City Close to Signing Agreement On Beltway Plaza Police Substation

by David Morse

Previous acrimony was set aside and city and Beltway Plaza officials were all smiles as the main lines of an agreement regarding a Greenbelt Police substation at the shopping mall were laid out at the City Council's work session Monday evening, August 1. The formal agreement between the two institutions will be on the agenda of the council's regular session the following Monday, August 8.

In the agreement, the details of which had been worked out previously in negotiations, the city and the mall will split expenses right down the middle, including the costs of training an additional police officer. Beltway Plaza will provide the space for free, including utilities, and costs of equipping the space with furniture and equipment will be shared by the two parties.

Throughout the meeting, both sides of the table emphasized flexibility and cooperation. City Manager Daniel Hobbs said the agreement was "not a catchall but a guideline . . . We're both committed to making this happen." Hobbs added later in a phone interview, "This could represent the dawn of a totally new working relationship between the city and Beltway Plaza."

Just in case sweetness and light run short, however, the agreement includes a circuit breaker: After the first year, either party can terminate the agreement with 90 days' notice. Beltway Plaza will put quarterly payments in escrow every 90 days.

Over the years, Beltway Plaza and the city have been at odds on a number of issues, including landscaping, road access, and shoring up the plaza's notoriously unstable steep east side embankment.

The city's new working relationship with the mall is due in part to the fact that the stakes for both the city and the mall are high. Beltway Plaza is the city's largest retail outlet and one of its largest property taxpayers. It is close to completing an ambitious multi-million-dollar program of renovation and construction and is anxious to counteract an image of having been plagued by crime.

Two recent events underscored that image, one ironically. A woman and her 13-month-old daughter were pushed out of a moving car after having been abducted and robbed during a carjacking at the plaza last July 21. And another woman reported to police that she had been abducted from the plaza, sexually assaulted, and robbed on July 14. Police have said that the woman subsequently admitted the report was untrue, and have charged her with making a false statement to police.

Plaza officials said the reputation is undeserved. "Perception is 99% of the problem," said Frederic Wine, president of Quantum Management, the company which manages the plaza. This sentiment was supported by Greenbelt Police James Craze, who said that although no hard data is available, he believes crime has actually dropped at the plaza over the last two years.

Wine said "well over $1 million" has been spent on renovations and $15 million on constructing quarters for the plaza's new large tenants, Giant Food and Caldor, a department store. He said that mall officials believe the new substation, will also improve public safety by attracting "better quality tenants and

Weidenfeld, Green, Pitkin, Conroy & Hubbard Team Up

County Council candidate Gil Weidenfeld has joined the slate of Senator Leo E. Green and Delegates Joan Pitkin, Mary Conroy and Jim Hubbard. The decision was made at a meeting of the 23rd District Democrats held in Senator Green's home in Bowie on Tuesday, August 2. According to Weidenfeld this is the first time a Greenbelt candidate for county council has been invited to join the team prior to the primary election.

Senator Green, a former mayor and strong municipal advocate said: "Gil Weidenfeld has a most distinguished record as the Mayor of Greenbelt, and the Chairman of the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments. His professional career will bring a wealth of experience to the fourth councilmanic district. Weidenfeld will add strength and breadth to the 23rd District Team."

Delegate Pitkin a long time colleague of Gil Weidenfeld stated: "Gil Weidenfeld is well regarded throughout the region as an experienced consensus builder. Gil will provide leadership skills that will be needed on the new county council."

Delegate Conroy, Bowie's first resident said: "I've known Gil Weidenfeld for nearly 30 years. I have always found him to be an honest and forthright person. He is a man dedicated to the ideals of the Democratic Party. He worked closely with the late Senator Conroy on many issues affecting this district. I have great confidence in Gil."

Delegate Hubbard, a former deputy sheriff asserted: "As our county council person, Gil will work to develop a better network of communications between county personnel and local elected officials to ensure our district is not only heard but listened to on such issues as planning and zoning, transportation, public safety and the environment. This district will be ably served by Gil. He has my support."

1994 Outstanding Citizen Nomination Deadline Nears

by James Giese

For the 22nd time, an outstanding Greenbelt citizen will be honored at the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. Who will it be? No one yet knows. But it could be your favorite choice, if you nominate that person.

The nomination deadline this year is (next) Tuesday, August 9 (not August 15 as erroneously shown on the nomination form printed earlier this summer). You may use the nomination form in this paper or simply send a letter. While more than one person can make the nomination, one is all that it takes. Please give as much information as possible relating to the nominee's qualifications. The committee is not able to do its own research.

Send your nomination to Steve Blais, Chair, 7301 Morrison Drive, Greenbelt, Md. 20770 (telephone: 474-4283).

