The federal government recently released $200 million in construction and real estate funds to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) to build a two-mile section of Metro's Green Line between Prince Georges Plaza and College Park, south of Paint Branch creek, and for construction of the College Park station. This action has created an air of optimism that funds to complete the subway line to the Greenbelt terminus will be appropriated during the current session of Congress. The House of Representatives that currently has no access.

The House of Representatives has already approved an appropriation of $197 million for fiscal year 1988, with the Senate coming up with $185 million. A compromise will later be hammered out in conference.

Completion of the Green Line in northern Prince Georges County from Fort Totten to Greenbelt is now slated for late 1993. However, decisions must be made on an alternate eastwest route to replace Calvert Road, which will be closed when construction begins on the College Park station. Also to be resolved is the amount of acreage which must be acquired from the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center for the Metro yards, to be situated north of the Capital Beltway.

Dispute Over Routes

Over the years, the thorny problem of road access to the Calvert Road Station in College Park has caused a split among various factions. In August James Novak, Director of the County's Public Works and Transportation Department, recommended to County Executive Parris Glendening the adoption of the northern Alternate #2Modified route, which the county prefers as the alignment for Calvert Road. This recommendation, which has been the University of Maryland's preferred route also, was based on "long and careful evaluation of all impact factors," Novak said. These included traffic routing, transportation network influence, travel cost, socio-economic factors, natural environment and construction and right-of-way costs.

The PWT Department's preferred alternate route would begin at the north gate of the University of Maryland at US-1, and proceed southeast. It would go under the CSX railroad tracks, slightly touching the southwest corner "or just miss-(ing)" the College Park Airport, then swing southward to Lehigh Road and join existing Calvert Road near the 94th Aero Squadron Restaurant.

The College Park City Council, historic preservationists and aviation enthusiasts have long opposed the northern route which, they stress, would adversely affect residential areas, local businesses, and the historic College Park Airport. Instead, they favor the southern route, which they claim would cause minimal impact to residents. The southern route would traverse vacant industrially-zoned land Greenbelt Station Specifics by Elaine Skolnik

The Greenbelt Metro station will be built on 45 acres of land south of the Beltway and directly west of the Springhill Lake Apartments. (see map) The facility will include the station, parking area, and ramps for the Beltway and B&O underpass. The railroad yard will be located directly north of the Beltway adjacent to the B & O right-of-way. Vehicle access to the yard is expected to be from Edmonston Rd. with a bridge across Indian Creek.

The size of the yard has not yet been finalized. The estimate in 1968 was 46 acres and, in 1985, 68 acres. According to Metro staff, the figure will be somewhat higher because of flood plain considerations. When the final determination is made, Metro's Real Estate Division will negotiate with the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center or the Government Services Administration.

Surfacing recently was concern that about 300 acres of BA-RC land bounded by Powder Mill Road, the CSX right-of-way. Edmonston Road and the Capital Beltway would be in the acquisition package. Although Metro can only acquire land that it will actually use, the government could require a buyer to take more land, if the remaining property were isolated from public access. According to Metro staff, the latter is not applicable to the acreage earmarked for the yard. In a letter to Wallace, Roberts &

CFG Hears Metro Plans

by Diane Oberg

At its membership meeting on November 29, the Citizens For Greenbelt (CFG) heard Government Relations Director Gerald Gough and Civil Engineer Paul Manoukin, both from Metro, discuss the status and design of the Greenbelt Metrorail Station. Gough said that Metro is cur- Baltimore City.

Gough said that Metro is currently funded under the Stark-Harris Act passed in 1979. This bill appropriated 1.7 billion dollars for Metro. Gough said that the federal government recently released $130 million in construction funds from this appropriation for the sections preceding the Greenbelt station. He said that the 1988 budget, currently before Congress, will contain funds for the Greenbelt station and yard.

The House of Representatives has approved $197 million for Metro while the Senate has settled on $185 million.

Gough said that the Stark-Harris appropriation should fund an 89 mile system, and that Metro expects to seek additional funds from Congress to complete the full 103-mile system. However, he said that regardless of the result of such future funding requests, the Greenbelt station will be built.

Manoukin said the station will be located behind the sand and gravel yard and beside Cherrywood Lane (see map). The rail yards, used to store, clean and repair rail cars will be built on land that is currently owned by the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center.

