GHI Board Simplifies Phase II Rehab By Cutting Heating, Window Options

by Mary Lou Williamson

After discussing for more than an hour the procedural rules of member participation on non-agenda items at regular board meetings (see adjacent article) the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Board of Directors attempted to cut back its agenda to items that needed immediate decisions. But only one out of seven could be postponed; the financial report was rescheduled for July 30.

Reluctantly, the board voted to delete from Phase II Rehabilita. tion some member options. Members will not be able to have optional windows or rehab of old windows done under the general contract or financed under the National Consumers Cooperative Bank (NCCB) loan.

In a similar move, the board removed heating options from under the Phase II contract and financing. Thus members who do not want the standard windows, vinvl covered sliders, or electric baseboard heat must now make their own arrangements both to have the work done and financed. Management was directed in both cases to help these members by seeking the best possible financing for both these options. Later, if NCCB funds are available, members may be able to use that source of financing for options.

Management felt strongly the need to simplify the program. For the small percentage of members who desire options, the over-all administrative costs, should their options be included, would double. General Manager Tim Mitter summed up the advantages: "The simpler the program, the better the work and lower the cost."

Economies of time and dollars convinced the majority of the board, even though earlier policy had called for these options to be included. Only Wayne Williams voted against both motions; See GHI, page 5, col. 1

Fishing at Greenbelt Lake Temporarily Suspended

This past winter and spring, the City of Greenbelt undertook some steps to increase Greenbelt Lake's natural beauty and its livability for wildlife. The last step in the process took place earlier this summer. This was the stocking of the lake by the fish hatching program of Maryland's Wildlife Administration with over 17,-000 fingerling bass.

Because the fish are fingerling and in order to protect and give them a chance to grow into larger game fish, the City, at the request of the Wildlife Administration, has decided to prohibit fishing in the lake this year. Appropriate signs have been posted as a reminder. The City hopes that all local fisherman will refrain from fishing in the lake this year so that good fishing will be insured in future years.

Discussion waxed hot at the July 9 Greenbelt Homes board meeting as board and members discussed recommendations from the Audit Committee on conduct of Board meetings. The question was not whether members should give input during board discussions of agenda items - the consensus was that members always had taken part in such debate and should continue to do so - but how to conduct the "Visitors and Members" item at the start of every regular board agenda. Some maintained that this item had been allowed to take up too much time at regular meetings, while others felt that there had been no problem. However, the matter had produced a big enough head of steam for a discussion that consumed over an hour.

"The last president of Green- duct that occurred that evening -belt Homes conducted the visitors and members portion of the board meetings in a very free style; then in June the chair changed. The new president is just as rigid as the former was loose," said board member Joe Jenkins at the July 9 Board of Directors meeting, "The change has shocked and angered me." Jankins was expressing the opinion and the feeling of the New Directions board members and many of those members who regularly attend and participate in the almost weekly Thursday night board meetings.

"I am not happy running such a tight meeting," new president Jim Smith responded. He apologized for the necessity to do so at the first two meetings following the election, which had returned him to that position after two years. He read aloud from Roberts Rules of Order concerning "decorum in debate," and the chair's responsibility to maintain decorum. He explained that the first meeting of the new term had been the first open board meeting after GHI had been found to be in contempt of court throughout 1980. Members were making inflammatory statements, he explained. "There was a great deal of tension in the audience.'

FOUR INCUMBENTS PLAN TO RUN IN CITY ELECTION SEPTEMBER 15

Four of the five current city councilmen have indicated their intention to run for another two-year term in the municipal election on Tuesday, September 15. Councilman Charles Schwan, who has served since 1971, will not be a candidate.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld is the first candidate, followed by Ed James, to file the necessary nominating papers with city clerk Gudrun Mills. The deadline for nominations and financial statements, together with a written acceptance of the nomination, is Monday, August 3 at 5 p.m.

Anyone wishing to run for city council must obtain at least 50 qualified voters to sign a nomination petition form, which may be obtained from the city clerk.

Members of council receive a salary of $2,900 per year; the mayor, $3,400.

Registration

Citizens may register at the city offices during regular office hours, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Also the city clerk has arranged for on-site registration from now until the books close at three additional places: Greenbelt Homes office on Hamilton Pl., Greenbriar and Springhill Lake Community Buildings. (See city ad for more information.) Weather permitting, voter registration will be held at the Greenbriar pool on Saturday, July 25. Persons who cannot register at those times may request a voter registration form by writing to the City Clerk, 25 Crescent Road. (See city ad for more information.) The last day to register will be August 17.