City of Activists

Greenbelt has a special reason for having an unusually large number of civic volunteers and activists. It was planned that way. When the town was first built in 1937 by the Federal government as a model planned community, the government had long lists of applications from which to choose prospective residents. Residents were selected in part on their interest in and willingness to participate in community affairs.

And participate they did. The new residents organized co-ops to run the businesses, provide medical treatment, print a newspaper, and provide nursery school education. They formed clubs of all kinds. They organized churches. In fact, life got so hectic that one year the City Council declared a one-week moratorium on meetings so that families could spend time together.

As time went on, new residents were attracted to and got involved with community affairs. The fun of being involved in activities has caused many a newcomer to decide to stay in Greenbelt permanently. Instead

Council Goes Through Trails Plan

by Barbara Likowski

On Monday, July 25 Greenbelt City Council met with City Manager Dan Hobbs and Senior Administrative Assistant Eric Berlin in a work session on the proposed Trails Master Plan.

First proposed at council's meeting on December 14, 1992, the plan has been the subject of one other work session and a public hearing. Staff feels that the bulk of the plan is ready for council approval but recommends that the plans for Parcels 1, 2 and the former school board property be sent back to the Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) to hash out. Much concern about plans for this area was expressed by citizens at the public hearing. (See box for list of proposed capital projects on page 7.)

Part of the proposal plan calls for a central pedestrian trail from the Spellman Overpass to the end of Laurel Hill Road. This route has been approved by the Advisory Planning Board (APB) and PRAB. The existing path would be improved only minimally. It would be a dirt path three to four feet wide and might include tree blazes to help identify the route.

Pros and Cons

Council discussed the pros and cons of having a marked trail. Mayor Toni Bram feared that if the trail was more developed and marked it might become "more developed than we would want it to be." Some parts of the city need to be left alone, she added.

On the other hand, Betsy Likowski said she thought the trail was in good shape but there were some unsafe spots and some erosion. The best bridge is an old diving board, she said. She thought upkeep is needed to prevent and correct erosion. Also she recommended blazing the trail because people "can't find it easily."

While he did not agree with the idea of blazing the trail, Councilmember Tom White agreed that there are people who would use it if they could find it. He noted that there is a need to balance access and preservation.

Sheldon Goldberg asked what the city's position was on using unsafe parts of the path.

Mayor Bram said she didn't believe trails need to be formalized. Councilmember Ed Putens said "If we don't manage it ourselves, someone else will come in and do it for us."

Joe Wilkinson, a member of PRAB, asked if the city horticulturist had been asked about how to control erosion.

Mountain Bikes

Councilmember Rodney Roberts expressed concern about what he had observed in the area. Mountain bikers in increasing numbers are using that part of the city and are making new trails. He was not against the riding, just the blazing of new trails. He had heard that a nearby bicycle shop was guiding people to the area. He felt that rules should be posted at the main entrance to the trails. He suggested a city ordinance prohibiting making new paths and a fine of perhaps $50 or $100 for non-compliance. It was suggested a permit be necessary for riding there. Or a "polite" letter sent to nearby bicycle stores asking them not to direct riders there.

Because council seemed to be in favor with going ahead with

My Point of View

Greenbelt Needs a Dog Park

by Kris White

Greenbelt does not have an area where dogs are permitted off-leash. The city needs to provide a place out of the way of children and people who do not like dogs. A dog park (a fenced public park designated specifically for the use of dogs and their owners) would satisfy such a need.

There are many sound reasons for such a move.

First, Greenbelt has a sizable dog population, many of them large working dogs or hounds that need to run. They would benefit from a park where they are not restricted by leash laws, which limit them to running no faster than their owners.

A dog park also enables dogs to socialize with other dogs and with people. They are thus stabler, happier, and better behaved, less likely to bite people or to fight with other dogs. Dog trainers say lack of such socialization is a common problem.

There are benefits for dog owners as well. For many owners, interacting with their pets is their major form of exercise and recreation. A dog park would make things easier for them, especially physically challenged owners and less mobile senior citizens.

Benefit to Community

Finally, a dog park would benefit the community as a whole by encouraging more responsible dog ownership. It would provide new owners with an opportunity to learn from more experienced ones. It would also cut down on informal (and illegal) dog parks, which exist all over the metropolitan area.

And as Patricia Burnham (who described a successful dog park at work in the June 1991 issue of Dog World magazine) said, "Dog owners pay taxes just like joggers and football and soccer players." And they're more numerous.

A number of communities around the country have established dog parks, including Alexandria, Va., which has over 26 off-leash dog exercise areas.

Dog parks can be regulated just like municipal tennis and volleyball courts, with posted rules and penalties for infractions. Such rules include requiring owners to carry a leash, to keep their dogs within view, to clean up pet feces, and to leash their dogs at the first sign of

Outstanding

of moving out, they have moved to larger homes in the city—or, in many cases, just stayed put.

