Unhappy Parents Voice Concerns To Advisory Panel

by Nelda Young

Several angry Greenbelt parents complained to the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) at their August 2 meeting in the Community Center that their second grade Talented and Gifted children were assigned to Oakcrest Elementary instead of Glenarden Woods. This issue dominated the entire meeting.

The ACE committee heard about the surprise these parents experienced when they were notified of their children's assignment to Oakcrest Elementary School's TAG program.

The parents commented that the Prince George's TAG Association, a private group composed of parents and others, does not consider Oakcrest a TAG school. In addition, they said, Oakcrest is in transition with a new principal coming in this fall.

The parents also cited overcrowding, rundown facilities, and very large classes. The final straw for some parents was the hour-long bus ride from Greenbelt to Oakcrest, which is in Landover.

The parents also complained that Greenbelt's School Board Representative James Henderson had spoken to William Green at the Office of Pupil Accounting and School Boundaries and was told that Glenarden Woods was full. However, they said Oretha Bridgewater, principal at Glenarden Woods, told these same parents that her school is not overcrowded and she would be glad to have their children attend her school.

Faced with a choice between Oakcrest and Greenbelt Elementary, these parents questioned whether their children could get an adequate education at Greenbelt Elementary. They expressed concerns about the lack of motivation in students, low funding, fist fights, and See ACE, page 4

Greenbelt Elementary Has New Programs by Nelda Young

What is being done to keep gifted children in Greenbelt Elementary School? As a follow up to issues addressed at a recent meeting of the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE), the News Review interviewed Kathy Curl, principal of Greenbelt Elementary School. Curl spoke with enthusiasm about a literary grant and two technical grants that her school had received. In addition, another grant will fund wiring the school for internet service.

Many new programs and new teachers are coming on board in the fall, according to Curl.

A Greenbelt parent had said at the ACE meeting that she is very happy that Greenbelt Elementary is enlarging it's inclusion program and that her child might be eligible for the class. The inclusion program is an innovative, integrated program that addresses the needs of all children. It is one setting for all children at different levels, including special education children, with the added support of two to three adults in the classroom. Last year reading scores of children from one of the inclusion classes were higher than the scores of other children at the same grade level.

This year the inclusion program will be enlarged to fourth grade.

School librarian Monica Pittman has been given the responsibility for carrying out a grant that was received by the school.. Under this new plan children in the early primary grades will continue the typical library program, familiarizing themselves with the library, enjoying literature, etc.

Children in the upper grades will be helped to use the library as a resource tool to reach their goals. They will come to the library when they need something and there they can use various resources such as the internet encyclopedias, etc. so that this usage becomes second nature to them

Filing Deadline for Council Candidates Is September 20

On Tuesday November 2, Greenbelt citizens will elect the five members of the City Council who will represent them for the next two years. Greenbelt residents who want to be nominated for City Council, sign a petition for someone to run for council, or plan to vote in the election must be registered to vote in Prince George's County. Since universal voter registration began in Greenbelt in 1991, the city has not maintained a separate voter registration list.

Voter Registration

Registering to vote is the first step to qualify as a voter whether to run for office or to vote for a candidate in the November 2 regular election. Although the county Board of Elections will handle all registrations, registration forms may be picked up during regular office hours at the city offices, 25 Crescent Road (Municipal Building), or at the Greenbelt Library on Crescent Road. Voters may also call the Board of Elections at 301-637-2814 to request a form by mail. All completed forms must be received by the Board of Elections in Upper Marlboro by 4 p.m. October 4.

Qualification

In order to vote in Greenbelt, and to be registered with Prince George's County, one must be a citizen of the United States of America; at least 18 years of age as of November 2, 1999; domiciled within the corporate limits of the city of Greenbelt as of the date of registration; not convicted more than once of an infamous crime and not currently under a sentence imposed pursuant to a conviction of an infamous crime (direct questions to the election office, 201-952-3270); and not under guardianship for mental disability.

Candidacy for Council

Any qualified voter of the city wishing to run for council may do so by obtaining the following forms:

1. Nomination Petition - This form requires the signature of at least 50 qualified voters of the city, and must be signed by the circulator of the petition and notarized. The signatures should give the petitioner's proper name (e.g. Mary Doe or Mrs. John Doe) and address.

