ROOSEVELT TREATED ROUGHLY

School Board Reverses Decisions On Open Enrollment, Boundaries

by Elaine and Al Skolnik

A series of last-minute decisions by the majority of the Prince Georges County Board of Education succeeded in undermining the transfer policy and truncating the boundaries of the new Eleanor Roosevelt senior high school in a stormy session on Thursday, February 26. Succumbing to public sentiments expressed the previous night at a public hearing, the school board hastily approved a recommendation of the school board staff that 114 Bowie area students scheduled to attend DuVal and Largo senior high schools would be allowed to remain at Bowie senior high school. At the same time, 203 students from the Seabrook area were withdrawn from the Roosevelt pupil attendance area and allowed to continue at DuVal Senior high school.

As a result of this decision, the Bowie school will be 570 students over its capacity and the DuVal school 142 under. To help relieve the overcrowding in Bowie, the Superintendent of Schools was directed to spend additional sums to accommodate the Bowie school system, which may include introduction of the middle school concept.

Back to Open Enrollment

In addition, the school board voted 5-3 (with board members Jesse Warr, Lesley Kreimer, and Maureen Steinecke opposed) to revise its transfer policy so that the 400 additional spaces reserved at Roosevelt for such transfers could be filled by students on a first-come, first-served basis without meeting any criteria except the one that their transfer will not tip racial balances, at least for the first year. The board had on May 26, 1975, adopted a policy that no new school will open below 10 percent or above 50 percent black, and that no new school will be permitted to tip other schools beyond these percentages.

This decision was interpreted as reintroducing the concept of open enrollment, a policy which the city of Greenbelt had strongly opposed because of the danger of tipping of racial balances, the additional transportation costs, and the uncertainty produced in school planning and programming.

New Roosevelt Boundaries

With the removal of 203 students from the Roosevelt boundary area, the school is now left with 655 tenth and eleventh grade students from fixed boundaries. Kreimer, Steinecke, and Warr objected to this decision mainly on the grounds that it could be difficult to guarantee a full instructional program for students attending the comprehensive school, especially since one would not know until the last minute how many transfers (of the 400) would materialize. Hassel said later that "the goal for Roosevelt is a full program for tenth and eleventh graders." (Twelfth graders will be allowed to graduate at their present schools.)

Steinecke observed that State board policy states that students should have assurance of stability and not be subject to the threat of shifts each year. She and Kreimer felt that with the small enrollment at Roosevelt, boundary changes would have to be made each year (instead of one time), thus undermining the stability of neighborhoods. They argued fruitlessly for a compromise that would exclude those presently enrolled at DuVal and assign incoming tenth graders to Roosevelt.

But the plebiscite approach prevailed as a stream of students from DuVal as well as some parents and PTA representatives spoke against shifting. "If New Carrollton students can remain at Largo, and Bowie students at Bowie, why can't we stay at DuVal?" was the theme. One parent's plaint was "School spirit will suffer and kids will be demoralized and not do so well scholastically." In an obvious retort to Bowie parents who objected to sending their children to an inferior school, one DuVal area parent proclaimed that she had two sons as college graduates "who got their excellent math and science background at DuVal, not Bowie."

New Transfer Policy

The move toward open enrollment was made upon Kathleen Barker's motion after receiving an opinion from school board attorney Paul Nussbaum that the 400 students desiring to transfer to Roosevelt need not necessarily meet the criteria of the board's transfer policy adopted on November 10, 1970. This policy had been set up to avoid transfers by white students wishing to avoid desegregation plans by requiring each student to justify his transfer in terms of individual academic needs, health, economic hardship, or personal adjustment.

Nussbaum was responding to an inquiry by board chairman Sue Mills who felt there were ambiguities in the board resolution of February 12, particularly resolve 3 - "that 400 spaces at Eleanor Roosevelt be reserved for students wishing to transfer in, in accordance with present board policy on transfers." Nussbaum said that one could possibly interpret these 400 students as having already transferred.

As the maker of the above resolution that called for the 400 transfers, Steinecke took great exception to this interpretation. She said the intent of her motion was to apply the present transfer policy which has been and still is in operation since November 1970. She said that in all the years she had attended the school board she had never heard of this concept of "already transferred." She also referred to the Feb. 12 minutes which quoted Barker as acknowledging that the 400 students would be assigned in accordance with present board policy on transfers.

Steinecke said she was "terrified" that this entering wedge of open enrollment would land the board back in the courts. Superintendent Carl Hassel said that his staff would monitor this operation very carefully and would cease transfers when they reached the point of tipping racial balances at any school.

Bowie Preferential Treatment?

Warr charged that the Bowie community was receiving preferential treatment. Hassel had asked the board to authorize him to proceed to develop the "most educationally sound" plan for housing the Bowie students within the present boundaries of Bowie high school. Warr contended that Hassel had yielded to political influences.

