Latest Proposal for Lakeside West Includes 7-Story Apartment Complex

by Philip J. Hanyok

The latest proposal from the developers of Parcel 15 (Lakeside West) would dedicate 10 acres to the city for parkland and suggests a seven-story apartment com-

This proposal came at the Greenbelt city council's March 12 work session with Robert Cornell, Tom Keffer (both of Ben Dyer Associates, Inc.) and zoning attorney Russell Shipley. Representing the owner/developer Charles Bresler, Cornell put forth the proposal.

Parcel 15, approximately 20 acres, runs from the lower end of Greenbelt Lake southeastward along the Beltway. The 10 acres to be dedicated to the city would be the western part of the parcel between the lake dam, the Beltway offramp to Kenilworth Avenue and the existing high rise, Charlestowne North.
Cornell told councilmembers that a seven-story, 150-unit apartment complex was Bres-

New Co-op Raises Membership Goal

The new Co-op, Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative (GCC), has raised its initial $60,000 membercapital goal to $80,000. The initial goal was to enable GCC to borrow enough to buy the inventories of both the Co-op Supermarket and Service Station. Now, since they will not be buying the Service Station, the new goal will enable GCC to borrow enough to buy the inventory, the equipment and the leasehold improvements of the Co-op Supe. market, all in one step.

In order to accomplish this, GCC is (1) urging each member to get another member, (2) suggesting that subscribers make another payment on their membership, (3) asking voting members to put in some loan capital or to buy a "Save-Our-Co-op Certificate, and (4) advising everyone with member-capital or stock in the old Co-op (GCI) to request its transfer to the new Co-op, (GCC).

Sale of the Co-op Supermarket and Pharmacy should take place sometime between the 1st and 15th of May. GCC is starting to plan a Celebration to mark the first day's operation under the new ownership.

The new Co-op's Board of Directors is not meeting on its regular meeting day this week because of Good Friday. Instead, it will meet Wednesday the 18th, and then again on Friday the 27th, at the Greenbelt Homes offices. All interested people are invited to attend these meetings. ler's first choice in developing the remaining acreage. His second choice is to build about 60 town houses.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld said he prefers town homes but, if they are not "feasible" because of noise impacts, a high rise might be acceptable. Weidenfeld pointed out that people who live in homes tend to be more community-active than apartment dwellers. He also See PROPOSALS, page 4, col. 1

Council Authorizes Increase In Number of Boats at Lake

by Philip J. Hanyok

The Greenbelt City Council has authorized an increase in the number of boats available for rent at Greenbelt Lake. Council authorized the increase at its April 2 meeting in response to a Dec. 12 request by Gunner's Mate, Inc., that their lease be changed to allow them to maintain 23 boats.

The old lease with the city allowed Gunner's Mate the concessionaires at Attick Park, to operate 16 boats, including two rescue boats. The new lease will allow Gunner's Mate to operate 23. This would include 10 pad-dle boats, 12 rowboats and one rescue boat.

According to Ila M. Bowman, owner of the concession stand, this does not mean all 23 boats would be out on the lake at any one time. In a letter to the city she explained that some boats are kept on the shore in case others become damaged or begin leaking.

She also explained that only one rescue boat is needed because they have a portable motor that can be put on a rowboat if a second rescue boat becomes necessary.

At a city inspection last season the number of boats available for rent was noted to exceed the lease restrictions. Gunner's Mate then requested that their lease be changed to allow 23 instead of 16 boats.

Council member Thomas X. White, who said he was concerned that the increase might cause an "overutilization" of the lake, opposed the change. The other council members voted for the in-

The city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB), which had reviewed the request, recommended that council approve the increase. According to PRAB. operating 23 boats on a lake the size of Greenbelt Lake would not overly stress the lake.

White disagreed. He claimed some parts of the lake are "heavily silted" and therefore that the usable area of water for the boats is reduced.

City Bus

In other action council gave City Manager James K. Giese the authority to purchase a used bus costing about $12,000. Giese said the bus, which has no wheel chair lift, would be examined by a city mechanic before any purchase agreement is final.

Cable Position Council also approved a pro-posal to hire a part-time employee to work on cable programming. This position has already been advertised and the city has received applications for the job. According to Giese, the funding for the position comes from the city's franchise fee with Storer

Fire Department Fund

Council also presented a proc-lamation to the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc., designating April as General Fund Drive Month. Henry Wynkoop vice president and trustee of the department accepted the proclamation.

