McLaughlin Submits to Council $14.2 Million City Budget

by Diane Oberg

It's becoming an annual tradition. At the last council meeting in March, the city manager presents his budget to the city council, describing it as a "hold the line" budget due to decreasing or flat property tax revenues, a tradition upheld by City Manager Michael McLaughlin on March 23. His $14.2 million general fund budget proposal represents a 5.5% increase over the current financial year. It calls for maintaining the current city property tax of $1.44 per $100 of assessed valuation, and uses $450,000 of the city's reserves to pay for capital projects, equipment and debt service.

Revenues

The city's income continues to be relatively flat. Total revenues are projected to grow just 1.2% over the current fiscal year. Projections for the city's main source of revenues, the property tax are uncertain, but likely to be flat at best. There are two different offices in the state Department of Assessments and Taxation that project the city's tax base. One office shows assessable value decreasing 0.4%, while the other shows a 0.2% increase. The property tax accounts for 44% of the city's revenues and is the most significant source directly controlled by the city.

Whatever the assessable base turns out to be, it will determine the city's property tax revenues for the next three fiscal years. The 1999 fiscal year, which runs from July 1 through June 30, 1999, is the first year in the three year assessment cycle. Properties within the city were assessed during 1997, while the real estate market was relatively low. These assessments will be used until the 2002 fiscal year. Several major stores in the city either have closed or are closing, thus reducing future revenues.

McLaughlin told council that, despite what they may have read about the booming Maryland economy, resulting in a state budget surplus, the city's income tax revenues have not shown a similar increase. Income tax revenues in the current fiscal year are expected to grow 6.4%. A further increase of 3.8% is projected for FY99. Other taxes (such as hotel/motel and admissions and amusements) are expected to grow 1.1%.

The city's aquatic and fitness center has continued to attract new users and to cover 92% of its costs in FY99. This is up from 88% in the current fiscal year and 86% in FY96. The high point, so far was FY97 when the facilities covered 91% of their costs.

The city's income continues to be relatively flat.

GHI Rebate

Part of the city's good news comes at some cost to Greenbelt Homes, Inc. residents. The corporation had won the first round of an assessment battle with the state, resulting in a roughly $300,000 decrease in FY97 property tax revenues. The state Department of Assessments and Taxation appealed the ruling. GHI eventually settled with the state on an assessment roughly halfway between the original assessment and the first ruling. This resulted in a $152,000 refund to the city in FY98.

McLaughlin is proposing to transfer $450,000 from the city's "fund balance," a form of reserves, to this year's operating

by Diane Oberg

At its March 23 regular meeting, the Greenbelt City Council voiced concerns about the development process of the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA), reviewed the environmental assessment for a new building proposed for the Goddard Space Flight Center, and approved a formal policy regarding sexual harassment involving city employees.

WMATA Issues

The WMATA is considering development proposals for the Greenbelt Metro Station site, along with the adjacent Smith property. Council learned some of the details in a March 11 executive (closed) session with representatives of WMATA and the developer. Greenbelt's Director of Planning and Community Development Celia Craze noted several concerns in the written agenda comments, including the fact that the development proposal has not been made available for public scrutiny, even though a "text amendment" has been introduced for county council action. This amendment would permit new uses of the property without the normal zoning review process.

City officials have been largely kept out of the process. Craze noted that the secrecy has been imposed by WMATA, not the developer, because the agency considers the proposal to be covered by the rules for "procurements," which can be handled confidentially.

At the March 23 council meeting, the councilmembers unanimously agreed to communicate with the appropriate elected and appointed officials: 1) their concerns about the specific proposal, 2) their questions about the legality and appropriateness of handling development issues as procurements thus circumventing normal procedures for public review and comment, and 3) take exception to WMATA's claim that Greenbelt did not take adequate initiative to become informed about the proposal.

Goddard Expansion

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration is proposing the construction of a 350,000 square foot building on the east campus of the Goddard Space Flight Center. The building would house the National Operations and Research Center. Employees of the center are currently located in leased space in Camp Springs and in the Suitland Federal Center. A memo from Greenbelt Director of Planning and Community Development, Celia Craze, which reviewed the environmental assessment for the project, said that the building would be constructed on an 11.3 acre site, requiring clearing of 6.5

acres. The wetlands on the site will not be disturbed.

