Franklin Park Representatives Describe Pace of Improvements

by Thomas X. White

It has been a little over 10 months since the city's Planning and Community Development Department (P&CD) practically labeled the Springhill Lake apartment development a failed project. This occurred during an April 28, 2010, budget worksession during which maintenance and other problems at the apartment complex, then known as Empirian Village, overshadowed the P&CD budget review.

At that time, councilmember Rodney Roberts, offering council's bleakest budgetary outlook, suggested the city might just let the buildings deteriorate and then condemn the property. Well, fast forward to March 7, 2011, at the second worksession with representatives of Fieldstone Properties, the new owners of the complex now known as Franklin Park. There appears hope that the project purchased last October may be turning around.

This time Councilmember Leta Mach captured the tenor of the evening when she said that four months ago, when council first met with Fieldstone Properties, she was "cautiously optimistic and now she is optimistic."

Mayor Judith Davis began with a list of 14 items carried over from the first worksession that she hoped Fieldstone owners would discuss and update. Besides members of council, others present were Celia Craze, director of the city's P&CD; City Manager Michael McLaughlin; Assistant City Manager David Moran; and Officer Tim White and Captain Carl Schinner of the Greenbelt Police Department.

Fieldstone Properties principal Joe Kazarnovsky spoke for the management company. He was accompanied by Debbie Dillon, executive vice president of Fieldstone Properties and the senior onsite executive.

Also attending were members of their management team: Sharee Koenig, resident relations manager; Office Manager Michelle Dornberger; Operations Manager Lea Garcia; Director of Maintenance Manny Perez; and Chief Engineer John Philpott. Several Franklin Park residents also attended.

Maintenance

Kazarnovsky provided an update on several issues. In the four months since the initial meeting with council, when they promised to "turn things around," they have made a huge dent, he said, in the maintenance backlog.

Resident complaints have been reduced, he testified, and complaints now come in to Franklin Park management rather than to the city. Craze agreed. She noted complaints are down by 50 percent. She and her staff, she said, are trying to figure out the best strategy for future dealings with Franklin Park. She said the situation has evolved and signs are good.

As to public safety, Franklin Park has formed a partnership with Greenbelt police. Officer Tim White as "Community Partnership Officer," has a dedicated office there and works on crime prevention. About 40 residents with criminal backgrounds have been removed from the property and a chart with crime statistics (month over month) from January 2007 through January 2011 shows significant reductions for robberies (down 80 percent), motor vehicle thefts (down 93 percent) and overall (down 30 percent). However, two categories, breaking/entering and larceny, have not decreased.

Officer White advised council the situation at Franklin Park has stabilized. Residents of 32 addresses have been removed, he said. A part-time police officer, on site at night on weekends, supplements regular patrols. Given access to the Franklin Park leasing system, White can now target potential problems, he said, and has been provided a smart phone by Fieldstone to assist in his efforts.

Vacant Units

Kazarnovsky said several hundred units remain vacant and that about 80 units per month are being renovated.

Handout materials showed the extent of planned renovations, including new energy saving appliances, granite countertops and new cabinets in the kitchens and new bathroom vanities and deep tubs.

Nearly all floors in the units are in excellent shape, he said. Other features underway or planned include a private shuttle to the University of Maryland and to Metro; a state-of-the-art fitness center for residents; restoration of a village center with retail and resident services; full service day care and restoration and enhancement of the lake.

Kazarnovsky said renovation of a fire-damaged building will be completed by mid-May and the more recent wind-damaged units are being inspected. He said management will consolidate resident laundry facilities in 7 to 10 selected buildings and close down the remaining basement laundry areas. A longer term goal, he said, will be placement of washer/dryer units in individual apartments. The basement spaces may be used for storage.

Housing Agreements

Franklin Park representatives provided updates on efforts to fill vacancies. While Fieldstone had hoped to house University of Maryland graduate students, Dillon said the university has sufficient agreements with other sites to meet present needs.

