders, however, aren't the only ones new to Greenbelt Junior High. Here for their first time are 18 new teachers. Helping to make up the science department are Mr. Barber, Mrs. Boorman, Mrs. Carson, and Miss Wassenburg. In home economics, Mrs. Corsaro teaches ninth and Mrs. Lyons seventh. Math, algebra, and geometry students received Mr. Allen, Mr. d'Eustachio, Mr. Grossman, Mrs. Mason, and Mr. Wolback, Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Wilson have taken on core, social studies, and English. Miss Taylor and Miss Kempner teach French, while Miss Fregia and Mrs. Leigh teach English. Music students weren't neglected - they received Miss Stoy.

Things are happening at G.J.H.S. Two new pianos were ordered, but their delivery was unaccountably delayed so a new order was placed. One bright day a delivery van unloaded 4 new pianos. We are using all 4 but it will only be a matter of time before two are returned.

Every four years Greenbelt has a paint job. This was the fourth year. Eighth and ninth grade students returning to Greenbelt immediately noticed the brightness of their classrooms. New seventh grade pupils were welcomed by the cheeriness of their rooms. Even the halls reflect the hard work of the painters.

School lunches this year are 40c in contrast to 35c last year. The announcement from the school board - "During the school year 1966-67 there was a deficit of $72,598.94 in the operation of the school lunch program in the County. It was felt that the rising food cost, increased labor cost, and the diminishing supply of surplus food commodities warranted the increase in the price of school lunches."

Greenbelt will miss the contributions of those who have left. Mr. George Strachen, responsible as chairman of the Science Fair for our many award winning contributions, left our school to accept a one year National Science Foundation Fellowship at the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Mr. Charles Collins has retired from the classroom scene to take a position as Vice-Principal of Roger B. Taney Jr. High School in Camp Spring, Maryland.

Postmaster Commended

Postmaster Emory A. Harman has been commended by Glen R. Johnson, National Director of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division, for his leadership and service to the Treasury Department's School Savings Program.

Many Greenbelt schools offer School Savings as part of the nationwide Savings Bonds Program. As pupils fill their albums - which are provided free - they exchange them for U. S. Savings Bonds at their bank.

Postmaster Harman said "We are proud to offer this service to our young people. I know of no better way to teach thrift and civic responsibility than by encouraging our youth to buy Savings Stamps and Bonds. This is one way they all can share in America."

BAKE SALE

The Greenbelt Lion Belles will hold a Bake Sale Sept. 19 starting at 10 a.m. near the Municipal Building.

supplement the excellent volunteer system we now have, we are keeping ahead.'

The new control center, over four years in design and installation by the Motorola Company, automatically records all calls from the public and incorporates radio selective signaling to all fire stations and their sirens, thereby discontinuing use of the older, less reliable method of signal use of telephone lines.

Instant Council?

We, the undersigned, object to the idea of the five incumbent members of the City Council running together for re-election as a single, "broad spectrum" slate.

It seems presumptuous of them to choose a ready-made Council for the voters, who are supposed to make such a choice for themselves at the polls. There is little to suggest that these incumbents actually offer much of a united front on the vital issues now facing Greenbelt, such as land use, zoning and planning, treatment of vandalism, fair housing, and efficient police protection without infringement of individual liberties. In fact, they have little in common other than their desire to be re-elected on September 19th.

MEMORANDUM

TO: VOTERS OF GREENBELT
FROM: CITIZENS FOR A PLANNED GREENBELT

The voters of the City of Greenbelt will be given an opportunity to express their opinion on the question of whether they want municipalities to continue to have home rule powers or to have such powers curtailed as recommended in Article VII of the draft constitution, now being considered by the Maryland Constitutional Convention.

This draft Article, if adopted, would make the cities creatures of the county rather than of the State and would give the county the authority to control future municipal expansion.

A city such as Greenbelt would continue the elective process with respect to its governing authority as a municipal corporation. However, once that governing authority is elected, it will not have the power and authority beyond that which currently exists to serve the needs of its electorate unless the county is willing to delegate such additional powers as might be desired.

The Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt therefore strongly urges every voter in the election on September 19 to vote YES on the Referendum Question to appear on the ballot: "Shall the existing Home Rule Authority of the City of Greenbelt and other Municipalities (present or future) be guaranteed by a new Maryland Constitution?"

A strong YES vote could indeed help change the views of the Constitutional Convention so that Greenbelt can be guaranteed a basic American right to local self-government.

TRAFFIC TIPS

The D. C. Department of Motor Vehicles says that the annual traffic toll reveals that 30 percent of all fatalities are non-collision run-off-the-road type accidents. Chances are that most of these occur because the driver has not been in top physical, mental and emotional condition. Even a big strong man is no match for alcohol, fatigue, hangover, or just plain dead tired feeling you get after a night on the town. A word to the wise: check your condition before you drive!

Too many drivers seem to think they can stop on a dime. Under normal conditions, the average driver needs 80 feet to stop at a speed of 30 MPH. That's about four car lengths when parked. Pretty long dime, isn't it?

LWV Marks Citizenship Day

By a Joint Resolution of Congress dating from 1952, September 17 is marked as Citizenship day, commemorating the signing of the U.S. Constitution in 1787. For the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County, this day will mark the beginning of a campaign to recruit new members to its rolls.

The LWV has an active unit - the "Greenbeltsville" unit - in this area. Its membership chairman, Mrs. Leo Davis, urges those women in Greenbelt who wish to learn more about the political process, and perhaps take part in shaping it through an experienced, nonpartisan organization, to attend the League's meetings and to join its ranks. For details, call Mrs. Davis at 474-9125 or the League office at 894-1465.

