The Sound Scene

FESTIVAL — a Noun

by Nick Mydra

Festival — a noun (from 1589), a time of celebration marked by special observances, could be a feast. Maybe a periodic season or program of cultural events or entertainment. Even still, gaiety, conviviality, or so says Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary: Sounds like the Labor Day Festival to me. Four days of things to do, people to see, and lots to eat. August 30 - September 2. Been there, done that! Now for some observations.

First, what makes me qualified to report about there and that and the Sound Scene? Been there, done that. Example: U. of Minn. Football marching band, 1962. Rated number one in nation by sports media covering football games. 1980's — Greenbelt Arts Center's (GAC) Labor Day Festival booth. (Want your BBQ with or without cole slaw?) Enough about ancient history!?

This year's festival included the new Community Center. It became the new home for the photo contest and the art exhibit. From rec. room to school room. A welcome change of venue. Photos and art work in their own rooms. Both had great turnouts. Lots of good entries.

Speaking of Community Center, the New Deal Cafe opened all three nights for those who were tired of the crowds or just wanted a little conversation and music. I didn't think it would fly, but from what I heard it was a success. Maybe some more coffee drinkers discovered a new place to hang out.

Speaking of crowds and people, I don't know how many times I heard someone say they didn't go to the festival because it was too crowded, too many people. That's the point! Rub elbows with your friends and neighbors; maybe shake hands with a member of the City Council. Say hi to someone like, say, former Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, or listen to Doug Love describe his entry in Monday's parade. Community For. By. Benefit.

To all the food booths, from hot dogs and lemonade to fried rice and funnel cakes, I am many dollars poorer and many pounds heavier. Good eats for a good cause — fund raising.

The more variety the better. Bingo! Books, books, and more books — need a door stop?

The midway was short a couple of rides due to bad weather in Pennsylvania. Didn't have time to overhaul them to make them safe to use. Rosedale Amusements? That's because they are from Rosedale, Md, outside of Baltimore. Just a little piece of trivia.

If I could just win that %*#@! bike next year!

Now to the music. I tried to get to as many of the acts as possible. Because of my work schedule, I wasn't able to see them all. For some I was only able to hear part of their performance. Friday night led off with the Greenbelt Concert Band. I heard them play a march and part of a show tune. They were to be part of my battle of the bands. Greenbelt vs. College Park. But I was not able to review them both on successive weeks. After hearing C.P. Community Band, I thought it would be no contest if Greenbelt sounded like it had in the past. Wrong! What a surprise. Crisp and bright on the march, lyrical, not halting and muddy on the show tune. Amazing what a little practicing can do. Really, what separates the professionals from the amateurs besides money is amount of time spent on their craft. Practicing to become good and then doing it together to remove the rough edges and make it second nature. It's no big secret — "How do you get to Carnegie Hall? Practice, practice, practice." A nice crowd was on hand in Roosevelt Center to hear them. Nothing worse than the performers outnumbering the audience. And you can't beat the price — Free! Give them a look-see next time they have a performance.

Center Stage

On Center Stage Friday night was Pauline & the Boys. But first congrats to Paul Rall as outstanding citizen of the year. Now back to Pauline et al. A good band to dance to. Bill Barber, one of many who helped to bring the entertainment to Center Stage, had a small dance floor made out of wood, located down front. He hopes to have a jitterbug contest within the next couple of years. Do we have any contestants out there?

Saturday had Distant Rumble in the late afternoon. I was only able to stay for their sound check before I had to go back to work. Distant Rumble is an expanded version of Fractal Terradactyl. Lots of energy and pulsating rhythms — cutting edge material. I assume they were as good only with more. Evening on Center Stage had Random Access. Blues band flavored with rock. Polished group playing the classic

Metro's Green Line Adds More Cars

Train length on Metro's Green Line between Greenbelt and Fort Totten has reverted back to four cars during peak hours, Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority General Manager Dick White announced at a press conference on September 5. The change began the next day. Metro had cut the number of cars from four to two on July 1 in order to save $1 million in a very tight budget year. Following that cut, riders had complained of crowded trains and platforms. Savings in Metro's energy budget will be used to pay the $275,000 cost to run the longer trains, according to White.