Franklin Park has executed rental housing agreements with the military base at Anacostia/Bolling and is working on an agreement with Fort Meade. Under these agreements, Franklin Park would designate 500 apartments for members of the active military services and 25 for displaced veterans.

If these military populations reside at Franklin Park, military sponsors would consider providing ancillary services for the families, such as a satellite PX. In this regard councilmember Silke Pope suggested they contact Greenbelt American Legion Post 136, who might assist in such programs.

Other councilmembers noted that an influx of military families would be another impetus for a community day-care facility, with Leta Mach suggesting a "cooperative" nursery. Kazarnovsky envisions the project, he said, as decreasing the number of school children and emphasizing active adults.

On current rental rates, Kazarnovsky said some one-bedroom units now rent in the range of $1,250 a month and the average is about $1,600.

Council Comments

Other council comments dealt with the fire code for renovated units, recycling opportunities and consideration of establishing a tenants' advisory council association.

They urged better communication with residents. Councilmember Konrad Herling argued for assuring that the active CampFire USA project continue with adequate space and that extending

by Sandra A. Lange

Greenbelt resident Ethel Dutky was a stay-at-home mom for eight years before she returned to graduate school to earn a master's degree in botany and plant pathology. She spent her entire career at the University of Maryland (UMD) studying diseases primarily in ornamental plants. She was director of UMD's Plant Diagnostic Laboratory until her retirement in 2006.

Dutky has lived in Greenbelt since 2005 when she sold her Silver Spring home and moved here to be closer to her UMD job and Alvin Wilson, a colleague whom she later married. She is active on the city's Advisory Committee for Trees and GHI's Woodlands Committee. She values Greenbelt as a place where she can live close to mature trees and occasionally spot bald eagles, river otters, beavers, ducks and geese.

One summer she observed new plantings drying up along the inner walkway near her Laurel Hill home and then dragged several hoses into the common area to water them. This experience sparked her interest in developing what she calls "pocket gardens" throughout GHI.

As her interest caught on, her neighbors began to help by purchasing plants for her to add to the pocket gardens. Dutky sees these gardens as a way to enhance the woodland environment and increase the enjoyment of people as they stroll along the paths. This summer she hopes to plant more native fruit- and nut-bearing plants as food sources for birds and small animals.

"Reefer Madness" Offers Viewers a Real Buzz

by Jim Link

"Creeping like a Communist, it's knocking at our doors
Turning all our children into hooligans and whores . . .
Fight the urge of this scourge! It's destructive but seductive! . . .
Reefer Madness! Reefer Madness! Reefer Madness!"

— Kevin Murphy, lyricist

A sold-out opening night audience last Friday night raucously welcomed Reefer Madness to the Greenbelt Arts Center. The professionalism and exuberance of this production more than justified the enthusiasm. As with "happenings" like the Rocky Horror Picture Show, the symbiosis between audience and performers was humorous and mutually energizing.

The cautionary tale of the rapid descent of high school ingenues Mary Lane and Jimmy Harper into the miasma of "marijuana" when — how did that "h" become a "j"? — is intoned once more by the moralistic Lecturer to the local PTA audience. In his rigidly Manichean world, smoking a joint or two results inexorably in addiction, political incorrectness, promiscuity, mayhem, murder and an excess consumption of munchies — all clear and present threats to the American Way of Life.

The combination of Rikki Howie's creative choreography,

Jeff Lesniak's imaginative direction and a uniformly talented cast who sing, dance, act and camp it up skillfully, make this production smashingly successful. Is there anything Lesniak doesn't do? He's the director, fight choreographer, set and lighting designer and helped as well with set construction.

Among the actors, the versatile Zach Brewster-Geisz, the morally smug Lecturer, also (rather hypocritically) plays a devil at the orgy and FDR in a wheelchair, sporting a cigarette holder. It was fun to watch Laura Kavinski (Mary Lane) convincingly morph from virgin to vamp to angel.

The surreal orgy scene is a show stopper, where the ladies did a bump and grind in flesh-colored lingerie with marijuana logos glued to three cherished parts of their anatomy. Eat your hearts out, Victoria's Secret models!

