Festival of Lights Offers Something Council Considers Ban For Greenbelters of All Ages On "Dogs as Weapons"

by Eileen Farnham

Friday, December 6 will mark the opening of Greenbelt's 25th Annual Festival of Lights. The opening ceremonies and holiday tree lighting will be held at 7 p.m. outside the Municipal Building. The Greenbelt Combined Choir and Greenbelt Concert Band's brass choir will present traditional holiday music and caroling. Santa will make an appearance and help light a beautifully decorated municipal tree. The Recreation Department will serve refreshments.

A holiday craft show and sale will be held at the Community Center on Saturday, December 7, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, December 8, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. More than 60 craftspeople will display and sell their work. On Saturday during the craft show, a special children's craft room will also be available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Youngsters from pre-school age up can create their own holiday projects while their parents shop.

Greenbriar and Glen Oaks residents are invited to help decorate their Community Building on Sunday, December 8, at 1 p.m.

Greenbelt East will have a special tree lighting ceremony the following week, Sunday, December 15, at 7 p.m. at Greenbriar. The Eleanor Roosevelt High School Choir will entertain at the ceremony with songs of the season, immediately followed by a reception in the Greenbriar Community Building.

Many other holiday activities are scheduled for a December that is sure to please every taste and age, continuing right through New Year's Day. With appearances by Santa, caroling, musical performances, craft events, dinners, even a race (to help work off some of the holiday food), the city recreation department has outdone itself in preparing a well-rounded agenda that culminates in a grand send-off for 1996 - an alcohol-free family New Year's Eve party at the Community Center. There are sure to be events to interest every Greenbelter and a busy, exciting and active holiday month is in store for all.

Santa in Greenbelt

After helping light the municipal tree Friday night, Santa will appear at breakfast on Saturday, December 7, from 7 a.m. to noon at St. Hugh's Grenoble Hall. The breakfast, hosted by St. Hugh's, is also sponsored by the Greenbelt Lions, American Legion Post 136 and Maryland National Guard. Tickets are available in advance or at the door.

with Santa for ages 3 to 5, from noon to 2 p.m. Pre-schoolers should be registered in advance for the lunch and accompanying craft making.

Greenbriar and Glen Oaks will hold a Children's Party with Santa on Saturday, December 14, from 1 to 3 p.m. RSVPs are requested in advance, at 301-441-1096.

The North Pole is Calling ... In addition to personal appearances in Greenbelt, Santa will be calling Greenbelt's pre-school through second graders Tuesday, December 10 through Thursday, December 12, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. each evening. Children must be registered by December 9 in order to receive a call from Santa. Registration fliers are available at all city recreation centers.

And on Saturday, December 21, there will be an Elves Workshop at the Youth Center for ages 5 to 10, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Children have an opportunity at the Eives Workshop to make holiday crafts for keepsakes or gift giving. They should register and pay a fee in advance

The Season and Sound

"Twelfth Night," an early Shakespeare comedy with a complicated plot, is offered by the Greenbelt Arts Center from Thursday through Saturday, December 5 - 8, and 12 - 14.

The Greenbelt Concert Band and Combined Choir also appear in concert, in addition to providing music for the tree lighting ceremony at the municipal build ing that launches the season. With music that inspires holiday spirit, the Greenbelt Concert Band will present its traditional free holiday concert at the Community Center on Sunday, December 15, at 3:30 p.m.

On Sunday, December 15, from 5:30 to 7 p.m., there will be a spaghetti dinner at the Greenbelt Community Church. It will be followed at 7:30 by the Combined-Choir's Christmas concert. This is an annual event where Greenbelt churches join together for seasonal hymns and song. There will be caroling with neighbors and friends at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, December 20, at the Mother and Child statue in Roosevelt Center. All ages join in this joyous holiday tradition, followed by refreshments provided by the Recreation Department.

The Greenbelt City Council held a work session Tuesday, November 19 to discuss dangerous in Greenbelt. pets Councilmember Judith Davis said there were people in Greenbelt "who have dogs that are used as weapons." The discussion focused on breeds like the pit bull and on irresponsible owners. Later, council heard a request to convert the Arts Advisory Committee to a chartered advisory board. "We are getting more ani-mals of the pit bull nature," said Greenbelt police Sgt. Jim Parker.

Three members of the Greenbelt Dog Park Association came to object to the banning of breeds. "Lots of animals are dangerous. If you want to stop anything from happening, you are going to have to prohibit dog ownership," said Diann Howland, a member of the association.

