

Council Deals with Multi-Faceted Public Works Department Budget

by Thomas X. White

The Greenbelt City Council tackled the city's Public Works Department budgets at a work-session on Monday, May 2. All members of council, along with City Manager Michael McLaughlin and City Treasurer Jeff Williams, were in attendance. Public Works was represented by Director Kenny Hall, Assistant Director Carolyn Clemens, Superintendent of Operations Lesley Riddle and Recycling Coordinator Luisa Robles.

Although two complicated topics were on the agenda, the meeting started late and council opted to refer them to later council sessions. These were proposed debt refinancing and consideration of a new bond authorization for certain capital projects.

At the beginning of the work-session, McLaughlin provided several handouts relating to Public Works operations and city facilities that have been the subject of previous council requests. One was a current inventory of Greenbelt parks that lists about 55 city parkland parcels totaling just over 515 acres. Also listed is the 1,100-acre Greenbelt Park (national) and the state-owned wetlands area (75 acres) west of Cherrywood Lane in Greenbelt West.

Contract Services

Another document was an up-to-date tabulation of the 14 contracting organizations providing services for the city's facilities. These services include fire alarm/sprinkler system testing, emergency generator services, pest control, housekeeping and cleaning, elevator service, water treatment and gymnasium floor refinishing and maintenance. Such contracts for Fiscal Year 2011 total $128,336.

A third tabulation listed square-footage calculations, age and staffing for all municipal facilities. This document showed growth in existing city facilities from 1937 (outdoor pool, 5,000 sq. ft.) to 2009 (with the new Public Works buildings and the Buddy Attick Park restrooms to a city-wide grand total of 192,575 sq. ft.). These documents not only describe land and the facilities maintained by the city but also reflect areas of responsibility for the Public Works Department employees.

The last handout provided a comprehensive analysis of the Equivalent Greenhouse Gas Emissions (eCO₂) produced by buildings owned and operated by the City of Greenbelt. The city manager provided the eCO₂ analysis for the years 2005 through 2010 to show council the actual kilowatt hours (KwH) of energy consumed per year per city building and by street lights, and for 2009 and 2010, the adjusted KwH that take into account "Wind Credits" the city has earned through purchase of wind energy credits from Clean Currents (15 percent in Fiscal Year 2010 and 100 percent starting in FY11).

During 2009 and 2010 the total KwH used by city buildings were 4,344,353 and 4,347,447 for those years respectively. Thus, the KwH "reduced" by purchasing Wind

Raaheela Ahmed Named As David Craig Scholar

by Doug Mangum

Raaheela Ahmed has been selected as this year's David Craig Scholarship winner. The annual prize provides four-year scholarship assistance totaling $10,000 in $2,500 installments to the student selected.

When you first meet Ahmed you are captivated by the comfort and ease with which she listens and speaks with complete strangers. We had never met, yet I instantly felt a connection between her well-mannered humility and her warm regard for others.

In the fall Ahmed, who lives in Bowie, will enter the University of Maryland with plans to pursue a biology/pre-med major. Her love for science and people will serve her well. She already possesses a tremendous ability for caring and communicating that should translate into an honest-to-goodness bedside manner.

The night I met her at the Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) senior awards ceremony, she received several awards – she was one of 71 members of the class of 2011 who maintained a 4.0 GPA or above – she received the Marguerite DeRosa Scholarship and the National Honor Society Scholarship.

But what most impressed me was her presentation of the National Honor Society Outstanding Teacher Award. She gave a spirited and eloquent introduction as the president of the National Honor Society for her AP Chemistry teacher, Coit Hendley.

Raaheela Ahmed

Ahmed is an organizer. She created the Do Something Club her junior year and served as its president. She also served as president for the school's SADD and National Honor Society chapters.

Ahmed also received a citation from Governor Martin O'Malley for outstanding service. In keeping with her club's name, Ahmed has truly done something with her time at ERHS.