Since the Outstanding Citizen program didn't begin until 1973, 36 years after the first residents moved in to Greenbelt, only one of the Outstanding Citizens named so far has been an original resident. Do you know who that person is? That is one of the questions in the Outstanding Citizen Quiz that follows. For each correct answer, score two points. However, if you peek at the list of outstanding citizens published elsewhere in this paper, score only one point for each correct answer. If you peek at the answers first, you get a big, fat zero. If you score more than 15 points, put yourself in the Outstanding Citizen category.

Trivia Quiz

- 1. Which outstanding citizen was an original resident of the model community?
2. Who was the first outstanding citizen? (No points if you peek at the list.)
3. In which two activities was the first recipient particularly involved?
4. Although the award has been made 21 times, there are 22 honorees. How come and who? (No points if you peek at the list.)
5. Which recipient did not rest on his laurels, but subsequently proceeded to help organize one successful new co-op venture and is working on a second?
6. You can't be considered for selection if you hold an elective public office, but four recipients did serve on the city council at one time. Name them. (Score points for each correct answer.)
7. Have there been more male or female outstanding citizens? (No points if you peek at the list.)
8. Which recipient was famous for his annual fish fries?
9. Which recipient was recognized in part for his weekly transportation of Green Ridge House residents to the Co-op Food Store?
10. Name the two recipients who were ordained ministers. (Score points for each correct answer.)
For answers, see page 12.

Co-op Parking

The long period of disruption in the coop parking lot is finally over. The managers and staff of the Greenbelt Consumer Co-operative and the Board of Directors would like to thank everyone for their patience and understanding during the center-wide parking lot renovation.

We do hope all center patrons are now familiar with the changes in the East lot traffic patterns. These changes include: two-way traffic in the main roadway by the store, a full stop as one exits the parking area to the post office, and full stops as one leaves the parking lot on the way to the Center/Crescent exit.

Should anyone have any comments regarding traffic patterns and/or the new parking arrangement, please send them to Celia Wilson in the City Offices or the City Council.

Great Service

Lately all you hear in the media is how terrible the U.S. Postal Service is. Perhaps some people have a right to complain, but not I.

I have lived in Greenbelt since 1981 and the Greenbelt Postal service has been great. If you go to the Greenbelt Post office, those behind the counter give you courteous service and our regular Postman, John, couldn't give you any better service.

My hat's off to our Greenbelt Postal service.

Crime Prevention Funds Needed

In the July 28 News Review issue, I noted that there was one article on a rather scary daylight carjacking at Beltway Plaza plus one article and two letters on the lobbying by an active group of bicycle riders on the immediate need to spend $13,000 to $55,000 to pave the shoulders of Crescent Road for use by the few citizens that allege that a bicycle is their principal mode of transportation.

I am a frequent walker along Crescent Road. In my opinion, the current sidewalks are adequate for a careful bicyclist. The city has installed ramps almost everywhere to allow bicycle riders continuous transit. The only way for a bicycle rider and pedestrian to run into each other is for both parties to cooperate.

From previous News Review issues, I am aware that the police department has a list of unfilled needs including additional dispatchers, equipment, training, and officers.

For most citizens of Greenbelt, bicycle riding is an occasional activity. For all of Greenbelt's citizens, crime prevention is a daily necessity. I hope that our city council will take this into account and relegate the proposed Crescent Road construction to a priority that reflects the small number of citizens affected and the negligible impact on public safety. If the $13,000 to $55,000 funding is available, then I strongly recommend that the majority of these funds be allocated to the police department and to other activities for crime prevention.

Shayna (no relation to Alfred) is a Greenbelt resident of 16 years. She has worked on Roosevelt's Raider Review for the past three years. Although she has written for the paper, her contributions lie mainly in illustrations and political cartoons. Skolnik found winning the award to be "exciting" and expressed that "it was great to have all (her) hard work appreciated."

In addition to this award, Skolnik has also garnered a full academic scholarship from Towson State University, where she plans to enroll this fall. Having spent the summer thus far at a variety of part-time jobs such as Day Camp, she intends to relax the rest of the summer. Trips to the beach with friends and camping with the family in Michigan are on the horizon.

Chu, also a long-time Greenbelt resident with 12 years behind her, has made her marks through her roles as staff writer, photographer and News Editor of Roosevelt's Raider Review. Her reaction to winning the award was that she "was very happy." As far as mentors go, her mother — a freelance writer for an overseas Chinese paper — has been her greatest influence.