2. Acceptance of Nomination -This form notes that the nominee agrees to serve, if elected. It must be filed along with the nomination petition and an affidavit containing a sworn Statement providing the candidate's name, date of birth, Social Security number and resident address.

3. Financial Disclosure Statement - This form lists business entities and real estate interests See DEADLINE, page 4

City Council Discusses Driveway Aprons, Water Use

by Jason Martens

An issue involving problems with driveway aprons in portions of the city was addressed during the August 9 regular Greenbelt City Council meeting.

Charles Kendall, a resident of the Lakewood area, came before council in opposition to notices which he and almost 20 other residents had received for damaged driveway aprons. Kendall argued that the aprons located between the sidewalks and the street were on city property and that the city should repair them. He also stated that fire trucks crossing his driveway had contributed to the apron's poor condition. City Manager Michael McLaughlin responded to Kendall's request. "I have no record that driveway aprons have ever been replaced by the city," he said. "It is normally the responsibility of the residents. The city will replace sidewalks and the area one foot behind the sidewalk to the residence." He added, "The city does have the right to cite someone for problems on city property but not in this case."

Councilmember Edward Putens shared Roberts' view: "I am sorry and embarrassed about this problem and don't feel it should be the homeowner's responsibility." Putens stated that the communities of Greenspring 1 and 2 and Greenbrook Estates are dealing with a similar problem. Council agreed to refer the matter to the city staff and said that it would be further discussed at a future meeting.

Public Land Trust Offers Another Way to Buy Land

by Barbara Young

At a work session August 2, the Greenbelt City Council heard from Debi Osborne, Trust for Public Land's Chesapeake field office director, who had been invited to come and describe how the Trust (TPL) works with local governments wishing to acquire or conserve important open space properties. Osborne distributed materials about the Trust, noting that it works closely with the Chesapeake Bay Foundation. It was instrumental, for example, in preserving nearby Belt Woods, among other properties.

TPL is a national non-profit land conservation organization which, according to its literature, has acted to facilitate completed projects preserving about one million acres of land in 45 states and Canada since its founding in 1972 when it broke off from the time. She described TPL's expertise in a Certificates of Participation program for investors as well as in lease-purchase arrangements.

In response to mayor and council inquiries, Osborne noted that "very few" foundations give substantial conservation money in Maryland, and that nationwide, the state ranks 43rd in such giv-Maryland's successful and ing popular Program Open Space was discussed, but Osborne noted that the state's rapidly increasing prices for urban open space are causing the program to have trouble "keeping up." She also noted that Virginia is unlike Maryland in that "most of their park system has been created by private contributions."

The "bargain sale" means of acquiring property was discussed, as were the financial resources of TPL and how it determines which projects to undertake. Osborne indicated the organization was willing to participate in property restoration as well as acquisition.

Nature Conservancy. The land and easements the organization acquires for permanent stewardship are subsequently conveyed to public agencies or other orga-"We work closely nizations. with a public agency to ensure that the necessary public and sometimes private funds are available to purchase the [open space] property," Osborne said, noting that among public agencies, the State of Maryland is "relatively easy to work for."

The Trust director described how the organization operates in arranging conservation real estate transactions. She said TPL is able to raise money from various sources, negotiate with landowners, create new sources of funding, ensure an appropriate public relations campaign, obtain required appraisals and temporarily acquire property which a public agency may buy from TPL over Asked hypothetically if Greenbelt could buy a property "on time" by relying on the receipt of future Program Open Space funds to round out the money needed, Osborne was optimistic, replying yes and adding that "In general, Program Open Space is pretty flexible in making these arrangements."

What Goes On Monday, August 16, 7:30 p.m., GATE meeting: Community Center. Wednesday, August 18, 7:30 p.m., Advisory Planning Board, Community Center. Pittman will also work with a Talented and Gifted (TAG) video production program called Animation

Greenbelt artist Barbara Simon will direct a crafts program where the students create ceramic pieces and then write a paragraph telling about their creation.

