County Schools Open Monday, Aug. 30

by Barbara Likowski

Monday, August 30 is the first day of school for approximately 110,000 students in the Prince Georges County public school system. Because enrollment is decreasing in the county, more facilities have had to be closed. The county now operates 17 four year high schools, 3 three year high schools, 15 junior high schools, 17 middle schools, 122 elementary schools, 12 special centers and 2 vocational schools. Since the five year plan for school closings is not yet finished, even more schools may be closed this year. Still to come also is the completion of the middle school program, leading to the elimination of all junior high schools.

Greenbelt Middle School

One school which has been closed, Mary Bethune Junior High school, has been attended by students from the center part of Greenbelt since 1973. Those students will now attend Greenbelt Middle School. Formerly Greenbelt Junior High, the school last year opened as a middle school for seventh and eighth graders, with an enrollment of 468. This year the enrollment will almost double. Greenbelters from Springhill Lake and parts of Greenbelt East (Greenbriar and Glen Oaks) attended Greenbelt Middle last year. Students are placed in teams for basic studies, science, English, math, social studies, and reading. Unless they are in band, they will have nine weeks each of music, art, home economics, industrial arts and physical education.

A cycle menu having five components which allows the student to choose any three components will give a wider selection of meals. All meals will be Type A, well balanced meals. An activities bus will run after school on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

Registration

State law requires school attendance by every child between the ages of 6 and 16. Children who will be five years old before January 1, 1983 may attend kindergarten. Parents who have not pre-registered their children for kindergarten or to begin school in Prince Georges County for the first time should bring the following: the child's birth certificate, record of immunization for children kindergarten through grade 6 (diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, polio, rubeola (measles) and rubella (German measles), record of rubeola for all students through grade 12, legal proof of residence (deed, rental contract) and student's transfer card or report card for students entering above grade 1.

Lunch Costs

Lunch prices will be the same as last year—90c for lunch, 40c, reduced lunch, and 25c, milk for elementary school students. Breakfast will be 55c and reduced

BARC Finds Two "Unneeded" Parcels Totaling 259.9 Acres; Could Be Sold

by Richard Macey

"Up until now, there has been little or no discussion on how we cut back on what the government owns but may not need to own. Given the present state of the economy . . . I don't think we can ask the American taxpayer to accept this status quo any longer." The speaker was Illinois Senator Charles H. Percy, proposing a new federal government stance. On October 20, 1981, Percy introduced Senate Resolution 231, which calls on the President to determine the value of properties owned by the federal government and to sell as many unneeded properties as possible.

Percy's resolution specifically excludes from review national parks, wilderness areas, and other national treasures. "We have no intention of selling government property that protects our natural or environmental resources . . ." Percy has assured. "Within a few miles of the Capitol building we may have a gold mine of real estate that the government is sitting on but really doesn't need." In the past properties like these have been kept in the hands of federal agencies or given away to local governments or charities. (In the past Greenbelt has received land in this manner.) "It is time to stop this practice," Percy said.

A recent related development brings the matter of possible sale of federal property literally to the Greenbelt doorstep. Following an executive order issued by the President in February, the Secretary of Agriculture has written to all agencies of his department to request that they identify and report all "underutilized" property. In response, officials of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) nominated two parcels of land totaling about 260 acres. After completion of a series of procedural steps, this acreage may be sold.

Currently parcels 5 and 13 are targeted for sale, both very high in terms of current real estate value. Parcel 5 consists of 12.9 acres north of the agricultural library. It is bordered by Rhode Island Ave., Sunnyside and Route 1. The soil on this property has been intermittently used for long term turf research. Parcel 13, which occupies the northern part of BARC along the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and Odell Rd., spreads across 247 acres. North of the entomology research area, this densely wooded tract serves primarily as a buffer zone providing esthetic relief and isolation for other actively used BARC property.