Volunteer Activities

The many volunteer involvements in Ahmed's school, community and mosque are extensive. They range from collecting school supplies, jeans, nonperishable foods, money and small toys and trinkets to creating cards, writing thank you letters to overseas

Middle School Task Force Explores Plans for Future

by James Giese

Only a few people showed up to speak at the second Greenbelt Middle School Task Force hearing to give their thoughts on how the old Greenbelt Middle School (GMS) building, soon to be vacated when an adjacent new building is completed, can serve the Greenbelt community. The hearing was held on May 10 at the Greenbelt Community Center, once also a school building (elementary) and now a multipurpose city facility.

Task force Vice Chair Beatrice Rodgers and Chair David Lange conducted the meeting. Three members of the city's Senior Citizens Advisory Committee were there to speak: Betty Timer, chair; Brenda Cooley, liaison to the task force; and Bunny Fitzgerald. Paul Shackelford, chair of Turning Point Academy, also spoke.

Rodgers commented that the turnout was quadruple that of the first hearing, which had been held at the Greenbriar Terrace Room a week earlier.

In opening remarks, Rodgers noted that the task force would be considering a revised proposal on Thursday, May 12 that would conclude that retention of the entire old school building is not feasible. This conclusion is based on a 2009 architect's estimate of a total rehabilitation cost of $15 million, $9 million greater than funds available.

As an alternative, the committee will consider proposing that needed services be offered in a combination of existing facilities, including a much smaller GMS building. To better enable Franklin Park residents in utilizing these various facilities, the committee will propose expanding shuttle bus service now provided by Franklin Park.

Four alternatives for a reduced facility are to be considered,

Current GHI Board Holds Last Pre-election Meeting

by Sue Krofchik

The nine-member Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) board of directors conducted business for the last time in its current configuration on May 12. Elections for five of the nine board seats will take place over a two-day span beginning May 18 when the annual membership meeting recesses at the conclusion of the business portion of the meeting. The newly-reconstituted board will convene for the first time on May 26 when the officers will be elected.

Agenda items on May 12 were mostly routine except for continued planning for an orderly transition to a new general manager. Current Manager Gretchen Overdurff will retire in December after 17 years as chief executive.

To facilitate this change, two major decisions were made. First, the updated job description for the general manager position was approved. This three-page document describes 17 essential job functions, necessary qualifications, desirable experience and in addition provides a description of physical demands of the position. A separate one-page supplement describes 10 guidelines for how the general manager should interact with the board.

At the April 28 board meeting President Suzette Agans, on behalf of the board, told Assistant General Manager Eldon Ralph to submit a letter of application, resume and completed GHI forms within 30 days. There appear to be no plans for a broader search for candidates.

Transition Services

The board's second major decision was to approve a request for a proposal (RFP) for a management firm to conduct a smooth transition to the new general manager. The RFP will be sent to four known firms and to any others expressing interest in bidding.

The RFP contains four major sections: (1) Meeting with outgoing general manager and developing a written manual of standard operating procedures, (2) Conducting workshop(s) for the board and incoming general manager, (3) Assisting the new general manager with the organizational assessment of current departments and staffing and developing a plan for any needed restructuring based on GHI goals and priorities, (4) Making an executive coach available to the new general manager.

A period of overlap is planned for the retiring and incoming general managers to work together.

Town Hall Report

A 17-page document has been produced that summarizes answers to questions posed at the January 23 Town Hall Meeting that focused on the pilot project and community-wide upgrade. This report will be available at the annual meeting and can be

Courtesy and Respect

Two boys, maybe in middle or high school, were seen riding bikes down Research, then Greenhill around 3:45 p.m. on May 16. They were yelling rude remarks to an older neighbor while riding by on their bikes.

Please show respect to those who live in our town. Thank you.

Candice Windsor

THANKS!

A heartfelt thank you to my friends and neighbors at Charles-towne Village and Belle Point who came to my assistance following a bicycle accident. On that fateful day, March 5, an inaugural ride on a brand new bicycle presented to me as a retirement present resulted in complete strangers, neighbors and friends finding me unconscious in the street.

