

Proclamation

WHEREAS, on November 24, 1937, the first issue of an independent, nonprofit, non-partisan, cooperative newspaper was published and not a single issue has been missed in the 75 years since that date - a record believed to be unmatched anywhere in the United States by a free weekly newspaper; and

WHEREAS, the Greenbelt News Review is delivered free of charge to over 11,000 residents and businesses; and

WHEREAS, the Greenbelt News Review unites the City, keeps its residents informed on key issues, and provides a forum for its citizens to share their ideas and opinions with their neighbors; and

WHEREAS, the Greenbelt News Review is staffed by dedicated volunteers, some for several decades, who give many hours of their time to make the residents of Greenbelt well aware of local news and happenings that impact our community; and

WHEREAS, a key ingredient to good government is an informed citizenry, Greenbelters are encouraged to express their appreciation to the News Review staff for their outstanding service to the city; and

NOW THEREFORE, I, Judith F. Davis, by the authority vested in me by the citizens and City Council of Greenbelt, do hereby issue this proclamation on the occasion of and congratulate its staff and commend them for providing a quality publication that has fostered community spirit and activism throughout Greenbelt's unique history.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the City of Greenbelt, Maryland to be affixed this 18th day of November, 2012

Schools Everywhere Celebrate American Education Week

by Mary Moien

This week, November 12 through 16, is American Education Week. Schools in Greenbelt and throughout the country use this week to remind people of the importance of public education, under the banner of: "Great Public Schools: A Basic Right and Our Responsibility."

In proclaiming this week National Education Week, President Barack Obama said: "All children deserve access to a world-class education and the chance to pursue their dreams. Our schools are a gateway to those opportunities and the key to our Nation's economic prosperity and civic life. This week, we reaffirm our national mission of educating our students and training our workers better than any other country on earth."

The Greenbelt News Review recognizes the interest of the entire community in the success of its schools and students. Over the next few weeks the newspaper will profile a few Greenbelt teachers or school staff members from the five schools within the city - Greenbelt and Springhill Lake Elementary Schools, Greenbelt Middle School, Eleanor Roosevelt High School and Turning Point Academy, a public charter school - as well as nearby Magnolia Elementary School, which serves a number of Greenbelt students.

The News Review will provide information throughout the year on local schools, teachers, students and activities.

Greenbelt is the home of two U.S. Department of Education Blue Ribbon Schools - Greenbelt Elementary School and Eleanor Roosevelt High School. Parent and teacher associations are active in many of the local schools.

Greenbelt's Advisory Committee on Education, a volunteer organization, is a testament to the importance of education to the city. The committee has affirmed that "Greenbelt is a community committed to the education of our children."

Inside this Issue

As part of our celebration of 75 years as the weekly newspaper for Greenbelt we publish in this issue some highlights of the history of the town and its newspaper.

Help Envision City's Future on Nov. 17

"What is your vision of Greenbelt's future?" "What priorities should the city pursue to enhance our community and preserve its unique legacy?" Residents can contribute their views and suggestions for the city's future on Saturday, November 17 at three concurrent community visioning sessions. Hosted by the Greenbelt City Council, each concurrent session, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., will have a professional facilitator.

The session locations include: 1) Springhill Lake Recreation Center, 6101 Springhill Drive; 2) Greenbriar Community Building, 7600 Hanover Parkway; and 3) Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road.

In addition to the city's legacy as a planned community, topics will include transportation opportunities, environmental stewardship and enhancement of the sense of community in Greenbelt. Residents may speak to any topic of their interest related to making Greenbelt the best community it can be.

For more information call Anne Marie Belton at 301-474-8000 or email abelton@greenbeltnmd.gov.

Greenbelt: We Make Our Bow

Greenbelt is a new town geared to the Twentieth Century. Quite appropriately it is called the "Town of the Future." Greenbelt citizens inspire all with their friendliness and faith, their vision and community spirit.

