

Crime Numbers within the City As in County, Continue Decline

by James Giese

The number of crimes committed in Greenbelt during the calendar year 2013 were 16 percent fewer than for the previous year and 32 percent less than in 2009. The drop reflected what is happening throughout much of the country and within the State of Maryland. The crime rate decreased 14 percent in Prince George's County in 2013, as County Executive Rushern Baker announced early this year. (See box on page 8 for Police Chief James Craze's comments on the crime rate drop.)

When jurisdictions report crime data, they use a standard method of classification. This data thus refers to class I offenses, the more serious crimes. These include murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assaults, breaking and entering, larceny and motor vehicle theft.

In all but two of these crime categories, the number of crimes committed has dropped from those of the previous year. For the third year in a row no murders were committed in Greenbelt and the number at 35 of aggravated assaults has held steady for the three years. In 2013, reported rapes declined by 17 percent (from 6 to 5), robberies by 4 percent (from 68 to 65), breaking and enterings by 22 percent (from 247 to 192), larcenies by 16 percent (from 648 to 544) and motor vehicle thefts by 18 percent (from 130 to 107).

As compared to crimes committed in 2009, the earliest year detailed in the police report, significant decreases also were reported, except in one category – the number of murders committed. None were reported in either year (although three murders had been reported in 2010).

In all other crime categories, the decreases in the numbers of crimes in 2013 as opposed to 2009 were: rape, 38 percent; robberies, 49 percent; aggravated assaults, 40 percent; breaking and enterings, 9 percent; larcenies, 22 percent; and motor vehicle thefts, 36 percent.

Where Crime Occurs

Although significantly down from prior years, the police sector composed of the Franklin Park apartments continued to report the greatest number of crimes (357 or 38 percent of all city crimes in 2013). Greenbelt East reported 31 percent of all city crimes, including the greatest number of larcenies of any sector, including shoplifting, which generally occurs in commercial districts. Greenbelt Center reported 19 percent of such crimes, Beltway Plaza, 13 percent and Greenbelt Metro Station and the future Greenbelt Station development, 1 percent.

Of greatest concern to many are class I crimes committed against persons: murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault. In this respect, the Franklin Park sector reported 52 percent of the 105 such crimes reported in 2013; Greenbelt East, 23 percent; Beltway Plaza, 15 percent;

Five Greenbelt Doctors Named Top Doctors by Washingtonian

by Jaclyn Turner

Five Greenbelt practitioners were named Top Doctors of 2014 in Washingtonian Magazine's annual list of physicians in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, including Maryland and Virginia.

Washingtonian sent out 6,400 questionnaires to randomly selected physicians asking which doctor they would send their family members to and received 1,300 replies.

Dr. David S. Granite (family medicine), Dr. Peter M. Schissler (geriatric medicine), Dr. Stephanie Trifoglio (internal medicine), Dr. Angela Lotsikas (dermatology and cosmetic surgery) and Dr. Ronald Katz (dermatology) all were recognized for their work as doctors.

Dr. David S. Granite

Dr. David Granite, 67, a long-time resident of the city, has served Greenbelt since 1975 at 115 Centerway. He received his M.D. from the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry in 1972, then moved to Greenbelt after being offered a position at Physicians Family Practice.

"My older sister had glaucoma since she was an infant, and I had always wanted to help her," Granite said of his decision to pursue a career in medicine. "And when I got into medical school, I really liked what I did."

Granite focuses on giving his patients a comfortable experience. "I try to make sure to follow up with them and give them the best personal service that I can," he said.

"My family practice is how I give back to the community. A lot of Greenbelt residents are my clients," Granite said.

Granite tries to stay involved with the community by participating in the Annual Labor Day Festival and being an active member of Mishkan Torah Synagogue.

Outside his practice, Granite is interested in the Civil War and classical music. He also collects comic books.

Despite the "unexpected honor," he says, of being named a "Top Doc," Granite still cites his children Stephen, 38, and Guinevere, 30, as his proudest accomplishments.

Dr. Peter M. Schissler

Dr. Peter Schissler, 62, has been practicing medicine since 1981 at Maryland Geriatric Medicine at 7500 Greenway Center Drive, Suite 430.

This is not Schissler's first time receiving this honor. In fact, other physicians in the region have named Schissler a Washingtonian "Top Doctor" every year but two since he began practicing in the area.

