Tuesday's Statewide Primary Will Determine Significant Races

by James Giese

Greenbelters who watched the Labor Day parade will know that a gubernatorial primary election is coming up next Tuesday, September 14. Some candidates for various posts remained in their vehicles, smiling and waving; others preferred walking along the parade route and shaking hands.

Only registered Democrats and Republicans are eligible to vote in the primary. Those registered with other parties or who are unaffiliated must wait until the general election on Tuesday, November 2 to cast their votes.

For Greenbelters, there will only be a few offices for which their votes will affect the outcome in Tuesday's primary. Yet these offices are important ones.

For Democrats the main contested race of interest is for Prince George's county executive. But the offices of state's attorney and sheriff are also up for grabs.

No Republicans have filed to run for any of these three offices or for the offices of clerk of the circuit court or register of wills in this heavily Democratic county. With no Republican opposition and no third-party or unaffiliated candidates running for these offices in the general election, the winners will effectively be decided by Democratic voters on Tuesday.

For Republicans the main primary contest of interest is selection of an opponent to run against incumbent Democratic Senator Barbara Mikulski in November, since she is expected to easily overcome her primary challengers on Tuesday.

Governor

Topping each party's ballot will be the race for governor and lieutenant governor. Two slates, headed by perennial candidate Ralph Jaffe of Baltimore County and by J.P. Cusick of Hollywood, are challenging incumbent Governor Martin O'Malley and Lt. Governor Anthony G. Brown. Neither challenger is well known.

On the Republican ballot former Governor Robert L. Ehrlich, Jr., running with his former Secretary of State Mary Kane, is being challenged by little-known Brian Murphy, a Bethesda utility company executive who has received something of a boost from an endorsement by Sarah Palin, former governor of Alaska and conservative Republican Tea Party activist.

The slates led by O'Malley and Ehrlich are expected to prevail easily to become their party's candidates in the November general election. This predictable gubernatorial primary will likely be replaced by a more compelling November race as O'Malley and Ehrlich face each other in addition to several Green, Libertarian and Constitution party slates.

Attorney General

Maryland Attorney General Douglas F. Gansler is seeking nomination for reelection unopposed on the Democratic ballot. Republicans failed to nominate any candidates for this office.

Comptroller

Although incumbent comptroller Peter Franchot faces no opposition on the Democratic primary ballot, three Republicans are competing for their party's nomination to run against him in the general election.

William H. Campbell, of Columbia, has served as chief financial officer for a number of federal agencies, was Amtrak's CFO from 2007-2009 and has recently been endorsed by candidate and former Governor Robert Ehrlich.

Armand Girard, a retired Baltimore City school teacher who has run for office previously, would as comptroller, promote slot machines to enhance education funding. Brendan Madigan, an 18-year-old from northern Baltimore County, is active with the Tea Party and as a conservative blogger.

U.S. Congress

For U.S. Senate, incumbent Senator Barbara Mikulski is seeking election to her fifth term. She is expected to win handily over her six relatively unknown primary opponents: Christopher J. Garner, Annapolis; Theresa C. Scaldaferrri, Mt. Rainier; Sanquetta Taylor, Baltimore County; Blaine Taylor, Towson; A. Billy Bob Jaworski, Montgomery County; and Lih Young, Montgomery County.

Republican candidates seeking to be their party's nominee in the November election are also little known. Of the group, Dr. Eric Wargotz, a Queen Anne's County physician and county commissioner, appears to be the best funded for the campaign. Other candidates are Joseph Alexander, Silver Spring; Barry Asbury, Baltimore County; Dr. Neil Cohen, a Potomac dentist; Stephens Dempsey, Frederick County; Samuel R. Graham, Sr., a retired ironworker and business owner from Bowie; John Kimble, a frequent candidate from Montgomery County; Gregory Kump, a former Marine from Towson; Daniel McAndrew, Harford County; Jim Rutledge, a Harford County attorney; and Eddie Vendetti, an Olney engineer.

Steny H. Hoyer is seeking his 15th full term in the U.S. House of Representatives representing the Fifth Congressional District, which includes portions of Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties, as well as all of Charles, St. Mary's and Calvert Counties. Hoyer is now the House majority leader, the second ranking position in the House. He has two little-known Democratic primary challengers. Sylvanus Bent of Accokeek holds a doctorate in ministry and is a former Department of Defense budget analyst. A former Americorps VISTA volunteer, Andrew Gall of College Park is now a graduate student at American University.

Four Republican primary candidates also are seeking the congressional seat. Collins A. Bailey, a member of the Charles County Board of Education and Hoyer's Republican challenger in the 2008 general election, is

by Virginia Beauchamp

This year's Outstanding Citizen first came to Greenbelt before Christmas 1962. I remember meeting him at the tree lighting ceremony near the Municipal Building – the newly hired city manager, James K. Giese. Then he went away – to pack up his things – and I did not see him again for two more years.

