Greenbelt's Organizations Gearing Up To Celebrate City's 50th Anniversary

by Sandy Smith

From cookies to conferences, and scrapbooks to flags—the community organizations of Greenbelt are gearing up for the city's 50th anniversary in 1987. Events are being organized now, although all plans are not final on many of the activities still two years away.

An activity for all community organizations is the preparation of the 50th Anniversary Book. Coordinated by the Greenbelt News Review staff, the anniversary book will chronicle Greenbelt's development and history, through its community groups, over the past 50 years. Mary Lou Williamson, News Review editor and chairman of this subcommittee, reports that letters have been sent to over 50 community organizations notifying them of this project. Organizations are being asked to make sure that their histories are up to date and, if not, to begin to gather the information. By the end of the year, the organizations will be called upon to submit their write-ups and then the book will begin to take shape. If your organization has not received a notice, contact Mary Lou Williamson (441-2662) or leave a message with Dorothy Lauber at the city offices (474-8000).

Maps, Flags and Scrapbooks Citizens For Greenbelt is considering another project—the creation of a new master map of Greenbelt. Since the last maps were prepared, many new residential and commercial centers have been built, parkland acquired and developments annexed. Citizens for Greenbelt will undertake the preparation of a new master map to include these new areas. Copies of the map can then be produced and made available for visitors and residents alike. Eunice Coxon, president of the citizens group, said that the organization feels that a new map will be an important contribution to a city which has experienced such rapid recent growth.

Austin Green reports on the plans of the George H. Shield Chapter of the DAV and American Legion Post No. 136. The DAV will present a 50th anniversary flag to the city, probably during the City Council's first meeting in June 1987. An antique car display during the Labor Day Festival is also being considered by the DAV members.

Among the projects of the American Legion is an anniversary dance. It will be scheduled for a weekend evening in the summer of 1987. Possible sites for the dance include the Legion or local hotels.

Center School PTA is updating its scrapbook as a 50th Anniversary project. Among other entries, the scrapbook contains pictures of early PTA groups. Most of the mothers in those pictures are wearing suits, gloves and hats, according to Leta Mach, PTA president. Current pictures of school activities will be added.

Cookies and Tea

Have a favorite cookie recipe? Save it for the "original" Greenbelt Cookie Contest sponsored by Greenbelt Homemakers. Home-maker Faye Anderson has learned that cookie contests were popular in Greenbelt's early years.

The Women's Club of Greenbelt will host a reception and tea for the first families of Greenbelt and the American Legion, a luncheon.

Greenbelt Homes Inc. will participate in arranging bed and breakfast accommodations for visitors attending the "International Conference on New Towns." Residents throughout the city will be asked to furnish housing for the many participants expected to come to the conference from other planned towns in the United States and from other countries in April 1987. GHI is also providing secretarial support for the conference.

House and Garden Tours

Housing associations throughout Greenbelt are expected to participate in a Grand 50th Anniversary House and Garden Tour, in the spring of 1987. Other Greenbelt residents were invited to attend this year's Greenbelt Homes, Inc. House and Garden Tour. On the suggestion of Janet James, Chairman of the 1985 GHI Tour, GHI agreed to plan a "humdinger" of a tour in coordination with other citizens' associations in 1987. Individual civic groups have held tours in the past, but this would be the first time that different parts of the city would be on tour at once.

Imagine for a Moment the Logistical Problems

by Cheryl Jones

Today finds us just about at the mid-point of our month-long volunteer and fund drive on behalf of the Greenbelt News Review. As you can see by the thermometer, we have received a total of $1,475 in contributions. This includes $875 received this week. Nine additional persons have called about volunteer jobs, for a two-week total of 35. Although the volunteer total now exceeds our modest goal of 30 people, there are a very large number of editorial, advertising, and circulation jobs which need to be done. Some are major ones which require weekly commitment, such as the circulation manager for Springhill Lake Apartments or an office manager or an advertising manager. Other jobs require very little time, such as troubleshooting circulation problems near your home.

The community's response to the campaign has been positive. We have received, along with the checks, notes of gratitude to the paper and wishes for a successful campaign. A past carrier of the News Review (1966-1971), David Warner, wrote . . . "Hope the enclosed contribution helps a bit. The News Review is a large part of what Greenbelt is." Well said, Warner, for a great many of us the News Review is Greenbelt. It embodies the spirit of community and cooperation that has made this city what it is today.

