COURT OF APPEALS HEARS GHI SUIT AGAINST HIGH SCHOOL SITE

Arguments on the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. suit seeking to enjoin the Prince Georges County Board of Education from constructing a senior high school on parcel 2 were heard by the Maryland State Court of Appeals on Tuesday, November 7. Contending attorneys were David Reich for GHI and Paul Nussbaum for the school board. A decision will be forthcoming later.

Parcel 2 is the land between the GHI properties and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway which was selected by the school board for a 3-school complex after it had originally agreed to a city-preferred tract (parcel 15) near the Capital Beltway. Both sites, according to the GHI suit, were owned by Charles Bresler, Theodore Lerner, and associates at the time of the selection.

The GHI suit contends that in reversing its decision the school board was "influenced by considerations other than the public interest" and that the school board was "substituting for its own judgment the pressures and influence which Bresler-Lerner were able to assert by reason of their ownership" of both tracts.

The case was taken on appeal from the lower court's decision in November 1966, which ruled that the school board had acted within its authority in selecting a site. The court held that the GHI complaint was insufficient as a basis for relief in that the assertions of "pressures and influence" were mere conclusions.

GHI Arguments

In Tuesday's court hearing, Reich maintained that the school board's action was not in the public interest and therefore constituted a breach of trust. The question posed by Reich was whether it was the developers or the school board that were making the decisions on site selection and price.

The school board, Reich noted, had originally selected parcel 15, which had been recommended in Master Plans prepared by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and by the City of Greenbelt and which had been approved by the State Superintendent of Schools. The city, he said, preferred this site because of traffic accessibility, pedestrian safety, and location near recreational facilities.

Condemnation proceedings were started, but thereafter, Reich said, the developers began to squeeze the school board by virtue of ownership of both tracts of land. Reich referred to the proposal of the developers, made with the knowledge of the Board of Education, whereby the developers would agree to a senior high school on parcel 15 only if the city would not object to denser zoning on parcels 1 and 2 of their land. When the city "in its dignity" refused this offer, Reich said, the developers then offered parcel 2 as a substitute school site for parcel 15. GHI's suit contends that the use of this site "will require the widening of roads in residential areas not intended for such traffic and will result in the irreparable destruction and impairment of valuable property rights" of GHI.

Thus, Reich concluded, the Board of Education became the vehicle for enhancing private interests, and should not have been placed in such a position. Reich also referred to the income-tax advantages accrued by Bresler-Lerner in the school board's choice of parcel 2.

One judge questioned the extent of injury to the public interest by the school board's judgmental decision to switch school sites. He referred to the school board's allegation that lower land acquisition costs were involved in parcel 2. Reich commented that when all costs such as development costs and the costs of constructing roadways are considered, what is deemed to be an excessively high priced tract may not be so. He also referred to the city of Greenbelt and GHI offers of parcels of land which could be used to reduce the cost of parcel 15. One judge remarked that it seemed to be a case of the school board not loving Greenbelt less, but of loving the developers more.

School Board Arguments

Nussbaum stated that the courts have constantly held that school boards are vested with broad, discretionary powers in building new schools. The GHI allegations, he said, were conclusions without factual support. The GHI bill of complaint, he continued, contained no specific allegations of school board action that could be construed as malicious, fraudulent or conspiratorial. The only allegation he conceded was that the school board action gave the developers a tax advantage.

Nussbaum deplored the lengthy court battle over the school site, terming it a "nightmarish experience." He said the school board had presented its reasons for the selection of parcel 2 to many public bodies, including the county delegation and the county commissioners. He said the decision was made in light of the interests of the taxpayers of the entire county, not just Greenbelt's interests. He denied any secretive reasons for switching sites and charged that GHI was engaged in a "fishing expedition."

Reich in rebuttal argued that the case involved unusual circumstances and that there was sufficiency of pleadings for the case to go to trial to bring out the facts. "The framework is here," he said, "and we are prepared to put the meat on the bones."

