Five Incumbents Knock Out Challengers

Should Character References be Required For Membership? GHI Board Considers

by Mavis Fletcher

A suggestion by member Eunice Coxon at the August 20 meeting of the board of directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. led the board to take a close look at the GHI membership application at its meeting on September 10. At the August meeting Coxon, of the 9 Court of Research Road, said that, in her opinion, it had been a mistake to omit a requirement for personal character references from the membership application form adopted last year. During the discussion at the September 10 meeting, the board divided between those who felt that personal references would be helpful and those who thought that such a requirement might have unintended disadvantages for the corporation.

At the August meeting the board had discussed the position of the Department of Housing and Urban Development on such a requirement. Coxon maintained that she had spoken to an official of HUD who said he thought the department would have no objection to a requirement for personal references. On the other hand, a GHI staff member expressed the opinion that the requirement had been removed at HUD's request.

At the September meeting, a letter from Coxon (who could not be present) was read which stated that she had contacted a HUD-related co-op in Philadelphia, where applicants had to have two personal references from current residents of the cooperative before they would be considered for membership. Director Chuck Hess felt that such a requirement for GHI would probably have kept out most of the members of the board of directors.

Hess also noted the possibility that an applicant turned down because of unsatisfactory or lack of personal references might charge the corporation with trying to "keep the community non-diverse"; that is, with discouraging membership for those who are in some way different from the majority population of the cooperative. Directors Andrea Haslinger and Mac Wirick voiced similar reservations.

The other side of the argument was represented by Director Betty Deitch, who said that there must be something wrong if an applicant refuses to or can't give personal references. She said that requiring such references might make GHI a more desirable community if it were known that membership standards were strict.

Vice-President Wayne Williams (presiding in the absence of President Margaret Hogensen, who was attending a meeting of the National Cooperative Business Association) summed up this subject by saying that there appeared to be two views. He instructed the management staff to put the item on the agenda for a future meeting.

While the board was looking at the form of the membership application, several other issues were raised. Haslinger asked whether it might not be more appropriate to ask a prospective member whether he had never been convicted (instead of arrested) for a crime, on the theory that innocent people are sometimes arrested. The board also discussed how the corporation can furnish to prospective members more information about the nature of a cooperative before they sign a sales contract on a unit. Manager Ron Colton said that occasionally a buyer puts a deposit on a unit without really realizing that he is buying into a cooperative, or understanding what that entails. This problem will be further discussed at a future meeting.

Member Petition

A letter requesting better maintenance and signed by about 78 members was received by the board in July. In the discussion of this letter, Colton said that he is encouraged by "renewed member interest in these matters." He expressed his gratitude to the Audit Committee, who had arranged a walking tour with two of the petition signers. He said that this tour enabled him to understand the specific concerns which had motivated the letter.

In a detailed memo running to more than six pages, Colton addressed the points raised in the petition. He outlined the increased workload the Maintenance Department has been handling in connection with such multi-year capital improvement programs as swale and drainage work, plumbing riser replacement, parking lot resealing, and the soffit and ridge vent program for the brick homes. At the same time they also were coping with such unexpected and massive projects as repair and replacement of gutters on the brick homes which had been damaged in the February snowstorm.

Colton went through some of the programs which are being carried out on a cyclical basis (sidewalk repair, common area reclamation, trim paint, and garage roof replacement). He acknowledged that the staff may not have explained adequately to members that repairs they are requesting are scheduled, perhaps several years in the future.

Director Alan Freas suggested that the options (gutter cleaning four times a year instead of twice; sidewalk repair on a two-year instead of a five-year cycle) be costed out and presented to the members at the budget hearing. See GHI, page 4, col. 1

Open Homes to Pioneers, GHI Asks Members

As part of Greenbelt's 50th Anniversary celebration on the weekend of October 10-11, Greenbelt Homes, Inc. would like to allow as many of the returning Pioneers (original Greenbelt residents) as are interested to visit their original home in Greenbelt. GHI plans to have the old and new members meet at the GHI Administrative Offices for a continental breakfast at 10 on the morning of Sunday, October 11. From there they can depart for their tour.

