Recent reductions in the budgets for the Henry A. Wallace Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) and nearby facilities have prompted strong opposition by Maryland's U.S. Senators Barbara Mikulski and Benjamin Cardin and Congressman Steny Hoyer, who represents Greenbelt.

Due to deep cuts over the years in the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) budgets affecting BARC's Agricultural Research Service (ARS), the Center's mission as a worldclass research center is in jeopardy. Similarly, nearby National Agricultural Library's (NAL) reputation as one of the world's largest and most comprehensive agricultural research libraries is at risk.

In other BARC developments this spring, on May 22 the U.S. Senate overrode President Bush's veto of a comprehensive farm bill that includes language for a five-year pilot project permitting enhanced-use leasing authority at BARC and NAL, praised by BARC supporters who have backed the leasing of vacant space at BARC/ARS and the library to companies doing business that is compatible with BARC's mission.

Benefits of BARC

Former BARC Director Phyllis Johnson (who retired in early 2008) has described the facility as "the world's largest and most diverse agricultural research center and the only working farm inside the Beltway." She noted in her January 10, 2006, letter to Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis that BARC "provides air quality benefits, supports biodiversity and open space . . . in the midst of a densely developed area."

According to Director Johnson (May 5, 2008, Corridor, Inc. -Prince George's, Inc. Magazine), "the research center employs 1,100 federal employees and ap-

Battle for BARC Has Long History

The many attempts over the years to chip away land at the Henry A. Wallace Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) have consistently drawn fire from successive Greenbelt City Councils, county, state and federal elected officials and citizens groups. Originally 14,000 acres in 1910, the BARC complex now comprises 6,500 acres.

In 1935 federal agents bought 12,189 acres including not only what is now Greenbelt but what later became the Goddard Space Flight Center and the Patuxent Wildlife Refuge. Prior to moving to Beltsville, the Agricultural Research Center was located in Virginia on land later designated for the Pentagon.

Threats to BARC over the years have included a steady leasing of land to federal agencies not compatible with BARC's mission. City officials, however, have always considered BARC land part of the city's greenbelt and were concerned about the effect of development upon wetlands in the Indian Creek watershed and its impact on city traffic.

Responding to this concern, in 1987 Congressman Hoyer was successful in preventing the sale at auction of 14 acres of BARC land on Baltimore Avenue. Subsequently Hoyer introduced legislation, which Congress passed, prohibiting breezed through its regular meeting on May 27 by 9:15 p.m.

City Manager Michael McLaughlin introduced the new city clerk, expressing pleasure that Cindy Murray, a 33-year city employee is taking over after Kathleen Gallagher left last month to take a job at the University of Maryland. Murray began with the city as a police dispatcher and held many administrative positions in the Public Works Department, most recently as the city's Recycling Coordinator.

Representatives of Unit 136, American Legion Auxiliary made their annual presentation introducing the sale of poppies in commemoration of Memorial Day 2008. Mayor Judith Davis expressed the city's appreciation for the Greenbelt American Legion Post, its auxiliary units and the Disabled American Veterans

Although council had pretty much completed deliberations on the city manager's proposed budget, a second public hearing on the proposed budget was scheduled as part of the meeting as well as a state-required public hearing on the constant yield tax rate. Davis recessed the regular meeting to conduct the hearings, during which no public comments or questions were offered. She announced that a majority of council had agreed to not raise the city's property tax rate this year and that only a few adjustments to the manager's proposed Fiscal Year 2009 budget would be made by council. (See News Review May 29 article.) She also noted that city property owners will see a slight reduction (.008 cents) in their county property tax rate for FY09.

To comply with state requirements Davis announced that the

The first item invoking substantive discussion was on proposed patio screening in front of the New Deal Café (NDC). NDC President Peter May and Bill Wilkerson were present for their proposal to screen off an area under the front canopy, where beer and wine may be served. City staff recommended council approval subject to two conditions: 1) the NDC agrees to a site visit with the city Planning and Community Development staff at time of installation and 2) that NDC staff be responsible for repair and replacement of damaged fencing and to keep the patio area clean. In USDA budget years 2006, 2007 and 2008, funding has eroded for BARC's research programs, scientists and the rehabilitation of buildings and laboratories. USDA fiscal years run from October to September 30, expressed their dismay in a January 9, 2008, letter to USDA's Acting Secretary Conner. They decried the reduction in the number of BARC research scientists and programs and the failure to adequately fund renovations of

Letters to the Editor

Traffic Woes

This letter is a combined consensus from a group of Greenbelters who live on Northway, Greenway Place and especially Greendale Place about an accident that occurred on April 25. A young man we know and love was struck by a vehicle in the crosswalk at St. Hugh's School.