Reich also objected to the fact that the lower court had given the school board a second opportunity to file a demurrer, which, he contended, was contrary to Maryland rules of procedure and prejudicial to GHI's case. This occurred, Reich said, when the school board motion for summary judgment was denied because the issue of sufficiency of pleading was not properly raised. The lower court, he said, allowed the school board's attorney to withdraw his answer and to file a demurrer, without giving GHI an opportunity to oppose.

Regional Shopping Center Planned for Triangle Site

According to a report published in the Evening Star of November 1, 1967, the owner of the Golden Triangle, Milton E. Selig, hopes to start building a regional shopping center on the 57-acre tract next year. The E. J. Korvette department store chain was at one time interested in locating there, but whether the chain still has the same plans is uncertain, the Philadelphia developer said.

The Maryland State Court of Appeals approved on October 18 the commercial zoning for the site bounded by the Capital Beltway, Kenilworth Ave., and Greenbelt Rd. The Appeals Court upheld a circuit court decision of September 1966 to allow the commercial zoning which the Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners approved in July 1965. Appeals of these decisions were taken by the City of Greenbelt, which preferred residential or commercial-office development of the land, together with Greenbelt Homes, Inc., and the owners of Beltway Plaza.

Emmett H. Nanna, Jr., Is New City Solicitor

Emmett H. Nanna, Jr., Greenbelt's newly-appointed city solicitor, is no stranger to Greenbelt. A member of one of Greenbelt's first families, Nanna lived here for 15 years.

Since the fall of 1966, Nanna has served as Greenbelt's special zoning attorney, arguing successfully at rezoning hearings on parcels 8 and 15. He has the distinction of being Prince George's County's first full-time Juvenile Judge, serving in 1957 and 1958. For eight years he held the post of city solicitor in Hyattsville.

A practicing lawyer in Prince George's County since 1954, Nanna's law offices are located in the Chamber of Commerce Building, Hyattsville. He graduated from the University of Maryland where he was an English major, and received his law degree (LLB) from George Washington University.

COUNCIL REVIEWS FAIR HOUSING SCHOOL SITE, LIBRARY STATUS

by Sid Kastner

In a relatively short regular meeting of city council, Monday night, a city solicitor was appointed and the status of the hoped-for Greenbelt library was reviewed. Action on the proposed fair housing city ordinance, which has been recommended by the Community Relations Advisory Board, was deferred by motion until an expected county ordinance in this area is enacted. On the long-pending school site question, Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt (CFPG) introduced a new idea by proposing that council look into the feasibility of other local sites not hitherto considered.

County Commissioner Francis B. Francois acknowledged his awareness of Greenbelt's interest in a library, in a letter to council. He noted that a 99-year lease on the site has now been executed by the school board, and that a title search is on the County Commissioners' agenda this week, so that some actions are finally being taken. Albert Herling, from the floor, warned however against too high hopes because the long delay may damage Greenbelt's priority in actual construction of the library. The Council decided to mention this matter of urgency in a letter to Commissioners Francois and Spellman.

Fair Housing

Councilman Gerald Gough reported that he had compared the present Montgomery County fair housing ordinance with the one being considered by the Prince Georges County Commissioners; the latter would exempt real estate brokers or salesmen from the ordinance on written instruction from the home-owner.

Gough urged that the proposed city ordinance limit such an exemption only to sales carried out by homeowners among themselves. Councilman Bill Hoff assented, but wanted to table the matter for discussion of the legal aspects with the city solicitor. Albert Herling and Harvey Geller felt that this would introduce unnecessary delay.

Mayor Edgar Smith took the position that the city should wait until the county adopted its ordinance, otherwise there could be a problem of non-uniform enforcement. He stated that he had made a personal commitment to this effect to those people who had voted for him. Councilman Dick Pilski took a similar stand, noting that the city had already expressed general support of the county's proposed ordinance with the exemption section in it.

Allen Lenckel agreed that there was merit in proceeding carefully, but suggested several possible courses of action that the council could take to make progress, among them being a recommendation to the county that it strike the section objected to by Gough. Joseph O'Loughlin supported the position of Smith and Pilski, that a city ordinance should not be considered until after the county's was enacted.