GHI is in the process of contacting those Pioneers who have indicated that they will be in town for that weekend. As soon as GHI knows if they want to visit the "Old Homestead," GHI will contact the current residents to see if they would be willing to open their home to its "First Family" so that they might have a quick look around.

Weidenfeld Keeps Top Vote Isaacs Eases Past White

by Diane Oberg

In a Greenbelt city council election marked by few divisive issues, all the incumbents received at least 63 percent of the vote and were returned to office. Only 232 votes or 17 percent separated the top vote getter from the lowest victorious candidate.

If council follows tradition, Gil Weidenfeld, the top vote getter with 1362 votes, will again be mayor. Joseph C. Isaacs, who received 1302 votes, narrowly edged out Thomas X. White with 1275 votes for the second highest tally and thus is the probable new mayor pro tem. Edward V. J. Putens (with 1201 votes) and Antoinette M. Bram (1130) were the other winning candidates. Challengers Keith Chernikoff and Irene Hensel rounded out the ballot, receiving 733 and 504 votes respectively.

Because the successful candidates each received more than 40% of the vote, no runoff election will be necessary and the council will be sworn in and will elect the mayor and mayor pro tem on Monday, September 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers. The meeting will be cablecast live on Channel B-10.

By precinct, the order of finish varied but the top five candidates won in each precinct. Chernikoff and Hensel occupied the sixth and seventh slots respectively in each precinct. Weidenfeld topped the vote in the Center, Springhill Lake and Greenbelt East precincts while White was the top vote getter in the North End. Putens was just six votes behind Weidenfeld in Greenbelt East while Isaacs was close behind in the Center and Springhill Lake Precincts.

Fifty-seven percent of the registered voters cast their ballots, just one percent below the turnout in the last council election.

However, the number of registered voters declined from 3,222 in 1985 to 3,106 this year. Meanwhile, the estimated population of the city has increased to 18,943 from 18,390 two years ago. The highest turnout was in old Greenbelt, where 64% of those eligible to vote in the North End cast ballots and 60% in the Center. Greenbelt East had a 40% turnout, while Springhill Lake had a turnout of 29% with 65 persons voting.

Potpourri

In old Greenbelt, Weidenfeld outran White by only three votes. The order in which candidates finished in precinct 3 was the same as in the total vote.

The five incumbents elected have a total of 42 years of council service.

All candidates except Hensel pulled over 40% of the votes cast.

The return of both Weidenfeld and White for their seventh consecutive term together marks a striking achievement for each of them.

Voters cast ballots for an average of 4.2 candidates in all precincts (translation: some voters did not vote for five candidates but "bullet voting" was not a significant factor.)

Each of the five incumbents received more votes in the 1987 election than in the 1985 election, in spite of the fact that fewer voters cast ballots in this election. (See charts, pages 1, 4.)

Betty Cormack

Elizabeth Dolores Taylor Cormack, 64, died September 9 at Prince Georges Hospital after complications resulting from pulmonary embolism.

Mrs. Cormack, a former Greenbelt resident (1950-1962) was a Seabrook resident at the time of her death. Born in Yonkers, New York on March 23, 1923, she was raised in Miami Beach.

She attended Mary Washington College, majoring in fine arts and library science. While at Mary Washington, she painted the State seals on the halls of the Arts Building. In the early 1950's, she moved to Washington, D.C. to work at the National War College library. She then married Bud Cormack and had three children; two of whom were born while they lived in Greenbelt.

Mrs. Cormack's love of art and her creativity in that area led her to express herself in many forms of arts and crafts, including sewing, needlework and handicrafts. She became an ardent ceramist, setting up a shop in her home and taught many classes over the past 25 years. Her artistic skills covered many areas, with china painting her most recent interest.

Betty was an active member of St. George's Episcopal Chapel in Glenn Dale for over 25 years. Her artistic talents left their mark on the chapel in the form of altar linens, hangings, communion vessels and ceramic pectoral crosses for the choir and priests.