Letters

Thanks . . . and Clarifications

Thanks very much for the terrific front-page coverage of the upcoming Greenbelt Youth Musical. The News Review is one of the primary ways people learn about the show, and we are very appreciative. There are just a couple of errors in the article that need to be corrected in this week's edition.

The venue for the performances is the Greenbelt Community Center, not the Greenbelt Arts Center.

Also, GAC does not co-present the production. The youth musical is a Greenbelt Recreation Department program. GAC very kindly supports the department's performing arts programs for young people by allowing us to produce the summer camp shows in the GAC space.

THANKS!

The cupboard is no longer bare!

Thank you so much for your kindness and support to the Pantry. Special thanks to Safeway of Greenbelt, Mishkan Torah Synagogue, the Boy Scouts and to you dedicated friends who drop off groceries at St. Hugh's Church and Rectory and to our own Greenbelt Co-op.

You do make a difference!

"Let's Put on a Play!"

Just like in the old Judy Garland/Mickey Rooney films, the folks who participate in the Greenbelt Art Center (GAC) productions get together to "Put on a Play." If you've seen any of GAC's recent shows, you're aware from the programs that many more people are involved than those seen onstage. It often takes twice as many "techies" (responsible for sets, costumes, lights, props, etc.) as actors to produce what is seen by the audience. Technical know-how usually consists of those who can wield a hammer, screwdriver, sewing machine or paint brush, find or make a gallon of fake blood, beg or borrow period set pieces, mail out postcards, sell tickets, help with finances or do any one or more of dozens of tasks needed to "Put on a Play." Volunteering for community theater is different, exciting, challenging and fun.

Although GAC can use help with all the above tasks, right now we are urgently seeking someone who knows bookkeeping and can best serve as treasurer of the organization and also someone with stage experience who would enjoy serving as technical director. Age is not a factor.

If you would like to try your hand at "putting on a play" GAC welcomes you with big smiles and urges you to join us. Call the theater at 301-441-8770, ext.7 to volunteer in any capacity.

Greek Dance Open House Is this Sunday

Syrtos, formerly known as the Greek Dance group of Greenbelt, will resume activities with an open house dance session on Sunday, March 20 from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the Community Center dance studio. In addition to demonstrating dances from various parts of Greece, the group will teach newcomers simple pan-Hellenic dances done at Greek festivals held throughout the area in the spring and fall.

Syrtos has held dance classes and social events for 10 years at the Community Center. In addition to meeting weekly to socialize and learn new dance, they attend local Greek festivals and sometimes hold parties or visit special tavernas for Greek food, culture and to dance to live music.

Greek folk dancing is a way to lose weight, promote physical fitness and reduce stress – it is also fun. For the Greeks to dance is to live – a way of expressing their joys and sorrows through individualized dance styles. Who can forget the music and dance of Zorba the Greek or the joyous enthusiasm of My Big Fat Greek Wedding?

The open house is an introduction for the new seven-week round of dance classes that will meet in the dance studio on Sundays from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. People of all ages and levels of expertise are invited to join and no partner is required.

County Executive Adds to Education Budget

During a press conference at the County Administration Building in Upper Marlboro, County Executive Rushern Baker announced the Fiscal Year 2012 budget for Prince George's County. The budget includes $613 million in public education funding, which is $15 million above Fiscal Year 2011 "maintenance of effort" levels. This additional revenue consists of $3 million in base funding, plus an additional $14 million in a "one-time funding" effort.

While the Prince George's

County Board of Education's FY12 Proposed Operating Budget requested $25 million above last year's funding, the county executive pledge of $17 million toward this request is significant additional education funding for the next school year.

Final reconciliation of the public school budget will not occur until state and county legislative bodies finalize their respective FY12 budgets. Check the Prince George's County Public Schools home page for additional budget updates.