Once registered, citizens need not reregister as long as they live here continuously and have voted in at least one of the two previous regular city elections. Persons who have never registered here or who have moved out of town and then moved back or who have, missed voting in the last two general elections, must register again.

Obey the Leash Law

To the Editor.

No one who reads the Greenbelt News Review would consider Greenbelt Lake Park a private place like the front or back yard of a home . .. yet a few dog owners who walk their dogs around the Lake appear to have forgotten that it is a public area where dogs are allowed if leashed. These few dog-walkers who allow their dogs to roam and run freely are violating a park regulation and are frightening me, my wife and preschool child when we meet on the path.

I have called to these people who are with these unleashed dogs to please leash the dog, and that there is a regulation requiring all dogs in the Park to be leashed. I have received various responses to my requests for leashing of loose dogs from their owners . . . one person said I had no right to accuse her dog of attacking me when it had done nothing to bother me. Another person informed me that their 85 pound dog had never attacked anyone and was a "good dog." My only response has been that I have no way of knowing that their dog is "good." A better solution (and one that will keep me quiet) is for all dog-walkers in Greenbelt Lake Park to leash their dogs.

Girls 15-19 years ald who are Greenbelt residents have the opportunity to participate in one of Greenbelt's most popular events, the Miss Greenbelt Pageant. Participants have the chance to win numerous valuable prizes while enjoying a summer and labor day weekend they will never forget.

There will be a prliminary meeting for young women who would like to become part of this long standing Greenbelt tradition on Wednesday, July 29. at 7:30 p.m. in the Greenbelt Library conference room. Girls who are interested but cannot attend this meeting should call Lesley Kreimer at 441-1990.

Wrong Culprit To the Editor: Charles D. Kendall, Sr., should be congratulated for bringing to the surface some problems which our beloved Greenbelt Lake faces. However, he attacks the wrong culprit-the 4th of July Celebration. It is not the 4th of July which brings "the stink, the stench and the scum over the lake." Our public works does such an outstanding job of cleaning up the "battlefield" after the fourth, that it's hard to tell the day after that we even had a celebration.

The real culprits in this case are the weekend users, for the most part non-Greenbelters, who come to our Park and wreak havoc upon it. I'm always amazed at the amount of trash I find after the Sunday crowds have come and gone. It truly is a disheartening sight. And here, unlike the fourth, there are no special cleanup crews to deal with the mess. Try as they might, public works has neither the manpower nor the money to keep pace with this problem. Even so, maybe the times are such that we should think of moving our celebration on the fourth. A possibility might be to combine our resources with another local municipality, such as College Park, and stage a true extravaganza on the University of Maryland grounds. Surely, the University could handle with ease what would amount to nothing more than a good football game crowd. In this time of fiscal belt-tightening, it might not be a bad idea for all parties involved.

As for Kendall's complaint with our Police Department concerning the way traffic was handled after the fireworks, I need only say that had traffic not been handled exactly the way it was, it would have been hours, instead of the swift 45 minutes before traffic could have been cleared.

Finally, concerning the little mother ducks, they survived yet another fourth and as of this writing have contributed another 14 ducklings to our lake.

Background Information To the Editor:

I totally agree with Ms. Hazel U. Wilson's open letter to the GHI Board that appeared in the July 16 issue of the News Review. On the specific discussion topic of the committee report on block home insulation and siding, I was quite surprised by the comments by some Board and Audit Committee members as well as some GHI members in the audience that amounted to a personal attack against me as the committee chairman rather than addressing the specific points of the report.

Some background information is useful here: (1) The submission was required in less than one week in order to give the Board the report at the next Board Meeting given the new deadline for Board member information packet mailing. (2) If the Board did not act on the topic at the next Board meeting, the National Consumer Cooperative Bank could have required that we do the study using outside consultants at a cost of thousands of dollars to the membership.

In this situation, as committee chairman, I had planned to outline the necessary calculations to the Staff Architect the Sunday following the Board Meeting and have a meeting of the committee to discuss the results the following week after management had done the calculations. However, since the calculations took longer than expected, there was insufficient time to have both a committee meeting and still meet the deadline. This does not mean that the nontechnical committee members will not still have a chance for input since a meeting of interested block home members with the committee to discuss the current status of the block home rehabilitation program is planned for later this summer.