"I was very active in teaching early in my career," he says, "so I had a lot of contact with people. Doctors who train at a university have a higher rate of getting on the list," Schissler said.

Schissler attended NYU School of Medicine to receive his M.D. He was board-certified in internal medicine in 1980 following his residency at the George Washington University Hospital.

"Medicine gives me the ultimate satisfaction in making somebody feel better," said Schissler.

My mom had Hodgkin's Lymphoma (a type of cancer), and she died when I was 15, so that was most likely the driving factor to why I became a doctor," he explained.

Although Schissler lives in Bethesda, he used to live in College Park. He chose to practice in Greenbelt because he saw a shortage of doctors and health services in the area. "There was plenty of opportunity for people looking to receive good care," Schissler said.

Schissler tries to help his clients in any way possible. For example, he will not accept credit cards. "If they have a credit card, they can just put a figure up to their credit limit to pay," Schissler said. "My joy is not putting anyone out. If they can't afford the whole bill, I'll waive the balance."

Women's History Month

March is Women's History Month. In observance, the News Review will run articles about Greenbelt women of significant accomplishments whose stories are not well known here.

The series is being coordinated by David Lange.

Anne Gardner Contributes Many Talents to Greenbelt

by Jim Link

"England's loss is Greenbelt's gain," I murmur to myself after an hour of schmoozing with thriving transplant Anne Gardner in the back room of the New Deal Café on a cold January afternoon.

This English woman brings many talents and generosity of spirit to her immersion in our community life.

This modest, almost prim lady becomes almost voluble after a few sips of her orange spice tea – "not indigenous to England" – and a few spoonfuls of chef Karim's Lebanese sweet potato soup.

Married and the mother of three, Gardner is a joyous autodidact who has taught herself a jaw-dropping number of skills. She works four or five part-time jobs, makes wonderful music, dances up a storm and still is able to proclaim, "I become a goddess on Saturday mornings."

Her part-time jobs all focus on teaching, performing or promoting music, art and the well-being of children, both hers and others.

With three children in three different local schools – Rebecca, 9, at Greenbelt Elementary School (GES); Elizabeth, 12, at Greenbelt Middle School (GMS); and David, 15, at Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) – Gardner has been very involved in their Parent Teacher Associations (PTAs) for years. Formerly president of the GES and

Anne Gardner

GMS PTAs, she is now vice president of the ERHS Parent Teacher Student Association (PTSA). Gardner and her friend Amy Hansen started the GMS PTA several years ago and decided to stick together as their children transitioned into ERHS. Hansen is the president.

Together they have "increased attendance at PTSA meetings and set up a web page with daughter Elizabeth's help," says Gardner.

Art Education

Gardner is art education officer for the Greenbelt Recreation Department, coordinating after-school workshops in visual and performing arts, mostly at GES, but also at Magnolia Elementary and Springhill Lake Elementary schools. Recently she and her husband Jon put on a benefit concert at Greenbelt Community Church to raise scholarship money for needy students at Springhill Lake Elementary. With Anne on fiddle and Jon on guitar, they call themselves Transatlantic Crossing. Gardner's duties with the Recreation Department also involve coordinating workshops for school and scout groups that come to the Community Center.

In addition, Gardner teaches music to pre-school children in the Greenbelt Community Center.

Wind Electricity Green Team Table at GCC

The Green Team of Greenbelt Community Church will host a public information table in the downstairs social hall on Sunday, March 23 from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. after the 10:15 a.m. worship service. Members of the team will help people take the initial, non-binding step to sign up at a group rate for wind electricity through nonprofit Groundswell. Karen Leu from Interfaith Power and Light, which partners with Groundswell, will help. One can also sign up for wind electricity by visiting Groundswell's website at <http://www.groundswell.org/programs/for-homes>.

Other ideas will be exchanged, mostly based on the Lenten Carbon Fast. For further information contact Jane Young at gccjane@aol.com or 301-507-6765.

Foundation Seeks Grant Proposals

As part of its 2014 spring grant cycle, the Greenbelt Community Foundation is seeking grant applications from local organizations, nonprofits and co-operatives looking for help in funding projects that enhance life in Greenbelt. April 15 is the deadline for applications.

The foundation calls for proposals twice a year, in the spring and again in the fall. Grant amounts ranging from $500 to $5,000 are given to local organizations for projects directed to the arts, youth activities, cultural events, charitable organizations, the environment and community organizations.