Trains will now run every six minutes from 7:21 to 8:21 a.m. from Greenbelt to Fort Totten and from 5:17 to 6:17 p.m. on the return trip. Trains will run every 12 minutes otherwise.

Hoyer

"I am pleased that Metro has decided to reverse its earlier decision to cut service on the Green Line," said Congressman Steny Hoyer, who was also at the press conference. Hoyer had written to White last month requesting such a move. "The Green Line is the newest line in the Metrorail system and we should encourage these new riders with adequate service whenever possible," Hoyer said. "I believe the long-term success of the Green Line, See METRO page 13

Letters to the Editor

No English Ivy!

I enjoy Rosie Rhubarb's column very much, but I am afraid that I shuddered at her advice on what to plant for shady areas in the August 29 issue.

Greenbelters, please do not plant English ivy. Our woods and common areas are overrun with English ivy that has "gotten away" from people's yards. Even if you take care to prune and pull English ivy or other infestations, if or when you sell your home, the new owners may not be so careful.

Greenbelters can find some native plants that do well in shade. Try ferns such as the ostrich fern, which will, in fact, spread quickly. For flowers, try a lovely, little-known native called the Foam Flower, which blooms profusely in spring and provides over-winter color. The Foam Flower even spreads — though not wildly.

A good nursery, such as Behnke's in Beltsville, can give you other ideas and will recommend native plants if you wish to avoid invasive species such as English ivy. As an added bonus, native plants tend to be easier to cultivate because they are already accustomed to the vagaries of our climate, rainfall and soil conditions. They require less care but rarely become as invasive as other imported species. Native plants will attract birds and butterflies to your yard and so help to preserve our native wildlife as well.

It Takes a Co-op To Build a Float

Needless to say, as designer of the GHI Labor Day float, I am very proud that it won first prize and that I was acknowledged in a subsequent article in the News Review. However, the design was just one facet of the project.

A good deal of the credit must be given to the men who volunteered and gave many hours of their time and hard work in the construction of the replica of a GHI home; namely, Ray Stevens, John Taylor, Charlie Wells, and Bryan Crick and his staff, for their talent with hammer, nails, screwdrivers, screws and saw, as well as Isaac Robinson, with his paint pots and brushes, that transformed the metal and plywood into a thing of beauty.

Thanks must also be given to the Greenbelt Garden Club for the flora decorations and to GHI staff and management for their help.

Last, but not least, a big thanks to Nat Shinderman. It was he who came up with the original idea for a float, who approached the Board of Directors for their approval, and he who nurtured it from start to finish.

Terri Hruby Named New City Planner

by Kerana Todorov

"I like to get out and get my hands dirty," says Terri Hruby, Greenbelt's new community planner.

Planning is an adventure, Hruby says. Every day carries a new agenda. "You never get bored and I get bored easily." Hruby will help Celia Wilson, Department of Planning and Community Development director, on a variety of projects.

According to Hruby, she will do a little of everything. Among future duties are phase III of the renovation of the city Youth Center and the finalization of the City of Greenbelt's trails map. Phase III entails the renovation of the basement of the center. Hruby, who did her undergraduate work at the University of Maryland, where she played lacrosse for a while, is no stranger to Greenbelt.

Indeed, Hruby worked for two years as aquatic coordinator for Greenbelt's Department of Recreation. That job, Hruby says, was her first real job.

Then Hruby went to the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where she earned a master's degree in regional planning. Hruby explains that working in planning allows her to work with social issues as well as infrastructural issues.

A New Jersey native, she says she loved Amherst. Still, after graduation she and her husband, who is from Annapolis, chose to come back to Maryland. When she first saw Greenbelt again, Hruby says she thought that Greenbelt's landscaping had tremendously improved.

Hruby, a self-described people person, will also assist with community complaints and meet with ad hoc committees. Such variety is great, she says.

New Trails Opened

Fun at International Folk Dancing Class

by Bob Holloway

It's 8 p.m. Friday evening as we enter the Youth Center and a few dancers are warming up on a simple dance before the class begins. Soon our teacher, Roland Forbes, greets the assembled group and begins to teach the first dance. It might be a simple line dance from Serbia or Macedonia. Everyone joins hands and quickly falls into step as Roland shows the dance and has us practice it a few times. Then the music starts (it's on audio tape) and in a few minutes everyone is relaxing as the dance steps follow the music. There is a nice feeling of satisfaction when the dance ends and we realize that we can do this dance and, in fact, that it was fun!

