ROBERT MCGEE IS NAMED TO FILL COUNCIL VACANCY

by Al Skolnik

Robert H. McGee was named on Monday night to fill the city council vacancy caused by former Mayor Francis W. White's election to county council. Placed in nomination by councilman Joel Katz and elected on the first ballot by secret vote, McGee will serve until the regular September city council election. Also placed in nomination were the names of William Hoff (by council member Richard Pilski) and Charles Schwan (by council member Elizabeth Maffay). Other candidates who submitted resumes were Thomas White, Ronald Ott, George Loutsch, and John Bogumill.

McGee, a former resident of Springhill Lake, resides at 135-A Northway. A social science advisor (Youth Development) with the Office of Child Development at U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, McGee has for two years been a member of the city's Advisory Planning Board. In various capacities he has been active in the Labor Day Festival, local PTA's, SHL Civic Association and Men's Club, and GHI committees. McGee was formerly a native of Wisconsin. He and his wife, Bernina, have two daughters, Marcia, age 15, and Michelle, age 12.

Charter Controversy

Witnessing the event was former Mayor White, who soon found himself defending the action of county council in seeking State legislation strengthening the council's appointive powers with respect to the bicounty planning and sewage agencies (MNCPPC and WSSC). The city council had received a request from Kenneth C. Styers, president of the Prince Georges Civic Federation, for support of a petition drive upholding the appointive powers of the county executive (and the charter). Mrs. Maffay introduced a motion asking the General Assembly not to intervene in this local charter matter.

White, reading chapter and verse from the charter, said that the council's interpretation that it had appointive powers to the bi-county agencies stemmed from the policy-making powers the charter and State laws bestowed upon council in the areas of zoning and related matters. White said it was his view that the majority of council really felt that the appointive power was intended to be jointly exercised by the executive and the council. He did not see the requested State legislative action as being a threat to the charter since, in his opinion, this was the only charter item that needed corrective action at this time.

Boy Scouts Help Control Erosion

Boy Scouts from Seabrook and Beltsville assisted the City on Saturday, March 20, by planting nearly 1000 loblolly pine seedlings and a quantity of honeysuckle bushes throughout the City. Areas where planting took place include the vicinity of the warehouse, some drainage ditches leading to the lake, as well as in several other places. This program was aimed at control of erosion by planting trees on slopes and areas with no ground cover and was jointly sponsored by the County Beautification Committee and the Boy Scouts Project "Save Our American Resources." The trees were donated by the State of Maryland Nurseries, and the countywide program was coordinated by Blaine Griffith of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Administering the project in Greenbelt were Kirk Brasfield of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., and City Parks Superintendent Hans Jorgensen.

Mayor Edgar Smith moved that Mrs. Maffay's motion be tabled, and with the support of councilman Katz and McGee this was done. Several councilmen seemed to feel that they needed more time to judge the issues.

Parcels 1 and 2

After receiving a report from the city manager on last week's zoning hearing on parcels 1 and 2, council referred the matter of purchasing this land between the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and GHI properties to the Advisory Planning Board for its recommendations and comments. Parcel 15 (the land south of Greenbelt Lake adjacent to Capital Beltway) was similarly referred to the APB. Mrs. Maffay suggested that a public hearing be held on this subject sometime before the zoning hearings resume in May.

Anti-Burning Ordinance

The anti-burning ordinance was given final approval by unanimous vote. The new ordinance contains a strong prohibition against outdoor fires, stating that "it shall be unlawful to kindle or maintain . any bonfire or any other outdoor fire set for the purpose of burning wood, trash, debris, leaves, . . . or other material within the City of Greenbelt."

Four exceptions are provided: (1) fires in outdoor fireplaces, pits, grills, or stoves; (2) small warming fires built in a container, provided that such fires in public places receive permission of city manager; (3) other fires for which a permit has been issued by the city manager; provided such fires are not for the purpose of disposing of trash or clearing woodland; and (4) small controlled fires, such as the burning of matches, lighters, candles, torches, or tobacco. Any fire permitted under the first three exceptions will be required to utilize only clean burning types of fuel, such as firewood, charcoal, etc.

The ordinance provides for a fine not exceeding $100 for the first offense and a fine not exceeding $1,000 or 90 days imprisonment for each subsequent offense. Each separe fire ignited and/or each day of violation shall constitute a separate offense.