The Greenbelt Community Foundation's mission is to maintain, improve and enrich the quality of life in Greenbelt by promoting cooperative endeavors and projects that celebrate, respect and build upon the historic legacy and ideals of the original Greenbelt plan.

Information about the Greenbelt Community Foundation, as well as materials related to submitting an application for funding, can be found at the foundation's website: <http://www.greenbeltfoundation.net>. Completed forms should be sent to the Greenbelt Community Foundation at P.O. Box

Philomena Returns

Philomena returns for a week (Friday, March 21 to Thursday, March 27) to the Old Greenbelt Theatre. She teams with journalist Martin Sixsmith, played by acerbic English comedian Steve Coogan, and eventually they find out about the now adult Anthony. Stephen Holden calls this movie "a comedic road movie, a detective story, an infuriated anti-clerical screed and an inquiry into faith and the limitations of reason."

Director – Stephen Frears; Rating – PG-13; Running Time – 94 minutes.

The Grand Budapest Hotel starts Friday, March 28.

Longtime resident Elizabeth Marie Kennedy Deitch, 93, died on March 14, 2014. Born in 1920 and educated in Washington, D.C., she married Thomas Deitch in the early 40s. After Mr. Deitch died in 1972, Mrs. Deitch moved to Greenbelt, buying a home in the 51 Court of Ridge Road. She worked for the U.S. Department of State, eventually serving overseas for six years. When she returned to Greenbelt, Mrs. Deitch bought a home in the 3 Court of Crescent Road.

After retiring, she became involved with Greenbelt Homes, serving on the board of directors.

Mrs. Deitch was a member of the Golden Age Club and enjoyed traveling with the seniors. "Betty," as she was known to her friends, enjoyed working on her cross-stitch projects, many of which decorated her home.

Mary Josephine Hall

Mary Josephine Hall, 80, a longtime resident of Sherwood Forest, Md., died on March 4, 2014, in Millersville, Md., of complications from Alzheimer's Disease. She had fought the disease for more than a decade.

Mrs. Hall was born on Oct. 10, 1933, at the old Sibley Hospital in Washington, D.C., and was the daughter of the late Clara Marie Glasgow and Charles Milton Henneberger Jr. Her family was one of the first to live in Greenbelt. In 1941, they moved to Anacostia, and she graduated from Anacostia High School in 1951. That same year, her family moved to Langley Park and she attended the University of Maryland. She was a member of Alpha Omicron Pi and a varsity cheerleader for the Terps football and basketball teams.

It was at UM that she met her husband, Blair "Buzz" Hall, whom she married in 1954. The family lived in Silver Spring until 1960, when they moved to Sherwood Forest, Maryland. She accompanied her family to various posts where her husband, an analyst with the National Security Agency, was stationed – including Alabama, Japan, Taiwan and England. While living in Japan, she studied pottery, sumi-e and ikebana with Japanese masters. She also taught English at the Seitoku Gakuen school for girls in Tokyo. When living in the States, she worked as a floral designer for Woodward & Lothrop and for local restaurants in the Annapolis area. She was also a docent for the William Paca House in Annapolis. She was an avid tennis player for more than 50 years, and a longtime runner and racer for more than 30 years.

Mrs. Hall is survived by her husband of almost 60 years, and five children: Blair Jr. (Valerie), Singapore; Kevin (Rosanne), Crownsville, Md.; Alison (R'al), Chester, Md.; Lesley, Arlington, Va.; and Todd (Elaina), Kailua, Hawaii; as well as six grandchildren. Her brother, George Henneberger, preceded her in death.

A memorial service will be held at the Sherwood Forest Clubhouse on May 3.

Contributions in her memory may be made to The Alzheimer's Association.

SERVE BREAKFAST AT S.O.M.E.

Sunday, March 30 Meet at St. Hugh's School Parking Lot, 6:00 AM All are welcome.

Our sympathy to the family and friends of longtime Greenbelter Elizabeth "Betty" Deitch, who died March 14, 2014, at the age of 93.

We were sorry to hear of the death on March 13, 2014, of tennis champion Leonard Modzelewski, 72, of Ellicott City, a retired physical education teacher in the Prince George's County schools. In his younger days he often practiced on our Greenbelt tennis courts.

Condolences to former News Review staffer Cindy Henneberger on the death of her aunt, Mary K. Hall of Sherwood Forest, on March 4, 2014. Cindy's late father Charles Henneberger, Jr. and his sister (later Mrs. Hall) lived in Greenbelt briefly as the children of original 1938 residents Charles, Sr. and Clare Henneberger.