Life in Greenbelt is no accident. It is the result of foresight, careful planning, and engineering skill. If it isn't a community for financial gain, it is a town for the enrichment of life and for the encouragement of better housing in America.

This is no little opportunity and no little responsibility for an intelligent self-governing people. Democracy is at work and its influence is felt in Greenbelt. Here economic resources have served the general welfare beautifully.

While all this is obvious to any Greenbelt tenant, there could not long remain either security or responsibility for community affairs without a center of dependable information. That center, quite naturally, is a town weekly.

A good newspaper is an adjunct of self-government; it is the keystone in the arch of American liberty. The town meeting and the town weekly are joint partners in maintaining order, stability, progress and sanity in any modern community.

We Pioneers

We did not arrive in Greenbelt after long, tiresome miles by covered wagon; nor did we find this place by chance. We were not first to gaze upon this spot of ground; nor did we cut down trees in order to build our homes. Nor is it necessary to clear the land to plant our crops, that we may eat; nor dig a well, that we may quench our thirst.

Yet, we are pioneers – of a new way of living! We are the sculptors handling the soft, yielding clay of a new community. What form shall we mold out of it?

This project has given most of us an opportunity we'd never anticipated. We are in the process of creating homes! Our families and our children will live under laws of our own making. Only in our fondest and most youthful dreams have we imagined such a chance. What will we make of it?

Let us make good laws – wise laws, and not too many of them. Let us keep ourselves, our community, our city government, our ideals, as clean as our own new, windswept roofs. Let us conduct ourselves and the management of our Greenbelt in such a way as to deserve the pride with which all America will be looking on.

We who have been endowed with the greatest heritage on earth by our ancestors, still have that hardiness and determination underneath. Greenbelt will be a success, with the cooperation of her citizens and with the help of God. We will have proved ourselves – we pioneers!

Thanksgiving Week Deadline Change

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, next week the News Review will move all deadlines back by one day in order to submit the issue to the printer on Wednesday, November 21 instead of Thursday. Naturally the printer is closed then so its employees are able to celebrate the holiday.

All copy – ads, articles, photos, letters – must reach us no later than Monday, November 19 to be included in the November 22 issue. All material received after Monday evening will be held for the issue of November 29.

Thanks for your help in assuring we receive news in time to print it Thanksgiving week. The News Review wishes everyone a great Thanksgiving!

THANKS!

With help from the Community Church youth group, the "Scouting for Food" door-to-door campaign by Boy Scout Troop 746 and Cub Scout Pack 202 was successful, collecting 1,100 cans and boxes of donated food.

We thank the people of Greenbelt who contributed to this service project. Anyone with a question or interested in joining Scouting is welcome to give us a call at 301-221-0290 or 301-345-1312.

THANKS!

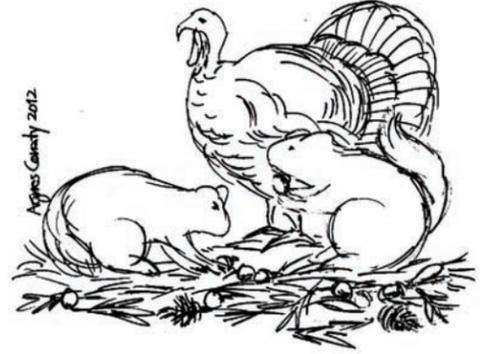

I wish to thank the News Review for giving me front page coverage on my campaign for the U.S. Congress. Especially I'm thankful for the many Greenbelters who did the bulk of the campaigning.

Mark Miller was my main assistant; Bob Snyder; was the treasurer. Doug Love helped in many ways, as did Jean Snyder, Bill Orleans and both my daughters, Hopi and Jen Auerbach.

The several hundred Greenbelt voters were a big contribution to the over 4,750 votes I received.

