Greenbelt's Biggest Weekend Offers Rich Mix for Festival

by Sandy Smith

The city's long-awaited fourday block party is almost here. The 44th Annual Greenbelt Labor Day Festival starts Friday, September 4 and goes through Monday, September 7, with entertainment by the area's top bands and performers, a carnival, rides and games for all ages, photo and art exhibitions, pet and talent shows, a craft fair, sports for players and spectators, the Miss Greenbelt Pageant and the area's largest Labor Day Parade. The Festival marks the culmination of a year of planning by an all-volunteer committee and the participation and involvement of hundreds of citizens, businesses and organizations throughout the city and surrounding communities.

Festival Kicks Off Friday

The Festival officially kicks off Friday evening with the Greenbelt Concert Band. This traditional concert includes a wide variety of musical styles as well as solos of featured musicians and instruments. Notlim the Clown - another Festival tradition - roams the carnival area entertaining children with his antics. His distinctive dress adds to the unique nature of his act.

Attention then turns to the Festival stage, where the Greenbelt Police Department Honor Guard presents the colors, Jean Cook sings the National Anthem and the area's dignitaries are introduced to the audience. The audience awaits the announcement of this year's Outstanding Citizen, selected by a committee of peers who judge the nominees' activities and contributions to the community. Each year the selection is a wellguarded surprise but always brings a response of "well-deserved" and "it's about time."

Next, younger community leaders take the stage as participants in the Miss Greenbelt Pageant are introduced. Ranging in age from 7 to 19, they exemplify some of the best qualities of our young people in terms of community involvement, academic achievement, and interests and abilities in sports and the arts.

Carnival Features

Friday evening the carnival opens for its four-day run of rides, games, and booths featuring a variety of food - from meals to snacks - and activities. The rides are designed for all ages from toddlers to teens (and beyond). There's a carousel with a gentle ride and many whirling and towering rides to thrill and excite. Special matinee prices for a bracelet which allows a wearer to ride all rides for one price from 1 to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday will be sold again this year. Discount coupons for the "rides" bracelet are available throughout Greenbelt, including city offices, the recreation and youth centers and businesses in old Greenbelt and Greenbelt East. (See schedule for list of 18 locations for discount coupons.)

The carnival booths, sponsored by community organizations, are for many their main fund-raiser of the year. The booths provide opportunities to talk with the citizens of Greenbelt and visitors, to introduce their activities and programs, and to be a part of the year's major recreational event. A complete listing of booths and their menu selections and activities are listed in the schedule in the center pages of this issue of the News Review.

There will be the traditional Bingo, a hallmark of the Labor Day Festival, as well as the Used Book Sale, sponsored by the Greenbelt Elementary School PTA. Other popular booths return --- the Goldfish Toss and Zoo Dip, which feature live and notso-live animals. You can have your face painted, sport a temporary tattoo, and be immortalized in a caricature. Then there's lots of things to toss - footballs, See FESTIVAL, page 16

Monday Is Opening Day For County Public Schools

by Barbara Likowski

Prince George's County public schools will open Monday, August 31 for the 1998-1999 school year. About 130,465 students are expected this year, up three or four thousand from 126,000 plus students who attended last year.

A new reading series will be introduced this year. Although focusing on phonetics, the program will include a wholistic approach to reading. Science and math enhancement and staff development will also be stressed.

Approximately 900 to 1000 new teachers will be added, more than half of whom will be certified. The school system has included a very aggressive program to insure that those not certified become certified in a short time.

One new elementary school will be open in the county. This is just one of several schools which will open in the next few years according to present plans.

Citizens Debate, Council Decides No Mountain Bikes in Woods

by Betsy Likowski

Mountain bikes are permanently banned from Greenbelt's largest park. The Greenbelt City Council rendered this decision at its regular meeting on August 17 after 1 in the morning following four hours of discussion. Many other issues affecting the woodlands of Parcels 1 and 2 and the 72 acre surplus school board

Court mentioned one - people do was on the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. ride their bikes parallel to the path in the lake park.

