A Tale of Old Greenbelt

Historians and engineering buffs got a treat at the November 15 city council meeting when city manager James K. Giese submitted a report on the history of street curbing in old Greenbelt. Original Greenbelt streets were constructed as water bound macadam streets with a rural cross section . For the uninitiated, a road having a rural cross section simply means that it lacks curbs and gutters and that road drainage is into adjacent roadside ditches. Such a street design was common in the 1930's and was a relatively inexpensive method of street construction.

In a few locations, curbs and gutters were installed adjacent to streets in the original construction. The largest section of such curbing was along the shopping center side of Centerway. All such curbing was flat faced, similar to what Greenbelt is now installing.

Over the years, the city has been gradually installing curbs and gutters along the original streets. At this time, 47 percent of the street edging in original Greenbelt has been lined with curbs and gutters. In the frame housing section of Greenbelt, 53 percent of the street edging has curbing.

Such curbs and gutters were installed for many reasons. Because of inadequate parking facilities in the original Greenbelt design, the shoulders of nearly all of the original streets were enlarged and extended so that additional parking spaces could be provided. Without curbs and gutters, there is a continuing problem of vehicles being parked off paved shoulders onto grass areas. Depressions develop that become mud holes and grass is destroyed.

In addition, the original drainage system has created some problems, since storm sewers and swales followed natural contours and not property lines. Many roadside swales that run through the yards

Annual Interfaith Service

"Thanksgiving and the Family" will be the theme of the 26th Annual Interfaith Thanksgiving Day Service, sponsored by four religious organizations in Greenbelt. It will be held at St. Hugh's Catholic Church, 135 Crescent, on Thurs.,

Nov. 25 at 10:30 a.m.

The Rev. Msgr, William F. O'Donnell, host pastor, will offer words of welcome. The Rev. Clifton D. Cunningham, of Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church, will give the Thanksgiving sermon, "A Time of Thanksgiving." The Revs. Harry and Sherry Taylor of the Community Church and Rabbi Kenneth Berger of Mishkan Torah will participate in the Thanksgiving Service.

Special music in keeping with the spirit of Thanksgiving will be sung by 25 members of the joint choirs of the churches under the direction of Jean Cook. Organist is Mildred Kern. Persons of all faiths are invited to attend. A free-will offering will be given for world hunger.

of homes have been filled in and otherwise obstructed in a number of instances.

The report had been prepared in response to a question raised by Gordon Allen as to whether the city's current curb and gutter program was in accord with the esthetic design of original Greenbelt.

Giese saw no historical significance in the original street design. He noted that in Greendale, Wisconsin (Greenbelt's sister city) curbs and gutters were used to a greater extent than was the case in Greenbelt and all curbing was of the flat-face, step-down design that Greenbelt has been using.

Giese concluded that the program of improving street shoulders and installing curbs and gutters has been well received to date and he recommended that it be continued. The council concurred.

Preparing Parcels Postmaster Emory A. Harman of-

Postmaster Emory A. Harman offers the following tips on how to prepare Christmas parcels for mailing:

A single item in a package should be cushioned with shredded paper, excelsior, compressed tissue paper, cloth, or expanded plastic foam. If two or more items are mailed in the same carton or box, cushioning material should protect all items from contact with others. Each item should have its own individual inner carton.

Fiberboard containers should be about the size of the gift to minimize shaking and breaking in transit. Fiberboard should have "pound test" of at least 175. This is usually shown in the box maker's certificate on the bottom of the box.

Fragile articles should be individually cushioned, and all four sides of the container should be padded with cushioning material. Package should be marked - FRA-GILE. Tape used to close containers should be reinforced and should cover and firmly secure all flaps.

When paper must be used for the outer wrapping, it should be at least equal in quality and strength to the kraft stock used for grocery bags. Paper wrappers are not necessary if the box itself is an adequate shipping container.

Proper packaging is particularly important for books and records. Because of their weight, books should be cushioned so they cannot shift within the box. No more than 25 lbs, of books should be shipped in one package. Long-playing records should be placed in a carton which is at least one-half an inch thick.

Each package should contain the name and address of the person to whom it is being mailed inside the package as well as outside. Be sure to include zip codes. Be sure to put a return address on the package. Put only one mailing address on the outside of the parcel and do not address on more than one side.