Congratulations to the Eleanor Roosevelt girls' basketball team, the Lady Raiders, who won the Maryland 4-A state title on March 15, beating North Point of Waldorf by a score of 64 to 30.

Happy 90th Birthday to Dorothy Baluch. Friends will join in a celebration of Dorothy at the Community Center on Saturday, March 29 (see ad on page 9).

Hats off to Chief Warrant Officer Nathan P. Jones, son of John Henry and Elaine Jones of 14 Court Ridge Road, who was recently promoted to Chief Warrant Officer Four in the United States Army Judge Advocate General Corps. Jones enlisted in the U.S. Army after his graduation from Eleanor Roosevelt High School in 1993 and was commissioned as a Warrant Officer in 2003.

He is currently deployed to Afghanistan as the Legal Operations Officer and Deputy Executive Officer for the Legal Advisor to the International Security Assistance Force Joint Command, Kabul, Afghanistan. Upon his redeployment, he will serve in the Personnel, Plans and Training Office, Office of the Judge Advocate General, the Pentagon.

Jones is married to an active duty army officer/lawyer and has two sons, one a freshman at the University of Maryland College Park, majoring in aerospace engineering, and one who is 20 months old, majoring in reading, eating and sleepless nights.

Kudos to Navy Seaman Recruit Ashanti S. Pendleton, son of Lawann S. Pendleton of Greenbelt and stepson of Blanca Zelaya of Beltsville, who recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill. Pendleton is a 2013 graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

Get well soon to Diane Ronchi of Greentree Place, who is at Cherry Lane Nursing Center, 9001 Cherry Lane, Laurel, MD 20708, recovering from a bad fall. She will be there for a few more weeks and would like to hear from her friends.

Listening to patients' ailments and making sure to address each issue is one of the reasons he feels patients keep coming back.

Schissler takes great pride in being a family man. After work he likes to spend time with his family. He described his home as having a "lot of laughter and warmth."

Schissler raised two children and adopted two more, now ages 13 and 15, with his second wife, after losing his first wife to cancer.

Dr. Stephanie Trifoglio

Dr. Stephanie Trifoglio (pronounced Tri-fol-io), 55, works in the same office as Schissler. She received her M.D. degree from the Autonomous University of Guadalajara, Mexico.

Trifoglio has practiced in Greenbelt for 25 years and lectures several times a year to the Greenbelt Golden Agers.

This is Trifoglio's first time being named a "Top Doc," but Aging Well Magazine named her as one of five Noteworthy Geriatricians nationwide in 2013.

Trifoglio likes to think she gives her patients the best care possible.

"I take care of one patient at a time," she says. "I like to think that I ease suffering. I'm an internist. I specialize in a lot of end-of-life care. Sometimes I am able to make a big diagnosis and make their life better," she added.

To benefit her patients, Trifoglio does her best to stay up-to-date on the most advanced medical practices. She completed her Board Recertification for the third time in Geriatrics and has also been recertified twice in internal medicine. Board Recertification requires a series of take-home exams that require 10-15 hours each of study, practice surveys and an all-day certified secure exam.

Trifoglio has been married for 34 years and has two sons. In her free time she takes piano lessons from a Greenbelt resident. Although Trifoglio lives in Bowie, her son attended Eleanor Roosevelt High School, which kept her involved in the community.

"I would like to think that I'm a caring, contributing part of the community," Trifoglio said.

Dr. Angela Lotsikas

Dr. Angela Lotsikas, 39, practices at Dermatology and Cosmetic Surgery Associates at 7701 Greenbelt Road, Suite 504 in Greenbelt once a week. She spends the remainder of her time at the Chevy Chase office.

A native Washingtonian, Lotsikas studied at Georgetown University School of Medicine and completed her dermatology residency at Georgetown, where she had extensive laser-therapy training. She is also board-certified.

"I've always loved science and art," Lotsikas said, "which is why I like dermatology. It's a combination of those two. I also get to follow my passion for healing and helping others."

Lotsikas lists as one of her proudest accomplishments having patients who have been with her for many years. "I have a strong personal relationship with my patients," she said. "It's more than being in and out quickly. I am concerned about their skin and dermatological issues from sun safety to avoiding skin cancer."