Carol Chu

Aside from journalism, Chu's extracurricular activities have included volunteering at the White House on weekends, being in the Thespian and Honors Society and taking part in the Freshman Chorus. This summer, besides keeping up with her hobbies of reading the classics and Agatha Christie novels, writing and playing the piano, Chu has been working at her father's office at Loral Aerospace as well as babysitting. Her plan for the future is to study civil engineering at the University of Maryland. The advice she imparts to next year's graduating seniors is, "Do all your homework."

Young Men Required To Register for Draft

The U.S. House of Representatives voted on May 23, and the Senate on July 1, to continue the requirement for all men to register with Selective Service upon reaching age 18. Since July 1980, draft registration has been an obligation of virtually all men age 18 through 25. Federal law requires that every man must register within 30 days of his 18th birthday. Each man completes a short form to provide Selective Service with his name, date of birth, address, phone number and Social Security number. Registration forms are available at any post office. Most men, however, will receive a registration reminder in the mail and they may use it to register rather than going to the post office.

Men who don't register are in violation of federal law. Non-registrants can be prosecuted, and they are ineligible for federal student financial aid, most federal jobs, and federal job training programs. The law applies to most male aliens residing in the U.S., as well as all male citizens, 18 through 25 years old.

A Greenbelt Gardener

by Rosie Rhubarb

Crepe myrtle and rose of sharon are two large shrubs which now brighten up the summer landscape with their beautiful flowers. Both are fairly tough, reliable, and are nice sized plants for small yards.

The pink blooming large shrubs planted all around the Roosevelt Center parking lot are crepe myrtles, variety "Tuscarora". Another good variety is "Natchez", which is white.

Their drawback is that they do suffer in very cold winters. Many of them around the city have dead branches on them, which can be cut out.

Rose of sharon is an old time favorite that can be seen around older neighborhoods. The cup like flower of five petals is usually white, pink, or light purple with a red center.

Seedlings spring up easily so that a clump of shrubs can seem to be one tree with different colored flowers. A nice sized clump is located near the Coop parking lot next to 7 Parkway. A good variety is the all white "Diane".

My grandmother told me that she got her clump of rose of sharon bushes when a friend sent seedlings through the mail to her without soil on their roots or any water. While I don't recommend this, it just goes to show how incredibly tough this plant is.

Rose of sharon is in the mallow family and other members of this family are also now in bloom. Hibiscus bushes have huge, plate-sized flowers. A white one is in bloom in the plantings to the far left of the entrance of "Buddy" Attick Lake Park.

Wild hibiscus are now blooming in our local wetlands. A particularly fine stand is near Greenbelt Lake in the storm water pond, near Charlestowne North. They can also be seen in the pond at Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive, and also in the wetland just north of the approach to the Cherrywood Lane bridge.

Mary Conroy Files For Re-election

Delegate Mary A. Conroy (D-23) has filed for a third term in the Maryland House of Delegates. She was first appointed in 1986 to fill an unexpired term and was elected later that year and again in 1990.

In Annapolis, Conroy has been interested in legislation benefiting the handicapped, education and combating Maryland's spiraling crime rate. Conroy's late husband, Senator Edward T. Conroy, represented the now 23rd District for 22 years, both in the Maryland House of Delegates and the Maryland Senate.

Boys & Girls Club Baseball

by Coach Jeff Keir

The Greenbelt Boys & Girls Club's 13-year old County Baseball team ended its 1994 baseball season with an impressive 2-1 victory over Hyattsville #1 on Friday, July 1, at Windsor Green field. In the two previous meetings of these two teams, in the early part of the season, Hyattsville totally outplayed the Greenbelt team. But since those early meetings, a new Greenbelt team emerged.

This is the first year in about 12 years that Greenbelt has fielded a 13-year old county baseball team. Usually, any Greenbelt 13-year old coming out of Little League had to jump directly onto a 14 & under county team playing on a 90-foot major league diamond. The county 13-year old teams play on a 75-foot diamond, playing under the same rules as the older county teams. The 13-year old county league is considered to be a "transitional" year. The players on this year's team were fortunate that enough 13 year olds decided to play county hardball. Those who played have a distinct advantage going into next year's season.

The Greenbelt 13-year old team began its season by making a lot of mental mistakes and fielding errors—the players were getting frustrated. Here was a good bunch of ball players who, just last year were the stars of Little League. They were struggling—an 0 and 2 start, and only one win in the first four games. The sole win, was not a pretty one. Then they finally realized that it was within themselves to win, to improve, to play at the level at which they should and could be playing. The main ingredient was the increased effort that each had to put out to compete competitively at this new level of play—the desire and commitment to achieve at that level, to show their talents individually and as a team. The team went on to win four in a row, which included an impressive 10-2 win over New Carrollton. The team ended the season 5-1 to achieve an overall 6-4 season record. The team Hyattsville met during the early 1-3 run was not the team they met on July 1.