John Unger, chairman of Greenbelt Citizens for Fair Housing, submitted a letter written by Mr. and Mrs. Jam Turkevich, and signed by 32 persons, urging passage of an appropriate ordinance by the council to "demonstrate leadership, not ed in Greenbelt, have three children, Frank, age 10, Christine, age 8, and Lauren, age 6. The Nannas will move shortly to their new home in Windom Oaks, Adelphi.

only to Greenbelt, but to Prince Georges County as well". Hoff's motion to table was passed, however.

Manager James Giese read some letters from apartment building owners and operators, received in response to the survey letter which the city has sent out seeking information on rental policies with respect to race. One owner reported that in 15 years she had had residents of all types, with no disturbances. Another manager stated that his apartments have an open housing policy and do not discriminate with respect to race. A third claimed no specific policy, saying rentals were based only on ability to pay; he favored legislation which covered all housing.

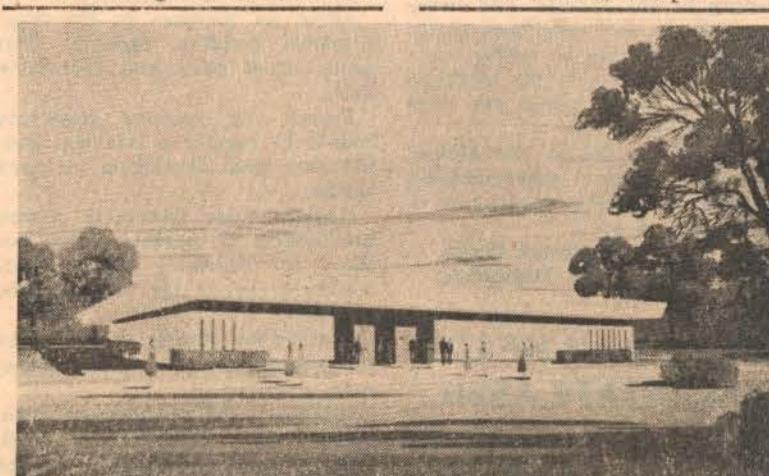

Earlier in the meeting Allen Lenckel expressed approval, though with some reservations, of the statement by city council in last week's issue of the News Review, which deprecated harassment of law abiding citizens who "are asserting their constitutional rights, such as freedom of speech or assembly." He said that the statement makes clear that the unwarranted surveillance of the Peace in Viet Nam Committee during the Labor Day weekend will not be repeated. He also interpreted the statement as council recognition that the Viet Nam group is a legitimate group.

Senior High School

Harvey Geller, speaking for CFPG, said that CFPG had reviewed the action taken by the council in limiting the senior high school location to the "core" of Greenbelt, in effect parcels 1 and 2 and parcel 15. There were other sites, he noted, along Edmonston Road for example, that would be ideal for the school. It now seems doubtful whether the projected perimeter road, necessary to absorb traffic in the vicinity of the present site (parcels 1 and 2), will ever become a reality. Therefore CFPG requests, Geller said, that city council reconsider its original motion. Gough thought there was great merit in the suggestion. Smith asked the city manager to place it on the agenda for the next meeting.

The appointment of Emmett H. Nanna as city solicitor was announced by manager Giese; Nanna effectively represented the city in its successful fight against the rezoning of Parcel 15, last March. Giese mentioned that he had considered 11 candidates in making his decision. On a motion by Gough, council unanimously accepted the appointment, which included salary terms.