That fact had nothing to do with him – but with our family's situation. We moved to Africa for a two-year stint with the Agency for International Development. Returning, we settled into new housing in the Lakeside development and have lived here ever since.

During our time away, Giese had found GHI housing near where we used to live; a few years later he moved in across the street from us. For something like 40 years, we have been neighbors.

That city job of course had nothing to do with Giese's being named Outstanding Citizen for 2010. Instead it could have been a disqualification. This honor is granted not for one's job, but for one's volunteer accomplishments – for contributions to the community and its well-being.

Giese has given such contributions to Greenbelt in abundance.

Festival Shuts Down an Hour Early Saturday Due to Fights

by Thomas X. White

Almost perfect weather brought very large crowds to this year's Labor Day Festival that had activities spread throughout Roosevelt Center and the surrounding public spaces. On Saturday evening, one of the most crowded nights of the four-day festival, Greenbelt Police officers became concerned about the activities of large groups of high school-aged people inside the festival grounds.

After consultation with operators of the carnival and the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee, the police opted to begin closing the festival down at 10 p.m., one hour before the scheduled closing at 11 p.m.

Master Patrol Officer Kelly Lawson, public affairs officer for the Greenbelt Police Department, and her colleagues responded to News Review inquiries about the Saturday evening events. They said that several police officers working the festival became concerned that groups of young people were forming and fighting

Thank You Greenbelt

To have been chosen the Greenbelt Outstanding Citizen of 2010 is a great honor. I am awed to be placed on a roll that includes so many distinguished and deserving citizens who have done so much for the benefit of this community. I thank all those who have helped me in my endeavors, nominated me, supported me, selected me, rewarded me and congratulated me for this recognition. My special thanks to my dear wife, Bernie, whose love and support of Greenbelt contributed in no small way to my achieving this recognition.

Greenbelt is a wonderful community and it is so because there are so many in it that care and work to make it so. One needs to look beyond those who share my honor with me and appreciate the quiet work performed on a daily basis by the many more who willingly dedicate their personal time to help others and better our community, country and the world and do so, not to seek recognition, but because it is the right thing to do. To all those deserving but unrecognized volunteers, thank you.

There are also many others who work diligently to make our daily lives better and do so with extra measure even though they are paid. From the laborers or service employees to the teachers and doctors and clergy, the managers and bosses, those who protect us and to our elected officials, the outstanding efforts of so many of these Greenbelt workers also help make Greenbelt great. They, too, deserve our thanks and appreciation and I gladly offer mine.

After all, Labor Day is the day of recognition for all who toil. We should do more to recognize the special efforts and achievements of Greenbelt workers as well as those who volunteer.

Although Bernie and I no longer reside in Greenbelt, we shall continue to be a part of it as much as possible and our hearts shall always be with you.

Menu for Senior Nutrition Program

The Senior Nutrition "Food and Friendship" program provides lunches for seniors Monday through Friday at the Community Center beginning at noon. Meals must be reserved by 11 a.m. two days ahead so that enough food is ordered. Call 301-397-2208, ext. 4215.

All meals include bread and margarine, coffee or tea and skim milk. Menus for September 13 to 17:

Monday – Grape juice, Italian sausage on roll with peppers and onions, potato salad, seasoned carrots, applesauce.

Tuesday – Creamy broccoli soup, beef stew with vegetables, chopped kale, tossed salad, sugar cookies.

Wednesday – Orange juice, meatballs, penne pasta with tomato sauce, mixed vegetables, diced peaches.

Thursday – Navy bean soup, tuna pasta salad, four bean salad, lettuce and tomato salad, fresh peach.

Friday – Annual Senior Picnic – all sites closed.

Aviation Museum Film Batteries Not Included

The College Park Aviation Museum's Hollywood Flyers film series continues with "Batteries Not Included" on Saturday, September 18 at 1 p.m. Apartment block tenants seek the aid of alien mechanical life-forms to save their building from demolition.

The movie is free with museum admission; popcorn and lemonade are provided.

Correction

In the Labor Day Festival Begins article on page one last week, we incorrectly stated that William Edwards, III, who sang the Star Spangled Banner at the opening ceremonies Friday was a "former" resident. He assures us he is very much a current resident, as his Plateau Place neighbors will attest . . . and that he isn't planning on leaving for quite a while. Our apologies and we're glad to know he will be in our midst and hopefully launching important Greenbelt events for the foreseeable future.

