Residents Get Rabies Shots: More Sick Animals Sighted

by Barbara Bonham Young

Several Greenbelt residents have begun a series of rabies shots following Prince George's County Animal Control tests showing that the gray fox which bit them on April 16 was indeed rabid. (See the News Review of April 20.) Most recently, police reported that on the afternoon of April 24, they responded to a call reporting a sick fox near 7800 Hanover Parkway. The fox soon died and was removed for testing by Animal Control. The evening of the same day, a citizen called police to report a fox which was foaming at the mouth near McDonald Field in the 7 court of Southway. An officer shot and killed it, after which Animal Control removed the carcass. Test results on the two foxes showed them not to be rabid.

Officers responding to a "suspicious sick raccoon" call in the 8100 block of Mandan Road on April 20 destroyed the animal. A test showed it was not rabid, but had distemper.

"There have been no vaccine failures in the U.S. when the vaccine was given promptly after an exposure," the federal Centers for Disease Control (CDC) states. After exposure, one dose of immune globulin and five staged doses of rabies vaccine are given over a 28-day period, the shots, much like flu shots, being given in the arm. Adverse reactions

Raccoons, Bats Suspect

In a recent telephone interview, County Health Officer Art Thacher said that rabies is "prevalent" in the raccoon population of Prince George's County, and migratory bats "are always suspect" as well. In 1999, he said, 19 raccoons in the county tested positive for rabies, as did two foxes and two domestic cats. Thus far this year, nine raccoons and one fox (Greenbelt's) have been found rabid by the county, Thacher noted.

According to CDC statistics, less than 10% of reported rabies cases involve domestic animals, with cats, dogs and cattle the animals most often reported rabid. However, Thacher cautioned,

CLINIC

Readers take note: A rabies clinic costing $5.00 per animal vaccination will be . held on Saturday, May 6, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at . Greenbelt Middle School on Edmonston Road. State law requires that dogs and cats be vaccinated every three years and that ferrets be vaccinated every year. An adult must bring the animal to be vaccinated. A listing of additional clinics will be published later.

"People need to be fastidious about immunizing their pets. They get busy or they forget, but getting that rabies shot for a dog or cat or ferret is vitally impor-

Also important for prevention is keeping cats and ferrets indoors and dogs under direct supervision, the CDC advises, as well as spaying/neutering to keep down the number of unwanted pets and calling Animal Control to remove strays, since they could be unvaccinated or ill. It is very important that children be taught never to handle unfamiliar animals, wild or domestic, even if they appear friendly, and no attempt should be made to try to nurse sick animals to health. Further, the CDC advises, "Do not handle, feed or unintentionally attract wild animals with open garbage cans.'

What to Do if Bitten

An effective means of decreasing the chance of infection after a bite, the CDC notes, is immediate and thorough washing with soap and water. The rabies virus travels from the location of the bite to the brain by moving within nerves. An animal does not appear ill during an incubation period which may last weeks to months, and a bite by an animal during this time does not carry the risk of rabies because the vi-

Rally Seeks Jaeger Tract Purchase for Greenbelt Park

by Elaine Skolnik

A rally kicking off an areawide campaign urging the federal government to acquire and incorporate the remaining undeveloped Jaeger tracts into Greenbelt Park will be held on Saturday, May 6 at 11 a.m. Spearheaded by the Westchester Park Civic Association, the event will take place on the 1,100-acre federal park. Privately owned, this parcel of meadow and woodlands and a 3.7-acre tract along Kenilworth Avenue are the last remaining buffers to the park, one of the few urban national parks in the United States.

Comprising two residential high-rise towers, townhouses and apartments, garden-style Westchester Park complex is located on almost 56 acres at Kenilworth Avenue (near Greenbelt Road) and Westchester Park Drive. It is an unincorporated area of Prince George's

Over the past several months, the major focus of the civic association has been a petition and letter-writing drive. Letters to elected federal and state officials seeking federal acquisition of the Jaeger properties to expand the present borders of the park have also been sent by the municipalities of Greenbelt, Berwyn Heights, New Carrollton and Col-

At the civic association's annual meeting on March 14, strong support for integrating the open space parcels into Greenbelt Park was received from County Westchester Park Drive, near the Councilmembers Audrey Scott of 17.4-acre Jaeger site which abuts District 4, which includes Westchester Park, and Walter Maloney of District 1, Mayors William Armistead of Berwyn Heights and Anna Ferguson of Riverdale Park Councilmembers Steve Brayman of College Park and Thomas X. White of Greenbelt.

