... And Also Running

Consistent with the individualism found in Greenbelt, 27 write-in votes were cast. Those so honored were: Joe Isaacs (8), Ronald Ott (6), Jose Morales (5), Mary Morales, Stephanie Butler, Steve Curtis, Jay Davis, Irene Hensel, Herling (no first name), John Henry Jones, and Gary Kohen (1 each).

P.O. Carrier Attacked by Dog On Plateau Place Delivery

by Elaine Skolnik and Virginia Beauchamp

Charges about the seriousness of the animal control problem in Greenbelt received strong support on September 8 in an incident involving an attack on a mail carrier. The carrier, William Ellis, was knocked down and mauled and bitten by a large dog in the 8 court of Plateau Place. His injuries were serious enough that he is expected to be away from his post for a minimum of three or four months.

According to Postmaster Franklin Ford, Ellis, who was making his round through the court, was still several homes away from a residence at 8-R when the dog in question, half timber wolf, half German shepherd, suddenly ran out of an opened door. Running across several yards and leaping on Ellis, the dog knocked him to the ground. A back injury received in the fall has since disabled the carrier. Ellis also sustained multiple dog bites—to hand, forearm, and thigh. An ambulance, which was called immediately, took Ellis to Doctors' Hospital, where he was treated and later released to the care of his personal physician.

Also responding at once to the report of the attack were Supervisor Sandra Morris, representing the Post Office, and the Greenbelt Police. Mail delivery in the 8 court was immediately suspended. It was not resumed, Ford said, until September 13, when police assurance was received that the dog was under quarantine and that the owner would not allow the dog out of the house. The September 8 incident occurred, the owner is reported to have said, while he was unloading some items from his car and had left the door open. Ford believes that other residents in the court had been concerned earlier with problems with the same dog.

The police have no record that the dog had been involved in previous incidents. An animal bite report was made by the police with a copy sent to the county Health Department, a routine procedure. The dog's owner was served with copies of applicable city and county ordinances.

A GHI spokesman said they had not previously received any formal complaints about the dog. GHI did receive a complaint because of the suspension of mail service.

MVA to Open Saturdays

Beginning Saturday, October 1, all branch offices of the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration will be open the first Saturday of each month and be closed the following Monday. Business hours at the MVA offices are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The MVA has a branch office at 5112 Berwyn Road in College Park.

conducts an aggressive training program to teach carriers how to avoid attacks from dogs and to protect themselves. He explained that a color-code systems alerts carriers to the presence of dogs which are considered to be a threat. In Greenbelt 30 to 40 dogs have been so targeted, mostly in the GHI sections of the city. Last year six carriers suffered dog bites. Many others have been harrassed. The attack on Ellis is the first dog bite incident this year.

As a permanent solution, Ford has suggested the possibility of installing mail boxes in a bank at the entrance to each court, with individual residents being given keys to open their respective boxes. In that way letter carriers could remain out of range of vicious animals.

Confusion at Third Precinct

Everyone in the city council meeting room listened with tense anticipation on election night while the results were being tabulated and read off. When the results came in though, there was no sense of relief.

After the totals of precincts 8 and 13 were entered on the blackboard, a mistake in the precinct 3 count was discovered. Challenger Francis W. White, it seemed, had Mayor Gil Weidenfeld's votes for that precinct, and Weidenfeld had Francis White's results. Further a suspicion that this mistake indicated a larger problem, spread quickly through the room.

Weidenfeld approached an election machine technician, trying to confirm his totals. He asked what his total on one of the two voting machines had been, and was given a number close to the total number of votes that he thought he had garnered in the entire precinct.

The confusion that followed was such that it was impossible to learn the exact sequence of events, but, at 9:20 p.m., it was confirmed that the totals for precinct 3 were incorrect. In fact, the totals first tabulated proved to be a "mirror image" of the ballot in the voting booth: Jones' totals were interchanged with Thomas White's, Zugby's with Putens', Pilski's with Bram's, and Weidenfeld's with Francis White's.

But the error was discovered and corrected. The totals for each candidate in Precinct 3 now stand unofficially as shown in a box on this page.

Joe Isaacs, who worked on Weidenfeld's campaign waited with the rest. He said he knew something was wrong when he compared totals in Precinct 3 with other precincts. According to Isaacs, Weidenfeld had been running strong in all precincts but the third, which bothered him.