In addition Curl said positive progress is being made to increase the school's Maryland School Performance Assessment Program (MSPAP) scores. Administrative errors which occurred in 1998 have been corrected. Specific steps were taken to prepare the students for the test in 1999 under Kelly Noxon, reading specialist and testing coordinator, and will continue under her successor in the fall.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts further commented, "If this is city property, how can we expect the homeowners to replace it?"

Water Restrictions

The city's response to mandatory water restrictions ordered by Governor Parris Glendening last week was also discussed during the petitions and requests portion of the council meeting.

City Manager McLaughlin, addressing the Governor's restrictions, said, "What the Governor is doing as far as the city is concerned is a good and bad news story. We would encourage Greenbelters to consider the Governor's approach as the best long term approach to the problem."

McLaughlin said that the city is using some water from water trucks for certain plants; yet other plants, including annuals, will die.

Other steps which the city manager said Greenbelt is taking to conserve water include See COUNCIL, page 4 Greenbelt CARES has been

City Releases Statement On Water Restriction

On August 6 the City of Greenbelt issued the following release concerning water use restrictions affecting both city operations and citizen activities:

Governor Glendening has issued an Executive Order imposing mandatory restrictions on water use and a ban on outside burning. The city has implemented measures to comply with all of the Governor's restrictions. Due to these restrictions, the following changes in city service and facilities may be observed:

- Irrigation of landscaping has been halted, except for handheld watering of certain newlyplanted perennial beds and trees of three years of age or less.

- City vehicles will not be washed (except in commercial car washes that recycle over 80% of their water).

— Shower timers at the Aquatic and Fitness Center have been reduced from three minutes to one minute, and patrons are being asked to restrict their water usage.

— Power washing of the pool decks at the Aquatic and Fitness Center has been halted — the decks will be swept by hand.

— Building maintenance personnel will inspect all city facilities and repair any water leaks that are discovered.

— All city personnel will be asked to voluntarily limit their use of water.

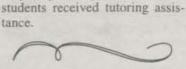

One way citizens can help is to adopt trees near their property in need of hand-watering. While hand-watering is allowed under the mandatory restrictions, the city recommends the use of "gray" water (laundry water without softener, bath water, water collected from air conditioning condensers, etc.)

While we are confident the citizens of Greenbelt will cooperate in the state's effort to conserve water, the City of Greenbelt has a mechanism in place to enforce the restrictions and issue citations to those individuals and businesses that are in violation of the mandate.

Effective immediately, the City Code Enforcement Office (301-345-5417) will handle any reports of violations, Monday to ADVISORY PLANNING BOARD Wednesday, August 18, 1999 7:30 PM Greenbelt Community Center Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. After hours, all reports of violations should be directed to the Greenbelt Police Department's non-emergency number, 301-474-7200. Penalties, as set forth by the Governor, will range from a warning to a fine of up to $1,000 and may include up to six (6) months incarceration. First time violators will be issued a warning. Repeat offenders will be issued a citation.

Current water use restriction information may be obtained by calling 1-877-4-DROUGHT (1-877-437-6844) or visiting Greenbelt Citylink at www.ci.greenbelt.md.us announced that the 10-member Maryland Congressional delegation has signed a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman supporting a request for disaster assistance. Governor Parris Glendening has asked that 19 counties throughout the State of Maryland be approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for what is known as a Federal Disaster Declaration. (The four remaining Maryland counties and the City of Baltimore would also be eligible for relief due to their contiguity to federally declared disaster areas.) The request has been prompted by severe damage to farms as a result of the ongoing drought throughout the mid-Atlantic region.

Disaster Aid Sought for State Farmers

In the letter, the delegation members wrote that, "Maryland is in the midst of its worst drought in 70 years and the State's farm sector has been severely impacted by this prolonged lack of rain. Yields of corn, soy beans, and other field crops are expected to be well below the average harvest. Likewise, 55% of pastures and Senator Paul Sarbanes has nounced that the 10-member aryland Congressional delation has signed a letter to cretary of Agriculture Dan hay fields are in poor or very poor condition and milk production at Maryland's dairy farms has decreased because of the high temperatures."

"Maryland's farmers, the backbone of the State's largest commercial industry, are facing losses in the millions of dollars which continue to mount daily," the letter continued. "Without a Federal Disaster Declaration and the assistance which accompanies it, the situation for our farmers will only get worse and many farmers may be forced to lose their farms."