NAMI Examines Special Trusts

The September National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) workshop will be held on Thursday, September 16 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Hanco Building at Beckett Field, 8511 Legation Road in New Carrollton. This month's topic will be "Creating a Special Needs Trust," led by Ron M. Landsman, P.A., counselor and attorney-at-law.

Families living with mental illness are often anxious about ensuring that there are resources – financial, legal and personal – to meet their loved one's future needs. Landsman will present a basic explanation of a Special Needs Trust, a tool to improve the quality of an individual's life without disqualifying him/her from eligibility to receive public benefits. All are welcome to attend this free program.

Arboretum Features Herbal Beverages

On Saturday, September 11 from 1 to 4 p.m. see how easy it is to create herbal teas, punches and liqueurs at a free informal drop-in session at the National Herb Garden of the U.S. National Arboretum. Members of the Herb Society of America will provide demonstrations and samples.

Explorations Features Alaska on Sept. 17

Explorations Unlimited will host a presentation on Alaska, the Last Frontier, by Michael Crane on Friday, September 17 at 1:45 p.m. as the first of its fall speaker series.

Crane will speak about the people, places, history and coastal environments of this land of extremes from a temperate rain forest in the south to a frozen permafrost in the north and alpine zones among the mountain ranges crossing the central part of the state. Alaska abounds with mining, fur trading, fishing and oil development, while thousands of visitors explore parks and coastal villages.

Important events in history include European discovery, U.S. territory, Japanese invasion and statehood. While the Alaska Current sweeps the Gulf of Alaska, seasonal sea ice in the Bering Sea and Arctic Ocean waters define offshore marine habitats.

Crane, an oceanographer by trade, lived in Anchorage from 1975 until August 1992. He worked for NOAA as a field representative for the ocean research programs and will teach a SAGE course on Alaska History at the Greenbelt Community Center beginning in October.

Explorations Unlimited is held every Friday at the Greenbelt Community Center in the Senior Classroom, Room 114. Everyone is welcome to attend and questions are encouraged. For more information call 301-397-2208.

Sept. 17 Benefit Dance At Legion for L. Long

Talk at Comm. Center On Banned Books

Banned Book Week 2010 of the American Library Association (ALA) is September 25 through October 2. Doug Love of Greenbelt plans to talk about and lead a discussion on the subject on Sunday, September 12 at 3 p.m. in the Community Center, Room 114. ALA annually compiles a list of banned and challenged books and offers support for librarians on this subject.

Love, a founder of the Astronomical Society of Greenbelt, says he'll start with the Bible and other religious tomes before going on to other volumes in "a galaxy of books" that have been banned or challenged over time, both in the U.S. and abroad. He also will talk about what happened to two books on spelunking that he wrote and published in the 1970s, when he was at the University of Indiana.

Pooch Plunges Held At Pool this Weekend

The traditional Greenbelt outdoor pool post-closing pooch plunges will be held by Animal Control and the city Recreation Department this weekend, rain or shine. From 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday a splash party will be held for socialized dogs and their handlers at the outdoor pool.

There is a nominal fee and each dog must have a handler. The rules for the pooch plunge include that handlers must pick up and properly dispose of feces; handlers must render first-aid if their dog is injured and notify other handlers if their dog inflicts injury; handlers must come dressed to swim if they plan to enter the pool with dog; no glass containers; and all participating dogs must be licensed and vaccinated.

The following are not permitted: dog treats or training treats; aggressive dogs; dogs in heat; dogs under four months of age; any animals other than dogs; or any injured or sick dogs. The Kiddie Pool will be available for small dogs.

For more information see city ad on page 5.

Writers Group Needs Anthology Artwork

The Greenbelt Writers Group is looking for pen and ink or charcoal artwork for their latest anthology. Subject matter may be abstract or realistic and may be used as cover pictures, background pieces or to separate the literary pieces, which will be printed in black-and-white. Entries should be no larger than 8-1/2" by 11".

The group is unable to compensate artists for use of their works but will acknowledge all contributors in print by name and with a short biography if desired. GWG anthologies are sold throughout Maryland.

The submission deadline is September 13. Email any questions to mparbach@verizon.net.

Obituaries

Richard Astrayka

Former Greenbelt resident Richard Astrayka, 77, of New Carrollton died on September 2, 2010, after a long illness.

Mr. Astrayka lived in Greenbelt for 30 years before moving to New Carrollton after he suffered a stroke.

He was a veteran of the Korean War. He worked for the federal government at the Department of Defense.

He was married to his wife Anita Astrayka for over 40 years.

After his retirement he held a part-time job at the Mobil gas station. He was a volunteer coach for the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club football team for about six years.

His son Ray Gibson preceded him in death.