Concern was expressed over the increased pressures of development in the Greenbelt Park area and the importance of the park as an invaluable resource to the communities, the Washington Metropolitan Area and visitors from across the country. Incorporating the Jaeger tracts into Greenbelt Park, speakers urged, will protect the park, the environment and air and water quality.

Scott said, "It is important for the Park Service to look at this issue from a different prospective. Unlike Grand Canyon, Greenbelt Park may be small, but in this area it is very large - a total green area with campgrounds inside the beltway. Because it has a unique classification, it should be a priority for acquisition."

Maloney urged the association to pursue funding for the tracts from the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission which, he noted, has a large budget for such uses.

Over the years the civiciation and the City of Greenbelt have vigorously opposed development of the Jaeger properties. They consistently pressed for the parcels to be integrated into the federal park, which is located within Greenbelt's boundaries.

In a letter to the Park Service dated January 1995, Anne MacKinnon, former chairwoman of the Prince George's County Council, said, "Any further development would cause irrevocable harm to the Park's waterways, completely devastate the natural balance of the environment and intrude even deeper into the remaining greenbelt for which the park and the neighboring city were named."

Although the National Park Service (NPS) at the time did not consider the Jaeger properties a priority, the NPS now agrees that

On May 6 Kick up Your Heels at Community Center

by Altoria Bell Ross

Want to kick up your heels? Tone your muscles? Find a gift for Mother's Day? Then you will want to attend the Greenbelt Community Center Open House and Forum on Saturday, May 6.

You can join in swing, Greek folk, Scottish country, Latin or Israeli folk dancing. For exercise, you can take a karate, kickboxing, yoga, Jazzercise, Dancercize, or Tai chi class. You could also dance with the Washington Wizards. For Mother's Day, you can bid on an item at the Greenbelt Nursery School and Kindergarten auction or buy a plant from the Garden Club.

A couch couscous? Then, you may want to watch the Greenbelt Double Dutch team or listen to the Greenbelt Concert Band perform. Children's games, art demonstrations and projects will continue throughout the day. In addition, several tenants that use the Community Center, such as the News Review, and studio artists, will hold open houses.

Outside, attend the dedication of a statue for the Meditation Garden and view the Greenbelt Fire Department's new ambulance and fire engine. These activities will take place in the gym, dance studio, theater rehearsal room, and on the lawn. Don't miss the spring fun.

City Police Having Trouble Spending Entire Budget

by James Giese

At the Public Safety budget worksession on April 19, the Greenbelt City Council spent much of the time reviewing accomplishments, goals and future plans of the police department and discussing problems in recruiting and maintaining employees. The council also took a first look at the city budget for the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire and Rescue Squad, Inc. (GVFD&RS), the police budget and the budget for Animal Control for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2000. Although Public Safety garners the largest piece of the tax dollar (more than one-third of all city expenditures), the city manager's proposed budget is a slight reduction from last year's adopted budget although it does reflect an increase of $103,500 over this year's estimated expenses. The total Public Safety budget is $5,567,700 of which $5,398,700 is for the police department.

Fire Department

Given first opportunity to seek budget funding were Fire Chief Randy Krob and GVFD&RS President Jay Remenick. The vield of a one-cent tax lev ($53,000) is allocated in the budget for transfer to the Replacement Fund where it becomes available to purchase fire department equipment and other needs. Most expenditures of the department are paid for either out of county funds or monies raised by the department through its annual fund drive, now going on.

Krob and Remenick would like the city to provide an additional $22,000 for an epoxy\urethane floor coating for the fire station apparatus room. The city owns the fire station building and leases it at little cost to the GVFD&RS.