Greenbelt Clergy Seeks Stronger Ties Among Areas

by Elaine Skolnik
The Greenbelt Clergy, an organsation of religious leaders, last ization of religious leaders, last week called on the city, housing and apartment developments, and civic and service organizations to join them in an effort "to make Greenbelt a better community for all residents." At a luncheon hosted by the Greenbelt Clergy at the Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church on November 17, attention was directed to the need for facilitating "better communication among people in Greenbelt."

Providing citizens with a continuous flow of news of the city, its services, agencies, and organizations was considered a major ingredient in giving residents, no matter where they lived, a sense of belonging as well as stimulating interest and involvement in their community.

The Greenbelt Clergy saw as a major challenge the problem of how to reach Greenbelt apartment and condominium dwellers who are separated from the core of the city.

News Review Role

Wider circulation of the Greenbelt News Review was viewed as the best means to achieve this goal. The newspaper is now delivered door-to-door within the core of Greenbelt to all homeowners and apartment dwellers (with the exception of Charlestowne Village North where papers are left in the lobby). At Springhill Lake apartments (3,000 units), a few newspapers are left at each apartment building and extra copies at the SHL community house and the SHL pharmacy. Greenbriar picks up about 300 newspapers each week and handles its own delivery. In all, 5,000 issues are circulated each

Representatives of the News Review thought it would be possible to increase somewhat the number of papers available for distribution although there are limits to what the press can run off. The major problem, however, is the setting up of a door-to-door delivery system for apartment-type buildings, with its attendant additional costs and responsibilities which the News Review is not able to handle.

The News Review, 39 years in existence, is a non-profit, independent newspaper staffed by volunteers and dependent for income solely upon advertising. It would have to rely heavily on apartment management or on volunteers in the affected areas to take on the responsibility for a door-to-door delivery system.

Decisions

It was decided that representatives of the News Review and apartment and condominium develcements would meet to explore various ways of increasing the circulation of the newspaper. To be considered, for example, is the formation of committees at each development to oversee distribution.

The Greenbelt Clergy expects to hold another meeting with the group in January to discuss the mechanics of publishing and distributing a welcome kit for new Greenbelters. Such a kit would talude a brochure with pertinent information about the city's history, services, agencies, organizations, churches and synagogue as well as telephone numbers of the Police, Fire Dept., CARES, etc.

Members of the Greenbelt Clergy are Pastor Edward Birner, Holy Cross Lutheran Church; Msgr. William F. O'Donnell, St. Hugh's Catholic Church; Rabbi Kenneth Berger, Mishkan Torah

State Highway Officials Still Oppose METRO ARS Route

The Maryland Department of Transportation once again has expressed its opposition to the modified ARS (Adopted Regional System) alignment for the Greenbelt "E" Metro route. This is the alignment that would parallel the B&O railroad tracks through College Park and terminate near Greenbelt Road and the Springhill Lake industrial tract.

Final GHI Budget

The final precise budget figures for 1977 have been announced by Greenblt Homes, Inc. The total budget, including amortization payments, comes to $3,908,730. Of this amount, $3,461,012 will be charged to members, the balance coming from reserves and other revenue items such as sales fees and interest on investments. This amount represents an increase of $267,135 over the current (1976) budget.

The increase in members charges, effective January 1, 1977, comes to 8.4% on the average. For the brick homes, the average increase is 7.5%; for the frame homes, 9.2%. There may be variations for individual homeowners.

Synagogue; the Rev. Sherry Taylor and Rev. Harry Taylor, Greenbelt Community Church; Pastor Dallas Pulliam, Greenbelt Baptist Church and the Rev. Clifton Cunningham, Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church. The luncheon was prepared and served by the women of the Methodist Church.

In a letter of October 29, 1976 to county officals, Secretary of Transportation Harry R. Hughes said the agency's opposition is based on duplication of existing commuter rail service, poor service to the University of Maryland, and a poorly located Prince George's Plaza station.

All of these shortcomings, he said, would be overcome by the transportation benefits to be derived from an I-95 alignment that would traverse the western part of the University of Maryland and terminate near the I-495 and I-95 intersection.

Furthermore, Hughes said, the opportunity seems to exist to actually accelerate the implementation of an I-95 alignment since the 'E" route has been exempted from further alternative studies by the Federal government, Hughes stated that the urgent need for transit in the "E" route corridor has persuaded Federal authorities to assist in accelerating implementation of this route.

