Citizens Speak Out on Taxes, Education and Budget Cuts

by S. R. Cherry

Maryland State Senator Leo E. Green hosted a panel discussion on Saturday, Jan. 11, at the Greenbelt Municipal Building. It is the first in a series of Open Door Meetings with legislators from the 23rd District which includes Greenbelt. The representatives asked for ideas and suggestions and invited those present to share their concerns for the upcoming legislative session.

In attendance on the panel were Sen. Green (D), who serves on the Senate Finance Committee; Del. Joan B. Pitkin (D), assigned to the Environmental Matters Committee; Del. Charles J. "Buzz" Ryan (D), Chairman of the Appropriations Committee; and joining the group was Prince Georges County Council Chairman Richard J. Castaldi.

The issues discussed focused on how the reduced budget would affect various services and programs in the state and county, where the necessary cuts would be made and in what priority, what tax measures are being considered and the effects that furloughs and layoffs have had on state and county workers. Residents also took this time to voice opinions of how they felt government was handling the current economic situation.

Should Taxes Be Increased?

The issue addressed by most of the audience was taxes. Although residents were sensitive to the difficult task ahead for Maryland lawmakers, citizens came forward to express their opinions on how the present economic woes came about.

Diane Pisano, of Bowie, noted the usage of lotteries for funding the new Baltimore stadium and transportation projects and suggested that similar measures be used for educational and human services programs.

Pisano also voiced her displeasure with the added expense of financing Maryland Savings & Loan failures, ending by noting, "... that now Maryland taxpayers have to pay for (it)." Senator Green responded, citing that it was the federal government rather than the state who was responsible for the deregulation of the S & L industry. Said Green, "The President and Congress allowed banks to deregulate, and tried to come to Maryland to allow credit unions to do so also, unsuccessfully."

Decade of Greed and Gluttony

Other audience members did not let past actions by government officials go without comment either. Several senior citizens pointed out that during the prosperity of the 1980's government officials acted irresponsibly because of the abundance of funding. "Outstanding Citizen" Albert Herling, using legislation such as California's Proposition 13 as an example, told the panel, "We are reaping the pains of this stupid piece of legislation. We've come through a decade of greed and gluttony. The trickle down theory from state, federal and county government is more like a drip, drip, drip, and this (is a) form of Chinese torture we should not put up with."

A large portion of the residents told the panel that they would be in favor of certain taxes, such as "sin" taxes which would tax tobacco and liquor and the broadening of sales tax to services which are not currently subject to taxes. Castaldi asked those present to remember these sentiments if taxes such as those on property and energy become a consideration in the future.

An overwhelming majority expressed the opinion that revenues from any new taxes should give education and human services such as health care top priority. (On January 7, Prince Georges County Executive Paris Glendening noted in a State of the County address that the demand for education and services will continue to grow because the fastest growing portion of the county's population consists of those under 17 years old and those over 65).

Improving Health Care

Sen. Green, who pointed out that Maryland's health care system is a model for other states and is in excellent shape compared to the rest of the country, outlined the state's funding as follows:

33% — primary & secondary education; 33% — human services; 11% — higher education; and 11% — public safety & prisons.

Pitkin announced that Maryland legislators and Congressional representatives had recently participated in a summit called by Gov. Schaefer on the topic of health care. According to Pitkin, "Something is going to be done on the congressional level about health care this year but it's going to be on the front burner of the State if something isn't done in a national way." According to Ryan three state plans have been proposed for review, some include adding on to F.I.C.A. taxes and involve health maintenance organization-like care.

On the issue of cut-backs, many who were present seemed to agree with Perry Cogill of Glenn Dale's statement that, "Maybe there is still a lot of fat that can be cut out." Some members on the panel found themselves under attack for using state funds for meals and lodging when staying overnight in Annapolis during late sessions or early morning meetings of the General Assembly.

To stress their understanding of the strain caused by the current See LEGISLATION, page 8

Locally, people can register from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday, February 1 at the Giant Supermarket on Greenbelt Road.

PEPCO Trims Trees To Reduce Outages

In a letter to GHI General Manager Ron Colton, PEPCO has advised that it is working to reduce the number of power outages in central Greenbelt by tightening up wires and replacing blown lightning arrestors and by trimming trees. When this information was presented to the GHI Board, Ed James, member of the Audit Committee reported that a "fried squirrel" was the cause of an electrical outage near his home.

Magnet School Open House Scheduled

An open house will be held on Wednesday, February 5 at all Prince Georges County Magnet Schools. The open house will allow parents and students to visit the magnet schools and see the programs in action. The open house will provide parents and students with an opportunity to talk with staff and learn more about the many magnet programs.

For information on location of schools call the Department of Public Affairs and Communications, 952-6000.

State Tax Offices Open Extra Hours

Maryland income tax offices will offer telephone and walk-in help on Saturday, February 1, and Saturday, February 8, for the convenience of taxpayers who work during the week. The hours are 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., on both Saturdays. State income tax offices are also open regularly Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

State tax experts will answer questions, provide the necessary state forms and even complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge. Taxpayers must bring a completed copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements to take advantage of this free service.