Parcels 5 and 13 will be reviewed next by the Federal Property Review Board. The Review Board, true to its name, will review listings of "underutilized" property from every government agency and determine ability to sell. If the Review Board were to conclude that the BARC property should be sold, federal agencies showing a need for the land could obtain it. Land thus acquired can be purchased at less than market real estate value. (Criteria for determining need and selling price are unavailable.)

Acting as the selling agent, the General Services Administration See BARC, page 4, col. 3

Mathias, Sarbanes Hoyer Oppose Sale

by Charles Schwan, Jr.

Despite a chorus of protests from Maryland Members of Congress, the process to declare 260 acres of the Beltsville Agricultural research center (B.A.R.C.) available for sale may be moving inexorably to a conclusion that will disappoint many Greenbelt residents. The proposal appears to have been cleared by the Department of Agriculture for consideration by the Property Review Board.

To sell portions of the Beltsville facility is "inappropriate and unnecessary," Congressman Steny Hoyer recently wrote to Secretary of Agriculture John H. Block. Congressman Hoyer also took strong exception to the assumptions underlying the Presidential executive order setting up the Federal Property Review Board and, by inference, the rationale for legislation introduced by Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois. (See accompanying story.)

As to the Beltsville parcels specifically, Congressman Hoyer pointed out that the farm's remaining intact is necessary to ensure that competing activities do not interfere with or prevent the carrying out of the research to which the facility is devoted. He added that what may appear to be open space serves to "provide a buffer against encroachment for the Patuxent Wildlife Refuge and NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center." To work properly the "sensitive equipment" of NASA "requires as little outside interference as possible."

Hoyer, in particular, urged that the larger, 247-acre parcel located See LETTERS, page 4, col. 1

Festival Notes

Labor Day is almost here and people throughout Greenbelt are making final plans for the Festival. This year the Carnival will be held in the upper parking lot beside the Municipal Building. Another new item this year will be craft booths at the Festival. Other activities include a plant wheel, white elephant sale, disarmament coloring book, balloons, zoo dip, used books, famous women quiz, buy a politician, frisbees, bingo, dunking booth, hidden treasures and t-shirts. Probably the biggest variety of food ever offered will be available—Chilean, Polish sausage, chicken, BBQ ribs, hamburgers, pizza, hot dogs, sno-cones, sundaes, caramel apples, corn, and funnel cake.

People can begin thinking of what they will do and how they can help. As in past years, convertibles and volunteers are needed for the Parade. Call Wayne Williams (474-1259).

Stage

Many big names and local people will be on the Festival stage this year. Clowns From All Over will be appearing on Monday, following their appearance the day before at Wolf Trap. Christian the Magician will again be a crowd pleaser. He has been seen at the White House Egg Roll and teaching magic at the Smithsonian. Local talent includes Janet Bailey, Julie Parsons and the members of Straight Escape, Tim Bram, John Hoehn, Arnold Wilson and Joe Rooney.

Salute to Workers

Willis Gault, resident of Greenbelt, will once again be participating in the Salute to Americans at Work demonstrating violin making. Returning this year are bicycle repair (Proteus Design), CPR (Greenbelt Recreation Department), Art & Design Consultants (Christi Moffatt), and Metro (Gerald Gough).

The Greenbelt Fire Department has promised an ambulance and possibly a pumper. Marilyn Fowler will have a display from the Park and Recreation Advisory Board.

Several new displays will be included this year. Regina Liogys will demonstrate woodburning. Dawn Sander will demonstrate cake decorating and Gwen Vaccaro will show skin care and makeup.

A special treat this year will be Train Talk given by Nick Howard, a retired railroad employee who now works at Watkins Regional Park. Howard will talk about safety as well as other interesting information about trains.

Anyone who wishes to participate in this part of the Festival should contact Diane Vreeland, Salute to American Workers Chairperson (345-6484) or Deana James, Festival President (345-6232).

Art Show

Both children and adults are encouraged to enter their original works of art in the Art Show. Registration forms are available on posters at Safeway, the Slimery, the Youth Center, the Twin Pines office of Community Savings and Loan, the Library and the Beltway Plaza Community Bulletin Board. Deadline for registration is August 30.