As the evening progresses we learn dances from many countries. A French couple dance might follow a line dance from Israel or a contra from New England. Or a couple dance from Poland, with wonderful music, might be followed by an American novelty dance for groups of three people.

After a brief intermission around 9 o'clock dancers may request dances which Roland will quickly review so that everyone can join in. Before we know it,

Organ Study Offered Free to Pianists

The Potomac Organ Institute announces its annual scholarship auditions, to be held Saturday, September 21. Both young and adult pianists are invited to audition. No prior experience of the pipe organ is required. Finalists will receive an entire year of free organ lessons with one of the Washington area's leading teachers.

For an application and information, contact: Dr. Elisabeth de Ayala at 301-977-5424.

it's 10 o'clock and time to finish. As we leave the dance there is a real sense of achievement and pleasure, partly because of the fun of dancing with other friendly people and also as a result of the two hours of relaxed exercise.

Our group is sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Dept. The next session of classes starts Sept. 20, with a free open house session.

This is a good opportunity to try out the class with no strings attached; so wear comfortable, low-heeled shoes and come as a single or a couple to this first session at 7:30 p.m. at the Youth Center. For information Call the Rec. Dept., 397-2200 or Roland Forbes, 572-4215.

Join us - it's rewarding and fun.

"WICS" Seeking Volunteer Mentors

Women In Community Service, Inc. (WICS) is seeking volunteers for "A Partnership for Success" Mentoring Program for young women enrolled in the non-residential program at the Potomac Job Corps Center in Washington, D.C.

The goal of this program is to partner at-risk young women, ages 16 to 25, with caring adult volunteers who will serve as positive role models, advisor and advocates as they strive to complete their training, prepare to enter the job market, and achieve economic independence.

Volunteers are asked to commit a minimum of two hours per week for six months to one year. Screening and training, provided by WICS, are pre-requisites for participating in the Mentoring Program.

To volunteer for this program or for additional information call (202) 393-1188.

Early Head Start Grant Given to UMCP

Congressman Steny Hoyer recently announced that the Head Start Resource Center at the University of Maryland at College Park has been awarded a $607,500 grant to initiate an Early Head Start program. Early Head Start provides educational, nutritional, health and social services to disadvantaged children under three years old.

"We know that the earlier we can support at-risk children and their parents, the more likely families are to stay together and to become self-sufficient," Hoyer said. "This Early Head Start grant will make it possible for families in Prince George's County to get the help they need when they need it — when families are very young and very vulnerable."

Hoyer, a member of the Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations Subcommittee, was a key supporter of the Early Head Start program. The program was created in the 1994 Head Start reauthorization bill to extend Head Start-type services to families with children under three years of age.

Studies conducted over the 30-year history of the Head Start program show that disadvantaged children who receive this type of preschool experience do better academically, are more likely to graduate from high school, find and keep jobs, and are less likely to be teenage parents or to become involved in the juvenile justice system. Early Head Start is an effort to catch children and families at an even younger stage.

In 1996, the Head Start program served approximately 760,000 children across the country, or 40% of those eligible for Head Start, with a budget of $3.569 billion. The House Republican appropriation for 1997 provided funding for 745,000 children, 15,000 fewer than were served in 1996. Hoyer sponsored subcommittee and floor amendments to add funds to increase Head Start enrollment. These amendments were defeated on party-line votes.

"The Beggars Opera" Comes to Greenbelt

That's right! "The Beggar's Opera," the first opera performed in the United States more than 300 years ago in Upper Marlboro, will be presented in a special adaptation at the Greenbelt Marriott Hotel on Friday, September 27, beginning at 6:30 p.m. This special performance is being sponsored by The Maryland Opera Society as the highlight of its Annual Fall Dinner Gala.

Selected to commemorate Prince George's County's Tricentennial Celebration and highlight the County's operatic history, this version of "The Beggar's Opera" has been adapted for audiences by Michael Begley. A beautifully orchestrated, light-hearted satirical comedy, the opera tells the story of Polly Peachum, who, against her parents' wishes, marries the Highwayman and famous rogue, MacHeath. Later MacHeath is found cavorting in a tavern where he is arrested and taken away, in the meantime having met and promised to marry another woman, Lucy Lockit, the prison warden's daughter. A lively argument between Polly and Lucy over MacHeath sets the stage for the final act.