The Steering Committee of the Friends of the Greenbelt News Review Committee is made up of people from all over the Greenbelt area. Dave Lange, our chairman, is from Lakeside; Becky Putens—

by Katherine Keene

"Arsenic and Old Lace" is almost forty years old, but is sheer delight from beginning to end and still very funny indeed. This is true even though the plot revolves around murder, insanity, and sadism. But there's something awfully genteel about the murder and the insanity, and the sadist is nicely foiled before he can practice his sadism. It is definitely worth seeing. When we think about the dangers of nuclear war, the hot summer ahead, the anti-intellectual temper of our time, famine in Ethiopia (the list is endless) clearly it's worth a trip to the Utopia to laugh one's head off for a change.

Reviving a play as well known as this is difficult for amateurs: many in the audience will have seen it either in its movie form or on Broadway. It is rather like a high school orchestra playing "Silent Night"—everyone will know if anybody flubs the dub on even one night. However, there was very little flubbing in this production.

First, the set was impressive. It is supposed to be the living room of a house in Brooklyn Heights, adequate family money, rather 1890ish. This it is, even to a quite wonderful large picture of grandfather in a gilt frame in the stairwell. The stairs are firm, with no strange thumps as the characters go upstairs. It is a good job of creating a faintly period piece living room that blends with the personalities of the family. Should persons exist who are bothered by the lack of curtains covering the top of the set, such are reminded that the Utopia could use generous contributions to remedy such defects.

The acting was sufficiently good for the most part for one to forget that it was just a stage play. Marie Tousignant and Judy Holland were a most convincing pair of elderly sisters. Holland should, however, work on projecting her voice. Not only did these two say their lines in a convincing, natural manner but their gestures and movements were consistent with their parts, not so overdone as to make them caricatures of elderly ladies.

Jeff Beyrent and Bruce Miller as the nephews, most dissimilar in character, were also very well done. Miller plays as sinister a man as one could never wish to meet without the over-emoting and hamming that so frequently ruin this part. Gary Smith as Teddy Brewster, who has himself confused with Teddy Roosevelt, likewise performs without crossing the border between comic and slapstick, contenting the audience by being very comic indeed. A. C. Mendenhall playing Dr. Einstein, the partner of the sinister sadist Jonathan, likewise does not over-play his part.

Unfortunately the weakest acting is at the start, when for some reason Skip Cote plays the Rev.

Open Letter on Charrette

Dear Mayor Weidenfeld:

On Saturday, June 1, 1985, your city held a "charrette" to redesign the City Center of Greenbelt. The City requested the assistance of architects, landscape architects, and citizens in this venture. I was one of the professionals who participated in the competition.

While the discussions with the citizens and ultimate outcomes of our designs were productive and enjoyable, the finale was a disappointment. What was designed to be a competition ended in a supposed "hung jury," with no particular scheme being selected a winner.

Many architects contributed to these projects for a variety of reasons: 1) the enjoyment of urban design, 2) the challenge of competition with our peers, and 3) the opportunity to serve as representatives of our firms. We take pride in our success in these competitions and the publicity and prestige that is afforded the winners.

Understanding this, you can appreciate our frustration in the nullification of the competition. I understand from a subsequent conversation with a jury member that no single design possessed all the desirable characteristics for the City Center; therefore, no single winner could be selected. While I expect the final design will most likely contain the best of all the ideas presented, the jury should still have been able to select from among the best at the competition.

Without the recognition and honor that comes with being named winner, I feel that we were being "used" by the City to provoke ideas without any credit being given to the professionals who offered their services. It certainly will give me pause in contributing to any future projects run by the City of Greenbelt.

Advice for Tax Payers On Estimated Tax Forms

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says the state income tax division and the savings and loan hotline are receiving many inquiries from customers of state chartered savings and loan institutions about their June 15, 1985 estimated tax payments.

"Taxpayers whose funds are tied up in these savings and loan institutions should file their 2nd quarter tax form by June 15 and pay what they can," Goldstein said. "A taxpayer who cannot pay the entire amount due should note on the tax form that theirs is a savings and loan case and write the name of the savings and loan on the form as well."

Comptroller Goldstein advised taxpayers that they would not be penalized as long as they make up the 2nd quarter under-payment on their 3rd and 4th quarterly payments, due September 15 and January 15, 1986, respectively.

Estimated tax payments are made by individuals who have income not subject to withholding.

