GHI Board, Staff Take First Look At Parcel 1 Options and Impact

by Sid Kastner

At its regular Thursday evening meeting on January 28, a principal item on the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board's agenda was discussion of what position the housing cooperative should take with regard to possible development on Parcel 1, the large tract of wooded land which lies adjacent to GHI property and homes along Ridge Road. Other matters on the agenda were mainly informational, such as a fourth-quarter staff report and a new member survey, or brief action items such as an issue of withdrawal of recognition agreements with non-active lenders.

Parcel 1

The manager's memorandum to the board described the background of this issue which has been prominent at recent city council meetings. On December 21, 1987, the city council voted to acquire "all or as much as possible" of Parcel 1, without at the time specifying a funding mechanism for the acquisition. This action was followed on January 12 by a city work session discussing capital improvement needs along with parkland acquisition.

In the meantime, a developer has drafted a revised plan which proposes 166 single-family homes for the tract, and has thereby raised several questions for the city: (a) First, does the city want to buy Parcel 1? (b) If not, could a (traffic) right-of-way to the development be gained from Northway extended? (c) What would be the city's position on supporting water and sewer lines to the development? (d) Will the city council support rezoning for the development?

At its last meeting, the GHI board took no action on Parcel 1, but asked manager Ron Colton and his staff to define buffer strips along the tract between GHI property and the proposed development. The manager now displayed a map of the area with the streets and houses of the development superimposed. He indicated two areas he would recommend preserving as buffers: a triangular area at the intersection of Ridge Road with Laurel Hill Road, and a long crescent-shaped strip along Ridge Road starting from Northway. The first area was especially not suitable for building on, he said, because of the local ground slope and likely impact on nearby GHI homes.

On being presented with this staff picture and description, board members expressed a variety of reactions. Ray McCawley first proposed that Colton relay the buffer suggestions to the city and to the developer, "as soon as possible," suggesting also that GHI might have to get into negotiations with the developer to buy some of the land. Chuck Hess felt "This parcel shouldn't be developed at all" because of its historical value as well as for green space, as did Betty Deitch. Nancy Hutchins questioned how the developer could be induced to give up 30 lots, which Colton indicated would be necessary to form the buffer areas, but thought "anything we got would be good."

McCawley and Hogensen made tentative estimates of total cost for the city to acquire Parcel 1, as well as to fund the other proposed capital improvements. They commented that the original bond issue would not cover total expenditures so that the difference would have to come out of taxes. Alan Freas felt, "It's not practical to buy part of (Parcel 1) - it's all or none," while Mac Wirick said it was premature to discuss the matter since the developer "doesn't own the land yet." Before following Freas' suggestion that further

Residents Invited to Join GATE To Learn to Create TV Programs

by Robert C. Williams

At an Open House held last Thursday in the Municipal Building, Greenbelt Access Television Inc. (GATE) invited civic and church organizations to become the producers of their own Cable TV programs.

There are 75 to 80 service, social, civic and religious organizations in Greenbelt. "Each has a story to tell, each of you has a message you need to get out," said Robert Zugby, president of GATE, before invited members of nine Greenbelt organizations and about 15 other citizens interested in working on television productions.

The goal and purpose of GATE is to train the citizens of Greenbelt and members of its service organizations to produce their own cable television productions.

If an individual or group has an idea it wants to produce, GATE will help it consider what is involved in putting together a production. The group will work with members of GATE, each providing the talents and tools needed to bring it to completion. Zugby expects that members from various organizations will come together to share their new knowledge of video production and that a pool of experience will form to serve the community.

To become a member, an individual must be a resident of Greenbelt, must be 13 years old or older, and must complete the two three-hour sessions for certification by Prime Cable to use the camera equipment. There are no dues and the training is free. Currently there are around 30 members. Each member is eligible to run for a seat on the board of directors, which is elected every year.

Those who sign up for the training find it as much a social event as a learning experience, according to Kevin Wheatley, GATE board member. "It is just like taking your wife to the movies, only it's learning to make the movies," he said.

