1935 Groundbreaking Commemoration Begins Greenbelt's 50th Celebration

by Sandra Smith

The first big event in the celebration leading up to the 50th Anniversary of Green-belt in 1987 will take place during the weekend of October 12-13. At that time the 1935 groundbreaking for the city will be commemor-ated. During the two-day festivities, an historic film will be shown and a new slide show with scenes of the city presented. Greenbelters will be invited to a family picnic, recreational and musical events; and a ceremony to officially plant a commemorative tree which has been donated by the Greenbelt Lions Club through the 50th An-niversary's "Adopt-A-Tree" Program.

With Sandra Barnes 50th Anniversary Committee Chair presiding, the weekend program kicks off at the Utopia Theater on Saturday, October 12 at 2 p.m., with the showing of "The City." This film presents Greenbelt as the ideal new town of the future. It was produced originally for the 1939 World's Fair. This copy was purchased and donated to Greenbelt by the Labor Day Festival Committee. Betty Allen, librarian for the Tugwell Room at the Greenbelt Library, will introduce the film.

A new slide show on Greenbelt, "A Half Century of Greenbelt History," also will be shown. The slide show, which was developed

Two Action Meetings Set Up by Depositors

The next meeting sponsored by ATOM (Access to Our Money) will be held Thursday, October 10. at 7:30 p.m., again at Eleanor Roosevelt High School in Greenbelt. Concerned Community Savings and Loan depositors will plan actions for the special session of the Maryland General Assembly to accomplish ATOM's goal of achieving immediate and full access to all deposits in Community Savings and Loan accounts, according to its president, David Lange.

An earlier "Plan of Action" meeting will be held in Columbia at the Wilde Lake High School on Sunday. October 6 at 1:30 p.m. Lange stressed that this meeting, arranged by the Maryland S & L Depositors Committee, will be of special interest because there will be a speaker from Ohio describing that state's S&L problems. by 50th Anniversary Committee members Alan Virta. Joe Polanin and Christine O'Boyle, will be narrated by Virta and Polanin. The slide show includes early and current views of Greenbelt. Virta and Polanin combed archives for interesting historical shots. using materials from the Library of Congress, Greenbelt Homes. Inc., the city, and private collections. They also travelled through the neighborhoods to catch the contemporary Greenbelt.

Dorothy Sucher. Chairperson of the Greenbelt Museum Committee. will describe the progress in creating a Greenbelt Museum. A museum display will be shown in the Utopia lobby. Furniture designed for the Greenbelt homes and purchased by early residents will be featured. This event marks the start of the museum fund-raising drive by Friends of the Greenbelt Museum. They will be available in the lobby to answer questions and to take donations.

A statue honoring the Roosevelts is the goal of another 50th Anniversary Committee. Frank Gervasi, Statue Committee Chairman. will report on the outcome of this group's research into the feasibility of commissioning a statue whether for Roosevelt Mall or another central city location. The Adopt-A-Tree Committee is well underway in its campaign to bring more trees to Greenbelt.

Richard Pilski, Two-Decade-Veteran, Is Defeated, Isaacs Gains Office

by Diane Oberg

In the city council election last Monday marked by a fairly high turnout, voters once more gave incumbent mayor Gil Weidenfeld the top vote. But in an electoral upset, long-time councilmember Richard R. Pilski, former mayor and current mayor pro tem, was defeated receiving exactly 50% of the vote. Pilski has been a member of council for 10 consecutive terms starting in 1965.

In addition to Weidenfeld, the new council will include, in the order of their finish, incumbent Thomas X. White, newcomer Joseph C. Isaacs. and incumbents Antoinette M. Bram and Edward V. J. Putens. The defeated candidates, in addition to Pilski, are challengers Valerie Siegel and Steven A. Curtis.

All five victorious candidates received more than 50% of the votes, well over the 40% required to avoid the need for a runoff election. (See table, "Unofficial Council Election Results.") As the highest vote getter with 70% of the votes. Weidenfeld, based on council tradition, will probably retain the mayor's chair (although this choice is not mandated by the city charter). White, the second highest vote getter with 60% of the vote, will probably become the mayor pro tem. The new council will meet to organize and select its officers on Monday, October 7. at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber.

Random Sampling at Polls Asks How Voters Chose Candidates

by Norman Scherstrom

If the engine of democracy runs on a well-informed electorate, the recent city election revealed that Greenbelt burns a high-octane blend comprised of Greenbelt News Review news, candidates' publications, personal contact with the candidates, and a politically active citizenry, according to a random sampling of voter opinions at the polls on Monday.

Sixteen of the 22 persons polled cited the News Review as an important source of information, while about half the people cited campaign literature and personal contact as being important. Three of those polled felt word of mouth contributed to their decisions and three said that cable broadcasts helped them decide.

Aside from sheer numbers, the power of the press to inform and persuade garnered the most intense support, rivalled only by the respect politically active voters had for their own opinions which themselves were influenced by the News Review.

"The News Review is probably the primary source of information," said John Shilling of Boxwood Village.

Shilling's words were echoed by Margaret Vish of GHI on Plateau Place. In "The News Review I read a lot of articles. It was the prime source."