Eunice Coxon, too, was in the crowd. "It's like eighth grade," she said. "It's so undignified."

Weidenfeld Leads Vote; Antoinette Bram Wins

by Elaine Skolnik

In a Greenbelt city council election that held few surprises except for the size of the voter turnout, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld was the big winner, capturing 77% of the total ballots cast. Traditionally he would retain the mayor's chair. Joining Weidenfeld on the new council will be, in order of their finish, incumbents Richard Pilski and Edward Putens, newcomer Antoinette "Toni" Bram and incumbent Thomas X. White. For the first time since 1971, a woman — Bram — will sit on council. She garnered 60% of the total vote.

All five successful candidates pulled over 40% of the vote, thus eliminating a runoff election (see accompanying chart). The percentages ranged from Weidenfeld's 77% to 59% for Thomas White. (Of the three runners-up, Zugby got a 53% vote, Francis White 33%, and Jones 13%.)

The 1,898 votes cast represented 59.42% of the 3,194 Greenbelters registered to vote — an increase of 8.12% over the 51.3% turnout two years ago (see chart on page 4).

Weidenfeld, the highest vote-getter in precincts 3, 6, and 8, and second highest in precinct 13, had a comfortable lead over Pilski.

Although the number of registered voters declined since 1981, the number of voters increased in each precinct, contributing to a larger percentage, precinct by precinct, of the registered vote. The Center Precinct (#3) showed a 66% turnout, and North End (#6) showed a 71% turnout, both up 8% from 1981. Greenbelt East (#13), with 45%, and Springhill Lake (#8), with 39% were less impressive, but still higher than in 1981.

Despite the absence of divisive issues in this election, voters were exposed to an unusual barrage of campaign efforts by the candidates — four "Candidates' Nights," door-to-door visits, doorstep and mail literature, telephone calls and extensive and varied newspaper advertisements. This onslaught and the interest and strong feelings left over from February's impasse between Bram and Zugby for a council vacancy may have brought out more voters. An impressive campaign waged by Weidenfeld also may have raised the voter turnout.

An organizational meeting of council will be held on Monday, September 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

Potpourri

—The return of three incumbents — Weidenfeld, Pilski and Thomas White — for their sixth consecutive term together marks a striking vote of confidence.

—Voters cast ballots for an average of 4.07 candidates in all precincts. (Translation = Some voters did not vote for five candidates but "bullet voting" was not a factor.)

—In Precinct 13 (Greenbelt East) Zugby collected the highest number of votes, with Putens, also a resident of #13, third.

—In the future, the council, city staff and this newspaper will need to accustom themselves to referring to the five persons on council as council persons or council members.

—The order in which the candidates finished in the Third Precinct was the same as in the total vote.

Election Workers

Working throughout the summer months preparing for the election and throughout the election day and night was Greenbelt's hard-working and conscientious City Clerk Gudrun Mills.

Community Spirit

To the Editor:

Once again community spirit as well as city and business cooperation were evident at this year's Greenbelt Labor Day Festival.

Greenbelt is fortunate to have citizens who willingly gave of their time, talent and energies to make this Festival the biggest thus far. Those Greenbelters who worked so hard to provide this community the opportunity to greet old friends, indulge in wonderful food, view the crowning of a queen, and participate in a glorious parade, deserve our recognition and thanks.

The Greenbelt Police, Fire Department, Department of Public Works and city officials are to be commended for the assistance and cooperation given to the Festival Committee to coordinate the many events.

One additional note of thanks goes to Jasper's Restaurant, which so graciously hosted a lovely reception for the participants of the Miss Greenbelt Pageant. This voluntary donation adds a great deal to the festivities for the young ladies.

Each year the Festival is an event to which I look forward with all the eagerness of a young child. To the many people who made it happen: THANK YOU!

Put the Ducks Back

To the Editor:

I'm a former Greenbelt resident who receives an occasional News Review and it's always good to read about current events, such as the upcoming city council elections and Labor Day Festival. However, I really didn't know what to think of the small announcement on page two of the September 8 issue referring to, of all things, duck-napping.

My family and I used to walk around the Lake at least once a week and we never saw anyone bothering the wildlife. This development is downright ludicrous. I know that the city protects the established duck population and an occasional visitor or two. That's good, because recent winters have been very cold. But it seems obvious that more protection is needed if any of the waterfowl at the Lake are to survive.