On the ban itself, Turnbull said people perceive bikes in the wooded park as being at odds with their own desired experience in the woods, such as solitude. To protect that he said the moratorium had to be continued. Mayor Judith Davis stated she

(GHI) Woodland Committee, foresters told it the nearby GHIowned woods were not healthy.

Background

Parcels 1, 2 and the 72 acre surplus school board property are the city-owned woodlands located between Ridge Road and the Baltimore - Washington Parkway (see map). Parcels 1 and 2 were privately owned for years. A proposal for development in late 1987 provoked quick citizen protest. The city acquired that property plus the school board property during the following two years. Three years ago council imposed a temporary moratorium on the use of mountain bikes in this park. Mountain bikes look similar to, but are more rugged than, regular bikes. They have a heavier frame and knobby tires two to three times thicker. Like regular bikes they are powered by the rider pedaling them.

There are still openings in some of the magnet programs. Letters have been sent to parents of children on the waiting list for specific programs advising them of openings in other magnet programs. Also, the school system has again asked the court for permission to offer these openings to African-American children. Permission was given for this last year, but so far permission has not been granted this property were also touched upon, making this meeting a rare instance of discussion of issues affecting Greenbelt's largest park.

The unanimous council decision to permanently extend the existing moratorium on mountain bikes in the woods included instructions to the city staff to start a serious search for another area in Greenbelt for a mountain bike trail. Councilmember Edward Putens said that he had been convinced that night of the need for a bike trail and wanted a serious search for a likely spot. Councilmember Alan Turnbull said he wanted a public and high profile search. Several times throughout the night Councilmember Thomas White asked bike riders what they needed in a trail, what they liked about riding in Parcel 1, and what were alternative spots. Only Jeff Williams of Orange Road told council that when he would have liked a temporary ban for a year or two.

Davis expressed worries about the health of the woods and the trails. After the moratorium was passed, Davis made a motion to do a study or consider getting a consultant to look at the woodlands. And she pleaded with citizens not to make new trails. After discussion she dropped that motion in favor of another to consider that item at the next council meeting. That was agreed to by all

But Councilmember Rodney Roberts said, "The woods are in very healthy condition, they're not in an area where they are being bombarded by people and pollution." Davis said she wanted to know if the city was doing the right thing by just letting things stay as they are. Earlier in the evening Ray Stevens of Ridge

Arts Center's One Act Plays Please the Crowd

By Altoria Bell Ross

A cast of versatile actors played to a full house in "Let's Play Spoons," an evening of oneact plays, at the Greenbelt Arts Center on August 22.

Gretchen Jacobs wrote the first of these three and a half original acts, "Hotel Gardenia." This story was set in a quaint hotel with a lobby filled with lively characters, but the act revolved around one in particular, Mrs. Crumwich. Grey Valenti played the busybody Mrs. Crumwich with spice. She delivered snappy one-liners to the other guests and successfully avoided the truth about herself until the very end of the act. While Mrs. Crumwich was being evasive, guests (Aunt Octavia, portrayed melodramatically by Sheilah Crossley-Cox, and the smitten Theodore Sturgeon, played with finesse by Jonathan Glickman) became acquainted. Literally and figuratively, they got carried away with one another and danced a beautiful waltz into the night.

The next comedy, "The Visitor," written by Bill Kelleher, took place in Chateau St. Helena, a hotel in a fictitious European city. This time, Valenti played the maid and Glickman, the visitor. They wonderfully executed a carefully choreographed sword scene, substituted with a duster. This act was reminiscent of the defunct late-night television show, August 29 at 8 p.m. "Soap." It was loaded with suggestive actions, both hetero and Pre-school Program homosexual overtones, and utter-Registration at ERHS ances of four-letter words. Randolph, played by Riordon, presented a new husband, the grand prize, to housewife Miranda played dutifully (in the beginning, anyway) by Kim Weaver. Then, Miranda's friend, Daphne, cunningly portrayed by Kate Fairhurst, betrayed her by taking Miranda's old husband for herself.