He said that construction on the ramps to and from the Beltway should begin in early 1988, with construction on the station beginning late in the year.

In addition to the Metro Station, there will also be a new station on the Maryland Commuter Rail System (MARC) This MARC station is scheduled to open in late 1989, with the Metro station scheduled to open in 1993.

The parking lot at the station will hold more than 3,000 cars with two bus drop-off areas and two "Kiss and Ride" lots, said Manoukin. Gough noted that the Greenbelt station needs such a large lot because, as a terminal station, it is expected to attract riders from Howard and Baltimore Counties and from Access to the station will be from Cherrywood Lane and from new ramps to and from the Beltway to the west. Gough said that planning studies indicated that only local traffic will be coming from the east on the Beltway, since more distant riders would use the New Carrollton station. In additio⁻ Cherrywood Lane is scheduled to be extended over the Beltway to intersect with Edmonston Road north of Ivy Lane. This is a county project and the Metro representatives present were unable to answer the many questions on the design and timing of this project.

Station Configuration

The Greenbelt station will be a center platform station. A passageway under the station will lead to the MARC trains and to Hollywood Park. There will be no parking lots on the Hollywood side of the station. Manoukin said this was at the request of College Park officials. The entire parking lot will be landscaped with trees. Gough said that Metro makes provisions for bicycle and pedestrian traffic at all its stations.

The rail yards, located north of the Beltway off Edmonston Road will cover 68 to 70 acres. However, Dick Manning, who is in charge of the yards for Metro, said this could increase somewhat. He said that the yards will extend almost to Sunnyside Road and will be buffered by trees. He said that, the yards will be able to store up to 250 transit cars.

Gough said that at most "a couple hundred" workers will report to the yards in several shifts. They will park at the yard, entering from Edmonston Road.

Solange Hcss, noting the experiences of the New Carrollton station wondered if the parking lots were designed with future development and population increases in mind. Gough said the parking situation will not be ideal, but that this is the maximum they can build. He said that Metro buses will be rerouted to go to the new station rather than New Carrollton. Keith Chernikoff asked about Veteran's Day Ceremony Is Wed., Nov. 11, 10 a.m.

Veterans Day will be commemorated on Wednesday, November 11, at 10 a.m. at the city of Greenbelt War Memorial on Centerway. The event will be sponsored by Legion Post and Auxiliary \pm 136. Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary Chapter \pm 25, and the City of Greenbelt. The public is invited. The special significance of the event this year is that it marks 200 years of American veterans.

In acknowledgement of the veterans of our country's allies, the guest speaker will be former Lt. Col. Winthrop Brainerd of the United Kingdom's Grenadier Guards.

In the event of inclement weather, the ceremony will move to the Utopia Theater. The public is invited to join in a repast at the Legion Post Home after the ceremony.

Preliminary site plan of the planned Greenbelt station on the Metro Green Line. The station will lie to the south of the Capital Beltway along the B & O Railroad. The Metro service yards will occupy a site north of the Beltway extending almost to Sunnyside Avenue. This site plan was adapted from a Metro Comparative Alignment Study which is subject to revision. Page 2 Loop T

50 Years Ago In Greenbelt

by Mary Moien

November 1937: By November 1937, the new Greenbelters were already starting to organize. During the month, the Greenbelt Citizen's Association and the Journalistic Club were formed. On November 23. the first town council was elected. Ninety-six percent of registered voters cast votes in that first elecion. Louis Bessemer was elected the first Mayor by the council and Roy S. Braden was appointed the Town Manager. Braden was also community manager under the Farm Security Administration. By the end of the Month the first issue of the "Greenbelt Cooperator" had been published. This newspaper was the forerunner of the Greenbelt News Review.

Other Firsts: The first Cooperative Drug Store in the US opened in Greenbelt.