In 1937, the Original Goals of the Greenbelt Cooperator were published as follows:

- To serve as a nonprofit enterprise
- To remain non-partisan in politics
- To remain neutral in religious matters
- To print news accurately and regularly
- To make its pages an open forum for civic affairs
- To develop a staff of volunteer writers
- To create a "Good Neighbor" spirit, promote friendships, advance the common good and develop a "Greenbelt philosophy" of life.

Community Events

At the Library

Adult Programs

Saturday, November 17, 2 p.m.: African American historian and author/lecturer C.R. Gibbs presents an audio-visual lecture for adults and older children commemorating the War of 1812 bi-centennial on "Liberty's Clarion: African Americans, Maryland & The War of 1812."

Tuesday, November 20, 7 p.m., Book Discussion. The book this month is Stacey Schiff's Cleopatra, whose palace shimmered with onyx, gold, political and sexual intrigue. In a mix of history and fiction Cleopatra was a shrewd strategist and ingenious negotiator and her death ushered in a new world order.

Tuesday, November 20, 7 p.m.: African American historian and author/lecturer C.R. Gibbs' audio-visual presentation for adults and older children is "Blurred Vision: Racial Stereotypes in American Film and TV" discusses the disturbing stereotypical treatment of African Americans continuing in movies and television. The video includes rare images back to the silent film era in exploring black images on the silver screen.

Children's Programs

Saturday, November 17, 2 p.m., Monthly Read to Rover. Children age 6 to 11 build reading confidence reading for 15 minutes each to a specially trained therapy dog. Registration is required by calling the library at 301-345-5800.

Storytimes

On Wednesdays and Thursdays a librarian reads age-appropriate stories to children and parents using imagination and props. Pick up a free ticket from the information desk before the session.

Wednesday, November 14, 10:30 a.m., Drop-in Storytime for ages 3 to 5 years.

Thursday, November 15, 10:30 a.m., Toddler Time for ages 18 to 35 months with caregiver.

The library will close at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, November 21 for the holiday and will reopen with regular hours on Friday. For details visit the Greenbelt branch, call 301-345-5800 or visit the library system website at www.pgcmlls.info.

Greenbelt Performs Blood Drive Encore

Those who can't make the City of Greenbelt's Red Cross Blood Drive scheduled for tomorrow, Friday, November 16 from 12:30 to 6 p.m. at the Community Center at 15 Crescent Road will have another opportunity to donate blood next week, on Friday, November 23 from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the same location.

Community Center Coordinator Becky Sutfin said the Red Cross approached the city about holding an extra drive to recoup blood collections cancelled during Superstorm Sandy. Sutfin said the city hopes for a good turnout despite the proximity of the two events.

Blood donors must be at least 17 years old and meet minimum weight requirements. Bring a donor card, driver's license or two other forms of identification. Appointments are encouraged but not required. For more details or to make an appointment call 1-800-733-2767 (1-800-RED-CROSS) or visit redcrossblood.org.

Star Party Planned At City Observatory

On Saturday, November 17 the Astronomical Society of Greenbelt (ASG) will sponsor a star party at the City of Greenbelt Observatory at Northway field.

In addition to the observatory telescope, several members will set up their personal telescopes and binoculars for the enjoyment of all.

Observing will begin as soon as it is dark enough, probably around 7 p.m., although telescopes may be set up earlier. Objects to be observed in addition to the waxing crescent moon include Jupiter with its four Galilean satellites, which is rising earlier now, and several nice star clusters and nebulae.

The star party will be canceled without notice if it is hopelessly cloudy. Attendees are asked to park in the ball field lot, not up on the hill unless bringing a telescope. All are welcome. There is no admission charge.

More Community Events are throughout the paper.

Final Farmers Market: Dancers, Food Demos

Sunday, November 18 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. is the last day for the regular Greenbelt Farmers Market season. It will be marked by special performances of local Morris Dancers throughout the day and at noon a free cooking demonstration by a local chef.