The night's performance culminated with Riordan and Michael Cooney's quacky "Doctor Doctor". The act opened with a patient getting some "deadly" news from his doctor and requesting another opinion. This act became more humorous as the doctors kept piling unto the stage and even danced. To what else? "Doctor, Doctor'

The talented cast did an excellent job of portraying various characters, some even with foreign accents in several acts, but the subject matter definitely was not for general viewing, even though children sat in the audience. The acts, "The Visitor" and the "Grand Prize", brushed shoulders with R-ratings. Parents may want to exercise discretion in bringing their children to this play. For those adults who like their humor entwined with sexual overtones, profanity, and betrayal, they will like this performance. The crowd on Saturday night sure did. The shows continue on Friday, August 28 and Saturday,

The Best Yet

For the third consecutive year I have attended the Greenbelt Arts Center's annual Evening of One-Act Plays, and while each year was good, this year's production is easily the best yet. The four short comedies are terrific and well worth the (new) ticket price. Some of the best regular players are on hand, but so are a few stellar newcomers. Only one weekend remains to catch this show. (A little advice: Choose a comfortable chair!).

WSSC to Hold Public Hearing

The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC) invites the public to a hearing on the proposed Capital Improvements Program (CIP) for fiscal years 2000 through 2005. The CIP proposes planning, design, and construction expenditures for major water and sewer facilities.

Projects contained in the CIP include water mains at least 16 inches in diamenter, sewers at least 15 inches in diameter, pumping stations, finished water storage facilities (water tanks), and other major projects. The program is proposed in direct support of approved land use plans and policies for orderly growth and development associated with the ten year water and sewerage plans:

The first of the public hearings will be held on Wednesday, September 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the first floor hearing room of the County Administration Building, 14701 Governor Oden Bowie Drive, Upper Marlboro. The other hearing will be held in Rockville the following evening.

Museum Is Collecting Ashtrays, Pipes, etc.

by Katie Scott-Childress Have you quit smoking? Now may be the time to donate your 1930s and 1940s ashtrays and smoking-related paraphernalia to the Greenbelt Museum. Although the Museum does not condone the habit, smoking was an everpresent part of daily life in 1930s and 1940s Greenbelt. The museum is seeking ashtrays, pipes, lighters, matches, or other artifacts related to smoking. We would like to display such objects in the house museum since most households had ashtrays, even if the occupants did not smoke. Smoking indoors was much more common in those days so people had to be prepared for visitors who might want to light up.

Dog Gone, We Goofed

If you think Thelma LuLu looked sad in last week's News Review, you should have seen her after she saw the paper and discovered that another canine comrade had been named under her picture. And Andrew Wilding, the dog named, was very upset, too. He would never be caught wearing a skirt.

So, to appease these sensitive volunteer pets who help to make patients happy at the Greenbelt Nursing Center and other spots and to correct an egregious error, we reprint their pictures with correct (we hope) captions.

International Hugo Award Given to Joe Mayhew

Joe Mayhew of Research Road won a Hugo for his cartoons. The Science Fiction Achievement Award, commonly called the "Hugo" is given out at the World Science Fiction Convention. This year's awards, covering calendar year 1997, were presented in Baltimore.

Last year's convention was in San Antonio; next year it will be held in Melbourne, Australia.

Joe won in the "Fan Artist" category. This was Joe's fourth nomination for the award (1990, 1996, 1997, and 1998). His cartoons have appeared in Analog, Asimov's, Pirate Writings, The New York Review of Science Fiction, and in many "fanzines" fiction has appeared in Tomorrow, Aberrations, and Aboriginal Science Fiction magazines. From time to time he reviews for The Washington Post Book World, and is a regular columnist for Absolute Magnitude.