Kris White, president of the Greenbelt Dog Park Association, said that pit bulls could be misidentified. Therefore, banning breeds of dogs does not make sense.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts added that banning a certain breed would only make people get another one. What was needed instead, Roberts explained, were stiffer sentences for people who abuse animals. Roberts also said that he had read that German shepherds are the dogs that bite the most. Roberts also recalled that while he was door-to-door campaigning, a labrador had jumped at him.

Right now, Greenbelt already has animal control regulations. For instance, owners cannot keep animals that are excessively noisy. Rules also exist concerning "dangerous or vicious animals." The Greenbelt code states that "Every animal determined by the county animal control commission to be vicious or dangerous shall be confined by the owner in a building or secure enclosure and shall not be taken out of the building or secure enclosure unless securely restrained, muzzled, or caged as necessary." After an incident, citizens can file a complaint for a hearing with the county's Animal Control Com-mission. "You have more people breeding dogs on balconies than you realize," said Parker.

Davis suggested that City Solicitor Robert Manzi look into a possible ordinance regarding irresponsible pet owners and the use of any dog as a weapon.

ERHS, Parkway Lighting Discussed by GEAC

by Dennis Jelalian

Night lights for the ERHS field, the Metro Survey, Windsor Green's plans for complying with the Telecommunications Act and lighting on Hanover Parkway were issues discussed at the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee (GEAC) meeting November 7 at Hunting Ridge.

Night lights at ERHS

A number of parents of students at ERHS have expressed an interest in equipping the field with lights for evening games reported Mayor Pro Tem Judith "J" Davis. At present, some ERHS games are played at Bowie High School because they have lights. Mayor Antoinette Bram remarked that there is a growing demand for lighted fields. Councilmember Edward Putens said that the demand is due to crowded game schedules. The light, the noise and the traffic generated by evening use of the ERHS field might be a potential source of problems for area residents. The consensus was that a proposal to light the ERHS field needs to be carefully studied. Putens moved to send a letter to the city council, the school board, the ERHS PTSA and ERHS principal, Dr Gerald Boarman, requesting that GEAC be informed before the school takes any action. The motion carried.

Metro Survey The Greenbelt Metro station area study, which will make planning recommendations for changes in zoning around the station, is being conducted by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (M-NCPPC). GEAC chairman Sheldon Goldberg said that he expects the study to generate much useful information on the city, traffic and the environment

On Saturday, December 14, Santa visits with pre-schoolers and older children at the Community Center from 10 a.m. to noon. Parents or caregivers are invited to bring a blank VHS tape to have this visit recorded on tape. Immediately afterward, there will be a pre-school lunch

On Thursday, November 21, members of the Greenbelt City Council traveled to Baltimore to meet with representatives of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Maryland Department of the Environment.

The meeting was the longawaited follow-up on the concerns previously raised by council regarding the impact on wetlands of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's construction of a headquarters complex on Beltsville Agriculture Research Center (BARC) property on Sunnyside Avenue.

City Council members outlined their concerns that the project was being presented in a piecemeal fashion, so that the cumulative impact not be seen. They pointed out that no improvements were being proposed to Sunnyside Avenue, which is the connecting road from Kenilworth Avenue to the property. Kenilworth is slated to receive improvements as a result of this project. Sunnyside Avenue crosses over Indian Creek, which feeds the Anacostia River and frequently floods, council members pointed out.

The Corps of Engineers' representatives noted that they had approved a permit for the construction of the office building. However, that office building did not show related roadway improvements or the disturbance that such improvements would cause. Steve Elinski of the Corps of Engineers said that he is now working with USDA on the improvements to Kenilworth Avenue and on finding a mitigation site, two of which have been suggested. The Corps' repre-See USDA page 2

Mayor Bram said that the survey covers only a limited area, not all of Greenbelt. The biggest Metro problem is that there aren't convenient connections, Bram said.

At present there are 1,500 unused parking spaces at the Greenbelt Metro due to insufficient riders. The University of Maryland has plans to use these spaces.

One preliminary result of the study is that the Cherrywood Lane bridge over the Beltway has been found to be too narrow and the bridge is showing signs of premature aging and may have suffered some structural damage. Engineers are studying the bridge.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks

I want to tell everyone what a treasure we have in our community with GIVES. I called and asked for help in getting up the leaves in my yard. GIVES found a volunteer who personified the kind of wonderful person who becomes a part of GIVES. When I thanked him at the end of his task, he said, "That's what GIVES is for." I can only say again, "Thank You"

Students Challenged To Invent, Compete

For the 15th year, Duracell is challenging ninth through twelfth grade students to invent batterypowered devices and compete for prizes totaling over $100,000 in savings bonds.