The musical roles feature soloists Jody Rapport, playing Lucy Lockit; Mary Gresock, portraying Polly Peachum; Patrick Toomey, as MacHeath; and Michael Begley, as the Beggar, who weaves the tale as narrator and conductor. The soloists will be accompanied by pianist, Adam Mahonske, who has performed at the Kennedy Center and is a faculty member at the Baltimore School for the Arts.

To reserve tickets or to obtain further information about this tricentennial presentation of "The Beggar's Opera" at the September 27 Fall Dinner Gala, call 301-262-1255. The program is sponsored by The Maryland Opera Society, in conjunction with the Prince George's Historical Society.

Health Fair Saturday At Beltway Plaza

Everyone hates to go to the doctor, and with the rising cost of health care, it's easy to put off those annual check-ups. In an effort to help people get the health care they need, Doctors Community Hospital (DCH), Beltway Plaza Mall and the Greenbelt Lions Club are sponsoring a Community Health Fair on Saturday, September 14 from noon to 4 p.m. at Beltway Plaza Mall.

Community members can receive a variety of free screening tests, to include blood pressure, hearing, vision, glaucoma, blood glucose, colorectal cancer, height and weight, and information on much more. Additional optional lab tests are available from Medfast Health Clinic in the mall for a small fee ranging from $5 to $15. These include a blood test covering 23 separate body functions, a complete cholesterol blood test, an anemia test (CBC), and blood typing. HIV tests will also be available for a fee. Local organizations will have display booths on a variety of health related topics as well. Photo IDs will be available for children courtesy of Jeepers.

According to Nancy Miller, assistant director of community relations at DCH, "We co-sponsor area health fairs as a service to the community because so many of our population do not have health coverage, and screenings are an early warning system for people who may be ill."

Appointments are not necessary. Just stop by Beltway Plaza Mall Center Court to register anytime between noon and 3 p.m. on September 14. For more information about the Health Fair, please call Doctors Community Hospital's Health Connection at 301-552-0044.

Jeepers! preview party brought area community groups together for a night of fun and fundraising. Pictured above are representatives from local groups that were the recipients of a $2,000 donation. GREENBELT.COM Internet Classes

by Doug Love

GREENBELT.COM, the Internet Access Cooperative, started just this summer, will start offering free monthly classes in cooperation with the Greenbelt Library on Tuesday, Sept. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. At least one computer will be attached to the Internet, and the various parts of the computer and Internet will be explained so that anyone can use them. Later, easy questions will be answered by the GREENBELT.COM board members. This class is co-sponsored by the Greenbelt Library, which will be given a free, unlimited-use internet access account.

No registration is required, and repeat attendance is permitted. When we know what questions will be asked every time, we will prepare a Frequently Asked Questions handout. This handout will also be posted on the GREENBELT.COM Home Page.

GREENBELT.COM is a community-based cooperative, and is growing rapidly, due to the low cost of membership. By sharing a block of 10 Megabytes of webspace, the cost of an Internet account can be lowered significantly.

After three months of operation, a membership meeting was called just after Labor Day, and new officers were elected: President Dan Macy, an attorney practicing in Virginia, is good at holding short and quiet meetings. Matt Elliott, a computer scientist working for a U.S. government agency, agreed to be Vice President, and is specializing in distributing advertising flyers. Neil McCloud has taken over the duties of Treasurer, Laila Zaghaf remains as Secretary. University of Maryland Computer Scientist Ed James will soon take over the Webmaster responsibilities, assisted by Doug Love.

Other Board members include Mrs. Ann Anderson of the Prince

George's County Genealogy Society, and Clement Lau of the Greenbelt Advisory Committee on Education. Without an elected position, Doug Love has appointed himself as GREENBELT.COM's emissary-at-large, setting up encounter situations such as the computer at the information booth at the Labor Day Festival, and Cyber Cafe nights at Joe's Deli and The New Deal Cafe. Greenbelt is getting on the World Wide Web, and it is largely through GREENBELT.COM, the planned virtual community.

by Anne Zevallos

For a second year my husband, Prospero Zevallos, and I were the organizers of the Greenbelt Photo Show. We were overwhelmed by the positive response. There was a 100% increase in participation, and a 200% increase in the number of visitors; a total of 867 were counted. There was always "heavy traffic" at both the photo show and the art show. Barry Moien, from Custom Touch Labs, FUJI and Eastern Camera were the sponsors.