He has been appearing on Fast Forward: Contemporary Science Fiction (a cable-TV show) since 1990. Fast Forward is produced at Arlington's Channel 33 and shown by all local metropolitan Washington cable venues (except Prince George's County!) as well as in Denver, Minneapolis, New York City and elsewhere.

Joe retired from the Library of Congress (LOC) in 1992, where he was LOC's first Recommending Officer for Science Fiction (in charge of developing the library's collection of science fiction-related materials).

Joe has lots of ties to Greenbelt. His aunt, Sarah Thornton, lived with her family in a GHI home from the early 1940's and another aunt, Mary, lived in Old Greenbelt near Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church where her husband, the Rev. Clifton D. Cunningham, was pastor. He lived for a while with his brother Bill (longtime librarian at Greenbelt Elementary School, and well-known storyteller). In 1987, when Bill married his Greenbelt neighbor Maren Stewart, Joe bought her house. After Bill won the Maryland Lottery, he and Maren moved to Beltsville.

In 1992 Joe was inducted as a Fellow of the New England Sci-Joe is also a writer. His short ence Fiction Association, an honor he shares with the late Dr. Isaac Asimov.

Every now and then you'll find Joe down at Greenbelt Lake carving one of his elaborate walking sticks.

Katherine Anne Porter (Ship of Fools) asked Joe to decorate her casket "like a pinata." He suggested painting it bright yellow before covering it with big sloppy Mexican flowers. Porter said, "No, I've never looked good in yellow." The casket is on permanent display at Maryland University, on the third floor of the McKeldin Library. It is mostly red in color.

When we heard J.D. Power and Associates ranked us number one in sales satisfaction, we were a little surprised. After all, there are a lot of other cars out there. But then we found out that sales satisfaction includes things like having sales consultants who are sincere and easy to work with, who don't mind doing things like taking the time to go through the owner's manual with you. And once we knew that, it all made sense. Because, along with making a great car, those are the very things that are important to us. And if they want to give us an award for it, okay, great, whatever. SATURN.

Lunch Prices

Lunch and breakfast prices will remain the same as last year. For elementary school childrens lunch will be $1.75; reduced price lunches will be $.40. Lunch for middle and high schoolers will be $1.85; reduced lunches $.40. Adult lunches will be $2.50, excluding a beverage. Breakfast in elementary schools will be $1.10; reduced price breakfasts, $.30. Middle and high school breakfast will be $1.25. Adult breakfasts will be $1.50. Milk prices will stay the same - $.40.

Children will be bringing home new information about reduced cost lunches on the first day of school. Parents who think they qualify for these should contact their child's school.

Safety

Safety measures were enhanced last year both at the schools and on the buses. Present safety measures are being reviewed with some minor procedural changes being considered as a result of the recent school audit.

Registration

State law requires school attendance for every child between the ages of five and 16. All children in the state of Maryland will be required to attend kindergarten or an alternative programsetting. A law was passed five years ago that lowered the age of compulsory school attendance to five years of age; it affects all children who are five by December 31, 1998. It requires that children attend kindergarten before entering first grade.

The law permits some exemptions. Five-year-olds may be enrolled in a child care center or Head Start program or home schooling. When appropriate, a child may be granted a one-year level of maturity waiver.

Children cannot be enrolled in first grade unless they have completed a kindergarten or one of the alternative programs.

(deed, rental contract), record of immunization and the child's last report card if entering first grade or above.

Extra-Curricular Activities

Students will still need to have a 2.0 or better grade average in order to participate in sports or activities; averages will be computed each quarter.

Expulsion Policy

Strict standards will continue to be upheld for drug, alcohol and weapons (including knives) abuse. Students need to be aware that none of these may be brought to school at any time and that expulsion will result should this rule be broken. According to the Code of Student Conduct, students will be expelled for the first offense involving the use of or possession of weapons.