The deadline for submitting an official entry form, essay, wiring diagram and photo to the Duracell/NTSA Scholarship Competition is January 15, 1997. Entries are judged on creativity, practicality, energy efficiency and clarity of the essay. Every student who submits a completed entry will receive a certificate of participation and a Duracell fanny pack.

One-hundred nationwide finalists, each a candidate for a $200 bond, will be announced in February. In March, 41 top winners will be named for a first place $20,000 bond, five second place $10,000 bonds, ten third place $1,000 bonds, and twenty-five fourth place $500 bonds. Teachers of the first and second place winners will receive computers and color printers. All sponsoring teachers of the 100 finalists will receive gifts.

The first and second place winners, along with their parents and sponsoring teachers, will be honored on April 3 at a gala 15th birthday party for the competition in New Orleans during the convention of the National Science Teachers Association.

The competition is sponsored by Duracell USA and administered by the National Science Teachers Association. The judging panel is comprised of distinguished scientists and science educators and is chaired by Dr. Arthur Eisenkraft, science coordinator of the Bedford, NY public schools.

Often the winners in this annual invention competition get their ideas by solving common problems in their everyday lives.

A Clarification

Please allow me to clarify a possible misperception of information in the article "GIVES Volunteers Seek Participants" from the News Review of November 21. I used the word "delivery" where I should have used "pickup." Greenbelt Consumer Co-op will not be delivering pharmacy prescriptions for GIVES participants, nor would they bear any responsibility for the GIVES service.

Any registered member of GIVES would call GIVES (301-507-6580) to request a volunteer to pick up a prescription for them, just as they would arrange for a volunteer to run a store errand to pick up groceries or other items at the Co-op.

I apologize for any confusion caused by the poor choice of wording in my article.

Research Center Named for Hoyer

The National Archives dedicated the Steny H. Hoyer Research Center within Archives II at a ceremony on October 21. Senator Paul Sarbanes and John Carlin, Archivist of the United States, presided over the dedication proceedings, which honored Hoyer's efforts to bring the National Archives to Prince George's County and the University of Maryland at College Park.

Hoyer, as a member of the House Appropriations Committee, was pivotal in obtaining the necessary funding for construction of the project, as well as working with University and State of Maryland officials in bringing the Archives building to College Park. The Hoyer Research Center is located on floors 2-6 and accommodates 390 researchers at a time.

The building, which has been open to researchers since January 1994, houses more than 600 employees and is the fourth largest federal building in the Washington area. The Archives II building draws researchers from around the globe, making the University of Maryland campus a major worldclass research institution.

GREENBELT

Maternity Center Opens Nearby

The first birth center in Prince George's County, the Maternity Center Greenbelt, at 9811 Greenbelt Road, Lanham, recently opened. A birth center is a freestanding health facility providing gynecological and maternity care, including prenatal visits and birth. It is staffed by certified nursemidwives, nurses with postgraduate education in midwifery and national certification. Because the nurse-midwives work in consultation with obstetricians, pediatricians, and hospitals, each family receives an individualized plan of care for their health needs.

Birth centers provide care with an emphasis on personal attention, the appropriate use of technology and drugs, family involvement, and client involvement in decision-making. This type of care is covered by most insurance plans.

The Maternity Center Greenbelt, which is accredited by the National Commission for the Accreditation of Birth Centers, is a joint venture between Birth Center Consultants and Doctors Community Hospital.

Maternity Center Greenbelt sponsors a free weekly orientation and tour, "The Motherhood Experience," describing the program of care and providing information on maternity care choices. The next seminar will be offered on December 9 at 6:45 p.m.

To register or for more information, call 301-552-7600. Preregistraton is required.

A Kid Care ID Booth will* be provided by the Greenbelt Crime Prevention Committee during the Christmas Craft Sale Sat., Dec. 7, 10 - 5 and Sun., Dec. 8, 11 - 4 in the Community Center.

Multi-Lingual Info Offered by Metro

The Washington Metropolitan Transit Authority Area (WMATA) offers multi-lingual services to non-English-speaking customers when they call the Authority for information. WMATA will provide this service to customers who call Metrorail and Metrobus travel information at (202) 637-7000 (weekdays 6 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. and weekends 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.) or consumer services where customers call to offer suggestions, complaints or commendations at (202) 637-1328 (weekdays 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.) This service is being offered because the region in and around the nation's capital is home to many residents whose primary language is not English and also because the region plays host to more than 1.5 million international travelers each year.