Mr. Astrayka is survived by his wife Anita Astrayka of New Carrollton; daughter Lisa Dafan of Elkridge, Md.; sons Alex Astrayka of Elkridge; Lesley Fleshman and Richie Gibson of Greenbelt; 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services were held at Gasch's Funeral Home on Tuesday, September 7. Interment of his urn will be at the Veterans' Cemetery at Cheltenham.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club.

Our sympathy to the family and friends of longtime former resident Richard Astrayka, who died on September 2.

We were sorry to hear of the death of another member of one of Greenbelt's pioneer families, Betty Kitchen Clark, 75, on July 28, 2010, in Duluth, Ga. She attended Greenbelt schools and graduated in 1953 from Northwestern High School. She is survived by her daughters Sandie Schultz of Catonsville, Md., and Nancy Fort of Georgia, four grandchildren and her brother Robert Egli of Pennsylvania. She was predeceased by her brother James Kitchen, of Greenbelt High School's class of 1946. A memorial celebration was held August 4 at the Candlelight Inn in Catonsville.

Condolences may be mailed to Nancy Fort, 1865 Spring Rose Glen, Lawrenceville, GA 30043 or by email to nancyleefort@gmail.com.

Congratulations to:

– Greenbelt's County Councilmember Ingrid Turner, who was selected by the Maryland Association of Counties (MACO) Board of Directors to serve as its treasurer for the 2011 legislative year at the MACO Summer Conference at Ocean City. – W Patricia Shuler, attending Howard University for an MFA in film, who was awarded an Honorable Mention in The Christophers 23rd Annual Video Contest for College Students for her video "Art for Hart's Sake." The annual competition is for the creation of short films, five minutes or less, that convey The Christophers' message that one person can make a difference.

A very happy 80th birthday to News Review staffer and 2010 Outstanding Citizen Jim Giese. A surprise party was held Sunday, September 5 at Greenbelt Community Church.

Send us your reports of new babies, awards, honors, etc. to share with our readers. To send information for "Our Neighbors" email us at newsreview@greenbelt.com or leave a message at 301-474-6892.

Three Sisters West Site Chosen; Help Is Needed

Councilmember Emmett Jordan, Joe Murray and Mayor Judith Davis help remove sod for the Three Sisters plots at the Community Center Garden during the Green Man Festival in May.

Three Sisters Garden volunteers and the Public Works Department have identified a location in Greenbelt West for the last section of the three-part garden project. It will be behind the Springhill Lake Recreation Center at 6101 Cherrywood Lane. The first section, started in the spring, is at the Community Center. The second section, in Schrom Hills Park in Greenbelt East, was started during the summer.

The kick off for the new garden site will be an Equinox Celebration on Sunday, September 26 with work beginning on sheet mulching for a Medicine Wheel Garden.

September 11

All are invited to a worksession this Saturday, September 11 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Second Sister site at Schrom Hills Park. The plan is to plant fruit trees, grapes and cover crops in several circular plots in beds prepared in August. Work will also continue on building bamboo arbors for support of the grape and kiwi plantings.

Other Events

Sunday, September 26, 3 to 6:30 p.m.: Food and Fun Raising Workshop and potluck, Springhill Lake Recreation Center Garden. Equinox celebration, medicine wheel gardens, sheet mulching and fruit tree plantings. Bring a dish to share.

Saturday, October 2, 9 to 11:30 a.m.: Work morning, Greenbelt Community Center Garden. Clean up and cover crop planting.

Sunday, October 24, 3 to 6:30 p.m.: Food and Fun Raising Workshop and Potluck, Springhill Lake Recreation Center Garden. Square-foot garden construction workshop. Bring a dish to share.

Volunteers Sought

Volunteers and crew work leaders are needed for each site. Email Maggie Cahalan (maggie@cheers.org) or Lucy Duff (lucyduff@earthlink.net) for more information.

The Three Sisters Garden project is approved as one for which Prince George's County Master with each other. This activity caused the officers to disperse the groups.

Once a group was dispersed, however, the persons involved would then regroup elsewhere within or near the festival grounds and continue fighting. As a result of one such fight one juvenile was arrested for assault and two other persons were detained while reports were completed.

Fights Reported

According to police officials the first fight was reported at 9:22 p.m. and a second report came in at 9:42 p.m. Shortly after the latter incident, where an arrest was made, the Greenbelt Police Department's Special Operations Division Commander, Captain Thomas Kemp, met with the carnival operator and the Festival chair to consider options. It was agreed that closing the festival grounds early would be the most prudent.

Once the decision was made, festival rides and attractions were incrementally shut down and completed about 10:35 p.m. Bingo on the Community Center lawn had just started the "black-out" fill-the-card game, which was done by 11 p.m. By midnight Roosevelt Center was completely empty and secure.