City Hears County Plans For Highway Improvements

by Virginia Beauchamp

Road Building will become the norm in Greenbelt within the next two years if current projections of county and state officials come to pass. Going on simultaneously during some periods will be the reconstruction of the Kenilworth Ave.-Greenbelt Rd. interchange (scheduled for completion in the summer of 1987), the widening of Greenbelt Rd. to six lanes between Mandan Rd. and the hook-up with the Kenilworth intersection, the widening of the exit ramp from the northbound lane of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway, and the extension of Hanover Parkway south to Good Luck Rd. In addition, if an act of Congress frees up federal funds, the Greenbelt Rd. overpass of the Parkway will also be widened, including reconstruction and widening of the southbound ramp from Southway to the Parkway.

This prospect was sketched out by state and county officials at an informational meeting held at the request of the city. Organized by Fern Peret, aide to county executive Parris Glendening, the meeting was held on Wednesday, May 23, in the Municipal Building. Present for the briefing were the mayor and city council of Greenbelt (except Richard Pilski), City Manager James K. Giese, Administrative Assistant Michael McLaughlin, county councilman Richard Castaldi, and several developers of Greenbelt properties.

Hanover Parkway

The first of these projects to get underway, according to James Novak, Director of Public Works and Transportation for Prince Georges County, will be the extension of Hanover Parkway. All permits but one—that from the Health Dept. — have now been acquired, Novak said. Earlier problems with the alignment of the roadway have been resolved, he said, and funds are available. The project is "in final design," Novak said, "nearly ready to go to bid." He expected that actual construction — estimated to take nine months — would begin in September.

Hanover Parkway will connect with Good Luck Rd. opposite its intersection with Princess Garden Parkway. (Princess Garden will undergo some rebuilding also, Castaldi said, when it is widened at its other end, near the intersection with route 450.) This project will be carried out by the State Highway Administration.)

Although the right-of-way for Hanover Parkway has not yet been acquired, a permit to build has been agreed on between property owners and the county. In fact, the agreement had been worked out earlier on the very day of the meeting, Novak reported.

Widening of Greenbelt Rd.

Although Greenbelt Rd. is a state highway, the county, using Tax Incremental Financing District (TIF) funds, will take responsibility for the widening of that stretch of the road from Mandan Rd. to the connection with the Kenilworth Ave. interchange. Novak said that the county expected to contract for the road widening in the spring of 1986, with the project taking some six to eight months to complete. Michael Snyder, District Engineer for the State Highway Administration, confirmed the state's willingness to issue a construction permit to the county for the road widening.

As part of this project, an official left turn lane will be constructed to give access from the east to the Lutheran church. (Church officials have long requested such a lane, Castaldi said.)

‡Parkway Bridge

Omitted from the county's design plans, however, will be the bridge carrying the highway over the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. Because of a jurisdictional complication, no money can be authorized for bridge reconstruction without an act of Congress. This complication occurred in 1970, when the Federal Highway Act transferred the Parkway to the state of Maryland and Maryland declined to accept jurisdiction.

For two years Rep. Steny Hoyer has been trying to get Congressional action on a bill (HR 595) to transfer the Parkway back to the federal government. Last year the bill died at the end of the Congressional session. Currently it is in committee. Funds for road improvement cannot be released until the bill is passed.

Nevertheless, $200,000 for design of the Greenbelt Rd. bridge has been issued to the state, under pressure from Hoyer, so that the bridge engineering (which includes exit ramps in both directions) can be coordinated with the county's project to widen Greenbelt Rd. Presently the Federal Highway Administration, according to Snyder, will neither advance construction funds nor promise that money allocated by either state or county administrations would be reimbursed. But "everybody is optimistic," Snyder said, that the Congressional appropriations bill will be approved. Cost estimates for the bridge reconstruction are $1 million.

When the question was raised to Novak concerning the bottleneck that the four-lane bridge would become for the six-lane segments of the highway on either end, Novak commented: "We're using the six lanes as a driving force to compel somebody to do something about that bridge. Whoever is in charge of that bridge will look pretty foolish. We plan to move forward as aggressively as we can."

Parkway Ramps

Whether or not federal funds are forthcoming, the county expects to move forthrightly, as part of the Greenbelt Rd. widening, to improve the present northbound exit ramp from the Parkway. Following urging by Castaldi, the county will commit a few thousand dollars from TIF district revenues to pave the shoulder, adding a new right-turn lane in order to provide further storage for cars backed up at the light opposite the Greenway Center.