The new building will house 1,200 employees. Along with other, previously announced projects, total employment at Goddard is expected to increase by roughly 2,500 over 10,825 currently employed there.

The assessment found that three road improvements will be required to deal with the increased traffic generated by the expansion. These are: a signal at the intersection of Powder Mill Road and the northbound Baltimore/Washington Parkway ramp; an additional thru/right turn lane on westbound Greenbelt Road between Good Luck Road and Soil Conservation Road; new left turn lanes at the intersection of Greenbelt Road and Lanham-Severn Road.

Council unanimously agreed to send comments in response to the environmental assessment asking the federal government to commit to construct the road improvements required to handle the traffic generated by the project, and suggesting the development of a service road for Greenbelt Road to remove NASA related traffic from the through traffic flow. In addition, the use of the Baltimore Washington-Parkway employees ramp will be suggested as the main point of entrance/exit for workers. The city will also suggest

by Elaine Skolnik

The Prince George's County Council will consider two pieces of legislation relating to the planning and zoning of the Greenbelt Metro Study Area (see map) on Tuesday, April 7 at 10 a.m. The legislation will be considered along with changes recommended by the Planning, Zoning and Economic Development Committee, composed of five County Councilmembers.

On March 11, the PZED committee voted unanimously to recommend approval of CR-17 to the entire council with the condition that the planning process be shortened. This resolution initiates a sector plan and concurrent Sectional Map Amendment for the study area. This procedure was recommended to the county council by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission's team leaders of the citizen focus group after nearly a year of study. In December 1997, winding up its study, the Greenbelt Metro study focus group concluded that the Sector Plan, along with a current Sectional Map Amendment (SMA), which the City of Greenbelt supported, was the most effective planning tool to be used for the study focus area. This area includes: (1) the A.H. Smith and Washington Metropolitan Area

Outer heavy line delineates study area. Metro/Wmata/Smith property outlined within is focus area. The Sector Plan is generally bounded on the north by Sunnyside Ave., on the east by Kenilworth Ave., and on the south by Greenbelt Road; also included is all commercially zoned property on the south side of Greenbelt Road from Rhode Island Ave. east to the CSX railroad track and then to Kenilworth Ave.

Signing of Agreement Ends School Busing in County

by Mary Moien

The historic signing of the Memorandum of Understanding to end the 25-year school desegregation case in Prince George's County took place in Upper Marlboro on March 19. County Executive Wayne K. Curry; Prince George's County Board of Education chairman, Dr. Alvin Thornton; and Hardi Jones, president of the Prince George's County Chapter of the NAACP, participated in the signing.

"It's over," commented Suzanne Plogman, Greenbelt's school board representative, referring to court-ordered busing. She added that the work of the school board is not over but will now shift to implementation of the plan and to the monitoring of activities that will improve the quality of education to all students in the county.

It is anticipated that Judge Peter Messitte will approve the plan in early May. Messitte is presiding over the desegregation case Vaughns v. Board of Education of Prince George's County. Earlier in March he reviewed the memorandum and stated that "the Memorandum of Understanding is reasonable and provides a sound basis for settlement of the pending desegregation lawsuit." Several legislative actions remain that have to be approved by the Maryland State Legislature to provide funds and authorities to accomplish the tasks. It is anticipated that all will be approved.

Plan Details

Provisions of the agreement include: 1. Maintain magnet schools. 2. Provide compensatory support to schools with racially Transit Authority (WMATA) properties — the "focus" area containing about 267 acres; and (2) the "study area," which includes Beltway Plaza, Springhill Lake Apartments, and Capital Office Park. Together the study-focus area totals over 1,000 acres.

On March 31 the PZED committee voted three to one to recommend approval of CB-35 with conditions that were offered by the City of Greenbelt and the Prince George's County Planning Board.

CB-35, favored by Smith's representatives, calls for a zoning text amendment (ZTA) changing the existing light and heavy industrial zoning ordinance (I-1 and I-2).

The amendment would define a "Metro Planned Community" allowing mixed uses and densities to be developed on the existing Smith/WMATA industrial zoned land. About 51% of the focus area is undeveloped, of which 91% is zoned for heavy industrial use.