Translation services will be available in more than 100 languages, including Spanish, French, Cantonese and Mandarin Chinese, Japanese, Russian, Korean, Vietnamese, Cambodian, Polish and Portuguese.

sentatives seemed particularly interested in the city's contention that the project is being presented in a piecemeal fashion. They noted that if that determination is made, permits could be pulled for work that is still ongoing.

The next step in the Corps' process is to agree to an acceptable mitigation site. Following this, an application can be filed and processed. The city will be involved in the public review process, they said, once an application is formally filed.

Representing the city at the Baltimore meeting were Mayor Antoinette Bram and councilmembers Judith Davis, Edward Putens and Rodney Roberts. City Manager Michael McLaughlin, City Solicitor Robert Manzi, and Kevin Kelly and Drew Kozlo of Environmental Systems Associates also represented the city.

Besides Elinski, Linda Morrison, Katherine Will and Keith Harris represented the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Andrew Der appeared for the Maryland Department of Environment.

- Based on notes written by City Manager Michael P. McLaughlin.

When Ridership Information or Consumer Services receives a call from a customer not fluent in English, after determining that translation services are needed, the information agent will initiate a conference call involving the customer, WMATA and the translator. The translator will determine what language is required and then translate the conversation between the customer and the English-speaking WMATA representativę.

WMATA will place posters in a variety of languages on Metrobus and Metrorail to inform the public of this language-translation service.

Among devices former winners have developed are an improved bike taillight, a robot which sorts recyclables, a gadget which reads the ripeness of fruit, and a portable eyesight screening tool.

A survey of winners conducted last year shows that the competition appeals to many students, including those in industrial arts, technology, and a variety of science classes. Half of those who responded said winning influenced their career choices and future studies. Some previous winners are improving and patenting their devices and many are employed in innovative technology-based fields. Student inventors retain all rights to their devices.

Exhibits Work

Barbara Stevens, Greenbelt artist, will exhibit her acrylic painting from her "Hedges and Hedge-Rows" series at the Municipal Conference Room Gallery, Greenbelt Municipal Bldg., 1st floor, from December 3 through January 14. Stevens' work consist of imagery from roadside scenes, Montpelier Mansion grounds, and landscape impressions from Longwood Gardens and Dunbarton Oaks. She works with transparent glazes over opaque layers and mixed media, Colonial quilt designs and light and shadow nature patterns are added into these pieces.

The artist received her M.A. from the University of California at Berkeley, is a resident artist and teacher at Montpelier Mansion, Laurel, and was awarded a Prince George's Arts Council grant in 1995 to paint the "Hedge-Rows" series.

The exhibition is open to the public during normal business hours. For further information call the Greenbelt Municipal Bldg., (301) 474-8000.

Greenbelt... the Game

A new board game featuring the city of Greenbelt, The Game of Greenbelt, modeled on the Parker Brothers Monopoly, was designed by the Lions Club as a club fundraiser. It has been produced in quantity and just received, ready for sale by the Lions, in time for holiday giving. Launched by a formal presentation to the City Council at its meeting November 25, the newly created game includes a number of Greenbelt institutions (among them the News Review) and businesses, who are also sponsors. Profits from the game will be used by the Lions Club for the organization's many community charity activities. The Game of Greenbelt will be available for sale at Lions Club events including the pancake breakfast December 7 at St. Hugh's and the Lions Gift Wrap, at the Greenbelt Museum, the Library Book Store, the Festival of Lights, Springhill Lake Apartments Office, Doctors Hospital Gift Shop, as well as at Beltway Plaza Hardware, Chefs Secret Restaurant, Generous Joe's Deli and the Americopy at the OAO Building.

ern University and director of the Zamir Chorale of Boston. Professor Jacobson is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on Jewish choral music.

Britten's "St. Nicolas" was first performed in Sussex, England, on July 24, 1948. In his major works, Britten is noted for his use of treble choruses, as well as for audience participation. "St. Nicolas" is scored for chorus, orchestra, and treble singers (gallery chorus and boy sopranos). Members of the children's choirs of St. Mary's Church and Damascus United Methodist Church will participate in "St. Nicolas."

LOS' Artistic Director is Walter G. Edmonds, senior pastor of Damascus United Methodist Church, who has been with the LOS since 1989. Monica Otal, assistant director/ accompanist, is in her 21st season with the LOS. She will be the soprano soloist in one Hanukkah selection, as well as play the keyboard for the performance.