God willing, he is now home recuperating from his injuries and was not added to the list of four deaths on this road. Something has to be done to control the traffic on this road and others in Greenbelt. The flashing lights at the crosswalk and the flashing lighted sign (stop for pedestrians) is mostly ignored by motorists.

If you are in the crosswalk, the cars buzz you as they pass. If they do stop for you, the car behind will pass on the shoulder of the road. On Crescent Road we have been passed by cars on the left side and the bike lane while we are doing the speed limit or turning into our developments. We have been passed by Metro buses.

Metro buses and school buses zoom up and down Crescent Road and they do not observe the school zone.

On this road there were two accidents in one day. The second accident ended up in the swale along Stream Valley. In another accident a car ended up in the swale avoiding a crossing guard crossing school children. Hardly anyone observes the speed limit in the school zone and when you do, they honk and pass you. A double or single solid line means no passing. There should be signs posting this.

In Montgomery County they have signs posted in their school zones that state the times the school zones are to be observed. Their zones are from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., with double fines and points. They also have speed

Return GHI Survey To all GHI members:

I passed out a survey to all of you who attended the Annual Meeting. I think that the membership of GHI needs to be heard from.

If you still have the survey, please mail it to me and I will gladly pass it on to the General Manager for you. Or send it to the GHI General Manager at Hamilton Place, Greenbelt, MD. I hope all of you continue to enjoy the benefits of living in GHI.

Thanks to 13 Court

WOW! What a year! When I left my home in Transylvania, Romania, I did not think I would have such a big and lovable family. By family I mean the 13 Court of Ridge Road in Greenbelt. Every member of the court has made me feel so comfortable and all of them think of me as their own exchange student.

In true Greenbelt fashion, my American mom Linda Curtis encouraged me to volunteer at the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. She always made sure I participated in most of the events in the community and I am so thankful for all the things she has done for me. She made sure to tell me about all the good clubs, such as the Strategy Games evenings every Tuesday. I made even more friends there, especially Steven Henderson, who made sure I got home safely every Tuesday evening.

I clearly remember my first day at Eleanor Roosevelt High School when I saw all those kids. This school has so many people; it is about six times as many people as I am used to in City, Houston, Niagara Falls, Asstay with her.

Greenbelters were saddened to learn of the death of former resident Margaret (Margie) Graham, who died in Vermont on May 31, 2008.

Congratulations to

- Marla McVicar of Megan Lane, who received a master of science from the University of Maryland May 16.

- Julia McLaughlin, who graduated from Eleanor Roosevelt High School with National Honor Society Recognition and Row of Distinction Honor for a GPA above 3.8. She will attend Elon University in Elon, N.C., in the fall.

- Matthew McLaughlin, who will be attending Arizona State University in the fall pursuing a master of fine arts in printmaking

Julia and Matthew are the children of Leslie and City Manager Michael McLaughlin of Lakeside.

- Navy Seaman Recruit Donte J. Kersey, a 2006 ERHS graduate, who recently completed U.S. Navy basic training with honors at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

- 2005 ERHS graduate Stephanie Holland, 9 Court Southway, who graduated from Prince George's Community College with an associate of arts degree and a certificate of completion of the theatre and entertainment technology program. She will complete her studies in technical theatre at Towson University.

- Danielle M. Miller, daughter of Sharon and Barry Miller of Greenhill Road, who was awarded a B.S. in elementary education from the University of Maryland at the College of Education ceremony in the Cole Student Activities Building on May 23. As a senior marshal, Danielle carried a flag at the ceremony and was recognized as a member of Kappa Delta Pi international

Kids' Fishing Day Is Next Saturday

On Saturday, June 14 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Patuxent Research Refuge will hold a kids' fishing day for youth 16 years and younger at the National Wildlife Visitor Center.

Fish away the day – learn how to cast a rod, identify and handle fish, practice catching and releasing skills and more. All fishing equipment will be provided (personal supplies may be used for fishing after the day's event at the Refuge's North Tract).