In recommending the approval of CB-35, the PZED committee attached several conditions. These include:

1. Amending to specify a minimum development area of 175 acres instead of 75 acres;

2. Requesting Richard Reed, Smith representative, to get together with the City of Greenbelt to resolve their differences over the adequate public facilities test;

3. Including the Planning Board's recommendations to the committee on CB-35 which contains minor changes to certain performance standards; and

4. The City of Greenbelt's recommendation that the Mixed-Use Transportation Oriented Zone (MXT) be looked at and MXT provisions included in CB-35.

City's Statement

"We oppose the bill as presently drafted," Mayor Judith F. Davis said to the PZED committee in a letter dated March 30, regarding CB-35. Davis objects to the lack of development controls in the zoning bill. She urged the committee to look at the Mixed-Use Transportation Oriented Zone (M-X-T) as an alternative; or to include those provisions of the MXT that subject the developer to a review process plus public participation in planning.

Emphasized in the letter was the aspect of "quality," incentives for public amenities and a review of the adequacy of public facilities and minimum development standards. "CB-35 has been drafted to include all the flexibility of the MXT zone, while excluding all of the controls," Mayor Davis asserted.

Recreation Offers B-Ball Clinics

The Greenbelt Recreation Department will offer free basketball clinics for boys and girls for five consecutive Wednesdays starting April 8 for ages 6-8 (6-7:15 p.m.) and for ages 9-11 (7:30-9:15 p.m.), and on five consecutive Tuesdays starting April 7 for ages 12-14 (7:15-9 p.m.). Participants will be required to follow clinic rules. For information, call Austin Gibbs at 301-397-2212.

Improvements Needed

In your coverage of the worksession between the city council and Metro, you mentioned a statement I had made with regard to the bus stop at Crescent Road directly across the green triangle from the Center. The "stacking" of the buses at that location was one of my interests, but my statement at that time listed two more important concerns. One of the issues is that there is no lighting in that area, and if one alights from a bus in the evening the visibility is very poor. In addition, there is no paved area on which one can walk to any crosswalk, and the grassy area is badly rutted, and often, depending on the season, muddy, slippery, or snowy.

I understand that this area is considered "sacred." My late dear friend Leo Gerton has a memorial there. He would have been both amused and appalled, and have spared no effort to have this situation corrected before a tragedy occurs, and another memorial has to be erected.

It would be very much appreciated if the city council would consider placing a street lamp and a strip of pavement at this site. I am sure that a person with disabilities would find these improvements a great help.

MARC Info Line

I'm writing about a very important amendment to the FY 99 Mass Transit Administration Bill JH-1, sponsored by delegate Joan Pitkin, dealing with MARC train service.

MARC has a terrible record in communicating causes of late trains and service disruptions to passengers. Train crews are usually unhelpful in explaining the reasons for late trains. If you get any answer, it's usually an incomplete explanation. MARC's customer service staff at Union Station are usually in the dark as to the reason for delays and you have to wait a long time to talk to somebody at the MTA Information Center's 800 number.

The amendment recommends that MARC install a 301 area code number for patrons to call the MARC control center, located near the BWI Rail Station to get coherent explanations. Currently, patrons have to dial a 410 area code number which is long distance for those who work in Washington. The 301 area code number would be a local call.

Due to Delegate Pitkin's hard work, the House Appropriations Committee accepted her amendment. The bill now goes to the Senate for consideration. I encourage all MARC patrons in the 23rd district to contact our senator, Leo Green, at 301-858-3631 and urge him to support the MARC Customer Service Improvement amendment to Senate Bill 125.

FOGM Forecasts Busy Season Ahead

by Sandra Lange, FOGM President

The Friends of the Greenbelt Museum are sponsoring a tour of the Laurel Museum on Saturday, April 4, at 10 a.m. The special tour has been arranged for FOGM docents and friends to learn more about the history of other nearby historic communities. Interested participants should gather at the Museum, 10-B Crescent Road, at 9:30 a.m. to carpool to Laurel.