Captain Kemp noted that a few minor scuffles occurred in the area of Crescent Road and Gardenway following the closing as festival goers departed. The only police action at that stage was to continue the peaceful dispersal of the crowd.

Three vehicles, each with MD tags, were reported stolen: A red 1999 Plymouth Voyager taken August 30 from the 7500 block Mandan Road, a gold 2000 Chrysler Cirrus taken August 30 from the 8100 block Mandan Terrace and a black 2004 GMC Yukon on September 2 from the 8000 block Mandan Road. There were two attempts to steal vehicles on August 30, in the 7500 block Mandan Road and Mandan Road at Hanover Parkway.

Five reports of thefts from autos were received: 6100 block Greenbelt Road (MD tag), 400 block Ridge Road (GPS unit), 6200 block Breezewood Court (CD/DVD player and amplifier), 6200 block Springhill Court (GPS unit), 6100 block Breezewood Court (camera and shoes). An attempted theft from auto occurred in the 6000 block Springhill Drive.

Acts of vandalism occurred August 28 when five car windows were reported damaged or broken in the 6200 block Springhill Court, 6000 block Cherrywood Court, 6200 block Breezewood Court and 9100 block Edmonston Road. On August 30 a vehicle was reported scratched in the 5900 block of Cherrywood Terrace.

Teen Driving Program Held in Sykesville

In a joint program sponsored by the Maryland State Highway Administration and Ford Motor Company Driving Skills for Life, a half-day free safe driving program for teens will be offered at the Maryland State Police training facility in Sykesville on Saturday, October 16 and Sunday, October 17. Four sessions will be held, from 8 a.m. to noon and from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. each day.

Vehicle crashes are the number one killer of teenagers, claiming nearly 5,000 lives in the U.S. each year. Crash rates are highest during a teen's first few hundred miles on the road. Each session will cover hazard recognition, vehicle handling, space management and speed management.

The program is for teens ages 15 to 19 who are newly licensed drivers or hold a valid driver's permit. A maximum of 75 students are taken per session. The program is free but requires immediate registration at www.drivingskillsforlife.com.

The program will be held at Maryland Police and Correctional Training Commission, 6852 Fourth Street in Sykesville.

Mother Nature Likes Lights Out

The 2010-2011 program season of the Patuxent Bird Club and Prince George's Audubon Society opens with a presentation on Tuesday, September 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the College Park Airport Annex by representatives of "Lights Out" programs in Baltimore and Washington.

Colliding with transparent or reflective surfaces is one of the biggest killers of birds in the world; only habitat loss kills more. This session will focus on the challenges that migratory birds face year-round with building collisions and light pollution. Participants will learn about federal and international developments on bird/glass collisions and what people can do to help on the federal level and in their own homes and offices.

The College Park Airport Annex is at 1909 Cpl. Frank Scott Drive in College Park. For more information call 301-262-5148.

Hike for People, Pooches Planned

Watkins Nature Center invites everyone to go for a pooch hike on Saturday, September 11 from 10 a.m. to noon. A second such hike is scheduled for Sunday, October 17 from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. People and their pets can explore the natural world while hiking two or three miles.

Meet at the parking lot on the grassy area at the back of the park, which is at 301 Watkins Park Drive in Upper Marlboro. Bring a water dish for the dogs. They must be restrained on a leash and be with an owner who is at least 18 years of age. For safety reasons, no children are permitted on the hike, nor are aggressive dogs. Reservations are appreciated. There is no charge for this activity.

For information call 301-218-6702, TTY 301-446-3402.

Voter Registration Is Up Since Presidential Election

by Mary Moien

In Greenbelt, voter registration has risen about 3 percent since November 2008 to 11,494 registered voters. However, about 1 out of 5 are not eligible to vote next Tuesday – those who are not registered as Democrats or Republicans. Only the two major parties will be participating in the primary election. Greenbelters will vote for a school board representative, a nonpartisan position, at the November election.

All Greenbelt precincts showed some increase in registration, with the exception of Greenbelt Center which had a slight decrease. Greenbelt has traditionally had a much higher percentage of registered Democrats, ranging from the mid-60 percent range in Center and North End precincts to the low- to mid-70 percent range in Greenbelt East and West.

Seventy-seven percent of those registered in Greenbelt West (Springhill Lake Elementary School) are registered Democrats, traditionally the highest percentage in the city. However, that precinct also traditionally has the lowest voter turnout.

Although almost three-quarters (74 percent) of voters registered in the whole city are Democrats, Prince George's County as a whole has an even higher percentage (78 percent). This compares to State of Maryland in which 56 percent are registered Democrats, the same percentage as in 2008.

