

Two Greenbelt Developments City to Form Attract Possible New Buyers Own Drug Unit by Elaine Skolnik

by Pat Scully

Prospective new developers presented plans to the Advisory Planning Board on July 15 for two previously approved developments. Foundation Real Estate, a Baltimore County firm, has signed a contract to purchase Greenbrook Manor (formerly a Michael T. Rose development) from the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) and is currently in a 45-day site review period. U.S. Home of Tysons Corner is seeking to buy and build on 46 finished lots in the residential portion of Belle Pointe.

This was an infromational meeting only, since no action was requested of APB and they did not have a quorum to take any action.

Greenbrook Manor

David Tolmie presented Foundation Real Estate's time table and plans for Greenbrook Manor, which they would develop under the existing zoning and wetlands permit. Under the RTC process, Foundation has 45 days to study the site and determine if they want to proceed with the purchase; settlement will then occur within 15 days of the end of the study period.

The previous plans for the site were for 252 luxury condominiums and 33 townhomes, with extensive amenities. Foundation would like to eliminate the townhomes in favor of all 2-bedroom condominiums. According to Tolmie, they would base their site plan on English Country Manor, Foundation's award-winning project in Bel Air, Maryland. He showed slides of that development, focusing on the landscaping, cluster development, and manor house that serves as the focal point for the community and the site for the swimming pool, exercise room, lounge and meeting rooms.

Greenhorne & O'Mara is currently developing the site plan for Greenbrook Manor. The existing wetlands permit still covers the site; Tolmie envisions the approved wet lake as a "very significant feature" of the community.

The primary issue of concern, said Tolmie, is that Prince Georges County has increased its parking requirements from two to 2.5 spaces per two-bedroom unit. Foundation will be seeking a parking variance, he said, ar-

Team in Playoffs by Jeff Keir

The Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club's 15-year-old boys baseball team is having a simply excellent season. The team finished its regular season on July 20 with a 13-2 record, winning its last seven games. The team has outscored its opponents 163 to 51. But, the team is best known for its spectacular fielding plays.

The team played the Laurel B&G Club team (also 13-2) in a one-game playoff on July 22 for the County's National League Pennant.

Call the club's 24-hour Sports Line for an update at: (202) 310-1066. guing from actual usage figures from English Country Manor. He sees this as a significant environmental issue, since the increase in parking spaces mandates more asphalt with more run-off and less opportunity for green space. J Davis, APB chair, asked about the cost of the units; Tolmie said that each two-bedroom, two-bath unit would sell for approximately $100,000. Davis and Bill Clarke also shared with Tolmie their concern that the development's paths be integrated into the city's trail system.

Belle Pointe U.S. Home's plans for Belle Pointe involve a change of architecture but no change in site plans. U.S. Home would take over a discrete, 46-lot section of the residential portion of the site and build on them their models of three-story townhouses, rather than the houses of Milton Homes, the current developer.

Currently there are 21 occupied and three empty townhomes in Belle Pointe and a dozen or so unimproved lots, in addition to the 46 lots U.S. Home plans to acquire. Of the current owners, 15 of 21 have signed letters of support for U.S. Home's plans. None are opposed; some are waiting for warranty issues with Milton to be taken care of before signing.

The APB, noting that the architecture and pricing structure of the proposed and existing houses are very similar, raised no objections.

Due to the lack of a quorom, discussion of the options for Greenbrook Lake was deferred until the Board's August 5 meeting.

GREENBELT.

The city has received a matching grant from the Governor's Commission on Drug and Alcohol Abuse that will permit the Greenbelt Police Department to establish a two-member narcotics investigative unit. The city's contribution towards the $50,000 cost is $12,500. Although the grant runs for a year, city officials expect it to be renewed.

"Currently, the department is in the process of hiring a police officer. We expect to form the unit in August." said Police Chief James Craze. The second member of the unit will be an officer now on the force.

The new unit's operations will be separate from those of the College Park Metropolitan Area Task Force. The area task force focuses on "drug trafficking into and out of the University of Maryland and its environs including those areas where students reside."

"While the area task force looks at the whole area, the Greenbelt narcotics unit will focus its investigations with what's going on solely in the city." said Craze. He noted that "both the area and city units will be in liaison with each other."