Signing the letter to Secretary Glickman were Senators Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski, along with Representatives Steny Hoyer, Ben Cardin, Connie Morella, Wayne Gilchrest, Roscoe Bartlett, Albert Wynn, Robert Ehrlich, and Elijah Cummings.

If disaster designation is granted as expected, farmers will be eligible for low-interest emergency loans to help them cover living costs, delinquent debt installments, production costs lost because of drought, and other related expenses.

Open Letter

The topic of "improving the lake facilities" arises periodically with all sorts of grandiose plans that would destroy one of the last beautiful natural spots in the area. Fortunately common sense has prevailed in the past and we pray it does again this time.

Even the most simple "improvement" of adding bathrooms disturbs us. One might wonder who could object to this, but we wonder who has latrine duty. In a park where the drinking fountains have been non functional for years, we can visualize stopped up toilets and general filthy conditions.

The lake park is a place of quiet beauty, it provides a calm and peaceful atmosphere for those who walk around it, for those who like to spend a quiet time fishing or just relaxing, and for the children who feed the ducks. We don't need a lake filled with boats, nor a shoreline cluttered with concession stands. You say the lake is underutilized. The lake is not a commodity which must provide a financial income for us. What it provides is far more valuable. If we want amusement parks, they are easy to find, but a spot of natural beauty is rare and irreplaceable. Please do not destroy it.

Leah G. Warner, Jacob L. Warner

Open Letter

I was horrified to read the article in the News Review about plans for Buddy Attick Park. Please, please be careful! The wonderful attraction of the park is that it is free from concessions, and facilities are at a minimum. I, too, would appreciate a small simple inexpensive rest room, but only if it can be kept clean, free from vandalism, and in good working order. I've noticed for years that the drinking fountains are in need of attention, and no one seems to monitor them.

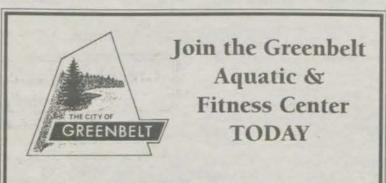

Thursday, August 12, 1999

I have been a Greenbelt resident for 45 years and have been running at the lake for the past 20 years. I like it just the way it is!! You want to remove the trash cans? Are you joking? I've spent countless hours picking up trash that hasn't made it to the receptacles. Can you imagine how much worse it would be if you removed them?

It seems to me that the lake is overcrowded already, mostly with nonresidents. There are lots of cars parked on my street, Lastner Lane, with D.C. tags. Why would you want to attract more people, leaving it less available for Greenbelters?

Please reconsider your plans to "upgrade" the park. Money would be much wiser spent raising the salary or benefits of our police officers and public works employees. Helen German

A final campaign contribution and expenditure report must be filed no later than 5 p.m. Monday, November 8. These reports shall list the name, address, and amount contributed of every contributor, and name, address and amount of every expense, other than the candidate or a member of his or her family, who has contributed more than $25.00 in furtherance of the candidate's nomination and election.

GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW

Voters who will be unable to appear at their polling place on November 2 by reason of illness, religious beliefs or absence from the city may vote by absentee ballots. The first day to apply and vote by absentee ballot will be Wednesday, October 13. (Please watch for city ad.)

Election of Council

The five candidates each receiving at least 40 percent of the total number of votes cast and the highest number of votes cast will be elected. If fewer than five candidates receive at least 40 percent of votes cast, a run off election will be held on Tuesday, November 9. Twice as many as there are positions to be filled will be submitted to the voters. In more than 20 years this has not been necessary.

Greenbelt does not have provisions for election of the mayor or mayor pro tem by the electorate. At the organizational meeting on the Monday following the election (Monday, November 8) the newly elected council will elect the mayor and mayor pro tem. Traditionally, the new council has elected the highest vote getter to be mayor and second highest vote getter to be mayor pro tem for the ensuing two-year term.

reducing shower times at the Aquatic and Fitness Center, though water will continue to be available for the pools themselves. McLaughlin said the city will be using a "common sense approach" in enforcing the water restrictions, giving warnings to residents using sprinklers, for instance.