For incidents involving drugs or alcohol, the students will be expelled for the first offense involving distribution and the second offense involving possession. Most of these students are not eligible for readmission to the Prince George's County school system. Students who are readmitted must remain expelled for at least the remainder of the semester in which the incident occurred and the following full semester. They must also present documentation of satisfactory participation in the alcohol/drug treatment program. Should a child bring a loaded weapon to school, the parent will be prosecuted under state law.

Policy on Medication

The Department of Health Services within the Prince George's County Public Schools, acting on a recommendation from the state of Maryland, changed school policy five years ago regarding the dispensing of prescription and non-prescription medicine to students.

No medicines will be given to students without a physician's medication authorization form PS-51 or PS51-EPIPEN. Forms are available at all schools.

Parents are asked to inform the school principal, health services staff and the classroom teacher of any known allergy or serious health problem their child(ren) may have. Every effort will be made to protect all students from injury and to provide a healthful environment.

Students will be transported by ambulance to the nearest medical facility should he/she require any emergency treatment that cannot be provided at the school site. Parents will be notified as soon as possible.

Make the Bus Ride to School Safe

About 25 million students ride school buses daily. Although this is one of the safest ways to travel to and from school, injuries do occur. Many injuries happen when children are boarding or exiting the bus. A blind spot extends 10 feet around the bus, obstructing the driver's view. Children are not aware of this danger zone and might mistakenly believe that if they can see the bus, the bus driver can see them. The National SAFE KIDS Campaign offers these important tips for school bus safety: Waiting for the Bus

A child's behavior at the bus stop is a very important aspect of school bus safety. Children should follow these safety tips while waiting for the bus:

· Arrive at the stop at least five minutes before the bus is scheduled to arrive.

· Stay out of the street and avoid horseplay.

· Always wait for parents on the same side of the street as the school bus loading/unloading zone.

On the Bus

While on the bus, children should observe the following safety rules:

· Remain seated at all times

Boarding and Leaving the

When boarding or leaving the bus, the children should always:

· Wait until the bus comes to a complete stop before exiting.

· Walk in a single file line. · Use the handrail to avoid falls.

· Be aware of the driver's blind spot (10 feet in front of the bus) when walking away from the bus. Do not bend over to pick up dropped items. Instead, children should notify the driver and ask for help.

Committee to Save the Green Belt, also resubmitted a petition bearing 1700 signatures. He said that some signatures were years old and some days old. This petition was originally written in response to the 1987 development plans. It asked for "creating a City ordinance making the land a forest and wildlife preserve" managed by a state-sponsored trust and made no mention of mountain bikes.

"The issue of trail maintenance is absolutely irrelevant to the discussion tonight," said Downs. Too many for the size of the area is the problem. He said he seriously doubted the Maryland Land Trust would let the bikes in, but that city council must hear every special interest group and that compromises it as a steward of the woods.

A bit later Downs waxed poetic and described how some day he envisioned going into the woods and telling her (the woods) that there would be "no more open season for the next whim or idea of how to manage her."

Imploring council to lift the moratorium against mountain bikes was a petition signed by 56 people saying "our woodlands can be preserved without completely banning mountain biking." Gail Drake of Lakeside Drive presented the petition. She said 95% of the people she talked to wanted Parcel 1 opened up to the public and used, not abused. She related that when she first would present the petition, people would hesitate and say, "Aren't you a green?" They relaxed when she said yes, she is a green, and she thought it is okay to ride mountain bikes in the woods.

She told council that she perceived the message being sent to the public is that their interests have no value and so asked council to have public hearings about Parcel 1.

A petition signed by 81 people stated that if the ban was lifted each of them committed themselves to six hours a year of trail maintenance and agreed to follow rules of trail courtesy and rules that encouraged trail health. Andy Carruthers of Parkway who presented this petition, said everyone he heard speak that night agreed that the first priority is protecting the resource. The temporary moratorium is a failure in his opinion because the resource is not being adequately protected and because unchecked natural erosion, which is the number one cause of eroded trails, is continuing unchecked.