Some first time entrants discovered, to their own surprise, that they have a "good eye" for photography, including Pastor Sam Martz of New Carrollton, who won first prize in the "wildlife" category. Mary Moien, first-time entrant, won 4th prize in the difficult category "Portrait."

The three judges were: Gary Lloyd, past president of the Maryland Professional Photographers Association; John Bunns, treasurer of the same organization; and myself, Anne Zevallos.

There were 152 photographs from the Greenbelt Community, 22 images from the Maryland Professional Photographers Association and 22 from Prospero Zevallos' infrared exhibit.

We decided to give a certificate of participation to everyone who entered prints, because we want to encourage the artistic endeavors of all entrants. Ribbons were given to the following winners.

Landscapes: 1st, Timothy Edberg; 2nd, Patti Dedovitch and Mike Reinsel; 3rd, Joan Dunham and Joe Fulton; and 4th, Sandra Lange.

Flowers and Gardens: 1st, Matt Orty; 2nd, Lonnie Smith; 3rd, Barbara Wissert; and 4th, Marie Ammerman.

Wildlife and Pets: 1st, L.S. Martz; 2nd, Betty Cookson; 3rd, Keith O. Gary; and 4th, Judy Goldberg.

Architecture: 1st, Leslie MacFarlane; 2nd, Steve von Briesen and Joseph Lomat; 3rd, Ralph Dines; 4th, Lisa Dupree and Cindy Donn.

Portraits: Adults and Children, 4 years old and up: 1st, Lisa Goldman; 2nd, Kate Strattan; 3rd, Lisa Dupree, Bruce Mangum and Abby Crowley; 4th, Mary Moien, Mike Byrams and Keith Zevallos.

Young Photographer, 16 years old and under: 1st, Justin Steele (age 10); 2nd, David Gibson (age 3), Katie Zevallos (age 6), Madga Pasztaleniec (age 15) and Ari Goldberg (age 10); 3rd, Andy Bronstein (age 10); 4th, Michael Bond (age 13) and Christopher Bond (age 12).

Finally, The Green Award was given to Maureen Zurla (age 11). The Cipriano Award went to Lisa J. Dupree.

So strike up the band, bring on the floats, let the parade begin. This year's parade was over two hours long, or short, depending on your point of view. I asked people who watched the parade what they thought of it. Did they like it? I got a variety of answers. Yes, no, no big deal, and one said, "It's not for me, but my little one liked it." The Greenbelt American Legion Color Guard led the parade followed by the Greenbelt Police Color Guard. Then politicians and more politicians. From Congressman Hoyer and Governor Glendening to the members of the City Council. There was even a Republican in there. The musical units consisted of the county police pipe band and the fire fighters pipe band. Also playing music was a Bavarian band with dancers. Floats were few and far between. The GHI float was memorable. A good job. Area police in cars and on bikes. Cloggers from southwest Virginia clogged to rock 'n' roll music. Greenbelt Dog Club had their canine pals strut their stuff. Eleanor Roosevelt Drill Team marched smartly by. "Explosion," a baton-twirling marching unit, performed with five divisions. Former and current Miss Greenbelts, along with the other contestants, rode in the parade. Local clergy had "Pastor Dan" clowning around. Swim team, Little League — all the kid organizations had representation, even the Golden Agers.

My hats off to everyone who made this a great Labor Day Festival.

Next time: The Problem and How to Solve It.

FESTIVAL

songs. Large audience; good performance.

Sunday night was the finals of the Miss Greenbelt Pageant. Good show all. Nice try to those who didn't win, and congrats to those who did. Someone thought it was funny when Junior Miss Greenbelt, Shabnam Mazhari, started to cry during her farewell speech. Someone said she was making a big deal out of some silly pageant. It may have seemed silly or not important to you, but to Shabnam Mazhari it is a big deal. Years will go by but you'll never be able to take the experience away from her. How about you?