What was truly irritating in this case was that Board and Audit Committee members had 5 days after they received the report to voice any objections to me over either the results or the procedure used. There was only silence until the Board meeting when a number of members engaged in what is best described as an attempt to score points in what they considered to be a political game. There was even an attempt to prearrange a tabling of discussion of the report. This could have been a costly delay for the reason given here.

During my involvement with GHI over the past three years as a committee member, committee chairman and now as a Board member, a major concern for me has been to have for the first time a technically competent Board that could help GHI overcome the consequences of nearly a generation of structural neglect. I have never viewed my position on the Board as a place for any personal ambition or advancement beyond a very welcome retirement from the Board after GHI has finished the rehabilitation program and sound future planning is implemented.

At staff request, city council on July 13 waived a 40-foot requirement for the width of two residential streets in the Glen Ora Gardens subdivision. City officials felt the 36-foot width would be ample because heavy parking on them would be unlikely. With two off-street parking spaces allotted per unit, the subdivision will have more spaces than required by the county code for off-street parking. Bavarian & Austrian Dance Co. at Center

by Corinne Comulada

On Sunday evening, July 19, Greenbelt Center was the scene for an evening of delightful and colorful dancing provided by the Bavarian and Austrian Dance Company.

People filled the Center benches. some bringing their own lawn chairs, and programs were distributed by Anthony Comulada and Nathan Jones.

The costumes were beautiful; men wore lederhosen, white shirts, green vests, and black shoes. The women's costumes, made by themselves, consisted of white peasant blouses, calico skirts with matching vests, white eyelet aprons and black shoes.

The program was light because of the evening heat and humidity, but was much enjoyed by the audience.

"Spinnradl," or spinning wheel, and "Muhlradl," performed by men wearing traditional white baker's caps and aprons, both had circling formations.

The Ziller Valley country dance or "Zillertaler Landler," a dance created by Austrian students touring the U.S., suggested courting customs in their homeland.

By far the most interesting and vigorous was the Schuhplattler or "shoe-slapper" dances performed by the men. Another men's dance, the "Tiroler Holzhacker Baum," concerning the daily work of the woodcutter, was performed by two dancers using a log, two axes and an old-fashioned two-man saw. The dancers alternately performed a shoe-slapping rhythm, sawed, and chopped.

Most beautiful of all was the "Wedding Dance." With each of the 10 dancers holding a ribbondecked wreath, the company went through lovely, graceful movements. This had been performed at the recent wedding of two troupe members.

As a finale, the company invited the audience to participate in a "Jagermarsch." This "Hunter's March" was fun once the simple steps were mastered and 20 or more couples soon waltzed happily around the Center.

During the course of the program, a green Tyrolean hat was passed from man to man. The hat which belongs to Bob Bach, was almost covered with pins from the Bavarian and Alpine sections of Europe. One performer, Al Chock, who is of Chinese-Hawaiian descent, had lived in Germany and Austria. He enjoys the dancing and has been with the company for over a year.

"Bairisch und Steirisch," as the company is called in German, can be seen reguarly at Blob's Park in Jessup. For more information, contact Director Herb Fredericksen at 840-2056 in Gaithersburg.

GHI NOTES

At the GHI Board meeting on July 23 at 8 p.m. in the Board Room, the Board of Directors will continue its special session on rehabilitation.

Under phase I of rehab, plumbing work is continuing. An approximate schedule for the plumber is July 24-28 at 8 court Southway and July 29-August 3 at 9 court Southway.

For the rehab inspection work, contracted to Rise, Inc. in the spring, the GHI Structural Department furnished six people for six weeks. Because of this, the Structural Department is running about 200 work orders behind schedule. These work orders include carpentry repairs, dry wall repairs, gutters and downspouts, locks, etc. Management requests the members' patience while the department catches up on this backlog.

GHI members who have visited the Staff Architect's Office since June have probably met Jim King, King, an intern in the Master's Program in Architecture at the University of Maryland, is a new GHI employee who serves as Assistant to the Staff Architect. Before turning to architecture, King earned an economics degree from Georgetown University and worked for the World Bank. He will work full-time from June to August and part-time during the school year. When not working or studying, King enjoys sailing

EACH OF THE OTHER MEMBERS OF COUNCIL

GHI, cont. from page 1 Margaret Hogensen opposed the window option change. Both felt they could not make such changes; the others felt they had no choice. (Don Volk was absent.)