It was standing room only in the council chambers as more than 70 people attended. Davis set the tone for the evening by asking people to give a polite hearing to all the speakers and to try to limit themselves to five minutes. Everyone did the former and most did the latter. Those for extending the ban gave various reasons, such as bikes would erode the trail, a number of outsiders would come in and their numbers would damage the woods, keep the woods a serene place to take a walk, fear of collision with bikers, and to protect wildlife. Those against the ban argued: that trails could be maintained, interested Greenbelters deserved a place to practice their sport, collisions were very unlikely, there was no other place in Greenbelt capable of being a mountain bike trail, and that they also cared for the woods.

Trail Conditions

The condition of the trails was an issue that was discussed repeatedly. Yoni Siegel of Plateau Place had seven pairs of photographs showing the same spot on a trail before the moratorium was put in place three years ago and recently. The photos showed fewer ruts and a more forested look, since the moratorium was imposed. And as a comparison she had a couple of photos of a nearby mountain bike trail. This trail was wider than the Greenbelt trails and looked like packed dirt.

Carruthers opined that anyone could point a camera at a bad spot in the trail. He said he had worked more than 400 hours on natural surface trail maintenance, construction and design in Maryland and had in fact designed the trail in question. The Schaeffer Farm trail is probably the most popular and used mountain bike trail in the Washington area, he said, and if it only looked that bad it was a testament to good trail design.

Natural erosion from water, gravity and poor trail design is what is seen on the trails in Parcel 1, he said. This is worse than bikes would ever make it. The trails were not built but developed from years of people walking on them, he continued.

Soil Damage

A couple of people spoke of damage to the soil. Sharon Bradley-Papp of Ridge Road thought that bike riders would even ride on wet soil. When weight is put upon it, wet soil compacts and that could stunt or kill nearby trees.

A Plateau Place resident who works in soil science at NASA offered to give council a copy of a soil survey done in the area about 30 years ago. Scientists do a stride-by-stride survey in every county, she explained. The soil in Parcel 1 is mostly composed of Sunnyside Fine Sandy Loam and a type of clay. Both are severely eroded and that is partly because of the steep slopes. When ruts are formed in clay they do not close back up by themselves very easily, she continued. It takes about 500 years to form one inch of soil.

Several other people also spoke of the wear on the trails. Christy Hughes of Parkway informed council she had a mountain bike and has done trail maintenance. These trails need maintenance, and maybe gravel on them, to hold up to bikes, she said.

Several cyclists urged trying trail maintenance and some, including signers of one petition, agreed to volunteer to do trail maintenance. Problems with the trails were readily correctable using standard U.S. Forest Service techniques, said Andrew Farris of Northway. A major cause of trail erosion is their placement, such as in old stream beds and on fall lines. He supported bringing in an expert to evaluate them.

Erosion on the trails is "a red herring," said Turnbull. It is real, but if we want to do something about erosion in the woods then we have to talk about asphalt and the outflow from Ridge Road after a rain storm. (Storm water pipes in that area empty directly into the creeks in Parcel 1.) Turnbull thought the real issues were wildlife habitat and user experience.

Outsiders

Some people expressed concern that if there was no moratorium great numbers of non-Greenbelt residents would use the woods for mountain bike riding, thereby damaging the trails. If even Greenbelt Park can't take the mountain bikes, and it is 1,300 acres, then certainly our little slice of woods can't, said Downs. Our woods would be one of the only areas in the region to allow mountain bikes, said Hughes. The University of Maryland is right down the road and they have a biking club, said Fred Ellinger of Crescent Road.

Several bicycle riders argued that they wanted and needed a trail nearby. For example, Williams explained that because of physical limitations bike riding was good exercise for him, but that it was not convenient to drive an hour to exercise 20 minutes.

Most people do not seem to know that there are a number of places nearby that allow mountain bikes, said Carruthers. These include some of the parks in Prince George's, Montgomery, and Fairfax counties, as well as Patuxent Wildlife Refuge and the Fran Uller area behind Bowie State University.