Bill Phelan, the city horticulturist, also spoke on the issue. Phelan said that trees three years old and younger will be the city's first priority for watering. They are important in helping to maintain climate control. He said that many of the trees, including the dogwoods on the north shore of Greenbelt Lake, which are less adaptable to the area, will probably die.

Phelan said watering will also occur at Roosevelt Center for new plants on an as-needed basis. Phelan said he hopes to preserve plants that will endure and let the other plants go.

Phelan also listed several tips which residents should apply to conserve water in their homes. He recommended preserving gray water from sinks, bath tubs, and air conditioners for watering plants. The horticulturist further said that plants watered by hoses should be mulched and only sprayed from 30-60 seconds for each plant. Finally Phelan said that any water with bleach or fabric softeners should be discarded.

City Logo Use

A request for use of the city logo on Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen certificates was made by the Rev. Edward Birner during the August 9 city council meeting. The request was in reference to a letter written by Birner on July 21.

Council's concern about the use of the logo results from the "Outstanding Citizen" award being associated with the Labor Day Festival and not official city business. Council also has concerns that the logo could be used or sold for other reasons besides for the citizen award. Council told Birner that they would discuss the matter and come to a decision at a future date.

GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW

by Sandra Lange

The American Association for State and Local History (AASLH) will award the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM) a Certificate of Commendation for the exhibit, "Fashionable, Functional and Frugal." The exhibit focuses on the decorative arts in the 1930s and 1940s and features everyday items made of glass, chrome and bakelite. It was created by FOGM's curator Katie Scott-Childress and is being shown in the Greenbelt Community Center. The award will be presented at the association's annual meeting in Baltimore on Friday, October

The AASLH program is the nation's most prestigious competition for recognition of achievement in local, state and regional history. It encourages standards of excellence in the collection, preservation and interpretation of state and local history throughout America.

Grant for Walking Tour

FOGM also was recently awarded a grant of $3,720 from Preservation Maryland of the Maryland Historical Trust for a series of six color panels to comprise a walking tour of historic Greenbelt. The vinyl panels will be 24 inches by 36 inches, mounted on steel bases. They will illustrate why Greenbelt is a National Historic Landmark and show the Garden City principles on which Greenbelt was constructed as well as the Art Deco and International architectural styles characteristic of many of the original buildings.

The walking tour will feature Roosevelt Center, the Community Center, the Greenbelt Museum, the bathhouse and swimming pool, and more. Research on photographs and text is now under way for the six panels as well as future panels that may be added over the years. FOGM is funding the research and writing for the panels; the city will provide for installation and maintenance. FOGM anticipates that the panels will be installed by the end of the year.

Millennium Calendars

Greenbelt Millennium Calendars are now for sale at the Greenbelt Museum gift shop, 10-B Crescent Road, which is open every Sunday, 1-5 p.m. The 13-month calendar has historic black and white photographs, many by Work Progress Administration photographers. The photographs feature scenes of the Roosevelt Center, the Community Center, the Mother and Child Statue and the Greenbelt swimming pool. Children playing in the snow, dancing, hauling a Christmas tree and parading in their Halloween costumes are special features of the calendar. FOGM is indebted to volunteer docent Karen Yoho for her design work on the calendar.

New Exhibit on Children

Jill Parsons, a former FOGM intern, is now acting curator while curator Katie Scott-Childress is on maternity leave for several months. Parsons received her Master of Arts Degree from the Parsons School of Design, the Smithsonian Institution, Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum. In addition to performing much of the research for the walking tour panels. Parsons is working on the next major FOGM exhibition planned for the Community Center. Entitled "Which Playground for Your Child?" it will focus on children in Greenbelt from 1937 to 1946. FOGM has applied for a grant from the Maryland Humanities Council for this exhibit, expected to open in March, 2000. FOGM received a donation from Capitol Cadillac in support of this exhibit, and will be seeking other grants and donations as well.

Cookbook Coming

The Greenbelt Cookbook — "Greenbelt Cooks—Then and Now" will be published soon. More than 100 recipes were contributed by current Greenbelters, family members and friends, many from pioneer families. Recipes and drawings from a 1950 Woman's Club of Greenbelt cookbook are also included. The cookbook will be ready for sale in time for Christmas gift-giving.