Twenty-seven percent of statewide registrants are Republicans compared with 8 percent in the city.

Although they are not eligible to vote in the primary, the number of Greenbelt registered voters in other parties has changed little in the two year period. The Green party has seen its small number of registrants drop from 77 to 75 in 2010. The Libertarians have seen their numbers increase from 25 in 2008 to 31 in 2010, a relatively large percent increase on a very small number of people. Registrants who are unaffiliated with any party have seen their numbers increase by almost 20 percent – from 1,141 in 2008 to 1,353 in 2010.

Primary Voting

Primary election day is Tuesday, September 14. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The Prince George's County Board of Elections reports that voters can expect delays at the polls after 5 p.m. due to after-work voting. Voters can avoid delays by voting between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Five precincts serve Greenbelt:

Greenbelt Community Center (third precinct)
15 Crescent Road

Greenbelt Elementary School (sixth precinct)
66 Ridge Road

Springhill Lake Elementary School (eighth precinct)
6060 Springhill Drive

Eleanor Roosevelt High School (thirteenth precinct)
7601 Hanover Parkway

Turning Point Academy (eighteenth precinct)
7800 Good Luck Road

Only registered Democrats and Republicans may vote in the primary next Tuesday. Greenbelters who have declined affiliation with the two major parties will vote only in the November general election.

All voters eligible to vote in the primary should have recently received a sample ballot from the Board of Elections. The individual's voting location is shown in the top left corner of the back of the brochure. Those needing more information can contact the Board of Elections office at 301-430-8020.

Fall Bird Walk

On Saturday, September 18 the Prince George's Audubon Society will host a half-day bird walk for beginners and experts at Governor Bridge Natural Area, Governor Bridge Road in Bowie, beginning at 7:30 a.m. This forested floodplain of the Patuxent River hosts both resident and migrating woodland and field birds as well as waterfowl, with chances to see raptor flyovers. Waterproof footwear and binoculars are suggested. Meet at the parking lot. Call 410-765-6482 for more information.

Volksmarchers to Hold 9/11 Memorial Walk

The Freestate Happy Wanderers Volksmarching Club is sponsoring a 9/11 Memorial event walk on Saturday, September 11 at the Montpelier Mansion, 9650 Muirkirk Road in Laurel. Start between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.; finish by 4 p.m. Commemorative signs and lanyards carrying victims' names will be provided to all walkers. The event features a 5-K and 10-K trail on natural surfaces and along residential sidewalks. For more information call 301-717-3604.

The Department is offering a reward of up to $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect in any of the unsolved crimes reported in the blotter. People may anonymously report suspected drug activity by calling the Drug Tip Line at 301-507-6522.

seeking another shot. Charles Lollar of Charles County, a major in the Marine Reserves, is a business manager in Prince George's County.

Little information is available on the other two candidates: Chris Chaffee and Chris Robins, of Calvert and Anne Arundel Counties respectively.

Legislature

All incumbent delegates to the Maryland General Assembly from the 22nd Legislative District seek reelection. All four are unopposed in the Democratic primary; nor will they face Republican or other challengers in November. They are Senator Paul G. Pinsky and Delegates Tawanna Gaines, Anne Healey and Justin Ross.

County Executive

Five Democratic candidates are vying for the office of county executive: former Delegate Rushern L. Baker, III; County Councilmember Samuel H. Dean; Sheriff Michael A. Jackson; Delegate Geron Levi; and businessman and retired Army Lt. Col. Henry C. Turner, Jr. The incumbent, Jack Johnson, is prevented by term limits from seeking reelection.

Most county political observers have considered this to be a tight, two-person race between Baker and Jackson, with some thinking that Baker may have the edge in the days leading up to the election. Baker's first, unsuccessful, race against Johnson took place in 2002. In 2006 Baker lost by only about 5,000 votes county-wide. He carried Greenbelt, capturing 67 percent of the city's vote and all precincts except Springhill Lake, which gave the nod to Johnson. Baker is now endorsed by five of the seven Prince George's State Senators who have named a favorite, as well as by State's Attorney Glenn Ivey, former County Executive Wayne Curry, the local Gazette and the Washington Post.

Michael Jackson has received backing from a number of unions representing county and other workers, including the Prince George's County Educators' Association, American Postal Workers Union Local 140 and the Prince George's County Volunteer Fire & Rescue Association Political Action Committee. Many of Johnson's supporters are also actively working in Jackson's campaign, although the county executive himself has remained silent on endorsement.

Baker has promised dramatic change in how the county executive's office does business and interacts with Annapolis. While defining himself as his own man with his own plans for the office, Jackson is generally supportive of the record of the Johnson administration.