I live close to the mountains and realize from personal experience that we've had a long, hot, dry summer. The creek across from my front door has dried down to the bed no less than three times. I assume that the situation is no better in Greenbelt. Does swiping ducks help the animals or just fill somebody's freezer?

Let's hope that the duck-napper will soon confess and put the ducks back where they belong—in the water. After all, they are city property.

Thank you for your attention and, I hope, apprehension of the Greenbelt Duck-napper.

Cadette Scout Troop Plans Fund Raisers

At long last Greenbelt has a Cadette Girl Scout Troop for girls between the ages of 12 and 14. Since this is a new troop, several fund-raising activities have been planned to cover the cost of troop flags, insignia and camp gear. Leaf raking, calendar sales and a bike-a-thon are at the top of the list as proposed fund raisers. The girls in the troop will be coming around to ask for the support of residents in these activities. Anyone interested in sponsoring them in their efforts or any girl who wishes to join the troop is urged to call Joan Miller, 345-8705.

Retired Nurses Save Heart Attack Victim

In the early afternoon of Monday, August 15, as the Center bustled with activity, a woman sat down on a bench in front of High's dairy store and within a few moments began suffering a heart attack. Thanks to the immediate actions of Laurie Beard and Edel Trout Rehmann, two retired nurses, assisted by Claire Pilski, registered nurse, the woman was saved from what surely would have been a fatal heart attack.

The victim of the heart attack, Mary Panelli, had begun her afternoon stopping by the Consignment shop to let her boss, Linda Callahan, know that she was feeling much better from a stroke she had suffered a month earlier. After a short chat with her boss, Panelli left the Consignment shop and strolled over toward Highs, where she sat on a bench across from Beard and Rehmann. A few moments later Panelli's head fell back and she began having a heart attack. Quickly laying Pannelly down both Beard and Rehmann began checking for vital signs and found none. After verifying that there were no vital signs, both women instantly began performing CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation).

As Rermann applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, Beard performed the chest manipulation, fracturing one of Panelli's ribs in order to get her breathing again.

By the time the rescue squad arrived the nurses had stabilized Panelli's breathing. One of the attendants on the rescue squad complimented the women for their excellent handling of the emergency.

The irony in this story is that Beard was scheduled to go for a test that morning but was too nervous to attend. Instead she called her doctor from the Center and rescheduled the examination. A short while later instead of undergoing tests she was helping to save a woman's life.

These people are to be commended for their quick, decisive actions in saving Panelli's life. If more people knew how to perform CPR, there could be more fortunate cases such as Panelli's.

For information on the time and location of CPR courses watch the Recreation Review column in this newspaper or call 474-6878, Recreation Department.

GHI NOTES

One committee, the Personnel Committee, will hold a meeting next week. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. on September 22 in the Board Room.

Several GHI members have had a question about the dates on their WSSC water bills. The dates refer to the WSSC fiscal year which ends on June 30. A portion of the bill was charged at the rates for the WSSC 1982 fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1983. Another portion of the bill was charged at the rates for the WSSC 1983 fiscal year, which began July 1.

This summer 15 young people worked at GHI as the summer crew. They performed such projects as grass cutting, tree work, sidewalk repair, swale repair, storm drains and painting.

GHI is pleased to announce that Maureen Osborne has joined the staff as the new Member Services Coordinator. She has a master's degree in social work. Leta Mach, who was filling in temporarily in this job, has returned to her old position of Information Specialist.

At this year's Annual Membership Meeting, a resolution was passed instructing the Board and Management to enforce GHI's yard regulations. As part of this mandate, GHI will shortly begin surveying the yards of all GHI members. GHI would appreciate members complying with GHI regulations by correcting any violations they are informed about as a result of these surveys. Members are reminded that Greenbelt CARES (345-6660) does have a job bank which could be contacted for assistance with yard work.

CARES acts as a referral service. Members and the youngsters they hire would arrange working terms and payment themselves.

December. Anyone who has a craft and wishes to participate in the show, please contact the Youth Center for an informational brochure and application. Days and times for the show are as follows: Friday, December 2, 6 - 10 p.m. and Saturday, December 3, 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. For additional information, contact the Greenbelt Recreation Department Business Office weekdays, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., 474-6878.