Previously the city funded a $200,000 remodeling and renovation project of the fire station now nearing completion. The cost of this work fell about $50,000 short of budget estimates, and the firemen would like to use the remaining funds for the floor surfacing. However, City Manager Michael P. McLaughlin advised council that those savings had already been reflected in his budget for the Capital Projects Fund, which does not include any new funds for the fire department. A new appropriation should be made if council wishes to pay for the project. He also suggested that the expenditure could come out of the monies set aside in the Replacement Fund, although in the past the council has used these monies only for fire equipment replace-

Police Department

Although Chief of Police James Craze has a wish list of unfunded expenditures, he made no great push for additional budget funds. (The Greenbelt Fraternal Order of Police will make their pitch to the council at a later date.) In part, this is due to the difficulty the department has in spending what is being allocated. With the economy booming and unemployment down, the department has had difficulty in recruiting enough qualified employees to fill existing vacancies, and after See BUDGET, page 8

Register Children For Kindergarten

The last day of a special kindergarten registration for the Prince George's County Public School System's 2000-2001 school year will be Monday, May 1. Parents may register students during normal operating hours at their neighborhood schools. For specific information, parents should contact their local school directly.

All children who are five years old on or before December 31, 2000 must attend kindergarten before entering first grade. In order to register students, parents must have the following information: proof of residency, birth certificate, and immunization certificate for diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, polio, rubella, rubeola, and mumps.

For additional information about kindergarten registration, call the Office of Pupil Accounting and School Boundaries at 301-952-6300 or local schools, Greenbelt Elementary, 301-513-5911, Springhill Lake Elementary, 301-513-5996.

Movie of the Month Is "Pal Joey"

The movie of the month at the Community Center will be shown on Monday, May 8 at 1 p.m. in the senior classroom.

There are plenty of good Rodgers and Hart tunes including "My Funny Valentine."

Egg Hunt Results

As always, there was a fierce competition to find the coveted golden eggs at the annual Easter Egg Hunt held on Easter Monday at Buddy Attick Park and sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department. Winners in the various categories were: ages 0-3, Antonio Coleman; ages 4-K, Jason Clarkson; grades 1 & 2, Josh Acevero; grades 3 & 4, Mindy Miller and grades 5 & 6, Dale Grant.

Golden Age Club

by Ruth Huggins

President Bill Souser welcomed Golden Agers and guests to the 44th anniversary luncheon on April 19. Ellie Rimar, membership chair, announced the April birthday celebrants, who were Flo Boswell, Ima Davis, Pat Hand, Lori Moran, Betty Petroff and Joe Wilkinson. Betty Petroff won the birthday drawing. The 50/50 drawing was won by Jim Giese and Pat Hand.

Our guest speakers were Mayor Judith Davis, City Manager Mike McLaughlin, Department of Recreation Director Hank Irving, Community Center Supervisor Joe McNeal and Therapeutic Recreation Supervisor Karen Haseley. Each in turn said a few words of wisdom.

Haseley announced the Community Center has a new kitchen manager, Iris Fletcher. Fletcher is asking for volunteers during the hours of 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Those interested should contact

Joe McNeal read the roster of presidents of the Golden Age Club and those present were: Florence Holly, Ellie Rimar, Ruth Kolbe, Flo Boswell, Verna Marrie, Bud Hinson, Mary Gardner, Irving Siegel and Bill Souser. Past president Irene Hensel was unable to attend and was sorely missed.

Ellie Rimar gave an interesting account of the history of the club. The Greenbelt Golden Age Club is the oldest such club in Prince George's County. We have 151 regular members and 76 honorary members (age 80+).

Our comedians Mary Gardner and Lori Moran entertained us with some funny jokes

Greenbelt Elementary Hosts Spring Fair

The Greenbelt Elementary School (GES) PTA will host its annual Spring Fair on Saturday, April 29, in the school gymnasium. The Fair will start at 10 a.m. and continue to 2 p.m., rain

There will be new and old activities at the Spring Fair. New this year is a Pokemon trading and card playing booth. There will be a tattooing stand and a sponge toss game featuring some brave teachers. Creative children will enjoy the art project. Pokemon lovers will want to buy into the raffle, featuring a surprise Pokemon gift. The popular musical chair cakewalk is still around. Last year there were two tables of delicious bakery goods to choose from.