Jerry, whom I had never met, stopped his car, provided basic first aid and had his friend call 911 as well as alert my neighbors. He and his friend stayed with me until the ambulance arrived.

My neighbors contacted my family, secured the bicycle and stopped by the emergency room. My friend provided moral support while doctors super-glued my head and put casts on my hands, among many other acts of kindness and support.

I am deeply grateful for this extraordinary display of compassion. This is yet another example of how citizens of Greenbelt take care of each other. We all have so many reasons to be proud of Greenbelt. This is one of many stories that illustrate the nature of our city.

Thyra Packett

THANKS!

The David Craig Memorial Scholarship Fund (DCMSF) wants to thank all the ERHS Seniors who applied for this year's scholarship for all the wonderful community service they provided during their high school years. Seven of the applicants are Greenbelt residents who have served this community very well. All of them were worthy of consideration and made this year's selection enormously difficult. All showed the well-roundedness we look for along with leadership qualities and academic excellence. They all should be extremely proud of their accomplishments and deserve praise for being involved in so many volunteer opportunities.

The DCMSF board congratulates these soon-to-be-graduates and wishes them well in their college future pursuits.

The DCMSF also wants to thank the Greenbelt Tennis Association for its recent donation of $500 for their membership social on Saturday, May 7. Their continued financial support of DCMSF is greatly appreciated.

The fund accepts all gifts large and small from both individuals and organizations throughout the year and we are tax deductible. Donations can be mailed to DCMSF, P.O. Box 761, Greenbelt, MD 20768.

Greenbelt Senior Stringfellow Wins Governor's Arts Award

Greenbelter Dr. Frank Stringfellow was awarded the Governor's Leadership in Aging Award in Visual Arts. Maryland Secretary of Aging Gloria Lawlah presented the award at the senior center in Catonsville on May 10. The award was based on Stringfellow's paintings, wood burnings and his children's books. He has 300 paintings and wood burnings to his credit and has written two children's books.

Stringfellow paints in multiple media and has a broad range of subjects. He has produced landscapes, still lifes and wildlife portraits as well as family and urban scenes. Basically he paints his own life and many paintings involve wildlife biology.

His painting "Assateague Light with Horses" graced the cover of the program for the awards ceremony and he was invited to present a few of his works of art. The artwork was well received Stringfellow's "Assateague Light with Horses" was used as the cover art for the program for the Governor's Leadership in Aging ceremony in Catonsville on May 10.

Youth Music Concert In Center on May 21

On Saturday afternoon, May 21 from 4 to 6 p.m., the Greenbelt Middle School Jazz Ensemble and the Northwestern High School Jazz Ensemble will perform in a free concert in Roosevelt Center.

This is the second of two concerts this spring in the Eileen Peterson Youth Music Series, a program produced by the New Deal Café. It is sponsored by the Friends of New Deal Cafe Arts, with supporting funds from the Prince George's Arts Council and the City of Greenbelt.

Corrections

The article last week on council's budget review of city contribution groups incorrectly identified the source of grant funding for the Eileen Peterson Youth Music Series. The grant was from the non-profit Prince George's Arts Council.

In announcing the time for the May 24 Long Term Care Ombudsman program at the library the time listed was incorrect. The program starts at 6 and ends at 8 p.m.

and a showing will follow at the county Department of Aging.

Stringfellow maintains that creativity and expression are life-long activities. He is a research scientist and mostly self-taught in his other pursuits as author, poet, storyteller, modeler, harmoniacist and Senior Olympian.

His paintings, wood burnings and books are part of a larger work entitled "Collected Works of Frank Stringfellow (Effects of Aging on Creativity and Expression)" submitted to the Folklife Center at the Library of Congress in 2007 and to other institutions. He continues to explore how aging affects creativity and expression in an ongoing experiment. It is his life style.

Stringfellow, a resident of Woodland Way, was raised on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, where he developed a true love of nature and science, as his father worked at the Wallops Island Chincoteague Naval Air Station.

