Greenbelt Candidates on Tuesday's Ballot

by James O'Sullivan

A hotly contested school board race, competing slates for the Maryland Senate and House seats on the Democratic side, and the presence of ten Greenbelt residents on the ballot, are expected to generate a large voter turnout in next Tuesday's primary elec-

The polls will be open on Tuesday, September 12, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. This year Greenbelt residents will be voting in four polling places: Center school (third precinct); North End School (sixth precinct); Springhill Lake School (eighth precinct); and Roosevelt High School (thirteenth precinct). The newly organized thirteenth precinct is made up of the communities of Greenbriar, Windsor Green, Chelsea Woods, Brae Brook Village, Goddard Space Village, and Hunting Ridge.

Democratic party registration in these four precincts totals 6,294. Republican party members number 1,918. Some 1,249 registered voters who declined party affiliation will be voting only for School Board candidates in that non-partisan primary. Democrats and Republicans, on the other hand, will select party candidates for United States Congress, Governor, Attorney General, State Senator, State Delegate, County Executive, County Council, Sheriff, and State Central Committee, as well as the School Board.

School Board Race

The race which has generated the most intense interest in Greenbelt is the non-partisan contest for the Second District seat on the Prince Georges County School Board between incumbent Lesley Kreimer, and challengers Muriel Weidenfeld and John Brunner.

Kreimer, a resident of Greenbelt's newest residential development, Windsor Green, was first elected to the School Board in 1973 with the help of strong support from Greenbelt. A former teacher and counselor in the county school system, she is currently vice-president of the Metropolitan Area Boards of Education.

Weidenfeld has lived in Greenbelt for 13 years and has actively participated in civic and educational organizations, and financial institutions. She has conducted a strong door-to-door campaign.

Brunner is a resident of neighboring Westchester Park and is a municipal administrator for the city of New Carrollton.

Clear differences of opinion on the issues have not emerged in the contest and the race will probably be decided on the basis of personal loyalties, the candidate's image, and overall campaign effect-

Voters may cast their ballots for two of the three candidates. The two top vote-getters in this primary will then face-off in the November general election for the single Second District seat on the Board.

24th Legislative District

Another tough contest is the Democratic primary battle between two rival slates of candidates for the one Senate, and three House of Delegate seats from the 24th Legislative District of the Maryland General Assembly.

Senator Edward T. Conroy, of Bowie, is running for re-election to the Senate. Joining Conroy on the "Democrats '78" slate and running for the three seats in the House of Delegates are F. Anthony McCarthy, of Greenbelt, Gerard Devlin of Bowie, Charles Ryan of Bowie. Devlin, currently a member of the House, was first elected in 1974. Ryan was appointed in June to fill the vacant seat left by the resignation of David Ross, and is running for election to the House for the first time. McCarthy is a former Assistant States Attorney.

The opposing slate of candidates is made up of Leo Green for State Senate and Richard Pilski and Joan Pitkin for the House of Delegates. Green, a Bowie resident, is currently a member of the House of Delegates and is giving up his seat there to challenge Conroy. Pilski, the Mayor of Greenbelt, ran for the Delegate seat in 1974. Joan Pitkin is a resident of Bowie and has been active in civic, educational, and cultural organizations in that town.

The presence of a Greenbelt candidate on each slate has generated great local interest in this race.

Other Greenbelt Candidates

Thomas X. White and Lloyd E. James, Jr. are among four candidates seeking the two slots on the County Democratic Central Committee from the 24th District. White is currently a member of the Greenbelt City Council. White has been a member of the Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., and he is the Vice-President of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club. James, a resident of Greenbelt, is a systems analyst.

John A. Lally, senior assistant to the County Executive, is running for an at-large seat on the County Council in the Democratic primary. John Lee Ball, Jr. is running as a Democrat for County Executive against the incumbent Winfield Kelly, Jr. Francis A. Porter is seeking the Lt. Governor's slot in the Republican primary. Alan Virta is running unapposed in the Republican primary for the House of Delegates. All three are from Greenbelt.

Statewide

At the State level, the Democratic ticket of Acting Governor Blair Lee III and Steny Hoyer has three opponents: Ted Venetoulis, Harry Hughes, and Walter Orlinsky. Venetoulis has been the most visible gubernatorial candidate in Greenbelt. In the Republican primary, J. Glenn Beall is the front runner. Louise Gore, Ross Z. Pierpont, and Carlton G. Beall are also running for Governor.

In the race for the United States House of Representatives, incumbent Representative Gladys Spellman faces only token opposition from Davis J. Tomasin. In the Republican Congressional primary the candidates are William A. Albaugh, Saul J. Harris, and Frederick C.

Lawrence J. Hogan, Martin A. Aragona, and Dale D. Everett are candidates for County Executive in the Republican primary.