Sustainable food professional Rita Calvert will serve a brined, grilled turkey with Bumpy Beer Mustard Butter. Calvert will show how to carve a turkey and give tips on brining and grilling a pasture-raised turkey. Her mustard and her cookbook, "The Grassfed Gourmet Fires It Up," will be available for purchase.

See www.greenbeltfarmersmarket.org and www.facebook.com/GreenbeltFarmersMarket for info.

Obituaries

Dolores Mary Petry

Dolores Mary Petry, 82, died at Sacred Heart Nursing Home, Inc., in Hyattsville on November 7, 2012.

Born in Syracuse, N.Y., Mrs. Petry lived in Greenbelt Homes, Inc. on Ridge Road since 1995.

She retired as editor and librarian at the Carnegie Geophysical Laboratory in Washington, D.C. after 32 years' service.

Mrs. Petry was a member of St. Hugh of Grenoble Catholic Church. She enjoyed aerobic exercise and also walking her two little dogs around Greenbelt.

Her husband Clinton B. Petry predeceased her. She is survived by her sister Greenbelt resident Elizabeth Bianchi, nephews and other relatives.

An out of town private holy mass is to be arranged.

Our sympathy to Elizabeth Bianchi on the death of her sister Dolores Mary Petry on November 7, 2012.

Congratulations to Bill Rowland, Jr., who grew up in the Lakewood section of Greenbelt, who has landed a role as an "extra" in Stephen Spielberg's new movie, "Lincoln." With his tall, thin physique and 1860s style beard, Bill, who lives in Virginia where many scenes were shot, was a "natural." Look for him when the movie comes to Greenbelt theaters.

Bill's father, Bill Rowland, Sr., a former editor of the News Review, still lives in Greenbelt.

Happy 100th birthday to longtime Greenbelter Jean D'Esposito. What a wonderful life she has led!

Send us your reports of new babies, awards, honors, etc. to share with our readers. We'd especially like to hear more from our neighbors in Greenbelt East and Greenbelt West (Franklin Park). GCAN Meeting Focus Is "The Great Turning"?

On Tuesday, November 20 at 7 p.m. the next meeting of the Greenbelt Climate Action Network (GCAN) will feature speakers on Quantum Spirituality, Responses to 2012 and The Great Turning. The meeting will be in Room 114 at the Community Center.

Mayan and Hopi prophecies predict that December this year, the end of a 5,125-year cycle, will usher in a new era. Speakers Brother Henry and Lore Rosenthal will talk about the focus of environmental groups on the year as having potential for a paradigm shift toward a more sustainable future in the spirit of The Great Turning.

There will be brief profiles of works on the subject and ample time for discussion.

Brother Henry is a theologian, teacher of spirituality, retreat master, campus minister, Archdiocesan Director for Religious Education and founder of several organizations. Rosenthal is GCAN's program coordinator.

Open Microphone For Kids on Sunday

Winter Clothing Drive At Holiday Market

On Sunday, December 16 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. there will be a special Greenbelt Farmers Holiday Market held at the rear parking lot of Roosevelt Center and the Municipal Building.

Among the events included will be a joint winter clothing collection drive by Mishkan Torah and the Greenbelt Mamas & Papas intended to collect donations of clothing and money for needy children at Springhill Lake Elementary School. Particularly sought is cold weather outerwear for boys and girls from kindergarten through fifth grade including coats, gloves, hats, scarves and warm long sleeved shirts. Underwear is also needed for the youngest boys and girls in sizes 6 and 7.

The groups are announcing the drive in advance in hopes people will begin setting aside appropriate donations.

Mamas and Papas Meets Wednesdays

The Greenbelt Mamas & Papas, an all-volunteer group, provides fellowship and support for parents of babies, preschoolers and school-aged kids and meets every Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the playground across from the Greenbelt Library or, in case of cold/inclement weather, in the Youth Center multipurpose room.