FOGM is sponsoring a book signing on Sunday, April 19, from 2-4 p.m., for George Denny's history book on Prince George's County's towns and cities. Denny will be pleased to autograph copies of the book, Proud Task, Promising Future which is available for sale at the Museum gift shop. The book, with photographs of all of the towns and cities in the County, presents a brief history of each community.

In addition to an assortment of items dealing with Greenbelt memorabilia, the Museum's gift shop has available for sale the updated version of "Greenbelt: History of a New Town" and the 12-inch replica of the "Mother and Child" statue in Roosevelt Center Mall.

At the city's budget meeting on April 2, the FOGM board requested additional financial support from the City of Greenbelt to carry out its activities. In addition to being one of the major cultural attractions in Greenbelt over the past decade, the Greenbelt Museum provides positive images of Greenbelt and promotes the city as an ideal place for young families, singles, and those in their retirement years.

Visitors to the Greenbelt Museum often ask about the community as it exists today, and like to tour the museum prior to meeting with real estate agents to consider purchasing a Greenbelt Homes, Inc. house.

FOGM plans to work more closely with city staff on projects of mutual interest, such as reissuance of the Greenbelt trail guide. Additional staff time for the FOGM curator is needed in order to carry out the Museum's conservation activities, as well as the mounting of exhibits, working with interns and researchers, and cataloguing a growing collection of artifacts. Currently FOGM's curator, Katie Scott-Childress, works 16 hours each week. FOGM has applied to the State of Maryland for a grant to fund a major exhibit on the decorative arts to open in the fall.

FOGM's semi-annual Flea Market is coming up in May. Anyone wishing to donate jewelry, toys or household items to the flea market may do so by dropping them off at 2-G Gardenway. Or call Lee Shields at 301-474-5321 for items to be picked up. No books or clothing will be accepted.

OBITUARIES

Sidney R. Conger

Sidney Robert Conger, 68, pastor emeritus of Berwyn Presbyterian Church in College Park, and prominent community leader in Prince George's County, died of colon cancer at his home in College Park on March 27.

Mr. Conger was born in East Orange, New Jersey. He completed his undergraduate education at Muskingum College in Ohio, and received the master of divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary. He came to Prince George's County in 1957 as a campus pastor at the University of Maryland. From there, he was called to be minister at Berwyn Presbyterian Church in 1961, where he served as pastor until his retirement in June, 1996. He was installed as pastor emeritus of that church on March 1, 1998. He also served as interim pastor at Northwood Presbyterian Church during 1997. He served in many leadership capacities with the National Capital Area Presbytery. During his tenure at Berwyn Presbyterian Church, seven members followed his example and entered the Christian ministry.

During the 1960s, he helped found the United Campus Ministries (UCM). Out of the UCM movement came a coffeehouse to help troubled youth; counseling centers (now the Pastoral Care and Consultation Centers of Washington); and Help-by-Phone, a multi-centered food bank throughout the county. He was still active with campus ministries and the Black Ministries Program of the University of Maryland, retaining his lifelong interest in higher education up to the time of his death.

Human equality was a passion for Mr. Conger, as exemplified by his active participation on the Lakeland Committee in the '60s and '70s and his involvement and support with the "Freedom Train" and "Resurrection City" of the '60s. Throughout his life, he worked privately and with others to help the homeless in the county. As such, he was one of the founders of Safe Haven, a program for the homeless that provides shelter, food and support at several local churches during the winter. He worked with the physically and mentally handicapped through his work with United Cerebral Palsy and the former Great Oaks Center.

His community services also included serving as a board member for the Prince George's Hospice, the Prince George's Choral Society and Camp Glenkirk, a Presbyterian program facility. He lent his services to county volunteer fire departments and the Greenbelt Barracks of the Maryland State Police as their chaplain, performing counseling and consoling them and their families. He sang with the Chorale Society and was active with MAD (Music and Drama) productions at Goddard Space Flight Center.

Mr. Conger was a "late-in-life" runner, taking up the activity in his fifties. As such, he participated in several Marine Corps Marathons, and received several awards in the Senior Olympics. He continued running even during his illness.

In January, 1991, Mr. Conger was honored by the Washingtonian Magazine as one of their "Washingtonians of the Year," cited for his outstanding community service and leadership in a rapidly changing county.