No registration is necessary. The Visitor Center is located off Powder Mill Road east of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. Call 301-497-5766 for information or visit http://patuxent.fws.gov.

Greenbelter Bashes Longest-ever Homer

Willie White of the Greenbelters in the Baltimore Beltway Senior Softball League has hit the team's - if not the league's - longest home run in living memory.

On Wednesday, May 28 in the fourth inning against Belair at Watkins Regional Park, White belted a pitch some 10 feet over the left field fence, which is about 12 feet high. It was the first time anyone cleared the fence, said Assistant Manager John Strekel, since he started playing there in the 1970s. Several Belairmen came to the Greenbelt bench to check the bat but found nothing irregular. Belair won the game, 23-9.

Monthly Movie Is "The Queen"

The next monthly movie, "The Queen," will be shown on Monday, June 9 from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Community Center Senior Lounge, Room 111.

The "People's Princess" Diana has died in a car accident in Paris. The Queen and Royal Family withdraw behind closed doors to mourn her death and do not address the public openly. They do not accept Diana as a member of the Royal family. The public begins to stir in discontent as they wait for the family to address them. The film also takes a close look at the interaction between HM Elizabeth II and newly elected Prime Minister Tony Blair as they struggle with the aftermath of Diana's death. He wants her to speak to the public, she wants to keep quiet.

Obituaries

Margaret Graham

Former Greenbelter Margaret (Margie) Graham, 85, died May 31, 2008, after

A resident of Greenbelt for 30 years, Mrs. Graham was very active in the Greenbelt Golden Age Club and the AARP Widowed Persons Service of Prince George's County.

Born in Portsmouth, Va., and raised in Albany, N.Y., after retiring from the New York state government, she and her husband and son Douglas moved to Greenbelt in 1971 to be near her sister, the Hilda Orleans Yontz of Greenbelt and her family.

In February 2001 she decided to move to Burlington, Vt., to be closer to her son Douglas and his family.

Her husband D. Earle Graham died in 1995. Her sister Hilda Orleans Yontz also preceded her in death.

She is survived by her son Douglas, daughter-in-law Susan and two grandchildren, Scott and Amy of Waitsfield, Vt.; also niece Carol Orleans Sauls of Lanham and nephew William Orleans of Greenbelt; and close family friend Shirley Sauls of Oak Ridge, Tenn.

A memorial service will take place here at a later date.

Memorial contributions may be made to: Society for Progressive Supra Nuclear Palsy, Executive Plaza 3, 11350 McCormick Road, Suite 906, Hunt Valley, MD 21031.

All Night Study Group, Shavuot Services

By Mishkan Torah tradition, the Jewish holiday of Shavuot will be observed by an all-night study group starting with a huppah service, a symbolic wedding of the Jewish people to God, followed by a series of Torah study, games related to the Torah and Judaic history and breaks for dairy refreshments along the way. At midnight, weather permitting, there will be a short outdoor service of selected writings compiled by Frank Pearlman. If rain occurs that service will be held indoors. At sunrise there will be a short morning service before people leave for home and sleep. One does not have to attend the whole evening's activities from beginning to end. Many members come and stay for as long as they physically can and leave when they get too tired. It is a relaxed atmosphere of community learning together, playing together and eating together. On the second day of Shavuot, Tuesday, June 10 at 9:30 a.m., there will be a traditional Shavuot holiday Torah service at which the ten commandments will be part of the day's parsha followed by a memorial service (yizkor). For more information see the website, www.mishkantorah.org or call the office at 301-474-4223.

Botanic Garden Has Solar Cooking Talk

The U.S. Botanic Garden will be the site of a free lecture, "Cooking with the Sun - Saving the Planet" by Patricia McArdle on Friday, June 13 from noon to 1 p.m.

This presentation offers a photographic tour of solar cooking around the world, to convince viewers that the 2.5 billion people who still cook over wood daily should be introduced to this simple technology. Solar cookers come in many shapes and sizes, can be manufactured locally and they need only the sun to cook food and heat water. McArdle will answer questions about solar cooking.

Pre-registration is required, via a call to 202-225-1116.

Butterfly Gardening Lecture and Tour

On Saturday, June 14 from 1 to 2:30 p.m. the U.S. Botanic Garden presents a lecture and tour, "Butterfly Gardening" by Jim Gallion, National Wildlife Federation.