The Mamas & Papas is open to mothers, dads, grandparents and caregivers in and around Greenbelt.

Reel and Meal Shows “Trashed” Monday

Monday, November 19 at 7 p.m. this month’s Reel and Meal at the New Deal series will show the provocative film “Trashed,” which asks, “If you’re not for zero waste, how much waste are you for?”

Every year in Prince George’s County alone, 500,000 tons of refuse are added to the Brown Station Landfill – even though most of it could be reused, recycled, refurbished or composted. Every ton wastes energy and a lost opportunity to conserve resources and reduce greenhouse gas emissions while boosting local jobs and revenues.

The panel-led discussion afterward will focus on what could be done differently at a local level – an important consideration with the county having to submit its 10-year solid waste plan to the state in 2013. Panelists include County Councilmember Mary Lehman’s political analyst Matt Dernoga and Greg Smith from Community Research, which works with Clean Water Action, the Institute for Local Self-Reliance, Energy Justice Network and other organizations on zero waste efforts.

The November Reel and Meal is jointly sponsored by the Beaverdam Creek Watershed Watch Group and Community Research.

For more information email Greg Smith at communityresearch@igc.org.

Getting Online Exposure For Clubs, Teams, Groups

by Susan Harris

As a newcomer to Greenbelt, I've done my share of online research to explore Greenbelt's wealth of clubs and organizations but sad to say, many of them have no website at all, at least none that Google could find. Having a website offers so many advantages to an organization that I'm encouraging folks to take a few minutes and create a free website. Here are two that are easy enough for anyone to use. And I mean anyone.

Greenbelt Live Page

GreenbeltLive.com is a multi-author blog and website about Greenbelt that I started last summer as a fun way to get to know my new community – and it's working! It's also an easy place to host basic information about local groups, which is why the Greenbelt Pottery Group created their web presence on Greenbelt Live – by just sending me the text and photos. The impetus for their getting online was in preparation for the big Festival of Lights Arts and Crafts Show, which they're now ready for – find them online at this address: www.greenbeltlive.com/pottery. There's no charge for this and I'm happy to occasionally update the information for them.

Blogger.com Site

Alternatively, still with no website skills at all you can have your own website launched in less than an hour by using the free blogging program Blogger.com, the most popular blogging program in the world and now owned by Google. And yes, I'm talking about a website, not a blog. Because this and other blogging programs are so easy to use, people are employing them for regular "static" websites, too, using the newer formatting options that make that possible.

One example is the website I recently created for Greenbelt's community gardens in about three hours, including customizing the colors and fonts and creating the header with a photo I took in one of the gardens. (See <http://www.GreenbeltCommunityGardenClub.org>.) Notice in the left sidebar that there are other pages and there could be as many as needed. The site is easy to edit. I expect other members of the Garden Club to be contributing soon.

Other blogging programs can be used to create static websites but they're generally not free and they're more complicated; I can certainly say that about Typepad and WordPress, having used both of them.

Now if your website needs are complicated, then by all means spend the money for a web designer or software that's for sale. For Greenbelt Live I paid $60 for a custom template on WordPress and it's hosted for no additional cost on my regular hosting account ($10/month) that covers this and several other websites and blogs I publish.

One's Own Domain

You can use either of the two free website choices above and still have your own unique, simple URL or web address by spending just $7 to $10 a year for your own domain name, then having it forwarded to where your website is (to Google.com or GreenbeltLive.) That way, the Pottery Club's web address could be www.GreenbeltPottery.org, for example. It's easier to send people to a simpler web address and if you decide later to move your website, you can just point your domain name to the new destination, while continuing to use the same web address and losing no readers.

There are several reputable domain name dealers I recommend: Dreamhost, 1and1 (which I've used for years) and Hostgator. It's very easy to buy and then direct or forward to the actual location of your website.