The creation of the two-member unit within the police department has been on Craze's wish list for many years. However, budget constraints prevented the establishment of a "hopedfor" three-member investigative unit. In 1991 Craze had observed that it was too dangerous "to undertake narcotics investigation with a sole investigator."

Multi-Agency Police Task Forces Fight Drug Traffic

by Elaine Skolnik

During its first six months of operation, the College Park Metropolitan Area Task Force has been involved in more than 27 narcotic investigations, resulting in 56 criminal arrests. Seized were more than $55,000 in cash, 12 vehicles, three weapons and various electronic equipment.

Created in November 1991, the task force combats drug trafficking in and around the University of Maryland. The force unites law enforcement professionals from various jurisdictions including Greenbelt, who pool resources, training, experience and manpower in the cooperative enforcement of Maryland's controlled dangerous substance laws.

The multi-agency agreement forming the task force was signed by the University of Maryland Police Department, the Greenbelt Police Department, the Maryland State Police and the Office of the State's Attorney for Prince Georges County. At least one employee from each police agency participates fulltime on the unit.

"The task force is a significant step forward for our department because it is the first time we have an investigator assigned full time for narcotics work." Greenbelt Police Chief James Craze observed at the time.

Task force members have statewide policing authority. The Greenbelt Police Deparment serves as the designated entry team for all jurisdictions after the Circuit Court for Prince Georges County issues a warrant to search a particular premise. (The law permits a municipality entry team outside the municipality in which the warrant is issued to enter a premise.)

For example, in the June 26 execution of a search and seizure warrant at a residence on Mandan Road, the Greenbelt entry team. composed of highly trained volunteers from the city's force, announced the warrant. They entered the premises and secured the residence, making sure it was safe for the task force team to enter and conduct an intensive search for drugs.

The raid on Mandan Road resulted in the arrest of two men, the seizure of a 1985 Nissan 300 ZX and the recovery of seven ounces of suspected PCP with an estimated street value in excess of $2,600. All forfeiture procedures resulting from task force investigations, arrests and prosecutions are applied towards the cost of the unit's operations.

Currently, the task force has associate members from the Prince Georges County Sheriff's Department, the County Police Department and the Hyattsville Police Department. In addition, the Laurel Police Department has been active in several investigations and anticipates becoming an associate member as well.

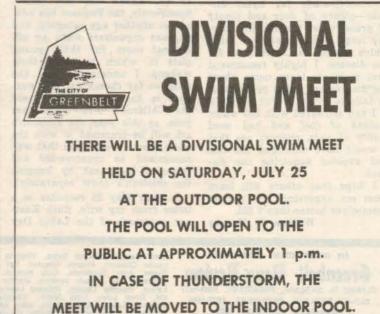

Oversight of the task force is provided by an advisory board that includes Craze and Valerie Siegel, Assistant States District Attorney for the County. Siegel, a Greenbelter, served as chair of the city's Crime Prevention Committee.

The task force advisory board meets periodically to set goals and objectives, review current investigations and assess progress.

Reply to the Brush Fighter

Chairman Castaldi must have had a lapse of memory to fabricate the story in his interview with Jim Giese.

No time to enjoy being mayor. serving in the wrong time, fight-ing brush fires, and being marshalled out to run for county council. Tough to have missed the ribbon cuttings. Get with it Richard. My serving on the council as mayor and councilman was a pleasure and a privilege.

While you say you fought brush fires. I served in the middle of forest fires created by developers trying to destroy Greenbelt's identity. I did encourage you to run for city and county councils, but never for the purpose of becoming mayor.

Your statements were insults to Mayor Weidenfeld and myself. You disappoint me-

Lyme Disease

Warning

On Thursday, June 25, I spent some time collecting insects in the high grass near a cattail marsh at the west edge of the Kenilworth Avenue Office Park. I'd sprayed my legs with repellant to keep mosquitos at bay. After the outing I took a cool shower and didn't notice any ticks on me.

By the next evening, 33 red bites had appeared above my waist. They looked like chigger bites but didn't itch. By Monday I'd begun having arthritis-like pains in my left shoulder along with headache dizziness and evtreme weakness. Tuesday morn-ing I noticed a 2-inch bull's-eye rash on my left forearm that encircled one of the bites. I drove to an emergency room where I was diagnosed through a blood test as having Lyme disease and prescribed an antibiotic to take for 14 days.