In the fall of 1937, "Drug Topics' made the announcement that the drug store to be opened in Greenbelt would be the "first government-sponsored cooperative retail drug store" in the country. The article spoke of the background of the town and the plans for the store. Herbert Evans, vice president of the Consumers Distribution Corporation backed by Edward Filene spoke glowingly of the new venture. "We are planning to have the interior trim of the store in gray oak . . . Modern fittings throughout and . . . a low level soda bar. We are going to take pains to see that our drug store looks dignified and not like a circus."

of Greenbelt, died on Sunday, October 25, at Jane Lew, W. Va., after a long illness. Funeral services were held at Gasch's Funeral Home, Thursday, October 29 with interment at Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Rhoda Lee Dennison, formerly

Mrs. Denuison was preceded in death by her husband, Dewey, and a daughter, Roma Phillips. Survivors include a daughter, Iris D. Conway of Norcross, Ga., formerly of Greenbelt; a sister, Mrs. Ruby Grove of Weston, W. Va.; a brother, James R. Mc-Clain of Jane Lew, W. Va. She is also survived by four grandchildren: Maj. Robert A. Phil-lips, Forestville, of the Prince Georges Police Department; Patty C. Sharpnack, Norcross, Ga.; Donna Conway, Portland, Ore.; Carol P. Reilly, Crofton, Md.; four great-grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Dennison was a faithful member of Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church in Greenbelt and was an honorary member of the Administrative Council.

She was proud of her home at 10-D Southway where she maintained the home and flower gardens beautifully, and shared them with her friends as a generous and gracious hostess.

After several years as a semiinvalid she decided to return to her old home in West Virginia where she was close to members of her family and old friends.

A faithful friend, a loving mother and grandmother, proud of her grandchildren and their accomplishments, she will be missed by ail who knew her.

So, I'm taking this opportunity to publicly thank Donnie Blue and Joe Demisa for the swift and excellent job correcting a backup sewer problem I had Sunday.

They were at my house and at work on the problem 10 minutes after I called. They were courteous, pleasant and well-trained in their job and in less than an hour they had a messy problem corrected.

To GHI maintenance and these two young men, my most sincere thanks and appreciation. I do not know where GHI finds the excellent help they have but they are tops in my book.

They are also one of the many reasons for making Greenbelt a super place to live.

Thanks again to these very nice young men for a job well done.

To the Editor: What Does Home Sweet Home mean to you?

To me, it is a place where we assemble, share, and show our love for each other. Such an attitude prevails right here in Greenbelt and makes Greenbelt unique in our world today.

Just visit town square, the post office, or our co-op store and you will find that spirit of friendship, rarely found in any town these days.

There are more volunteers, and down-home activities in Greenbelt than you can imagine on any one occasion.

For example, Greenbelt Baptist, and other churches, have special Sunday morning programs at the Greenbelt Nursing Center from about 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

These programs show the spirit of volunteerism at work. Come and see us!!!

Adam Thompson has led one of these teams for over fifteen years.

As a starter, you may wish to volunteer one hour weekly at the Greenbelt Nursing Center, and visit with the residents to share a talent, spin a yarn, or just plain let them know you care.

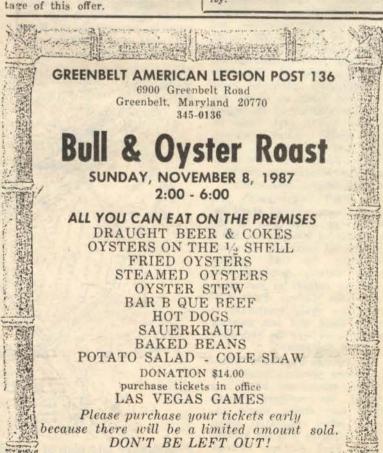

You can be assured of receiving a blessing for helping the old, sick, and needy,

It's that good feeling of sharing with another.

Y'all come, you hear! Joe Damron, Jr.

LIONS CLUB WARNS OF DIABETES SYMPTOMS

November is Diabetes Awareness Month. Fifty percent of all diabetics do not know they have the disease which is the leading cause of blindness. Everyone over the age of 40 and overweight is considered at risk. The risk is greater if diabetes is present in their family, and for women bearing children weighing over nine pounds at birth.

Insulin-dependent diabetes, most frequent in children and young adults, is characterized by the sudden appearance of: constant urination, abnormal thirst, unusual hunger, the rapid loss of weight, irritability, obvious weakness and fatigue, or nausea and vomiting. If these symptoms appear see a doctor immediately.