Perhaps his legacy can best be exemplified by his entourage of "friends," a menagerie of puppets and his ever-present guitar, through which his healing and refreshing humor and songs inspired many. "Sid" and his puppets visited countless schools; nursing homes and hospitals; community programs; day camps, and even the Washingtonian award ceremony. His lifelong theme of loving one another, no matter what the circumstances, created strong memories for any who were privileged to share with him. He led a puppet workshop as recently as February, 1998.

Sidney Conger was a man for all faiths, for all seasons, for all people. He gave unselfishly of himself to the citizens of this community, and to those far beyond, for over forty years. But, most importantly, he lived a life of active faith and challenged and inspired others to do likewise.

Mr. Conger is survived by his wife of 45 years, Jeannette Dotson Conger, of College Park, and his children, Lynnette McGrath, Crofton; and Stephen, also from College Park; a brother, William Thatcher, AZ; a sister, Dee

Ann P. Roland

Longtime Greenbelt resident Ann ("Pat" or "Patsy") Roland of Plateau Place, age 71, died February 26 following heart surgery.

Mrs. Roland was born in Erie, PA, and moved to the Washington area as a young woman. She and her husband Richard ("Reds") Roland moved to Greenbelt in 1959 and raised their children here. Their youngest child, Joe, died of cancer in 1974 at the age of 11. Mr. Roland died in 1985.

Mrs. Roland is survived by sons Dickie of Oviedo, FL, and Charlie of Edgewater, daughters Kathy Roland of Greenbelt and Susie

Roush, Westminster; stepmother, Margaret Conger, also of Westminster; and two grandsons, Ryan and Colin McGrath, Crofton.

A memorial service to celebrate his life will be held at Berwyn Presbyterian Church on Sunday, April 5, at 4 p.m. Memorial contributions in his name can be made to the Youth Endowment Fund at Berwyn Presbyterian Church.

Capretti of Lanham, and her beloved grandchildren Justin, Matt, Mandi, Sarah and Rachael. She is also survived by a brother, Jerry Conley of Altoona, PA, and a sister, Betty Money of Green Ridge House. Another sister who formerly lived at Green Ridge House, Alice Cave, died in January.

A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Hugh's Church on March 2. Interment was in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Evelyn Potter, 91, formerly of Green Ridge House, died in February at Golden Oaks Nursing Home in Laurel.

Mrs. Potter, a native of Maryland, lived here most of her life. For a while she resided in Florida, and then returned to Maryland, where she became one of the original residents of Green Ridge House.

A member of the Greenbelt Golden Age Club, she also belonged to the Ladies Auxiliary of Greenbelt American Legion, Post 136.

She was talented in art, excelling in oil painting and ceramics, and had a special flair for interior decorating. She especially loved nature and animals.

Her husband, Owen O. Potter, died in 1957 and her son, Richard Potter, who served in the U.S. Marines, died in 1993.

She is survived by two sisters, Bess Ellett of Virginia and Dorothy Hyghe of Florida; a daughter-in-law, Ann Farwell of Walkersville, Maryland and five grandchildren. One grandson, Richard Potter, has sung in the Washington Opera, which made his grandmother very proud.

Thomas L. Skillman

Former Greenbelter Thomas Lee Skillman, 79, of Sequim, Washington, died on Friday, March 20 in Sequim.

Mr. Skillman was born in 1919 in St. Louis. He married Winifred Nelva (Cox) on August 5, 1944 in Melbourne, Australia.

Mr. Skillman was an engineer for the U.S. Army. Before and after World War II he worked for General Geophysical Co., Houston, as party chief of a seismic crew prospecting for oil in Ohio, Louisiana, Texas, Wyoming and Mississippi. From 1948 to November 1958 he worked for the Coast Guard and Geodetic Survey at magnetic and seismological observatories in Hawaii, Maryland, Alaska and Virginia, where he was in charge of the laboratory developing instruments to measure the earth's magnetic field.

In Greenbelt he lived on Northway. He worked at the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center from 1958 to 1973. He then retired to Sequim.

He was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars and St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Sequim, where funeral services were held.

BUDGET

budget. The balance in this account is now equivalent to nearly 20% of estimated city expenditures. This is well above the 10% guideline that McLaughlin says is normally recommended. He proposes a gradual draw down of this balance. The transfer proposed for this year is projected to reduce the fund balance to 15.5% of city expenditures in FY99.