Under clear sky and a golden sun, many public officials, as well as friends, neighbors, and colleagues of a former long-time mayor of Greenbelt gathered for the formal dedication of the Edgar L. Smith memorial wing of the Greenbelt Municipal Building. The program, held on Sunday, Sept. 3 in the parking lot directly behind the new addition, was a testimony to the influence of the late Mayor Smith.

Principal speakers at the dedication ceremony were Congresswoman Gladys Noon Spellman and Ward Miller, Director of Local Public Works of the Economic Development Administration. Miller spoke as a representative for Juanita Kreps, Secretary of Commerce, under whose administration the building was in large part funded.

Rep. Spellman spoke of her memories of Mayor Smith, particularly of his help in getting through state legislation requiring training for municipal police officers. "He helped me do my homework," Spellman said, recalling "his quiet voice that changed things. He played a great role," she continued, "There were so many things Edgar very quietly brought about. He made no waves, no headlines . . . but he helped hammer home the points and when he said it, it had that in having had something to do with the legislation that brought about the funding for the new wing, especially in the jobs created by the project.

Miller's speech reiterated this point. He noted that the national program, introduced in 1976, under which the building was financed, had had three major goals: to reverse the then downward trend in national employment figures, to provide jobs in the construction industry, and to provide needed public facilities. He also commented on the "civic pride" which was evident in Greenbelt.

Mayor Richard Pilski, in a short speech prior to the unveiling of the plaque of dedication, spoke of Edgar Smith's many public offices judge, mayor, member of city council, city solicitor, and state judge advocate for the American Legion, "One credit is missing," Pilski said. "And that is great human being." Following his statement, Mrs. Edgar L. Smith and her daughter, Sandra Smith, drew aside the curtains to display the plaque.

A second plaque - a mock-up of the design to be installed in the wall of the building, and currently being cast in bronze - was unveiled by Louise Tousignant, Miss Greenbelt of 1977.

Other participants in the ceremony, in addition to the members of the city council and city manager James K. Giese, who acted as master of ceremonies, were the Rev. Mr. Dallas Pulliam and the Rev. Mr. Kenneth Buker; State Senator Ed Conroy, who read a message of greeting from Acting Governor Blair Lee; and Charles McDonald. former city manager, who spoke informally of his long-standing friendship with Edgar Smith and of his early encouragement to Smith to run for public office.

Music before and after the ceremony was provided by the Greenbelt Concert Band of Prince Georges County, with John Del Homme, director and Mrs. Edna. White, soprano, soloist. A reception and open house in the Municipal Building followed the formal program

James Cassels Named Outstanding Citizen

by Linda Shevitz

"His devotion to the cause of other people alone would merit our respect and regard . . . It is interesting that he has done so much for the elderly of Greenbelt, for the young people of Greenbelt, and for those of us who are somewhere in the middle." With these words James Cassels was honored as Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen for 1978.

In accepting the Outstanding Citizen Award, presented at the Opening Ceremonies of the Labor Day Festival, Cassels noted that it is really impossible to single out an outstanding citizen in a cooperative community such as Greenbelt, where all accomplishments are truly group efforts. "Others should share equally in the recognition," he asserted, adding that "my work in Greenbelt has really been its own reward." Cassels is the sixth recipient of the annual award, presented in memory of "Pop" Cipriano. In addition to receiving a personal plaque and a $100 savings bond donated by the C&P Telephone Co., Cassels will have his name inscribed on a permanent plaque to be displayed in the Greenbelt Municipal Building.

Cassel's efforts in service to the Greenbelt community have included being instrumental in starting

Twin Pines and Greenbelt CARES, and in serving as the first manager and president of these organizations. He worked for over fifteen years to establish housing for the elderly in Greenbelt, and his efforts have culminated in the elderly housing facility now being constructed on Ridge Road. He has also been involved in Boy Scouts, 4-H programs, the News Review Defense Fund, Greenbelt Consumer Services, and local swim team activities.

Cassels was born in 1916 in Lacrosse, Wis., grew up in Illinois, and moved to Greenbelt 27 years ago. After earning an economics degree from the University of Chicago, he worked on cooperative housing and community development projects. As a pacifist and conscientious objector during World War II, Cassels served a term in prison and government public service camps, where he was a volunteer in government health and nutrition research projects. In the 1950's he worked for the Friends Committee on Race Relations in Housing and for the League on Cooperative Housing.

In connection with his work as a community developer Cassels came to Greenbelt. Seeing the need for a cooperative savings and loan association, he helped to establish Twin Pines.

While serving as manager of Twin Pines, Cassels became acquainted with a family involvement project with troubled youth being implemented by Leo Walder in Anne Arundel County. With the support of city manager James Giese, Cassels and Walder set up a similar local project - Greenbelt CARES. Cassels' commitment to housing for the elderly began with his interest in GHI's Committee on Elderly Housing and eventually led to the ground-breaking for the present Ridge Road facility.