We Want Your News

by Diane Oberg

Everyone is invited to be a contributor to the Greenbelt News Review. Those who wish to write feature articles or articles on major topics should contact the news editor, Elaine Skolnik (654-7423) or the editor, Mary Lou Williamson (441-2662). Other materials, such as birth, engagement, or wedding announcements, obituaries, notices or reports of community events and activities, or letters to the editor, may be submitted by anyone without prior discussion wth the staff. There is no charge for any of these items.

All materials should be submitted typed, double-spaced," on one side of the paper (the print shop requires this), along with the name, address, and evening phone number of a person to contact regarding the material. In addition to coming to the News Review's basement office at 15 Parkway (deadline 10 p.m. Tuesdays), contributors may make use of the drop box in the Co-op supermarket (on the post near the newspaper racks, deadline 6 p.m. Tuesdays), or mail the material (Box 68, Greenbelt, 20770, deadline Tuesday's mail). Materials should not be left under the door or through the mail slot at the Parkway location - they may be overlooked or lost.

Materials not received by the staff by Tuesday evening will not be included in that week's paper. Anyone announcing a Thursday, Friday or Saturday event should submit the notice in time for the previous week's edition, since many readers do not receive their papers until Friday. All relevant dates should be included in the article. Price information may not be included, but the contributor may wish to indicate that the event is free or that there is a fee.

All materials submitted are subject to editing, and the editor will decide whether a given article meets the News Review's criteria for inclusion. Statements that are libelous, simply untrue or in questionable taste will not be published, and editor's notes may be used for clarification where appropriate. In general, issues and events not involving or affecting Greenbelt or Greenbelters will not be printed. However, potential contributors may wish to consult a member of the editorial staff (see masthead) for clarification on borderline cases.

Due to space constraints, articles may not always be included in the News Review the week they are submitted, and occasionally it may be necessary to shorten an article in order to include it. Contributors can aid the staff, and their article's chances for timely inclusion, by placing the most important information in the first part of the article.

Obituaries, weddings and engagements are treated as separate articles and should be submitted as described above.

In addition to articles, everyone is invited and encouraged to submit announcements of births, graduations, honors, awards and other similar events to the "Our Neighbors" column. This information may be submitted by the procedures above, or by calling Martha Kaufman at 474-9359.

In short, the Greenbelt News Review is a community newspaper in the fullest sense of the word, published for the community by the community. The more people contribute to the New Review, the better it can serve the community's needs.

"Papa" Meier Witkowski. father of Sonia Garin of 29 Lakeside Drive, passed away Wednesday night, September 25 at the end of Yom Kippur. He was in the 100th year of his life.

Born in 1886 in a town on the German-Polish border. "Papa" survived poverty and the first World War, and after the war he opened a store in Braunschweig, Germany. He arrived in the U.S. in 1938, a refugee from the Nazis, and after some years in New York, he and his wife Esther settled in Greenbelt, where they lived in the 54 court of Ridge Road. After Esther died in 1964, he moved in with his daughter Sonia, and for the last two years he lived with Sonia's sister Jenni in Bethesda. Well into his 90s, until his health deteriorated, he could be seen taking long walks along Lakeside and attending services at Mishkan Torah.

Funeral services were held Sunday, at King David Memorial Gardens in Virginia.

GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW Letters to the Editor

Correction To the Editor:

If you are going to use my name in an article, particularly in a provocative way, quote me correctly. My statement at the Community S&L savers meeting was not that Governor Hughes had deceived us by failing "to fulfill his commitment to straighten out the situation." The deceit which has angered me is that he told us in May that (1) the State was insuring all Savings & Loan accounts up to $100.000, and (2) that "New Money" deposited in Maryland Savings & Loans would not be subject to withdrawal restrictions. On August 19, he froze withdrawals from Community S&L, "New Money" and all, notwithstanding his previous assurances. The freeze came totally without warning, and as my checks have come bouncing in I have answered the nasty letters accompanying them pointing out that the problem was that I had believed Governor Hughes, and he had deceived us. I have sent copies of each of those letters to Governor Hughes.

Jim Bates Thanks to Public Works To the Editor:

I would like to acknowledge the Greenbelt Public Works Department for their consistent and excellent maintenance of the Boys and Girls Club Soccer Fields. Throughout the years they have lined both Windsor Green and Braden Fields every Spring and Fall on a regular basis. I was extremely pleased, not to mention amazed beyond belief. when I arrived for a 9 a.m. game last Saturday and found a Public Works employee finishing up the lining of the field. Of course, Hurricane Gloria was in town Friday, so lining was out of the question. To show up there to work at 8 a.m. on a Saturday was wonderful. All the kids who played there thank you, and so do I.

Thanks for Your Support To the Editor:

I would like to thank all the Greenbelters that voted for me in my election bid for City Council. Although that attempt was unsuccessful. I hope that the issues that I raised in my cam-paign will be considered and acted upon by both citizens and the newly elected City Council. In particular, Greenbelt needs its own master plan. If we can not agree among ourselves in what direction we want Greenbelt to go and where we want Greenbelt to be in the next 5, 10 or 20 years, then there is little hope for us in dealing with various developers. We also need a long-range planning committee to develop a coherent, detailed master plan.

Planning is of little value if it can not be successfully communicated to citizens, the County, and developers. Better means of communication must be developed. An advisory committee to the City Council composed of the heads of the city civic associations that meet with City Council on a regular basis would be a good starting place.