Lotsikas loves her job, helping others and her family. She expects a third child in the next few days and plans to be out on maternity leave until June. She also enjoys traveling, especially to Greece, where she has family.

Dr. Ronald Katz

Dr. Ronald Katz, 71, joined Dermatology and Cosmetic Surgery Associates in 2011 after being a solo-practitioner for over 40 years, moving from a Greenbelt Road office in Berwyn Heights. He has been named a "Top Doc" for the past 20 years.

Now semi-retired, he is in the office three days a week. He focuses solely on medical issues and no longer does any cosmetology work.

"I became a dermatologist because when I was 5 or 6, I had really bad eczema. I had a lot of positive experiences with my doctors at the time," Katz said. "As I grew older and became interested in medicine, it was something I wanted to do."

Katz received his M.D. from the University of Maryland School of Medicine and received his training in dermatology at Yale.

"I've seen multiple generations of families in my exam room," Katz says. "I try to treat each person as an individual. I take an interest in their personal life, not just their medical history."

Katz has been a runner since the 1970s, running six marathons and completing hundreds of races. He is also an avid photographer and collector of first edition books.

GARDNER continued from page 1

The 2 to 3 year olds "love to jump up and down and bang on drums," says Gardner, radically shortchanging her teaching skills. She also sponsors Kids' Open Mic performances at the New Deal Café at 1:30 p.m. on the third Sunday of each month. "They get a chance to express themselves," she says.

Art Exchange

Another hat Gardner wears is that of administrative assistant of the College Park Arts Exchange, run by her friend Melissa Sites. "I maintain the web page, proof-read brochures [and] monitor the Facebook page," she says . . . not to mention a host of tasks she undertakes for this newspaper.

Having grown up in northern England, Gardner studied Spanish and Russian at the University of Sheffield, where she graduated in 1991. She discovered a taste for languages and morphed into a fierce autodidact. "I dabbled in foreign languages – Portuguese, Polish, a smidgen of Italian, even 'American' (joke)."

"You are fluent in all of these?" I asked. "I was, but not anymore," she said.

Much earlier Gardner discovered a knack for teaching herself musical instruments. "Piano, fiddle, whistle, viola, cello, accordion . . ." The list comes trippingly off her tongue. "I'm lucky to be able to pick up musical instruments," she says.

Cradling her cuppa, Gardner continues. "I'm teaching myself to play the church organ now, hoping to get a paying gig. It's so much fun; I'm really enjoying myself. Did you know there's a whole keyboard to play with your feet? It's like tap dancing on a piano!"

Gardner frequently performs as piano accompanist at community events. Currently she is also accompanying six students in the Prince George's County Solo and Ensemble Festival, as well as the rehearsals of Our Town at MAD, NASA's music and drama club. Full disclosure: husband Jon is the director and daughter Rebecca has a bit part. Simultaneously she is doing the costumes for Our Town and Chris Cherry's Winter Youth Musical, featuring son David and daughter Elizabeth.

"The family dinner has gone by the wayside," Gardner laughs.

Computer Work

Computer skills is another area of self-taught expertise for Gardner. Long before computer science was offered as a college major, Gardner's first job after university was teaching computer skills. "I taught myself first; I wrote my own resume to get the job," she says. She then developed and delivered training courses. "When Windows came, I had to learn 'mouse,' then teach students how to use it."

Improbably perhaps, but certainly appropriately, Gardner met her future husband on the dance floor. "Jon was studying in England on a post-doctoral fellowship at the University of Durham. I love dancing. I belonged to a traditional English Morris Dance group. Jon asked his landlady where he could socialize and . . ."

"Not exactly Fred and Ginger, but . . .?" I interspersed. "Well . . .," beaming, shrugging.

Anne and Jon married in 1995 and moved to College Park, where she did freelance computer training in Washington, D.C., while he joined NASA. "He works on the James Webb Space Telescope," she said.

"What brought you to Greenbelt?"

"We socialized here, used the swimming pool . . ."

"You mean The Aquatic Center?"

"Exactly. [Crisply.] Finally we asked ourselves, 'Why not move here?' We spend so much time here anyway."

After moving onto Northway in Greenbelt, Gardner claims, "We met more people here in one week than we did in College Park, B.C."

"B.C.?"

Spare Time?

Feeling foolish, I ask Gardner what she does with her spare time.

"I read . . ."

"Dostoyevsky in Russian?"