Currently employed by the Prince Georges County Housing Authority, Cassels has five grown children and enjoys swimming and hiking. His interest in hiking was evidenced

The Perfect Choice

Everyone recognized that he was the perfect choice- particularly this year - when at last the walls are going up on the elderly housing project. Without his single-minded devotion for more than a dozen years, that achievement could never have come to reality. It will stand always as a tangible monument to his years of devoted service to this community.

We speak, of course, of Jim Cassels, Greenbelt Citizen of the Year for 1978.

Actually, when we look around, Greenbelt is full of monuments - tangible and intangible - to the creativity of this man. Woodway Homes, the cooperative of quality red brick homes on Northway and Woodland Way, was his brain-child. Twin Pines Savings and Loan, formed to finance the second trusts necessary to make GHI homes saleable, was his concept. It has become a Greenbelt institution. And then there is Greenbelt CARES, another kind of institution, whose dedicated concern with the needs of young people and families has earned it a permanent place in our community as well as official recognition, with space in the budget and in the municipal building. Jim was a founding member.

He has been concerned with all of us - the old, the young. He has improved the quality of life in Greenbelt.

We are proud to salute this year's First Citizen.

The Primary

Does it only seem that way, or are people in Greenbelt more excited this year, more involved, in the primary election? Political signs seem to sprout on every lawn. Candidates and campaign workers beat paths to our doorbells, ring our phones and march in our parade. Devotees buttonhole us to support their candidate.

Well, why shouldn't we be interested this year? Never since we can remember have so many Greenbelters jumped into the political waters.

In the non-partisan school board election, fellow residents Muriel Weidenfeld and Lesley Kreimer are running.

The race for state delegate has attracted three Greenbelters: two on the Democratic ticket - Tony McCarthy and Mayor Richard Pilski - and one on the Republican ticket, Alan Virta.

Two Greenbelters - Democrat John Lally and Republican Tom Reynolds — are candidates for the county council.

Greenbelter Lloyd James and city council member, Thomas White, are running for a place on the county's Democratic Central Democrat John Lee Ball Jr. of Greenbelt is a candidate for the county executive and Francis Porter, a Republican, is running

While the News Review does not endorse individual candidates in any election, we are proud that so many of our fellow citizens are making their mark in this year's election. And with all the other candidates showing up to be seen in Greenbelt and to woo our voters, it looks as if Greenbelt's interests may receive a good deal of attention this year, whoever wins.

We urge Greenbelters to vote for the candidates who, in their judgment, will best represent Greenbelt as well as the wider areas

Special Thanks To the Editor:

The frantic, carefree, clattering, pungent sights and sounds and smells of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival are over for this year. We can now savor the good times and try to forget about the money spent. The Festival Steering Committee is very grateful for the work of so many people who contributed so much time, hard work, money and good will to the Festival. We want to express our special thanks to each member of the Greenbelt Police Department and Public Works Department and to the members of the City Council and city staff, who provided the necessary support in making each event run smoothly. The coordinating efforts of the Recreation Department are especially apprecia-

The Woman's Club of Greenbelt was extremely helpful in staffing our information booth. And what would we do without those good people from the Golden Age Club, managed so skillfully by Katie Basinger, who worked in the ticket booths all week-end.

To all of the organizations who had booths - we know how hard you worked and we hope that you have been rewarded in profits and good will earned.

As president of the Festival this year, I was privileged to work with a number of people whose dedication to the community is evidenced by their commitment to producing the best parade, the best talent on the stage, the best contests and exhibits and ceremonies. Their goal is to provide enjoyable activities and I think this was achieved.

My thanks to each member of the committee, to those who work behind the scenes in publicity, sound, and facilities and, in particular, to those whose life and thoughts are competely bound up in the Festival for the entire four-day period. This is particularly true of the treasurer, Bob Sonneveldt; the parade chairman, Wayne Williams; the carnival chairman, Hamer Campbell; and the special events chairman, Beverly Colvin.

The Festival is so uniquely Greenbelt that those of us who love the community find a great deal of satisfaction in working on this event which brings so many diverse parts of the community together.

Already, with barely the last note from the final drummer lingering in the breeze, we are thinking of next year's Festival the 25th Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. We would like to see many more Greenbelt organizations participate with food and game booths, with stage events and parade entries, to make the 25th anniversary truly spectacular. We urge the organizations to think now about what they might do as their contribution.

Consciousness Raising (CR)-"From Personal to Political"

by Jean Marie Gainey

"From the personal to the political" is the slogan Dorothy Sucher of Greenbelt, Maryland, Consciousness Raising coordinator of the National Organization for Women (NOW), uses to describe the impact consciousness raising (CR) has on women. Hundreds of women have completed the 10-week CR sessions, which help them "to realize their individual potential," according to Sucher. Sucher, also a former editor of been married for twenty-six years

Sucher, also a former editor of the Greenbelt News Review, will be at the CR demonstration at the Greenbelt library on Monday, September 11 at 8 p.m., along with Greenbelter Marge Owens of the CR task force of the northern Prince Georges chapter of NOW. Anyone interested is welcome.