GATE needs editors, writers, music, lighting and stage technicians and anyone with creative ideas, said GATE Secretary Harry Baldauf, who heads the membership drive. He said he would be happy to come and talk with any organization about what services GATE can offer.

Renee Bryan, vice president, emphasized that the group needs to show Prime Cable, the Public Access Committee and the City of Greenbelt that they can present a consistent block of programming in order to control a "block" of air time on Channel B15, the Prince Georges County public access channel.

GATE must share this channel with the Prince Georgians On Camera, the county-wide programmer, but GATE can override PGOC programming within Greenbelt with their own programming. That is the goal of GATE - to maintain a permanent override with a block of Greenbelt community programming.

Membership Needed

The key is membership, according to Kevin Wheatley. See GATE, page 6, col. 1

FIRE SQUAD REQUESTS CITY HELP IN PURCHASE OF $181,000 PUMPER

by Steve Galanis

Officials of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc. have asked city officials to help finance the purchase of a new pumper. At a council work session at the firehouse on Jan. 12, Greenbelt's fire chief Mike Dutton and fire dept. president Gene Davis presented a replacement schedule for the company's fire and rescue vehicles.

At the top of the list was the department's 1969 pumper - the oldest of three pumpers - scheduled for replacement this year at a cost of $181,000. Six other company vehicles are scheduled for replacement by fiscal year 1992, according to the plan. The projected total cost for all replacement vehicles, including the 1969 pumper, exceeds the department's projected revenues through 1992 by $344,000. The department hopes to sell the Pierce mini-pumper - the only vehicle not scheduled for replacement.)

The first half of the work session centered on the need for a new pumper, and the request for city financing. The direct request for financial aid was received by Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, who said the city could not afford to finance the full cost of the new pumper. Weidenfeld said that any help from the city would be merely supplementary at best, and that the department would probably have to pool funds from various sources in order to buy the new pumper.

One hoped-for source of funding described by Davis is a state grant administered to volunteer fire companies mainly for capital improvements. However, Davis said, these funds are limited and whenever awarded only partially cover the cost of the proposed improvement. (According to the Prince Georges County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Association, past awards applied toward the purchase of a new pumper have not been higher than $42,000.) According to Davis, the Greenbelt station has yet to be awarded funds through this grant, although the department has applied for them in three consecutive years since the fund was created in 1985.

Even if the department were to receive a grant, the bulk of the funding for a new pumper would still probably have to come from elsewhere because of the department's own financial limitations as well as those of the city. Davis and Dutton explained that it would be less than ideal to have the county provide the bulk of the funding because the county would then have title to the pumper, and could choose to reassign the pumper elsewhere at some later time.

During the second half of the meeting, the county's allocation of resources to the Greenbelt fire department was scrutinized. Aside from the funds raised through its own efforts, the department is sustained by a county entitlement which includes operational and administrative support, and provision for building and equipment maintenance. Operational support includes an allowance for day-time personnel costs, utilities, and fuel needs, while administrative support includes recruitment training expenses.

Davis, Dutton and other officials of the department cited difficulty in getting the county to repair a leak in the fire house ceiling. They also questioned the equity of the county's entitlement formula governing the volunteer companies. They claimed it leads to a uniform distribution of resources that does not adequately reflect the variations that exist between service areas.

Several members of council also expressed dismay with the entitlement. Council directed the city manager to conduct an analysis of the entitlement to determine if it equals the tax dollars city residents are paying for fire and rescue service.

Washington's Birthday Marathon to be Feb 14

The 27th Washington's Birthday Marathon (26.2 miles) will be held on Sunday, February 14 starting at the NASA Recreation Center off Greenbelt Road and Soil Conservation Road and winding for three loops through the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center and return to NASA. The best place to view the runners is on Beaver Dam Road just off Soil Conservation Road as there is a parking place and the runners go by three times. The course has just been changed to eliminate the long hill on Soil Conservation Road so the start will be close to Good Luck Road and the recreation center. The starting time is 10:30 a.m. on Sunday.