"No Dostoyevsky, but good light reading. Right now I'm enjoying Dorothy Sucher's two murder mysteries: Dead Men Don't Give Seminars and Dead Men Don't Get Married. "Excellent."

"And I'm a goddess on Saturday mornings."

"Um . . . how is that?"

"I join other Greenbelt women at the New Chicago Dance Studio on Greenway Center Drive where Samantha Fitschen [the director] has created a goddess class," Gardner explains, laughing. "It's a mixture of jazz, ballet, Latin dance, belly dance . . . She gets us out of our comfort zone. We even did a show with our own choreography!"

"How do you volunteer so much of your time?"

"I see so many other women in more difficult circumstances than I – single mothers, women with breast cancer, with children who are learning disabled or challenged – who manage to volunteer, so I have no excuse not to. Young people should volunteer, too. There's great satisfaction in it."

"What gives you the most satisfaction?"

"Music and motherhood," says this very down-to-earth goddess.

Police Blotter

Based on information released by the Greenbelt Police Department, <http://www.greenbeltmd.gov/police/index.htm>, link in left frame to "Weekly Report" or http://www.greenbeltmd.gov/police/weekly\_report.pdf.

Dates and times are those when police were first contacted about incidents.

Assault

March 6, 10:30 a.m., 7601 Hanover Parkway. An 18-year-old and a 15-year-old from Greenbelt were arrested for 2nd degree assault as a result of a fight at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. A warrant was obtained to charge the 18-year-old with assault; the youth was released to parents pending action by the school board and juvenile justice system.

DWI/DUI Arrest

March 8, 1:57 a.m., Southway and 295. A 31-year-old Greenbelt resident was arrested and charged with multiple alcohol and other traffic-related offenses as a result of a traffic violation. He was released on citations pending trial.

Trespass Arrest

March 7, 1:15 a.m., 6460 Capitol Drive. A 44-year-old Greenbelt man was arrested and charged with trespassing due to refusing to leave TGI Friday's restaurant after being told to leave by management.

March 10, 12:25 p.m., 5800 Cherrywood Lane. A 21-year-old nonresident was found inside a vacant apartment; he was arrested and charged with trespassing and was released on citations pending trial.

Commercial Burglary

March 7, 12:45 p.m., 151 Centerway. A television was taken from a basement storage area of the Meli Melo restaurant. A witness observed a suspect place the television in the trunk of a vehicle described as a dark blue Buick before fleeing the scene.

Burglary

March 11, 10:17 a.m., 5800 Cherrywood Lane. An 18-year-old nonresident was arrested and charged with burglary and trespass after being found hiding in a vacant apartment by officers responding to a violent disturbance call. He was released to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a district court commissioner.

Attempted Burglary

March 12, 3:05 p.m., 9100 Springhill Drive. A woman inside her living room noticed someone attempting to enter the residence by prying on a window screen. The suspect fled the scene on foot after seeing the victim.

Vandalism

March 6, 3 p.m., 7800 Hanover Parkway. The kitchen window of a residence was broken by an unknown person using unknown means.

March 12, 9:09 a.m., 6000 Springhill Drive. The bedroom window of a residence was broken by unknown persons.

Automotive Crime

March 9, 6100 Breezewood Drive. Officers responding to a report of a vehicle fire discovered that the vehicle had been stolen from Glen Burnie. No arrests were made.

March 11, 7600 Hanover Parkway. Two tires were taken off a vehicle.

Greenbelt Center, 8 percent; and other areas, 2 percent.

Other Statistics

The 31,526 calls for police service in 2013 were 7 percent fewer than in 2012. The 206 additional premise checks made in 2013 represented a 7 percent increase. There was a 4 percent increase in police reports prepared. At 9,332, traffic stops by police officers were down 14 percent from numbers in the previous year.

The numbers of police arrests in 2013 were also down. The 796 criminal arrests were 14 percent less than for 2012. Juvenile arrests, at 112, were down 32 percent. The 234 arrests for driving while under the influence of alcohol were 7 percent fewer than in 2013, while other traffic arrests at 720 were down 22 percent.

Also down from the previous year, by 13 percent, were traffic tickets (excluding speed and traffic light camera citations). Other decreases were: parking tickets, 23 percent; repair orders, 14 percent; and warning tickets, 21 percent. However, the 7,778 traffic tickets issued by police officers pales in comparison to the 8,142 speed citations and 5,304 red light traffic signal violations cited as a result of cameras used by the city.