Non-insulin dependent diabetes usually occurs after the age of 40. It may include any of these signs: drowsiness, itching, family history of diabetes, blurred vision, excessive weight, tingling, numbness in feet, easy fatigue, or skin infections and slow healing.

by Manuel Pereira On the weekend of October 18, the Greenbelt National Capital Soccer League (NCSL) 1976 and under team traveled to Virginia to play against two of the top soccer teams of its division, the Chantilly Crusaders and the Arlington Cobras. Despite the losses, (2-0 and 3-0 respectively), both games were well-played and the Greenbelt team showed improvements and their potential for the future.

After the Crusaders scored, the "Greens" could have tied on a couple of occasions but Lady Luck just didn't help out. Towards the end of the game, with little energy left on the Greenbelt side, the Crusaders, a skillful and very well organized team, dominated the game and scored again in the last minute for a well-deserved 2-0 win.

Stopper Jamie Despres played an outstanding game — a true "giant" in defense and in the middle of the field. Special mention goes to goalie Kevin Raymond, fullback Shawn Wilson and midfielder Mike Bossard for their hustle.

An improved team showed up the next day in Arlington. Though the Cobras scored in the opening minute with a fortunate goal, when the ball bounded off the back of a Greenbelter into the goal, the Greenbelt team reacted well. The game was interesting to follow with good plays on both sides.

In the second half, while the "Greens" were trying to tie. Arlington converted a corner kick into a 2-0 lead. At the end of the game. Arlington finally was able to pressure the Greenbelt defense and scored again in the last minute. A pillar of the defense, sweeper Dylan Powell, played a beautiful game exhibiting once again his superior skills. Special mention goes also to fullback Mike O'Brien for his spirited play.

The Greenbelt team is sponsored by Springhill Lake and also by Three Brothers Pizza, Capital Office Park, and the Greenbelt Hilton.

metro Forget traffic and parking headaches Take Metrobus save time and money!

Starting Monday, November 2, the cost for parking your car at the New Carrollton Metrorail station will go up. Daily parking will cost $1.50; and monthly Metro garage parking will cost $30. Metrobus offers you a way to beat the traffic and still save money, too.

On Saturday, October 31, one-way fares will be reduced from 80¢ to 50¢ on the following Metrobus routes:

Greenbelt Express Line—R11 and R15 Bowie-Belair Line-T12 and T14 Greenbelt Line—T16

John Hanson Hwy. Express Line—T17, T19

From your community, trips leave approximately every 30 minutes during rush hours to the New Carrollton Metrorail station-now, that's conveniencel

And, with the new 50¢ fare, commuting five days a week costs less than the cost of parkingand, that's a savings! Here's some good advice-Try Metrobus today. It's the only way to beat the traffic and save money, too.

NOTE: With the new 50^{4} fare, Metrorail transfers will not be accepted on these routes. For additional information about service to your community and to get a free timetable, call 637-7000.

Page 8 Magnolia Farms Developers Fail To Find Support tor Their Plans

by Betsy Likowski

The Greenbelt City Council expressed its opposition to a plan to build houses and commercial office buildings on the Magnolia Farms property. At its regular meeting on Monday, November 2 the council unanimously voted against supporting the rezoning requests the developer, the Mark Vogel Company, needs in order to develop it as they would like.

Magnolia Farms is west of Doctors Hospital, north of Good Luck Road, south of the Schrom Hills Park, and Hanover Parkway when extended will run through the property.

The plan, presented by the developer on Monday night, called for single family homes north of Hanover Parkway and 300,-000 square feet of commercial office buildings in the southern part of the property. Council objected to having any commercial office buildings on the property. Council members explained their objections at a work session with the developer's representatives on Wednesday, October 21, as well at the council meeting on November 2.

The land is presently zoned for residential use and council members asked why the whole property could not be built as single family homes. The need for additional single family homes in Greenbelt was cited. since they make up only 6% of the city's residential units. And Mayor Gil Weidenfeld pointed out that this is the last remaining large parcel of land within the city of Greenbelt that could built up with detached behouses.

Council members pointed out to the developer and his representatives, as had the Advisory Planning Board earlier, that the city had worked to keep commercial development in the eastern part of the city near the Greenway Center area. And the Master Plan shows a tapering of the density of development from that area to the homes to the south and east and then to a park south of the Greenbrook houses.

In response to the council's objection to commercial buildings, the developer's representatives noted that the price of the land dictates the course of their plans. Attorney Glenn Harrell, (of O'Malley, Miles and Harrell), said that the Mark Vogel company only builds commercial buildings, but wants to be a part of this project.