It was important to get the course recertified as no records can be set on an uncertified course nor can one qualify to run in the Olympic Marathon trials which are coming up soon. Many anxious qualifiers are asking about this course. Jim Hage of Lanham, who won here last year, has indicated he may run again although he has already qualified to run the Olympic marathon trials. Margaret Horioka of Williamsport, MD., who has won an unprecedented three consecutive marathons here, has entered.

The D.C. Road Runners with help from the Prince Georges Running Club holds this marathon and is in need of additional help as course marshalls or sentries. Among the sponsor contributors are the Greenbelt JAY-CEES, the Greenbelt Hilton Inn and Towers, Sporting Life Store in Beltway Plaza and All Sports in Greenway Shopping Center in Greenway Shopping Center. The Greenbelt Recreation Department is furnishing showers for out-of-town runners. For information call Larry Noel 474-9362.

Council Meeting Room, Municipal Building
25 Crescent Road
Greenbelt, Maryland

The City Manager has submitted a supplemental budget for the Revenue Sharing Fund for the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1988 in the amount of $10,500. The budget proposes that the supplemental funds be expended for the purchase of word and data processing equipment and consulting services for the various departments and offices of the city. The estimated additional funds result from more funds being available for appropriation at the close of the last fiscal year than were anticipated, $7,000; funds encumbered for purchases at the end of the previous year not being expended, $1,000; and from additional interest saved from temporary investments, $2,500.

A public hearing on the budget will be held at the place set forth above. Any person wishing to be heard on the proposed budget will be recognized at the public hearing. Subsequently, at the regular Council meeting scheduled that evening, the Council will consider the final enactment of an ordinance adopting the budget and making a supplemental appropriation of funds.

The Roosevelt Rap

by
Kirsten Schimpff, Lauren Barker
Lisa Orenstein, Cora Dickson

The accomplished musical theatre group of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, under the direction of Judy Moore, has produced another successful play. Kecia Posey, Walter Braun, and James Jordan of Greenbelt starred in Irene, a story about a poor piano tuner's rise in society. The play was performed for an enthusiastic public on February 4, 5, and 6 in the Eleanor Roosevelt auditorium.

The music program at Eleanor Roosevelt has long been acclaimed as one of the finest in the state. This is evident in the large number of students chosen from Roosevelt to participate in the Maryland All-State Band and Orchestra. Eighteen students from Roosevelt were selected, and they will convene with members of high school bands, orchestras, and choruses throughout the state at the Maryland Music Educators Conference in Ocean City March 4 - 6. There they will practice for a performance at the Convention Center on March 6. The eighteen students are: Tracy King, Matt Kodama, David Alexander, Jack Hunter, Nancy Hills, Ben Phillips, Jonathan Dixon, Aaron Goldberg, Beth Hayes, Bob Alcorn, Jane Barbe, Becky Phillips, Edsel Kim, Joyce Spears, Liza Scriggins, Stephanie Larson, Kara Goldberg, and Matt Tifford.

Michelle Dorsey of Greenbelt was selected as a semi-finalist in the Coca-Cola World Chorus Competition, which chose two students to represent the United States at the 1988 Winter Olympic Games. Michelle was seventh of the 400 singers selected in the quarter finals. She received a citation and gifts from Coca-Cola in recognition.

Science Talent
Roosevelt had two students chosen as semifinalists in the Westinghouse Science Talent

Search. After submitting a paper written on a topic that they researched, they were selected among the top 300 students in the country. Jacqueline Chatterton won for her project entitled "What Sank the Pride of Baltimore?" and Shibani Pati won for "Rotation Stabilizes Cellular Convection: A New Understanding of Solar Gravelation."

Another Greenbelt resident, Soyeong Yim, received third place in a National Essay Contest sponsored by the Korean Times newspaper in Los Angeles. The theme of the essay was the significance of the 1988 Summer Olympic Games.