For these latter citations, no comparisons are available from prior years, since the speed camera enforcement program was initiated only in November 2012.

As to the decline in activity levels reflected in these statistics, Craze said it may, in part, reflect the crime rate. More likely, however, he said, retirements within the department may have caused a fluctuation in the numbers of officers available for duty.

Craze also spoke of an unusual number of injuries, as well. A combination of nine officer positions are currently unavailable for duty, which puts a damper on activity levels, he said.

Traffic Accidents

The occurrence of traffic accidents is beyond the department's control to change, except for the hope that traffic enforcement might have a preventive effect. Traffic accidents were up by five in 2013 as compared to 2012, for a total of 1,045. However, there were no traffic fatalities this year, nor were any reported on city roads, excluding the Beltway and Parkway, during the previous year. But at 114, there were 14 more personal injuries resulting from traffic accidents than in 2012. In contrast, accidents with property damage only were down by six from 2012, at 931.

For those who want to put the pedal to the metal, by all means avoid northbound Cherrywood Lane in the 5900 block, where owners of 5,154 vehicles received speed camera citations. That was almost two out of every three city speed camera citations issued among the six locations monitored. One wonders how many of these represented drivers heading to the Metro station who were late for work.

Another 1,662 motorists were photographed speeding on northbound Mandan Road in the 7700 block. In the center area of Greenbelt, motorists should watch out for speed increases as they go downhill on Crescent Road near Northway, where there is a camera to catch speeders. That location generated 658 citations.

The red light camera photographing the most violators during 2013 was located in the westbound lanes of Greenbelt Road at Cherrywood Lane. The 2,039 citations resulting from that camera constituted 38 percent of all red light camera citations issued by the city.

A Commentary by Chief James Craze

"The crime rate in Greenbelt is at the lowest in ages, certainly going back well into the early 90s and beyond. In fact, we've had a 45 percent decrease since 2002 alone. Most locations throughout the country are also experiencing a two-decade decline in violent crime – a surprise, given conventional thinking that crime would go up during economically challenging times. That has not been the case, however.

"Some credit may be due to advances in technology, such as the instantaneous availability of crime information between all levels of law enforcement and the prolific use of video cameras and license plate readers.

"Other reasons are surprising, at least to me. Researchers have found that since more people are at home (retirees and the unemployed), more people are around to report suspicious activities. Youths and young adults – those more apt to be involved as victims or as perpetrators of crime – are spending more time at home using computers and playing video games.

"Other social scientists mention that changing neighborhoods have done away with the impersonal dense housing projects typical of inner-city construction.

"Declining cocaine consumption, responsible for gang warfare, violent crime and murder rates in the early 1990s, has also had some effect, as may have been the passage of Roe v. Wade, meaning fewer unwanted children thus at risk for criminality. This suggestion comes from Stanford Law Professor John J. Donohue.

"Other research notes that more criminals appear to be pursuing identity theft-related crimes, reducing the danger of being caught and at the same time allowing bigger pay offs.

"The dedicated professionalism of police officers, aggressively seeking out those who prey on our citizens, make the real difference."

The Department is offering a reward of up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect in any of the unsolved crimes reported in the blotter.

Democratic Club Talk And Movie Sundays

Yvette Lewis, Maryland's Democratic Party Chair, will speak at the Greenbriar Community Building this Sunday, March 23 at 2 p.m. Sponsored by the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club, the event is titled "Where is the party now?"

Lewis will talk about what she sees happening in the June 24 primary with respect to the gubernatorial, state delegation, and congressional races. How the national political scene may have an impact in Maryland may also be a topic on the table.

When taking on the responsibility three years ago of party chair, her political history was based on years of knocking on doors, making phone calls and organizing campaign efforts. "I don't see politics as politics. I see politics as community service. I see it as a way of helping to better my community. That's just a vehicle to use to get people involved," Lewis said. "If you want to effect change, you do have to be out there, you do have to work. You can't just sit at home and just wish and hope that things will happen."

The following Sunday, March 30 at 2 p.m. at the New Deal Café, the Democratic Club, in collaboration with Reel and Meal, will sponsor a showing and discussion of Robert Reich's recent film, "Inequality for All." Many are concerned about the growing inequality between the wealthy and the balance of Americans.