"Women are often on the defensive," says Sucher, but the CR rules of confidentiality and an absence of confrontation help them to open up to other women, who, beeause of the roles society inflicts upon all of them, have been "taught to please everyone else and put their needs last."

Sucher feels that the media's handling of women's rights issues is "terrible." "ERA news is either ignored or trivialized," she points out. Citing the ERA march in Washington on July 9, which was the largest feminist march in histery, with participants estimated at 100,000, including a number of Greenbelters, Sucher explained the event was "lumped together in the news media with several other marches of only twenty participants. "The media is male dominated," she explains, "and does not give fair coverage to news of interest to active, involved women."

Sucher's husband, Joe, a theoretical physicist at the University of Maryland also has a strong interest in women's rights. An active member of NOW, he likes to point out that it is the National Organization for Women, not of women, and you don't have to be a woman to belong. He is currently involved in proposing that his professional organization of physicists support the ERA boycott. Several hundred organizations have supported the boycott by refusing to hold conventions in states which have not ratified ERA. The boycott so far has resulted in the loss of millions of dollars to the unratified states. Je Sucher's resolution will be put to a referendum soon.

Both the Suchers, together with Lorraine Wodiska, will be leading Prince Georges County's first Men's CR group. The aim is to enable the participants to become aware of their conditioning in a sexist society, and to lead to insights that will help men and women to relate better in more fully and truly human ways instead of stereotyped roles. Sucher and her husband have

Delegate 'Buzz' Ryan says he doesn't vote party line

"Of Course I'm My Own Man"

When campaigning door-to-door, Del. Charles "Buzz" Ryan tells people there are two good reasons why they should vote for him - he's the only delegate who's never cast a wrong vote, and since he's been in office their property taxes have been cut.

Ryan's tongue-in-cheek self endorsement is an admission of the unusual position in which he finds himself. He is an incumbent who was not elected and a member of the House of Delegates who's never served in the General Assembly.

Ryan, 42, was appointed by Acting Gov. Blair Lee III in May to fill the District 24 House seat vacated when David Gray Ross of Bowie was appointed to the circuit court

Despite being an instant delegate, Ryan's is hardly a Cinderella story. A Bowie resident for 16 years, Ryan has labored in the vineyards of Democratic politics for close to two decades.

Before his appointment, Ryan was an executive assistant to the governor, working as a liaison to county and local governments and vice chairman of the Prince Georges County Democratic Com-

Ryan recognizes that some people may be turned off by his close party ties, but reasons "There are only two parties and it's within a party system that government operates. You get things done through parties."

Asked if, with his party ties, he can still be his own man, Ryan answers with a hint of exasperation, "Of course I'm my own man. I don't vote a party line."

His introduction to the two party system came in 1958(when Ryan worked in John Kennedy's Senate race stuffing envelopes and knocking on doors. In 1960, he again worked in a Kennedy race, this time the presidential campaign, organizing supporters in West Virginia.

After the election, Ryan who has a B.A. degree in international relations from Georgetown University and a M.A. in urban affiairs from the University of Maryland, worked with the federal government as a specialist on the trade unions of Central and South America.

After his federal stint, he served three years as an administrative officer for the National Lawyers Committee for Civil Ryan's iinterest in civil rights continues. He recently served as county cochairman of the Maryland Affirmative Action Program.

Although he has never held public office, and most of his political expertise has been behind the scenes in support of another candidate or a cause, Ryan says the transition to campaigning for himself has not been difficult. He points to his election to the Democratic Central Committee in 1970 and 1974 and his post as vice chairman of the Prince Georges County Democratic Committee.

Still, Ryan concedes that there is a difference between campaigning for someone else and for one's self. "It's easier to sell another candidate. You can be more effusive with your praise," Ryan says with a smile.

Ryan says he enjoys the door-to-door campaigning that being an elected official

"You get a better understanding of your constituency than sitting in Bowie and issuing press releases," Ryan says.

Despite his active involvement in politics, Ryan sometimes comes across in conversation as an idealistic political science professor. In fact, Ryan has been a part-time instructor of political science at Prince Georges Community College for four years. If elected, Ryan said he plans to continue to teach at the school.

Ryan takes obvious pleasure in discussing political theory, supplementing it with his own varied experience.

Ryan's optimistic approach to public affairs comes across strongly in any discussion.

"Man is a political animal. Politics is the way in which we resolve issues of public concern. Some people view politics with alarm, others point with pride. I point with pride. I think the system now is more open than it's ever been," Ryan says.