Michael Ford, a local resident of College Park, will be the tenor soloist in "St. Nicolas." Ford currently sings with the U.S. Army Chorus. Most recently Ford was the tenor soloist with the LOS in the Mozart "Coronation Mass."

Tickets are available from LOS members and will be available at the door the night of the concert. Discounted tickets are available for groups of over 20. For information and prices, call 301/464-0119 or 202/624-2741.

The University of Maryland School of Music will present the University of Maryland Jazz Ensemble's Jazz Showcase Concert on Wednesday, December 4 at 8 p.m. in the Colony Ballroom of the Stamp Student Union. The program will feature selections by such composers as Sonny Rollins, Miles Davis, Count Basie, Bob Mintzer and Duke Ellington, along with student works. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend. For information call 301-405-5519.

holiday pot luck dinner on Sunday, December 15, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Community Center. Jointly hosted by the Gray Panthers and the Recreation Department, it is an occasion for everyone to bring a dish and share a holiday dinner with neighbors and friends.

Working it Off

The 32nd annual holiday road race, hosted by the DC Road Runners Club and the Recreation Department, will be held on Saturday, December 28, starting at 10 a.m. Participants can choose the 3K, 10-mile or 20-mile course, depending on ambition and level of fitness. There is a registration fee.

Giving to the Less Fortunate Remembering those in need has always been an important part of Greenbelt holiday traditions. There are many, many worthwhile opportunities to give and readers are reminded that the Lions Club Toy Drive will run through December 23. Drop-off sites for new, unwrapped toys have been placed at all city recreation facilities, Giant, Safeway, NationsBank, Windsor Green Community Building, Independence Court, Roosevelt Center Mall and the gift wrap booth at Beltway Plaza. Wrapping up the Season Greenbelters will celebrate the arrival of the new year in many ways. Again this year there will be a sleep-over for youngsters from 6 to 12 years of age. This fun New Year's Eve party for kids starts at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, December 31, with games, movies, munchies and breakfast for children while their parents celebrate. Pre-registration, ending Saturday, December 28, is required; there is a fee and youngsters must be picked up by 10 a.m. Wednesday morning, New Year's Day. Everyone is invited to join in seeing in the New Year at the family-oriented Greenbelt New Year '97 celebration, the first to be held at the Community Center. This alcohol-free event starts New Year's Eve at 5 p.m. and runs until 1 a.m. the following morning, January 1, 1997.p.m.

A Greenbelt Gardener by Rosie Rhubarb

Winter is almost here but some of the garden plants have still not completely stopped growing for the year. A few types of trees and shrubs have not lost their leaves. Berries can still be seen on some shrubs and trees. Some of these berries should stay through the winter, but they are now at their most brilliant - reddish-orange on hawthorn trees, intense red on barberry and winterberry and, of course, there is the intense red against green leaves of the holly tree.

The soil has not cooled down for the winter so soil related chores can still be done. Trees and shrubs can be planted during the next few weeks or can be planted in the early spring. New garden beds can be created and established beds can have fertilizers (such as manure, compost, commerical fetilizers, and lime) worked into them in the next few weeks or in the spring. Soil preparation now means one less task in the busy spring planting season and gives time for nutrients to work their way into the soil to be accessible to plants.

The advantage to doing the work now is that the soil is usually drier in the autumn than in the spring. Garden beds should never be worked or walked upon when wet. Another advantage to work in the autumn is it is cooler. One can work up a real sweat when doing heavy garden work such as soil preparation. But if you do nothing else, clear the dead plants and little weeds off. Garden cleanliness now means less work next year, as pests and diseases are removed from the garden bed.

fall vegetable garden are now enjoying the fruits of their labors. This wasn't an easy autumn for vegetable gardening with all the cold weather, but root vegetables such as beets and carrots should have been fine. Even if you don't grow vegetables, you can still enjoy a range of fresh vegetables now. Sweet potatoes are most readily available this time of year. Try different kinds for they range from not too sweet to very sweet. Some vegetables actually get sweeter after a good frost, such as collard greens, kale and parsnips.

Fifty Years Ago Mayor Bauer Calls Charter Worthless

Stating that the Council's powers under the city charter were "almost nil," Mayor George F. Bauer called for the charter to be revised. Bauer noted that there was no recourse to higher authority if a town employee should be discharged by the town manager. "Absolute power is vested in one man under the charter," Brewer said, "and it is difficult for councilmen to learn about employee conditions. Many employees are threatening to quit." The town manager had full power to hire and fire all employees, except that the council had to approve the appointment of a city solicitor (attorney).