The team included: Leigh Boden who played a steady leftfield and showed quick speed; Jason Brooks who played any position the coach asked him to play, always putting forth his best effort, an all-round solid player (as a pitcher was 2-0); Alex Cosgrove who may possibly be the strongest of the players on the team, solid player all around, a hurler with impressive stats (2-1 record and a 1.94 ERA; B.J. Dennis, had speed in the outfield and on the base paths; when he got on, and he usually did, look out.

Jason D'Eramo who had a solid glove, played both infield and outfield positions where the team needed him and Sam Fletcher, a surprisingly good left-side infielder with a good glove and bat (had two saves in relief). Jamel Hobson, the youngest player on the team, gained valuable experience, and will show all next year as a 13-year old. Tracy Lawrence, another good left-side infielder should also continue to develop into a good pitcher. Tim Mason, who had some key moments during the season that helped the team achieve, got on base when we needed a base-runner, improving skills and good speed.

Also, Jacob Novick exhibited good basic baseball skills playing first base, and other positions, and was invaluable as the "bullpen" catcher. Matt Pelfrey sprang out of the pack of catchers to be "the catcher" for the team, good solid skills rolled in with a lot of hustle and a strong arm that threw out many opposing base-runners. Jaime Pereira, joined the team late and suffered an early off-field injury, but came through to help the team to achieve with solid baseball skills and a desire to do well. We cannot wait to see him at full speed next year. Mike Pierce was another player who improved his baseball skills over the season, developing confidence and good skills. Robbie Strauss, an all-round ballplayer, good, solid in all aspects of the game, was a valuable asset to the team. Billy Wilson, a solid first baseman with good, solid baseball skills kept after the coach to use him as a pitcher, and when finally placed in to pitch, showed he had the stuff.

The team acknowledges the tremendous support of the parents, families and fans who kept with them throughout it all.

Swim Team Wins Divisionals

by Christine Maher

This time Amanda has left me. She's off on a family vacation in Europe. I'm sad and all alone. But, I do have some very good news to report. The Greenbelt Swim Team ended the season on a high note by winning the Division "A" Divisionals Meet.

The final scores were: Lancaster Swim Team - 143 pts., Takoma Park DC - 180 pts., Strathmore Bel Pre - 183 pts., Belair Bath and Tennis - 184.5 pts., Belair Swim and Raquet - 200 pts., and the Greenbelt Swim Team 209.5 pts. All of Greenbelt's swimmers swam very fast and above their expectations to score in this very important meet. By winning this weekend, the Greenbelt Swim Team is now placed third in Division "A" and in the entire Prince-Mont Swim League.

High point winners in this meet who helped contribute to our success were: Amanda Baldauf - 10 pts., Fernando Freire daSilva - 11 pts., Ben Kepler - 12 pts., Kate Hilton - 12.5 pts., Aruna Inversin - 13 pts., Katrina Schwartz - 15 pts., and Casey Connor and Ryan Hardy with 17 pts.

Many team and pool records were broken this weekend. Ben Kepler broke the boys 10 and under fly team record, Kate Hilton broke the 11-12 girls free team record, and Alexander Freire daSilva broke the 13-14 boys backstroke team record. Katrina Schwartz broke the 8 and under girls breaststroke record, and Aruna Inversin broke the 15-18 boys individual medley record. Last weekend, Katrina Schwartz also broke the 8 and under freestyle record. Pool and team records were set by Aruna Inversin in 15-18 boys breaststroke and the 8 and under mixed relay of Katrina Schwartz, Holly Hilton, Ryan Hardy and William Kim. The Boys Graduated Relay of Ben Kepler, David Hardy, Brendan Gardes, and Aruna Inversin also set a team record.

Many swimmers qualified to swim in the Prince-Mont Swim League All Star meet on Saturday, August 6, at Cheverly Swim and Racquet Club. This is where the top 16 swimmers in each event in the whole league compete against each other. Those who qualified were: Johanna Baker, Amanda Baldauf, Casey Connor, Fernando and Alexander Freire daSilva, Brendan Gardes, David and Ryan Hardy, Kate and Holly Hilton, Lynn Hull, Aruna Inversin, William Kim, Ben and Jeanne Kepler, Christine Maher, Jesse O'Reilly, Joe Pugliese, and Michelle Stickle. Good luck to all these swimmers!

The Greenbelt Swim Team is sending one of the largest numbers of swimmers from one team in the Prince-Mont Swim League to All-Stars. The Greenbelt Swim

Boating Safety

People should make the Seal of Safety a part of their boat by getting a Coast Guard Auxiliary Courtesy Marine Examination (CME). It is a free check of the boat's equipment, covering federal and state safety related requirements plus additional standards recommended by the Auxiliary.