Finally, the new City Council should take cognizance of the fact that the GHI cooperative provides many services to itself that the City provides to other segments of the community. Sidewalks and parks are one example. If City Council is not willing to become a fuller partner in maintaining these structures, then some reduction in tax assessment is not unjustified, much as the City enjoys from the County.

Last Monday night there were three losers, let's try to improve our methods of running Greenbelt so there are not thousands more. Mistakes are not worth repeating.

Congratulations to the Greenbelt voters for the large turnout at the City elections. Greenbelt voters have once again demonstrated the strong sense of com-munity spirit that helps to make

September, 1935 50 Years Ago by Don Volk

As the summer of 1935 faded into autumn, progress in new town planning seemed to gain momentum In September, a number of important events took place which affected the development of Greenbelt and other new towns.

The most important of these was a meeting which took place on September 12 at Hyde Park, N.Y. Roosevelt called together all the chief administrators of the relief and public works programs to meet with him and decide on the allocations of money to various projects. Included were Harry Hopkins (administrator of the Federal Emergency Relief Admin.) Henry Morgenthau (Treasury Secretary), Harold Ickes (Interior Secretary), Rex Tugwell (Head of the Resettlement Administration) and several others. At stake was the nearly five billion dollars appropriated by congress. Each participant had his own ideas about how best to spend the money. Tugwell had requested approximately $68,-000,000 for the new towns program (enough for nine towns at 71/2 million each), and additional amounts for other facets of the Resettlement Admnistration's operations. Most of the participants felt that the unemployment problem needed to be dealt with as swiftly as possible, and therefore preferred to channel most of the money into projects that did not require as much planning and lead-time as Tugwell's new towns. So instead of the $68 million requested for new towns, about half that amount, $31 million, was allocated - with the implication that the remaining $37 million might come later. (It didn't.)

Even more disturbing were the stipulations attached to the allocation - stipulations which ultimately limited the greenbelt towns program: all land for the towns had to be purchased and construction begun by Dec. 15 (just three months away) and had to be competed by June 30 (about nine months away). These were obviously impossible conditions. Even though these deadlnes were not strictly adhered to, they did result in a cut-back in the scope of the total program. As Joseph Arnold observes in his "New Deal in the Suburbs", "These stipulations - made out of the justifiable need of work - greatly complicated, confused. - made out and ultimately crippled the suburban town program.'

Although the money had been informally set aside for the new towns projects, a number of certifications and approvals had to be obtained before construction could begin. The first of these was an official allocation by the Treasury Department. On September 23. Roosevelt requested this allocation from Morgantheau.

Since a prmary aim of the programs was to put unemployed people to work, it was necessary for the Works Progress Administration (WPA) to certify that there were sufficient numbers of unemployed in each area in which a project was proposed. On September 30, the WPA certified the Beltsville (Greenbelt) Project; the remaining projects were certified on October 18-

Because of time and money constraints, it was decided to cut the number of new towns from nine to only five - one each near Washington, Cincinnati. Milwaukee, New Brunswick (N.J.), and St. Louis.

By September, more than 12,000 acres had been purchased for the new town near Beltsville. Most of this land was ultimately transferred to the Agricultural Research Center. The Resettlement Administration retained 3.371 acres for the constuction of Greenbelt. The average price for this land was $165 per acre.

Golden Agers Win Softball Playoff

by Jerry Conway

Greenbelt Golden Agers Softball Team won the Metro League Softball Playoff against Rockville. Upper Montgomery and Forest Glen as a result of excellent hitting and fielding. Everybody on the team made singles and a few doubles, and Jerry Conway smashed a homerun with two on base. The Round Robin Playoffs occurred on September 18 at Olney, Maryland.

On that same day the Greenbelt team of 11 players accepted a challenge for a state championship game against the all star team of Baltimore County who had 20 men players. The Greenbelt 11 man team of men and women aged 57-75 played an excellent game against great odds and settled for a losing score of 9-2. Next year more able-bodied Golden Agers from Greenbelt are expected to participate in the Metro and State championship playoff.

In October three more games will be played against Rockville, Upper Montgomery and Forest Glen. These 17-20 member teams are hoping to regain their status and Greenbelt's Golden Agers with a smaller team plan, through fun and effort. to keep winning games.

Cancer Prevention

There is a great deal of evidence, although not yet definite proof, that people can reduce their risks of getting cancer by eating less fat, more fiber, and certain vegetables. But how do people know precisely what to eat?

A free booklet titled, "Diet, Nutrition and Cancer: A Guide to Food Choices," is now available from the Cancer Information Service (CIS). The guide, published by the National Cancer Institute, includes lists of high fiber foods, the vegetables that should be chosen more often, menu tips, label-reading information and other helpful diet facts.

Anyone who has questions about cancer prevention or would like a free copy of this guide to food choices should call the Cancer Information Service tollfree in Maryland at 1-800-4-CANCER. GHI Manager Shares Copies of a Letter On Impact of Community S&L Freeze

by Mavis Fletcher

The board of directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., again addressed the savings and loan crisis and its effects on GHI members and the community. General Manager Ron Colton told the board that 505 (of the 1600) had loans with Community or EPIC. Member Lucille Jacoby said that she had been told just that day (Septem-ber 19) by the Community office she called that the Savings and Loan would take mortgage payments from the member's savings account if Community holds the mortgage. If EPIC holds the mortgage, however, Community would not do so.