Warr said that the cost to the county of renovating Bowie school would range from $30,000 to $50,000, "but nothing is being said about where the money is coming from. We are strapped financially, there are other communities talking about stability, and we contravene board policy by allowing Bowie to have 14 temporaries and to go 500 students overcapacity. At the same time, we paid $11 million for Roosevelt and seem to be heading toward the inane position of

Staff Gets Cracking On New High School

With the concept of the Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High School pinned down as a comprehensive school with a technical component, G. James Gholson, assistant superintendent of the county's northern area school system, set the wheels in motion for the opening of the school in September 1976.

In a 4½-hour work session on February 25, some 50 department heads and staff members discussed such matters as school philosophy, goals, programs, curriculum, staff, transportation organization and management problems and school/community involvement. Specific tasks were assigned and the group will meet again next week.

Forum on Use of Schools

An open forum to discuss after-school use of public school buildings will be held on Monday, March 8, 7:30 p.m. at the M-NC-PPC Regional Office Building, 6600 Kenilworth Ave. This is one of a series of forums on this topic being held throughout the county. For information call 627-4800, ext. 203 or 277-2200, ext. 336.

Parent's Forum

The next meeting of the Greenbelt Parent Discussion Group will be held Wed., March 10 from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at the Greenbelt Baptist Church. The discussion topic will be a continuation of "The Multiple Roles of Today's Mother." Refreshments are served and babysitting is provided.

leaving it half-vacant. We should be looking at the whole county," he concluded.

Following this up, Kreimer and Steinecke moved that the superintendent be directed to come back to the board with his cost recommendations for Bowie. They pointed out that money for the Bowie plan was not in the school budget. But Norman Saunders, with the support of the 5-member majority, voted to give the superintendent the latitude to handle the Bowie problem because of his "expertise."

After the meeting, Steinecke pointed out the inconsistency: "This board will not let the superintendent transfer $5,000 of funds for any project, yet now they are authorizing up to a ¼ million dollars for a Bowie plan without knowing what the costs will be."

Transportation Problems

The superintendent acknowledged that the Roosevelt school, especially the technological portion, will cause problems for the transportation department, because its boundaries will be contiguous with those of the county. He said that students should be prepared to attend Roosevelt on a 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. schedule because of the need for existing buses to make additional trips. Students from non-fixed boundaries transferring to the comprehensive component of the new school are generally not entitled to transportation.

Performance of School Board

Well, it blew it. The Prince Georges County Board of Education was just gaining some stature as a responsible body able to resolve differences in a reasonable, mature, and far-sighted way. Then at last Thursday's (February 26) meeting, it reverted to form, allowed parochial interests to predominate over the county interest in high quality education, and proceeded to upset the previous arrangements for the Eleanor Roosevelt senior high school and related matters.

First, it reduced the number of students attending the 2,360-capacity Roosevelt school from fixed boundaries from 858 to 655.

Second, it adopted what is in effect an open enrollment policy. Four hundred additional students will be allowed to transfer to Roosevelt from anywhere in the county on a first-come, first-served basis with no restrictions, except that bus transportation will generally not be provided. Such transfers would not be permitted to tip racial balances in any school, but only for the first year.

Third, it directed that all Bowie students be retained within the boundaries of the Bowie senior high school, which would then be 570 students over capacity. To meet this overcrowding, the superintendent was given carte blanche authority to spend up to $250,000 needed to accommodate these students.

The one thing unchanged was the concept of Eleanor Roosevelt as a comprehensive school with a technical component. And, of course, the assignment of all Greenbelt area students (incoming 10th and 11th graders) to the new school.

No one can fully predict what the consequences of these actions will be, but the dangers are many. Limiting the number of students attending Roosevelt may inhibit the staff from offering a full instructional program to students. Open enrollment, by eventually tipping racial balances, could lead to court intervention that may subject all areas in the county to inspection, including Bowie with its 11% black school ratio. Preferential expenditures of funds to accommodate Bowie's overcrowded schools may result in the short-changing of funds for other critical parts of the county.

Whenever a new school is opened, there are always some transitory inconveniences as students are shifted from one attendance area to another. But this is accepted as the price to be paid for adding a modern plant to the system that will help relieve overcrowded conditions in other schools. By bowing to provincial interests, the school board has managed to perpetuate overcrowded schools and impair quality education while still having to wrestle with the same problem again next school year.

In the meantime, the maneuverings and intrigue that began last October with respect to the Roosevelt school have succeeded in producing the kind of adverse conditions that will make an orderly opening of Roosevelt in September 1976 a very difficult thing. We sympathize with the school board staff who will now have to set about arranging classes, ordering supplies, and assigning instructors for a student body of unknown size and composition.

Trophies will be awarded for the largest kite, smallest kite, highest flying kite, youngest flyer, oldest flyer, most unusual kite, prettiest kite and a family speed race. All kites must fly to qualify for trophies. Call 474-6878 for further details.