Several appointments, for varying durations, were made to the city's advisory boards. Donald Volk, Robert M. O'Brien and Wallace Cohen were named to the APB; Mrs. Clovia Drake and Arthur Castaldi to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board; Benjamin Rosenzweig and James Cassells to the Employee Relations Board. The councilmen themselves have taken posts on the Metropolitan Washington Council of Government Committees, a body which seeks to provide liaison between local governments. Mayor Smith is on the Board of Directors, councilman Gough on the Public Safety Committee, councilman Hoff on the Health, Education and Welfare Committee, Councilman Pilski on the Environmental Health Committee, and Councilman Francis White on the Land Use Committee.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Greenbelt was growing by leaps and bounds as the new Defense Homes were completed and occupied by employees of the Army, the Navy, and the Maritime Commission. About 25 families a day were moving in. By early October the population had reached 4,500. It was expected that all the Defense Homes would be completed and occupied by Christmas . . .

The War Production Board denied permission for the town to build proposed additions to both schools (elementary and junior-senior high) until such time as the schools were being used at 200 percent of capacity. Priorities for obtaining construction materials for any building had to be approved by the WPB. Plans for construction of a new food store in the North End of town also had to be dropped when the WPB denied a priority rating . . .

Classes for adults were held two evenings a week in both schools. Courses in typing, shorthand, industrial arts, Spanish, sewing, nutrition, public speaking and ceramics were offered . . .

On Saturday evenings the young and not-so-young danced in the shopping center plaza to the music of victrola records . . .

Greenbelt more than fulfilled its quota in a nation-wide salvage drive by collecting 35 tons of scrap metal and rubber in September . . .

Winning candidates in the primary elections for the office of Governor of Maryland were incumbent Herbert O'Connor (Dem.) and Theodore McKeldin (Rep.) . . .

Frank Harper

Frank Harper, 41, of 9322 Fontana Dr., Lanham, Md., died suddenly on Tuesday, Nov. 7. His mother is Mrs. Carnie Harper, 8-P Laurel Hill Rd. He is also survived by his wife, Daphne, and one son, Frank Gail.

Burial took place last Tuesday. A memorial service will be held at the Greenbelt Community Church on Friday, November 10, at 8 p.m.

Rodger Twigg

Rodger Twigg, 17 year old nephew of Mrs. Fred Ford of 55-M Ridge Rd. and former resident of Greenbelt, was killed in a car accident near his home at Cumberland, Md., Sunday, Nov. 5. Rodger lived with his parents at 5-D Plateau Pl. for seven years and attended North End School. He was buried this week upon the arrival of his brother Stanley from Viet Nam, where he is an Acting Sergeant. Rodger was to graduate in June from Fort Hill High in Cumberland and was head photographer on the school paper and yearbook.

OPERATION SANTA CLAUS TO AID MENTAL PATIENTS

Imagine spending Christmas Day away from home, and no Christmas present to unwrap. Unless you care, Christmas will be bleak and lonely for many of the patients in the public mental hospitals. Many of them have been hospitalized for years and have no friends or relatives to remember them during the Holiday Season. Others have been discharged from the hospital and are living in foster homes. They, too, may be without friends or relatives. Without a gift, these people will spend Christmas alone, unwanted, forgotten. You can help make a happy Christmas for these people by contributing to the "Operation Santa Claus" of the Prince George's County Mental Health Association. Call 772-3655 or 552-2128 and ask what you can do for "Operation Santa Claus."

City Notes

Three interested groups have toured Greenbelt during the last week. On Wednesday, Nov. 1, Mrs. Benson's second and third graders from the North End School visited the city offices. They were followed the next day by a group of 45 students from the Friends World Institute, Long Island, N.Y., who came here to study Greenbelt's planning concepts and cooperatives. On Tuesday, Nov. 7, four faculty members of the new School of Architecture of the University of Maryland took a walking tour through the community. They were particularly interested in what effects, if any, the concept of town planning illustrated in Greenbelt might have had upon the quality of living and citizenship in the community.

The intersection of Hillside and Crescent Rds. along the corner by the Community Church has been widened this week by the Public Works Dept. The crew first removed a curb running along the outer edge of a valley gutter which paralleled the parking strip. Yesterday they poured a foundation for the newly widened pavement. The paving itself will be done later.

The city crew has also been at work this week on clearing trees and undergrowth along the south shore of the lake. So far they have extended clearing for a pathway approximately as far as the lakefront of homes along Lakeview Circle.