Colton also provided the board with copies of letters he had sent to State Senator Leo Green and to Melville S. Brown, Director of the Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund Corporation. The letter to Green thanked him for his "willingness to become involved in the current Savings & Loan crisis." It stated that "We particularly appreciate your willingness to serve as an advocate with the Governor's office and hope that you can assist us in obtaining modification of the policies to alleviate hardship cases." Colton went on to urge assistance to depositors with medical emergencies, or with problems in meeting their mortgage/rental obligations, as well as for those who become unemployed.

The letter noted that "Our conversations with you and our delegates indicate that the legislature is much more attuned to the needs of the citizens than are the staff of the Executive Branch." Colton's letter also said: "One comment I have repeatedly heard is the fact that the owners of Old Court and Community are not restricted in their withdrawals while depositors have their accounts frozen. I would think that the inequity exhibited therein would be self-evident to the Governor, the Attorney General and other policy makers."

The letter to Brown outlined the offer made by the Share Loan Service Corporation to buy GHI loans held by Community or EPIC. The letter pointed out that 'From the perspective of the Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund, this offer should be a wel-come one." The letter described the traditionally close relationship between the Twin Pines Savings & Loan (before that institution was forced by the state to merge) and residents of Greenbelt.

The letter continued: "When the crisis developed in May. there were no long lines at the Greenbelt branch because people supported Governor Hughes' actions. Our residents relied upon his pronouncement that funds placed in the institutions after the effective date of the May order would not be restricted. His pledge of the 'full faith and credit of the State of Maryland' was taken literally."

Colton said that no direct answer from Brown had been received but his appearance at Tuesday's meeting at Eleanor Roosevelt High School was due to Green's help in arranging the meeting. Colton said that as of October 1 Governor Hughes also had not answered a September 5 letter from Board President Margaret Hogensen.

6 Court of Hillside

Turning their attention to an almost equally intractable problem, the board heard an engineering report on structural problems in homes in the 6 Court of Hillside. Settling and shear movements have induced stress cracks in the slabs and walls of these homes, according to the report to the board. Technical Services Chief Jay Freedman reported that Geotechnical Services, the most recent firm to try to determine the causes of this movement, continues to monitor the movement and that their "readings support the initial observations that the movements are, in large measure, caused by water." Freedman's report also noted that site inspections have resulted in tracing paths of water flow under crawl spaces and in the boiler room. When several sections of concrete floor were removed, the condition of the soil was found to be water-logged expansive clay with no stone laycr between the soil and concrete.

The report stated that strain gauges have been installed to monitor movement of the footings. A laboratory profile of the soils 5'-S' below the footing will also be made. The study will next attempt to pinpoint the source of the water. Freedman pointed out that laboratory examination night give some clue to its origin.

Larger Townhome Rehab

The board adopted for first reading a motion to let a contract for vinyl siding, replacement windows and patio doors on the larger townhomes at a cost of some $105,000. The board also voted to require replacement of sliding patio doors except in cases where members have recently installed new doors that pass GHI inspection. First reading was also given to a contract with Geotechnical Services to install "outside French drains" in an attempt to control water problems in these homes. The price was $18,300.

The board also authorized inclusion of an administration fee in the rehabilitation budget. Since the work being done on the four freestanding homes is limited to storm or replacement windows, these homes would be charged only 60% of the fee charged the townhomes. The administration fee will be made on the basis of actual time spent on the rehab business by the staff.

Owner Take-Backs

The board again wrestled with establishing the GHI position in regard to owner "take-back" loans. Director Wayne Williams and Janet Cantwell both expressed the opinion that GHI should neither encourage or discourage this form of financing. which during recent high mortgage rate periods had been practically the only source of financing for new GHI owners. Colton made the point that when the buyer takes out a mortgage with a financial institution and the owner takes a note for part of the rest of his equity, that note is a personal loan to the buyer. He went on to say that these loans have sometimes in the past been represented as a valid second trust. In his report to the board Colton said, "Once the owner's rights under the Mutual Ownership Contract are assigned to a lender, they cannot be assigned again to a second lender."

The board finally passed a motion which requires use of a standard recognition agreement, presentation of standard promissory notes and security agreements and which warns the seller that, if he or she elects to take back a personal note for a portion of his or her equity, GHI's responsibility in that transaction will be limited to providing standard forms for the notes and recording them in the lien registry. Dentist's Office Extension

The board approved construc-tion of a 20' x 28' addition to Dr. Clayton McCarl's dental offices at 28 A-B Ridge Road. The addition will provide two additional patient treatment rooms and a wheelchair-accessible bathroom. After some discussion the motion passed unanimously. The motion also authorized Colton to write a letter to the county zoning examiner in support of the special exception and to present testimony at the hearing.

Trim Paint

The board heard sharp criticism from Director David Warner of the trim paint job now being carried out in GHI. Management had already sent the contractor a letter informing him that the work was unsatisfactory. At the meeting. Colton agreed to stop the contractor from starting any more units until repainting work was completed on the units already painted (about 200 units). Colton said that no money had been paid on the contract.

The board authorized management to install bathroom and kitchen exhause fans in any unit at the request and expense of the member. Such fans, Colton said, have proved to help alleviate moisture problems in some units.