Ryan won't even concede that most of the populace doesn't share his enthusiasm for politics and politicians.

"If the people dislike politicians so much, why is the recidivism rate among politicians so high?" Ryan asks.

Ryan concedes that the system is unwieldy and that people are greatly concerned about the way it lumbers along."

Of himself, he says, "Politicians are like a classroom, you have all kinds of students. I hope that I'm an A politician but there's no guarantee of it. The system doesn't give guarantees," Ryan says he hopes to be an official "much in the vein of Dave Ross," who Ryan describes as a "very, very effective legislator."

Despite his extensive national experience, Ryan says that dealing on the district level will not be a letdown. At the local level Ryan said you can get "more involved personally and the problems are more direct."

With the systematic approach which has made him a vital asset to innumerable civic groups and organizations in Bowie and the county, Ryan has mapped routes for his campaign workers to cover, working door-to-door.

So far, Ryan says he feels it has been a good campaign. He is more confident of winning one of the three House seats from District 24 than he was when he began, he says.

Sounding again like an instructor, Ryan explains, "A campaign never stands still, there's always movement. I think we are in an upbeat movement. The (campaign) workers are optimistic." He adds realistically, "If things weren't going well there wouldn't be many volunteers and we had 18 people working last night."

Ryan is enthiusiastic about his appointment to the Appropriations Committee and its education committee, as education is one of his main interests.

Ryan wants to see that all the components of the State's education system are used efficiently, rather than putting up buildings at one location, and closing others down nearby.

A special interest of Ryan is the future of Bowie State College, Ryan is supportive of plans to phase-in a law school and nursing school there.

Another special interest of Ryan's is services for the handicapped. Ryan concedes that both education and aid to the handicapped are areas most vulnerable to Proposition 13-type budget cutting.

However, Ryan believes that people are still sincere about helping the plight of the handicapped, if they can see what their money is accomplishing.

As all candidates this election year are discovering, the one topic on every voter's lips is taxes. Ryan believes there are no easy solutions for tax reform.

"To give you a simple response (on his tax reform position) would be to lie to you. I think we should head toward a more progressive tax system and away from property taxes. But saying that and doing it are two very different things," Ryan says.

Ryan says he is enhusiastic about working with the District 24 delegation when the General Assembly convenes in January. "The Prince Georges delegation, has a dynamite reputation for getting things done for Prince Georges because they work together and put county above party and above the individual. A lot of people who get to Annapolis and posture on individual issues are ineffective. Being effective is not whether you get your name in the paper or stand up and shout," Ryan said.

A Real Greenbelt Team Working For You

A CHOICE for A CHANGE

An Independent Democratic Team to Work for YOU

A personal message to the voters of the 24th Legislative District

Like you, we want the state government to be more responsive and accountable to the people, more efficient and effective in the management of its programs.

We're tired of political power brokers and monied interests.

We're disgusted with corruption and conflict of interest.

It's time to make a choice for a change. We need your help. Sincerely,

Leo E. Green

Greenbelters Agree:

Of 188 legislators only 3 were singled out as having perfect Common Cause voting records. They are our own Sen. Edward T. Conroy, Delegate Gerard Devlin and Sen. Lapidus of Baltimore... The fact that two of these men presently represent the 24th District and Greenbelt indicates the good judgment of Greenbelt voters in the past. I sincerely hope that Greenbelt Democrats will continue their outstanding record and re-elect Sen. Conroy and Del. Devlin to the Democratic ticket for 1978.

BERNIE McGEE

When our Senator introduces a bill for Greenbelt, and he has introduced every piece of Greenbelt legislation in the past four years, he has the whole system working for him. Senator Conroy gets things done because he enjoys the respect of his colleagues, is a hard worker, and is one of the five or six most powerful Senators. He has one of the finest records in the General Assembly, not just for the introduction of bills, but their passage. He should be re-elected because he has already done much for Greenbelt . . . and because he has the ability and clout to get things done in the future.

CHARLES F. SCHWAN

As long time residents of Greenbelt who are concerned with the future of our City, we have known Sen. Ed Conroy as a Community leader, an enlightened public official and friend. We believe that he has been good for Greenbelt and has supported our City in every fight in Annapolis. We therefore urge all Greenbelters to join us in endorsing Ed Conroy for re-election.

> PAULA SMITH EDNA WHITE THOMAS McANDREW

As a Senior Citizen, I support Ed Conroy. He has always led the fight for legislation for Senior Citizens and is always willing to help seniors solve their problems.

ROBERT F. DOVE

Senator Ed Conroy

Works For Greenbelt

As a parent and a member of the Maryland Coalition for the Handicapped, I strongly endorse the candidacy of Sen. Edward T. Conroy. He has been very helpful in the passage of legislation to benefit handicapped persons in Greenbelt and in the entire state.