Greenbelt Online Directory

If you have any questions or problems using either of these methods, send them along and I'll try to help. Then after your group has a website, I'll include it on Greenbelt's Online Community Directory on the Greenbelt Live site.

Menu for Senior Nutrition Program

The Senior Nutrition "Food and Friendship" program provides lunches for seniors Monday through Friday at the Community Center beginning at noon. Meals must be reserved by 11 a.m. two days ahead. Call 301-397-2208, ext. 4215.

All meals include bread and margarine, coffee or tea and skim milk. Menus for November 19-23:

Monday – Grape juice, Parmesan chicken, macaroni and cheese, broccoli, seasonal fruit.

Tuesday – Fruit punch, vegetarian chili, brown rice, glazed carrots, seasonal fruit.

Wednesday – Apple juice, turkey breast with gravy, cranberry sauce, bread dressing, green beans, whipped potatoes, pumpkin pie.

Thursday and Friday – Happy Thanksgiving! All sites closed.

Belair Offers Just Desserts

From noon to 4 p.m. on Saturday, November 24, Belair Mansion in Bowie invites the public to sample a free "Taste of the Past." Get inspired for holiday baking! For details call 301-809-3089.

D'Esposito's 100th Birthday Celebrated on Sunday

by Kathleen McFarland

On Sunday, November 11 the large, loving family of longtime Greenbelter Jean D'Esposito gathered for Mass at St. Hugh of Grenoble Church to celebrate "Nana's" 100th birthday.

Jean sat in a wheelchair up front, blue eyes smiling as always, as one by one her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren came up to her after the Mass to offer their greetings or just touch her hand.

Jean Marie Immerso was born November 11, 1912, in Brooklyn, New York. Her family were friends and neighbors of the D'Esposito family and Jean married George D'Esposito in 1934. He taught

art at Cooper Union in New York for a time before finding work as a cartographer in the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Beltsville.

The young couple moved to Greenbelt, to 13 Court Ridge Road, in the early 1940s with their two oldest children, Robert and Mary Ann. Later, sons Stephen and Gregory were born. Jean was a mother and wife, leading a quiet life where children and church took priority. The children grew up and married. Jean and George always kept close by attending the ballgames and school activities of both children and grandchildren. When George died in 1999, the couple had been married for 65 years.

Jean D'Esposito and granddaughter Christine D'Esposito share a moment at Sunday's 100th birthday celebration.

After George's death, Jean moved from the 13 Court home to Green Ridge House, still keeping close to both her own family in New York and her growing family in Maryland. She spent as much time as possible with her daughter Mary Ann Hawk's family and son Stephen, both always near-by here in Greenbelt. Her family now includes 13 grandchildren, many great-grandchildren and even four great-great grandchildren. Many of them were present at the Mass on Sunday.

After the Mass, the family continued the celebration at the Three Brothers Italian Restaurant, a fitting way to honor "Nana" on her 100th birthday.

Robbery

November 6, 6:10 p.m., 7200 block Mandan Road. A teenager approached a person, implied he had a weapon and asked the man for money. When he said he did not have any money the robber walked away. The robber is described as a black male, 17 to 18 years old, 5'7" to 5'8" tall, 140 to 155 pounds, wearing a black North Face jacket and a black mask.

Drug Arrest

November 5, 6:47 p.m., 9000 block Breezewood Terrace. Three city residents ages 30, 34 and 35 and a 34-year-old nonresident were arrested and charged with possession of marijuana. They were released on a citation pending trial.

DWI/DUI

Three Greenbelt residents (a 30-year-old woman, 52-year-old woman and 43-year-old man) were arrested and charged with multiple alcohol-related offenses, among other charges, after separate traffic stops at Crescent and Hillside, Greenbelt Road at Kenilworth Avenue and 9200 block Springhill Lane, respectively. All were released on citations pending trial.