At Colton's recommendation. the board directed the staff to develop at least three standard designs for trash enclosures and begin enforcing the rules which require trash cans to be concealed from view. These rules are currently enforced on resale and on complaint.

CONSIDERING A CHANGE IN RESIDENCE?

- There are three key elements to consider:
- A) Your needs: things you positively have to have.
- B) Your wants: things you'd like to have, but don't necessarily
 - C)...Your qualifications:
 - 1) Your initial investment (cash to move in)
 - 2) Your total income (gross yearly income)
 - 3) Your debt service (total indebtedness)

I would like the opportunity to discuss with you how we can combine these three factors to assist you and your family in achieving your housing goals both within Greenbelt and the metropolitan area - of course with no obligation.

Applications Available For ERHS Tech Center

Applications for entry into the 1986-87 Science and Technology programs at Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) are available at all guidance offices of public secondary schools in Prince Georges County.

Students applying for the program should be aware that all applications must be received by December 6. No applications will be accepted after that date.

Students in eighth and ninth grade this year who have a high degree of interest in scientific and/or technological fields may wish to consider applying to the programs. Approximately 225 ninth graders will be accepted for the program at ERHS. In addition, a limited number of tenth grade students will be accepted.

Acceptance into the Science and Technological program is through competitive testing and consideration of academic standing, which is based on 1984-85 grades and the first quarter grades of the current school year in the areas of English, Social Studies, Science and Mathematics. The entrance examination is scheduled for Saturday, January 11, 1986.

In grades nine and 10, the emphasis is on the development of fundamental skills and knowledge. In grades 11 and 12. advanced course work begins in one of three major study areas. These areas include: the biological sciences, physical sciences and preengineering technologies.

For additional information about the application process for the Science and Technology Program, contact Donald Horrigan at ERHS at 345-7500 or J. Vincent Wheatley.

A composite filling is a blend of special plastic resins, glass fibers and inert fillers. The composite filling is used in front teeth because of its closeness in color and appearance to natural teeth.

Composites were developed after many years of research and experimentation with earlier forms of acrylic resins which were first used in the 1950's and 60's. The advantages of composites over acrylic are improved resistance to wear and greater color stability. The only negative factor of composites is very poor strength to withstand biting pressure when compared to 'silver" fillings. It is for this reason composites are not currently used routinely in back teeth. In the near future there is the promise of stronger forms which will be suitable for these areas.

The development of various forms of composites (liquid & pastes) plus a multitude of shades and stains, has formed the basis for the newest and most promising field of restorative dentistry, bonding.

dates Pilski and Siegei, were extremely close in the final tallies. Bram received the most votes of the four with 53.9 percent, and Siegel the least with 49.8 percent —a range of only 4.1 percentage points and a difference of only 76 votes.

The fortunes of seven of the eight candidates varied from precinct to precinct. (See table, "Order of Finish by Precincts.") Only one candidate - Curtis stayed in one place in the rankings through all four precincts. Of the five winners city-wide, only three — Weidenfeld, Bram and Isaacs—clearly made it to the winners' circle in all four precincts. Putens achieved seventh place in Precinct 6, and tied with Pilski for fifth place in Precinct 3. Siegel made it to third place in Precinct 13, while White took sixth place in that precinct.

The ratio of votes cast to number of voters was 4.12. indicating that "bullet voting" for only one candidate was not a major factor in the election. There were fourteen write-in votes. Eightyseven persons cast absentee ballots.

Pilski

Defeated incumbent Dick Pilski had the longest service of any councilmember in Greenbelt's history. His ten conservative terms spanned 20 years of often-turbulent development. two major and three minor expansions of the city's boundaries, and significant increases in the population.

Pilski's defeat is the first for an elected council incumbent since the 1973 election, when Elizabeth Maffay was unseated. (Robert Zugby was rejected by the voters for continued incumbency two years ago, but be had been appointed to fill a council vacancy.)

In contrast to the 1983 election when Pilski was the second or third highest vote getter in Precincts 3, 6 and 8 and the fourth highest in Precinct 3, this year he received only the fourth highest total in Precinct 6, the fifth highest vote in Precincts 3 and 8 and the seventh highest vote in Precinct 13. This resulted in exactly 50 percent of the total vote for Pilski versus his 66 percent in 1983.

Voter Turnout

Once again, there was a fairly high turnout at the polls,' with 58 percent of those registered voting. (See table, "Comparison Votes Cast, 1971 through 1985.") However, this figure represents only 13 percent of the estimated 14,000 Greenbelters eligible to register and vote. The total number of voters was down slightly from the 1983 election. All precincts showed decreases in the number of voters except Greenbelt East Precinct 13), where two more residents voted than did so two years ago. However, the population of this precinct has been enlarged since the last election by the annexation of Hunting Ridge into the city and the construction of Greenwood Village and new sections of Windsor Green/Glen Ora.

Although there were no divisive issues to drive voters to the polls, voter interest was aroused by four candidates nights, two of which were cablecast, by doorto-door campaigning and by voter solicitation by mail. telephone, newspaper advertisements and a plethora of signs. In addition, citizens had been given an increased opportunity to watch the council in action, through the recently begun cablecasting of the council meetings.

Free Hotline Offers Safety Tips About Meat

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Meat and Poultry Hotline is toll-free. Callers in the Washington, D.C. area can reach the hotline at 447-3333. The hearing impaired can reach the hotline by dialing the local number or (800) 535-4555. Both provide access to a telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD).