SOCCER UPDATE

by Sue Cornelius
The Greenbelt soccer team members played their hearts out this past weekend, and had some stunning victories as well as losses. The 11 year old county team played Hyattsville, and tied 2-2. The goals were scored by Adrian Tapley and John Stringfellow. The 12-year-old county team beat very tough Camp Springs team 6-2 with Danny Bogan again scoring once, Shawn Luddy scoring twice, and Jimbo Barron adding a hat trick (three goals) to take the team to a very sweet victory. The 13-year-old County team suffered a 3-2 loss to Cheverly, with Steffan Sonneveldt and James Jordan scoring for Greenbelt. The 13 year old Interleague team played a fantastic game, beating Beltsville in a close 1-0 game. Tommy Bingham scored the only goal of the game. Nice going, Greenbelt!

GHI is looking for responsible youngsters to deliver the GHI Newsletter and other information materials. Youngsters will be paid after they have delivered the materials. To apply, call the Member Services Coordinator, Maureen Osborne (474-6644).

Division Championship - Sweet Victory for Greenbelt

Butterfly swimmer Margaret Williamson and water meet in easy agreement.

by Sue and Mike Jones
None of the swimmers on the Greenbelt Municipal Swim Team remember the last time Greenbelt was a Division Champion. The coaches and some parents remember, but for most it was a new experience.

Hope first dawned when, on the basis of last year's divisional meet performance, Greenbelt dropped from D to E division, with Surratts, Oxon Hill, Bolling AFB and Forest Pool, teams Greenbelt had not faced in many years. There was really no way of knowing how tough the teams would be.

Practice, Practice, Practice
The season for the swim team begins in late May, when a portion of the pool is reserved during the evening for practice. Time is limited, and is spent on seeing which swimmers need work on which strokes. If the practice is not rained out, the cool weather is a challenge to both swimmers and coaches. The adults, meanwhile, are busy making sure that registration of team members — including correct birthdates, since events are swum by age groups — are up to date.

Once school is out, practice shifts to mornings. The weather is no more accommodating than in the evening, and it is a challenge for swimmers to wake up earlier than required for school. The first practice starts at 6 a.m., and practices continue until the pool is cleared for lessons at 9 a.m. With more practice hours, attention can be paid to technique and stroke and details that often make the difference between a strong swimmer and one who has trouble completing the distance. Daily practice continues through the end of the swim meet schedule.

Preparation
The adults, mostly parents of swim team members, officially enter the picture when the meets begin at the end of June. Officializing a meet properly requires more than 40 adults, not including those who prepare the pool and surroundings. Before the meet, lane markers, tables, benches, and other equipment must be put in place. After officials arrive, they must be assigned positions, and stopwatches and the starting gun must be checked.

Most Prince-Mont League pools, Greenbelt included, were not designed for competition. While the assigned race distances are 25, 50, and 100 meters or freestyle is 100 meters, approximately 2.5 lengths of the Greenbelt pool.

The scoring system is designed to help teams with depth. Two swimmers from each team score in each event, regardless of finish, as long as the race is finished without disqualification. The second swimmer on either team to finish still earns points for at least fourth place, regardless of the actual place finished. Thus, no one is "too slow" for the team.

Greenbelt Season

The first meet of the season is hardest to predict. For other meets, previous results are available to all coaches in the division. There were no methods of measuring the strengths and weaknesses of the opposing team, so Greenbelt followed the most basic strategy — fill the lanes.

Greenbelt's first meet was home against Surratts, a team with little depth. The butterfly events contained mostly Greenbelt swimmers, which made it apparent that Greenbelt would win, which they did handily, 304-210.

The next Saturday Greenbelt faced D division's Temple Hills in an interdivision contest that did not count in the standings.

LAST WEEK TO SEE "DR. COOK'S GARDEN"

This is the last weekend to see the suspenseful, spellbinding mystery, "Dr. Cook's Garden," by Ira Levin, at the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center, Utopia Theater, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 23 and 24, at 8:15 p.m. with a Sunday matinee Sept. 25 at 2:30 p.m. For information call 474-7763 or 441-8770 one hour before showtime.

Police Blotter

Compiled by Mavis Fletcher
A 1983 Buick LeSabre was stolen from the parking lot at Beltway Plaza shopping center at 11 a.m. on Sept. 16. The Maryland registration is CPW 720.