This is seen as an interim solution only. In the Parkway bridge redesign, the exit ramp is expected to be moved some distance east of the Greenway Center access road.

Rebuilding of the southbound on-ramp from Southway, which will tie into the federal bridge project, will occur at a later time. This ramp will not be abandoned, however, as had been suggested in an earlier county proposal that the city council objected to. It will continue as one of two southbound ramps, the other being a new access ramp to circle the Toaping Castle Pepco substation in the Golden Triangle. No estimate was given as to when such a ramp would be constructed.

In reference to the design of the Parkway bridge, council member Tom White asked whether a pedestrian walkway is being included, as council had earlier requested. Snyder said he would pass on that information to the design engineers.

"It's the practical thing to do at that time," said Mayor Gil Weidenfeld. All agreed that the north side of the bridge would be the preferred location for such a walkway.

Long-Range Projects

In the time remaining, White introduced the topic of future widening of Cherrywood Lane, which is slated to provide access from the south to the Greenbelt METRO station. White described the present road as built on "an ad hoc basis." The section along the Beltway Shopping Center, originally named Gentry Drive, was only later connected with the residential street in Springhill Lake in order to provide a second exit for the residential community.) Because of the close proximity of commercial structures, White pointed out, little flexibility is allowed in road design.

Novak acknowledged that the project to widen the 60-foot section immediately north of Greenbelt Rd. is now "under design." The plan calls for a five-lane road with the center lane used for left turns in both directions. (The city council, who recently granted a waiver for a driveway from Breezewood to the future Chi-Chi's restaurant, were concerned because the driveway does not intersect with the opposing driveway in front of the A & P super-market.)

Peret said that the county prove a capital improvements program that will include funds to design the widening of Kenilworth Ave. from Ivy Lane north to the proposed intersection with Cherrywood Lane extended, a spot just north of the present SHA salt dome that is adjacent to the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center. Construction is not expected before six years, she said.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld requested a letter from the county designating all scheduling estimates — for design completion, bidding, and construction — on the various projects discussed during the meeting. He also asked that the city be kept informed of future construction plans further north toward Laurel, since traffic generated by new developments outside Greenbelt inevitably funnels through the major arteries that intersect within Greenbelt.

Council is soon expected to ap-

ADOPT A TREE

One of the projects of the 50th Anniversary Committee of the City of Greenbelt is "Adopt-a-Tree", which will begin on the second weekend of October and continue into the fall of 1987, the 50th anniversary date.

The first shovel of dirt for Greenbelt was turned over on October 12, 1935. To commemorate this event as part of Greenbelt's 50th Anniversary celebration, and as a kick-off for the Adopt-a-Tree project, a commemorative tree will be planted in the Lake area this fall. Plans are under way to make this day a festive occasion featuring a concert, family picnic, sports events, prizes, and speakers for the dedication and celebration.

Varieties of trees to be planted are pin oak, red oak, willow oak, linden, red maple, sugar maple, red beech, Bradford pear, flowering crab, dogwood and Yoshino cherry. The preliminary cost of a tree to donors will range between $18.50 and $32.50. Trees donated for city property will be planted by the city and those on private property by the donor.

Sites for plantings are all over Greenbelt, including the median strip on Kenilworth Avenue, along Greenbelt Road, in the parks, the commercial areas, and throughout the neighborhoods. Donors may also purchase and plant their own trees on their private property. The committee will select the tree and site of planting if requested by the donor. Individuals, groups, churches, clubs, and businesses are encouraged to become involved in the project. Names of all donors and memorials will be kept on display in the new Greenbelt Museum.

Citizens will be informed as further plans materialize. Applications for Adopt-a-Tree are available from the city office, Co-op Supermarket, and the following committee members: George Smith, Director of Public Works; Bob Greig of PRAB; Don Wolfe, Secretary; Jerry Conway Treasurer (474-6433); and Michael Burchick, Chairman (474-6587). City Manager Jim Giese has agreed to act as a consultant. Suggestions and comments are welcome.

Dr. Harper too woodenly. Since his second appearance as Officer O'Hara in the second act is quite lively, it may be assumed that Cote was reaching for clerical solemnity, but he over-stretched. In Act I the failure of one of the policemen to remove his hat indoors in the presence of the obviously genteel Brewster sisters was distracting.