The mayor noted that only the manager could appoint an acting manager and felt that this would be a problem should the manager become incapacitated. He also wanted a petty cash fund that the mayor could use for such purposes as traveling expenses and telegrams on town business. No such funds were then available to the mayor.

Councilmembers agreed that the charter needed revision but did not indicate what charges they felt were required. The reporter for the Greenbelt Cooperator, Carolyn Miller, reported that Greenbelt's charter was patterned after a model form for council-manager government and that the vesting of authority of administration and management in the town manager is the usual procedure. She also reported that the legislature had to enact any charter amendments and that they could require a town referendum to be held.

(Note: The city charter can now be amended by the council. That action can be petitioned to referendum. In addition, an employee appeals board hears employee grievances and appeals of adverse actions taken by the manager. Although there is still no petty cash fund for the mayor, expenses incurred by the mayor and council are reimbursed subject to policies established by the city council.)

Turn on Headlights For World AIDS Day

Governor Parris Glendening today urged all Marylanders who know someone with HIV, AIDS, or had died of AIDS, to commemorate World AIDS Day by turning on their vehicle headlights during daylight hours on December 1. Governor Glendening has proclaimed December 1 as World AIDS Day in Maryland.

World AIDS Day has been observed every year on December 1 since 1988 as a result of efforts by the World Health Organization to encourage governments, communities and individuals to focus on the threat that AIDS poses to worldwide public health.

Students Show Skills In Engineering/Math

Six Prince George's County students received prizes and awards for exceptional engineering and math skills at the sixth Annual Frontiers Science Competition sponsored by the Maryland Space Business Roundtable, a nonprofit organization that represents more than 70 space-related corporations in the state.

The competition, which was held at Eleanor Roosevelt High School on Saturday, Nov. 23, is designed to show students in grades 5-12 that math and science are fun and relevant in their lives. Using drinking straws, balsa wood, glue, masking tape, and other inexpensive materials, the students created devices designed to meet specific engineering challenges. They then competed against one another to determine who built the best device. This year the contest drew 100 students representing schools from all areas of Prince George's County.

Participants competed in three separate divisions according to their grades in school: 5-7; 8-9; and 10-12. The events included the Shuttle Strong Arm; Slow Roller, Satellite Snatch; Lunar Bridge; Newton's Nightmare; and the Mystery Event. Grace Haliburton, an Eleanor Roosevelt High School student, placed first in Newton's Nightmare and Shuttle Strong Arm categories. She placed third in Lunar Bridge and Mystery Event categories.

The Maryland Space Business Roundtable, which is a type of Chamber of Commerce for the state's $2 billion-a-year space industry, has sponsored Final Frontiers since 1990. The organization represents some 70 companies in suburban Maryland, many of them located in Prince George's County.

Renovated Building At BARC Dedicated

A newly renovated research facility focusing on environmental issues such as the Chesapeake Bay cleanup was dedicated at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, October 31, at the S. Department of Agriculture's Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC).

After presentations by Congressman Steny H. Hoyer, and USDA officials in the auditorium of Bldg. 003, a ribboncutting ceremony was held at the refurbished Bldg. 001 for some of the Center's Natural Resources Institute and Plant Sciences Institute laboratories. Guided tours followed.

"We will group together those labs concentrating on ways to keep fertilizer and pesticides out of the Chesapeake Bay," BARC director Darwin Murrell said. "Also, the building will house stateof-the-art instruments such as the analytical equipment that detects pesticide residues in fruits and vegetables," he added.

milestone in BARC's 10-year modernization plan begun in 1988. In 1992, the center dedicated two other upgraded buildings, the Administration Bldg. 003 and another housing Natural Resources Institute laboratories.

The building will primarily house the Environmental Chemistry, Soil Microbial Systems and Weed Science laboratories, consolidating scientists who collaborate on projects such as the one on sustainable agriculture. This project, begun in 1993, is aimed at finding farming techniques that better protect air, soil and water quality, including that of the Chesapeake Bay area.

Started in 1910, the center has the largest number of agricultural researchers in the country. With 800 scientists and technicians and a total of 1,500 employees, BARC is "known worldwide for the diversity of its research and scientific accomplishments," Murrell said.

The renovation is a second

Requests should be made to the architectural committee. Procedures for other associations have yet to be worked out.