This presentation reveals the secrets to establishing and maintaining a butterfly garden. Topics include design ideas, plant choices for nectar and larvae, a review of the butterfly's life cycle and many proven tips for a beautiful and sustainable garden. After the lecture, take a stroll through the NWF's sustainable garden.

This event is free; pre-registration is required and may be made by calling 202-225-1116.

Notice of Charter Amendment Resolution No. 2008-1

At its regular meeting of May 12, 2008, the City Council adopted a resolution to amend the City Charter. As required by state law, this resolution will be posted in its entirety for 40 days, until June 21, at the Municipal Building, as well as on the City's Web site at www.greenbelt-md.gov. A copy may also be requested of the City Clerk. The charter amendment will be effective on July 1, 2008, unless a proper petition to submit the amendment to the voters on a referendum is filed as permitted by law. This notice is given to provide a fair summary of the resolution, as also required by state law.

A Resolution . . . to Amend the Charter of the City of Greenbelt . . . by Amending Paragraph (d), "Powers," of Section 12, Titled "Employee Relations Board" to Provide that the Employee Relations Board be Empowered to Hear Grievances Arising out of Collective Bargaining Agreements: Subsequent to a referendum question on the ballot of the 2005 City election, the City Council amended the City Code to include a Labor Code for the purpose of recognizing the right of certain police officers to organize and bargain collectively. The Labor Code requires that all collective bargaining agreements (CBAs) must include a grievance procedure containing a provision for binding decision by the City's Employee Relations Board (ERB). Since the existing powers of the ERB in grievance procedures were limited to making recommendations to the City Council, it was necessary to amend the charter to enable the ERB to address grievances arising out of CBAs as required by the Labor Code.

For additional information, contact David E. Moran, Acting City Clerk, at 301-474-8000 or dmoran@greenbeltmd.gov.

REMOVAL OF DISEASED WILLOW OAKS BEHIND COMMUNITY CENTER

On or around June 9, 2008, the City of Greenbelt Public Works Department will be taking down two large willow oaks that are situated near Greenbelt Library and behind the Greenbelt Community Center. This decision has been very difficult for everyone involved. It is not easy to see trees fail because of drought and disease. These trees have provided years of aesthetic and environmental service to Greenbelt and its citizens. Just like any living entity there is decline and death. Unfortunately our large arboreal friends present a significant risk to houses, people, cars, and electric lines. Lesley Riddle, the superintendent of parks for Greenbelt, and the Advisory Committee on Trees have determined that these two trees pose multiple risk hazards and need to be removed.

While it is sad to see large trees die and have to be removed; the intention of the Arbor Day celebration this year was to mitigate the lose of these trees by planting three willow oaks and three chestnut oaks in the vicinity of the trees that need to be removed.

laboratory space to accommodate state-of-the-art research.

In preparation for BARC's centennial in 2010, they requested that USDA develop strategic plans detailing the USDA's short- and long-term visions for BARC and NAL. They have asked USDA to take action to address their concerns regarding the operation budgets at BARC and NAL.

With respect to NAL, Mukulski, Cardin and Hoyer were especially concerned about leaking windows and other deficiencies that compromise the library's irreplaceable collections. "This is not how the world's most comprehensive agricultural research facility and one of the largest agricultural libraries should be forced to operate," the letter stated.

The three legislators are expected to continue their quest to ensure that BARC and the NAL will be able to continue to undertake their critical missions as two of the "world's foremost agricultural research institutions."

Pilot Project

Sharing their goals is John Peter Thompson, president of the non-profit consortium, National Agricultural Research Alliance-Beltsville (Alliance). Thompson is chairman of Behnke's Nurseries Company in Beltsville.

The Senate override of President Bush's veto of the farm bill could mean a go-ahead for a five-year pilot project permitting enhanced-use leasing authority at BARC and NAL. Thompson, a passionate supporter of BARC's mission, helped craft a program to permit the leasing of vacant space at BARC/ARS and the library to private companies engaged in business compatible with the Center's mission.

Partnering with Thompson in promoting the enhanced-use leasing authority was Renee Winsky, president and executive director of Maryland Technology Development Corporation.

Thompson told the News Review that Winsky will carry out the marketing portion of pilot projects while he, as a volunteer, concentrates on the battle to protect BARC through the Alliance. Winsky served as the Alliance secretary.