Survivors include her husband, Charles M. Cormack, Jr. of Seabrook; three children, Holly Cormack of Salisbury, NC, Chuck Cormack of Greensboro, NC and Dolores Derrington of Burke, Va; one sister, Juanita Gorrell of Greensboro, NC and one grandchild, Benjamin Cormack of Greensboro, NC.

A memorial service was held at St. George's on Saturday, September 12.

What Kind of Religious Education Is Right for Your Children?

Many parents bring up children within the framework of one particular creed. Others prefer the Unitarian Universalist way.

We believe it is more important that children learn ethics than memorize rules of behavior. We believe it is more important that they learn to deal with life and with each other than to learn dogma. We believe in giving our children a sound basis for eventually reaching their own conclusions, for deciding what is the best path for them. We believe that since humans have the ability to think they ought to be stimulated to think.

Thanks and Apologies

Thanks so very much to my neighbors for supporting my reelection to City Council. I look forward to serving you over the next two years and always welcome your views and guidance on how best to meet your needs. Several complex issues await us in the days and months ahead and you can be sure that I will approach these and any new challenges with the same kind of hard work, sensibility, and responsiveness I've displayed in the past.

Special thanks to my good friends Dea and Bob Zugby for their kind support and understanding. These two caring individuals were kind enough to accept my humble apologies when their names appeared inadvertently in my endorsement ad after they had shared their wishes not to appear in any ads. I'm truly sorry about the embarrassment it may have caused them.

It has also come to my attention that my ad also contained the name of an individual who was deceased since the last election. The explanation is a clear one. The name of that individual was not removed from the voter registration list given to candidates. When another family member offered the entire family's endorsement, the name of the individual, who was not to my knowledge deceased, was included because he was still listed as an active registered voter. Thus, it was an honest mistake, which, if anything, raises the issue of how difficult it is even at the local level to maintain current voter rolls.

Thank again for your vote of confidence.

Joe Isaacs

Rough Road for Cyclists

At a recent city council meeting, an undercurrent of hostility toward bicyclists surfaced that warns me of dark days ahead for those of us who enjoy traveling around Greenbelt on bicycles. Powerful people made it clear that the Research Road gate is there because of bicyclists, and even stranded motorists are blamed on bicyclists.

There are several types of people that bicycle through Greenbelt. Kids work hard to go as fast as they can, and often find it exciting to zoom through our underpasses and down side roads. Adults who bicycle for health, fun or sport often enjoy the speed they can obtain from a downhill run. But the public doesn't see this. All they see is the occasional lawbreaker who threatens their kids with a fast bike. Much of this "sport riding" is from out of town, as Greenbelt is prominently listed on all area maps of great places to bicycle. Many racing groups find Greenbelt a good area to practice for olympic-type events. Their actions have already caused the city council to look into ways to curb bicycling.

If the law-abiding casual bicyclists of Greenbelt want to keep their right to ride through town, we have to do some fast organizing for safe cycling or lose our cycling rights soon!

Letters to the Editor

Traffic Will Be "Vastly Improved," Governor Says

The following are extracts from two letters sent by Maryland officials in response to complaints about the new Greenbelt Road/Kenilworth Avenue interchange. The first letter, dated August 26, is to State Senator Leo E. Green from Michael Snyder, District Engineer, State Highway Administration (SHA):

"This is in response to your August 14 letter concerning the recent phase change in traffic patterns at the interchange construction project.

"A meeting between myself and the Mayor and City Council of Greenbelt has been scheduled for September 28. In the interim, the District Traffic Engineering Section is reviewing operations at the intersection points. Some modifications have already been made, such as a double left turn from eastbound Greenbelt Road to northbound Kenilworth Avenue. Other needs, as determined by our review, will be implemented as soon as possible."

The second letter, dated Sept. 2, from Governor William Donald Schaefer is to Greenbelt resident Eunice E. Coxon:

"Thank you for your letter dated August 5, concerning the State Highway Administration's ongoing construction at the intersection of Maryland Route 193 (Greenbelt Road) and Maryland Route 201 (Kenilworth Avenue). I am sure you realize the tremendous increase in traffic and the real need to do something about it.