Emergency Boiler Work

The board approved an expenditure of $7,580 for some long-delayed maintence work on boilers in three units - 18 Ridge (frame), 25 Parkway and #23 Laurel Hill. The county will not allow GHI to fire up those boilers until the work is done. The county has apparently given GHI its final, one-year waiver on the remaining boiler work. GHI, in turn, has written out a time-schedule for decommissioning the old heating plants over the next year.

Tree-cutting

The board approved a $5000 expenditure to have its eastern boundary line marked. GHI has been making an extra effort to bring its tree-cutting program into compliance with the State Forestry Department's requirements for the special tax break GHI has been receiving on 80 acres of forested land. Management does not want trees cut down on the wrong side of the boundary. (The adjacent land owners are Reiner, Ammerman and Lerner, Trustees.)

Roof Replacement

A new contract for an improved style of roofing for flat top units was approved for 4-E Crescent ($9,500) and 30-A-D Ridge ($8,700). Complicating the issue was a previous contract with another company for a different type roof (at times unsuccessful in the past) for almost twice the money ($16,-000 for a 4-unit row.) The board took management's advice to negotiate out of the first contract for about $2,500.

Vinyl Siding

The board ,again reluctantly, voted to tighten up the selection process for vinyl siding to be used on frame homes by approving a management recommendation. The staff architect will develop the color scheme to be used based as much as possible on previous color surveys. Members may select an alternative color on a 2-unit basis and in consultation with the architect to coordinate colors used within a court.

Inspectors Now on Site

On director Frank Gervasi's request, management outlined improvements made in the rehab procedures. Gervasi wanted broader use of inspection stickers to increase accountibility and to better inform members. Staff architect Stan Sersen said that proposal has been accepted and is now being used.

Gervasi had also asked that subcontractors be required to have a foreman in each court to handle problems at the job site. Gary Morningstar responded that restructuring the responsibilities of GHI's inspectors has solved the kind of problems that concerned Gervasi. The inspector goes to the court first, now, and stays on site. He is the person who deals individual members. GHI with will be much more stringent on subcontractors under Phase II. Fines and loss of contract for unacceptable workmanship or behavior will be written into the new contracts

Personnel

Morningstar has a new title and added responsibility as Chief of Administrative Services for GHI and GHI Development Corporation. (GHIDC). William A. Dintelman, the new Project Manager for GHIDC, was introduced at the meeting. His previous position was a Project Manager for Colonial Building Group in Baltimore. Members and Visitors

Four members indicated their desire to address the board on non-agenda items.

Fourth Precinct Creates Election Growing Pains

Because of the increase in city population with the opening of Greenbrier/Glen Oaks and Windsor Green developments, the city election scheduled this September will be expanded to include a fourth precinct-at the Greenbriar Community Building. This addition has necessitated a new city council resolution designating the number of judges and clerks to be employed for the election - one judge and three clerks for each of four precincts. They will be compensated at the rate of $75 per judge and $60 per clerk. The Chairman and members of the Board of Elections will be paid $75

For the first time also, members of the Board of Elections may assist in the delivery of absentee ballots. At the July 13 regular city council meeting, city clerk Gudrun Mills explained that with a fourth precinct added, she will have difficulty in meeting the requirements of the city charter that absentee ballots should be delivered to each district and certified by the clerk within two hours after the closing of the polls. Since she must travel on crowded Greenbelt Rd., she pointed out, to both Springhill Lake and the new Greenbelt East precinct, she cannot guarantee to meet the deadline, Therefore, for this election only, if a motion introduced for first reading by the city council on July 13 is passed, her representative, a member of the Board of Elections, may deliver the ballots. Following the election, the Board of Elections will consider the entire matter of election procedures. They are expected to recommend a possible change to the city charter to solve the problem raised by the additional precinct.

Voting polls are located as follows: Precinct 3 (Center), Center School; Precinct 6 (North End), St. Hugh's; Precinct 8 (Springhill Lake), Springhill Lake Community Building; Precinct 13 (Greenbelt East), Greenbriar Community Building.

too small for conducting board meetings," said Evelyn Feller. She suggested that the manager's offices be moved into the old sales area so that the Board Room could be enlarged.

Charles Schwan presented management with a list of questions: Why new roofs on block homes? Why insulation of crawl spaces? Why replacement of copper gutters? Why attic vents through slate roofs? Schwan would like to see written justification for the decisions which are being made now affecting Phase II.