Thefts from autos occurred in the 6200 block of Springhill Dr., the 9100 block of Springhill Lane, and the 200 block of Westway on Sept. 13-14.

Miscellaneous new clothing was stolen from an auto parked in the Beltway Plaza lot on Sept. 17.

A rim and tire were stolen from a car in the 5800 block of Cherrywood Terrace on Sept. 18 or 19.

A motorcycle was stolen from Northway on Sept. 14. Prince Georges County police recovered the vehicle the next day. It had been abandoned in Laurel.

Both teams were missing swimmers (it was the July 4 weekend), but the meet proved exciting, though Greenbelt lost by ten points.

That loss was a springboard for the next week's contest with Oxon Hill. Greenbelt was up for the meet and overwhelmed Oxon Hill 321.5-205.5. Depth was a secondary factor as power dominated — Greenbelt captured 35 of 47 possible first place ribbons.

Bolling AFB was more of a challenge for Greenbelt the next week — the score was a tighter 289-251, with Greenbelt still on top. The real competition, though, was Forest Pool, seeded slightly ahead of Greenbelt.

Greenbelt's consistency and depth paid off in this last dual meet of the season. Swimmers who consistently placed first continued to do so — many swimmers did better than expected to earn more points. That, along with Greenbelt's depth resulted in a 292.5-240.5 win for Greenbelt.

The last team meet of the season was the division finals. Greenbelt has never hosted this meet because of its odd-sized pool, but the planning for the meet went on. The two best swimmers from each team compete in each event, and points are awarded through sixth place. This meet does not determine the division champion, but is a factor in a complex formula that does. Greenbelt did not have to win to earn the division championship, but had to finish in front of certain other teams.

In fact, Greenbelt won. There was no doubt about it. The nearest competitor, Forest Pool, was 85.5 points behind. For the first time in many years, Greenbelt could give the division champion patches to its swimmers.

Post Season

After the division finals, the Cheverly relays and other meets that emphasize individual progress are held. The All-Star meet places the winners of each event from all eight division finals against each other, along with the swimmers with the next eight best times. The Novice meet, held at Greenbelt, provides competition for all league swimmers who have not placed better than fourth in the regular season. For Greenbelt, the highlights are the splash party in late July, and the banquet tomorrow. Awards for individual and team effort are given at the banquet.

The Greenbelt Swim Team has always been proud of its depth. Anyone up to age 18 who can swim and is willing to work can join and participate in team activities. A new season begins next May. Anyone interested should watch their News Review then for details.

The Greenbelt Swim Team will be sponsoring a winter swimming program that will be starting shortly. Details will be printed in a future edition of the News Review.

City Retains Special Legal Counsel For Police Administrative Hearing

by Bill Rowland

Greenbelt's city council dealt with a variety of miscellaneous matters during its regular meeting on September 12. Topics included two issues related to the city's police department, a proposed professional center, and grant funds for roads and other improvements.

Council accepted the recommendation of the city solicitor and the city manager that a special legal counsel be employed to prosecute any future charges placed against city police officers under Maryland's Law Enforcement Officers Bill of Rights. The reasoning is that such charges are considered in administrative hearings, and the procedures and law involved are different than those in actions for which the city solicitor is used. Council approved the employment of Salvatore A. Danielle, an attorney with offices in Greenbelt, at an hourly rate of $75, to represent the Chief of Police and the city in such hearings.

Council also learned from City Manager James Giese that the Fraternal Order of Police, Greenbelt chapter, had complained about the city's vacancy advertisement in the September 8 News Review to fill the Deputy Chief/Chief of Police position. FOP pointed out that city personnel rules require that officers within the department be given consideration for the vacancy before candidates from outside are sought. Giese told council that staff was taking steps to advertise the vacancy within the department. (According to the city's advertisement, incumbent Police Chief William T. Lane will retire in July 1984, and it is expected that the new deputy chief will then be appointed as police chief.)

Professional Buildings

Three new professional centers are currently moving toward development within Greenbelt. One is to be on Edmonston Road south of the Greenhome & O'Mara office building, and the second on Hanover Parkway south of the Exxon gas station and El Torito restaurant. The third, Greenway East Professional Center, is to be located on a part of the Witt tract at the southwest corner of Hanover Parkway and Greenway Center Drive.