The latest Greenbelt Elementary School t-shirts can be ordered at the Fair and scented candles will be sold. Either (or both) could be Mother's Day gifts.

Once again there will be a silent auction with many goods or services provided by local businesses, teachers, and parents. Anyone in the community who would like to donate new items or services is asked to call the school office at 301-513-5911. The proceeds from the silent auction are being earmarked for a fund to replace the teachers' copying machine.

Everyone is invited to attend the GES PTA Spring Fair for an exciting, fun-filled time.

OBITUARY

Sherry Brubaker

On April 14 at 7:45 p.m. in Hillcrest Medical Center, Tulsa, Oklahoma, Evamarian "Sherry" Beulah Brubaker died following a long illness. She was born in Park Rapids, Minnesota on September 7, 1918. She was a graduate of the Northeastern Bible Institute, Saint Paul, Minne-

In 1940, she took a job with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Beltsville as secretary to the manager of the Soil Conservation Division, at which time she moved to Greenbelt. She married Joseph W. "Jay" Brubaker on August 15, 1952 in Greenbelt Community Church. In about 1958 she became secretary to Paul Campbell, general manager of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) and continued in that position when Royal D. Breashears became manager after Campbell's retirement. In about 1965 she took a position as legal secretary in the law firm of Snyder, Ginsberg and Horowitz. Al Ginsberg was legal counsel to GHI. She retired in about 1975.

Sherry Brubaker and her husband resided for many years at 6-R Ridge Road where she pursued one of her many hobbies and interests, gardening. She also made and taught ceramics. Other interests were collecting china and antique glass, sewing and needlework. An avid reader, she read five to 20 books a month.

Formerly, she was a member and past president of the Greenbelt Lion Belles, and a member of the American Association of Antique Arts of Prince George's County and the Greenbelt Woman's Club.

She was active in Greenbelt Community Church where she envisioned and proposed the church Memorial Grove and led in its design and development.

Sherry and Joy Brubaker moved to Tulsa in 1998 to be closer to their daughter, Betsy Callahan. Besides her husband and daughter, Sherry Brubaker is survived by another daughter, Barbara Lambert of Woodstock, Virginia, and grandchildren Karen and Sharline Stalnaker of Edinburg, Virginia, Joshua and Kim Lambert of Woodstock and great-grandchildren Donald and Kamie Gheen of Manassas, Virginia.

A memorial service will be held at Greenbelt Community Church, Hillside and Crescent Roads on Saturday, April 29 at 5 p.m. Instead of flowers, the family requests that memorials be in the form of contributions to the church. A portion of the contributions will be used to plant a living memorial to her in the church garden.

In Memoriam

Dr. Prospero Zevallos was a member of the Greenbelt Labor Day Committee. He had served as the chairman of the Photo Show for the past several years, during the time that each of us served as president. His wife Anne, of course, assisted him and us as well. Prospero willingly gave of himself and expended considerable energy in seeing to it that the show was an annual success. He created many wonderful photos of his own each year, and was always interested in helping to publicize our events. We were quite surprised to learn that this fellow volunteer, who had so much child-like zest for life and for the festival, was 75 years old at his recent death. We were saddened to learn that he had been ill, for we had no idea until he succumbed to his illness. His children spoke wonderfully at his memorial service, and their capable presentations gave yet another testament to the value of this man as a father. He will be greatly missed, not only for his leadership in the Photo Show, but for his enthusiasm and support in all areas, and for what he gave to us as a kind and thoughtful per-

Shanahan — Kennedy

Alverta N. Shanahan and B. K. "Ken" Kennedy were wed at noon on April 15 at Holy Cross Lutheran Church.

There were around 100 family and guests present to witness the double ring ceremony, conducted by Pastor Reverend Stephen H. Mentz, S.T.M.