Several times the representatives of the developer mentioned studies showing a need for more office space in the Greenbelt area. Council member Thomas White told the developer's representatives there already are enough office buildings in Greenbelt, both planned and existing.

There were concerns raised about the extra traffic the proposed development would create on an already heavily used road system. The developer plans for a third left turn lane from Hanover Parkway onto west bound Greenbelt Rd. to handle the additional traffic.

Weidenfeld said that a rezoning change on this property would affect about 40 acres of undeveloped properties to the west.

At the work session Harrell asked that a workable solution for both parties be found for this property and council could worry about the other proper-ties if and as they come up.

When the mood of the council became apparent, Harrell told how the developer had been willing to work with council and compromise. He cited the decrease of planned office space to 300.000 square feet in the last plan presented and the several possible plans for the location and types of office buildings shown at the work session.

And Mark Vogel complained that he had been treated worse in Greenbelt than in any other place. Citizen Reaction

The developer received expressions of support from several of neighoors of Magnolia the Farms.

The senior pastor of the Trinity Assembly of God, the Rev-erend William Ferguson, spoke at the council meeting of the possible development as acceptable. (The Trinity Assembly of God Church of Lanham will be part of Greenbelt when they move into their new building.)

A letter was read to the council from the Capital Bible College, (located across Good Luck Road from Doctors Hospital) expressing support for the proposal as a sensible development proposal.

Anthony Ticcirilli, a resident of Dresden Green, the neighbor-ing subdevelopment, also expressed support of the plans for Magnolia Farms.

Residents of Greenbelt, who spoke before the council, all opposed the proposed development.

Robert Zugby, speaking for the Coalition of Greenbelt East Communities said that all the members oppose further commercial buildings in the eastern part of the city and would like to see Magnolia Farms be built as totally residential,

Further Action The Mark Vogel Company will appear before the County Plan-ning Board on November 5 and the Zoning Hearing Examiner on November 13 as the next steps of the process in which they seek to obtain rezoning of the property.

METRO con't from page 1 OI Todd, the firm preparing an environmental assessment for construction of the yard, City Manager James K. Giese requested information regarding (1) the amount of land to be taken from BARC, its boundaries, and whether Metro would be acquiring from BARC land not needed for the yard, (2) the impact of the proposal for an enlarged facility upon the existing flood plain in the area and the manner in which the involved flood plain areas would be made usable and (3) the projected number of employees using the yard on a daily basis and/or the volume of traffic that will be generated on Edmonston Road as a result of this service facility.

Giese needed this information so that the city could respond to WRT's September 16 letter containing information about the environmental assessment project for the construction of the transit car service and inspection yard. WRT asked the city for its determinations on the Greenbelt yard project's compatibility with surrounding land uses and on its consistency with existing plans for the Greenbelt area.

The city was also asked to comment on the determination that the Greenbelt Yard project will not disrupt or divide residents or activities either physically or psychologically. WRT also wanted a determination that the Greenbeit Yard project will not result in the disruption of displacement of important residential or business sectors of the community.

Thursday, November 5, 1987 OPEN SEASON SEMINAR

TO SPOTLIGHT CHANGES

Federal employees and retirees will have an opportunity to learn the impact of changes in the Federal Employees Health Benefits program and the Retirement system at a seminar Monday, November 9 at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. Sponsored by Congressman Steny Hoyer the seminar will begin at 7:30 p.m. The first 45 minutes of the seminar will center on changes in health benefits. Gordon Brown of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees and Walton Francis, author of a consumers guide to health insurance for federal employees, will lead the discussion. From 8:15 to' 9 p.m. a discussion of retirement system choices will occur led by Ross Marcou, Office of Personnel Management, and and Denny Snook from the Congressional Research Service.

The date of the seminar marks the beginning of the annual open season (Nov. 9 to Dec. 11) during which federal employees and retirees can choose to change their health benefit coverage. Also by the end of the year current federal employees who began their federal service on or before December 31, 1983 will have to choose between the old Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) and the new Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS). the safety of the "common corridor" whereby the rails for the Metro will run beside the CSX tracks. The Red Line also runs alongside the CSX track in Montgomery County where two derailments have recently occurred in which CSX trains landed on Metrorail tracks.