Stringfellow worked as a zoologist/parasitologist at Beltsville Agricultural Research Center for 32 years and retired in 2000.

Striving for Communality

In "Of Gods and Men," opening Friday, May 20 at Old Greenbelt Theatre, a small group of Benedictine monks from France works closely with a mix of Muslim villagers in North Africa to improve the lives of their neighbors while keeping true to their precepts of moderation and spirituality. When insurgents in the area stir up the community and battle government forces, the monks face hard choices, including an urgent call by a local official to leave the country. The film – timely and penetrating – ends as it begins, in weighty silence.

PG-13. In French with English subtitles. Running time: 120 minutes.

The star party will be cancelled without notice if it is hopelessly cloudy. Attendees are asked to park in the ball field lot at the bottom of the hill unless bringing a telescope.

Obituaries

Paul Acton Snyder

Paul Acton Snyder, 53, died at home May 6, 2011, after a short illness. He has been a Greenbelt resident since 2008 and lived with his brother Robert Ludwig Snyder on Hillside Road.

Mr. Snyder was born in Chillicothe, Ohio, in 1957 and moved with his family to College Park in 1970. He graduated from High Point High School in 1975 where he had developed an interest in horticulture and botany.

He graduated from Prince George's Community College in 1979 and then enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps to begin pursuing his goal of working in the area of law enforcement. He completed the Marine Corps military police program in 1983, having been last stationed at El Toro Marine Corp Air Station in California. He worked for 13 years in law enforcement in California as a deputy sheriff.

In 1996 Mr. Snyder moved his family to the Boston area to work in a security position. There he became interested in creative writing, architecture and real estate.

In 2009 he took a security position at the U.S. Department of Justice and this gave him time to take part in the many cultural and educational activities offered in Greenbelt and in Washington, D.C.

Paul Snyder was a thoughtful and gentle man who always looked for opportunities to help and be of service to others.

Mr. Snyder was predeceased by his father, Carl Robert Snyder of College Park.

He is survived by a daughter, Jean Marie, his mother Jean Acton Snyder and brother Robert Ludwig Snyder, both of Greenbelt; brother Michael Stanley Snyder, nephew Michael Alan Snyder and several cousins and aunts in Ohio.

A family memorial service was held in Greenbelt.

Charles R. Backstrom

Former longtime resident Charles Robert "Bob" Backstrom, 68, of Ocala, Fla., died after a long illness on his birthday, March 7, 2011.

Mr. Backstrom attended St. Hugh's Parochial School and graduated from DeMatha High School, Class of 1961. He worked at the Evening Star newspaper as well as in medical equipment sales, real estate and retail sales.

He was predeceased by his parents Vernon and Geraldine Backstrom.

He is survived by brother Richard (Kathy) of Columbia, sisters Susan Burns (Bill) of Wheaton, Janis Lentz, of Ocala and also Charlene Backstrom Boseman (Jim) of Greenbelt and many loving nephews and a niece.

Mr. Backstrom was a loving and giving person, a devout Catholic. Having never married he was devoted to his family.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, May 28 at 11 a.m. at Warner Memorial Presbyterian Church, 10123 Connecticut Avenue in Kensington, Md. Remembrances may be entered online at www.legacy.com.

Credits for those years were 4,018,525 and 3,695,330 respectively. In addition to the calculated "wind energy reductions" McLaughlin noted the city achieved $100,000 in savings through the Clean Currents program.

This reporter questioned whether the "reduced" eCO2 footprint calculated through the use of the wind energy credit program was "real" or "illusory" since the actual energy consumed by the city through the "grid" cannot be determined as to "source" (coal, natural gas, wind or solar) and that the most energy entering the grid is produced by burning coal, oil or natural gas.

He answered that the city's participation in the Clean Currents program through the purchase of wind energy credits promotes the generation of energy by wind, eventually increasing the percentage of wind energy entering the U.S. electrical supply grid.