The over-all best thing about this production is that it was restrained. The living room is not too period piece. Teddy is not too ridiculous. The sisters are just genteel enough, not simplistically so. Marie Tournant directed. According to the program this is her first directing, and we trust she is eager to direct more plays.

See it. Enjoy, enjoy.

News Review History; Community Support thru Volunteers and Funds

This fall the Greenbelt News Review will begin its forty-ninth year of continuous publication. Originally, a letter-size mimeographed publication consisting of sixteen pages, then titled the Greenbelt Cooperator, the paper began publication on November 24, 1937 — within six weeks after the first Greenbelt families had unpacked their household belongings.

History

Much is owed to the early Pioneers who recognized the immediate need for a news medium to keep people informed of local events and to provide a forum for the exchange of views. They laid down the principles that still guide the actions of the present News Review — a non-partisan non-profit, cooperative endeavor, whose aims are to print the news accurately and fairly and to reflect the Greenbelt "good neighbor" philosophy of life.

At first the paper was prepared at the homes of various staff members. In January 1938 the Federal Government (which owned Greenbelt at that time) made space available at the center free of cost, and also loaned much-needed furniture, typewriters, and office equipment. From its original second-floor quarters in the commercial center, the paper moved its offices four times before finally coming to rest in the present basement office at 15 Parkway.

With the withdrawal of the Federal Government from town, Greenbelt Homes, Inc., through its wholly-owned subsidiary, Greenbelt Development Corporation, continued the Federal policy of providing free office space with the paper reimbursing the corporation for out-of-pocket expenses.

Free Delivery

An important development in the history of the newspaper was the decision to deliver the Cooperator free of charge to every home in town, beginning with the issue of September 7, 1939. The additional cost of local distribution was small, and this radical change of policy provided larger circulation figures, which could be used as evidence of the value of advertising in the Cooperator, once its distribution had become community wide. The town government engaged more and more space for publication of pending ordinances, budgets and the like.

The policy of free distribution remained unchanged until July 1953, when the paper was forced by financial straits to go to a subscription basis — $3 a year. The response was fairly encouraging, but the added cost of maintaining subscription records convinced the governing body that the additional income was not worth the additional workload. More important, the board wanted every resident to receive the paper. In January 1955 the paper returned to city-wide circulation.

Financial difficulties continued to plague the newspaper, and appeals were made to the businesses and organizations in town for funds. Finally, in April 1959, the News Review resorted to a house-to-house community-wide drive for funds. Organized by the drive chairman, Elaine Skolnik, who was aided by 125 volunteer court collectors, the drive netted over $1,500. It proved such an unqualified success that it was renewed again the following year.

The yield from these drives was sufficient to meet the needs for many years. In 1966, a fund drive was launched by the Greenbelt Freedom of the Press Committee to help the paper defend itself against libel charges.

Libel Suit

The libel charges arose out of the paper's publication of remarks by citizens at a public city council meeting regarding a proposal made to the city by a local developer, Charles Bresler. A Prince Georges County jury found the remarks libelous and a $17,500 judgment awarded Bresler was later affirmed by the Maryland Court of Appeals. The U.S. Supreme Court, however, in May 1970, reversed and vacated the judgment, ruling that the News Review was "performing its wholly legitimate function as a community newspaper when it published full reports of these public debates in its news columns." To hold otherwise, the high court said, "would subvert the most fundamental meaning of a free press."

During the 4-year legal struggle, the Freedom of the Press Committee collected over $30,000 from the community to help meet legal expenses and to pay the judgment in case of unsuccessful appeal. ($20,000 was later returned to contributors).

Staffing

The entire staff consists of volunteer workers, most of whom have joined the paper as their contribution to their community's activities. Since March 1957, nominal payments have been authorized to the editorial staff and to columnists — when finances permit, of course. There have been 39 changes in editorship during the paper's 47 years. The position has been held by Mary Lou Williamson for the past 13 years. There are 47 staff members.

An innovation begun several years ago, augmenting the staff through an agreement with the Departments of English and Journalism of the University of Maryland to accept placement of student interns, is being augmented this fall by adding an advertising intern.

Interns have participated in the regular work of writing and editing copy for this paper. The program is sponsored by the Al-

Windsor Green; Mark Davis — Woodland Hills; Mary Jo Amani —GHI; Ann Pisano and Cheryl Jones — Lakewood. Last week Dave Lange talked about how the committee came into being. This week I'd like to talk a little bit about the monumental effort that has gone into making the volunteer and fund drive a reality.