Diamond Alley followed the pageant. They played rock 'n' roll and blues. A large part of their repertoire was original music. Good group with female lead singer who has a good voice. My hat's off for the sound work. Each performance has to be set up separately. One size fits all doesn't work. A couple of times the sound got muddled because they were compensating for the surrounding noise or the performers wanted the volume cranked all the way up. In honor of 30 years of doing the sound work, Ken Voigt was so honored in a proclamation Friday night. To quote Ken, "I was surprised and embarrassed and I loved every minute of it."

Monday morning means Labor Day parade. Something I'm familiar with. I've marched in a parade or three.

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

A man riding his moped in the 6000 block of Springhill Drive on Saturday, August 31, was the victim of an armed robbery. Two people stepped in front of the man and a third person approached from behind. The person in back of the man placed a gun to his neck and demanded the moped. The three left the scene with the moped in the direction of Edmonston Road. The moped was recovered the next day by a friend of the victim from an unknown location.

A 16 year old nonresident youth was charged on petition with possession of paraphernalia on Thursday afternoon, September 5. A marijuana pipe was found in the youth's possession while at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. The youth was released pending action by the Juvenile Justice System.

A man was walking in the area of Cherrywood Lane and Greenbelt Metro Drive around 11:30 p.m. on Friday, August 30, when he was approached by two men. One of the men demanded the gold necklace the victim was wearing. When the man refused to give up the necklace one of the suspects began to punch and kick him. The suspects removed the man's jewelry and some clothing and fled on foot towards Springhill Terrace. The suspects are described as: 1) a black man, 17 to 20 years old, 6'1" with a thin build, carrying a green bag; and 2) a black man, 17 to 20 years old, wearing grey sweat pants and boots.

An officer responded to the 20 block of Crescent Road on Sunday evening around 10 p.m. on a report of a juvenile carrying a gun. The suspect, a 15 year old nonresident youth, made a pointing gesture as though he had a gun when he noticed several people looking at him. The suspect, who appeared to have been drinking, was arrested, charged with disorderly conduct, and released to a parent pending action by the Juvenile Justice System.

A man was walking along a footpath in the rear of the 9300 block of Edmonston Road and as he was about to cross over the foot bridge he was approached from behind. The attacker grabbed the man in a "bear hug", wrestled him to the ground and demanded money. After obtaining the man's wallet the robber fled the scene. The suspect is described as a black man, 17 to 25 years old, 180 - 190 lbs., with black hair, wearing a grey T-shirt and blue jeans.

One of the booths at the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival was the victim of a till tap on Sunday, September 1. A man walked up to the booth around 11 p.m., reached in and grabbed money and fled the scene. The man is described as Hispanic, 16 years old, 5'5", 130 lbs., with black hair and brown eyes.

An Eleanor Roosevelt High School administrator detained a student after detecting the odor of suspected marijuana emanating from him. The School Resource Officer was contacted and responded to the school. A set of brass knuckles were found in the student's possession. The student was arrested, charged with possession of a deadly weapon on school property and released on citation pending action by the Juvenile Justice System. The incident occurred on Tuesday afternoon, September 3.

A woman working at Jeepers, 6000 Greenbelt Road, was approached by a man around 4:45 p.m. on Sunday, September 1. The man grabbed the woman by her shoulders, kissed her without her consent, and left the establishment. The man is described as black, in his twenties, 6'0", with close cut black hair, with a beard, wearing a white T-shirt and jean shorts.

An officer patrolling the 7500 block of Greenbelt Road on Monday afternoon, September 2, noticed a vehicle parked in a fire lane. A computer check revealed the tags on the vehicle had been reported stolen to Prince George's County Police. A 38 year old nonresident man was arrested, charged with theft, and released on citation pending trial.

The Greenbelt Police Department needs the help of residents. Any citizen with information about possible drug activity in the city is encouraged to call the Greenbelt Narcotics Hot Line at 507-6524. Callers may remain anonymous.

A man put a video camera down in the parking lot in the 10 block of Crescent Road on Sunday evening, September 1, and walked a short distance away. When he returned the video camera was missing.

An officer patrolling the 9100 block of Springhill Lane on Saturday afternoon, August 31, noticed a suspicious abandoned vehicle. A computer check reported the vehicle, a 1985 Chevrolet truck, had been listed as stolen by the Metropolitan Police Department.