Telephone Charges Guide Offered to Senior Citizens

Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, announced today that the office has prepared a 'Senior Citizen Guide to New Telephone Charges" for distribution to elderly persons throughout the state.

The "Guide" will help older people understand the changes in telephone service and charges. It wili explain the rates and provide information needed to make informed decisions," said Senator Abrams. "The 'Guide' should answer most of the questions senior citizens have on this confusing subject," she added.

Mrs. Abrams pointed out her concern that to many older persons the telephone is a lifeline and "it is important that they understand their options."

To receive a free copy of the "Guide" or additional information about the telephone charges, older pepople can call 699-2697.

Newest Plan in Tidler Tract Reduces Number of Townhouses

by Katherine Keene

At its meeting on Wednesday, April 4, the Advisory Planning Board (APB) met with attorneys Diane Leasure and George Brugger, representing developer Michael Rose, who plans a residential development on the 83.38 acre Tidler Tract located just outside the city limits. The owners of the property, Harold and Burton Tidler, have requested rezoning from R-R (rural residential, single family, 1.85 units an acre) to R-T (residential townhouses, up to 12 units an acre). Rose is the contract purchaser.

This tract, shaped somewhat like a sausage, lies on moderately hilly land stretching between Mandan Road and Hanover Parkway. It is immediately south of the Windsor Green/Glen Ora townhouses.

Rose's first proposal, of which APB as well as residents of Windsor Green took a dim view, called for 667 townhouses. The new proposal, recently presented to APB, calls for only 382 townhouses and 46 zero-lot-line single family residences. In addition it calls for 41 units of townhouseoffices and 16 English basement apartments scattered through the development. (An "English basement" has its own separate entrance, a kitchen, its own bath, and is a self-contained apartment in the basement of a house. It would be suitable for older re'atives or as a rental unit.)

While the APB clearly wished that more single family units could be made available, the attitude was not hostile toward the revised plans. The 41 townhouseoffices, a commercial development, would run along Hanover Parkway. Some concern was expressed that this construction might result in strip and commercial zoning along the rest of the Parkway. The commercial section is expected to be built in units resembling townhouses (somewhat like the Medical Science Park opposite the Beltway Shopping Center) so that it will harmonize with the residential section.

The single family units would be located in one area near Hanover Parkway, at a greater distance from the high-rise Maryland Trade Center buildings than would be the townhouses. Brugger and Leasure also pointed out that it was necessary to put the single family houses on relatively level land, of which there is little in the Tidler Tract.

The zero-lot-line design means that each house would be on one side of its lot, close to the lot line, with no windows on that side of the house, facing a similar windowless facade of the adjacent house. This design, the petitioners said, would give each residence the benefit of a larger side yard, which could be separated from the street by a fence or shrubs, thus assuring more areas for private family use. California.

It was felt that placing the townhouses on the more hilly terrain would provide more possibilities for under-house parking or basements. Contemplated for these units are rather small garden areas. Brugger explained that "the homeowners' association" would pay for upkeep of the common areas along the stream and in the parking courts. The townhouses would be grouped around parking courts, with the side away from the parking lots to be green areas maintained by the homeowner's association. Brugger noted the developer's desire to retain as many trees as possible.

APB was concerned about traffic generated by the new development. Gene Baumgartner of Greenhorne and O'Mara said that studies have been made of the traffic problems and that improvements in Greenbelt Road might start in 1985 or 1986 to handle the increased traffic. An increase in the road's capacity to six lanes is contemplated from the Parkway to Mandan Road, with traffic lights synchronized for better traffic flow.

A June 27 hearing by the zoning hearing examiner has been set at Upper Marlboro and after a report from APB the City Council will make a recommendation on the rezoning petitions. Final action will be taken by the Prince Georges County Council sitting as the District Council. Because the Tidler property is located outside Greenbelt borders, the District Council will not need a super-majority (six of nine council members) to override Greenbelt's recommendations should the city recommend de-

Letters to the Editor

OPEN LETTER

To the Editor:

In the April 5, 1984 issue of the Greenbelt News Review, Tom White stated, "The proponents of a city sponsored meeting really wanted City of Greenbelt support for pursuing legal and other efforts to have GCI rescind the announced divestiture." That's nonsense!