The Varsity Cheerleading squad of Roosevelt won first place in the Regional Championship of the Eastern Cheerleading Association, which was held in Richmond, Va. This victory qualifies the squad for the Grand Finals to be held on March 20 in Williamsburg, Va.

Other honors received by Roosevelt students include the appointment of Sun Yong Pac to the Youth Advisory Council by Parris Glendening, the early decision acceptance of Thomas Caghey to Harvard, and the printing award of the Washington Club of Printing House Craftsmen, which was won by Rumonda Smith.

In the future, Roosevelt has two events planned for Friday, February 12: The Sophomore Class Valentine's Dance and the Senior Variety Show. Scheduled for Saturday, February 13 is a Pom-Pon Competition, to be held in the gymnasium. The competition will feature performances by the Junior Varsity and Varsity Cheerleaders and a squad of alumni poms.

Scheduled for Thursday, February 18 is the International Dinner. This is an annual event sponsored by Roosevelt's language department. The potluck dinner will begin at 6 p.m., and entertainment takes place from 8 to 9:30 p.m. The entertainment will include skits, dances, and songs performed by students of French, Spanish, German, Latin, Russian, Italian, and Japanese classes.

On February 24, the Black Student Association of Roosevelt will hold a concert at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium to celebrate Black History month. The concert will feature a guest speaker, community leader Denise Johnson, and performances by the Jazz Band, Gospel Choir, and members of the BSA.

On February 26, Roosevelt's Symphonic Orchestra, Symphonic Band and Concert Band I will perform a concert for parents and students at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. Admission is free.

(This column, written by Eleanor Roosevelt Raider Review staffers will be appearing in the Greenbelt News Review. It is an attempt to keep the community informed of the goings on at the high school. Look for upcoming events, news items, and announcements in future columns!)

Gate Seeks New Members

 cording to the board. GATE needs people from the community to run the cameras, write the scripts, do the lighting and come up with ideas of what they would like to see presented on TV. "Our mission is to serve the community by giving service organizations a place to show what they do in their community," said Zugby.

Some examples of the possible programs that were shared by both members and people in the audience were community news programming, book reviews at the library, historical interests, concerts held in the parks and churches, interview and discussion shows, community forums and debates from leaders in the community.

Wheatley and Zugby presented some ideas already under consideration — "Utopia Backstage," a taped tour to see how a stage show is produced, coverage of little league athletics and adult sporting events and "It's Your Nickel," where persons can say anything about any subject for three minutes.

In the last year progress has been slow. It's like being on a roller coaster ride, according to Wheatley. It's tedious work to reach the top of the hill. "We are three quarters up the hill . . . once it gets rolling it's going to be a whole lot of fun."

Gil Weidenfeld, Mayor of Greenbelt, suggested a survey was needed to determine what the citizens would want from their community television.

He went on to note the importance of this exposure to people and businesses around Greenbelt. The programming could be a means of showcasing Greenbelt and drawing new businesses and employment into the city. This is a resource that could be used to persuade people who work in Greenbelt to relocate here and people who live here to work here, he pointed out, thus keeping their paychecks in Greenbelt.

Weidenfeld sees GATE as one means to involve the business community, including the big national corporations, in the Greenbelt community.

GATE could be used to show what opportunities are available and what professional skills are needed by doing shows about the various businesses around the city, said Wheatley.

Inviting the Beltsville Agricultural Center and NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center to contribute programming on some of their current projects was suggested by board member Eunice Coxon and members of the audience, to draw in and connect these institutions with the people of Greenbelt.

History

When the Public Access Advising Committee (PAAC) looked into the implementation of a public access channel or a channel for the citizens of Greenbelt, they had a choice to have either a city-managed channel or an independent, non-profit corporation.