An officer requested a computer check on a 1994 Plymouth Voyager found abandoned in the area of Greenbelt and Kenilworth Avenue on Monday morning, September 2. The check revealed the vehicle had been reported stolen to Prince George's County Police. The vehicle was impounded.

A 1991 Mazda 626 two-door was reported stolen from the 6000 block of Greenbelt Road on Monday morning, September 2. The vehicle was recovered on September 5 in Niagra Falls, Ontario Canada by the Niagra Falls Police Department. No arrests were made.

Report Flyers Left Unsolicited at Door

Tired of coming home to flyers hanging on the door or laying on the doorstep? Well there is something that can be done about it. The City of Greenbelt has an ordinance, No. 1125, which prohibits the distribution of handbills and materials. In addition, the city's Department of Planning and Community Development is willing to pursue these solicitors. All that needs to be done is send the material received to Mr. Bill Holland, City of Greenbelt, Dept. of Planning & Community Development, 15 Crescent Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770.

Please note the location the material was left, with name, address and telephone number. It is important to include a name that can be called upon as witnesses. Remember, not only is this material a nuisance, it lets everyone know when residents are not at home and contributes to litter in the community.

Visit Local Historic Sites - Win Prizes

The Tricentennial Celebration gives Prince Georgians the chance to take an extensive trip through history—without leaving the country. The "Passport To History" program was developed with hopes that people would explore all the wonderful historic sites available to them right in their own backyard.

A keepsake passport booklet is being distributed to interested county residents, free of charge. The booklet contains color photographs and information (a brief history, location, hours of operation) on some of the county's historic houses, museums, visitors' centers, and parks that are open to the general public.

Co-sponsored by Maryland Cable and Jones Communications, Inc., the passport program encourages passport holders to get their books stamped at each of the participating locations: Montpelier Mansion; Laurel Museum; NASA/Goddard Visitor Center and Museum; Greenbelt Museum; College Park Airport Museum; Riversdale; Bladensburg Marina Visitors Center; Marietta; Huntington Railroad Museum; Belair Mansion and Stable Museum; Dorsey Chapel; Darnall's Chance; Surratt House Museum; National Colonial Farm; Duvall Tool Museum; and Fort Washington Park.

These special stamps entitle the traveler to a variety of valuable prizes. Visitors who experience a number of sites will receive gifts that could include dinner or event passes. People who collect stamps from all the sites are entered in a grand prize drawing at the closing of the 1996 Festival of Lights. The prize is a trip to England. For more information, call 301-322-1996.

City Notes
The Labor Day Festival booths were dismantled and transported to storage, the electrical service was disconnected, table and chairs collected and the festival sites cleaned up. Art materials were transported to the Arts Center in the Community Center. The James N. Wolfe sign was fabricated and installed at Northway Field. Picnic tables were delivered to 2 Court Northway for a court picnic. Trees at the Municipal Building were pruned to remove branches too close to the building. Perennial flowerbeds were clipped and cleaned at the entrance to Buddy Attick Park.

Recycle Yard Waste

by Jennifer Foley
Yard trimmings take up nearly 20% of the nation's landfill space. These yard trimmings have value and can be recycled—either by the City, or in backyards. Instead of putting yard trimmings out with the trash, 1) Leave grass clippings on the lawn after mowing. It's good for the lawn and can cut mowing time in half. 2) Mulch with grass clippings, shredded leaves and shredded garden trimmings. Clippings decompose especially quickly, adding nutrients to the soil. 3) By composting leaves, grass clippings, and other yard trimmings, material that some think of as trash can be turned into a treasure—a rich and natural soil conditioner or mulch with many uses. 4) If grasscycle, mulching or composting is not possible, public works can be called for yard waste Wednesday.

To recycle yard trimmings on Wednesdays, bag grass, leaves and garden clippings. Paper bags are best, but plastic bags are O.K. Bundle branches with twine in lengths that do not exceed four feet. Thick, hardwood branches will be chipped by the city. Place bagged and bundled yard trimmings out for pickup—those in single family homes, place materials at the curb, and those who live in GHI, set materials by their trash pickup. Call Public Works at 474-8004 before noon on Tuesday for Yard Waste Wednesday Pickup—be sure to tell whether materials have been bagged or if larger branches need to be chipped.