Budget Highlights

Reflecting the range of responsibilities the department fulfills, the budget includes funds for the Greenbelt Connection bus service, recycling and refuse collections, city facilities maintenance and custodial operations, horticultural, parks, ball field and playground upkeep and fleet management of city-owned vehicles.

In his brief report introducing the department budget, Public Works Director Kenny Hall noted the department has been carrying out these diverse functions with a net three positions fewer during the past two years and that the FY12 budget reflects a net four positions down for the department to a full time equivalent (FTE) of 50.5.

The departmental function losing an FTE for the new fiscal year is Street Maintenance. Overall the net loss of four FTEs over the past several years has been due to the department's removal of its "Special Operations" function in the staffing chart. That function was instead absorbed into other department categories.

In addition to staff reductions, other issues for FY12 include completion of a tree master plan to recover from severe storm damage over the past two years. The plan includes replacement of 100 trees in both FY11 and FY12.

Sustainability Plan

In the area of Energy Efficiency and Sustainability, Public Works will utilize a Sustainability Master Plan being developed by the city's Advisory Committee on Environmental Sustainability (Green ACES). In FY12 energy-saving initiatives will be funded using Energy Efficiency and Conservation Block Grant funds.

These energy saving opportunities will focus on two of the city's largest facilities, the Aquatic and Fitness Center and the Community Center. In the recycling program, the city will continue to provide new 65-gallon rolling carts for homeowners in Greenbelt neighborhoods at about 50 per year.

New cart distribution started in the Boxwood subdivision and then in Greenspring I in Greenbelt East. Experience with the new carts has been positive, with users reporting greater ease in dealing with recyclables and a higher recycling volume.

For FY12 total Public Works salaries amount to $2,688,700, $8,100 less than the adopted budget for FY11 and $31,400 more than the estimated actual salary expenditures for FY11.

Of the total FY12 Public Works salary budget, $115,000 is for overtime. The department's administration budget for FY12 totals $1,116,600, $14,000 less than for the prior year. Nearly all items are decreased except for maintenance and repair of the new Public Works buildings which is increased by about $10,000. Hall attributed these increases to higher than expected costs for service contracts for the generator and other new equipment.

The Maintenance of Multipurpose Equipment Account shows a slight increase from FY11. The total for FY12 is $285,100 which is $23,100 more than that budgeted last year.

Motor Maintenance

Most of the increase occurs in Motor Equipment Maintenance, just over $17,000 for FY12 because of higher projected fuel costs. Council and staff discussed the implications of selecting appropriate fuels for the diesel part of the city's fleet. Hall asked for council's feelings about returning to bio-diesel fuels since fewer natural gas vehicles are available and hybrid vehicles are more expensive.

He said the department could switch to 20 percent bio-diesel but that amount is not included in the proposed budget. Councilmember Rodney Roberts spoke against going back to bio-diesel. For the environment he felt the city should not continue to invest in a diesel fleet and would be better off looking at natural gas vehicles.

Mayor Judith Davis, on the other hand, saw electric vehicles as the wave of the future. She hoped the city would seek grant funds for electric vehicle charging stations in Greenbelt.

Expenditures for street maintenance will total $677,900 in FY12 - $32,000 less than was budgeted in FY11 and $45,200 less than actually spent in FY11. Most accounts are even or less than those for FY11 but an increase of $10,000 is projected for street landscaping.

McLaughlin has advised council that the state will increase the city's share of Highway User Revenues and the proposed budget will be adjusted to reflect the actual increase.

A separate account deals with Greenbelt's share of expenses for the Four Cities Street Cleaning operation. The proposed FY12 budget shows a $14,000 increase, with a proposed $86,800. Because council had recently met with their four-city counterparts, they discussed the dissatisfaction of some the other cities with current arrangements for use of the sweeper.

From Public Works' viewpoint, the sweeper experience has been poor this past year due to "excessive" mechanical problems. Public Works directors from College Park, New Carrollton and Berwyn Heights are discussing with Greenbelt possible options including replacement of the vehicle which was purchased in 2007. The FY12 budget does not include funds for the city's share of a replacement vehicle.