Clarification

In the page 2 announcement last week about the Howard B. Owens Science Center Family Night it was stated there would be a tree ceremony commemorating the seven astronauts who lost their lives in the 1986 Challenger Shuttle disaster. We have since learned that the seven trees are already planted and have blue ribbons tied on them representing the astronauts – they will be dedicated at the 6 p.m. ceremony Friday evening.

When filmmaker Josh Fox is asked to lease his land for drilling, he embarks on a cross-country odyssey uncovering a trail of secrets, lies and contamination. A recently drilled nearby Pennsylvania town reports that residents are able to set drinking water on fire. This is just one of many revelations of a new country called Gasland. Part verite travelogue, part expose, part mystery, part bluegrass banjo meltdown, part showdown – the largest domestic natural gas drilling boom in history has swept across the United States; the Halliburton-developed drilling technology of "fracking" or hydraulic fracturing has unlocked a "Saudi Arabia of natural gas" just beneath the surface. But is fracking safe? Gasland explores this issue as Josh Fox travels through states dealing with the issue.

The discussion afterward will be led by David O'Leary the Chapter Conservation chair for the Maryland Chapter of the Sierra Club. He is among advocates coordinating an effort to pass a bill in the Maryland General Assembly to put in place a comprehensive system of regulations regarding shale gas drilling in Maryland.

Obituaries

Robert W. Lauber

Robert W. Lauber, 85, a resident of Greenbelt since 1962, died on Friday, March 4, 2011, after succumbing to cancer.

Mr. Lauber was born on December 23, 1925, in an oil field boom town officially named Denoya but better known in its time as Whiz-Bang, Okla. He served in the Merchant Marines in World War II and in the Army Artillery in the Korean War.

In 1953, he married Dorothy Woods also from Oklahoma. They were married for almost 58 years.

Mr. Lauber graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from Oklahoma City University. He then went on to graduate school at Cornell University where he received a master's degree in industrial and labor relations. It was at Cornell that he discovered the federal government was recruiting workers to fill government agencies. Mr. Lauber applied, was tested and hired as an analyst to work for Health and Human Services in Maryland. He worked there until he retired in 1990.

It was this position that brought him to the Washington, D.C., area in 1962 where someone told him about Greenbelt and highly recommended it. Once seeing Greenbelt both he and his wife knew it was the place they wanted to settle and raise a family.

Mr. Lauber is survived by his wife Dorothy, his son Cole, his daughter Alexa, his grandson Kelley Kiefner, his daughter-in-law Janet Ramsey Lauber, his step-granddaughter, Rachel Sunday and his sister Doreen Somers, who resides in Lindsay, Okla.

In lieu of flowers those wishing to remember Mr. Lauber may make a donation to either Capital Hospice of Prince George's County or Joseph Richey Hospice in Baltimore.

We were sorry to hear of the recent death of former Greenbelt Patrick John (Pat) O'Shea, 81, of Wheaton, Ill., after a distinguished career in law enforcement training. The O'Shea family lived on Lakeside Drive for eight years in the 1970s while Mr. O'Shea was with the International Association of Chiefs of Police in Washington, D.C., before returning to their Chicago roots. In 1992 he received the Illinois Governor's Award for Lifetime Achievement in Law Enforcement. Mr. O'Shea's wife of 47 years, Mary, died in 2003. He is survived by six children, 21 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Congratulations to:

– Four schools serving Greenbelt students – Greenbelt Elementary, John Hanson Montessori, Magnolia Elementary and Robert Goddard French Immersion – that were among 45 county schools recognized for student achievement in the state's 2010 Maryland School Performance Recognition Program. They were presented recognition certificates at the March 15 Board of Education Awards Night ceremony held at Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

– Greenbelt Elementary School vocal music teacher Dara Case and her husband Scott, a Paint Branch Elementary teacher, on the birth of daughter Shelby Celine Case, born Thursday, March 10, 2011, at 8:54 a.m. Shelby weighed in at 9 lb., 4 oz. and joins her two brothers.