Manoukin said that there is greater horizontal and vertical displacement between the CSX and Metro tracks on the Green Line than along any other common corridor. He said that in most spots there is at least a fifty foot separation, although at some points the separation decreases to 35 feet. In addition, the Metro tracks are four to five feet higher than the CSX tracks. Gough said that a report on the common corridor situation is expected within a year. However, he said that if the line is not built in the common corridor it will not be built.

County Council member Richard Castaldi addressed the group briefly regarding CB-114. This legislation, introduced by Castaldi, would require that developers who obtained zoning approval prior to 1972 would have to meet the same "adequate public facilities" test that has been required since then. He said that the purpose of the bill is to require that the public facilities, primarily roads, that are required to support development are in place.

The bill would only apply to projects in excess of 100,000 square feet. Castaldi said that he does not have the support for a lower limit. He stressed that he is not against all growth, but that the county needs balanced, stable growth.

Castaldi said that there will be a public hearing on the bill on November 17 at 2 p.m., and requested support from the group.

Castaldi said that the bill would not affect Beltway Plaza which has already been completely subdivided. He said the only project in the city that could be affected would be the Sunrise Village property. Other Matters

Eunice Coxon reported that CFG now has 107 members. She said that a few years ago there were nearly 200 members and urged the group to seek to expand to 300 members.

The members present approved a motion by Keith Chernikoff requesting the executive board establish a "council watch" committee of at least three members to monitor the actions of the council and other legislative bodies and to report to CFG and through the press to the community at large,

Barry Schlesinger said that while he thought it an excellent concept, he was troubled that the people who had been mentioned in past board meetings as interested had yet to attend any CFG meetings. He said that he did not want to see a committee established until those interested had shown enough commitment to CFG to attend a meeting.

Chernikoff said that the motion allows the board to decide not to fill the committee. Coxon warned that "before you spar with council" you must be very careful and very savvy. She said that those interested should attend the next board meeting.

CFG president Marvin Holmes requested that those present come before the board and outline how the committee will operate. CFG con't from page one run the road below grade at the B & O crossing. Metro has given the county $12.6 million to replace the crossing above grade, but according to Metro officials it would cost at least twice that amount to run the road below grade. At present it does not appear that a temporary replacement road between Route 1 and Kenilworth Avenue will be in place when Calvert Road is closed. Drivers traveling east-west will be forced to use East-West Highway or Greenbelt Road instead.

New Service Available For Children at Home

A service that is for children who are alone at home during the day is being offered by the Mental Health Association of Prince Georges County. The program has trained volunteers who each day telephone children registered in the program to see whether they are safe.

Children can call anytime if they are lonely, bored, have a problem or just need someone with whom to talk.

The service is free. All that is needed is for a parent to obtain a registration form and file it with the Association.

For information and registration forms call 577-3140 Monday througn Friday during normal business hours. Anyone wishing to work in the program as an adult volunteer should also call that number. (from P.6 County Council Newsletter).

Library Sets Centennial Of Sherlock Holmes

When Arthur Conan Doyle's first story, A Study in Scarlet, appeared in the 1887 "Beeton's Christmas Annual," little did the author know that he had created a character who would seize the imagination of the public worldwide, spawning many imitators and making the detective story the favorite reading of countless millions. Conan Doyle found the demand for more adventures of the world's first "consulting de-tective," Sherlock Holmes, too much. He tried to bring him to a heroic end, locked in a mortal struggle on the precipice overlooking the Reichenbach Falls. Both moral and financial pressures brought Holmes back for more adventures.

Local Sherlock Holmes' fans are joining to celebrate the centennial of the first published Holmes story at the Greenbelt Library on Saturday, November 14, at 1:30 p.m. Peter Blau of the Red Circle, the Washington scion of the Baker Street Irregulars, the international organization of Holmes scholars, will talk about the Sherlock Holmes stories and films. Dr. Ray Vidal What are teeth made of?

Teeth are composed of four different lissue types. 3 are hard and one is soft. The three hard tissues are enamdentin and cementum. Pulp is the soft tissue found in the hollow central core of a tooth. It contains small nerve fibers and blood vessels.

Enamel is the part of the tooth we are most familiar with since it covers all of the portion of a tooth that we normally see. It is the hardest structure in the body, consisting of approximately 97% calcium. Enamel's main function is to protect the tooth from wear and tear during normal chewing. Kept free from decay, enamel can last a lifetime.