Neither of the two front-runners has escaped criticism in areas relevant to their capabilities to manage the county. Baker has been challenged on his oversight of the 2005-2007 financial reporting of a nonprofit educational organization he headed. He was also criticized for a delay in revealing financing to his campaign from a large owner of rental properties in the county, a mistake he has admitted and corrected.

For his share, Jackson has received ongoing criticism for incidents involving his deputies and for appearing to defend the actions of his staff which brought the policies and procedures of the department under scrutiny.

Most noted of these was the SWAT team raid on Berwyn Heights Mayor Cheye Calvo's home in 2008 in which the family dogs were shot and killed. More recently, two deputies, one of whom had been serving as Jackson's campaign treasurer, were indicted on embezzlement charges and, in another case, due to the misplacement of an arrest warrant, a man remained free and shot his girlfriend, who later died of the wounds.

County Council

The incumbent member of the County Council from District 4, which includes Greenbelt, is Ingrid Turner. She is unopposed in the Democratic primary. Running unopposed in the Republican primary is Fiona Moodie of Bowie, an 18-year-old student at Anne Arundel Community College.

Also unopposed but appearing on both parties' primary ballots, are four judges of the Seventh Judicial Circuit. They are Leo E. Green, Jr., C. Philip Nichols, Jr., Michael R. Pearson and Beverly J. Woodward.

State's Attorney

A five-person race exists among Democrats for the open office of Prince George's County state's attorney, incumbent Glenn Ivey having opted not to run for reelection. The five are Angela Alsobrooks, executive director of the county Revenue Authority and a former prosecutor in the state's attorney's office; County Council Chairman Thomas E. Dernoga, a local attorney; Clerk of the Circuit Court Peggy Magee, a former prosecutor; County Police Department Inspector General Mark Spencer, also a former deputy state's attorney and Joseph L. Wright, currently deputy director of the District Court Division in the state's attorney's office. The race could be wide open. Dernoga appears to be spending the most money while Alsobrooks has been endorsed by the Washington Post and State's Attorney Ivey. Magee is also well known from her past election to office.

Sheriff

In a seven-man race for sheriff, only three seem to be serious contenders. Of these Rafael Hylton, currently a deputy sheriff and retired county police officer, seems to have garnered the most endorsements from other politicians, including one from Upper Marlboro Police Chief Michael T. Gonnella, another candidate for the office. Hylton is the brother of Roberto Hylton, the current county police chief.

Darryl L. Morgan, a retired Maryland trooper and former deputy chief of the D.C. Protective Service Police, has also garnered some support. Melvin C. High, the previous county police chief, past Norfolk chief and retired Metropolitan police officer, has strong qualifications but lacks the county political connections the others have.

Also running are Edward R. Cheeks, a former Metropolitan police officer currently performing private security work; Daniel "Danny" Hall, assistant bureau chief of field operations and 30-year veteran of the sheriff's office and Louis M. Wood, Jr., who is unknown.

Other County Offices

Running for clerk of the circuit court are Marilynn Bland, former school board and county councilmember; Gary C. Clark, retired from Verizon, who served as deputy clerk under the two prior clerks of the circuit court; Flora Ann Fortune, retired from the clerk's office, who ran unsuccessfully against Peggy Magee for the office in 2006; Adrion J. Howell, a former legislative liaison to Jack Johnson; Joyce Starks, a WSSC Commissioner and business officer for the NIH; and Linda Thornton Thomas, who recently resigned from the school board in order to run.

Two men and two women are challenging incumbent Cereta A. Lee on the Democratic ballot for the office of register of wills. Since they are not well known, Lee will probably get the party nomination. They are Ronald Sterling Blackwell, once a deputy sheriff; Carla McClinton, a legal assistant and licensed realtor; Kyle Okonah, an unknown; and Julia Williams, a volunteer teacher and tutor.

Seeking to be judges of the orphan's court on the Democratic ballot are Gary Byrd, Wendy A. Cartwright, Pamela Cherry, Athena Malloy Groves and Vicky

L. Ivory-Orem; Democrats vote for three. Only one Republican, JoAnn Y. Fisher, seeks primary nomination for the orphans court.

Central Committee

There are several races for a large election to the Democratic Central Committee in addition to other unchallenged races. In District 21, Jerry Anzulovic and Sylvia Bolivar compete. In District 26 the candidates are Nathaniel Bryant and Veronica L. Davila-

Steele and in District 47 they are Janelle J. Jordan and Oliver Ortiz. Competing for two openings on the committee from District 22, Greenbelt's district, are Robin Barnes-Shell, Denise Riley and James Thomas Wilkinson.