"The recent changes in traffic patterns at this construction site have had both positive and negative effects; but the negative is only short-term and we ask for your patience. Traffic on Kenilworth Avenue has markedly improved since the change, but SHA acknowledges that traffic on Greenbelt Road has temporarily suffered. Additional signing and pavement markings are to be installed, which will ease driver confusion through this area. Some of the pavement markings have already been done; additional markings and the signs probably will be ready by the time you receive this letter. Once completed, traffic on both Kenilworth Avenue and Greenbelt Road will be vastly improved. The completion of the project is anticipated this fall.

"A big problem at the intersection is one of re-education. When lanes are shifted and other changes occur at a major intersection, drivers prudently become cautious, sometimes to the point of hesitancy. Once people become accustomed to the intersection, I am sure traffic movement will become smooth and efficient.

"Again, I ask for your patience."

An Alternate View

I have listened at several meetings to comments about the Kenilworth interchange. I drive through the intersection each day during rush hour as well as weekends as I do errands. The design of the northwest section (where Springhill Lake residents enter the melee) is atrocious. The designers (?) did not leave enough room for merging traffic to safely change lanes. The state has failed miserably to clearly mark the flow, especially the Rt. 201 South problem.

However, that section is only one part of the interchange. I will contend that the flow of traffic on Greenbelt Road has improved dramatically since the interchange opened. I stop only once between my house in Greenbelt East and the Berwyn Heights MARC station instead of the "stop and go" journey previously encountered. It is almost effortless to make a left turn due to the timed lights. The new traffic flow has alleviated the same situation in front of Beltway Plaza, at least during the afternoon rush hour. The state could improve the temporary exit ramp from northbound Kenilworth Avenue to Greenbelt Road by filling in the ruts to the right with stone thereby creating two full lanes at the light. This situation is temporary, however.

Before any changes are made to this intersection, the citizens of Greenbelt need to be aware of all the ramifications. I think the state should be urged to finish the intersection quickly, including round-the-clock paving (except rush hour) which has worked successfully in other areas. But, please do not require changes at this intersection which would relegate Greenbelt to Prince Georges County's largest parking lot.

ings. Since no members were present on September 10, signers of the petition did not receive Colton's explanation. Director Nancy Hutchins suggested that the contents of his memo be made available to the signers and that a special invitation be issued to these members to be present at the budget hearings this month and next, where discussions of the additional costs to members for increased maintenance work could be explored.

Discussions during the meeting showed how massive the tasks of grounds maintenance are. According to GHI management, GHI has, in addition to about 100 acres contained in members' yards, approximately 75 acres of large and small wooded parcels, another 75 acres of common area and about 20 miles of sidewalks.

NAHC Membership

On a motion by Ray McCawley, the board voted 5-2 to renew its membership in the National Association of Housing Cooperatives. In doing so, the board responded to a plea from NAHC Executive Director Herbert Levy, who had appeared before the board at the last meeting and urged reconsideration of its earlier decision to drop its membership.

Hess and Deitch opposed the motion. Hess said that he thought staying out of the organization would have greater impact in underlining GHI's position and, therefore, that he would prefer to wait a year and see if any changes were made in NAHC. Deitch said nothing she had heard had convinced her to change her previous vote to drop the membership.

Haslinger, Wirick and Freas, however, all expressed a perception that, as Haslinger said, GHI "has gotten their attention." Therefore, they were willing to change their votes and, in Freas' words "go for another year." Williams and McCawley, the others who voted for the motion, had voted in favor of remaining in NAHC on the earlier vote.

Beltway Suit Dismissed

Colton announced that, after recent hearings in Circuit Court, the judge's order dismissing Beltway Aluminum Siding Company vs. GHI and Greenbelt Homes Inc. Development Corporation is final. Colton said that, as a result, GHI is no longer a defendant in this action.