DONNA FLUKE

Senator Ed Conroy is a public servant who serves the people. He fights for those who many times cannot fight for themselves. I support Ed Conroy for re-election to the State Senate and urge all other Greenbelters to follow my lead!

BOB PHILLIPS

Ed Conroy is a good Democrat who believes in good government and who believes strongly that politics and government are two institutions that need a lot of sunshine to survive. That's why I urge my fellow Democrats to support Sen. Conroy for re-election in the primary election.

CHARLES G. SOKOL

As a Past Commander of Greenbelt American Legion Post #136 I can say that we as veterans owe a great deal of thanks to State Sen. Ed Conroy who has given us outstanding representation in our district . . . As he is in so many other areas, he is also always willing to help veterans solve their problems.

GENE KELLAHER

Results:

- Sponsored and championed the Police Aid Funding bill, returning much needed revenue to Greenbelt and saving Greenbelters property taxes.
- Led the fight for State Transportation funds for Metro Transit for our citizens . . . to avoid payment of additional taxes.
- Prime sponsor of legislation on behalf of Greenbelters who shop in Consumer Cooperatives guaranteeing them greater consumer options.
- Sponsored legislation which has given a greater share of Highway Users Revenues to Greenbelt thereby saving Greenbelters additional taxes.
- Prime sponsor of legislation which mandates notice to Greenbelt if the State Highway Administration tries to acquire land in the City. (Golden Triangle)
- Prime sponsor of legislation guaranteeing Greenbelt fees in lieu of dedication of land for recreational facilities to serve Greenbelt's open space and recreational needs.

- Fighting again for Greenbelt's seniors and the establishment of a nutrition program in Greenbelt.
- Sponsored and pushed through legislation giving citizens and municipalities more control in zoning matters.
- Sponsored the legislation for funding the Greenbelt area Library.
- Secured the funding for paving the parking area of the Greenbelt Armory for carpoolers and commuters.
- Recently secured the overhead lighting for Hanover Parkway and Route 193.
- Has consistently supported the Greenbelt position to complete the Metrorail "E" route to Greenbelt.
- Co-sponsored legislation which passed in 1977 giving a fairer distribution of revenue to taxpayers living in Municipalities who were paying twice for services.
- Has continued the fight to secure road network improvements in the Greenbelt area.
- Successfully sponsored the Twin Pines "one member, one vote" bill so it could function as a cooperative.

GHI Board Grapples With Emerging G. James Gholson, Assistant Details of Rehabilitation Program

After a fairly routine first half of its regular Thursday night meeting, the GHI board grappled with emerging details of the major rehabilitation program which has already required three special meetings earlier this month. Both financing and engineering aspects of the program came under scrutiny, with quite different views being expressed on the same points by individual board members.

latest set of estimates for the rehabilitation work, presented by Charles Schwan on behalf of the staff, envisages installing only fuel-saving items in 1979 such as wall insulation, weatherstripping and window replacement. Limiting the 1979 work to these items was necessitated, according to Schwan, by a more realistic estimate of amortization (repayment) costs, and would keep the 1979 increase in members' charges to about 8.7%. If siding were also included for the frame homes, members' charges would be increased by about 9.6%, still below the 10% limit under which the board normally operates; however, Schwan noted that if the rehabilitation program is carried out as a two-year project (1979-1980), desirable from the point of view of minimizing financial expense, then the increase in cost to members would be over 10% in 1980 if frame home siding is included in the program. He added a comment that the presnt price estimates for window replacement seem high (about $976 in a frame home, $1730 in a masonry home).

Basic Package

The "basic package" thus presented by Schwan and the staff includes both insulation and siding on twenty-four masonry (block) homes. Chairman James Smith suggested that masonry home owners might be given a choice on whether to install the siding, but this point of view brought strong disagreement from Directors Margaret Hogensen and Virginia Moryadas, who felt that any "basic package" should be binding on all members. In fact this argument led to a motion being offered by director Wayne Williams which would have taken the masonry siding item out of the "package" altogether; but the motion failed after Smith and Schwan argued that it was necessary to keep this particular item in as an important and inexpensive energy-saving measure.

The main features of the Schwan committee's proposal were then formally accepted for presentation to the membership in a motion passed by the board, including an amendment to cover installation of siding on frame homes. Smith had noted earlier in the discussion that passage of such a motion does not of itself commit the membership to the project, but constitutes a step on Manager Roy Breashears reported, just after this action, that the owners of the dental office building on Gardenway have agreed to the installation of "Drysiding (plus insulation), which will give members a chance to see what it looks like on a sample home.

Several policy resolutions - not having the force of motions, but expressing the intent of the board were also formally adopted by the board, to clarify corporation and member responsibilities for various issues which may come up during the rehabilitation project; e.g. electrical heavy-up cost sharing, holding increases in monthly charges to less than 10%, taking account of improvements already made by members, etc.