The developer of Greenway East Professional Center proposes two connected three-story condominium office buildings, with a total of 75,000 square feet. Also proposed for the center is a free-standing sign, about 65 square feet in size. Council recommended that the county approve the site plan for the center.

As to the sign, the city's Advisory Planning Board reported to council that the majority of the board "favors the originality of the design and format" but could find no justification for exceeding the 25-square-foot limitation placed by county code on free-standing signs. Council recommended that the county deny permission for the sign as proposed.

Grant Funds

Giese presented to council, for its advance consideration, three projects for which council might want to submit funding proposals for the tenth year of the Prince Georges County Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. Last year the city submitted two projects to the county: Plateau Place road reconstruction, $104,000, and North End School renovation, $100,000.

The Plateau Place project won approval at the county level.

Giese, in his written report to council, listed these three projects for consideration:

"1. North End School renovation - $100,000. To occur following city acquisition of the property from the county. Last year, this project... (was) rejected by the citizens committee and county staff since the (school had) not been released yet by the county. This may happen again this year, but it is felt the county is much closer to being able to release the (school) and funding approval of these (grants) is over one year away.

"2. Reconstruction of Ridge Road from Westway to 4 Court Crescent - $90,000. This project would fund (reconstruction, including curbs, gutters, and sidewalk) from 7 Court Crescent to Ridge. This would complete improvements to Ridge Road from Eastway through 4 Court Crescent using CDBG funds.

"3. Reconstruction of Gardenway from Crescent Road to End - $60,000. . . ."

In his written report, Giese concluded that "getting funding for any of these projects is expected to be more difficult this year than in the past." Orally to council, he expressed even more clearly his feeling that "you're really spinning your wheels this year." Mayor Gil Weidenfeld agreed, but added that nonetheless the city should submit its requests, because even if the county gives Greenbelt nothing this year, such a denial would strengthen the city's bargaining position for approval of one or more grant-funded projects next time around.

Council will decide on the city's CDBG "want list" during a future meeting.

Public Hearing on Sept. 28 On Proposed Inter-County Connector Highway Plan

The proposed Inter-County Connector highway, long contested by Greenbelt's city council, will be the subject of a public hearing to be conducted by Maryland's State Highway Administration (SHA) on Wednesday, September 28, at High Point High School auditorium, 3601 Powder Mill Road, Beltsville, at 7 p.m.

The SHA deadline for individuals and representatives of organizations to pre-register to speak during this hearing has passed. However, persons who have not pre-registered will be allowed to speak after all those who pre-registered are done. If necessary, a continuation of the hearing will be held at the same time and location on Wednesday, October 5, to give all who wish to do so a chance to speak.

This hearing will serve as a "Location Public Hearing" for each of four alternatives. A detailed description of the alternatives and their impacts is presented in the 355-page "Draft Environmental Impact Statement for the Inter-County Connector." A copy of this statement is available for review at the Greenbelt library.

Greenbelt's city council for years flatly opposed this proposed highway in its entirety. Within the past year, council has insisted only that the highway be allowed to extend no further east than I-95.

Summary

The following summary of the draft environmental impact statement is taken essentially verbatim from written material presented to Greenbelt's city council by City Manager James Giese. According to Giese, four alternatives are considered:

Alternate A — "No build," except for proposed improvement projects not related to this study.

Alternate C/D/E — A combination of upgraded existing roads. Included would be a new four-lane divided road to connect Fairland Road and Briggs Chaney Road in Montgomery County with I-95 at a new interchange and with Muirkirk Road in Prince Georges County. A new interchange with the Baltimore-Washington Parkway or a tie-in to the existing Powder Mill Road interchange also is proposed.

Alternate F — An essentially new divided highway, utilizing the proposed "Rockville Facility" highway, would connect to I-270 in the vicinity of Montrose Road south of Rockville. The same road construction is proposed through Prince Georges County as with Alternate C/D/E.

Alternate G — A new four-lane divided highway within a wider right-of-way would be built from I-370 near Shady Grove Road in Montgomery County to the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. The road would be located in essentially the same position as the two previous alternates in Prince Georges County. (Note: I-370 is a planned spur that will run easterly from I-270 to the vicinity of a Metrorail terminus.)