In other actions, the board passed for first reading an authorization for management to spend up to $38,000 during 1987-88 for computer equipment to replace a small, outdated computer system (now used primarily for financial records), to automate its maintenance and inventory records and other internal paperwork. Colton and Assistant Manager Steve Wright thanked board members Hess, Williams, and Freas and Member Peter Liebscher, who had expended much time and made their expertise available to management in making the decisions which will guide procurement of the computer hardware.

The board also authorized expenditure of up to another $10,000 for the tree trimming and removal program for this year. The additional expenditure is required, Colton said, because of the severe drought this summer and snow storms last winter. This additional amount brings the authorized expenditure for this contract to $30,000 this year.

Meetings

The annual conference of the Eastern Cooperative Housing Organization will be hosted by GHI on September 18-20.

The annual conference of the National Association of Housing Cooperatives will be held on October 22-24 in Arlington, Va.

"We the People" Float Features Original Family

The City of Greenbelt celebrated its 50th Anniversary and the 200th Anniversary of the United States Constitution with its float "We the People," which had a prominent position in the Labor Day parade. On the float was a replica of the carved stone relief by Lenore Thomas located above the front entrance to Greenbelt Center School. The relief represents the preamble to the Constitution, "We the People," with its family, teacher, farmer, scientist and miner.

Riding in the city truck were J. Paul Williams, Assistant Public Works Director and 38-year employee of Greenbelt, and Kenny Hall, foreman of the Special Details Crew. They represented city employees' 50 years of service to the community.

The float also carried the 50th Anniversary logo.

The float was built by Renee Bryan, Public Information and Communications Coordinator; Michael McLaughlin, Assistant City Manager; Mike Stepowany, a set designer and board member of the Greenbelt Arts Center and Kenny Hall, Tim Houtchens and others of the Public Works Department.

A smiling Miss Greenbelt, 1987, Michelle Lee, waves to crowds lining Crescent Road for the Labor Day parade. — photos by Bill Cornett

"Miss Greenbelt" Is Michelle Lee

by Leta Mach

Miss Greenbelt 1987 is Michelle Lee, a 14-year-old freshman at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. She also won the talent award. Her award-winning tap dancing routine, however, was not viewed by most Greenbelters because she was one of three girls who had to perform in the Youth Center after the stage was rained out Saturday night.

The daughter of Barbara and Wally Byrd, she plans to study psychology in college. She has been one the junior varsity cheer-leading squad and second vice president of the Student Government of Prince Georges County. She was also Miss Maryland America Preteen in 1986.

Michelle was one of nine contestants aged 14-19 who participated in the Miss Greenbelt Pageant. The pageant theme was "coming to America" and the pageant opened Friday evening as the contestants modeled costumes of American immigrants from various countries. In addition to the talent show, the pageant also featured a slide show of pageant activities which led up to the Labor Day weekend and the traditional judging of responses to a question addressed to each girl.

Runners-up

Dawn Parrish is the first runner-up. The 15-year old daughter of Donna Parrish, Dawn is an honor roll student at Elizabeth Seton High School. In addition to being class treasurer, she participates in the Spanish and pep clubs, varsity softball and Students Against Drunk Driving. She works as a concessionist at AMC 8 Theatres and plans to pursue a career in law. Dawn was also chosen Miss Photogenic.

The second runner-up is Faith Palmerton. She is the 17-year old daughter of John and Kathryn Reynolds. A graduate of the Chateau School of Cosmetology, she works for Hair Affair as a manicurist and nail specialist. She enjoys swimming and horsebackriding and has won various ribbons including champion and reserve champion in the Maryland State Pony and Horse Show. A student of the Eleanor Pernia Studio of Dance, she would like to teach and perform dance in the future.

Lori Martin is the third runner-up. She is a senior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School where she is an honor student. Her activities include working in the school office and participating on the indoor track and shot put team. The 17-year old daughter of Marc and Jean Martin, she works part-time as a hostess for Denny's Restaurant. Her future plans are to attend college and study psychology.

For the second year in a row, Johanna Sacra was the winner of two special awards - the Pageant

Award and Miss Congeniality. The pageant award is given to the girl who does the most to help the pageant. It is awarded by the other contestants as well as the pageant organizers. Miss Congeniality is chosen by the contest participants. The 18-year old daughter of Gretchen and Norman Sacra, she is a graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School. She has worked for the Greenbelt Youth Center as an instructor for children. She is currently studying early childhood and elementary education at Prince Georges Community College. She hopes one day to open her own day care center.