Friends to Present International Evening

by Konrad Herling

The Greenbelt Arts Center's "Evening with Friends" show, this Saturday, August 14, at 8 p.m. will be an offering of artistic performance and a salute to the Labor Day Festival.

Featured artists include opera performers Ole Hass and Ingrid Cowan, who, accompanied by Susan Slingland, will perform some light classical music.

Also performing will be Magdalena Pasztaleniec who will play a few popular pieces on the piano. Magdalena, a junior at the University of Maryland, is from Poland and along with her new friend, Janneke Blijlevens of The Netherlands, are two in a series of foreign students who have enjoyed living with a local Greenbelter while spending their senior year of high school at Eleanor Roosevelt.

Other guests include Karen Munson, who received high praise from a Washington Post review for her portrayal of "Ulita" in its review of the recently concluded play, "The Forest". Munson is producing "An Evening of One Act Plays" which runs August 20-22.

Also performing will be Konrad Herling, who will play some light popular tunes on the piano.

From the Labor Day Festival, guests will include Joi Loretz, Miss Greenbelt, 1998, and Corporal David Buerger, the Police Department's school resource officer.

Two Youths Injured In Shooting Melee

by James Giese

"Bad blood" or an on-going dispute apparently resulted in shots being fired and two persons injured at a bus stop on Mandan Road near the intersection of Hanover Parkway on the evening of Tuesday, August 10 at about 7:15. There were four persons at the bus stop, three of whom knew each other and a fourth person who happened to also be there, according to Greenbelt Police Lieutenant Michael Craddock. Two youths approached, and the older began firing at the intended victim, one of the group of three, Craddock said. The 18 year old male victim received four gunshot wounds to his legs from a small caliber pistol. A 13 year old girl received one gunshot wound to the leg. She was apparently an unintended victim.

Shortly after the shooting, a Greenbelt police cruiser responding to an unrelated call came upon the scene, and observed the two victims on the ground and other persons fleeing the scene, Greenbelt Police said in a press release. After talking to witnesses, the police put out a lookout, and the shooter and his companion were apprehended in the area a short time later. Subsequently, a 25 caliber semi-automatic gun was recovered in the 7600 block of Mandan Road by the police. It is believed to be the weapon used in the shooting, apparently discarded as the two youths fled the scene, according to Lt. Craddock.

The victims were transported to Prince George's Hospital where the girl was released that evening after treatment. The intended victim remained hospitalized. He had surgery Wednesday morning for the gunshot wounds to his legs, but is described in good condition according to Lt. Craddock. His identity is not being released at the request of the victim and his family.

The two suspects brought in for questioning were positively identified as the suspects in the shootings. They have been charged with four counts of attempted murder in connection with the incident. Police have identified the suspects as Joseph Millegan, 18, of Landover, the person actually firing the gun, and Marcus Allen Gross, 15 of the 7000 block of Hanover Parkway in Greenbelt. Although a juvenile, Gross has been charged as an adult, police said. Both defendants were remanded to the Department of Corrections in Hyattsville for presentation before a District Court Commissioner on Wednesday. At this initial appearance, the Commissioners determined that both Millegan and Gross would be held without bond.

The Greenbelt Police Department is asking that anyone who may have witnessed the incident or who may otherwise have information about the incident should contact the Criminal Investigations Unit at 301-507-6530.

Possible NASA Budget Axe to Affect Goddard Center

by Virginia Beauchamp

Once again the NASA program is in danger - not from any failed technology but from a recurring problem with Congressional budget cutters. Most particularly affected would be the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, which was slated to receive some 31 percent of the cut projected for the agency if the House subcommittee which deals with appropriations for NASA got its way. This would amount to some $428 million of a total $1.4 billion for the agency as a whole. However, on July 31 the full Appropriations Committee restored about $400 million to NASA, but with only a small amount earmarked for Goddard.

Terming the subcommittee action "irresponsible budgeting," Congressman Steny Hoyer, who represents the Greenbelt area where Goddard is a major employer, attributed the move to the desire on the part of Congressional Republicans to fund a trillion dollar tax cut.