Designbook

Earlier in the meeting, the board

sultant to prepare a GHI "Designbook", which presumably would serve as a guide to standardize any future construction. Smith noted that this Designbook would complement the Procedures Manual now being developed by the staff. The proposal by Roger K. Lewis Associates, favored by the staff, was mildly criticized by director Hogensen as being "vague" and not specific enough; Hogensen said this consultant should be directed to produce actual designs for sheds, additions, etc. Director Stephen Polaschik balked for a different reason - he opposed paying a sum for consultant expenses in addition to the $10,000 amount that will be provided by Community Development Funds. In the end, after director Williams supported the proposal and deputy General Manager Kenneth Kopstein provided some clarifications on its financing, the hiring of the consultant was authorized by motion.

Also discussed briefly, in the first half of the meeting, was the corporation's operating statement for the first six months of 1978 as presented by comptroller Donald Mc-Ginn. Only a short mention of this lengthy document can be given here, but receipts were slightly ($2200) less than projected and ex-("disbursements") were some $45,750 more than projected; the cash outflow would have been still greater were it not for a saving of about $40,000 in real estate taxes for the half-year, mainly due to lowering of the county tax assessment by 10% this year.

Among other actions taken by the board were acceptance of a fuel oil bid by Takoma Fuel company; approval of purchase of five service vehicles at a cost of about $25,000; and a supporting contribution of $50 to the Labor Day Festival committee.

Superintendent: A Profile

by John Seng

G. James Gholson is a big man, both physically and professionally. As Assistant Superintendent of the Northern Area Prince Georges County Schools, he also occupies a demanding, responsible position.

On May 6, 1978, the Prince Georges County Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews (NCCJ) honored Gholson and two others at a dinner-dance, held at Prince Georges Community College. The NCCJ is a civic human relations organization, which functions to help "eliminate racial and religious prejudice," according to a spokeswoman. Three honorees were selected by the NCCJ executive committee after canvassing community leaders for nominations,

The dinner-dance program describes Gholson as "a dedicated and highly respected educator who has been a pioneer in intergroup relations in Prince Georges County."

Gholson attended several colleges and universities, among them American University and George Washington University, because, he explained, he "knew of professors doing exciting and interesting things." He first taught at a rural school, then spent three and a half years at the Hampton Institute in Virginia as a critic teacher, followed by another three and a half years as principal there. Then, in 1950, he came to Prince Georges County as principal of Fairmont Heights High School, a post he held for 19 years.

From this position he became a central administrative assistant, working with problem secondary schools, school budgets, and evaluative manuals. In his last year as administrative assistant, he devoted much of his time to the desegregation of county schools, which occurred in early 1973. By July of that year, he was appointed to his present position as Assistant Area Superintendent

Curriculum Planner

One of Gholson's major accomplishments since then has been the planning and development of the Eleanor Roosevelt High School curriculum. In February 1976, the Board realized the need for a technology school in the county, feeling that some type of full-fledged technical training was lacking. Gholson directed with drawing up a task force consisting of community leaders, educational professionals and members of the school administration.

Since there was very little time to finalize plans with the actual school building already constructed, Gholson noted the example of the Bronx School of Math and Science in New York and he and three colleagues visited the school to observe its programs.

Some of the features of the Bronx School later incorporated by Gholson into the Roosevelt High School program are the high selectiveness of students, the science and mathematics-oriented curricula, laboratory and internship capacities and the general mode of operation.

Roosevelt is divided into two separate halves: the standard, comprehensive traditional high school program; and the technical half, designed to prepare students for future careers in professional and/or technological semi-professional Gholson thinks that Roosevelt High School is a success, primarily because of the excellent staff and program, "The school doesn't face any more problems than any other county high school," he observed.

Among activities Gholson is presently supervising are school renovation, the opening of the new Duckworth Special Education Center, and planning for special programs for talented and gifted students. He also recently directed a workshop on the improvement of overall education.

Gholson was born in Norfolk, Va. and lives in Kettering with his wife, Elsie, a son and two daughters, all of whom, formerly or presently, have been associated with advanced education and or teaching. His son teaches at Memphis State Uni-

Miss Greenbelt

by Corinne Comulada

A capacity crowd gathered to witness the 24th annual crowning of Miss Greenbelt. Connie Becraf', 18, was chosen out of 11 candidates. Dana Britton was first runner-up and Chris Zoellner was second runner-up. Laina Crockett was awarded the title of Miss Photogenic and Chris Zoellner was selected as Miss Congeniality.

A radiant Connie Becraft was crowned by Miss Greenbelt 1977, Louise Tousignant. Wearing sparkling crown, a floor-length green cape, and carrying a bouquet of long-stemmed roses, the new Miss Greenbelt took her first official walk down the ramp to the applause of the audience.