Messenger Scientist At Owens Center

The March 27 meeting of the Astronomical Society will feature a presentation by Mark (Indy) Kochte of the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory. A graduate of Ohio State University, Indy has worked at the Space Telescope Science Institute doing acquisition, processing, and archiving of data from the Hubble Space Telescope. He is currently a Payload Operations Specialist on the Messenger Mission team. The Messenger probe was first to orbit Mercury, the solar system's innermost planet. In the three years of its orbital mission, the probe has fully mapped Mercury's surface. Its instruments have yielded much new data about the formation and evolution of Mercury.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Howard B. Owens Science Center, 9601 Greenbelt Road, Lanham (adjacent to DuVal High School). All are welcome. There is no charge.

Free Lecture On Breast Cancer

On Wednesday, March 26 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. a free lecture on breast cancer will be held at the Hilton Garden Inn in Greenbelt. The lecture, sponsored by 21st Century Oncology of Maryland will be presented by Dr. Denise Gooch, a board certified radiation oncologist, in the Dogwood Room.

Jenny Chau's Art Shown At the New Deal Café

Jenny Chau will show her artwork in the back room of the New Deal Café during March and April. There will be a public reception for this exhibit on Sunday, March 30 from 7 to 9 p.m. The New Deal Café art program is sponsored by Friends of New Deal Café Arts.

Producing art reveals and releases a part of the artist that cannot be expressed otherwise. Jenny Chau has been creating and experimenting with art since 1998. Chau has not had formal advanced studies or training in art beyond high school studio courses. She has continued out of the sheer enjoyment that the hours and months of working on a piece has brought. She applies various wet and dry mediums to canvas to illustrate dark matters - thoughts and emotions that invoke depth of thought in those who view her work. Pencil and ink on paper has been her focus for years dabbling in acrylics, water colors and oils along the way. The precision afforded by the sharpened point of a pencil or pen on a dry surface allows her to sculpt creative ideas into intricate artwork. Salvador Dali remains her favorite artist, with extreme abstractionism and dream world concepts in his work. It is the perfect blend of detailed abstractionism with color, curves and oddities she feels portrays her own style.

Staying true to precision, she has transitioned to the use of colored pencils, oil pastels and chalk pastels along with ink. She continues to produce abstract compositions spawned out of disjointed concepts in her mind. Chau rarely creates drafts or experiments with an idea before progressing it through to completion. She commits and just lets things fly. It is as with any artist: explaining how and when one creates work is an impossibility. The only certain thing is that when a piece is finished, she knows that it is finished. It is this freedom and mystery which art affords that motivates her to continue the pursuit of that next bright idea.

Chau's exhibition at the New Deal Café, which began March 4, is all about medium partitions - ink+ink, colored pencil+ink and pastel+chalk. The pieces fall into one of those three medium types and provide a good representation of where she has been and where she will go with her art. Doodles, for example, is a color pencil and ink piece Chau recently finished, that started with four swirling lines and ended in an explosion of color, intrigue and what-ifs.

A Poetry Moment Reception

In celebration of National Poetry Month, a reception is being held at the New Deal Café on Sunday, April 6 from 2 to 4 p.m. Many of the poets whose works have been displayed at Poetry Moment in the past year will read some of their poems, including Merrill Leffler, Poet Laureate of Takoma Park.

The afternoon will include an open microphone session for participants to read their own poems or other poems that inspire them. The event will be accompanied by acoustic guitar music by Matt Arbach. The event is free and open to the public.

Poetry Moment is a permanent box that is affixed to a pole outside the Café. Six poems have been on view throughout the year. Poetry Moment and this year's reception are sponsored by Friends of the New Deal Café Arts with support from the City of Greenbelt.

Submit A Poem

Submission to Poetry Moment is open and ongoing. Residents of Greenbelt, the state and the greater Washington, D.C. area are invited to submit up to three original poems by email to cafepoetrymoment@gmail.com.

Each poem should be a maximum of 30 lines and, for review purposes, should be on its own page, with no author name. The author's name, contact information and poem title(s) should be on a separate page. Entries will not be returned and poets will be notified if their poem has been selected. Poems will be kept for a year from submission, then destroyed.

Botanic Garden Goes Bananas

Sunday, March 22 from 10:30 a.m. to noon, the U.S. Botanic Garden (USBG) will present a lecture, Bananas: Botany, History, Agriculture and Future, by Todd Brethauer, USBG science education volunteer.

This lecture is free and pre-registration is required. Visit www.usbg.gov to register.