Domestic Violence

Prince George's Community College's Continuing Education office will host a videoconference entitled "Domestic Violence: Breaking the Cycle." This videoconference is accredited for CEU's for two contact hours of general/professional continuing education credits for social workers, law enforcement officers, counselors, and nurses.

Joint Venture—Food Service Training

On Thursday, August 29, the Prince George's Private Industry Council, Inc. (PIC), held a Joint Announcement/Ribbon Cutting at Watkins Regional Park to officially announce Joint Venture, a training and employment program within the food service industry. Other participants were the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Prince George's County Public Schools.

Dr. Jerome Clark, Superintendent, Prince George's County Schools; Mary Godfrey, Director, Department of Parks and Recreation of the M-NCPPC; and Joe Puhalla, President, Prince George's Private Industry Council, Inc., participated.

The partnership will provide on-the-job training for residents of Prince George's County who are pursuing careers in the food service industry. PIC will coordinate the overall program of selection, training and placement of participants.

The school system will provide actual, hands-on training of the participants. The M-NCPPC will provide job sites where the participants will become employed—the first being the Watkins Regional Park Food Service Facility.

In the near future, food facilities operated by the Prince George's County Government and the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission will also be staffed by trainees and graduates of the Joint Venture. It is anticipated that private businesses will also employ participants after the program becomes fully operational.

Hoyer has played a key role in obtaining the federal funding for the Green Line and now is working to increase employment opportunities along the line. "When the final segment of the Green Line opens in 2001, Prince George's County and Southern Maryland will have a tremendous asset for economic growth and a terrific tool to reduce traffic congestion," Hoyer said.

AAC to Host Public Meeting on Sept. 30

A public meeting to explore setting up a non-profit foundation to provide financial support for the arts in Greenbelt is set for Monday, Sept. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Greenbelt Community Center.

The city's Arts Advisory Committee, which has been researching the concept, is hosting the meeting.

The Committee especially invites all individuals interested in the arts and representatives from established Greenbelt arts groups to attend.

Valerie Siegel, local attorney and community activist, has been working with the Committee on this project. She is inspired by the life of her longtime friend Dial Silvers, Greenbelt artist and arts activist, who died in 1994.

Dial Silvers was vice-chairperson of the above arts committee from its inception, a board member of the Greenbelt Arts Center (where she managed the children's drama classes) and a member of the Greenbelt Visual Artists Coalition.

"She was active in efforts aimed at creating a home for the visual arts in the community center and was an artist with a strong interest in arts programming for children and youth," Siegel explains. "An arts foundation in Greenbelt would be a fitting memorial to Dial Silvers' memory."

"Children need someone in their corner to nurture their creativity," elaborates Siegel. "Art expression is perfect in its own form; a foundation can provide funding for all of the arts for children in Greenbelt.

Although a Greenbelt Arts Foundation would be open to funding any local arts program, Siegel hopes it will put a special emphasis on children and youth.

For further information, call Arts Advisory Committee chairperson Barbara Simon at 301-474-2192.

General Election Volunteers Needed

The Prince George's County Board of Elections is in need of both election judges and alternates for the upcoming general election on Tuesday, November 5. In Greenbelt, there are positions to be filled at Precinct 21-03, Greenbelt Community Center and Precinct 21-13, Eleanor Roosevelt High School. Similar vacancies exist at nearby Precinct 21-11, Magnolia Elementary School in Lanham. There is a mandatory training session for judges and alternates. Those appointed will be compensated for their time.

Interested persons should call State Senator Leo Green's office in Annapolis (toll free) at 301-858-3631 or the county Board of Elections in Upper Marlboro at 301-952-3270. The latter is also the number to call for anyone in need of an absentee ballot for the presidential election or to receive voter registration information in time for the October deadline.

Art Exhibit Shown At U. of Maryland

University of Maryland University College (UMUC) is holding an exhibition: "Scott Brouard: Day and Night - Images from Nature" from September 20 - December 15, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily at UMUC's Inn and Conference Center.

Brouard's landscapes demonstrate the artist's easy handling of color and composition. Painted in Florida, Colorado and Maryland, they evoke a sense of pastoral serenity and natural beauty.

The public is invited to an opening reception on Friday, September 20, 5:30 - 7 p.m. at University of Maryland University College's Inn and Conference Center, College Park.

For further information contact UMUC's Arts Program curator, Dena Crosson, at 301-985-7822.