In her May 28 letter, Winsky thanked Mikulski, Cardin and Hoyer for their support of the enhanced-use leasing authority. She envisions, for example, developing an incubator "as the bedrock program for Maryland start-up companies seeking to take advantage of BARC research, expertise and facilities."

As a business incubator, she noted the facility will promote new Maryland businesses "which in turn will spin off as sufficient companies in the greater Maryland economy." (Winsky, a graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, was former Public Relations/Communications Director for the City of Greenbelt. Her parents reside in Greenbelt.)

Thompson has been a major force in creating the Alliance. He said the organization will continue to advocate for BARC and its agricultural and horticul-the sale of BARC land without the consent of Congress.

Other acreage, however, has been transferred from the research center for non-agricultural uses - the construction of a maintenance and service yard for Metro, a Southern Maryland U.S. District Courthouse and a four-building headquarters facility for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

City council was most concerned about USDA's headquarters' building on Sunnyside Avenue. With 1,500 new employees located there, council believed that the complex would encroach upon the city's greenbelt and increase traffic on local roads. However, others in the community thought the USDA complex would help preserve BARC land for compatible uses.

portable patio fencing in latticedesign panels about 36 inches high that can be removed for storage in winter. On a motion made by Councilmember Edward Putens and seconded by Councilmember Leta Mach, the proposal was approved unanimously. May anticipated that the Café would re-open soon.

Council also approved unanimously a Proposed Mutual Aid Agreement among 11 Prince George's County municipalities for emergency or disaster aid to public works agencies. The agreement formalizes a relationship that has existed for several years and is partially in response to Federal Emergency Management Administration requirements. In response to council questions, staff said an "emergency" situation is when a municipality has exhausted all its public works resources and still needs help.

The agenda was amended to remove two items and to add two items suggested by Mach. City staff removed a proposed resolution on purchase of a new surveillance camera system for the Aquatic & Fitness Center; Councilmember Konrad Herling requested an item relating to Recognition Group status also be removed. Mach's items concerned Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) staffing and requested that a question relating to emergency preparedness be referred to the Public Safety Advisory Committee.

Mach said that ERHS is facing a proposed reduction in teaching staff of 13.5 positions for the 2008-2009 school year, based on a projected student population of about 2,600, down from 2,800. That projection was questioned by council, which agreed unanimously to Mach's motion that a letter go to the School Board objecting to the arbitrary reduction and challenging the projected student population.

On the last agenda item Mach suggested and council agreed that a referral be made to the city's Public Safety Advisory Committee asking whether Greenbelt should conduct its own emergency preparedness day, rather than take part in a proposed multi-jurisdictional drill .

Under meetings it was announced that the city would participate in a worksession on June 11 with representatives from the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority and Greenbelt Station developers to discuss issues associated with the proposed North Core development, and on July 21 with the State Highway Administration to discuss the Route 1/Route 201 Alternative planning process/update.

graduating seniors from Eleanor Roosevelt High School each received a $1,000 scholarship to help them with college expenses.

Each student also received an ACE T-shirt and all award winners were invited to participate with ACE in the Labor Day Festival Parade in September. All student winners also received certificates of recognition from the city, the county and the state.

A number of dignitaries participated in the awards ceremony, including Delegate Justin Ross, representing the Maryland State Legislature, Prince George's County Councilmember Ingrid Turner and Prince George's County School Board Member Rosalind Johnson. Turner presented an annual donation of $2,000 to the ACE Scholarship Fund from the County Council, which was gratefully accepted.

Morisette also thanked all of the family members and school staff who have helped to support the awardees, many of whom were present to cheer.

In addition, many teachers and all principals (with the exception of St. Hugh's School) were on hand to support the students.

Morisette introduced the other ACE members, almost all of whom were present: Sudhanshu Sinha, Alla Lake, Kathleen Lewis, Lauretta Baugh, Debra Payne, Jon Gardner and Theresa Bugg. He also recognized Leta Mach, ACE's liaison to the city council, and Wendy Wexler, the city's staff liaison to ACE.

Students are nominated by their school faculties with an award given to one girl and one boy from each school. For the first time there is a new school in Greenbelt whose students also needed to be recognized. It is Turning Point Academy, a charter school on the eastern edge of the city. Turning Point has started out with the lower grades with the fourth grade as the highest this year. Students are traditionally awarded in their final year at their school.