Betty Deitch decried again the slowness with which minutes are prepared and Joe Comproni again asked for the minutes of the special membership meeting on March 19. MEMBERS, cont. from p. 1 on a future agenda if necessary any matters that cannot be handled quickly.

'Gagging' members is not our intent." said Keene, "but having some limits is necessary." She pointed out that other groups have similar rules. When addressing the school board, members of the public are each given 3 minutes and asked to make their comments in writing "as Eunice Cox-on always does." "The Board has business to conduct and they must get at it." She concluded, "We'd like to see visitors and members handled expeditiously and the board get at the work for which it was elected." Audit Committee member Ray McCawley co-authored the report.

The third member, Bettie Denson, had inadvertently missed the committee meeting, she said. Reluctantly and too hastily, she decided later, Denson had allowed her name to be added. On July 9 she read her reasons for disavowing that report. The subject was "inappropriate" she said, since the Audit Committee's responsibility is to "protect members" not "gag them." "Let's not lose the spontaneity" of member participation, she said.

Smith invited members' comments. "Member participation is a good feature of our board meetings. I would not like to see it changed much," said Joe Compronit, who couldn't resist pointing out that Keene had taken more than three minutes to present the Audit committee majority report. "It is very unwise to limit member participation," he said to Smith, "and I hope you will relax the stringent measures you have introduced."

"I have no quarrel with Joe Comproni," Hazel Wilson said, "but I agree with the majority report of the Audit committee . . . The Board needs time to do our business; too much time has been taken up by members."

Members Ben Abramowitz, Evelyn Feller, and Betty Deitch all supported Comproni's position. "We all know Greenbelt is unique — even peculiar," said Deitch. "What we do has nothing to do with schoolboards or anybody else. We were doing fine last year when people were not complaining about the conduct of meetings."

"If 30 minutes is insufficient to handle visitors and members then the Board should arrange for another evening solely for the membership. In that way important business won't be held up," said Charles Schwan. "The by-laws require the board to meet at regularly scheduled times to conduct business," he continued. "The only persons entitled to speak are board members. The bylaws only permit members to attend board meetings, but it has been the custom, and a useful one, to permit members to address the board."

Concerned about time, Ron Waldron liked the Audit Committee proposals, "I want to stay for the whole meeting," he said, "but I don't want to stay until midnight."

Board Discussion

During the Board discussion Steve Curtis had his own proposal — a libertarian approach calling for one hour for "meaningful dialogue" between members and board but no 3-minute time limit, then two hours for the manager to work with the board and a final hour for discussion by board members. He suggested that separate town meeting style evenings may be needed when Phase II gets into full swing.

Jenkins and Lewis agreed with Curtis's approach. "Last year we met every week. We were able to accommodate the demands of members and normal business," said Jenkins.

Board member Della Donaldson took issue with this approach. There had been problems last year, she said. "Something does have to be done about a time lim-She agreed with Smith on the lack of decorum from time to time during debate. "We need to stop the childish behavior," she asser-"I have been embarrassed by fellow members and board members. We can get very petty when we get emotional." She would like ground rules for behavior but she also objected to members not receiving answers to questions.

Frank Gervasi preferred 45 minutes for members, and while he said he did not like structuring meetings too much, the idea of a list appealed to him. Too often, he noted, big decisions are made by board members after 11 p.m. "when everyone is yawning."

In a written statement Smith laid out five rules for conduct of members that he would use. The first four are the same as the Aud. it Committee recommendations; the fifth urges members to respect rules for public discussion, refrain from personal remarks, and speak to actions, not motives. "We do have one law suit because of what was said at a board meeting. We have a program worth millions of dollars. The board can either prioritize its time and be disciplined or management is going to go ahead and run the corporation,' warned Smith. "I very much want this board to provide leadership for this corporation."

But Curtis was far from satisfied. "No dialogue was mentioned." he said, "and no exchange of ideas." The discussion had come full circle with no restriction.

"I'm concerned we're going to come to a hasty conclusion," said Nat Shinderman. His recommendation, an informal work session, was supported by Curtis. In the meantime Smith reaffirmed his responsibility for setting procedures under Robert Rules. "These rules," he said, "allow for participation and discipline. We'll be making adjustments as we go."

Police Blotter

by Mavis Fletcher

A woman reported that her pocketbook was snatched as she was walking on the rear parking lot of the Beltway Plaza on July 14 at 4:34 p.m. The offenders were two black male juveniles. One was about 5'8", about 130 lbs. The other was heavy set. A lookout has been issued.