The matron of honor was Alverta's daughter, Margaret Folk. James Shanahan, son of the bride, was her escort. Nicole and Megan Vaughan, great granddaughters, were flower girls. The best man was Brian Bailey, a long-time friend of the groom. Sharilyn Kennedy, granddaughter of the groom and Caron Martin, a friend of the bride, were greeters.

The bride wore a gold lame beige suit with matching hat and accessories and carried a white rose bridal bouquet.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Marlborough Country Club.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Ocean City and will also travel to Florida.

They will reside on Fayette

Westchester Park Expansion Opposed by Civic Association

by Barry Bernstein

From inside the Westchester Park condominium towers that are adjacent to Greenbelt Park, a vast forested retreat can be seen, one of the few areas like this inside the Capital Beltway.

Robert Crecco, president of the Westchester Park Civic Association, owns a townhome across from the park. Recent plans to develop the last privately-held land parcels buffering the park the Jaeger tracts — have alarmed him and other community members. The property is composed of two parcels of land totaling roughly 21 acres, 17.4 and 3.7 acres respectively.

"It (development) is going to change the ambiance of the park in that area...it would be a new community that is going to be involved with streets, buildings and people," said Crecco. "We have deer and other wildlife wandering over behind the townhomes. There's one acre of wetlands on the 17.4-acre site; it seems like poor planning to allow an intrusion into the park."

Residents of the community who oppose development of the Jaeger tract have managed to come together through the Westchester Park Civic Association. The property is an area that members of the association feel should be left alone and incorporated into the parkland. A survey conducted by the association found that residents living in the community opposed by 3 to 1 development of the tracts, according to Crecco.

In 1988, there was a proposal to build two high-rise office buildings and a parking lot for 1,400 cars. Crecco noted that the civic association was able to get the land down-zoned in 1989 from high-rise residential to rural residential, which mandates two single-family homes for every acre of land.

Crecco stated that the developers assured residents of Westchester Park that they would not build anything on the Jaeger tracts if the community opposed it. This is not the case today, as has been demonstrated by continuing interest in its develop-

Jaeger Tract Sale

According to a spokesperson for Chevy Chase Bank, which administers the Jaeger estate, the property was sold in March from the First Westchester Park Comdeveloper of the Westchester Park community, to Community Management Company (CMC) of New York.

Reportedly, CMC is affiliated with AD and C Management Company, which presented several proposals to the civic association during the past year. Amir Ahmad, an AD and C partner, is associated with both com-

AD and C's latest proposal for the 17.4-acre tract calls for 35 single-family detached homes and, for the 3.7-acre site, two garden-style apartment buildings totaling 60 units. Since the latter site is zoned R-30 (10 units an acre), the developer must apply for a special exception to build adult housing.

Joe Chang, planner coordinator for Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, told the News Review that "no application for development of the two tracts has been submit-

The Westchester Park Civic Association's ad hoc committee, a key player in the petition drive and May 6 rally, opposes development of the tract. The committee favors the idea that the remaining undeveloped land become part of Greenbelt Park.

"We want a piece of the money for open space [initiatives] from the federal government so that the Jaeger Tract can be acquired by the park," said Maria Cardone, ad hoc committee member. "I think that the support of the grassroots movement has been successful and that if we continue to get the support of politicians in this endeavor, we have won one."

Congressman Steny Hoyer (D) of Maryland's 5th district is aware of the recent developments concerning the Jaeger tract and has been contacted by civic association members. "We are currently looking for alternatives and a solution. It has been on our radar screens," said Debra DeShong, press secretary for

Lack of Funds

The National Park Service, which operates Greenbelt Park, is already strapped for money; funding to buy the Jaeger tract from a developer is almost nonexistent, according to Jim Rosenstock, resource management ranger for National Capital Parks East.

"The Jaeger tract has been on our screens for a while as potentially being a part of the park enclave, but it is not a priority during the fiscal year. It might be something to acquire, but we (Parks Service) don't have the funds to acquire every piece of land," he said.