– Greenbelt musician, songwriter and author Izolda Trakhtenberg, on the publication of her new urban fantasy novel, "The Fiddler's Talisman, Book 1 of The Fairy Godmother Diaries," which is to be released on March 25. The story draws on Trakhtenberg's love of fairy tales, music and New York – Evie Songbottom is an unusual fairy godmother, preferring whiskey to glitter, being a smart-ass to being proper and movies to just about anything. Her violin prodigy Joanna Brennan, reacting to her boyfriend's betrayal with her Juilliard roommate, has her heartbreak spilling over into the world of magic with possibly deadly results. COUNCIL continued from page 1 shuttle service to Franklin Park children be provided to sports fields and other centers around the city. In response to a question from Pope, Kazarnovsky said they are studying installing the safety window guards for apartment windows.

Davis raised an issue suggested by Greenbelt resident David Lange relating to Franklin Park's possible interest in using the historic portion of the Greenbelt Middle School (GMS) as a community center. They learned that Franklin Park now has a representative on the city's GMS Task Force.

Resident Opinions

Among Franklin Park residents, David Abrahams said he was generally pleased with the new management. His main issue was the heating system and difficulty in controlling temperature. He wanted information on the new shuttle service and would like greater itemization on the rental bill. He also urged that maintenance employees use shoe covers so they do not soil apartment carpets.

Resident Brian Gibbons, a member of the city's Advisory Planning Board, suggested management consider making their communications bilingual. He agreed with the need for better lighting in parts of the complex and had good words for recent snow removal efforts. Concerning recycling, he suggested consideration of the height of dumpsters. "The only one who could easily use the dumpster," he said, "is Emmett Jordan." (councilmember Jordan is well over six feet tall.)

Fieldstone Requests

Near the end of the worksession, Kazarnovsky made several specific requests to council:

1. The city's annual code enforcement inspection is costly and worker intensive. At $100/per unit, for a yearly total of $287,000, Franklin Park requests a longer inspection term, such as a three year cycle.

2. The city could help Franklin Park with suitable locations for signage and directional signs on nearby major roads.

3. Franklin Park hopes the city will take opportunities to express pride in the development.

Without responding specifically, Davis said the city has seen improvement in the past few months.

In Loving Memory

LeRoy

November 1, 1996 to March 6, 2011

LeRoy came to Greenbelt in September of 1997, at the age of 10 months, as a rescue from the Prince George's County Animal Shelter, adopted by Katrina through Partnership for Animal Welfare (PAW). He never advertised that he came from a long line of Le Melange Noir Terriers, a designer breed known for both their scruffy appearance and their tremendous ability to love. He attended Canine Training Association classes and quickly progressed to the advanced level, earning the Canine Good Citizenship Certificate.

LeRoy marched in the Labor Day parade twice, first while representing the Greenbelt Dog Park Association and then campaigning for Barack Obama. He dictated several letters to the editor of the Greenbelt News Review and the Greenbelter's Listserve. His picture was selected for the 2010 PAW calendar which helped raise funds for PAW. He was also featured in the Gazette, the News Review and on Cable T.V.

LeRoy and Katrina could not have survived the early days without the fabulous Greenbelt Dog Park and his many rambunctious playmates. He was frequently described as "scrappy" when he would run, tumble and play for hours. He had the best nose at the dog park, often "outing" people with treats hidden in their pockets that other dogs had not discovered. He attended the Pool Plunge at the Aquatic & Fitness Center as often as possible, which helped improve his swimming ability and always promised a great time.

On walks with Katrina both she and he met many, many people and other canines. The pair was well known along their favorite routes: the Ridge Road Walk, Inner Walkway Stroll, Northway Trails, Research Road, Farmer's Market Loop, GHI Office and Garden Tour and the Lake Loop. He loved the parties at Linda's and he always knew to sidle up next to his favorites for extra handouts. Until recently he was always ready to run with Janet and other friends. LeRoy knew Kris could always be counted on for kisses, Hazel and "Miss Mary" never failed to have treats, Darlene would promise the best walks in town and Chuck, John and Katie would keep an extra eye on him.