The motion before the city council meeting on the co-op divestiture issue was: "That the city council initiate a public forum for the purpose of giving citizens an opportunity to express their opinions and obtain suggestions for retaining the cooperative services in the Green-belt community." That motion was supported by the large audience at the council meeting and four members of the city council voted yes in support of the motion. White voted no.

White further stated in his letter that, "We could no more persuade GCI to reconsider than we could convince Twin Pines, another cooperative, not to merge itself out of existence." That statement is nonsense also.

The Twin Pines Board presented a merger proposal at the annual Twin Pines membership meeting and it was approved by the members present. The merger proposal was subsequently approved by two-thirds of the entire Twin Pines membership. In contrast, GCI never presented its divestiture proposal for any type of membership approval.

Let's stop this nonsense and these unwarranted attacks on the SOS Citizens Committee. Citizens certainly have a right to participate in more than one way

SOS Can Be Proud

To the Editor:

We commend the unselfish efforts of those who supported the Save Our Services (SOS) Citizens Committee. Though Tom White has labeled te Committee as "unnecessary", he is apparently out of touch with 1,212 Greenbelters and Co-op consumers who felt it "necessary" to voice their opposition to an action they felt would affect our community negatively.

Our thanks to the petitioners and the many civic and homeowner associations for contributing to a wonderful demonstration of the unity and community spirit for which Greenbelt is noted. Despite the attempts to discredit us, we can be very proud in the knowledge that we have been, and will continue to be, constructive. Let's not allow certain unfortunate remarks of a few to discourage us from supporting the new locally based cooperative, GCC, with dollars and energies.

to preserve the services that the co-op provides in Greenbelt without being criticized in letters to the News Review.

I joined the new Greenbelt co-op organization and the SOS committee, and weeks ago wrote a letter to the News Review urging other citizens to participate in the efforts of both of these organizations.

In view of our common goal, it certainly makes good sense to respect everyone's efforts.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld

Color Commitment Green To the Editor:

It's nice to have the Co-op within walking distance or reached by an easy drive without coping with heavy traffic, but the truth is that efforts to keep the store have ground almost to a halt. It is true that we have raised the first capital that we needed and also true that our bid to purchase the store has been accepted. We still have a problem that at this point looks insurmountable: the bank will not lend us money unless a thousand people have invested a minimum of $10.

We must have about 400 more people show their commitment to the venture by subscribing at least $10. We could do this easily if each person who has contributed would protect that investment by urging a friend or neighbor to subscribe.

The bank is not impressed by signatures expressing dismay at the actions of GCI. It wants real evidence of community interestand to a bank real evidence tends to be colored green, as in green-

The handwriting is on the wall, and all of us who find the store convenient at its present location should read it, because it says "Help!".

Messiah Sing-Along

The Greenbelt-Lanham Chorale will sponsor a community sing of Parts II and III of Handel's Messiah at 7 p.m. on Saturday, April 28 at Grace Brethren Church, 8410 Good Luck Road. A donation is requested.

GCC Must Double Members To the Editor:

I was and continue to be in support of the legal process as described so well by Albert K. Herling. I share with David E. Moran the view that the SOS effort was and continues to be of value to the community. We owe thanks to those who have participated in these attempts to ensure that the grocery, pharmacy and gasoline station services are maintained. We urge diate need, however, is that more Greenbelters sign up as members of Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative so that we can take over as owners and operators of the grocery store and pharmacy. Doubling the present membership of over 500 is the goal-one that no longer should seem unattainable.

Let's have done with disparaging the efforts of anyone. Let's show that we all understand what "cooperative" means. We need everyone's support and good wishes. Let's earn them.

noted that Greenbelt has a "preponderance of apartments."

According to Cornell, Bresler prefers the high rise because town houses have set-back requirements and noise from the Beltway would adversely affect the townhouse residents more than highrise residents.

William Wilkerson, chairman of the city's Advisory Planning Board (APB), who also attended the work session, said he thought the townhouses would be "very affected" by noise, while a highrise "might be affected."

In August 1983 the city sent Bresler a letter outlining four constraints that should be considered in any future development of Parcel 15. First, no building units should be visible from Attick Park, particularly from the lake dam and bandstand areas. Second, problems of noise impact on the residents, especially from the Beltway, should be addressed. Third, any development proposal should include a traffic study identifying and addressing traffic impacts generated by the development. And fourth, the recreational needs of the residents should be addressed. Cornell felt the new proposal would meet the four constraints.