Within hours of taking the first pill I began to feel stronger and in less pain. During the past 13 days of treatment almost all of the symptoms have disappeared. I have been told that the arthritis in the shoulder will continue for two more months before gradually disappearing. I never saw a tick on my body, although the doctor wasn't sur-prised. A larval deer tick is smaller than the period at the end of this sentence. As it is, I consider myself lucky to have had the disease diagnosed early, before complications set in.

The environment in Greenbelt is custom-made for Lyme dis-ease-plenty of deer and plenty of grass-forest borders that harbor large numbers of deer mice. which serve as reservoirs for the disease. I highly recommend that residents learn more about the disease and what precautions to take to avoid it. For example, if I had showered with hot water instead of cool and had used plenty of suds. chances are that I would have dislodged the tick and avoided acquiring the disease

I hope that others will learn from my experience and protect themselves better than I did. William L. Murphy ner, members of the Labor Day

Letters to the Editor

Please Help!

Sunday evening my five-yearold son Qussay did not come home. His father was to bring him back following a court-ordered 30-day visit. A friend told me on Monday, when I called, that the father had taken Quassay to Bagdad. The court gave me custody of my son and the courfordered my son returned to me after the 30-day visit.

What can I do? Please, is there someone who has had or knows about a similar problem and could give me some advice? Please write to be at PO. Box 845, Greenbelt, MD 20768.

Too Far

May I comment on your article in the News Review dated July 9. entitled "Recycling Campaign Tests Ones Trashing"? I'm not looking for somebody's head but Iooking for someoody's head out I think when booklets are or-dered by Greenbelt personnel, who then increase the "highest participation rate" by placing them at the lake dumpsters un-opened, in perfect condition, it's going too far in building up the going too far in building up the volume for a "Municipal Cam-paign that will increase resident participation. ." Eight boxes of booklets of 20 half tones. line pages, many half-tones. line drawings, boxes, and in two colors and numbering 3,200 copies is a "waste product" of the worst sort in these times when taxes are increased to pay for this type of irresponsibility, I think.

The reason for mentioning this is to make somebody aware of the waste so it will hopefully not happen again and to get an explanation as to why and how this happened from these re-sponsible enough to allow this to occur.

The cost of these booklets has been estimated to be upwards of $1.000 which I think is an extremely modest figure . . . pins the postage as imprinted on the cover page.

Art vs. Makeup

It has come to my attention that the Miss Greenbelt Pageant is being expanded at the expense of the Labor Day Art Show. Specifically, the Pageant has added yet another age category, and pageant organizers want an additional room for these young girls in which to apply their makeup. I understand that the room so far chosen for this purpose is the room that housed the Children's Art Show last year, so this year the children's art will be crammed in with the adult show (a situation that was recognized as overcrowded and remedied last year by housing the children's show separately). In their May 28 response to a letter from my wife, Ruth Kast-

Festival Committee state that the Miss Greenbelt Pageant judging "is based on how well (the contestants) present themselves ..." and go on to list a number of criteria, the first of which is "personal appearance," with "accomplishments" dead last. This description of the competition is consistent with the same upsidedown thinking that would place a higher value on appearance than on artistic creativity.

I have two young daughters who in past years have partici-pated in the Art Show, and I resent the implicit message from the Committee that their art work is less important than how they look.

If you are as angry about this as I am, please write a letter to the Labor Day Committee. Unless we do something about this. the creativity of the Art Show will take a back seat to an exercise in the application of cosmetics.

Charles P Hagelgans

Editor's Note: J Davis of the Festival Committee says that the relocation of the Children's Art Show did not result from the pageant's need for more space. She said that organizers wanted to move the show out of the basement to increase the number of people viewing the artwork.

Girls' Nation Graduation Chaired by Sandi Dutton

Sandi Dutton was the graduation chairman and assistant storekeeper of the American Le-gion Auxiliary's 46th annual Girls Nation, a government education program for outstanding teenage girls.

Dutton, currently a member of the National Girls State Committee, is a member of Greenbelt Unit No. 136 and served as state president of the American Legion Auxiliary in 1989-1990. She coordinated the graduation ceremonies and assisted in management of the store during the week-long citizenship program at Marymount University from July 11 to 18.