Imagine for a moment, if you will, the logistical problem of a drive with the two-fold purpose of collecting volunteers and money; add to this the need to contact 500 businesses and more than 8,000 residences and you'll have some idea of our initial problem.

Mark Davis did a terrific job of generating the list of commercial enterprises in the area. Using phone books, building directories, and sometimes just physically scouting various areas, he was able to gather the names, addresses, and phone numbers of the almost 500 businesses in Greenbelt. He then entered all this information into a data base in his computer so that it could be used with the mass mailing we had planned.

Becky Putens took on the responsibility of drafting the letter we would be sending out to the businesses, and drafting the article for the News Review that kicked off our campaign and was also reprinted for the residential campaign.

Mary Jo Amani designed the flyer for residential distribution and wrote want ads for the various positions "open" at the News Review. I'm sure that everyone would agree that her humorous approach was creative and quite an attention getter.

Ann Pisano called the apartment M. Skolnik Memorial Fund. This fund also provides for a yearly $100 Savings Bond to be awarded to an outstanding Eleanor Roosevelt graduate interested in the field of writing. Except for the interns, all staff members are volunteers — a fact which makes particularly notable the paper's absolute continuity since that first issue 47 years ago.

At present over 9,800 free copies of the News Review are distributed weekly to homes in Greenbelt, including Springhill Lake, Greenbriar, Glen Oaks, Windsor Green, and Hunting Ridge, and to Greenbelt office buildings and shopping centers.

ment developments in the area to determine the number of units in each, their usual distribution methods for the News Review, and whether or not they allowed solicitation. All of this information had to be considered before a decision could be made on how best to reach these areas.

Press releases and public service announcements for local newspapers, radio stations, and cable TV were written and mailed by Cheryl Jones.

Dave Lange had the task of keeping us organized and on schedule. There were, of course, hundreds of other things we were either doing or considering, but these were the major jobs.

All that work, before one letter was mailed or one door knocked on! Our next step was to rent a Post Office Box, print out (via computer) the 500 individualized letters, type 500 envelopes, stuff the letters into the envelopes and mail them out. The 9,000 or so flyers with their return envelopes were assembled and placed in plastic bags by the committee and volunteers from the various neighborhoods. These very same packets that one of your neighbors has already, or will in the very near future, deliver to you. Don't put it aside and forget about it. As hard as we have all worked on this campaign, it is nothing compared to the 47 years of service that the News Review has given this community. Send

"Indian Spear Point" Named Just a Rock

by Betsy Likowski

What looks like an Indian artifact sometimes isn't an Indian artifact. Such was the case with the "Indian spear point" found in Greenbelt Park on March 27.

According to Dr. Stephen Potter of the Smithsonian Institution, the object was the work of nature, not human hands. And the rock is a kind of iron ore, whereas the Indians preferred to use igneous rocks for their tools. Indian arrow heads have been found in Greenbelt in the past, especially around the Indian Springs area.

It would not be surprising to find Indian artifacts in the park, however, because most of the knolls near free flowing water in this area were used by Indians. Indians of hunting-gathering cultures during the archaic period (8000 - 1300 B.C.), would use such sites as base camps on food gathering trips.

Although it is said that there are Indian burial grounds in Greenbelt Park, no official documentation at the State Archeology Department indicates this is the case.

If a person should find an Indian artifact in Greenbelt Park, a park ranger should be notified, or if a ranger cannot be found, a note with the person's name and phone number should be left at the ranger station. It is preferable, however, to leave the object where it is found so more information of importance can be found at the site.

Margaret Cassidy Honored

A family reunion/ninetieth birthday party for Margaret Conlin Cassidy of Green Ridge House was held on June 7 in College Park. Cassidy raised eleven children and has over 50 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren. Approximately 80 relatives, including her daughter Ann C. O'Hagan of Greenbelt and Cassidy's seven other surviving children attended the dinner, at which she was presented with an elaborate family tree, commissioned by grandson Neil Duffy.

On June 8 a picnic was held at the Riverdale Recreation Center attended by her cousin Elizabeth Ready, 96, of Greenbelt Convalescent Center and approximately 90 other people.

To Your Smile

Ray Vidal, D.D.S.

What is Bruxism?

Bruxism is the habitual grinding or gritting of the teeth. Although occurring mainly during sleep, many people unconsciously grind and clench their teeth all day long. The cause is not entirely understood, but tension and anxiety seems to be the major factors. In children it may also be due to tooth eruption or intestinal irritation from parasites.