Rosenstock did note that the park service is skeptical about construction and drainage issues on the property. Referring to Parkside, a similar development next to the park, which is situated off Good Luck Road, he points out that "We were a little concerned about storm water management in that area. I think that we were reasonably satisfied that it worked, but there was a loss of continuous habitat. Those are exactly the concerns we have how water drains off the property."

In an October 21 letter from U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes (D-MD) on October 21 to Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis, he stated: "I am currently pressing in the Senate for legislation which would significantly expand the funding for both federal and state parkland acquisition...

the land "is an appropriate one" for acquisition. In a recent letter to Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis, Terry Calstrom, regional director of the National Capital Region, said NPS was exploring the possibility that the Jaeger property "might be acquired through alternative means: such as in mitigation of unavoidable impacts to other park lands resulting from Maryland State Highway projects.'

The civic association believes that, if acquired by the NPS, part of the 17.4-acre Jaeger tract could be developed as a forested wetland mitigation site to replace, for lost if Sunnyside Avenue were widened, including the bridge over Indian Creek, and other improvements made along Edmonston Road. Still Creek runs through Greenbelt Park; Indian Creek flows from the north through the area that could lose wetlands in any widening process, then runs to the south through the Greenbelt Metro and A. H. Smith properties. Connected closer hydrologically than Paint Branch, Still Creek and Indian Creek both become part of the Northeast Branch of the Anacostia.

"This is a strong argument for federal, state or county acquisition of the Jaeger properties," observed Robert Crecco, civic association president.

The civic association has invited federal, state and municipal officials to attend the rally. All Washington Metropolitan Area example, wetlands that would be residents are invited to participate in "Protecting Greenbelt Park" on May 6 at 11 a.m. For further information call 301-345-9024.

BUDGET

years of stability is experiencing turnover due to resignations. Particularly troublesome is getting qualified police officers and employing and keeping police dispatchers. The department is currently short four dispatchers and three officers.

Dispatchers

With the department short four out of the nine authorized dispatchers, the phones and radios are operated most of the time by only one person, putting added stress on the employees and presenting more serious problems when there is unusual communication activity as might occur during an incident requiring multiple police response. Craze attributes the difficulty in employing dispatchers to it being a job offering little chance for upward advancement. There are only three pay grades for this type of work. In a competitive job market, people look for the jobs with better future opportunities. Craze thinks that the city pay rates are average or a little below average. The best people for the job at this time are off-duty police officers from other jurisdictions seeking a second income. Police dispatching, which requires 14 weeks of training, can be even more stressful than being a police officer, the chief said.

Officers

Craze was pessimistic about filling the three officer vacancies as a result of the current recruiting process and bringing the department up to its authorized strength of 53 sworn officers. Although the city received 140 applications, only 14 managed to meet the minimum qualifications, pass the police exam and physical exam. These remaining applicants are currently undergoing background investigation. In the past, Craze said, only about one out of 12 applicants have successfully made it past the background investigation. Misrepresentations, undisclosed adverse information and information about drug use are common reasons for the city rejecting applicants as a result of the background checks.

The chief expects another recruitment process to get under way shortly after the present one is completed. In the meantime, the department had to shut down its street crimes unit in order to activitate its bicycle patrol unit, for which the city has received grant funding.

The department is short one of three K-9 (officer with police dog) units. Although funds are shown to be spent in this year's expense estimates to buy a dog ($4,200), the department is not prepared to assign an officer to a dog. The chief noted that there are no funds to buy a dog in next year's budget. McLaughlin, however, pointed out that this year's funds would revert to surplus and could be reappropriated next year, if the department is in a position to buy a dog. Or council could add it to the budget before adoption, he suggested. Davis noted that she would add $4,200 to her budget wish list for the dog.

Squad Cars

The budget proposes the purchase of eight replacement vehicles. Craze advised council the department were authorized to purchase on-hand police specification vehicles from the state supplier right now instead of waiting for the next fiscal year to begin. This would require council to agree that it would buy the vehicles budgeted for next year before the budget was adopted, and pay for them in advance. Delivery would not be made until after July 1 and the expense serious animal complaints.