Consumers calling the hotline can get food safety tips for meat and poultry products and report problems experienced with such products. The toll-free hotline will operate from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"An estimated two million cases of food poisoning occur every year, and many can be prevented by proper food handling." according to Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service. "The hotline's home economists can help consumers with questions ranging from how long to keep meat and poultry in the refrigerator to how to pack a safe picnic lunch."

Historical Society Has New Home

Marietta Manor, home of the Supreme Court Justice Gabriel DuVal, will soon become the new home of the Prince Georges County Historical Society.

An agreement between the Society and the Prince Georges Planning Board of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission calls for a contribution by the society to the Marietta Restoration Fund, payment by the society of all electrical utility costs and volunteer staffing and interpretive tours by the Society of Marietta every Sunday from noon till 4 p.m. from March through December.

The society will use the manor for its historical library and collections with access provided to the public, for business meetings and fund raisers and will develop interpretive material on the history of Prince Georges County.

The manor, which is located on Bell Station Road, can be seen from the newly constructed extension of Greenbelt Road in Glenn Dale.

said. "I relied exclusively on the News Review and word of mouth." To Dan Curry of Greenbriar, "The write-up in the News Review of the candidates' biographical sketches was excellent."

Several persons spoke of the News Review like an old friend. Joseph Harpster of Glen Oaks said he looked for the News Review "every week to read."

Nat Hughes of Boxwood Village, a 43-year resident of Greenbelt, cited the News Review as an influence, but also credited personal knowledge for his voting decisions: "I know most of the candidates. The things that originally brought me out are you meet the candidates, shake their hands; they're accessible."

Longevity of residency and political activism were powerful allies in shaping voters' preferences. Linda Miller of Windsor Green said she had been a resident for eight years, politically active and had met a lot of the candidates. Eunice Coxon. president of the Citizens for Greenbelt. said attending city council meetings and a life of political activism shaped her voting preferences.

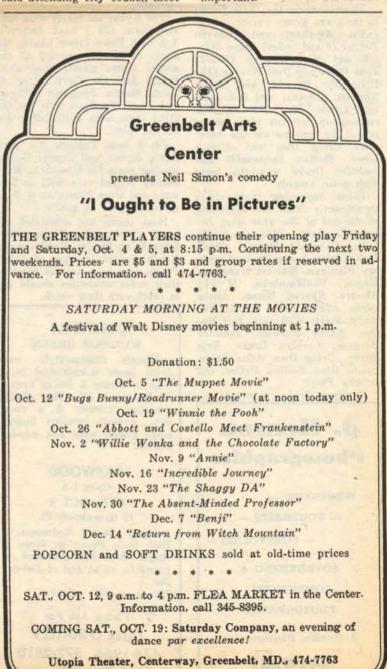

Dee Allison of Windsor Green stated her opinion forcefully: "I've been involved in politics. No one influences my decision. I know all these people. The new ones I don't and I usually stick with the ones I know."

Another important factor in voter decision making was candidate literature. Jane Kohler of Hunting Ridge said her primary source of information c a me "mostly through the mail; each candidate mailed flyers." Gwynne Blundon of Greenbriar was more specific: "Two people I voted for on the basis of their campaign literature."

Though Lori Moran of Boxwood said, "I watched the candidates night on cable and I enjoyed it very much," cable television was not a significant determinant of voter opinions. One voter said that he had never seen a program. that all he got was a rolling list of events when he turned it on. Other voters noted that they did not have or could not yet get cable.

Last-minute electioneering at the polling places also appeared ineffective and even detrimental in some cases. Jean Smith of Ridge Road said, "One of the people I decided after I met that I would not vote for that person." And Gwynne Blundon decried the entire practice: "I'm from Massachusetts where this isn't allowed. It frightens me."

This poll was conducted at the North End School and at the Greenbriar Community Center. For respondents citing several informational sources, attention was given to those cited as being important.

Wersick, Margaret Williamson, and Teresa Crisman. John and Olice Blue were given a special award for their assistance given to the swim team over the many years in which they have had children on the team. The parent participation award, given by the Recreation Department, was given to Betty Sonneveldt.

The winter swimming season will start soon. Anyone who is interested and was not at the banquet should contact the coach, Gail Drake.

The banquet of roast beef and fried chicken was given to the swim team by the American Legion. Bill Wersick, swim team father and Legion member, was the liaison for arranging the affair for over 200 people.

SUPER SOCCER

by Sue Cornelius We're about in the middle of our Fall Season and things are going exceptionally well. Our 6 year old team tied a very talented Cheverly team 1-1, with April Collmer again scoring for Greenbelt, while Karl Friedheim and Mike Hunter threatened to do so. Ken Barron was instrumental as fullback.

The 8 year old teams were both victorious. GB 1 beat Beltsville 3-0, with Peter Timer having the game of his life scoring all the goals! Great game, "hat-trick" Peter! And the "terror trio" of David Martin. Jonathan Williams and Jason Everhart shut out the other team with outstanding defensive play.

GB 2 beat Lanham 2-1 with Kevin Lynch and Daniel Gomez scoring goals for Greenbelt. Marc Sclawy played very well as forward and Greg Hunanian is their secret weapon as goalie.