Anti-Littering Ordinance

In another anti-pollution matter, council agreed to place on its April 5 meeting agenda a comprehensive anti-littering ordinance. This ordinance had been introduced last October but was held up pending a review by the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board. Council felt that with April designated as clean-up month, it would be an appropriate time to reconsider the ordinance. This proposed anti-littering ordinance is based upon a model ordinance prepared by the Institute of Municipal Law Offices. It basically prohibits any type of littering within city limits - on the part of pedestrians, automobile drivers, passengers, and overloaded trucks. The ordinance also regulates the distribution of commercial and noncommercial handbills. In general, it prohibits placement of handbills, other than newspapers, on private property or on car windshields, or their distribution in public places except when handed directly to an individual willing to accept the same In addition, litter resulting from building and construction operations would be subject to a fine. A maximum $100 fine is set for each separate violation.

that ultimate reconsideration would take this other route into account. The perimeter road was needed, Redman, as the existing said Greenbelt streets would not be adequate to handle the traffic generated by parcels 1 and 2 when developed. William J. Avrutis, the people's zoning counsel, noted that there were no current plans to build the proposed perimeter road and questioned the idea of sending traffic along a road that does not exist.

Asks Restudy

Avrutis also suggested that since there are no foreseeable plans to provide water and sewer for the 230 acres, it would be appropriate to send the applications back to MNCPPC for further study. Council member John J. Garrity thought the sewage matter could be dealt with later at the time of issuance of building permits. He noted that the council's earlier decision not to cease zoning hearings because of the temporary sewage moratorium. County Chairman Winfield M. Kelly expressed annoyance that a Washington Sanitary Suburban Commission staff member was not present. He had asked for one to be present at each zoning hearing. Continuance Voted

C-2 Approved for SpringhillLakeLot

The county council, sitting as the District Council, unanimously approved on Friday, March 19, an application for rezoning 0.8529 acres in Springhill Lake from R-18 (apartment) to C-2 to eventually permit construction of a gasoline station. The zoning application (A-8147) had the approval of the city council of Greenbelt and the Prince Georges County Planning Board. Another request must now be made for a special exception to construct the gasoline station. At that time, the city told the District Council, it will recommend the establishment of certain conditions.

approved. These conditions include

- (1) that the C-2 use be limited to a gasoline filling station;
- (2) that the developer dedicate to the city approximately two-thirds of the .8529 acre tract for park use as a buffer strip; and

(3) that the gasoline station be developed in accordance with a site plan and architectural rendering prepared for the developer by the architects.

William J. Avrutis, the peoples' zoning counsel, noting the unhappy experience Greenbelt has had with respect to assurances received from developers, asked what assurances the city had that these conditions would be adhered to.

City manager James K. Giese replied that the city had a letter from the owners of Springhill Lake (A. H. Small, T. N. Lerner, and H. Kramer) signifying their willingness to comply with the conditions.

Countrywide Clean-up

Any Greenbelt resident having large bulky trash items he wishes to have removed free of charge may bring them to the Special Trash area behind the Greenbelt Fire Station from April 3 through April 10. The Prince Georges County Public Works will remove these items as part of an April Clean-Up Month Campaign being conducted throughout the County. Arrangements are also being made to remove abandoned or junked motor vehicles from private as well as public property. Additional information on the removal of junked cars can be obtained by calling 627-5450.

Greenbelt residents are reminded that they can bring special trash items at any time to the trash duced little testimony but a great many surprises, the chief one being the self-disqualification of two council members, former Mayor Francis W. White and Gladys Noon Spellman. As the result of the disqualifications and the absence of two other council members, Charles E. Callow and Francis B. Francois, the 11-member county council found itself eventually with a seemingly insufficient number of members to hold a hearing on a zoning matter involving

Furthermore, the city will seek the enforcement of the conditions it desires at the time a preliminary subdivision plan and site plan are

It turned out, however, that the witness was already in the hearing room and the council's legislative officer, Lionel Lockhart, ruled that the documents he had with him appeared to be in substantial compliance with the subpoena. The hearing thus started.

First Witness

The first and only witness was James Redman of MNCPPC, who attempted to clarify the relation of the Planning Commission's report to the perimeter road. Two alternate routes had been suggested for the perimeter road, and Redman explained that the MNC-PPC report he was presenting was based on the early route shown on the College Park-Greenbelt Master Plan adopted by the predecessor county commissioners on November 27, 1970.