McLaughlin stressed that, normally, such transfers should only be used for one-time expenditures, such as capital projects, and indeed, more than half of this transfer ($250,000) is proposed for capital projects ($200,000) and the replacement fund ($50,000), which is used to buy equipment. The reason for limiting transfers to one-time uses is to avoid creating a commitment for similar expenditures in the future. If transferred funds are used for ongoing expenses, such as salaries, maintenance, and the like, similar (and frequently increasing) revenues must be found in future years to continue these expenditures.

The one ongoing expense McLaughlin proposes to cover using the transfer is debt service. He proposes transferring $200,000 to the debt service fund. However, he explained that this use seems reasonable to him in that the city has enough to make similar contributions from the fund balance in future years, if needed, and the city's debt service will be paid off in eight years.

Expenditures

Total city employment, as measured in "full-time equivalents I(FTE)," will remain constant under McLaughlin's proposed budget, although the distribution will change. A second part-time crisis intervention counselor will be hired for Greenbelt CARES. An additional part-time office assistant will be allocated to the Department of Planning and Community Development. And, part-time staff equivalent to .9 FTE will be added to the recreation department. These increases will be offset by a reduction in funds allocated for temporary help in the Department of Public Works.

McLaughlin also proposes a 2% cost of living increase for city employees and a 2% performance bonus for those meeting certain standards. He is also proposing to eliminate the city's within grade increase plan, however, he urged council to consider this carefully. The new approach would result in higher salaries for some longtime employees, but without a modification, would lead to smaller raises for employees who are relatively new, or relatively recently promoted. McLaughlin has hired a Human Resources consultant to recommend how best to modify the proposal.

Public Safety

The budget for public safety, accounting for over one third (36.8%) of the city's expenditures, would increase by 4.1% under McLaughlin's proposed budget. The number of officers and support staff would remain constant. One source of the budget increase is the end or winding down of grants that had partially paid the salary costs for several officers added in recent years. Eight new police cars are budgeted. The budget notes state that the vehicles are replaced upon reaching seven years or 100,000 miles.

The department has requested, but McLaughlin has not funded, two additional officers, one K-9 and one juvenile detective. The first year cost for these officers is listed at $130,800. This is equivalent to nearly 2.5 cents on the city's property tax.

Recreation and Parks

This budget covers the Recreation Department plus the parks portion of the Public Works Department, and accounts for nearly one-quarter (22.8%) of the city's expenditures. Total expenditures for this account are proposed to increase by 1.6% over the current fiscal year. A 2% increase is proposed for pool fees for residents and a 4% increase for nonresident passes. Public Works

The city's third largest department is slated for a 4.4% decrease in expenditures, bringing its budget to $1.8 million. All major categories of public works spending are reduced from the approved budget for the current year, but the proposed expenditure levels exceed projected FY98 expenditures for all categories, except the city cemetery. Two vacant permanent positions will be eliminated and two temporary positions will be made permanent. Refuse/recycling fees will be reduced from $172.80 per year to $168.80. During the current fiscal year, when refuse fees were increased slightly and service reduced to once per week, refuse collection revenues exceeded expenditures by $40,900, more than twice the $17,300 surplus projected in the adopted budget.

The Arts Beat

by Konrad Herling

April will be a month to remember for those who love good music and moving theater. The concert is a fund-raiser to be held Saturday, April 11, 8 p.m. at the Community Center and the play is "Fences" by August Wilson, directed by Norman Grant.

The concert features Greenbelters Muriel Balzer, pianist and Elizabeth Barber, vocalist, along with Albert Hunt, clarinetist, in a benefit concert. The program includes songs of the Spanish Renaissance, a Brahms sonata for piano and clarinet and several pieces of American folk music by Copland, Coleridge-Taylor and Still. The Arts Center hopes to raise funds from this concert to repair damage resulting from a flood caused by a WSSC backup in early December, 1997. Among other items destroyed was the facility's carpeting.