The examination is conducted only with the owner's consent.

The examiners performing this service are all members of the Coast Guard Auxiliary who have been carefully trained to look for some of the more common problems which might occur in a boat or its associated safety related equipment.

If the boat meets the CME requirements the award of the decal is the owner's assurance that the boat is properly equipped for fun and safety on the water. At the conclusion of the examination a copy of the CME checklist is given to the owner.

A CME is not a law enforcement activity.

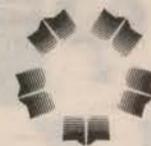

For additional information or an At-Home exam in the Beltsville, Glenn Dale, or Greenbelt areas contact Steve Klein at 301-572-5565.

Trails

the Trails Plan and sending so much back to PRAB would take time, Councilmember Judith Davis suggested that perhaps it would be possible to go ahead with the plan and deal later with Parcels 1 and 2. Bram suggested that they ask PRAB to fast track. Wilkinson volunteered to work on getting this done.

Putens suggested that council take a walk through Parcels 1 and 2 so they could see for themselves what condition it was in. Bram asked that they wait 'til after the first frost when ticks should be less prevalent.

Continuous Bike Route

Council discussed a letter from Bill Clarke on behalf of the Greenbelt Bicycle Coalition approving the trails plan with two additions: 1) the city should designate a continuous bike route across Greenbelt, (their preferred route follows Hanover Parkway from Goodluck Road, crosses Spellman overpass, follows Crescent Road across MD 201 and continues on Ivy and Cherrywood Lanes to Greenbelt Road); 2) the Trails Plan should provide for marking the shoulders of Hanover Parkway near Schrom Hills Park for bicycle traffic - city policy should be that any future reconstruction of Hanover Parkway or any other high volume street must provide for bicycle traffic.

Mayor Bram stated that she had not heard from the State Highway Department (SHA) about a safe place to cross Kenilworth Avenue. Berlin felt the only safe intersection is a signalized intersection such as at Crescent and Kenilworth.

Wilkinson wondered how pedestrians were going to get across Kenilworth Avenue. He wondered if it was possible to get the SHA to put red lights on all four sides of the intersection so pedestrians and bicyclists could get across in 30 seconds. Council asked staff to check into this.

Berlin suggested that council remand the bicycle trail plan to the Bicycle Task Force to take up item by item.

The request made by the Bicycle Coalition that paving the shoulders on Crescent Road from Northway to Lastner Lane brought up a few questions and disagreements.

Roberts said bike lanes needed markings so cars would know where they are. Hobbs said Director of Public Works Carl Hirsch was planning on using colored asphalt if he did bike lanes.

White thought that bike lanes should be considered one at a time for there might be engineering reasons why some places can't be made into bike lanes. However, a plan for bikes would still be needed he added. Bram agreed that a plan should be developed gradually.

Crescent Road Bike Lanes

Wilkinson wanted to know where the bikes would go after the proposed bike trail stops at Northway? Would parking be prohibited near the lake park? Except for special days like July 4, parking would be prohibited Bram said.

The width of the bike lane was also a bone of contention. Some worried that from sidewalk to road would be one slab of asphalt. Wilkinson thought two feet, as used at Michigan State University was wide enough. Putens thought a minimum of four feet was necessary. Wilkinson said bicyclists did not have the right to take over the road. Davis reminded him that they also have a right to the road. A public hearing will be held on this subject on August 8.

Trails Map

Staff recommends that council approve a bicycle/pedestrian trails map. Staff would then work on a map for the public. Staff sees this as a flexible ongoing map like the plan itself. Changes would need to be made from time to time.

Greenbelt Receives Recycling Awards

by Tracy Vincent

Glass is made from sand, limestone, and sodium carbonate; These are melted together in a furnace to form the glass which is then molded into various shapes. Glass bottles and jars have been recycled for years through bottle deposits, drop-offs and curbside collection program.

Once glass bottles and jars are collected for recycling, they are taken to the County Materials Recovery Facility (pronounced "murf"). Because of its weight, glass falls through a chain curtain and is color sorted by hand. Clear glass is the most desirable since it contains no color. Unrinsed containers are rejected and landfilled. Once the glass is separated, it's crushed into cullet, small fragments of glass. The cullet is then shipped to a glass manufacturing plant. Most old glass is used in producing new bottles and jars with a recycled content of 24%. Did you know that post-consumer glass material is also being used in glassphalt, fiberglass insulation, sand blasting material, reflective materials and those small glass marbles?

Using post-consumer cullet requires less energy since it melts at a lower temperature and saves natural resources. There is a limit to the number of times cullet can be re-used. Approximately 35% of glass bottles and jars are being recycled. Every time Greenbelters recycle glass they are recycling for the future!