Most teams are scheduled for team pictures this Sunday, October 6, at Braden Field (or the Youth Center in case of rain.) People who have not yet received their order envelopes should get in touch with their coach.

At Utopia Theater

"I Ought to Be in Pictures" continues Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:15 p.m. on the Utopia Theater stage in Greenbelt's center.

This Neil Simon comedy about a once-successful Hollywood scripwriter and his adjustment to the sudden appearance in his life of a daughter he left years ago has been described as a "finely tuned theatrical blend of hilarity, honesty . . . and deeply felt emotions" (WCBS-TV NY). The Wall Street Journal called the comedy Neil Simon's "best play in years."

Directors Susan Hedges and H. G. Cote alternate actors for each weekend of the play, and the next two performances will feature Bill Witt as Herb and Donalee Hill as his girlfriend Steffy, with daughter Libby played by Kelly Holl (who acts in all performances in this role).

The Greenbelt Players' first play of the new season runs through October 12. Auditions

CITY NOTES

During the week ending September 27, the general crew placed sod between the walkway and roadway along Northway Road, from Ridge Road to the ballfields. The crew also prepared North End Center for use by voters on election day.

The parks crew planted chrysanthemums around the City Office Building and in the median strips in Greenbriar .Routine landscaping work was done to the entrance of Attick Park and around the Springhill Lake Recreation Center.

Members of the department removed five truck loads of debris from the shoreline around the lake. The lake water level had been dropped approximately seven feet last week but after the rain on September 26 and 27 it was within one foot of its normal level.

The contractor worked on grouting and gruniting the dam but shut down operations on the morning of September 26 to allow his crew to return to their homes in Virginia Beach and Norfolk to prepare for the hurricane.

City Solicitor Zip Nanna Is Feted After 18 Years

by Virginia Beauchamp

City solicitor Emmet ("Zip") Nanna's 48-year connec-tion with Greenbelt came to its formal close at a retirement dinner September 20 in the Greenbelt American Legion hall. "It's almost 48 years to the day," Nanna said, "since we moved to Greenbelt. We were the 23rd family in town. I had to walk all the way from our house on Hillside to A block just to meet another boy." (A block is the top of the hill where Crescent and Ridge merge.)

zen and resident was being celebrated Friday night, but Nanna's 18-year tenure as attorney for the city-a record that establishes him as the city's longest incumbent in that office. In fact, prior to his appointment in November 1967, Nanna had worked for the city for about a year earlier as a special zoning counsel, arguing successfully at rezoning hearings on parcels 8 and 15. He had the distinction also of being Prince Georges County's first full-time Juvenile Judge, serving in 1957 and 1958. For eight years he held the post of city solicitor in Hyattsville.

A practicing lawyer in Prince Georges County since 1954, Nanna graduated from the University of Maryland, where he was an English major. He received his law degree (LLB) from George Washington University.

Following a steak dinner, finished off with a piece of cake-a special creation by Dot Varda in the shape of a guitar-city manager Jim Giese. as master of ceremonies, tried to characterize the guest of honor. He did so by reading through a long list of words and phrases which he had culled from friends and acquaintances of Nanna—a list including such terms as "down to earth," "sleep-er," "raconteur," "g o u r m e t," "guitar plucker," "farmer," and "tennis player," (Nanna has been observed drowsing off during particularly long and tedious council meetings. He is also well known for his performances of blue grass music on the guitar.' Other words in Giese's list recalled Nanna's interests in hunting and fishing and other outdoor activities.)

Greenbelt made it all possible, Nanna said. "I enjoyed growing up here. It's the most egalitarian community I ever saw." Recalling the early days during his boyhood, he said that he learned a new word, which he saw everywhere. Everything was "coop-erative." Even the newspaper was called The Cooperator. (That was the original name of the News Review.)

When World War II broke out. Greenbelt's original concept as a planned community was lost. Nanna said. That was when the defense homes were built - the

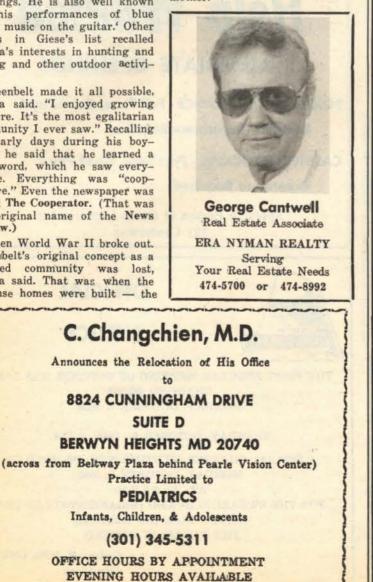

Not that early history as citi- frame homes section of GHI. "It went up in six months," Nanna recalled. During the war years there was a command post on top of the building where High's store is now located, he remembered, where volunteers spotted for hostile aircraft.

"In Greenbelt everybody did it together," Nanna said. "I couldn't have chosen a better community to grow up in if I'd looked the world over." He particularly commended the members of the city councils. They always put aside politics to do the best for the town, he said.

Members of the city council, who hosted the retirement din-ner, presented Nanna with a gold watch and a plaque expressing appreciation for his years of service. County councilmember Richard Castaldi presented a proclamation on behalf of the Prince Georges government.