PAAC and GATE chose to create through bylaws of GATE's corporate charter an independent, nonprofit, incorporated organization that was free from governmental censure and yet linked, because of funding, to the city. The city council of Greenbelt has one appointed seat on GATE's board of directors, currently held by councilman Tom White.

Other board members not mentioned above include Larry Goldberg, Treasurer, and Julie Greer, who were not present at the meeting.

Zugby said that the City of Greenbelt has been very supportive. He added cautiously that the city is waiting to see if GATE can come through with their goals.

GATE funding came in a $10,000 grant from Prime Cable through the City of Greenbelt. They still have most of the original $10,000 except for what was spent on their first production, the taping of the Labor Day Parade. This has been shown three times on the public access channel, said Zugby.

Bryan said that they are not seeking other sources of funding at this time but that they could possibly ask for a small part of the 5% franchise fee paid to the city by Prime Cable.

Other methods they will look into to finance the program are fund raising projects and sponsorships from private companies, as the public radio and television stations have done. But until GATE can produce regular programming consistently, there is little discussion of future funding.

Still the key to GATE's success is gaining an active membership to help the organizations of Greenbelt and its citizens put their creative ideas into production and on the air.

Zugby said there is a pool of talent and ideas in this highly organized community that can be tapped to fulfill Greenbelt Access Television Inc.'s mission to serve the service organizations of Greenbelt.

"To Your Smile"

Dr. Ray Vidal
 Is there an age limit for braces?

Many adults who would benefit from braces are needlessly missing the opportunity due to old fashioned ideas associated with orthodontic treatment. Contrary to old beliefs, adults of any age can usually have some form of tooth realignment performed. The only possible exception would be certain bone disorders or very advanced periodontal (gum) disease.

New advances in technique and materials have made available numerous alternatives to the "metal mouth" form of treatment. Among these are clear or tooth-colored plastics, thin wires, and braces attached to the backs of teeth. Besides the obvious benefit of improved appearance, orthodontic treatment can lead to a healthier mouth as well as overall better general health. Elimination of crowding of teeth, muscle stress, and poor chewing patterns are all additional benefits of orthodontic care.

MOUNT VERNON REAL ESTATE MOVES INTO COMMERCE CENTER I

by Mary Lou Williamsion

Mount Vernon Realty opened its doors on February 1 though more workmen than customers currently frequent the new Commerce Center I at the corner of Hanover Parkway and Greenbelt Road.

Mount Vernon has leased 10,000 sq. ft. in the new five-story structure with horizontal bands of red brick and green glass. Inside Mount Vernon, the green color, with a slight blue cast, is picked up in the wall-to-wall carpeting and upholstered chairs, with beige walls and oak furniture. Wall paper and art are yet to come. The company hopes to find Greenbelt scenes and perhaps work of Greenbelt artists to decorate the walls.

The large lobby can be entered directly from the outside or through the building lobby. A specially designed mahogany desk will provide the focus for new customers seeking assistance. Internal stairs lead up to the second floor offices, which accommodate Mount Vernon's five divisions: the regional headquarters, retail, commercial, corporate relocation, and insurance. There is also an office for Washington Financial Services, a mortgage subsidiary.

Supervising the office start-up is manager Robert J. Fish. With Remax of Crofton as an agent for five years, Fish also had previous management experience with a local automobile dealership. One to two new agents are signing up with the company every day, says Fish, who now has eight, although he the District of Columbia. Begun 20 years ago by Alexandria high school business and math teacher Howard Rooks, the company has spread to nearby West Virginia and far-off West Germany, to aid military clients, and to Sarasota, Florida, where Rooks has a winter home. Rooks sold real estate part time while teaching and then full time for five years before branching out on his own.

BICYCLE CLASSES

Bicycle maintenance and riding technique classes will be offered at the University of Maryland on Tuesday evenings beginning February 23. The instructor will be Larry Black, of College Park Bicycles. The class will meet in room 1137 of the Stamp Union from 7:15 - 8:45 p.m. For registration information call 454-4987.

expects this represents a "beginning rush." He has 35 desks to fill in the large agent room on the second floor. A large computer room will provide up-to-the-minute details on any transaction.