Substation

better quality shoppers."

Bicycle Patrol

The officer assigned to the plaza will be equipped with both a car and a bicycle, and will receive additional training in bicycle policing, a fact which generated some discussion.

Councilmember Edward Putens asked Hobbs for specifics on how and where a bicycle would be used. Hobbs said he thought it best to preserve flexibility and leave such matters up to the officer assigned to the substation. "The bicycle is a tool," said Hobbs. "We need to start this program and see what works."

Councilmember Rodney Roberts pressed Hobbs further on this point, saying he thought it unlikely that an officer previously accustomed to the use of a patrol car would give it up easily, particularly if he or she was not physically conditioned to bicycling. Both Hobbs and Craze gave assurances that the officer would be fully trained for this task.

Mayor Antoinette Bram emphasized that the substation officer is not to be pulled out routinely for duty elsewhere in the city, a fact that will make it possible to give bicycle patrolling a good test. Councilmember Judith "J" Davis expressed the hope that the officer would patrol on foot as well.

Wine said that there would be close coordination between plaza security and police. He said that the officer will be trained in community relations and will be expected to know the plaza and its tenants intimately. "At 11 p.m. when the theaters unload, he won't be out on a coffee break," he said.

Implementation and Funding

Hobbs said that time required to renovate the space to be used likely will delay the start of the project until October 1 of this year. The delay eased startup financing difficulties, since the first-year costs (estimated at about $50,000 for the city) will be prorated.

This was not unwelcome news for councilmembers, who struggled with a number of unpalatable cost-shifting options presented by Hobbs, including a proposal to delay the beginning of the Crisis Intervention Program by Greenbelt CARES, the city's social service agency, until January 1, 1995.

In addition to $20,000 which Hobbs said will be available because preliminary audit figures indicate revenues have somewhat exceeded expenses, he executed a financial hat trick: three days before the meeting, he learned that the city will be receiving about $23,000 in state funds as reimbursement for last winter's snow emergency.

At one point, Bram asked why Hobbs had agreed to a provision specifying that Beltway Plaza's expenses were not to exceed $50,000 in any 12-month period. "They caught me in a weak moment," he said, smiling. Wine explained, "Our goal was to have a fixed amount." He said that it shouldn't matter the first year because they weren't anticipating the city's share to exceed this amount either.

Said Hobbs later, "The city is committed to having a successful Beltway Plaza period." Alluding to the possibility of collaboration on other issues, he said, "Good relations mean we

Baby Dies After Tragic Accident

by James Giese

April, 1944—Fourteen-month-old Dennis Halloran died after being accidentally scalded during his bath at his home at 55-G Ridge Road. The baby's mother, Mrs. Walter Halloran, was bathing Dennis in the kitchen sink when the child accidentally turned on the hot water faucet and was badly scalded. The baby was first taken to the Medical Center for treatment by Dr. Eisner and then rushed to Leland Memorial Hospital where he died. The distraught mother had felt that the sink with shallow water in it was a safer place to bathe the baby than the bathtub. The county medical examiner was investigating the accident.

Historic District Committee Set Up by Greenbelt Homes

by Mary Lou Williamson

A keenly interested but still questioning Greenbelt Homes Inc. (GHI) Board of Directors voted at its July 21 meeting to establish an Ad Hoc Committee to investigate whether the original portion of Greenbelt should be designated an Historic District of Prince Georges County. The District would cover all of the original part of Greenbelt — the buildings, streets and associated open spaces planned and constructed by the federal government from 1935 to 1941. Much of that area is the cooperative housing that is Greenbelt Homes.

Jim Maher, a GHI member who has participated in the effort thus far to look into the Historic District designation, will chair the committee. A retired architect, Maher has served as commissioner of the Prince Georges Historic Preservation Commission and is the chairman of GHI's Architecture and Environment Committee (A.P.E.).

The board is eager to involve members in the process of determining how such a designation might affect members and the cooperative and, then, whether to go ahead and seek the designation.

There will be advantages and disadvantages, warned Board Member Wayne Williams. The crux of the potential opposition, said Board Member Bill Phelan, is the limitation on additions. He suggested that the A&E committee review how GHI's requirements for additions, as written in its Green Book, might have to be changed. Audit Committee Chair Ray Stevens, who also serves as Woodlands Committee chair, thought the Woodlands Committee should be included along with the A&E Committee. He and others view the Historic District designation as a potential means of protecting GHI's woodlands.