He cherished hanging out in Walsh's yard over the years watching squirrels, greeting passersby and meeting some of his favorite friends. He loved GHI vans, forever holding hope that "Uncle Bob" would appear, making that day as special as Christmas. Most recently he discovered Beverly's yard, the closest thing to Heaven.

Immediate survivors are his dear feline "sister", Bella, his favorite "cousin", Alex, and his person, Katrina. LeRoy's favorite long-time friend, Shadow of Greenway Place, is the last living of his original playmates. Special mention belongs to his beloved friend, Mokie, whom he proudly mentored in the art of play with whom he ran countless miles. Also to his newest people friends, Perkins, Harper and Madison, who always asked about him and were so eager to take him on walks.

Special mention must be made of several who predeceased LeRoy: his first off-leash friend Zephyr, Shadow's "sister" Babe, and dear feline "brother" Zeke, as well as people friends, Clive Watson and Diana Shrader. Other people and dog survivors and those who predeceased him are too numerous to list, however each and every one of them were remembered fondly by LeRoy.

LeRoy brought joy to, and touched the hearts of, many with his loving soulful eyes and playful antics. His energy was boundless yet he had a gentle spirit. He loved to give kisses and he was always ready for a party or a walk. Others have described him as the canine equivalent to John Henry Jones, always ready to greet passersby and friends warmly.

LeRoy's family will forever be grateful to the many PAW volunteers, especially Amy Bleich, the guardian angel who saved his life 14 years ago. A special thanks to our neighbors Anne and Pierrot, the College Park Animal Hospital, VOSM and VCA for helping LeRoy live out his last days as comfortably as possible. Countless calls, inquiries, prayers and help by friends have been such a blessing over the past year.

If you had ever asked LeRoy about getting a pet, he would have encouraged you to rescue one, preferably from PAW or the Greenbelt Animal Shelter, and, he would ask that you help support these groups in whatever way you were able.

There will be a celebration of LeRoy's life and an opportunity to share your memories at the New Deal Café on Sunday, April 3, 2011, from noon to 2 p.m.

Police Make Arrest In Area Burglaries

On March 10 the Greenbelt Police Department Criminal Investigations Unit obtained an arrest warrant for Dwayne Kelvin Watkins, 52, of College Park for fourth-degree burglary, second-degree assault and reckless endangerment. He was charged in connection with a burglary on March 3 in the 100 block of Westway.

Watkins was identified on March 7 when a Greenbelt Police Department K9 officer observed the suspect's vehicle leaving the area of another reported burglary and made an investigative stop. As a result of that stop, he was taken into custody by a neighboring police department for his role in other burglaries in the area outside of Greenbelt.

An investigation is continuing in the suspect's possible involvement in other burglaries in the city.

Animal Lover

Dutky also has a passion for animals and so she volunteers at Greenbelt's animal shelter. She appreciates the workers at the shelter who she says go the extra mile to find good homes for the animals. She has even established a small business, called Dutky Ranch Landscaping, in which she performs landscaping chores in exchange for financial donations to the animal shelter.

Among her many career accomplishments, she helped establish the Maryland Home and Garden Information Center, which operates the Master Gardener Program, responding annually to nearly 60,000 contacts by individuals with horticulture questions. She is also co-author (with Stanton Gill and David Clement) of the book "Diseases and Pests of Herbaceous Perennials – the Biological Approach."

Dutky performed pioneering research on the sweet potato white fly, which is harmful to poinsettia plants. Along with a cadre of diagnosticians, she succeeded in developing a regimen to eliminate the pest from poinsettias. This enterprise enhanced the growth of an important nursery business. After 9/11, she helped form a network of biologists who collaborate on examining bio-terrorism threats.

Although her formal career in plant pathology has ended, Ethel Dutky is pleased to share with others what she knows about plants and the environment. Greenbelt offers her numerous opportunities to link her horticulture expertise with community service. She is always finding ways to improve the natural environment which surrounds her Greenbelt world.