"These cuts threaten America's global dominance in the aeronautics industry. At a time of great economic prosperity, we should be investing in our future, not putting it in jeopardy. These cuts threaten the entire space program," said Congressman Hoyer. "They are outrageous, irresponsible and short-sighted. I will do everything possible to see that funding is restored for the Goddard Space Flight Center."

In a letter to Chairman C.W. Bill Young of the full House Committee on Appropriations, Hoyer detailed the many "practical benefits" of the Space program. "Virtually every aircraft in use today," his letter said, utilizes technology pioneered by NASA. The U.S. aerospace industry generates more than $40 billion in annual exports and almost $30 billion in positive balance of trade each year," he argued.

He particularly called attention to the successful Hubble Space Telescope, which requires "roundthe-clock" monitoring," and the Triana satellite mission, now being developed, which will provide a view of Earth for distribution over the internet for high-tech weather monitoring. This is scheduled for launch by December 2000. Another major project is the Earth Science program. All these programs would be seriously jeopardized if the projected budget cuts go through.

Letter from the Mayor

Responding to the news of this new threat to the Goddard Space Center, Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis sent a letter on July 30 to Hoyer, urging restoration of funding for the agency.

'Over the years NASA has responded to fiscal challenges by doing more with less," she wrote, "increasing productivity and reducing staffing levels. Its efforts to streamline operations should be rewarded, not punished.

"Last week we celebrated the 30th anniversary of landing a man on the moon. Our country should not mark this great achievement by gutting the space program. We urge the House to restore this funding!"

Some 10,000 people are employed at the Goddard center, of whom about 7,000 are contractors and 3,000 are civil servants. In severe budget cuts, the contractors would be the first to be eliminated. In September the appropriations bill will go to the floor of the House of Representatives. (Currently Congress is in recess.) According to Hoyer's press secretary, Debra De Shong, the congressman continues to advocate restoring full funding for NASA.

Earlier Threat

Four years ago NASA, and especially the Goddard Space Flight Center, survived an even bigger threat when the same subcommittee proposed to close Goddard and remove the facility to California's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. California was the home state of the subcommittee chairman

Public Works Efforts Improve Attick Park

by Jason Martens

Greenbelt Lake, one of the city's most notable landmarks and a special place for many residents, has recently gone through a series of changes. The Public Works Department has made various improvements to the lake's shoreline and along the park's trails to maintain its attractiveness.

Ken Hall, director of the Public Works Department, and Bill Phelan, horticulturist with the department, have coordinated the improvements throughout Attick Park. Hall says that most of the work being done is general maintenance to keep the park safe and accommodating to visitors. Specific projects which Hall's staff has performed include the the lake. Phelan said, "We resurfacing of the park's trails with new gravel, installing fencing to protect the park's trees from beavers, and providing new trash cans. Phelan has made several renovations involving plants and trees to improve the lake's deteriorating shoreline. Work on the lake began this past April as part of the city's Earth Day celebration.

The project consisted of planting about 100 native shrubs and aquatic plants, including summer sweet and elderberry along both shores, primarily on the diminishing north shore. New trees were also planted around the lake including Virginia fringe trees to replace dogwood trees which were less adaptable to the areas around were losing between 60-80 trees a year before this recent project."

The public works staff also installed flagstones around the plants by the lake to discourage visitors from walking near them. Another problem the public works staff has experienced is beavers destroying plants and shrubs along the shore.

Phelan's staff installed excluder gates in the stream out falling from the lake. Phelan says the gates have been effective in controlling the beaver problem.

Measures were taken to help clean up the water in the lake as well. Trash straining devices were put into the lake designed to help workers remove trash the trash from spreading. The improvement of the US 1/MD 201 Corridor from Beltsville to Laurel in Prince George's County is being studied. The Project Planning phase consists of agency and public involvement, the review of all reasonable alternates, including the No-Build alternate, as well as, social, economic and natural environmental analyses. As part of the public involvement activities and consistent with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act, comments are invited regarding historic properties in the project area.

Citizen involvement in the planning process is encouraged. Comments and requests to be included on the project mailing list may be submitted in writing to the Project Manager, Mr. Monty Rahman, Project Planning Division, State Highway Administration, P.O. Box 717, Mail Stop C-301, Baltimore, Maryland 21203-0717 or by calling toll-free at 1-800-548-5026.