Tax Advantages

Audit Committee member Bob Buzzanco asked whether Historic District designation would make GHI eligible for federal monies or grants. Would this offer "new avenues" of help? Board Member Alan Turnbull asked whether the designation could bring tax benefits to GHI as a corporation helping to defray the cost of renovating common areas in an historically appropriate way. Others thought the tax advantages were designed for private individuals, not corporations. General Manager Gretchen Overdurf said she would look into possible tax benefits to GHI. Board President Alan Freas reminded the group they had learned at the Historic District work session with the city council that the original portion of Greenbelt is already on the National Register of Historic Places and therefore members can get income tax write-offs for historic renovation.

Williams offered a motion to have the A&E Committee and the Woodlands Committee meet together to make recommendations to the board. The motion failed when Freas broke the 3-to-3 tie by voting no. Board Member Kathy Weber then moved for an Ad Hoc Committee. The board unanimously approved that approach. Board Member Carole Levin and others thought the committee should be composed of people particularly interested in the issue rather than standing committees whose members may have other interests.

All board members expressed concern that there is much to be learned about the program and whether it would be a benefit to GHI. "It'll take quite a selling job!" Stevens summed up.

Hyattsville Man Killed Here, Brawl at Martins Crosswinds

Chief of Police James D. Craze shared details of two recent incidents with the City Council at the council's work session on Monday night, August 1. The first was a homicide in Greenbelt East on Friday, July 29. The second was a brawl at a dance held at Martin's Crosswinds in the wee hours of Saturday, July 30.

Homicide on Morrison Drive

In the first incident, police responding to the report of a shooting found a man lying in the parking lot of a condominium development in the 7300 block of Morrison Dr. in Greenbelt East, suffering from an apparent gunshot wound. The victim, Hakim Aziz Drake, 25, of Hyattsville, was pronounced dead at Prince Georges County Hospital.

The suspect in the shooting, a 25-year-old Upper Marlboro man has fled the area, reportedly to North Carolina, Craze said. Police are not releasing his name at this time.

A third person, a 14-year-old nonresident boy who was with the two at the time of the shooting, is the principal witness in the case. He was not charged.

The three had been in the D.C. area for several days prior to the shooting, said Craze, using a car they had stolen from a rental company. The two men had known each other for some time, having attended Bowie State together.

The suspect suggested that the three visit a "cousin" who, he claimed, lived at the Morrison Dr. address. (Craze said that the resident is unrelated, although apparently acquainted with the suspect.)

The three found no one home there. The suspect then went to the back and gained entry through a sliding glass door. He retrieved a gun from inside the house, whose whereabouts he apparently knew beforehand. He then returned to the front where the other two were waiting.

An argument ensued. Before Drake was shot, said Craze, the suspect said to him, "So you think I'm a punk?"

Craze said Drake, who had been arrested before for possession of narcotics, apparently owed money to the suspect for drugs. It is unknown whether this played any role in the shooting.

The suspect is considered a fugitive, said Craze, and could be prosecuted for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, a federal offense. He expects the FBI will probably become involved in the case.

Brawl at Martin's

Craze said a brawl involving up to 150 revelers took place at a heavily attended live "go-go" concert dance held at Martin's Crosswinds, a catering establishment in Greenway Center.

In response to a question from Mayor Antoinette Bram, Craze said police were vastly outnumbered and "not in control" of the situation.

(He said later in a phone interview that the eight Greenbelt police officers present called for outside assistance, and were reinforced by about a dozen officers from county police, U.S. Park Police, and Berwyn Heights police.)

A Greenbelt officer was assaulted in the operation and received minor injuries. A 23-year-old nonresident man was arrested for resisting arrest, battery, and disturbing the peace, said Craze and held on $5,000 bond.

Craze said police came to Martin's in response to a report of a shooting. They were greeted by a chaotic scene. "There were fights everywhere," said Craze later. He added that police could have made many arrests if they had had the resources. He said that in such a situation, police focus on restoring order by separating the fighting parties and clearing the area.

Craze said there were two groups of private security personnel at the dance. Police received no help from them, he said.

No shooting victim was found, but a man who had been knocked unconscious received medical treatment at the scene. Police believe the initial report was mistaken, said Craze. It was unclear what started the disturbance, which began about 2 a.m., shortly after the establishment stopped serving alcoholic beverages.

In addition to a live band, said Craze, the entertainment was provided by lingerie-clad female models.

Craze said that the band, a D.C. go-go group known as the Northeast Groovers, was associated with a previous incident at a dance held several weeks ago at Fairlands, a county pool in the Laurel area. That event gained notoriety because uniformed Park Police officers hired as private security guards stood by impassively when numerous dancers shed their clothing and jumped into the water. A video of the scene was later shared with a local television station.

Police had no advance notice of the event, Craze said, and were taking steps to ensure such notice in the future. He said that Martin's Crosswinds had agreed to provide them with a monthly list of upcoming events.

Craze said later he was unsure as yet what specific actions police might take although he noted that police have input in proceedings for renewal of liquor licenses.