The city's curb-building project was concentrated last week in the area in the vicinity of Hillside and Laurel Hill. The last section of curbing there was poured yesterday.

About 100 more families than usual were delinquent this month in the paying of refuse collection bills. City officials believe that a large number of bills were for some reason never delivered. In cases where the bills were not received, penalties have been waived.

A gravel road connecting the Springhill Lake development with the Beltway Plaza shopping center has been in operation for some time. The road has been treated with a surface coating to reduce dust, stabilize the gravel, and delay the washboard effect.

A new set of plans for the new municipal service building with more detailed specifications was received this week. City officials estimate that the contract will not be advertised for bids until after the first of the year.

Hyattsville Hearing Set

On Counties' Legislation

Legislation being considered by planners and state legislators from Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties will be aired Nov. 16 at a public hearing in Hyattsville.

Members of each county's legislative delegations and the bi-county Maryland-National Capital Planning Commission have discussed proposed bills that would:

Provide strict controls on development in the Upper Rock Creek Watershed in Montgomery.

Allow an increase in the commission's bonding capacity that could affect park and recreation taxes.

Permit the counties' governing boards to require a financial contribution from developers for park funds.

Require these boards to review the zoning of parcels every five years to determine if it affects zoning decisions for neighborhood parcels.

Clarify the powers of arrest for the commission's 50 park police men.

Require other government agencies to submit plans for new facilities for recommendations by the commission's two county boards.

Legislation for the commission requires approval by both counties' legislative delegations.

50 Mile Speed Limit On Section of Beltway

A temporary 50-mile-per hour speed limit is now in effect on a 2.2 mile section of the Capital Beltway between Cherry Hill and Riggs Rd., where extensive construction work is in progress.

Although the reduced speed regulation will technically take effect immediately, George N. Lewis, jr., assistant chief engineer for traffic of the State Roads Commission, said it will be "early next week" before speed warning signs can be installed.

First Snowfall Prompts Heart Assoc. Warning

The first snowfall of the season can be a lovely sight, but it also poses a danger to some, your heart association warns. Each winter the first snowfall is followed by reports of men succumbing to heart attacks from overexertion due to snow shoveling.

The warning about overexertion is aimed at all men of middle age and beyond, but it particularly applies to those who have a history of heart disease. However, even those who have shown no symptoms of heart disease should proceed with caution in shoveling snow. They should take frequent rest periods, and quit when they become tired.

They should not adopt flimsy dress because, as their bodies heat up from work, they may become chilled, and invite trouble.

Nor should men overdress and add unnecessarily to the weight their bodies are moving around.

Snow shoveling can be beneficial to men in reasonably good health. Fresh air and exercise, properly paced, are good for people, but the trick is to know just how one's health score stands. If a man is overweight, and out-of-shape from lack of exercise, his best bet now is to get his doctor's word before the winter sets in for good.

Because of the rapid pace of development and road dedication in both Counties, the street guides will be recognizably incomplete in certain areas, the Commission noted.

Bill no. 16, providing automatic review by MNCPPC and reconsideration by the District Council of any rezoning which is not followed by construction within 5 years, P. G. Bill no. 18 concerned with payment of mandatory fees in lieu of dedication of open space areas, P. G. Bill no. 19 strengthening the Commission's Mandatory Referral authority with respect to public land acquisition and similar actions, and P. G. Bill no. 20 raising the Commission's debt limit.

Proposed legislature on Conditional Zoning, which would enable the county commissioners to impose restrictions on rezoning granted by them (as has been the intent of the covenants on the Chelstowne Village tract) will be discussed at a later date. Such legislation was proposed at the last session of the legislature, but failed to get enacted.

The second hearing will be concerned with 10 proposed bills affecting the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC). In both hearings, additional time will be allotted for proposals from individuals.