Parkway Lighting

Lighting on Hanover Parkway north of Greenbelt Rd, seems to be in good working order after repairs by Pepco. Mayor Bram reported that Charles Watkins, District engineer for the State Highway Administration, said that it would be an "easy fix" to get the street lights at the intersection of Hanover Parkway and Greenbelt Road operational. These lights are working now. New lighting on Hanover Parkway south of Greenbelt Road will take some time to complete.

Other issues discussed by GEAC included Pepco light poles, changed bus schedules and stops at NASA, election results, trash and recycling problems.

than 180 students during the school year. The Greenbelt Elementary School is a comprehensive school serving over 730 youngsters from kindergarten through sixth grade. Approximately 60 percent of its students live in the Greenbelt community. The remainder of the students live in the housing development of Washington Heights in Landover, located approximately 16 miles from the school.

The Foundation notes: "This school provides an environment in which all staff members have the ability and responsibility to be effective teachers for all students. Art is an integral part of the academic curriculum for the third to sixth graders."

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

Fast food delivery people were the victims of armed robberies in two separate incidents this week in Springhill Lake. The first robbery occurred around 8:15 p.m. on Friday, November 15 in the 6200 block of Springhill Court. After making a delivery, the victim was approached by two men, one armed with a handgun. The men forced the victim into his own vehicle. After demanding and obtaining money, the robbers fled on foot. The victim was not injured.

The second armed robbery occurred at approximately 7:45 p.m. on Monday, November 18 in the 9100 block of Springhill Lane. A pizza delivery person, returning to his car, was struck in the back of the head and pushed to the ground. After obtaining the victim's wallet and car keys, the robber again struck the victim in the head and fled the scene in the victim's vehicle. The victim was taken to the hospital for treatment of his injuries. The robber is described as a black male, 6' tall, 200 lbs., wearing a black skull cap, blue jacket and black pants. The victim's vehicle, which was stolen, is a red 2-door 1992 Dodge Shadow, MD tags ZKK082.

At approximately 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, November 16, a citizen in the Beltway Plaza parking lot near the Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Eatery was the victim of an armed robbery. One of the suspects approached the victim and asked the brand name of the victim's jacket. Three other suspects then joined the first, at which time the first suspect demanded the jacket and stated that he had a gun. One of the suspects grabbed the jacket and fled on foot across Greenbelt Road into Berwyn Heights. The remaining suspects were last seen entering the mall area of Beltway Plaza, but were not located. A detailed description is only available for one of the suspects, described as a black male, 14-15 years old, 5' 8" with a heavy build, wearing a gray ski mask, gray sweat jacket and jeans.

Two residents were the victims of an attempted armed robbery in the 7800 block of Cloister Place around 10:30 p.m. on Monday, November 18. As the victims were walking from their vehicle to their residence, one went to the mailbox. He was approached from behind by a 5' 6" male wearing military-type clothing, a ski mask and hat, who told the victim not to move. When the victim turned and assumed a fighting stance, the robber produced a small handgun. The victim attempted to run away, but fell to the ground. The robber then approached the second victim and took a bag of groceries from her hands. He then dropped the bag and fled on foot toward a waiting vehicle, apparently firing several shots in the victims' direction as he ran. The vehicle, described as light green or blue, possibly a Toyota Tercel, was occupied by as many as three suspects. It was last seen traveling toward Hanover Parkway. The male victim was taken to a hospital for treatment of a cut suffered while he was attempting to flee.

On Thursday, November 21 at approximately 1 a.m. an armed robbery took place at the 7-Eleven store on Centerway. The robber entered the store, gestured that he had a gun and ordered the clerk to lie down on the floor. The robber then ordered the clerk to open the cash register. After obtaining an undisclosed amount of money, the robber fled on foot toward the Co-op Supermarket. He is described as a white male, approximately 29 years old, 5' 9", 190 lbs., wearing some type of white covering over his face, light brown shorts, white socks and no shoes.

After being stopped for a traffic violation near the intersection of Cherrywood Lane and Greenbelt Road around 9:15 p.m. on Saturday, November 16, the nonresident male driver left his vehicle, refused the officer's order to get back into the vehicle and began shouting obscenities, causing citizens to gather at the scene. The driver was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, failure to obey a lawful police order, and exceeding the speed limit.