On July 18 at 4 a.m. H. T. Mc-Doogal's was held up. The restaurant was closed but as the manager and two other employees were leaving they were forced back into the restaurant by three black males wearing dark clothing and "Star-Wars"-like robot masks and carrying small caliber handguns. They handcuffed the employees' hands behind their backs before leaving the premises. A sum of money was taken.

An employee of the Kay-Bee Hobby Shop in the Greenway shopping center reported being held up while making a night deposit at the First National Bank. The suspect was a white male wearing a red ski mask. He was about 5'10', medium weight. He was armed, possibly with a .38 caliber revolver. He left the scene in a silver-grey pick-up truck that was driven by another white male. Approximately $300 in cash and checks was taken.

On July 15, Pfc. Sappington made a disorderly conduct arrest on Breezewood Court after the suspect refused to quiet down and leave the area. In another case, Pfc. Sappington was serving a warrant in the Beltway Plaza for two burglaries in Berwyn Heights when he also charged the suspect with being in possession of a controlled dangerous substance. The suspect is a non-resident.

On July 15 two townhouses in the 8200 block of Mandan Court were entered by way of a patio door. A TV set was taken from one and nothing from the other. A no-force entry was made into an apartment on Breezewood Drive.

A locker room of the municipal pool was broken into and several wallets were taken on July 17.

Cpl. Blake charged a local resident with handgun violation for carrying a loaded .32 caliber revolver.

A 1980 Chevrolet Camaro was stolen from Springhill Lake. The District of Columbia registration is 686 876.

A theft from a safe in the Beltway Plaza Florist Shop was reported. Approximately $200 was reported missing. The safe was not forced.

Baseball Championship Won by Greenbelt Boys

baseball team defeated Hyattsville two games to one to win the Baseball County Championship. After losing the first game in the best of three game series, the Greenbelt 13 Year Old AA Baseball Team came back to defeat Hyattsville in the next two games to win the County Championship. In the first game Hyattsville was impressive as they played virtually errorless ball and held Greenbelt to six scattered hits on their way to a 7-3 victory. Game two went easily to Greenbelt by a 12-5 margin. The final game was a cliffhanger with Greenbelt edging out Hyattsville 6-5 while anxious parents and other Greenbelt supporters looked on.

The series was marked by sharp pitching by Shawn Brady, Donny MacCord, and Steve Simko for Greenbelt. These same players also furnished hitting power along with Craig Dies, Greg Varda, and Adam Whitmore to pace Greenbelt to its fine performance in the Championship series. Other at this time.

The Greenbelt 13 year old AA players who contributed to the team's successful series included Kenny Baker, Seth Churchill, John Duke, Tim Keifline, Frank Kellaher, Randy Sawyer, Chris Spencer, Greg Walker, and Matt Warner.

Throughout the regular season the team averaged almost 11 runs per game behind strong hitting. The nine starting players as a group had a team batting average .342 with outstanding perof formances by Kenny Baker, Craig Dies, Donny MacCord, and Steve Simko who all had over four hits for every ten trips to the plate. Defensively, the team played quite well with a particularly fine season by Greg Varda on first base. The coaching strategy was engineered by Bob Dies with the assistance of Ernie Varda.

This team will now play in the North Atlantic Baseball Federation Regional Tournament on July 30, 31 and August 1, at Sports Park and F. W. Watkins. Exact times of the games are not known

COMEDY

Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever Season Is Here

A total of 36 cases of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever (RMSF) has been reported in Maryland to date, the half way point in the annual RMSF season which generally runs from May through September.

RMSF is an acute disease caused by the bite of an infected tick and generally characterized by a sudden onset of symptoms, with moderate to severe fever (occasionally 104 to 106 degrees), severe headaches, chills, fatigue and generalized body aching and skin rash. The rash usually involves the palms of the hands and soles of the feet and progresses towards the trunk of the body during the course of the disease. However, in some cases, no rash at all is observed by the patient. The disease can be fatal if not diagnosed promptly and treated with an appropriate antibiotic. The major danger with RMSF is a patient's delay in seeking medical consultation for any illness accompanied by a high fever, headache and rash at this time of year, and in failing to inform the physician of a recent tick bite or tick exposure.

Periodic and thorough checking for ticks on the body (every two to three hours) is the most effective preventive measure a parent can take to reduce risk of tick bites to themselves and their children.