Disturbing the Peace

November 4, 3:45 p.m., 6200 block Springhill Court. A 39-year-old city resident was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace for continuing to play loud music. He was released on citation pending trial.

Trespassing

November 4, 12:40 a.m., 7200 block Hanover Drive. A 50-year-old resident was arrested and charged with trespassing on private property. He was released on citation pending trial.

City Police Receive Enforcement Grants

The Greenbelt Police Department recently received two grants from the state for safety related enforcement activities.

The first, for $22,000 from the Maryland State Highway Administration, helps police officers conduct increased enforcement in the areas of impaired driving, aggressive driving, pedestrian safety, motorcycle enforcement and occupant protection. It is a Fiscal Year 2013 grant running from October 2012 through September 2013.

The second, $15,000, is a grant from the Maryland State Highway Administration Motor Carrier Division to perform commercial vehicle enforcement activities supporting the Motor Carrier Safety Assistance Program.

Report of Indecent Exposure Investigated

Greenbelt Police Department detectives are investigating a report of an indecent exposure incident in Greenbelt West.

November 2 at about 5 p.m. Greenbelt Police were called to the 6100 block of Springhill Terrace after an adult male exposed his genitals to an 11-year-old girl. The suspect is described as an adult Hispanic male, 5'4", 110 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes. He is believed to live in the area of the incident, although responding officers were unable to locate him.

Anyone with information about this incident or similar incidents in the area is asked to contact the Criminal Investigations Unit at 240-542-2133. Police remind parents to talk to their children often about good safety habits, including what to do if they are approached by a stranger.

block Hanover Parkway.

Thefts from autos occurred in the 7300 block Morrison Drive and 7200 block Hanover Drive, where rear Md. tags were taken.

Vandalism occurred in the 5900 block Cherrywood Lane (set of tires were flattened and windows were broken out), 6100 block Greenbelt Road (windshield was broken) and 6100 block Springhill Terrace (windshield was damaged).

Arts Center Offers Look Back at Frost vs. Nixon

by Jim Link

For political junkies and discerning theatergoers, "Frost/Nixon," now at the Greenbelt Arts Center, is a welcome piece of déjà vu all over again. Now that you've exhaled after our epic presidential campaign, it is a real treat to see this smooth, professional depiction of British talk-show host David Frost fencing/sparring with disgraced President Richard Nixon in four supposedly candid interviews in 1977.

Videographer Randy Barth's excellent slide show preamble invites us to put aside last week's talking heads – Brian Williams, Rachel Maddow, Al Sharpton, Sean Hannity, etc. – and let Walter Cronkite, Mike Wallace, a very youthful Dan Rather, Tom Brokaw, etc. re-conjure the names and faces attached to the trauma/vertigo/morality play known as "Watergate": John Dean, Alexander Butterfield, Rosemary Woods, Howard Hunt, Archibald Cox, John Sirica and Charles Colson, to name a few.

As written by Peter Morgan the stakes were enormously high for this David-Goliath odd couple. The brooding, self-exiled Nixon, licking his wounds in San Clemente, is seeking a way to get back into the game, to "move back east," shed the stigma of Watergate and cement his legacy as a mover and shaker on the stage of world history. This fallen giant fiercely craves rehabilitation, to be respected – heck, he'd even like to be liked.

Kin of Exile

Frost is also in a kind of exile, withering away in Australia (interviewing the Bee Gees!), banished from the heady action in New York City. Lightweight, glib, shallow, this would-be playboy also wants to come back east, get back into the game, reclaim his table at Sardi's.

Enter Swifty Lazar, Nixon's notorious, hard-knuckled agent, with an offer Nixon should have refused perhaps. Suave and ruthless, as played by Andrew Negri, Lazar and rigidly loyal ex-marine Jack Brennan, played with stern efficiency by Donald Cook, convince Nixon to take Frost's bait. The cerebral heavyweight can easily "own" the affable butterfly; gravitas will trump airy lightness, right?