Waste Collection

The Waste Collection Budget, with 2,424 residential customers, maintains a steady amount of refuse taken to the county landfill - 1,600 tons per year. For a slightly larger number of recycling customers (2,591), the city's current recycling totals are at the 2,200 to 2,300 level. Some 2,350 tons are projected for FY12.

The total Waste Collection budget for FY12 is projected at $730,400, about $25,000 lower than for FY11. Because the fee-based system has operated at a deficit during the past several years, McLaughlin has proposed an increase of $4 in the refuse fee, amounting to a quarterly household fee of $67 or $268 on an annual basis. The recycling-only fee for some customers is proposed to increase by 5 percent.

Most non-commercial areas of Roosevelt Center are city-owned and maintained by Public Works. In addition, the Center hosts about 22 permitted events each year which rely upon city crews for preparation and clean-up.

The city's ownership of the Old Greenbelt Theatre also accounts for expenditures for routine maintenance and upkeep. The proposed FY12 budget for Roosevelt Center is slightly increased to $76,600, up from $73,200 budgeted in FY11 but less than estimated FY11 expenditures of $87,000. Higher than expected expenditures to repair a water line break and unanticipated repairs to the theater marquee and HVAC repairs were noted as reasons for the higher FY 2011 expenditures.

Cemetery Budget

The budget proposed for the city cemetery will remain at $5,100 for FY12. This amount covers the cost of lawn maintenance and preparing graves for burial.

The budget for traffic control is proposed to increase from $100,000 in FY11 to $129,600 in FY12. Besides salary increases this amount will fund the painting of new crosswalks in Greenbelt East in response to the traffic calming study done several years ago.

The proposed budget for maintenance and upkeep of the Municipal Building reflects an $8,000 decrease (from $83,900 estimated expenditures for FY11). There were one-time expenditures last year for extensive carpet replacement and installation of energy-efficient lighting.

Public Works also operates the intracity transit service, the Greenbelt Connection. It operates seven days a week by trip reservation. These expenditures are mainly salaries for driver and maintenance. Proposed for FY12 at $77,500, they show a slight increase over last year's estimated expenditure of $76,500.

Mayor Davis suggested that fees for this service should be evaluated and an increase considered for FY12. The city expects delivery of a new bus for this service from the county.

service members, picking up trash at the Anacostia River clean-up and donating to Locks for Love.

The list goes on. Her interests are as varied as her service hours are long.

Ahmed's faith is deeply rooted and the guiding force for her extensive selfless acts of kindness, humility and generosity. She says that her faith is more than her beliefs; it is her lifestyle.

Ahmed put that lifestyle to the test when she became a member of the girls rugby team her sophomore year. Coming from a culture where women are not encouraged to play sports and, weathering disapproval from members of her community as well as breaking stereotypes of Muslim girls, she paved the way for her friends also to reconsider the way they see themselves in society. During her time on the team she has brought other Muslim girls to the sport, one of whom I met after the awards ceremony. Both of them flashed beaming smiles when talking of their athletic experiences. Ahmed was named Player of the Year by their coach in her second season, an award she is thrilled to talk about. Awards have also come to her in the area of Science Fair participation.

Ahmed is many things, though I see her as a pioneer and explorer. She has spent her four years of high school exploring vast avenues of teenage experience, knowing it is okay to be herself wherever she goes and whatever she does. She is excited to be able to attend college and will undoubtedly explore all that has to offer her.

Ahmed joins Erin Donn and Brendan Cusack (also a University of Maryland student) and Joel Sparkes (University of Michigan) as current recipients.

Reception for New Café Art Is Sunday

The new May-June art exhibit at the New Deal Café is a collection of Green Man Festival-inspired pieces submitted in response to a call for art reflective of gardens as messages from Mother Earth. An artists' reception will be held on Sunday, May 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. All are invited to enjoy the exhibits and meet the artists, whose work will be on display through June 22.