In making his presentation, Castaldi remembered that he and Nanna both grew up in Greenbelt. Nanna was a "troublemaker," Castaldi said. He is the only one who knows all the problems he caused, and then tried to solve. He became a lawyer, commented Castaldi, because that was the only job that gave him time to hunt and fish. Plenty of both is probably in the future for the former city solicitor.

Present to share the spotlight were his wife, Janice, and their three children, Lauren, Christine, and Frank, as well as Nanna's mother.

GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW

Author Jonathan Kozol To Speak on Illiteracy

More than 27 million American adults can't read or write and 100,000 of these live in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. Illiteracy costs this nation over $100 billion each year in lost earnings and other expenses directly related to illiteracy. Jonathan Kozol, author of "Death at an Early Age" and "Illitrate America," will discuss illiteracy and what can be done to combat this problem on Wednesday, October 16, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Eleanor Roosevelt Senior the High School.

Free tickets are available at all public libraries and also by mail by sending a stamped. self-addressed envelope to Kozol Tick-ets, PGCMLS/EX, 6532 Adelphi Road, Hyattsville, Md. 20782. This event is sponsored by the E. B. Hage Fund and the Literacy ACTION Coalition of Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties and will be interpreted for the deaf and hearing impaired.

Jonathan Kozol is a nationally known educator, author, social critic and political activist and was awarded the National Book Award for his best-selling work "Death at an Early Age," which has now sold over 31/2 million copies worldwide. Since 1976 Kozol's major concern has been adult illiteracy in the United States.

In 1980 he accepted a request from the Cleveland Public Library and the Cleveland Foundation to design an adult literacy plan for Cleveland. The resulting study, "People of the Book." has won unprecedented city-wide support and has since been implemented in a pilot program.

"The agony of what we're doing right now." Kozol says, "is that one out of five adult Americans won't be able to read this article. The people who need it most won't be able to read it."

For more information or directions to the program please call 699-3500.

Congratulations to Rabbi Steven Bayar, of Mishkan Torah, and his wife Ilene on the birth of their second child on September 17. Weighing just over 7 lbs., Meira Yael came into the world conveniently in the early a.m. of that Tuesday, so her father was able to attend services of the first day as well as services of the second day of Rosh Hashanah. She joins sister Rachel, 4, at their home on Lakeside Drive.

The Marshall family is cele-brating the arrival of Kristina Marie Scott, granddaughter of Nancy and Bill Marshall at 4 Court Laurel Hill Road and great-granddaughter of Ethel Marshall of 12 Court Ridge Road. Born on September 15, the 7 lb. 3 oz. girl is the first child for Debbie (Marshall) and Denny Scott of Bowie.

A special salute to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hitt of Green Ridge House: they celebrated their 6Cth wedding anniversary on September 20 with a party at their granddaughter's home in Beltsville. Attending were daughters Audrey and Doris. son Thomas, nine grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. The Hitts lived in 5 Court Ridge Road for 26 years before moving to Green Ridge House about 7 years ago.

Did you see the forty foot hot air balloon anchored to the top of the new 18 story Greenbelt Hilton and Towers Hotel this week? The balloon heralded the opening of the 285 room hotel which officially opened September 15.

Why Are There

So Many Acorns?

There's a big crop of acorns this fall and Greenbelt residents are finding huge numbers of those little oval-shaped nuts in gardens and on sidewalks. All those nuts underfoot make walking treacherous at times. And the plop, plop, plop noises of acorns falling sound like stones being thrown or dropped from trees. They feel like stones, too.

by Betsy Likowski

A spokeswoman at the National Arboretum says there is a huge crop of acorns because the weather conditions were just right when the oak trees were in flower this spring. It was a dry spring so the wind-pollinated oak flowers had a very good chance of being pollinated and then the fertilized flowers had a good chance of setting and producing fruit.

Although oaks average good crops of acorns every 3 or 4 years, this is the best acorn crop in at least five years. Looking forward to next fall, next year's crop may be just as heavy since some oak trees need two years for their acorns to ripen.

Hayfever sufferers may remember that the pollen count was extremely high in April, which was when some of the oak trees were in bloom. Oak flowers are very inconspicious with a number of them on one stem and several stems together looking more like a tassel than a bunch of flowers.

There was a huge crop of crab apples this year, too. During the last couple of weeks the sidewalk along Ridge Road has been covered with little apples squished underfoot. Favorable weather conditions last spring probably

"Wheels for Life" Riders Benefit Cancer Research

St .Jude Children's Research Hospital officials have announced that the Greenbelt Recreation Department and Greenbelt Lions Club will co-sponsor the Hos-pital's "Wheels For Life" Bike Ride in Greenbelt on Saturday, October 5. Rain date is Saturday, October 12. This ride will raise funds to support the hospital's battle against childhood cancer and other illnesses being studied there. The ride will start and finish at the Greenbelt Youth Center following a two-mile course around the Greenbelt Lake path. Bike riders, walkers and joggers are welcome to participate.

Sponsors donate a sum for each mile completed. Nominal prizes are awarded to participants who raise various amounts. The real winners are the children of St. Jude Hospital because every mile earns money bringing a cure for cancer closer.

Founded in 1962 by entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude Hospital has become the world's largest center for the study of childhood cancer, and is the only institution dedicated solely to the treatment and study of catastrophic childhood diseases. The Hospital is non-sectarian and interracial.