Councilmember Edward Putens said he was very pleased to see that the developers plan to dedicate the 10 acres to the city. "That was my primary concern," he said. APB had previously reviewed three concept plans for development of Parcel 15 and the adjoining Consolidated Syndicates property. On February 19 APB had issued a report in which it gave preliminary approval to a plan for a seven-story 150-unit apartment building. According to the report, however, APB preferred a plan to put 111 townhouses on the two properties which are both owned in part by Bresler. The APB report called the third plan for three sevenstory apartment buildings "unacceptable" because they would create a "great imbalance of apartment units" in the area, they would be visible from the lake, and they would generate too much traffic.

Cornell indicated that the American Legion has reached preliminary agreements with Bresler to purchase the Consolidated Syndicates property, about 10 acres of land on Greenbelt Road between Parcel 15 and the American Legion property and owned in part by Bresler.

Councilmember Richard-Pilski said the Legion wants to purchase the property so that it can expand its recreational area. He also indicated that the Legion may be considering construction of a veterans' home.

Mayor Weidenfeld asked the developer to return with some noise impact and traffic studies so that the APB can better evaluate the new proposal.

An earlier development plan to cluster 46 detached houses and 15 townhouses, which the APB recommended for disapproval, will be withdrawn by the developer from consideration.

Stress of Police Communications Job Causes High Turnover Rate

by Rod Price

It is 3 in the morning, and the sound of breaking glass jolts you from a You hear restful sleep. footsteps and know that an intruder has broken into your house. You quickly reach for the bedside telephone and dial the police department. A calm voice answers, and you frantically whisper that someone's in your house and then recite your address. You expect immediate action and know that your life may be in the hands of the person at the other end of the telephone

In Greenbelt, that person is one of four communications specialists that the city usually employs. 'Usually," because the position has a high turnover rate, and keeping four full-time communications specialists has always been a problem. This might sound surprising for a job whose minimum qualifications are that a person be 18 years old, type 30 words a minute, have a clean driving record, and not have a criminal record. Greenbelt's communications specialists are not even required to be police officers. But when you realize that the communications specialist is the only link between Greenbelt's 17,500 residents and their police force then you know that stressful situations are a part of the

Cindy McKnew knows about the stress. She spent over five years working for the Prince Georges County crisis counseling hotline before coming to Greenbelt in 1977 to be a communications specialist. McKnew spent three years at her post before leaving for a year, and then rejoining the police department as a records clerk. She readily admits to being a victim of job "burnout." Mc-Knew has been back at the communications specialist position since January of 1983, serving in a temporary capacity until the city again has four fullytrained communications special-

The position of communications specialist used to be known as police dispatcher, but considering the wide range of skills the job demands, the newer title seems more appropriate. A communications specialist in Greenbelt answers all incoming calls and walk-in inquiries, as well as maintaining communications between the four to eight police cars that patrol the city. Radio communications between patrol cars and the police department are the main priority. When tak-

YOUTH COACHES CAN BE NOMINATED BY AWARDS

A nationwide awards program will honor 50 volunteer youth baseball and softball coaches who care more about kids having fun than winning. Sponsored by the Quaker Oats Company, the Gatorade Youth Coach Awards will be conducted in cooperation with the National Youth Sports Coaches Association (NYSCA). Coaches of organized youth leagues for players up to 16 years of age are eligible to be nominated by their peers, league administrators or players. ing an emergency call, the communications specialist must quickly obtain the essential information from emotionally distraught people, accurately write it down, and then relay it to the police car that is closest to the area. The stress increases when several calls come in at once, and the communications specialist, has to decide which one needs the quickest attention.

Sgt. Kenneth Stair, a 17-year veteran of the Greenbelt police department, is head of the communications section. During his time on the police force, he has seen many communications specialists come and go. According to Stair, only one out of three potential communications specialists makes it through the sixweek training program. The maximum length of service for communications specialists has been around three years.

Stair hopes that a budget request for a fifth communications specialist will be granted to ease the pressure on the four specialists whose work shifts do not overlap. He also thinks the longevity of the communications specialists would be increased by having them attend stress and burnout courses that are being offered by the University of Delaware.