GHI Annual Meeting Election Is May 17

All owners of Greenbelt Homes Incorporated (GHI) are invited to attend the annual membership meeting, Wednesday, May 17, 7:30 p.m. in the Greenbelt Community Center. The meeting offers a final opportunity for GHI members to get to know the people running for the various offices at GHI. The meeting offers an appropriate time for members to ask questions on issues such as beautification and electric deregulation. Voting for members of the Nominations and Elections Committee takes place during the meeting. Members also vote on three changes to GHI bylaws. One would raise the limit of contributions by GHI to local organizations from $1,500 to $2,000. The second change would increase the amount GHI staff could spend without prior Board approval from $5,000 to $7,500. The third change would allow the Board to pass motions involving spending money at one Board meeting. Currently such motions have to be introduced at one meeting, and passed at the next meeting. After the voting and other business, several door prizes will be given to GHI members attending the meeting.

would be recorded in the new fiscal year. Council agreed to place the matter on its next agenda after Craze told them that the number on hand had dwindled to ten. that the city could save $7,000 if (The purchase was approved at the April 24 meeting.)

Animal Control

There is presently no animal warden on duty as the person who holds that position is on disability. The warden's vehicle is due for replacement, but this will not be done until a person is working full time in the job. In the meantime, police officers and county animal wardens are dealing with the more

After the meeting, GHI members can vote for members of the GHI Board of Directors and Audit Committee. GHI members can also vote Thursday, May 18, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Voting is in the Community Center.

Greenbelt Homes relies on its members to set policies, oversee candidates for the Board, Audit operations, and elect officers. It needs GHI members to serve by running for office. This year 14 positions on the Board, Audit Committee, and Nominations and Elections Committee are up for reelection. Candidates are needed to fill all positions, but especially to replace members of the Board and Audit Committee who are not running for office again. Any GHI member can run for office by filling a Candidate consent form and taking it to GHI offices by May GHI members can meet the Committee, and Nominations and Elections Committee at the Candidates Night on Tuesday, May 9 at 7:30 in the City Council Chamber at Greenbelt City Hall. It will also be televised on Greenbelt's cable channel, B-10.

RABIES

rus has reached the animal's brain and multiplied, will the animal show signs of rabies.

Any mammal can get rabies, but most common animal victims are raccoons, skunks, bats, foxes and coyotes. Small rodents, squirrels, mice, rats, hamsters, guinea pigs, gerbils and chipmunks as well as rabbits and hares "are almost never found to be infected," according to CDC information, which continues, "Bites [from these animals] are not a risk unless the animal was sick or behaving in an unusual way and rabies is widespread in an area."

As to whether rabies can be transmitted from one person to another, the CDC cites the only documented cases as occurring among eight recipients of corneal transplants. One of the cases was in the U.S.; the remainder were in Thailand, India, Iran and France. However, stringent new guidelines are now in place concerning the acceptance of donor corneas.

According to CDC information, "nonbite exposures" rarely cause rabies. These are scratches, abrasions, open wounds, or mucous membrane contamination with saliva or other potentially infectious material such as brain tissue from a rabid animal. Inhaling aerosolized rabies virus is also a potential nonbite route of exposure but is unlikely to be encountered except by certain laboratory workers. Other contact such as petting a rabid animal or contact with blood, urine or feces of a rabid animal does not constitute a nonbite exposure, the CDC states.

"Never handle a bat," the CDC advises, because it is impossible to tell by looking if the animal is sick. (If bitten, wash and get medical attention immediately. Arrange for capture of the bat for testing.)

Dog rabies is common in parts of Africa, Asia and Latin America. Therefore those travelling to remote areas where vaccination might be difficult to obtain or those planning to work with animals in such areas might consider preexposure vaccination, which provides some protection when vaccination might be delayed.

Rabies Alert!