Awardees Greenbelt Elementary Daniel Viscarra, 6th grade

Daniel Viscarra, a highly able student, has a friendly and pleasant personality. He is a diligent worker who pays attention to the assignment that is given, asks questions to clarify any points of uncertainty and turns in an excellent final product.

Daniel began this year with excellent work habits and over the year all of his teachers have noticed that he has become even more committed to learning purely for the sake of learning. Daniel's active learning style means that he turns every assignment into an opportunity to increase his current level of knowledge. Daniel takes an interest in his schoolwork and is eager to participate in class activities. He is a creative thinker and regularly shares his thoughts and ideas with the class during discussions. Daniel is an active reader - he finds new series of books at the library and accomplishes his reading goals every quarter. In addition to being an excellent student academically, Daniel is a good citizen in the school and makes honor roll every quarter.

attitude. As a patrol, Kareemah models the qualities of a good citizen – respect for school and self. She is often chosen for leadership positions in the school because she sets high standards for herself and others. Kareemah is a friendly student; both adults and children enjoy working with her on projects.

As a leader, Kareemah helps others rise to their own potential – so that everyone feels successful.

Kareemah does not rush through her work and projects. Instead, she uses creativity to add extra pizzazz to her work. She always does her best and will revise and edit an assignment until she achieves excellence. Kareemah has a network of friends who also work for success. They often put their heads together to accomplish their academic goals. Kareemah is an excellent student and shows a high level of commitment to her own education. Kareemah makes honor roll every quarter.

Springhill Lake Elementary Roberto Solorzano, 5th grade

Roberto Solarzano, a fifth grade student of Springhill Lake Elementary, has excellent rapport with staff and his fellow students. He is not only extremely well liked but also very much respected by his peers.

Roberto's academic success includes having been an honor roll student since the third grade. He has won first place in the school science fair and was planning to compete in the County Science Fair in April as well. Roberto plays the flute in the school orchestra and plans on playing both the flute and the clarinet in middle school.

Roberto's community activities include Cub Scouting to continue to Boy Scouting. Roberto often translates between English and Spanish letters and documents for his peers and their families and is very supportive of his friends as they learn English as a second language and complete assignments.

The Springhill Lake Elementary School community is proud of Roberto's success and the terrific support he gives to friends who are new to the school and to the country.

Springhill Lake Elementary Angum Check, 5th grade

Also attending Springhill Lake Elementary is another remarkable student, Angum Check, a student in fifth grade. She has attended Springhill Lake Elementary for the past three years. She excels academically and is liked and respected by the entire school community, staff and students alike. In addition to being an honor roll student, Angum won first prize in the Springhill Lake Elementary science fair. She is an exemplary violinist, sings in her church choir, loves music, and mathematics and is an all-around impressive fifth grader.

His peers look to him and he has earned their deep respect.

He readily offers his help when needed in class and is a leader in participation, project work and class assignments. The school has noted that Emmanuel was a bit shy when he first enrolled but has grown into an outstanding member of the Magnolia community.

Magnolia Elementary Yasmin Qudah, 6th grade

Yasmin was selected as Magnolia's female recipient based on her strengths in leadership in community participation, outstanding citizenship, perfect attendance and high academic goals. She is a frequent participant on the WMES school morning news show. The school called attention to her focus on academic goals – like making Honor Roll each quarter. She does not allow anyone or anything to interfere with her focus.

While she is quiet and mild mannered, she displays a strength which demands respect and influences her peers in a positive way. She is noted for a great sense of humor, yet carrying herself with dignity and grace.

Turning Point Academy Logan Campbell, 4th grade

Logan Campbell is an outstanding student. She is responsible, a hard worker, enjoys learning and is always willing to help her classmates. Logan strives hard on a daily basis to reach her unique potential and does her best to achieve academic excellence in all subject areas. She has the utmost respect for authority, demonstrates great character attributes and has a pleasant and friendly personality.

Logan's favorite subject is math. She enjoys solving math problems and does a great job assisting her classmates with mathematical concepts and calculations. Whenever she has a class assignment, she works diligently and uses her time wisely. She expresses ideas clearly and enjoys participating in classroom conversations and discussions.

Turning Point Academy Isaac Adams, 4th grade

Isaac Adams strives for academic success daily. He consistently turns in homework, class assignments and other special projects on time. He has a creative mind and loves to write, draw and dance.