Stair knows the importance of having a competent communications specialist. He remembers the story of a dispatcher at another police department who mistakenly said a suspect was armed and the error resulted in a fatal shooting. "Sometimes a splitsecond decision can be just as deadly as a gun," says Sgt. Stair.

"Excellence of Education" Panel Provides Many Views

by June Webb

Excellence in Education: What do we do next? This was the topic of a panel discussion on Tuesday, November 15, presented by the Roosevelt PTSA, which offered the perspectives of local, state, national and business representatives.

Susan Bienasz, of the Prince Georges County Board of Education, called inadequate funding the major problem in striving for excellence in education. At present, only 28% of the population has children in school, and there is a decreasing interest in, and willingness to fund, education. She sees a need to amend TRIM, which restricts the funding of education severely, and said that students may have to pay in future for certain activities that used to be free. She also said it is unlikely that the size of classes will be reduced

Some efforts the county is making to improve educational opportunities include assistance to children in families that move frequently, and vocational education. Requirements have been increased in the amount of math and social studies needed for graduation. Also, the school board voted $500,000 last year to improve math education, with teachers being retrained in math.

Input of Business Community J. D. Coleman, Staff Director of the National Business Consortium for the Gifted and Talented, said that business has been ap proached for help by schools because of lack of public funds for education, and some have funded programs, adopted schools, lent their expertise to management and encouraged businessmen to teach their specialties. The National Business Consortium itself does no fundraising. Its purpose is to organize units, locally and state-wide into a partnership between business and the schools for the support of education of the gifted and talented. The state of Maryland does not participate in this program, saying there is no need for it.

Coleman asked parents who are in the business world to get their businesses involved. They should tell their legislators that they want educational funding so they will have the courage to vote for funding.

Alternative Methods

Former State Senator Meyer Emmanuel, of the Governor's Task Force on Funding of Education, said that although TRIM indicated that citizens are unwilling to pay for schools through the property tax, there are alternative methods to raise the needed funds, which he said the county has not pursued. He added that the state legislature is not willing to spend more on education in Prince Georges County if the county does not make efforts to help itself. He castigated county politicians for not having the courage to tel' people that an increase in taxes necessary to support the schools.

Federal Role

Dr. Tom Tomlinson, Director of Research of the National Commission on Excellence in Education which issued a report that has done much to revive interest in education, saw the federal role in education as being one of leadership. The federal government should support research and ensure equity in educational programs, leaving the funding to local taxes, as is traditional.

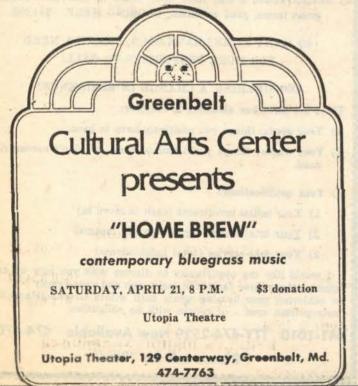

local taxes, as is traditional.

He felt federal support should be focused on teacher training and retraining in subjects like math and science where there are shortages, and on curriculum reform, with emphasis on basic academic subject matter. Students have been sold short, he said wherever basics are either not available or not required. Children must be taught how to learn.

Tomlinson said there was little data on the relationship between the size of classes and effectiveness of learning at the high school level, and that in certain areas, large lecture classes might make for more efficient use of teachers.

Parents should exert their influence, supporting their children by supervising homework and generating public enthusiasm for the cause of quality education. Otherwise the public's current interest in education will turn again to apathy.

Roosevelt PTSA President Dave Merkowitz led a period in which several parents asked whether there was any chance of amending TRIM. They seemed to believe that a major obstacle to educational excellence is the lack of adequate funding.

Our sympathies to Ruthlee Kolbe on the death of her husband Casper, and to Elva Keys on the death of her husband Otis.

Greenbelt friends of Frank and Bernice Mixon are saddened to hear of the recent death of Bernice in Keyser, West Virginia. Condolences are extended to former resident Frank and daugh ter Edna Ruth and her family.

Our deepest sympathy to City Manager James K. Giese on the death of his uncle, Lester Matthes of Marietta, Ohio.

Oren Stern, son of Dr. David and Audrey Stern of Lakeside Drive, is to be commended on receiving an honorable mention award at a recent four-county-wide (Prince Georges, Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's) science fair. He won in the area of mathematics and computers. Oren is a student at Eleanor Roosevelt High Scool.