The City of Greenbelt, however, favored an alternate route which would veer the road somewhat away from the GHI property lines. City Manager James K. Giese noted that the official MNCPPC resolution on parcels 1 and 2 made no reference to any particular perimeter road route. Redman agreed maps of the parcels, member Ronald Reeder questioned whether Francis White should disqualify himself since he was mayor of Greenbelt at the time that the city was making recommendations to the MNCPPC. County Attorney William Maloney said it was a matter for the individual councilman to decide and White disqualified himself on the grounds that his vote might affect the legal standing of the council's decision in an appeal.

Mrs. Spellman then disqualified herself also, on the grounds that she owns a home (for her daughter's use) on Northway in Greenbelt adjacent to the land being zoned.

With only 7 council members left to participate, and with the question unsettled of whether an absent member could read the transcript of the testimony and vote later, the council decided to recess and continue the meeting at a later date.

Several members from the audience suggested that the meeting be held at night and in Greenbelt. The council will consider the requests. bin behind the fire station for removal by city crews. City refuuse service customers may also call 474-8000 to arrange for regular special trash service.

A New Look at Parcels 1 & 2

The county council zoning hearing of last Friday on parcels 1 and 2, although aborted after a few minutes of testimony, brought out several aspects of the situation which strongly suggest that any rezoning of the land between the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and Ridge Road may be premature at this time.

The first point is that the location of the perimeter road which is intended to be the separation line between the proposed single-family zoning and townhouse zoning - is now more indefinite than ever with the removal of the Greenbelt senior high school from parcel 2. At one time its route was more or less inflexibly determined by the physical location of the new school. With this no longer the case, it would seem imprudent to make decisions on the zoning for this land without first getting a clearer fix on the future routing of the perimeter road. The County Commissioners, in adopting the College Park-Greenbelt Master Plan last November, made reference to this problem by stating that "a re-examination of A-258 (perimeter road) should be undertaken" after the school site is settled. It is even conceivable that the road itself would be eliminated should the city acquire all or part of the parcels.

The removal of the Greenbelt senior high school also introduces an element of uncertainty as to the disposition of the 72 acres now owned by the school board in parcels 1 and 2. At the very least, the situation would seem to call for holding in abeyance any zoning decision on the 158 privately-owned acres of parcels 1 and 2, until the 230 acres can be looked at as a whole. It is possible that zoning of the privately-owned parts of parcels 1 and 2 might be deemed a change in the character of the neighborhood which would irreversibly fix the pattern for the remaining 72 acres.

Finally, since there are no water and sewer plans for parcels 1 and 2 within the foreseeable future (within ten years), a delay in rezoning does not appear to be an unreasonable request. The time gained can be used by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commisison and the Board of Education to complete their reevaluation of the best land use for these parcels as requested by the city

Board Welcomes Dialogue To the Editor:

An Aquarist's Plea To the Editor: I read with great interest the letter headed "Dialogue Wanted" written by Messrs. Joseph P. Vella and Lekh R. Batra which appeared in last week's News Review. The desire of members to hear representatives of the GHI Board and its critics discuss the issues and answer questions from the membership is laudable and would serve a useful and constructive purpose. Therefore ,the GHI Board is pleased to accept the suggestion of Messrs. Vella and Batra and will participate in a meeting to be held for this purpose. Although the Board has not had an opportunity to formally consider this proposal, a poll of its members indicate that it will confirm this acceptance.

There must be many unresolved questions in the minds of members on the subjects mentioned in the letter and on other GHI activities

Those interested in ecology, environmental pollution and other concerns take heed.

Being an aquarium hobbyest, I am concerned. The approval was given by Congress in 1966 for the construction of the National Aquarium and Fisheries Center. Ten million dollars ($10,000,000) was approved. Now because of the rise in the cost of living, $4,000,000 more is needed. The Center will be an educational center, a research facility, national as well as international planned to be the world's finest. The administration in the higher-ups is trying to phase it out. The original center has been alloted 2/3's (two-thirds) of the allotment it usually gets for operating expenses!

As of now, I am lobbying as a hobbyist and would appreciate any help. I am not paid and am working on my own.

fect of which would be to permit bonds to be sold to finance an improvement within a special taxing district without the bond authorization ordinance being submitted to referendum for approval. Under the amendment, the referendum would be waived if payment of half the cost or more of principal and interest is expected to come from the levying of special assessments or tax upon property lying within a special taxing district.

City manager James Giese said that the primary reason for the change is the desire to undertake an improvement of the Greenbelt Center mall and to assess 'or to finance the improvement by the sale of bonds and to provide for the payment of bonds through an annual tax levy within a special taxing district to be created which would include the businesses in the commercial center.