Many Greenbelters know Balzer as the pianist for the Greenbelt Combined Choir. Those who have heard her play will recognize the passion and power with which she plays. Her technique and interpretation of respective composers remind me of my father, Albert Herling. Balzer has a masters degree from the Peabody Institute and taught at the Peabody Preparatory Institute of Music. She has performed at the Barns of Wolftrap and as a soloist with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Barber, who holds a doctorate from the University of Maryland where she studied voice with George Shirley and Linda Mabb, moved to Greenbelt a year and a half ago and currently is soloist at the Christian Science Church in Mount Vernon, Virginia. Hunt, who received a doctorate in clarinet from the Julliard School of Music and taught at the University of West Florida, Oberlin and Mercyhurst College, currently teaches music in the Prince George's County schools.

Besides serving as a fund-raiser, the Arts Center intends this concert to serve as a clear signal to Greenbelters and all of its patrons of its commitment to excellence. "Most people know the Arts Center for its plays," said GAC Music Committee member Rick Ransom. "This concert will put Greenbelt on the map for its music programs as well."

The GAC 1997-98 play series resumes with "Fences" on Friday, April 11 and runs four weekends through May 9. Curtain times are at 8 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays and 2 p.m. on Sundays, April 26 and May 3. Norman Grant directs this powerful drama about a former star of the Negro Leagues who becomes an embittered garbageman.

Grant became interested in theater in Ann Arbor, Michigan, first performing as "Snug the Joiner" in "A Midsummer's Night Dream" and Zeke in "The Mighty Gents." He performed with GAC as "Touchstone" in "As You Like It," and Jack Chalee in "The Caine Mutiny." A graduate from UDC with a BA in theater, he hopes to finish his pursuit of a masters degree in theater in the near future.

that a comprehensive traffic management plan for Goddard be developed.

Sexual Harassment Policy

Council approved, without discussion as part of the consent agenda, a sexual harassment policy for city employees and supervisors. The policy statement includes a specification of the types of activities prohibited under the law and notification that violation of the policy will result in disciplinary action, including firing. Harassment involving nonemployees, such as vendors and outside contractors, is also prohibited under the policy. The steps employees should take if they believe they are being harassed, and the steps supervisors should take upon receiving a complaint are also detailed. Copies of the policy will be distributed to all employees, who will be required to acknowledge, in writing, receipt of the document.

Other Actions

Mayor Judith Davis administered the oath of office to new Greenbelt Police Officer Christine Godzich. Her hiring frees another officer to serve as the second School Resource Officer approved last spring.

Council viewed a video put together by Public Information and Communications Coordinator Beverly Palau on the historical significance of the city's community center and the need for funds to replace the windows. Most of the windows do not close properly, leading to some structural damage due to water leakage. The video was prepared as part of Greenbelt's presentation in requesting state bond funds for window replacement.

Ora Glen Drive from the two courts. Councilmember Edward Putens asked that McLaughlin also look into eliminating parking from in front of the Metrobus stop on the south side of Ora Glen Drive so that buses can pull over, rather than block traffic.

Doug Love showed council two paint colors that can cover up paint blazes improperly placed upon trees and rocks in the woodlands between Ridge Road and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. He also relayed complaints he had received about the orange and yellow paint blotches placed upon trees in Buddy Attick Park, apparently to prevent beaver damage. Councilmember Thomas White questioned whether city crews had painted, rather than flagged, trees. McLaughlin said he would look into the situation and get back to council.

Council approved a request from the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad to change the priorities of city-funded firehouse renovation projects. The department has completed its renovation of the control room and is reviewing its options regarding bunk room renovations, which was to have been the next project. Instead, council approved spending $10,982 to paint the apparatus room and $1,950 to replace carpeting in the office and hallway areas.

City Council, WMATA Officials Clash Over Development Proposal

by Virginia Beauchamp

When members of the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) met on March 11 in a worksession with the Greenbelt City Council, K-P, ("Dutch") Heinemeyer, Director of the Office of Property Development and Management, represented WMATA concerning issues involving development at the Greenbelt Metro site. Almost at once he and council were in dispute about the issue of whether or not public input had been allowed in the planning process.

"We got everyone we knew about involved in making decisions," Heinemeyer said, referring to a period during 1995 when WMATA was trying to expedite development at several Metro sites. Local jurisdictions were invited, he said, "but at the county (executive) level." At this time, the Greenbelt site "made it through the cut," he said. That is, advertisements were put out inviting development proposals.