GHI Board Relocates Annual Meeting During a Busy Night

by Leslie Robinson

The annual membership meeting of Greenbelt Homes Inc. (GHI) will be held in the Old Greenbelt Theatre at the Roosevelt Center instead of in the Center School gymnasium where it is usually held. In other action during the regular Thurs. evening session on Jan. 23, the board continued its preparations for re-negotiating a loan of almost $9 million owned to the National Cooperative Bank.

Traditionally, the annual meeting of the membership is on the evening of the third Wednesday in May. The board voted to continue this tradition. The meeting will be held on May 20.

The board defied tradition, however, as to the location of the annual meeting. Heeding the advice of Eunice Coxon and its own Audit Committee, the board voted to move the annual membership meeting from the Center School gymnasium to the Old Greenbelt Theatre at Roosevelt Center. The theatre seats slightly fewer (475 persons) than the gymnasium (500 persons), but the seats are well padded and there is air-conditioning. Last year's meeting was insufferably hot. The gym has no air-conditioning and the ventilating windows were never opened.

The luxury of the theatre comes with a price — $250 — compared with no charge for the gym. The charge for the theatre will not be the largest election cost. Advertisements and candidate biographies published in the News Review cost $923 in the last election.

If the new location proves unsatisfactory, board members Ray McCawley (vice president), Betty Deitch (secretary), and Alan Freas can say "I told you so." They voted against the proposal to relocate the meeting to the Old Greenbelt Theatre.

Progress on Refinancing

The board continued work on refinancing two GHI loans totalling almost $9 million owed to the National Cooperative Bank in order to obtain fixed rate financing at a lower interest rate. Approval has been granted for the General Manager to pay the National Cooperative Bank $12,000 for an appraisal of GHI homes and other property. Approval for an engineering study by Wiensek Zavos for $6,000 and an environmental review by Carnow, Conibear & Associates for $3,500 have passed the first approval vote and will come up for a second vote at a special meeting on February 6.

Ronald Colton, GHI General Manager, said that by March 30 the interest rate for the new loan should be known, at which time GHI can close negotiations with the National Cooperative Bank. Currently the interest rate for this type of loan is fluctuating at just under nine percent.

Bylaw Revision

The board agreed by consensus to look into a revision of the current bylaws. The board proposes to set up a three-person committee employing a standard set of bylaws used by other cooperatives. The current bylaws reflect the result of uncoordinated tinkering over the years and now need a thorough going over to unify them.

Special Meeting

In response to a request by Susan Walker, chair of the Nominations and Elections Committee, the board will hold a special workshop on Thursday, February 6 to consider a recent report by the committee. The report is aimed at halting the lack of interest of GHI members to serve on elected or appointed committees, or to serve on the board itself. The N&E Committee also would like to encourage more members to vote in GHI elections.

The centerpiece of the report is a proposal to vote by mail rather than using voting machine methods. Other suggestions include shorter board meetings. Several recent meetings have gone to midnight or beyond.

GEAC Re-elects Officers

by Pat Scully

At its January 9 regular meeting, the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee (GEAC) swiftly re-elected the incumbents to fill the offices of chair, vice-chair and treasurer. Sheldon Goldberg of Windor Green, Tim Sechrist of Greenbrook Manor and Charlene McAdams of Greenwood Village, respectively, were elected by acclamation.

The position of secretary was temporarily filled by Sarah Cohn of Greenbrook Village, for the January and February meetings only. A secretary to serve for the remainder of the year will be elected at the February 6 meeting, at Greenbriar, at 7:30 p.m.

Other issues raised at the meeting were "works in progress" or required no action. Goldberg noted that the light at Ora Glen and Hanover Parkway is now fully functioning.

He also said that the city staff was continuing its traffic study to determine if most traffic on Ora Glen is just bypassing the light at Greenbelt Road and Hanover Parkway or is local traffic with origins or destinations within the developments along Ora Glen. Preliminary indications were that cut-through traffic is not significant.

At the time of the meeting the county had taken no action on the city's request to waive the bid process to procure engineering services for the Schrom Hills Lake.

Correction

Last week's article comparing city and county revenue problems gave an incorrect amount for state aid to the city which was later cancelled. The correct amount is almost $100,000 or one percent of the city's budgeted funds.

rent financial situation many area lawmakers have reduced their own compensation. Green and Castaldi both disclosed at the meeting that they had returned a portion of their own salaries last year and plan to do so again in 1992.

State Employees Should Volunteer

The most poignant testimonial
about the fiscal condition came from a Maryland state employee
whose identity is being withheld,
citing recent actions by Gov.
Schaefer. The Governor has recently received criticism for alleged intimidation tactics against participants in an Eastern Shore protest. The employee detailed for those present how the recent furloughs and layoffs have affected working conditions in state offices.

Uncompensated overtime
hours, fewer people handling the ever increasing requests for government services and requests
from the Governor for furloughed workers to "volunteer"
their services stunned the crowd
in the Municipal Building. Noted
also was that state legislators received pay raises while state
workers did not and the dismissal of questionable purchases as
"small costs." Says the employee,
"People cut 'small costs' to meet their personal budgets," why can't the state do the same.

Other issues presented to the panel were a proposal on legalized gambling in the state, concerns over mail order marketing in the area, and the funding of a bicycle education project.

Also present at the meeting
were Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, Mayor Pro Tem Thomas White,
council member Rodney Roberts
and Democratic State Central Committee Regional Chairperson Virginia Burnette.