Originally released in 1936 as Tell Your Children, Reefer Madness was a serious though hyperbolic warning against the evils of "marihuana" during the Depression, FDR's New Deal, a rising tide of fellow traveling Pinko sympathy and other liberal tendencies. But it got no traction until the 1970s when it became a favorite of marijuana policy reformers, a cult film exuding unintentional comedy.

Is it fair to ask who is politically naive now? – the narrow minded right wing Neanderthals of the 1930s or the Pollyanna-ish liberals of today, for whom the legalization of marijuana is so mindlessly overdue it could be depicted by Norman Rockwell rather than R. Crumb?

Whether you are a reefer virgin, a reformed stoner zealot or one of the practicing lobotomized, you will get a real buzz from Reefer Madness. It is at GAC on Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and on Sundays at 2:30 p.m. through April 2. Check out www.greenbeltartscenter.org.

GHI Board Reviews Pepco Energy-Efficiency Plan

by Sue Krofchik

One old, one new and several routine items were on the March 10 agenda for the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) board of directors meeting. The "old" news is that the arrival of spring brings the annual Community Beautification Program (CBP).

The new item is the energy-efficiency program, through Pepco contractor Honeywell Utility Solutions (HUS), for persons meeting income-eligible limits. (This program is available as well to any Greenbelt resident whose income meets certain criteria.) Routine matters for the GHI board included disaster planning, first readings for financial commitments and final approval to award a spring gutter cleaning contract.

The annual CBP, to begin on May 9, will follow the same format and procedures as in past years with one exception, the handling of excessive pet waste. In the past, when a member was cited for this infraction and failed to meet the deadline for cleanup, GHI staff would do so and bill the member.

The new procedure calls for contracting out waste removal to a business in this specialty. GHI will schedule the cleanup and the member will then be billed a minimum of $100. Higher fees are possible, depending on size of the yard and the number of pets using it. A flyer describing this year's program will be included in the upcoming Communicator.

Energy Program

The Pepco Income-Eligible Energy Efficiency Program for 2010-2011 is being implemented by HUS. Speaking at the meeting were Program Coordinator Vincent Rucker from HUS and Cam MacQueen of the Prince George's County Department of Social Services Energy Assistance Program (EAP). The program is free for residents of Prince George's County who meet income limits. All applications for this program, which is statewide, are evaluated by the EAP, who determines eligibility. Informational flyers and applications are available at the GHI office.

For those who qualify, the program includes two parts. The weatherization portion allows up to $2,500 for each homeowner, as needed, to provide attic and wall insulation; door and window weather stripping; duct sealing and insulation; compact fluorescent light bulbs, electric hot water heater wraps and pipe wrap; low flow showerheads; and faucet aerators.

The second part pertains to appliances. Persons qualifying for this part may receive another (up to) $2,500 to replace the following appliances, if over 10 years old, with energy star appliances: refrigerators, electric hot water heaters, room air conditioners, air source heat pumps and central air conditioners. Homes will also be inspected for potential health, safety or durability issues. On-site energy use education is also included.

For further information call the EAP at 301-909-6300, email www.dhr.state.md.us/meap or call Vincent Rucker at 301-805-3772 or email Vincent.rucker@honeywell.com.

Disaster Plan

The Companion Animal Committee was given charge of developing a disaster plan for both members and animals. The committee, however, has been working on a plan solely for animals. Because of overlap between people and pets, the board has asked them to develop one plan with two parts, focusing on both people and pets.

Existing state, county and city disaster preparedness plans will be identified and reviewed and progress reports given to the board in three and six months.

Miscellaneous

The spring gutter cleaning contract totaling $18,382 was awarded to Greenbelt Builders, Inc. Work is expected to begin in May.

First readings for the following were approved: purchase of a replacement, used cargo van for the maintenance department, not to exceed $15,540; slate roof replacement for 43 homes for $494,135 plus 10 percent for contingencies. A three-year contract with Unifirst Corporation to provide and clean uniforms for maintenance staff was approved at a cost of $8,300 for the first year.