Only one proposal was submitted, however, which was considered not viable. Both the county and the state, as well as WMATA, are "anxious to move forward with development of the site," he said. The desire is to add ridership for the Metro system.

"So far," he commented, "there has been no feedback from the city."

Council Response

"We're worried about the process itself," said Mayor Judith Davis. "We thought we were only there as observers."

Mayor pro tem Thomas White agreed: "We didn't know we had the opportunity to make comments." He was referring to news that a proposal has been offered by the owners of the A. H. Smith property, which apparently involves part of their land, as well as some of the adjacent land belonging to Metro, which lies within the city limits.

"A preliminary evaluation of the proposal" is ongoing, Heinemeyer responded. "It's not yet a done deal." Financial arrangements in particular must be studied. Another major aspect is how much additional ridership for Metro would be generated. He predicted that another two to three weeks (from the time of the March 11 worksession) would occur before the proposal could be made public.

Economic Disaster

Currently, Heinemeyer said, "the Greenbelt site is "an economic disaster." He referred to the 3500 parking spaces available, of which only a portion are presently in use. The current interest of the developer could "probably not be sustained," he warned, "if we make it difficult" for him. "We need to make this work," he urged. He was concerned that the planning process itself will take an estimated two or more years.

Process Important

"If you short-circuit the process," White warned, "you risk failure. If the stake-holders are not included you're buying trouble."

"The developer must go through the regular process," Heinemeyer said. If they choose to try the zoning text amendment route, "they will have to deal with the effects of their decision." (The text amendment process would involve the effort to revise the county code to allow general uses for property currently zoned either I-1 or I-2, or industrial, as is the Smith property.)

"The text amendment process will kill the proposal," said Councilmember Edward Putens. "Property owners on all sides will be up in arms."

Nevertheless, it is a planning tool, Heinemeyer said. "It's an available process within the laws of the county."

"But it's not a planning tool," White countered. "It's a circumvention of planning." He went on to cite the history of Greenbelt's involvement with earlier developers — for Capital Office Park, the Golden Triangle, and the Maryland Trade Center — by means of which they greatly enhanced the possibilities of the tracts they had purchased. "You have to save developers from themselves," White added. "The challenges of this site need to be developed in a comprehensive way," he concluded.

"Nevertheless, we don't want to lose this opportunity," Heinemeyer said.

"I'm sure we can work together," Mayor Davis concluded.

Addendum to Meeting

Nettled by Heinemeyer's insistence that the city had had opportunities to participate in public meetings concerning the Metro site, council asked the city staff to prepare a timeline concerning the development process. A more than one full page response was thus appended to the agenda comments for the next regular council meeting on March 23.

Some of the difference in opinion between the city and the agency can perhaps be described as semantic. In 1996 WMATA was a member of a two-day international symposium on transit oriented development. This symposium had been "characterized," the staff report says, as part of their "public planning process."

On the other hand, the Smith proposal has been drafted by the developer and received by WMATA "in secrecy," the memo states.

"At no point in the past 12 years has WMATA advised the public or government of their planning, or their development plans for the Greenbelt site. WMATA's planning process is internalized," the memo states, "and is not subject to public scrutiny or participation."

hen it's your breast, there's no such thing as a "tiny lump"

Once the doctor says there's something suspicious on your mammogram, that little speck takes over your whole life.

At Doctors Community Hospital, we want you to find out just what that lump means—and we've found a faster, less painful way to help.

As part of our commitment to the women of Prince George's County, we are now equipped to offer a quick, less expensive, less intrusive kind of biopsy. With our new Stereotactic Breast Biopsy System, the procedure takes only minutes, and you can have your results within 48 to 72 hours. This exquisitely accurate machine takes tissue samples with a small needle, not a knife. You walk away with the kind of bandage you'd use on a child's skinned knee.

If you need a breast biopsy, we think you'd feel better if you could do it with no scalpel; no stitches; no scar; no painful disfiguring surgery; and no general anesthetic.

Please call the Greenbelt Breast Center at Doctors Community Hospital for more information at 301/552-8513.