It's wonderful to watch Kyle McGruther as Frost, harried by his advisers, gradually realize he is being hammered by Nixon in the early interviews. Joe Mariano as Jim Reston is the righteous Vietnam War protester and professional Nixon-hater who gives Frost a wake-up call. Brian Binney as Bob Zelnick and Bill Brekke as John Birt ably sting Frost into concentrating his mind wonderfully.

Sandy Irving is superb as Nixon – jowly, slightly fidgety, he is subtle – there is no parody here. The lame attempts at humor, the socially maladroit Nixon, the man consumed by class envy – it's all here but done sympathetically, particularly when Frost corners him and he sheds his character armor.

Eye Candy

The beautiful Lacey Zimmerman is much more than eye candy as Caroline, the airplane passenger Frost picks up on the flight to San Clemente. After all, she is reading "Middlemarch" and she and Frost joke about Nixon's Casaubon-esque phoniness. (Casaubon is a character in Middlemarch.) Frost to Caroline: "You'd like Vienna – it's like Paris but without the French."

Recent marathoner Sandra Martinez does triple duty as Evonne Goolagong, stewardess and waitress.

Director Bob Kleinberg moves the action seamlessly, ratchets up the tension skillfully. Producer Malca Giblyn's sets are minimal, unfussy and effective. The cast's easy chemistry and seemingly effortless timing are a pleasure to watch.

Answer this rhetorical question, please, gentle reader. Reston makes the point at the play's end: "TV simplifies. It diminishes inherently complex ideas. The reductive power of the close-up is enormous." Hence the damning effect of Frost's last interview. Really? I wonder, does it?

Look for those effeminate Italian shoes "with no shoelaces" that Frost wears and listen for Nixon's immortal line, "When the president does it, it's not illegal." And his less immortal question to Frost, "Did you do any fornicating?"

Frost/Nixon plays Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. through Saturday, December 1 and on Sundays at 2 p.m. on November 18 and 25.

Legion Post 136 Honors Marine Jason Browning

by Angel B. Torres

A Marine back from his first tour in Afghanistan was honored at the American Legion Post 136 on October 18. Jason Browning, 29, was warmly received by fellow Legionnaires and Greenbelt residents after he flew an American flag over Camp Leatherneck "during decisive operations against the enemy forces in Helmand Province, Afghanistan" last Easter, according to the certificate he received.

The Legion put their meeting on pause to present him with a flag and certificate. Post Commander Mike Moore introduced Browning, as he sat in front of the Legionnaires gathered in the newly-renovated hall with his proud parents, Jay and Brenda, of Bowie and his wife Sarah, who had also returned from deployment this year in Afghanistan.

The flag held sentimental value because it had been given to him by Susan Weiner, in charge of Unit 136's Auxiliary membership. Browning, a member of the Post, expressed his gratitude.

"I took this American flag and flew it in my room. I loved coming home and seeing this flag," said Browning, a former Greenbelt resident who now lives in Leesburg, Va.

Mayor Judith Davis and City Councilmembers Silke Pope and Edward Putens were also present.

"For him to bring the flag back to this Post [is] very touching," Davis said, highlighting Browning's dedication. "This was an amazing event."

"Absolutely great," said Pope, a former Auxiliary president.

Jay Browning was also presented with a pin for being a 10-year member of the Post.

The Greenbelt American Legion, located at 6900 Greenbelt Road, is very involved in the community. The organization has a full service restaurant that is open from Wednesday through Sunday. For more information visit www.greenbeltmdpost136.org.

The city celebrated Veteran's Day on Sunday with the traditional laying of the wreaths at the Greenbelt War Memorial. Members of the Council, Boys Scout Troop 746, members of the Greenbelt American Legion Post 136 and many others were on hand. Speaking is Army Captain Dan Berschinski, West Point graduate who lost both legs in Afghanistan.