A special award for make-up use, the Glow Girl award, was presented to Lisa Baird by Gwen Vaccaro. Lisa's quick learning of make-up techniques was cited as a factor in winning the award.

Past Miss Greenbelts

In recognition of the city's 50th anniversary, pageant chair Cheri Gainer had arranged a reunion of all the past Miss Greenbelt's. An enthusiastic crowd cheered as many of the Miss Greenbelts from the Labor Day Festival's 33 years appeared on stage Sunday evening.

The reunion also included a reception in the Greenbriar community room. From the first Miss Greenbelt, Mary Emmert Ruleman (1955), to the 1986 Miss Greenbelt, Niki Buemi, everyone enjoyed meeting people they had heard about through the years. Karen Klem Smith, Miss Greenbelt 1960, noted that although they were from different generations they usually had common acquaintances.

Through the years, the pageant has changed and the former Miss Greenbelts talked about the changes. The first several queens had to pass their crown onto the next winner. They did not get to keep their trophy. However, many mentioned that they fell apart or as one queen put it "mine turned to dust." The purpose of the pageant, as indeed the purpose of the whole Labor Day Festival, was to help raise money for a new Youth Center. Perhaps to help achieve this goal, the queen was chosen by determining who had raised the most money. People who wished to vote for the queen did so by dropping pennies in jars. The candidate with the most money was declared the queen.

Another difference was that the first contestants did not have to be misses. In fact, the first queen was married and had children when she won the crown.

Many women from all over the country attended the reunion. Shirley Miranda, who chaired the pageant for many years, came back to Greenbelt for the event. Miss Greenbelt 1969, Deborah Freeman Kirby, came all the way from Washington State. In addition to those already mentioned, the following Miss Greenbelts also attended the reunion: Nancy Kurth Murkley - 1956; Kathleen Madden Dunleavy - 1957; Harriet Clinedinst McDonald - 1958; Pat Moore Mancuso - 1959; Diane Shegogue Hyland - 1961; Carolyn Finley Flynn - 1964; Doris Maffay Freemeyer - 1967; Donna Austin Parrish - 1968; Martha Plaster Guptill - 1972; Kim Nicholson Miller - 1973; Alice Plaster - 1974; Louise Tounsignant - 1977; Cathy Clark - 1979; arolyn Boone - 1981; Elizabeth Greig - 1982; Natasha Charvid - 1983; Angela Schreiber - 1984 and Paula Clinedinst - 1985.

Greenbelt Writes Its History Try the Library

by Sandra Barnes

In celebration of the city's 50th anniversary, the 250-page Greenbelt: History of a New Town is scheduled for distribution in time for Homecoming Weekend, October 9-12. The hardcover book contains 350 memorable photographs, maps and illustrations which capture early construction, the war years, and never-before-published events of Greenbelt community life.

Sponsored by the City of Greenbelt, the book can now be ordered at the Greenbelt city offices at a discounted price through September 30. After that date, the price will be 25 percent higher. (See the ad on page three for ordering the book.) Profits realized from the sale will go to the city to defray expenses associated with the 50th Anniversary celebration. The limited edition of 2,000 numbered copies of the book is being published by the Donning Company of Norfolk, VA. In the Greenbelt fashion, the book has been written by a committee of volunteers, with Mary Lou Williamson, News Review editor, as general editor for the 50th anniversary project. The seven chapters focus on special events within a particular time frame.

Thus, the book begins with a brief description of Greenbelt's earliest plantation history in the 1600s. It goes on to reveal the planning of the nation's first federally built new town and Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt's early visits to Greenbelt. The reader will be intrigued by events, in "The War Years," smiling perhaps at the dramatic changes the war brought to Greenbelt life. For example, with so many men gone, the federal government finally broadened the rules to permit Greenbelt wives to work outside the home.