The Maryland Department of Transportation said that it has reserved $50 million of interstate transfer funds to finance the incremental cost associated with an "E" route alignment terminating at I-95 and is also prepared to accelerate its implementation.

Therefore, Hughes said, the Department is now prepared to support the immediate initiation of General Plans for an "E" route alignment to an I-95 terminal. To this end, the Department is preparer to approve a partial allocation from credits earned at the Addison Road Station toward 50 percent of the cost of General Plans (previously it wanted 100%) and the remainder of the credits applied to mutually acceptable METRO projects. The balance of General Plan costs would be borne by the State under its Metrorail program.

However, Hughes recognized that the county may still wish to pursue the completion of the modified ARS General Plans. He hoped that the General Plans for both alignments could be completed concurrently so that all parties could judge the relative merits of each alignment.

College Park Upset

In the meantime, College Park citizens registered their displeasure with a proposed METRO rapid transit station in the city's Calvert Road area, which would be part of the modified ARS plan. About 6 to 12 structures would have to be demolished for this station. Also upsetting was a proposal for a 40-foot high noise-screening embankment. About 300 citizens turned out at a public hearing on November 11 to protest.

Farmland Preservation To the Editor:

A group of concerned people in Howard County, which lies northwest of Laurel, says there will be no more farmland in that county by the year 2000 if development continues the way it is going now.

Some concerned members of the Montgomery county council have introduced a bill for establishing Agricultural Districts in that county that would limit land use in those districts to agricultural and related uses.

Prince Georges county is rapidly losing its best agricultural land to developers, or to speculators who hope to sell it to developers. Although most of our vacant land is assessed for tax purposes as farmland, a would-be-farmer can't buy it at that price. Market price is determnied largely by the number of dwelling units that could be built on that land.

Some concerned members of our State legislature have introduced a farmland preservation bill in Annapolis the last two years. would have each county establish Agricultural Districts, with the State paying the landowners the difference between the land's assessed value and market value. The bill hasn't passed, largely because there has not been agreement on where to get the money for the program.

A version of this bill will be introduced again in the 1977 legislature. One of its active supporters is delegate Gerard F. Devlin, who represents us in the 24th District. He'll be in Greenbelt next Tuesday night, November 30, to discuss the proposal. The meeting will take place at 8 p.m. in the Greenbelt library.

The program is sponsored by the Sierra Club. All concerned citizens are urged to attend and participate. Jim Cassels

IF YOU SMELL GAS, CALL US AT 750-1000

Natural gas is odorless in its natural state. We add a disagreeable smell as a means of alerting people in case any gas should escape.

Gas leaks may occur from faulty appliances, loose connections, service lines inside or outside your home, or from gas mains. Such leaks can be dangerous and should be dealt with promptly by experts.

If you ever smell gas-even if you do not use it in your own home -take these precautions promptly:

L. Call Washington Gas at 750-

2. If the odor is very strong and you are indoors, open windows and doors to ventilate. Go outside. Call us from a neighbor's house.

3. Do not turn any electrical switches on or off.

4. Do not light matches, smoke cigarettes or create any source of combustion.

However slim the chances of danger, it doesn't pay to take needless risks. At the first sniff of gas,

Can you afford not to examine our medical/ surgical coverage closely?

An injury or illness usually means doctors' bills. To help meet these costs, and because people have different kinds of health care needs, Blue Shield of Maryland offers several levels of medical/surgical coverage. There's Plan B, with benefits up to $340 depending on the surgical procedure. Plan "i", with benefits up to $800 depending on the surgical procedure. And for groups, there's Plan C, offering coverage in full (on a usual and customary basis) for most surgical services. Blue Shield of Maryland provides benefits for hundreds, even thousands of medical/ surgical services under any of these plans. Benefits to help meet the cost of a doctor's services received in a hospital, or surgical care in a doctor's office or hospital; as well as maternity care, consultations, emergency X-ray services, radiation therapy, anesthesia, etc. In fact, Blue Shield covers more than three million medical/surgical services received by its members each year. It's another way we return 90% of your subscription dollar. It's a percentage that's unique among health care companies. So you can enjoy the kind of medical/surgical coverage you want at the lowest possible cost. When it comes to health care benefits, can you afford less than a 90% return on your dollar?