Isaac is known for his academic acuity, leadership skills and creative talents. He is a quick learner and only has to hear a concept once before he is ready to accomplish the task. As with some students, once they are taught something you can tell they have learned it forever; Isaac is no different. He is a role model to his classmates and strives to resolve problems in a positive manner. and a great sense of humor.

He is a helpful young man, a friend to all, consistently watching out for the welfare of others and often alerts his teachers when he notices another child in need of extra attention. He also volunteers as an altar server for St. Hugh's Parish.

St. Hugh's School Bridgett Cornett, 8th Grade

Bridgett Cornett is a conscientious student and diligent person who does not hesitate to volunteer for school, community and church activities. She has been described as "quick and dependable" by the school administration.

Bridget is an altar server for St. Hugh's parish and is usually one of the first selected to serve. She has demonstrated consistent Christian behavior and has a positive attitude toward others. She is a member of St. Hugh's Youth Group, which is dedicated to community service and also volunteers at the Community Center.

Greenbelt Middle Maabo Bembuh, 8th grade

Maabo Bembuh is committed to achieving academic excellence and helping others. Through his tenure as a student at Greenbelt Middle School, Maabo has demonstrated a joy for learning and a desire to lend a helping hand to his teachers and peers.

Maabo has served as a dedicated library aide and manager to the boys' soccer team. His Reading & Language Arts teacher describes him as a "responsible student who actively participates in class and always turns in homework." Maabo has grown to be a well respected student by his teachers and peers.

Greenbelt Middle Chantel Jones, 8th grade

Chantel Jones is the true embodiment of an exceptional student. Over her two years as a student at Greenbelt Middle School, Chantel has shown outstanding academic performance, a positive attitude toward the learning process and an unmatched desire to succeed in all she does. Through her diligence, Chantel has grown into a conscientious, well-rounded student who has earned the respect not only of her teachers but of her peers and younger siblings. Chantel has actively participated on both the girls' basketball and softball teams for two years.

skills and completing his school work, he also has excelled in sports activities. He played on the Varsity soccer team in 2006 and 2007 and was named Most Valuable Player last season. He also participated in "La Prueba F.C.," a Spanish league.

While keeping busy with school and sports, Evenson also worked at least 30 hours every week to assist his family. He also served as an aide for a social studies teacher during the school year. With all of these activities and challenges, Evenson is still able to maintain a grade point average (GPA) of 2.63. He plans to attend Seton Hall to fulfill his goal to be a civil engineer.

Eleanor Roosevelt High School Elise Flynn

Elise is recognized for her outstanding academic achievements and community contributions. She is currently maintaining a 4.47 GPA even during her last challenging year of academics. Even more noteworthy, she has maintained an overall GPA of 4.153, which includes the near completion of 11 Advanced Placement courses. In preparation for her college years, Elise scored an impressive 1440 on the Critical Reading and Math portions of the SAT, including an 800 in Math.

In addition to her academic success, Elise was named an Advanced Placement Scholar with Distinction, and she placed as a finalist in the 2008 National Merit Scholarship Program as well as in the Academic Achievement Category of the Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program.

Not only has Elise excelled in her school work but she also has contributed to the well-being of her community and colleagues, for example volunteering at Creative Kids Camp, for children ages 5-12 that explores the performing arts, tutoring young children in French and volunteering with the Girl Scouts. Elise will attend Saint Mary's College of Maryland with an intended major in Environmental Studies.

Maryland State Delegate Award – Aislan Sims

Aislan has many formidable achievements to date, including memberships in prestigious groups, extracurricular activities and academic achievements. Her memberships include the National Honor Society, the Thespian Honor Society, the yearbook committee and member and secretary of the French honor society.

In theater, Aislan has played the role of Helen Keller in the play "The Miracle Worker" and also is captain of the ALONIZ Improvisation Team and member of the Japanese Club. In addition she held behind-the-scene roles as technical assistant in other plays and productions. She volunteers at the SHARE warehouse assisting to package food for low-income families. Most notable, Aislan maintains a cumulative grade point average of 4.015. She received Honorable Mention in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar program, Honorable Mention in the Chemistry Society of Washington and placed second in the 2006 ERHS Science Fair, chemistry, an accomplishment for a student not in the ERHS Science and Technology program.