The art is an eclectic mix of visual and garden art, poetry and instructions on how to convert sod into salad, bids viewers to take time to smell the flowers, enjoy the views and experience textures, forms and thoughts about treasured garden spaces.

The display was planned and sponsored by the Chesapeake Education, Arts and Research Society and Friends of the New Deal Café Arts with support from the City of Greenbelt.

Greenbelt's K-9 unit entered three handler/dog pairs as a team. In team competitions the team of Cpl. Robert Musterman/K-9 Rocky, MPO Barry Byers/K-9 Leon and Dewey/Rambo placed second overall. In individual competition Rambo and handler Dewey dominated all 39 teams placing first overall and winning the Cahill Award for combined apprehension and obedience.

Future Plans

Rodgers noted another concern of the committee. The owners of Franklin Park at Greenbelt Station (originally Springhill Lake apartments) are making a serious effort to bring in as tenants students attending the University of Maryland as well as military personnel relocated to the Fort Mead area.

If successful, these efforts could significantly change the needs for services for this area of the city. At present Franklin Park is the only residential area in Greenbelt West, although more housing is to be built at the Greenbelt Station development, now on hold because of the depressed economy.

Timer, who administered a senior center until her retirement, said that program needs for seniors "could be expanded by a whole page." Some activities of a community center to serve senior needs are health information, computer classes, financial planning and information, estate planning, volunteer opportunities and social involvement.

While these kinds of services are already happening at the Greenbelt Community Center, they are not available on the "other side," she said. Timer felt these services needed to be in "your neighborhood" and everywhere. She noted that according to census data, 26 percent of Franklin Park residence units included at least one senior.

Cooley told Task Force leaders that there was a disorientation between the Greenbelt West apartments and old Greenbelt. When she was a resident of Springhill Lake, she said, she had not been aware of Old Greenbelt. Nor do the two elementary schools have any relationship to one another.

Fitzgerald said that a Springhill Lake mother had told her how difficult it was for her and her children to get by bus to the city's facilities in Old Greenbelt. She thought maybe having another facility might help her exercise class which now meets at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center during summer when the Community Center gym is used for other programs.

However, she said that some seniors were concerned that if there was another city facility, some programs now at the Community Center would be moved to the new facility. Cooley noted a senior concern with security in Greenbelt West.

Turning Point

Shackelford expressed an interest in the Turning Point Academy having the entire school building, if that were possible. The academy hopes eventually to expand to include high school. The school presently has 464 students in 20 classrooms. There is a waiting list. It would like to expand to 700 students in 35 to 40 classrooms. Currently the school shares space with the Trinity Assembly of God church. "We are good neighbors," Shackelford said, "and get along with the church; but with sharing, some things happen."

Turning Point Academy is a charter school, the only charter school, according to Shackelford, to provide bus transportation for students. The goal of the school is to change the children of Prince George's County. For the community to buy into this goal, community involvement will be necessary, he said.

The school holds a "discovery night" once a month, he said, at which parents join children in learning.

Weekend parent and children activities are also held.

The school uses the Hyde Process, originally established by Joseph W. Gauldat at the Hyde School in Bath, Maine, and is now used by a number of noted private academies in the New England area.

Shackelford said that those students' parents have to pay high tuition fees for an educational concept that Turning Point is offering to students in this county. (As a charter school, Turning Point receives county funds for each student attending.)

Cooley expressed concern about space and safety issues with seniors and children sharing a building and involving school buses.

Time Line

Lange said the current school building will be vacant in 15 months but not available for use until 2015 because of necessary rehabilitation work. The task force will complete an interim report to the city council in June for council use in meeting with school planners. The committee's final report is scheduled for September.

Retention of the entire building is not feasible, Lange said. Though the needs are still valid, they must be met at smaller cost. Demolition is cheaper than rehabilitation, he said, although the cost of demolition is not yet known. The committee is therefore considering four alternatives to reduce the building size.

Lange noted that Franklin Park is providing a shuttle service with 13 stops. This can be used by residents to get between the various existing and planned facilities at Franklin Park. The old Giant building at the neighborhood shopping center at Franklin Park is to be converted into a fitness and child care center, Lange said.