A nonresident female was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and two counts of leaving a child unattended after a citizen reported two unattended children inside Jeepers Indoor Playground and Restaurant in Beltway Plaza. The guardian, who returned about 20 minutes later, was placed under arrest, at which time she began shouting obscenities. The woman was released pending trial on this charge, but because of an open warrant with the county Sheriff's Department, was released into the custody of that agency. A nonresident male was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated after an officer observed a vehicle stopped in the roadway in the area of Walker and Capitol Drives around 4 a.m. on Saturday, November 16 with the driver asleep at the wheel. The driver was also charged with theft when it was discovered that the vehicle's tags had been stolen from another vehicle.

Officers responded to the Holiday Inn's Willy K's Bar and Restaurant during the early hours of Thursday, November 21 following the report of an intoxicated, disorderly person. He was asked to leave the property, which he did by taxi. However, he returned a short time later and was arrested and charged with trespass.

In three separate incidents at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, four minors were charged with disrupting school activities after being involved in fights. One was also charged with possession of an electronic pager.

BURGLARIES occurred on Lakeside Drive, where a lawnmower was stolen by breaking into a toolshed; at an office suite in the 6400 block of Ivy Lane, where computer equipment was taken; and in the 5800 block of Cherrywood Lane, where entry was gained through an unlocked bedroom window and a television and stereo equipment were taken.

GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW

Marvels with Apples

by Bonnie Korr

Shrunken heads - ten shrunken heads with deep, hollow eye sockets staring into nowhere and gaping, toothless grins hung inside the doorway at Mishkan Torah Nursery School, minding their own business. Once firm and white, the heads had turned soggy and yellow and, was over. The dry, lopsided in their old age, had become leathery, wrinkled, and brown. Each day, these shrunken heads, once juicy red delicious applies, were prodded, greeted, and examined by the nursery school children - this was indeed their business. The children watched and waited.

Meanwhile, as late summer turned into fall and fall advanced toward Thanksgiving, there were apple songs and apple stories, apple-tasting parties and apple prints. Red apple prints stamped on honeygold cloth circles went home as challah covers for the children's made-from-scratch round minichallahs (egg breads) to usher in the Jewish New Year, along with eating apples dipped in honey. Later, they ate apples outside in a branch-roofed booth to celebrate the full harvest festival of Sukkot (probably the Pilgrims' biblical inspiration for the first Thanksgiving - and they were wise enough to wait until November, avoiding the bees that plague Sukkot).

After 21 days, the waiting faces were admittedly not a joy to behold. Yet within minutes, as blue or brown tissue paper balls filled the eye sockets and the heads were wigged, with the twist of a pipecleaner around a roll of bright fabric, the scary heads were transformed into the friendliest folks you could meet. The class couldn't resist a display to share with their families and friends. Now the dolls are snug in their new homes. The days are colder still. Anyone for some warm, homemade apple sauce sprinkled with cinnamon?

Mishkan Torah Nursery School has limited openings for 2, 3, and 4 year olds. Children of all backgrounds are welcome. For further information, call 301-474-4224 or 301-277-8615.

Student Honor Rolls Held At Greenbelt Elementary

by Barbara Likowski November 18 was an important day for students in grades three through six at Greenbelt Elementary School. Not only was it parent visitation day, but the day started with two honor roll assemblies.

A short program preceded the granting of honor roll certificates, starting with presentation of the colors by the Greenbelt Police Color Guard.

Principal Carolyn Goff gave a welcome salute to "Communities Committed to Children." Vocal music teacher Wilma Vazquez then conducted two musical numbers. For the third/fourth grade assembly, Anza Manning's kindergarten children sang "You're a Grand Old Flag," and the Greenbelt Elementary School chorus sang "Nifty Fifty" for the fifth/sixth grade assembly.

School Board member Suzanne Plogman spoke briefly and also helped present honor roll certificates. Other awards presented were "Caught You Being Good" awards, attendance awards, and prizes given to student winners of the PTA sponsored "Drug Free" essay and poster contests.

African Art Program Begins in Schools

Prince George's The County Public School System Smithsonian and the Institution's National Museum of African Art have established an innovative partnership to enhance student understanding of African art, as well as the interrelationship of the social, cultural, political and economic factors of the regions from which the art objects originated. Initially students from the African Studies Programs at Eleanor Roosevelt, High Point, Largo and Suitland High Schools will participate in the new program.

The unique curriculum, designed cooperatively by staff from the museum and the school system, interweaves coordinated instruction in social studies and art classes with visits to the museum. Museum staff will conduct in-depth discussions of African cultures, past and present, relating the art housed within the museum to the discussions.

For further information about this innovative program, contact Elaine Wallace, Prince George's County Public School's Art Supervisor, at 301-749-4126.