Vice President Bruce Green will head the regional offices for Maryland and D.C. Green, who has been with the company for nine years, is a Certified Residential Broker.

Mount Vernon currently has 3000 agents in 60 offices, primarily in Virginia, Maryland and

GHI Debates Resale Financing Contracts

(Continued from page 1) discussion should be left to an executive session, chairperson Hogensen stated. "We'd much prefer the land not be developed," to which Colton replied he understood.

GHI Matters

Following suggestions by some board members that "recognition" agreements with lenders be nullified if they do not make loans within a certain period of time, the staff prepared such a motion specifying a period of six months. The main purpose would be to eliminate old, less favorable agreements and to clarify the existing situation. Lucille Jacoby of the Audit Committee preferred a longer period, such as nine months. "to be fair" to some lenders which the action might affect adversely, but the suggested motion passed. On another aspect of such agreements, Jacoby noted that in the case of one large lender, a particular clause enforcing notifications of loan sales was not included in the agreement; she felt, "All institutions should be treated on the same basis." Colton agreed and replied he would look into this.

A three-page redraft of a Summary of Rules and Regulations aimed at informing new members was presented by staff to the board. McCawley expressed approval, while Deitch preferred it to be all on one page "so members could sign it" and thereby verify that they had read it. Audit committee member Jacoby suggested it be included in the paperwork for any home being sold, on which Colton and Hogensen were in agreement. The board informally sanctioned the near-final version and the manager indicated he would see about shortening it still further if board members so desired.

Staff Report

The staff also presented its 1987 fourth quarter report on maintenance activities, which includes figures on work order requests, repair programs, contract work and fee-for-service jobs. There were about 3000 work order requests received and dealt with, involving structures, mechanical service or grounds. Projected 1987 programs such as replacement of plumbing risers, electric mains and sewer clean outs were completed. Only a few items, such as gutter cleaning and reforestation were behind schedule because of bad weather.

Colton remarked: "We did better this last quarter (and) were lucky this winter," except for a few major water leaks along Southway. Board member Hutchins complimented the staff "I'm amazed you were able to accomplish so much." Only one question from Hess appeared to go unresolved, namely whether downspouts were being cleaned out or inspected when the roof gutters were cleaned; Deitch expressed some doubt on this and Colton agreed to try to find out what the situation was.

New Member Survey

A new member survey compiled by the staff was also of interest, with only some highlights being given here. The number of units sold per year has risen steadily, from 119 in 1983 to 172 in 1987. Colton ascribed this rise to the general decrease in interest rates, making it possible for first-time buyers to own a home. The percentage of families or married couples has dropped appreciably over the same period, though the age distribution remains about the same. In the last year of 1987, about half of the homes sold were bought by people under 30, with half of the new owners being single. Most of these were previously renters. A final statistic in the survey is that there has been an increase in the number of realtors engaged in selling GHI homes.

One of the new members was incidentally present at the meeting to obtain clarification of the "optional maintenance" program. She complained that the adjective "optional" did not seem to be correct since on buying her GHI home with an addition she had been told it was mandatory to continue within the program. Colton explained that once the service was chosen for a given unit, it did become mandatory. He acknowledged, "A lot of this evolved ad hoc — we're now trying to put it in a systematic plan."

Finally, the board by motion established May 18 as the date of the coming Annual Meeting, to be held at Center School.

Expressions of the Heart

J - I love your meow meows. Love - Toola

Dear Buffalo - I love you always, winter, spring, summer and fall ways.

My Rosey - Roses are red, violets are blue, there's no body in this world as special as you. I love you all the bunches of Bushells. Cuddles

Dear K, I'm constantly amazed, at all the things you do. I surely would be lost without your love that's true. These words will not express, in just the proper way, how my love keeps growing much stronger day by day. Love J.

Robert - Luske Jou A Kusje?!