This year the show will be judged by Dan Dudrow, an instructor from the Maryland In-

A street band will have everyone dancing on Friday night, 9 p.m., with top ten music. The dance is co-sponsored by KAVA teen club and Labor Day Festival Committee.

Cable Comes to Greenbelt

The "cable" part of Greenbelt's new city-wide cable television system is now being strung on utility poles by Storer Cable Communications, which was granted a franchise to provide cable service to the city by Greenbelt's City Council in November 1981.

This first step in making subscription cable available to all city residents involves running a trunk line between Hyattsville and Greenbelt as a connection with the existing Storer system and installing distribution lines throughout the city. Most of these lines are being attached to existing utility poles, on a rental arrangement between Storer and the utility firms. In some instances the electric and telephone companies will be rearranging their wires to make room for the new cable.

When Storer is ready to start cable television service, the firm plans to send out announcement postcards, to be followed up by salespersons going door-to-door to sign up subscribers.

Schools to Start Monday

 breakfast, 30c. (Qualification guidelines for reduced meals will be sent home with the children.) Lunches in secondary schools will be 95c and breakfast 55c. Although these prices will be in effect when school starts, it is anticipated that the school board will have to raise them some time during the school year.

The instructional program will continue to focus on programs relating to basic skills. Concentration on basic skills has led to increasingly higher test scores in standardized tests. The Talented and Gifted program (TAG) will continue to be offered.

Budget

The operating budget for the 1982-83 school year is $306.3 million. Because this is lower than the budget for the year originally asked for by the school board, over 500 teachers and administrators have been dropped, supplies are limited and some programs curtailed. The driver's education program will no longer be offered during school hours. Students may take driver's education after school and on Saturdays for a fee of $33.

Fewer buses will be needed this year to transport students. The mileage for walkers has been increased from one mile to 1½ miles for elementary pupils and from 1½ to 2 miles for secondary students. When the Office of Transportation feels that it would be hazardous for students to walk because of a lack of sidewalks or other unsafe conditions, bus transportation will be provided. Mid-day kindergarten children will be transported. In some cases high school and junior high school students going in the same direction will ride the same bus. After school has started, surveys will be taken to see how many children are walking and where extra crossing guards may be needed.

The instrumental music program, which was dropped from the elementary schools at budget time, was reinstated for fifth and sixth graders only.

St. Hugh's Schedule

St. Hugh's school will open for second through eighth grades on Tuesday, September 7 at 8:30 a.m. For the first week of school, pupils will attend school until 12:30 p.m. First graders will be scheduled for testing during that first week. All pupils will report for full-day classes on Monday, September 13.

Center School Ready for Opening

by Barbara Likowski

A lot of work has gone into readying Center School for opening day, Monday, August 30. Rooms and halls are in excellent shape, clean and shining and ready for the projected 575 students. Principal John Van Schoonhoven reports that, despite cutbacks, there is a positive feeling among the faculty. After a year of working together, Center and North End Schools have become one school. Van Schoonhoven expects that same spirit of cooperation to continue.

Most of last year's faculty will be returning. Third grade teacher, Liz Solakian, has been transferred to another school. Also there will be no replacement for sixth grade teacher Miriam Gruber, who retired at the end of the last school year. Kindergarten has been reduced by one class. Anza Manning will teach a morning and afternoon class while newcomer Nancy Cummings will have only an afternoon class. Programs for the special education and hearing impaired will be intact.

Jean Radspieler, who taught music part time at Center last year, will be Center's vocal music teacher. Because of cutbacks to the county music program (so that instrumental music need not be dropped from the elementary schools) the vocal music program was reduced somewhat. As a result Radspieler will be at Center 8/10 of the time. First through sixth graders will have a vocal music class twice a week. No music classes will be scheduled for kindergarten or special education children. Instrumental music will be offered to fifth and sixth graders taught by Paul Prather.