Ninety-six high school juniors from 48 states (two delegates from each state), attended the program, and spent the week studying the function of national government. These young "Senators" organized into political parties, elected party officials and were appointed to federal positions. They prepared legis-lation in mock senate sessions; organized a national convention; visited with their state representatives and senators; coordinated political campaign activities for party candidates; and put a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery.

Potomac Electric Power Company is paying some customers for old refrigerators, freezers and window air conditioners. This is part of an experimental conservation project to help customers save on their electric bills and reduce the need to build additional power plants.

PEPCO Pays Cash

For Old Appliances

Under this program, PEPCO will pay a $25 rebate for each refrigerator, freezer or window air conditioner in working order, up to two appliances of each kind per household. The offer is limited to the first 2,000 working units collected.

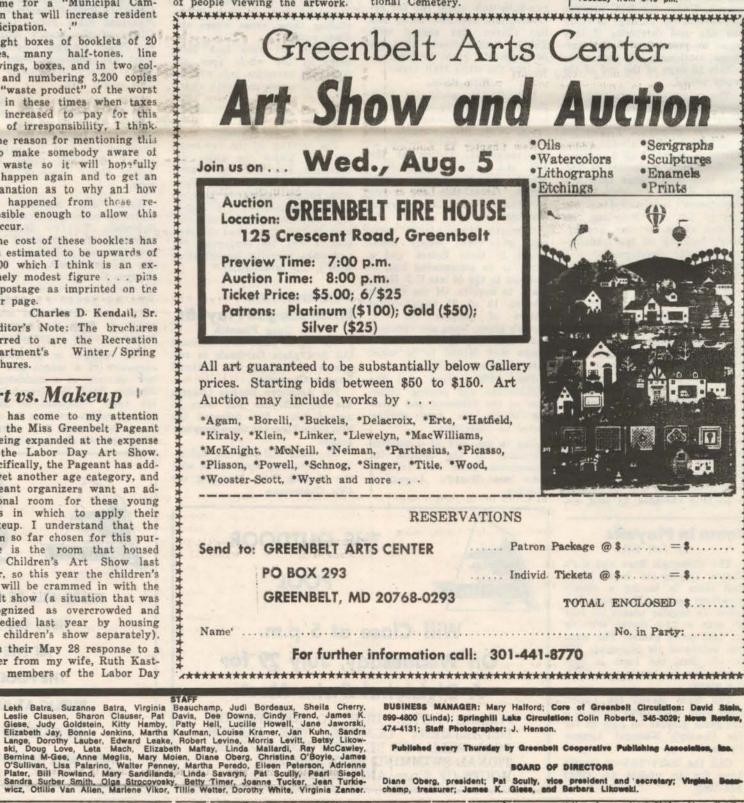

PEPCO will haul away the appliances free of charge and dispose of them in an environmentally safe manner. Some appliance parts will be recycled.

In addition, each participant will receive a free refrigerator coil cleaning kit.

Library Bookstore

Hosts Special Event

The Novel Endings bookstore, well into its sixth year at the Greenbelt Branch library, will celebrate with a stock-up-forsummer Bookstore Day on Saturday, August 1, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A larger-than-usual array of used books, magazines, records, book bags, and a smattering of puzzles will be available.

Regular bargain hunters find current magazines at a pittance. and often an older journal (like the Architectural Digest) at a mere shadow of its former price. It is not unusual for a customer to stagger out with an armload that costs less than five dollers.

Books are loosely divided into categories such as science fiction/fantasy, mystery. health. foods, gardening and hobbies. Magazines run the gamut from cycling to computers. Smithsonians to National Geographics, Time to The New Yorker to Ebony. There are children's books (which sell fast) and often such curiosities as the new Michaelangelo-edition Catholic Family Bible. Donations often include large photography books. and recently there was a collection of brand-new review copies of children's books.

The bookstore opened in March 1986, when Friends of the Greenbelt Library (FOGL) offered to manage the store—organizing the volunteer staff and keeping the shelves stocked. Books come from the library system and from donations by the public. The store is one of six operated in the county, but is is the only one managed by a Friends group.

Money earned from bookstore sales goes to the library system and to FOGL. This group pays for special children's programs as well as some adult events (such as a Sherlock Holme's afternoon some years ago). Funds also puchase magazine subscriptions and paperback books. In this way, those who find bargains downstairs pay for new items to be added upstairs. This has been particularly helpful during this time of tight budgeting, reflects Mary Bauer, Greenbelt branch manager,