The most common area affected by bruxism is the temporomandibular joint (TMJ). Since this joint controls up and down as well as side to side movement of the jaw, many changes in jaw movement as well as considerable pain can result. In addition, periodontal (gum) disease can be greatly influenced by bruxism.

If you suspect bruxism, see your family dentist. He may recommend special exercises, medication, or a custom-fitted bite guard to protect the teeth and gums.

Hogensen Again President As New GHI Board Sits

by Mavis Fletcher

At the May 30 Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors meeting, Sandra Smith, acting for the Nominations and Elections Committee, certified the May 23 election of Margaret Hogensen, Wayne Williams, Debbie Hartwick, Nancy Hutchins, David Warner, and Todd Amani to the board of directors. The board then elected its officers for the next year: Margaret Hogensen, President; Wayne Williams, Vice president; Janet Cantwell, Secretary; and Ray McCawley, Treasurer. Hogensen and Cantwell served in the same positions for the previous board.

The newly constituted board granted the City of Greenbelt an easement along Gardenway so that a sidewalk can be constructed along the south side of the street and curbing along the north side. The board deferred action on a city request for an easement in order to install curbs and a sidewalk from Westway along Ridge Road to the sidewalk east of the 7 Court of Crescent. The board decided to determine the wishes of affected members and schedule a work session with the city staff before granting the easement. From comments from members, a number of the residents appear to oppose the construction of a sidewalk.

In another item concerned with the city, a lengthy survey of parks and playgrounds within GHI was presented by the staff. The issue was brought up by a request to the city from members in the vicinity of the playground near the 2 Court of Laurel Hill for additional equipment there. The city council referred the matter to the Park and Recreation Advisory Board. That board recommended that equipment in the eight parks owned by GHI and maintained by the city should be repaired; after the repairs are completed, the board recommended that these parks be returned to GHI and no longer be maintained by the city. The board took no position on this question but instructed management to meet with the city staff

GHI NOTES

The next meeting of the GHI Board of Directors will be Thursday evening, June 20 in the GHI Board Room. The meeting will begin after the GDC Annual Meeting, which is scheduled for 8 p.m.

The GHI Finance Committee will meet Wednesday, June 19 at 8 p.m. in the Board Room.

This summer WSSC will work on sewer mains in the GHI community. WSSC will use the "Insituform" process to clean and restore the lines. This process has been used in Greenbelt before. The work will cause some disruption of water service and parking and driving patterns. WSSC customers will be without water while the job is done, a process which takes approximately 16 hours.

WSSC will notify the GHI Maintenance Department when work is scheduled for a home.

is made to determine how much of the guttering requires replacement.

The board also established its summer schedule, planning to meet on June 20, July 11 and August 8. Unless extra meetings are required for urgent business, the board of directors usually meets only once a month in summer.

to explore various alternatives in regard to these parks.

In other matters, the board tabled a motion which would have authorized the installation of copper gutters on the mineral-sided homes. According to General Manager Ron Colton's explanation, a decision was made during rehab to put aluminum guttering on these homes. A question has now arisen about the aesthetics of doing this, particularly in courts which have both mineral-sided homes and brick homes on which copper gutters have already been installed. The motion was tabled until an inspection of the gutters

After receiving this notification, GHI will place a door-hanger on the member's home, giving at least a day's notice of the work.

If any problems develop in the course of this work, members can talk with the WSSC on-site supervisor or call the WSSC Office at 699-4555 (24 hours a day) or 699-4420 (8:15 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday).

Members are reminded that the dirt placed around homes during masonry structural repairs should not be disturbed. Don't level this area or use it to make a flower or vegetable garden. The dirt was placed around the home to provide positive drainage and help prevent structural damage.

The 1984-85 Annual Report has been delivered to members. Anyone who has not received a copy should call the Member Services Office (474-6644).

Members are reminded that regulations require that trash cans be kept in a trash closet or trash container cabinet. The GHI warehouse (474-7476) has trash container cabinets available for members at cost with an optional time-payment plan. The GHI resale inspector does check trash containers during the resale inspection and any members who do not already have a trash container cabinet or trash closet will be required to provide one.

Fences are not to be painted with reflective or metallic colors. It is a good idea to clean up fences. However, subdued browns and greens are the best colors to paint fences.