Jim and Mary Agnes Smith visited Greenbelt recently, when they came back to the U.S. so that Jim could attend meetings at the Department of Agriculture. They moved to New Delhi, India, last June. Jim works in a cooperative program between our agriculture department and the Indian government. According to Janet James, Jim remarked that he loves his work in India and considers it the best job he as ever had-exactly the kind of work he was trained to do. They send greetings to Greenbelt friends they were unable to see in the short time they were here. A second reason for the U.S. visit by the Smiths was the wedding in Minneapolis, Minnesota, of their daughter Carla Jean to Charles Fisher Sawyer on Saturday, April 14.

Duplicate Bridge games at the Greenbelt Youth Center every Friday evening at 7:30 are drawing new members from Greenbriar, according to Peg Wainscott, who reports last week's winners as Margie and Curt Stout, with Ruth Schuetzel and Peg coming in second.

Bridge games on the national scale brought honors to Mark Shaw of Hanover Parkway. He and his partner outscored 64 other players in one session of the Red River Open Pairs one-day contest at the 1984 Spring North

by Sue Cornelius

Greenbelt Soccer had another fantastic weekend without one single loss! This season is proving to be one that belongs exclusively to Greenbelt. The little six-year-olds tied New Carrollton 2-2, with Adam Wheatley scoring the first goal on a penalty kick, and Scott Lubey scoring the second on a run downfield, dancing around the other team. Shannon Shea looked great in goal during the second half.

Both 8-year-old teams won, Greenbelt 1 beat New Carrollton by a close 1-0 score. Mike Davis scored the only goal of the game on a penalty kick. Nimrod Levy and Cammy Bogan both looked terriffic during the entire game. This team is showing great team effort and good sportsmanship. Greenbelt 2 soundly beat Beltsville 5-0. Jamie Brignoli scored a hat-trick (three goals in one game) and Stevie Klem scored twice. Rookies Jason Everhart and Sara Vacin have learned so much already, and played really tough game.

The 10-year-olds beat New Carrollton 3-0. Jonathan Schacter scored once, and Steve Tapley scored on a corner kick from Jonathan. Alex Collmer scored the third and final goal on a pass from Bjorn Johnson. Zaki Omar played a controlled and strong defensive position.

The 12-year-old team won 1-0 in a heart-stopper of a game. The team scored early on a penalty kick by Sasha Gomelsky, then played excellent defense to keep New Carrollton from scoring. Pat Heaney played great goalie all game. During the last minute of play Stacy Mehringer made the save of the day, keeping the other team from scoring and really won the game.

The 14-year-olds tied 1-1, with Daryl Brooks scoring the Greenbelt goal. Danny Krieger was great as goalie. What a team!

Sandy Daston Bakes Her Way to San Diego

Sandy Daston flashes a smile for the Pillsbury photographer as she prepares her recipe — cinnamon raisin snack bars - in the bake-off finals.

by Sandra Barnes

A 1984 Pillsbury Bake-Off finalist, Cassandra (Sandy) Daston of Greenbelt, is a petite, darkhaired nutritionist. She caught the Pillsbury bake-off bug ten years ago when she entered her first bake-off contest and miraculously, became a finalist. Then she was a 21-year-old student at the University of Maryland and baked cookies and cakes to relax and take her mind off her studies. The contests are held every other year, and Sandy since then has entered most of them.

This year, her prize-winning recipe, Cinnamon Raisin Snack Bars, won her a trip to San Diego in January with 109 finalists, among them her friend and fellow baker, Mark Schiffman of Seabrook. Schiffman and his wife Joan, and Sandy have been holding "mini-bake-offs" with their friends. They concoct a number of recipes, invite their friends over, pass out rating sheets, and choose the treats they will enter in the contest. Sandy's recipe was in the flour

BIG KIDS SOCCER

Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club Soccer Coaching Staff played their first game of the season Saturday, March 31, and won 2-1. The team is composed of the coaches in Greenbelt, as well as friends and parents of young soccer players. They play in the co-ed league, which consists of 5 teams, all of them from Green-

The 12-year-old team coach Theresa Downs scored one of the goals on a well placed penalty kick. Chris Collins, a left wing, scored the other, also on a penalty kick. The six-year-old team coach, Jane Cosner, played a center forward. Team "field general" Jeff Williams was quoted as saying, "Our team was so ready for this game We've been practicing for so long, and we were psyched." Isidore Lynch, coach of the 8-year-olds, played a vital midfield position; also playing were "superb sub" coach Lee Johnson, Pattie Farley, goalie Scott Wheeler, Alan Law and Larry Hilliard.

category while Mark entered the crescent roll category. In addition to the all-expense paid trip to San Diego for four days, they won an electric can opener and had a lot of fun competing for $130,000 in cash prizes.