Garden Club Meets

Garden Club members who ordered fertilizer and lime may pick up their materials at the Municipal Warehouse adjacent to the lake-park on Fri., March 5, from 4 to 6 p.m. and on Sat., March 6, from 8 to 10 a.m. There has been a slight increase in the quoted cost of lime.

On Tues., March 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Greenbelt Library there will be a presentation of "Grow It" (concerning vegetable and fruit production, soil preparation, weed and insect control). This is a repeat of the January program, and should be helpful to new gardeners.

Little League Registration

Registration for the Greenbelt Little League will be held Sat., March 6 and Sat., March 13 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Greenbelt Youth Center. Boys and girls aged eight to 12 may register. A copy of the applicant's birth certificate or other proof of age is required.

YOUR Annual Ambulance Club Drive will start in April

Your most recently purchased ambulance, which was bought in March of 1975, will be on display in the Center Friday, March 12, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday, March 13, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

As the average life of an ambulance is three years, we are presently replacing the ambulance purchased in 1970 with one similar to that being displayed. The new ambulance will be equipped with radio capabilities for communications between the ambulance and the hospital. It is also designed so necessary life-saving functions can be conducted while enroute to the hospital.

We are asking for an increase this year from $3.65 to $5.00 to provide you with adequate ambulance service for the next year. This $5.00 entitles you to membership in the Ambulance Club. Due to the increased costs we find it necessary to charge non-members for ambulance service.

A supplemental flyer will be issued by this Department to the citizens to explain the financial requirements needed.

Compliments to Greenbelt To the Editor:

If compliments are in order for Greenbelt's efforts on behalf of the opening of the Eleanor Roosevelt High School, I welcome the opportunity to compliment all the citizens who participated on the Greenbelt Citizens Committee and the city government for its strong and effective actions.

The facts of the Board of Education's decision are reported comprehensively in this issue. As chairperson of the committee, I would like to offer a review of the results.

1. The original concern of Greenbelt parents, that our students would be included in the school boundaries, is settled to our satisfaction.

2. Our second concern, that decisions not be delayed so long that the school would not be able to open in September, is also settled. The staff of the Board of Education is hard at work on plans for opening the school in September.

3. Our desire was that the school be opened as a comprehensive high school, as it was designed. The school will open as a comprehensive/technical school. We have been told that "technical" will be defined as a scientifically oriented/mathematics oriented curriculum and that this program will be phased into the school.

4. We also worked hard for fixed boundaries around the entire school in opposition to the goal of some board members that the entire student body of the school be drawn by open enrollment. Boundaries are fixed to include Greenbelt and nearby locations. However, 400 students will be permitted to enroll from any part of the county into the comprehensive portion of the school without having to meet present school board policy on transfers. In the technical portion, there is space for about 700 students from any part of the county who meet the enrollment requirements (these are not yet formulated).

The purposes for which the Greenbelt Citizens Committee for the Eleanor Roosevelt High School was organized are probably accomplished at this point. But this interested and concerned group of citizens can logically become the guardians of Greenbelt's concept of a quality educational experience for our children and all those who will attend the school.

During the past week, several citizens participated with the staff of the Board of Education in the initial planning for the opening of the school. Parents gave their views on the concerns of the community in a school/community committee session. Plans will be made for a community meeting with the principal (not yet appointed) and for a tour through the school and for the forming of parents into a Parents Advisory Council. The background and insights we Greenbelt parents have gained in these past months can be and will be put to constructive uses.

Compliments again to the spirit of Greenbelt as we move toward the opening of the Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

Police Blotter

Residents in the area of Hillside Road are warned to take extra precautions following five attempted breaking and enterings in the area during the week. In all the incidents, casement windows were either broken or forced open at about midnight on various nights. The Department has taken steps to apprehend the perpetrator. Citizens are cautioned to keep their doors locked when at home as well as when they are away.

A 20 year old resident of Ridge Road, while "hotrodding" on a city street, observed a patrolling officer, and while attempting to reduce speed, lost control and struck two parked autos. The operator was charged.

Four acts of vandalism were reported, two of which were closed with the apprehension of the juveniles involved. Parents will be making restitution in both cases.

A family on Westway Road awakened during the night hours, found a burglar in their apartment. The suspect fled, eluding police who searched the area. The resident had failed to lock the patio door.

One breaking and entering in the University Square Apartments did not result in any loss, but the responsible party left five chickens and a pig in the resident's apartment. No motive has been developed for this somewhat peculiar incident.

GREENBELT DAY

AT HOLY CROSS LUTHERAN CHURCH

SUNDAY MARCH 7

We've been a part of Greenbelt for many years now . . . but there are many of you that we've never had the pleasure of welcoming to our congregation.

So, in order to focus on one day, when more than the usual number of your neighbors will be there, we've picked Sunday, March 7, for two special services - especially to share our love for our Lord with you. We'd love to meet you there!

These Greenbelt Neighbors invite you to join them in worship . . .