The girls, sponsored by Greenbelt organizations, were presented on Friday evening in a sports r competition. On Saturday evening they wore disco attire. The swimsuit competition was held Sunday afternoon. The final presentation took place on Sunday evening and after a 15-minute wait the runners-up and the new Miss Greenbelt were announced.

Lion's Bike & Trike Winners

Lion Henry Fisher, Chairman of the Lion's Club Bike and Trike contest announces the following winners: 4-6 years, Nicholas Jones; Tony Sluder; 7-9 years Steve Bakeh. 10-12 years, Alice Hurst. Special prize: Cheryl Miller.

All of the 67 entries received a prize for their efforts.

Carnival Impressions

by Alan Amberg

I thought that the Labor Day Festival Committee really did a fine job this year in putting our festival together.

Viewing the weekend from a teenage angle for the first time, many things were interesting as well as informative; other things were just pure fun. Every night was dancing and different shows. The Gallaudet deaf awareness show "Free to Be" and some of the dance or musical presentations were especially good. Many of the booths was as familiar as old friends and many of them had delicious food. (I'm so glad the funnel cake booth was here again

It was a very political festival, probably because this is an election year. It was great entertainment talking to the candidates, even up to the governor's level. Then, too, all the people politicking in the parade; kind of an old time setup, it seemed, where one could talk to the candidates on a personal level about family or issues.

For the kids (I'm still a kid, rea! ly) the Art Contest, the Talent Show, etc., were really lots of fun, not to mention the rides. I will look forward to the rides next year, while I'm still a kid, and for the next forty years as well.

All in all, I think it's terrific the way the citizens of Greenbelt get together to get out of the house and have fun.

— Greenbelters Say of Him —

As a prosecutor, Tony proved to be a forceful advocate for the people of our community. We need men of his ability in Annapolis.

John A. deKowzan

Principal Assistant

State's Attorney for Prince George's County

As a teacher at High Point, Tony McCarthy showed consistent concern for the students and the quality of their education. He'll show the same concern for us as a delegate.

> Kathrine Gough Katherine Keene Elizabeth Maffay

While on the GHI Audit Committee and on Greenbelt's Advisory Planning Board, Tony McCarthy has shown a commitment to maintaining the excellence of our community. He'll have that same commitment as our delegate.

> Donald Volk Chairman, Advisory Planning Board

- Tony Says -

I am running because I want to serve our community. I endorse Jerry Devlin, Charles Ryan and Ed Conroy because I believe they will be able to best serve Greenbelt and the entire 24th legislative district.

GREENBELT NEEDS DEVLIN

Councilman Charles Schwan Says

"Everyone knows that two bills sponsored by Del. Gerard F. Devlin enabled the City Council to lower its tax rate this year, the highway users bill and the police aid bill This alone has earned him re-election.

"But he did more, much more, than this in the area of tax reduction. As a key member of the Ways and Means Committee he led the fight for:

- An increase in the inflation allowance for property owners Benefitting 855,000 Md. homeowners
- Extending the circuit breaker to persons under 60 and broadening eligibility for seniors

Benefitting 227,000 new families

- Continuing the 15% assessment limit
 Benefitting 90,000 homeowners
- Permitting income tax deduction for child care
 Benefitting 50,000 (mostly working mothers)
- Increasing pension and disabled allowance exclusion from average Social Security benefit to maximum

Benefitting 112,000 taxpayers, mostly seniors

Eliminating county contribution to Medicaid, saved P.G. taxpayers $3.8 million

Benefitting all P.G. taxpayers and 855,000 total across the state

Increased school aid by $26.7 million to the counties
 Benefitting 855,000 property tax payers

VOTE

Here roughly are the voting areas of which Greenbelt is a part. Greenbelt belongs to the 24th Legislative District for purpose of electing a State Senator and three members of the House of Delegates to the Maryland General Assembly. Greenbelt also votes for eleven county councilmen, six of whom are running at large, the others from districts in which they reside. Greenbelt is part of the 1st Councilmanic District for this purpose. Greenbelt is also part of the 5th U.S. Congressional District which occupies the northern half of Prince Georges County.

Not shown on the map is the second school board district. The district includes Greenbelt, Riverdale, University Park, and parts of Hyattsville, College Park and Lanham.

RE-ELECT

Lesley Kreimer

pull lever 38-B

Dear Fellow Greenbelters,

We support the re-election of Lesley Kreimer because:

- 1. A vote for Lesley is a vote for an educational system that serves all students-academic and nonacademic, handicapped and gifted, as well as students with special learning problems
- 2. Lesley has proposed constructive alternatives to two important issues for Greenbelters—school closings and long-distance busing for racial balance through the development of magnet schools, middle schools, and expanded use of excess school space.
- 3. During the 4½ years that Lesley has served on the School Board she has brought a calm, reasoned and professional perspective to all of the Board's deliberations.
- 4. Lesley deserves our support she truly cares about the educational environment of our children.