Pupils will have physical education twice a week one week and three times the next. Stape Shields will again teach P.E. assisted by Edwin Trout who will be at Center 3/10 of the time. Kindergarten children will have P.E. once a week.

Reading Specialist Randy Kosik will be back as will speech teacher, Cheryl Joseph (Joseph will spend 6/10 of her school time at Center.) New to the school will be librarian Agnes Newbold who will be there half time. Operation: Moving Ahead (O:MA) aides will have their schedules reduced by one hour.

Center will have no guidance counselor this year. For part of the year an elementary instructional administrative specialist, Mary Gorman, will be working with Van Schoonhoven as part of an administrative training program.

Besides a cut in P.E. and music programs, class sizes will be up. Van Schoonhoven sees supplies and books as being extremely tight this year. However, none of this seems to discourage Van Schoonhoven who is looking forward to a "very good year."

Discipline Program

New to the school will be an assertive discipline program. The faculty will have inservice training for this schoolwide program and will share with parents by means of films, talks, etc. This is a simplified program of teachers helping students to know what is expected of them, providing a consistent way of acceptable behavior. There will be rewards for positive behavior and consequences for inappropriate behavior. "The key to a successful program," Van Schoonhoven asserts, "is getting parent support. We'll need a lot of parent help," he said.

Van Schoonhoven hopes to continue the enrichment program. Parent Joyce Kreiger has agreed to be the coordinator.

The SHIP (Systematic Help Through Identification) program for kindergarten children will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 7 and 8. These special diagnostic tests which have been previously offered to pre-kindergarten children at Center in the spring before they attend school help to identify the learning strengths and needs of each child.

New Starting Time

School will start at 9 a.m., a half hour earlier than last year. On the first day of school students are to assemble at 8:50 on the blacktop according to grade. Teachers will then assemble classes. In case of rain, students should assemble in the gym. Afternoon kindergarten children should be at the back door nearest to the Youth Center by 12:25 p.m.

Kindergarten Bus

There will be a bus for kindergarten only that will take youngsters from the a.m. Center class to North End School. Afternoon kindergarten children will be picked up at North End at 12:20 p.m. There will also be an adult crossing guard on Crescent Rd. at the Braden walk near Northway before and after school and at mid-day. Children are expected to walk at the times the older children are walking to and from school.

south of Odell and Springfield Roads be reevaluated. Its development, he contended, "would force a wedge into the existing federal reserve," which would have a detrimental effect on experiments. Moreover, the quality of the land makes it of questionable value for sale. It is a wooded drainage area, much of which is wetlands.

Possible sale of BARC land is not all to which Congressman Hoyer objects. Selling federal property to meet an immediate budgetary need does not seem wise to him. "The current economic crisis will not last forever," he points out, but land once sold "can never be returned to its former state."

Mathias Letter

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. in his letter to the Chairman of the Property Review Board, Edwin L. Harper, concentrated on his opposition to the sale of the Beltsville land. He described as "critical" the need to restrict parcel 5 from "detrimental commercial development." Like his colleague, Senator Mathias registered strong objection to disposal of the larger parcel, the 247-acre parcel 13. He pointed out its relationship to multi-agency use of nearby lands. The parcel is only one-tenth of a mile from USDA insecticide and herbicide research, near neighbor to the Treasury Department's Security Training Facility and the FDA complex and but 1.9 mile from the NASA optical (laser) sight. Operation of the last, he added, is not compatible "with even moderate traffic volume." These are not the only facilities sensitive enough to be affected adversely by possible private use of the property. There are other Goddard research facilities, and the Fish and Wildlife Service conducts programs whose aims could be thwarted if the land were sold.

As recently as 1978, Senator Mathias wrote, BARC underwent a utilization survey. The master plan developed then he added, was "well-received by the National Capital Planning Commission, adjoining federal installations, state and local governments and local community residents."