In spite of the fact that the sick foxes impounded on April 24 tested negative for rabies, all citizens are still being advised to be on the alert for any animals exhibiting strange behavior and to STAY AWAY FROM THEM and call the Greenbelt Police immediately at 301-474-

The Greenbelt Animal Warden is also advising people not to feed wild animals, and for pet owners to make sure that their pet's rabies vaccinations are current, and not allow their pets to run at large. Pets frequently contract rabies when they are allowed to run at large and are bitten by a wild animal that has ra-

What to Do about Rabies Booklet Gives Information

The police department has available for the public a small have the disease.

The best protection against officer or county health department. rabies is to avoid contact with all wild animals and keep away from stray dogs and cats. To protect their family and pets, people should have their pets vaccinated. The Prince George's County Health Department will provide low-cost rabies vaccinations for cats, dogs and ferrets between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Saturday, May 6 at Greenbelt Middle School, 8950 Edmonston Road. For more information and information on other schools where vaccinations will be administered call 301-939-2350.

Other prevention measures include keeping pets confined to the owner's premises and never feeding a pet outdoors. If a pet should be bitten notify the veterinarian and the county health department or Greenbelt police (301-474-5454).

Some of the signs of rabies are: shyness or unapproachability by the animal, sluggishness, confusion and depression. Or the animal may become excitable, irritable and aggressive. Other signs are daytime activity by normally nocturnal animals, staggering, weakness and paralysis, a change in the sound of an animal's voice, inability to eat or drink, drooling and/or convulsions and frothing at the mouth. Anyone who notices an animal with signs of rabies should steer clear, and call the police or the health department.

Greenbelt 2000: A New Town Enters a New Millennium

by Kevin Hammett and Konrad Herling

Greenbelt is one of 12 communities in the State of Maryland, and over 500 nationwide, to be recognized as an official White House Millennium Community. The President and First Lady are sponsoring this program to encourage communities to reflect upon this unique moment in history, and what it means to their unique community heritage. Greenbelt, a millennium task force, with representation from nine community groups, has been working to plan a millennium program to celebrate our past, present and future.

The theme of the Millennium Year, which began on January 1, 2000 and ends on January 1, 2001 - is "Honor the Past -Imagine the Future." We are a community which honors its past; as a "new town" we are also a community which was "born" in the midst of the Great Depression, developed by those who imagined a better future. It is this unique Greenbelt Heritage the task force plans to celebrate.

Sharing common experiences was easier for a small, geographically centered town in 1937. In its 63 years, the town's expansion has resulted in new neighborhoods, which some residents may have not had the opportunity to explore. During the course of the millennium year, there will be opportunities to get to know other neighborhoods through city sponsored "block-parties."

The millennium's programs get rolling during the next two weekends, when the city will be hosting events in Springhill Lake, and Old Greenbelt.

On Saturday, April 29, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., the city's 6th annual Earth Day Celebration will be held at Buddy Attick Park. For additional information, call 301-474-8308. Later that day, from noon to 4 p.m., on the west side of Kenilworth Avenue, Springhill Lake will hold its "Celebration of Spring" featuring live entertainment, food, games and more. Find out more by calling the Community Center at 301-397-2200.

In conjunction with the national celebration of the millennium year, the White House is sponsoring a program called Save America's Treasures,

Rain Location

Rain location for the Earth Day Celebration at the lake will be held in the Public Works storage building. (back lot of Public Works facility.)

Annual Bay Bridge Walk

The 26th annual Chesapeake Bay Bridge Walk will be held on Sunday, May 7, beginning at 9 a.m.

The walk will be canceled for inclement weather or high winds. Cancellation announcements will be made on local radio stations. For more information, including the status of the walk, call 1-877-BAYSPAN or visit the Authority's website at www.mdta. state.md.us.

which encourages communities to identify, and save for future generations, buildings which are significant to their history.

Greenbelt has done this with its Art Deco Community Center, and on May 6 from 10 a.m.-3 p.m., there will be a chance to celebrate this thriving new use of the old elementary school. Among the highlights of the Greenbelt Community Center Open House & Forum will be the opening of the Greenbelt Museum's exhibit "Which Playground for Your" Child," as well as the dedication of the Meditation Garden, which features a sculpture by Lenore Thomas. For more information, see advertisement in this issue.