Sewing Classes at Methodist Church

Bishop sewing classe will be offered by the Adult Education program of Prince George's County at Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church in Greenbelt. The following courses will be offered:

Intermediate Sewing from 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon, beginning Thursday, Sept. 21.

For further information, call the instructor, Mrs. Grace Smith, at UN 4-3821 by Sept. 18.

GI BENEFITS

Washington Metropolitan Area veterans who have been accepted for college this fall should apply immediately to the Veterans Administration Office at 2033 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20421 to make arrangements for benefits available to them under the GI Bill. Veterans with more than 180 days of continuous military service, with any part of that time after January 31, 1955, are eligible for monthly allowances of $130 or more.

Application forms should be obtained from and returned to the Veterans Benefits Office along with a copy of the veteran's separation document, DD Form 214. The Veterans Benefits Office will then issue the qualified veteran a certificate of eligibility, which he should submit to the school when he enrolls.

Veterans are urged to call the VA office at 389-2764 if they need additional information about the education program.

Reactivated Co-op Serves Riot Area

SEPTEMBER, 1967

The Co-op News Service reports that the inactive Consumer's Co-op of Plainfield, New Jersey quickly reactivated to serve the areas left in shambles by the riots in July. The store, stocked with 70 items, opened July 27 and is owned, staffed and operated by negroes. It is also providing members with a background in business methods and consumer co-op practices. Membership costs $1, stock is $2 per share and a credit union will encourage savings and provide low-interest loans and financial counseling.

August Income

totalled $10,927; expenses were $3,444; leaving net earnings of $7,483. Deposits for August exceeded withdrawals to give an increase in savings of $12,704 compared to the greater increase of $44,000 in August, 1966.

Loans increased by $26,562. Total assets and liabilities of $1,471,160 may pass the 1 1/2 million mark this month.

Actual income and expenses for the first half of 1967 came remarkably close to the budget as proposed by the manager and accepted by the board for 1967. The period of heavy loans may be tapering off - as savings increase we hope to be able to pay off our $40,000 note and put the interest we are paying the bank into increased dividends.

BOARD MEETING

The directors of Twin Pines will meet at the office Friday evenings, September 29, at 8:30 p.m. Members are invited to attend.

$100 MINIMUM

When you have a loan with Twin Pines your savings account cannot go below $100 - the amount required in savings for membership in Twin Pines. Accounts of some borrowers have gone below this $100 in the past and the Board of Directors have pointed out that this should not be permitted.

Sometimes this happened when Twin Pines sent monthly payments to Greenbelt Homes for members who request this service. These families should be sure they have enough in their savings accounts by the 5th of each month to cover their monthly GHI payment without going below $100.

SUMMER BONUS

will continue through September 30. A penny will be added to every ten dollars deposited to your account in order to encourage greater savings. Because of state regulations, the maximum bonus is $2.50 per account.

EXPO '67

LAST EXPO TOUR

There will be one more trip to EXPO '67 for the Greenbelt Travel Club on October 19 to 22. This is the weekend of the teachers' convention in Baltimore so the schools are closed in Maryland that Thursday and Friday. Details will be available at the office by the end of the week. In general the trip will be like the others except that the travellers will be housed in a motel about 10 minutes away from EXPO.

TALENT CONTEST

Twin Pines participated in the Greenbelt Youth Festival over the Labor Day weekend by sponsoring the Talent Contest on the night of Saturday, September 2nd. Sherry Kennedy won the first prize of $15, Chris Zoellner won the second of $10.

Now — U. S. Savings Bonds Pay More Interest

4.15% when held to maturity

Higher interest on the Bonds you already own, too!

U.S. Savings Bonds are a better way to save than ever

Because now all Series E and Series H Bonds bought after December 1, 1965, will earn the new, higher interest rate of 4.15% when held to maturity. That's only 7 years for Series E — 9 months quicker than before. All H Bond interest checks will be larger beginning in June 1966.

And your outstanding bonds will earn more, too, from now on. So, you don't have to cash in your present Bonds to get the attractive new rate.

Ask about buying Bonds where you work or bank. For America's future. And yours.

"Today, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines."

"Today, above all, is a time for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the spirit that animated the Minutemen of Concord—who serve as a symbol of the Savings Bond program. For today, as at the founding of our nation, it is freedom which is again at stake. Not all of us are called upon to fight in the jungles of Vietnam, but while our men are there, in the front lines of a distant land, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines. We must all do our share—in every way we can—to support our men in Vietnam. One sure way is open to all Americans through the Savings Bond program."

Little League Awards

Almost 350 persons - Little Leaguers, their parents, coaches, sponsors and honored guests - attended the annual Little League banquet on September 9 at the Firehouse. Eugene Kellahe served as Master of Ceremonies during the awards ceremony.

Lawrence "Larnie" Palmer, president of the Greenbelt Little League and his city champs - the Tigers - received many honors. The National League Tigers chalked up a record of 22 wins and no losses. "No other team in the history of the league has accomplished this feat," said Walter "Bud" Dean, former Little League commissioner and coach. Members of the Tigers received trophies with coach Palmer awarded the coach's trophy. City Manager James Giese presented the Sportsmanship Award to the team. Harold "Dusty" Rhodes and Al Dimuzzo served as assistant coaches.

Trophies were given to the boys on the Cubs, the American League pennant winners, with Howard Wesley awarded the coach's trophy. Pacific Skiddy was the team's assistant coach.