Senator Mathias found it deplorable that more than 1200 acres of BARC had been "chipped away" in the last 12 years and urged that the practice be halted "to preserve the integrity of BARC."

Sarbanes' Letters

Senator Paul S. Sarbanes is marching in step with his colleagues. He has written to both the Secretary of Agriculture and the Chairman of the Federal Property Review Board to state his strong objections to the disposal of the BARC parcels. In his letter to the latter, Senator Sarbanes suggested that the sale of the property in all likelihood would not yield a price "sufficient to compensate for the loss of property with great potential value to the Department of Agriculture and other Federal agencies." This result would ensue because of the "local communities' commitment to maintain through zoning, low density development . . ."

Senator Sarbanes also wrote to Senator Percy to express his concern over statements about BARC property made by the latter to justify the resolution he has introduced. To Senator Percy, Senator Sarbanes made four points: (1) the land will be preserved in low density, hence no windfall profit will be realized if it is sold, (2) the present location of BARC makes it possible for its people to work closely with other researchers in the high concentration of nearby universities and federal laboratories, (3) the rural setting is advantageous to other agencies — Goddard Space Flight Center, the Secret Service, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Food and Drug Administration and (4) "if it works, don't fix it", i.e., the Research Center has a worldwide reputation for being innovative, productive and well-run . . . It would be poor policy to give up such a site without compelling offsetting benefits."

will advertise all property that is eventually to be sold to other than federal agencies. Unless other provisions are made, state, county, and local municipalities will bid against private developers. Solicitations will be placed in prominent national newspapers and other circulars. Percy has pointed out that "according to the Treasury Department . . . real property holdings" are being valued "at $130 billion." Because these figures reflect the prices originally paid for the federal properties, many of which were acquired in the 19th century, the true book value of these properties is likely to be much higher.

Federal agencies have identified one percent of their "real property holdings" as no longer needed. As Senator Percy sees it, "It is a plain fact that the government may currently have at its disposal a major new source of revenue which could ultimately reduce the burden of the national debt in the years ahead." What this means to the Beltsville Agriculture Research Center and to the last green belt adjacent to Greenbelt, only time will tell.

INVITATION TO GHI YOUNGSTERS

GHI's Member and Community Relations Committee will be sponsoring a float in the Greenbelt Labor Day Parade on Monday, September 6th at 10:00 a.m. The theme of GHI's float will be "GHI Honors Its Employees". GHI is recruiting youngsters, aged seven and up to march in our float, each portraying a GHI staff position. Marchers could be dressed up as carpenters, painters, or for that matter, accountants or the General Manager. T-shirts will be available at discount rates for marchers and each participant will receive an appreciation certificate. Prizes will be awarded to the best dressed-up youngsters. Leading the float will be a polished GHI Maintenance truck, decorated with a sign which states the theme, plenty of green helium balloons, and more.

We expect that participating in our float will be a lot of fun. We hope that you will enter.

There will be a meeting of all those participating in the float on Thursday, September 2, 1982 at 7:00 p.m. in the GHI Board Room to finalize the remaining plans.

(Please Detach and Return to Greenbelt Homes, Hamilton Place, Greenbelt, MD 20770)

I am interested in participating in the GHI Float at the Greenbelt Labor Day Parade.

In a possibly related incident, there was an attempted breaking and entering in the same block at approximately 5 a.m. on the same day when the apartment occupants heard sounds at a window indicating that someone was trying to break in.

Earlier in the week a resident of an apartment on Springhill Drive reported being awakened at 3:10 a.m. by an intruder who had gained entry via an unlocked patio door. After a brief encounter, the suspect fled.

Two female juveniles were arrested for shoplifting in the Drug

An apartment was entered during the daytime on August 20 and jewelry was stolen. The incident took place in the 9300 block of Edmonston Road.

Two suspects entered an apartment on Westway about 2 a.m. on August 21 by breaking the balcony door. A returning occupant entered the apartment while the suspects were there; they fled.