How Greenbelt evolved from a small, suburban community to become the third largest city in Prince Georges County will be understood by reading the chapter on "The Development Years."

No book has previously captured so many historical events and rich experiences of Greenbelt community life. No book has previously been written about Greenbelt by persons with as much special knowledge about Greenbelt's history as this book's authors.

The photographs that accompany each chapter have been carefully selected from both public and private collections. Thousands of photographs have been reviewed, from family albums to the Library of Congress collection. Both the newest resident and the oldest resident will find something memorable to treasure in this book. The index, just completed this week, lists hundreds of names — from Abramowitz to Zugby. Former Greenbelters as well as historians and city planners will discover details and photographs of special interest.

Sarbanes Sends Notice To Nomination Seekers

The office of U.S. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes is accepting applications for nominations to the four United States Service Academies until November 2. Young people interested in attending the naval, military, air force, or merchant marine academies are urged to obtain a nomination application packet soon.

To qualify, applicants must be U.S. citizens who are Maryland residents; at least 17 years old but not more than 22 by July 1, 1988; have the equivalent of a high school education with high academic standing in school; demonstrate extracurricular or community activities or both which show leadership potential; and have received scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test generally in excess of 550 on the verbal portion and 600 on the math portion.

Interested young people can call Corinda Jones of Senator Sarbanes' staff, (301) 962-4436.

Russian Film at Utopia

"Without Witness," a contemporary Soviet film with English subtitles, will be shown by the Soviet Studies group next Thursday, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m. at the Utopia Theater.

The 97-minute film, produced by Mosfilm, is directed by Nikita Mikhalkov, stars Irene Kopchenko and Mikhail Ulyanov. IFEX, importer of most Soviet films, describes "Without Witness" as a "psychological war of words," focusing on a man and his ex-wife and the reasons for their separation. Variety called the film "Mikhalkov's best film," saying it "cuts right to the nerve ends of Russian life."

An open discussion will follow the showing of the film. The group invites Soviet citizens through the Embassy to aid in helping viewers to understand the film by answering their questions about Soviet life as depicted in the film. The First Secretary of the Soviet Embassy has volunteered to participate in the discussion.

The Soviet Studies group originated within the Eighth Day Church, which is associated with the Potters House on Columbia Road, N.W. According to member Tom Arnall, the group is looking for people with similar concerns to join them, while at the same time learning about contemporary Soviet life. "Films," he suggests, "offer a better view of real Soviet life than you can get on a tour bus." Donations are requested to help defray expenses.

The World Peacemakers and the Greenbelt Peace Committee are cooperating in the showing of the film.

The Greenbelt library has received several copies of the "Doctors Fees Charged To Medicare Patients" and "Health Care Shopper's Guide," both publications of the Consumer Protection Division, Maryland Attorney General's Office. These were first announced to the public in early 1987, but are only now available.

The price list pamphlet lists doctors treating patients over 65 and whether they are "medicare participating physicians," a term used to describe whether they have agreed in advance to accept medicare assignments. Other doctors may accept such cases when requested.

The Shopper's Guide has practical advice on how to choose a doctor, explains fees, insurance coverage, prescription drugs, lab tests, eyeglasses, hearing aids, hospital costs and bills, HMO's, and walk-in clinics. There is special advice for senior citizens.

Book Discussion

by Tom Simon

The schedule of book discussions at the Greenbelt Library for the next two months is announced so that participants will have a chance to pick up and read the books to be discussed.

October 14, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., the second in our series, "A Touch of Humor," will feature a discussion of Robert Heinlein's Job, A Comedy of Justice. The series will conclude in November with a discussion of Dorothy Sayers' Lord Peter Wimsey stories.

October 15, Thursday at 10:15 a.m. the morning discussion group will meet to consider Judith Viorst's Necessary Losses which considers the giving up of dependencies and impossible expectations in order to mature. The November book will be Washington columnist David Broder's new book, "Behind the Front Pages: A Candid Look at How the News Is Made." For more information call the library at 345-5800 (TDD 345-0831).

Book buyers be ready—the library's booksale will be held on Saturday, October 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