ANNOUNCING FORMATION OF THE CATHOLIC COMMUNITY OF GREENBELT'S CONTINGENCY FUND

In response to the mounting number of parishioners who are concerned about the economic future of St. Hugh's, a trusteeship is being established for receipt of parishioner's contributions. The increasing number of empty pews each Sunday corresponds directly to the steady decline in parish revenue. Sunday deposits are currently running 30% to 40% less than they were one short year ago. In order to safeguard against this bleak economic picture, parishioners are urged to use this alternative in the hope there will be funds available to ensure financial stability when a new pastor is appointed to St. Hugh's.

THANK YOU GREENBELT

The highest compliment I receive is the opportunity to treat a new patient who has been referred to our office by one of our family of patients. Over the past 16 years it has been my distinct pleasure to serve this community.

I am pleased to announce the expansion of our practice in ways we feel will better serve our growing family of patients. It has long been our desire to offer the best dental care we could provide, in a positive patient-oriented environment. At our new location, in the Greenway East Professional Center, we believe we have accomplished this.

Additionally, because many of our patients have busy work schedules, we now have available — evening and Saturday hours. After diligently searching for the right dentist to help maintain these additional hours I'm proud to introduce Dr. Dana Anthony Perno as the latest addition to our staff. Dr. Perno grew up in Uniontown, PA and graduated Cum Laude from West Virginia University, receiving his D.D.S. Degree in 1983. He and his wife Beth reside in Silver Spring. His hobbies and interests are varied with a strong affinity for sports.

We look forward to providing the type of patient care which gives us the opportunity to say "Thank You".

Sincerely,

Dr. Norman Mitchell

Saturday Morning Films At Utopia Starting July 6

Saturday morning films at the Utopia Theater will begin Saturday, July 6, at 10 a.m.

Made possible by a grant from the City of Greenbelt, the series may include "Charlotte's Web," "The Hobbit," and "The Making of Star Wars" as well as "The Yearling."

Norene Yoch, Greenbelt Arts Center Board Vice-President, explains that the Saturday films are designed to give the city's children (and others) alternative entertainment during the summer months. Most will be able to walk to the Center, she points out, and the admission donation will be quite small. Soft drinks and popcorn will be sold in the theater, just as it was in former days when the Utopia Theater was an active movie house.

Greenbelt News Review, the Greenbelt Charrette Survey Committee, and the Greenbelt Historical Preservation Museum Committee.

Isaacs, 34, was born and raised in New York City's South Bronx, the first generation American son of immigrant parents. He graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the City College of New York in 1972. In 1975, he earned Summa Cum Laude honors from the graduate program in Health Services Management at the University of Missouri, which selected him as "Outstanding Student."

Isaacs is now the Associate Director of the National Health Policy Forum, a non-partisan, public health policy research center and in-service education program for White House, Congressional and federal executive agency health affairs specialists. He is also on the faculty of the Department of Health Sciences at George Washington University's School of Medicine. His previous positions have involved management consulting and auditing, financial and strategic planning, governmental liaison, and regulatory and legislative analysis.

Isaacs was appointed by the Prince Georges County Executive to serve on the Governing Board of the Southern Maryland Health Systems Agency (which is responsible for ensuring the rational allocation and development of health care programs and services within a four-county region). In 1984, he was elected to the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Washington Area Council of Health Planning Agencies and also sits on committees of several national associations.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

To allow for maximum participation, tentative plans call for several areas to schedule tours each consecutive weekend, with perhaps a month of house and garden tours

Other Projects

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee is donating to the city an uncut copy of "The City," a film produced for the 1939 World's Fair showing Greenbelt as the ideal community of the future. The film will be shown at the conference and other city events. The Labor Day Festival will include many 50th anniversary events and booths over the next two years. Already the Committee is searching for entertainment to create the big band sound of the music of 1937 for the 1987 Labor Day Festival.

During the 50th Anniversary celebration, visitors to Roosevelt Mall will be able to identify the artist of the mother and child statue, thanks to a plaque to be presented by the Women's Club. GHI plans a gift to the Greenbelt Museum of six pre-construction concept drawings, showing how the first GHI houses were supposed to look when completed. These scaled drawings came complete with appropriate shrubbery and attractive families.

If your organization is planning an activity, contribution or event for the 50th Anniversary which you would like to publicize, please contact Sandy Smith (474-6127). Later articles will cover other organizations and update the plans already described.