Sandy's culinary endeavors are a natural part of her interest in food. She is a health educator with Behavior Sciences Corporation in Greenbelt and with Control Data Corporation. She works with persons who have problems controlling their weight.

"The biggest problem in dieting is that people forbid themselves, she feels. 'If you don't like cottage cheese, you shouldn't eat it," she advises firmly. What she does recommend is eating the foods you like-but in moderation. "Food is an important part of life. I love to eat," she exclaims passionately.

Having been a finalist twice, she has one more chance to try to be one of the big winners. already thinking about 1986 and trying out some new cake recipes on her friends. There are probably a lot of people in Greenbelt who would like to get

by Sandra Barnes
The Greenbelt City Council decided at its Monday, April 2 meeting to move without delay to facilitate sidewalk and facade improvements to the Roosevelt Center. Council met on March 28 with Center owner George Christacos, at which time Christacos agreed to work cooperatively with the city and tenants of the Center businesses to make major improvements to the shopping mall. As a result of this meeting, Councilman Tom White drew up an agenda directing the city staff to draft an agreement with Christacos on improvements he would undertake. Staff was also asked to develop a comprehensive report and timetable for completion of the improvements by July.

White asked for a formal agreement with Christacos for completion of the sidewalks, the planters, curbing and other improvements to the Center's public areas. Staff was directed also to evaluate the best approaches for the development of facade and signage improvements to the buildings in cooperation with the owner, the Advisory Planning Board, and the tenants. Assistance from the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission (MNCPPC) for this phase of the work is expected.

Mike McLaughlin, Administrative Assistant, advised the council that MNCPPC could begin their study almost immediately, temporarily putting aside the bikeway study it has been working on for the city. Council agreed that the Roosevelt Center renovation and revitalization was the city's number one priority and should come before the bikeway study.

The third phase of White's agenda included preparation of a plan by the staff for the completion of the Roosevelt Center improvement project including overall concept; scheduled dates for completion of specific tasks; outline of council motions, resolutions, ordinances and public hearing requirements; financing options and a report on the application of historic preservation easements for the facade. Council unanimously adopted White's plan.

Since the MNCPPC would begin work on the Roosevelt Center facelift this year, council was asked to set priorities for additional projects it would like the planning agency to study in 1985.

After some discussion, council identified the following four projects: Bikeways; Old/Greenbelt/New Greenbelt, which will identify ways to preserve the community concepts inherent in the original formation of the city and incorporating those concepts into the "new" community that has emerged; improvements to Greenbelt's ballfields; and the Greenbelt Gateway, a study of the impact of upgrading the Greenbelt Road-Kenilworth Avenue intersection to an interchange.

Councilman White asked the staff to look into the traffic and parking design at Beltway Plaza now that Wendy's has opened and a second restaurant, Bennigans, taurants, located within the parking area, seem to have a negative impact on the traffic flow. Mayor Weidenfeld called attention to the exit sign for Wendy's which is located near the main entrance to the shopping mall while the entrance requires driving around the building. An unwitting driver might mistakingly enter through the exit, thereby causing a head-on collision with another vehicle. Councilmember Toni Bram also mentioned that the back parking lot is in a sad state of disrepair and that there Stress and Aging The Greenbelt Recreation Department along with the Gray Panthers and the Golden Age Club will present a talk/workshop on Stress Management by Helen Geller on April 21, 1 p.m., in the meeting room of the Greenbelt Library.

Geller is presently doing grad-uate work in stress management in the Department of Health Education, University of Maryland. She will discuss such topics as What is stress? How does it affect the mind and the body? What are some particular stress problems related to aging? She will also teach some relaxation techniques and exercises.

The three sponsoring groups encourage people of all ages to attend, particularly people fac-ing problems with older family members and friends. For more information, call 474-6878.