Additional hearings have been scheduled by the Delegation subcommittees. The tentative dates are as follows: Nov. 21 - Metropolitan Govt.; Nov. 28 and Dec. 12 - Law Enforcement; Nov. 29 and Dec. 13 - Health Education & Welfare; Dec. 7 - Metro Govt' and Dec. 19 - Bi-County Committee.

Copies of the proposed bills may be obtained at the Delegate Office, Calvert Mansion, 4811 Riverdale Rd., Riverdale, Maryland 20840 (Tel. 779-2170).

The Police Blotter

Two stolen cars were recovered after a Greenbelt police officer observed two cars speeding. He gave chase to one and sent out a lookout for the other. The first car turned out to have been stolen from Virginia. In it were found cigarettes taken from a Landover Hills gas station, a payphone from the Springhill Lake School, and athletic equipment from the school. As a result of the lookout, the other car was also recovered. Several juveniles from Landover Hills have been charged.

A car stolen from the parking lot at High Point High School was recovered when an officer on patrol found that it had been hot-wired. Two juvenile suspects were apprehended.

Greenbelt will be host this week to the Intelligence Subcommittee of the Council of Governments.

Lt. Zoellner has attended a 3-day session on arson investigation conducted at the University of Maryland. Two new officers have completed basic training with very good grades, and are now riding with senior officers for additional on-the-job training in the field.

New residents of Greenbelt are asked to note that it is unlawful to park cars on the wrong side of the street, that is, facing the flow of traffic.

County Recreation Program

The Prince Georges County Recreation Department will conduct an 18-week Supervised Gymnasium Program for all residents of the County throughout the months of November, December, January, February, and March.

Basketball, volleyball, badminton, and other Physical Fitness games will be offered at these facilities.

Many of the gymnasiums will be open on Sunday during the hours of 2 to 5 p.m. for youth activities and 6 to 9 p.m. for adult activities.

Also, during the Christmas vacation period, December 26, 27, 28, and 29, certain facilities will be open from 1 to 5 p.m.

Greenbelt Junior High and High Point are among the 38 schools offering the program. Call 834-6292 for information on which schools are open.

Talking Letters to GIs Offered by Red Cross

The Prince Georges County Chapter of the American Red Cross is making its "Voices from Home" program available again this year to families of military personnel in Viet Nam who are unable to get home for Christmas.

"Voices from Home" is a taped talking letter which is provided free by the Red Cross to residents of Prince Georges County.

A candid color photograph taken at the time of the recording will be included with the tape. Recordings and mailing costs are assumed by the Chapter.

Messages will be recorded by appointment only and residents are asked to call 927-4400 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The recording sessions will start Nov. 13 and continue until Nov. 30.

Now— U. S. Savings Bonds Pay More Interest

4.15% when held to maturity

Higher interest on the Bonds you already own, too!

U.S. Savings Bonds are a better way to save than ever

Because now all Series E and Series H Bonds bought after December 1, 1965, will earn the new, higher interest rate of 4.15% when held to maturity. That's only 7 years for Series E — 9 months quicker than before. All H Bond interest checks will be larger beginning in June 1966.

And your outstanding bonds will earn more, too, from now on. So,

new rate.
Ask about buying Bonds where you work or bank. For America's future. And yours.

"Today, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines."

"Today, above all, is a time for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the spirit that animated the Minutemen of Concord—who serve as a symbol of the Savings Bond program. For today, as at the founding of our nation, it is freedom which is again at stake. Not all of us are called upon to fight in the jungles of Vietnam, but while our men are there, in the front lines of a distant land, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines. We must all do our share—in every way we can—to support our men in Vietnam. One sure way is open to all Americans through the Savings Bond program."

If PEPCO's most recent personal property tax payment to Prince Georges County had been just $61,682.83 higher, it would have paid for the county's entire highways program this year.

On the other hand, if you imagine our latest Montgomery County tax payment as earmarked for running the county's health and recreation programs, there'd be $9,376.39 to spare.

We're not looking for any special credit just because we happen to be the largest single taxpayer in both Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

But it's nice to know that in the process of meeting all your electrical needs, we're also doing our share in helping make the community a better place in which to live.