Characteristics

None of the alternatives will meet the design standards of an interstate highway, and Alternates C/D/E and F would have at-grade intersections. Alternate G would have only interchanges with other roads. The costs of the alternatives would range from $2.3 million for the no-build Alternate A, to $250.7 million for one optional version of Alternate F. Alternate F would be slightly more expensive than Alternate G.

The SHA study finds that if the no-build option is adopted, there will be deficiencies in traffic service levels at major intersections, and that new development will be impeded. Traffic levels and accident rates will be at satisfactory levels for the other three options.

The study provides virtually no data as to the impact of traffic upon the Baltimore-Washington Parkway or the effect if the facility were terminated at I-95 instead of at the Parkway. The study indicates there would be more traffic on local roads if the facility stopped at U.S. 1, but provides no real data, except projections, for substantially increased traffic volumes on Md. Rte. 198 and Powder Mill Road. On the other hand, the impact on traffic

Car Care Class at Co-op

The Co-op Service Station Division is offering a car care class on Sunday, September 25 from 2 p.m. - 4 p.m. at the Co-op Tire and Service Center located on Southway.

The free class will be led by the station manager, who will explain the intricacies of the automobile's mechanics and how the various parts interact. The manager will also offer trouble-shooting hints and advice. There will be time for questions.

Persons must register in advance as attendance is limited. For reservations, call Dave Meadows at 474-0046.

UTOPIA HOLDS AUDITIONS FOR "LION IN WINTER"

The Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center will hold auditions for "Lion in Winter" Sunday and Monday, October 2 and 3, at the Utopia Theater. Sunday tryouts will be held at 2 p.m. and the Monday time is 7:30 p.m. Casting requires men and women of various ages. The play will be on stage the last three weeks in November. New talent is invited. For information call John Ward at 345-4487.

volumes at the Md. Rte. 198-U.S. 1 and at the Md. Rte. 198-Md. Rte. 197 intersections would be only minimally affected by the proposed improvements.

Conclusions

Giese told council in his report, "It is my belief that the study fails to provide sufficient data as to the impact on I-95, U.S. 1, and the Parkway for the four alternatives. Also, there is no information as to the impact upon the interchange of the Parkway with the Beltway in Greenbelt."

Giese continued, "It should be noted that a Powder Mill Road option would take a portion of the Agricultural Research Center, which is described by Dr. Putnam (director of the Center) as seeming to 'have as minimal adverse impact as possible, considering the nature of the project.' Dr. Putnam does express concern as to future extensions to the east of the Parkway."

The Way I See It

By Charles F. Schwan, Jr.

Some public matters put to shame the claim of cats to have nine lives. One of these is the Intercounty Connector. This long-proposed "inner beltway" has seemingly met its demise more than once by state legislative action spurred by outraged public opinion. But now county and municipal governments are being asked to comment on a draft environmental statement for the highway and its companion piece, the Rockville Facility. Both would connect I-270 with the Baltimore-Washington Parkway somewhere north of Greenbelt.

Viewed parochially, Greenbelt is justified in continuing its opposition to the project. Already we are the hub of Gasoline (and Diesel) Alley as a result of being crossed by the Parkway, Beltway, Greenbelt Road, and Kenilworth Avenue. We need no more noxious fumes. Nor is it necessary that the Parkway be made even more inviting for use by trucks.

From a broader point of view, that public activity to build the highway continues is an affront to democratic government. It was believed that the matter was laid to rest about 10 years ago by fiat of the Maryland General Assembly. Again, about three years ago, the legislature declared that no more funds could be used to plan the highway.

The cards are made available through the cooperation of the Washington Redskins, the Frito-Lay company and the Greenbelt Police Department.

Who Needs The Other Guy?

So what if some other pizza place has been talking about a refillable soft drink container. First, it's only good for take-out orders. Second, it's good until some time in September. And third, it costs $1.99.

Godfather's Pizza, on the other hand, is extending all refillable soft drink offers—take-out or eat-in. That's right! Whether you have the red or white bucket, our mug—or our recent "Chiller"—bring any one of them in and have it refilled when you buy a medium or large Godfather's Pizza.

And to show you what good sports we are—we'll even refill that others guys container—take-out or eat-in—free!*

One refillable vessel per pizza order
 *With purchase of a medium or large pizza