Two seats are open on the Republican Central Committee but only one candidate, Thomas J. Slezak.

position in 1989 and almost at once joined the staff of the Greenbelt News Review where he has become a valued – nay, indispensable – colleague. During all these years he has been a tireless reporter, a valued copy editor, a long-time board member and, for much of this time, our president. One invaluable quality he has brought to our operation is his background in municipal affairs and knowledge of the larger metropolitan area in which we live.

Add to these contributions his devotion to the Greenbelt Museum, where he has served as docent and museum guide. He has served also as usher and greeter at the Greenbelt Community Church; and if you attend a program at the Greenbelt Arts Center, you may also find him selling tickets at the box office.

Outstanding in Spades

For more years than most of us can remember, Giese served as well on the very committee that makes these awards – the Outstanding Citizen Selection Committee. That's where other committee members learned to value his tireless work, his general knowledge of the community, his affability and his general good judgment.

But of course committee members cannot nominate one of their own. What changed this year had been his resignation as he contemplated a move away from Greenbelt, to senior citizen housing elsewhere. As committee chair Bob Zugby said to the crowd, "He has had no idea of this year's selection. Well, until the last few seconds anyway." Laughing, Zugby then announced Giese's name, as the latter was called to the podium.

Throughout all his years as Greenbelt's city manager, Giese had been a bachelor. But 10 years ago – well into his retirement – all that changed when he and fellow News Review volunteer, the widowed Bernina (Bernie) McGee, married in the Community Church that both attended. With this marriage came two step-daughters and a ready-made extended family of step-grandchildren.

Two days after receiving his award came another surprise for this year's Outstanding Citizen – a sumptuous gala luncheon after the Sunday church service for the honored guest and a crowd of his well-wishers and from all of them an extensive round of applause reverberating throughout the room – not only for his well-deserved award but to commemorate as well his 80th birthday. Truly a time to remember!

Labor Day Festival Showed Off Local Talents and Spirit

by Carol Griffith

Smiles were in abundance on Sunday at the 56th Annual Labor Day Festival. From the drivers of the shuttle buses who uncomplainingly helped with baby strollers and those who needed a bit of help to the children on the rides to the older but young-at-heart crowd, everyone we met appeared to be having a great time. The weather was perfect; it was Labor Day weekend in Greenbelt – what could possibly be better?

The great variety of foods for sale all looked delicious. What we tried was definitely tasty. The carnival games had plenty of players and even those who did not win prizes were good natured about their disappointment. Plenty of others won though, judging by the stuffed animals and other treasures we saw carried and placed in strollers. Parents and grandparents, even children, patiently waited in orderly lines for the amusement rides. The Ferris wheel seemed to be the biggest draw, with at times a 20-minute wait in line. Squeals of terror and glee kept everyone entertained, as did those angling and calling out as they tried for good pictures of their loved ones.

A more sedate crowd quietly perused the used-book sale. Others sat listening, and occasionally singing along to Elvis impersonator Johnny Seaton.

Show in the Community Center, in addition to providing respite from the sun and noise of the festival, drew many art admirers. Several categories of photos, including travel, nature and Greenbelt subjects, featured something for everyone to admire. The Art Show, with several entries in unusual mediums, showed off Greenbelters' artistic talents.

Saturday's Talent Show featured mostly young but very talented performers. Bulletproof Weave consisted of three 14-year-old musicians. Two entertaining female singer/songwriters were a high school sophomore and recent college graduate. Jan Knutson, a seventh grader at Greenbelt Middle School, and a friend on guitars, accompanied by experienced drummer Doug Tull, reportedly had many in the crowd on their feet with their version of rock and roll classics.

This reporter was told that the festival had been closed down abruptly at around 10 p.m. on Saturday due to fights. (See separate story.) Looking around at the families and well-behaved groups of teens there, this information seemed impossible to believe. Three of the police officers working the festival would not comment when asked about the incident.

As always the Labor Day Festival was a wonderful send-off to the freedom and lazy pace of summer and provided special memories for the days ahead.

Between Fences Opens in Laurel

The Smithsonian Institution's traveling exhibition Between Fences will open at the Montpelier Museum in Laurel on Sunday, September 19. The opening event, from 3 to 5 p.m., will feature live music, refreshments and hands-on activities for all ages.

The exhibition incorporates artifacts, photographs and illustrations to surprise audiences with its exploration of the multiple meanings behind this common image of the American landscape.

A companion exhibit, called Barriers and Gateways: The Immigrant Experience, explores the metaphorical boundaries experienced by immigrants throughout history.

The free exhibitions will continue until Sunday, November 7 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Montpelier Mansion is located at 9650 Muirkirk Road in Laurel. For more information call 301-377-7817, TTY 301-446-3302 or email Holly.Burnham@pgparks.com.