"So why do you need to ride in Parcel 1?" asked Roberts.

"And why would someone want to walk in Parcel 1?" retorted Carruthers, for recreation close to home.

Cyclists in the Woods

Cyclists pleaded with council not to completely ban mountain bikes from the woods. Several said they could see restricted hours, permits, or user regulations as possibilities.

Barbara Stevens of Ridge Road said she was for the ban and she liked the woods for the serene walks she could take in them. Valerie O'Brien also supported the ban, saying that she liked to get out in the woods and enjoy the beauty of nature.

Davis reported that people have had experiences with rude cyclists and with packs of bikes. We are seeing a user conflict between hikers and bikers, said Turnbull.

Bikers are not all like the daredevils on the Mountain Dew commercials, said Farris. He also pointed out that the city would not be liable if there was a collision between a walker and cyclist. Carruthers said he had never heard of any collision in any of the places he had worked, though everybody had their fifth hand story. He pointed out that five to seven miles per hour is the average speed of mountain bike riders.

Fatality Wednesday On Greenbelt Road

A man died while changing a flat tire on Greenbelt Road Wednesday morning, Aug. 26, about 11:45 a.m. He had stopped his car in the slow travel lane about 150 yards past the intersection with Mandan Road, traveling east, according to a Greenbelt police report. (There is no breakdown lane from Mandan to Cipriano Road.) The man was at the rear of his 1989 Dodge Aries when he was hit by a Honda Civic. The view of the Honda driver was blocked by a large truck that apparently swerved out of the lane at the last moment. After the truck swerved the driver of the Honda saw the disabled Dodge in front of him, but was too close to avoid a collision.

The driver of the Dodge was struck and thrown under his car. Police believe he was killed instantly. Preliminary investigation, according to the press release prepared by Lt Michael Carddock, does not ndicate excessive speed by the Honda driver who was treated at the scene and declined transport to a hospital.

The driver of the Dodge was later identified as Theodore Chaconas, age 78, of Hyattsville.

A 25-year-old nonresident man was cited for littering after an officer observed him urinating in the TGI Friday's parking lot.

Beaver Attack In Film Show

The "world premiere" of "When Beavers Attack !!" occurs over Labor Day weekend at the Gallery at the Greenbelt Community Center. This animated film takes a kid's eye view of one of Greenbelt's recent big issues. It was created by students in GAVA's (Greenbelt Association for the Visual Arts) summer animation class taught by George Bridges to Bliss is a musical group with songs for children and adults. Their melodic songs tell interesting or funny stories. Norman Evans brings contemporary jazz to the stage and finally home-grown talent also takes the stage on Saturday, when the annual Talent Show is held. Organizer Dennis Lewis promises some special acts and quite a variety of talent.

Nighthawks Perform

The Nighthawks, also a popular act from last year's Festival, will entertain on Saturday evening of the Labor Day weekend. The band is frequently billed as the "world's best bar band," and one reviewer says of the group, "This is just good rockin' music played by a band that is celebrating its third decade with no signs of ever lettin' up." The group is approaching its 25th anniversary and still crossing the United States and making annual jaunts to Europe and occasional trips to Japan. Most of the early Nighthawks' work is on CD and they released a new CD, Pain and Paradise. The group is rhythm and blues at its best.

Funding.

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival has always been planned, developed, organized, implemented, executed, evaluated and monitored by an all-volunteer committee. The committee begins meeting soon after one Festival is over to plan the next. The Festival relies on some key services from City departments ---public works, recreation, and police - but receives no city funding.

Many expenses are incurred in running a Festival, from the entertainment on the Festival stage, to trophies for parade winners, to signs and publicity, equipment and services, and even the lowly portable potties are not free. The entire Festival is supported by nominal fees charged those who participate in some key events, a small portion of the profits from carnival booths, a commission on the carnival, and donations and contributions of citizens, businesses and organizations. Those donors and supporters are listed in the Festival schedule and the Souvenir Program.