In a related matter, council took final action in repealing the present ordinances relating to the establishment of a special taxing district for the Greenbelt commercial center. This was necessitated by a Prince Georges Circuit Court ruling, which declared the special taxing district as not valid. A new ordinance dealing with the matter is being prepared.

Two ordinances dealing with money matters were acted upon. One was a resolution transferring funds from contingency and other reserves to cover additional expenditures in the parks and playground, engineering, and insurance accounts. The other was first reading on an ordinance providing supplemental appropriation of $2,000 in the Capital Improvement Fund for the Youth Center addition.

Other Matters

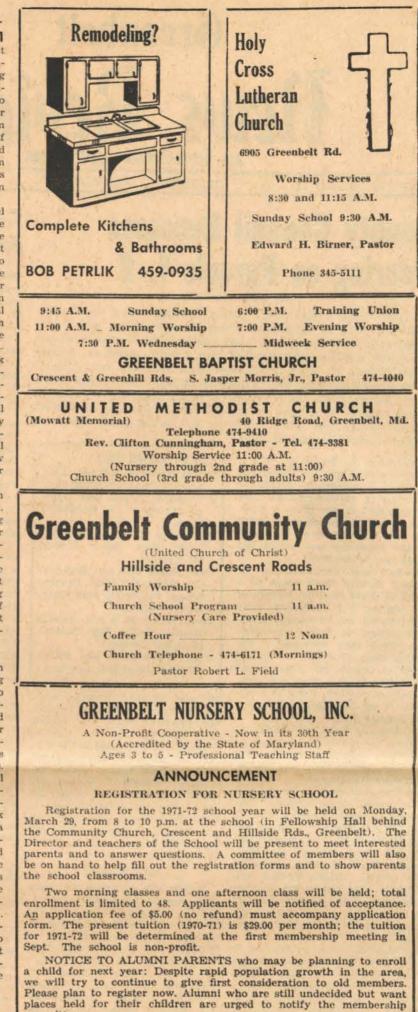

Upon being petitioned by North End PTA for a sidewalk along Ridge Road from Lastner Lane to the GHI property, council unanimously directed Giese to proceed with such construction . . . Mayor Edgar Smith named Dan Munster to the Community Relations Advisory Board, succeeding Mrs. Margaret Baldovin. His term will expire in February 1974 Council awarded International Harvester with a $7,555 bid for a truck chassis with utility body, and a 38-foot hydraulically operated aerial ladder. This was the low bid among five. The bid exceeds the reserve of $5,500 set aside for this item, and it is expected that the difference will be taken from replacement fund surplus monies . Council appropriated $375 for participation in the State mosquito control program . . . Council went on record in favor of State legislation that would liberalize the State retirement program.

Council Opposes College Park Annexation Plan

Mayor Edgar Smith, speaking on behalf of city council, made clear the city's opposition to College Park plans for anexing a large part of the Agricultural Research Center at the March 16 public hearing. He expressed regrets for the action in light of the harmonious relations that had developed between the two cities on a number of subjects such as the Master Plan, joint operation of sanitary landfill, and State legislative program.

"However," Smith said, "the City of Greenbelt is strongly opposed to any annexation by the City of College Park to the north of the Greenbelt city limits." He viewed the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad as a natural barrier between the two cities' areas of interest.

He said that the city opposes any annexation east of the B & O railroad primarily because the area "if it is oriented to any municipality, is most closely related to the city of Greenbelt . . . The twenty-seven families living on government property utilize the Beltsville post office and principally utilize Edmonston Road and Powder Mill road to go places. These roads go to Greenbelt and Beltsville — not College Park."

College Park officcials have indicated that they want the land because it expects the Federal Government to be relinquishing part if not all of the Agricultural Research Center at some future date and the city desires some control over how the land will be developed.

Smith stated his belief that past actions by the Center have indicated that it will remain government property. He also saw no benefits to College Park in the annexation.

The hearing was attended by about 200 persons; most of the speakers objected to the annexation plan. County Councilman Francis White of Greenbelt read a letter from county chairman Winfield Kelly opposing the annexation because if the land were given up, it would first be offered to the county, and in that case College Park would be preempting the county's traditional right to such land.

Despite the opposition, the majority of the College Park council appears ready to approve the annexation plan, according to a report in the Prince George's Sentinel. The College Park council will vote on the matter on April 13.

Anti-Litter Ordinance

Copies of the city's proposed litter control ordinance are available at the City Police desk, which is open twenty-four hours a day. The ordinance will be discussed at the next PRAB meeting, Wednesday, March 31, 8 p.m., in the Municipal Building. The meeting will be open to the public.