The Campfire program is to move into a new location in a building operated by Franklin Park, he added. Lange said he is uncertain as to how useful that facility will be. A facility for use by military families is to be developed but Lange thinks that will be more like a bar. Senior activities, he thinks, might need to be clustered at the old middle school and not intermixed with children's activities.

"We need the city to give guidance to the school system for use of the building," Lange said.

Year of Cooperatives

The United Nations has designated 2012 as the International Year of Cooperatives, complete with an official logo and tag featuring the slogan "Cooperative Enterprises Build a Better World." The logo shows seven people working together to lift and support a cube, demonstrating the seven principles of the cooperative movement.

The board discussed using the logo on the GHI website. However, because of restrictions on its use and the need for prior approval, the question of its use by GHI will be deferred to the incoming board. The issue is expected to appear on the August agenda.

Arthritis Foundation Honors Jean Mattie

The Arthritis Foundation has honored Greenbelt's Arthritis Walk organizer, Jean Mattie, as a champion in the fight against arthritis. Named ahead of last Saturday's 8th annual Greenbelt walk, held at Eleanor Roosevelt High School's track, Mattie is the Foundation's 2011 Walk honoree. Mattie is also the local walk's top fundraiser.

A former Plateau Place resident, she now lives in Lanham. Like many arthritis sufferers, Mattie lives with daily pain but she remains fully engaged in life, volunteering with the Prince George's Community College Alumni Association, her neighborhood civic association and the Arthritis Foundation. Diagnosed in 1980 at 18 years old, Mattie has spent years educating herself and others on strategies for coping with arthritis.

Many arthritis sufferers discover their biggest support comes from their family. For Mattie, this includes her husband of 26 years, his 89-year-old mother (who has severe osteoporosis), their two dogs, two cats, a bird and the newest rescues, two kittens. "Many people ask why I don't stay home and rest and my reply is that God and I have a deal – on the days he allows me to get out of bed, I do something for someone somewhere."

The autoimmune disorder arthritis can affect children as early as a year old. There is currently no cure for arthritis, only a series of treatments that aim to control and prevent further damage to the joints and other tissues. It can be a crippling, life-changing disease and can strike at any age; its prevalence is surging and affects approximately 50 million Americans. In the Mid-Atlantic region, 5.7 million people have received a medical diagnosis of arthritis; that number includes a million Maryland residents of which 5,600 are children.

The Arthritis Foundation is the nation's leading health organization addressing the needs of Americans living with the nation's most common cause of disability. Founded in 1948, with headquarters in Atlanta, the foundation has many service points, including the Mid-Atlantic region, and is the largest private, not-for-profit contributor to arthritis research in the world with more than $400 million in research grants since its founding. They have provided education, advocacy and conducted programs that improve life for arthritis sufferers.

Arthritis Walk Is a Success Despite Rain

The eighth annual Prince George's County Arthritis WALK was held on Saturday, May 14 at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. This year's theme was "Let's Move Together" and was attended by over 250 walkers, sponsors and volunteers who came out despite the drizzle that engulfed the morning and turned to rain during the activities. Several components of the program were compromised by the weather and others were enhanced by repeat participation by "Willie the Clown." The ERHS JROTC and choir members participated after a warm welcome from Principal Dr. McNeil.

The final "Dining Out to Fight Arthritis" event will be on Monday, May 23 from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Sir Walter Raleigh Inn on Greenbelt Road. The walk planning committee hopes for additional funds from this event and through online and mailed donations. The initial total from the walk and other activities is currently $18,000. Over 83 percent of funds raised go to local outreach and financing of research for cures and treatment of the 100-plus conditions classified as arthritis.

The 2012 Arthritis WALK date has already been set and will be at ERHS – next year's walk will be on May 5. In order to receive notice of future activities and events email name and contact information to PGArthritisComm@aol.com or leave a phone message at 301-335-7689.