Dentin is located beneath the enamel and forms the bulk of the tooth, including crown and root. Alboth though quite hard (70% calcium), dentin is a living tissue. It contains cells which function through out life to produce additional dentin to compensate for external changes to the tooth such as abrasion and decay.

Cementum, the 3rd hard tissue, is a bonelike material which covers the root. It is only 50% calcium. Although very thin. it serves two very important functions in help-ing to anchor the tooth to bone as well as adjusting in thicking to compensate for tooth wear.

Police Blotter

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

An 18-year-old Washington, D. C. resident was arrested at Beltway Plaza Mall about 8:45 p.m., October 27 for possession of a 9 mm, semi-automatic handgun after he challenged an off-duty police officer and threatened him with bodily harm. A Beltway Plaza security guard noticed the gun tucked in the suspects waistband. He was incarcerated in lieu of $1000 bond.

A 15-year-old male Laurel resident was charged with theft and multiple traffic violatons about 9 p.m., October 28 after Officer Matthew Carr tried to stop the suspect, driving a stolen 1986 Toyota Camry near Beltway Plaza Mall. The suspect led officers on a car chase which ended at Rhode Island and Sunnyside Aves. where he jumped out and fled on foot. He was arrested after a brief search and released to his guardian pending juvenile court action.

Resdents of the 8200 block of Canning Terrace reported about 3:30 p.m., October 27 that a sixyear-old boy had been abducted off the street by a man who forced the boy into a car and drove off with him. Investigating officers learned that the suspect was known to the boy's parents and that the boy had been taken in reprisal over a money dispute. The boy was later released by his abducter and returned home unharmed about 10 p.m. There was no arrest at this time but further police action is anticpated

The resident of an apartment in the 6200 block of Breezewood Drive surprised a would-be burglar about 1 a.m., October 29 when he heard his sliding glass door open and went to investigate. The suspect fied. He was described as white, about 5'10", with collar-length wavy, curly hair.

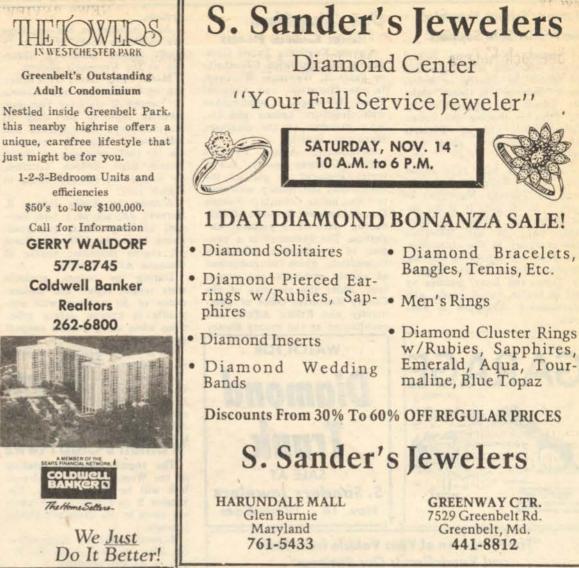

A color television and window drapes were reported stolen on October 3 from an apartment in the 6100 block of Breezewood Court. Means of entry could not be determined.

Officer Mike Lucia arrested a 26-year-old Hyattsville man about 8:30 p.m., October 25 at a Beltway Plaza restaurant after the man and four companions ran up a $125 bill and tried to pay with a lost Visa credit card. The suspect claimed he had found a wallet earlier that day containing the card. He was held on $2000 bond charged with theft, possession of a lost credit card with intent to use and making a false statement.

Nursery School Thankful For T-Shirt Sale Support

Greenbelt Nursery School thanks everyone who supported the school by buying or ordering a "Greenbelt is Great" shirt. The school also apologizes for the delay in placing the order. Delivery on ordered T-shirts can be expected in about four weeks.

The school's next fund raiser will be a Holiday Shopping Party on Tuesday, November 10 from 7 to i0 p.m. It is an opportunity for parents to purchase many of the materials used everyday in the classroom. This year, the school is offering Gryphon House Books, Discovery Toys, and Lauri puzzles as well as crafts, baked goods, and refreshments. Everyone is welcome.
