

LOCAL NEWSWRITERS AGREE ON REORGANIZATION

Preparations for an early break-up of the Journalistic Club and reorganization of the Cooperator along new lines were made a week ago last night. Meeting in the office of the Cooperator, the Journalistic Club listened to several reorganization plans and appointed a committee to develop one of the plans outlined.

The plan to be developed is one that will place the operation of the Cooperator on a producer cooperative basis. The committee appointed to work out the details of the plan has Francis Fosnight as chairman and Betsy Woodman, Bertha Maryn, and Phil Brown as members.

Suggested substitutes for the Journalistic Club included offering the management of the paper to some local group such as the Town Council, formation of a board of directors to perform the duties formerly held by the Journalistic Club, and organization of the paper along "regular" lines, i.e., with a paid staff, paid subscriptions, and advertising columns open to all. A fourth plan, a proposal to organize the paper as a producers' cooperative, was the plan adopted by the members of the Club. Don Cooper chairman, Francis Fosnight, Howard Custer, and Betsy Woodman composed the committee which drew up the plans. At a previous meeting of the Journalistic Club, it was decided that the Club was no longer successful as sponsor and general director of the Cooperator.

Additional business of the meeting included the appointment of Bill Stewart as temporary treasurer the Journalistic Club to succeed Norman Marti, who has recently resigned.

Minstrel Show Will Have Cast of 24

The Community Men's Class Glee Club will present cast of more than 20 in its "Minstrel Miniature" on the theater stage here, June 14 and 15. The whole production is under the supervision of Rolfe A. Sauls. "Happy" Walker's band will turnish music which will be under the direction of John W. Colliver. Mrs. Donald G. Kern will be the pianist.

End men for the show are Messrs. Sauls, Lehman, Reamy, and MacEwen. Sam Cregger is cast as the interlocutor. Gentlemen of the chorus will be Messrs. Gibson, Burr, Neale, Worley, Kaufman, Kramer, Kinchelce, Porter, Schmid, Schulz, Proctor, Saunders, Matthews and Wilde. Donovan Shaw, Irvin Reamy, Fred Pfeiffer and Rolfe Sauls will be soloists.

BENEFIT DANCE WILL SEND SCOUTS TO CAMP

Greenbelters will have another opportunity to hear Johnnie Graham and his orchestra at the Boy Scout Benefit Dance to be held this coming Saturday, June 15, in the Greenbelt Elementary School Auditor-This orchestra has played before for Citizens iume Association Dances.

The dance is sponsored by Scout Troop 202. Leon

The dance is sponsored by Scout Troop 202. Leon G. Benefiel is chairman of the committee, which also includes Dr. James W. McCarl, Thomas R. Freeman, Ja mes P. Birtle and John C. Gale. The proceeds of the dance will be used to help the Boy Scouts attend camp. It is hoped that many boys will get to go, including those who otherwise would not have the opportunity. Tickets at 35¢ each are being sold by the boys.

COUNCIL MAY SUBSTITUTE GARBAGE FEE FOR TAXES

By Glen Wilbur

Casting about for a solution to Greenbelt's con-fused tax problem, the Town Council, at its Monday evening meeting, was confronted by an ordinance in-troduced for first reading by Councilman Edward Wal-ther which would repeal the existing personal property tax and substitute a more productive special assessment for garbage and trash collection. Although the amount of the proposed special assessment was not specified, it was indicated that a levy of $6.00 per year for each family would produce an in-come of $5,400 as compared to approximately $3,000 which the present tax yields.

Other developments in connection with the dilemma occasioned by the decision that Greenbelt's tax or-dinance is illegal included the "tabling" of both Mayor George A. Warner's and Councilman Arthur Gawthrop's proposed ordinances and the decision of the Town Council to invite Town Solicitor Charles C. Marbury to attend the next Council meeting.

Supported by oral testimony from several members of the audience, a petition submitted by the Welfare Committee of the Citizens Association requesting Council backing for a nursery school was referred to Town Manager Roy Braden for study and the prepara-tion of a written report. This petition, which will be considered at the next meeting, requested that the Town Council employ the necessary personnel and be reimbursed by the parents of participating pre-school children. Although it was admitted that space limitations are serious, the Welfare Committee indicated its belief that there is a definite need for a comprehensive supervised program for preschool children.

ACTION DEFERRED

Action was deferred on the Welfare Committee's request for some indication of the Council's atti-tude toward a proposed plan of having refugee or orphan children spend brief vacations in Greenbelt. The Committee was particularly interested in deter-mining the reaction of Council members to their request that recreational facilities be made available to the under-privileged visitors. Although the Coun-cil gave no definite statement of its attitude, the Welfare Committee is continuing its tentative plans by contacting sources of under-privileged children and making a survey of people interested in opening their homes to such children.

A resolution transferring $350 to the department general government and authorizing Town Manager Roy Braden to use as much of this sum as necessary carry forward the second annual Greenbelt Town to Fair was placed on the calendar for consideration at the next meeting. The resolution provides that $100 of this amount will be used to pay the cost of the Yard and Garden Contest which is being sponsored in connection with the Town Fair.

After some discussion of George Bauer's previous-ly presented resolution that the Town should furnish medical attention and hospitalization for athletes injured while representing Greenbelt, it was decided that no action should be taken until the submission of a formal resolution presenting the Council's proposal that the Town should pay only for X-rays of injured players.

CHILDREN'S CRUSADE RECEIVES MENTION

In appreciation of the part played by Greenbelt children in the recent children's crusade to help children of war-torn nations, the following letter was received by Mrs. Catherine T. Reed, principal of the Greenbelt Elementary School:

SITES WILL BE AVAILABLE TO PRIVATE HOME BUILDERS

Greenbelt land will be leased to private home builders, it was learned definitely last week from Farm Security Administration by the Greenbelt Hous-ing Committee. Dayton W. Hull, committee chairman, Mayor George Warner, and Councilman Edward Walther met for two hours with Major John O. Walker, director of F.S.A.'s Resettlement Division; during the conference most of the questions facing the housing committee were thoroughly explored.

Home builders will be given the choice of participating in a commercial development now being planned by a private contractor in cooperation with F.S. A., or of establishing an organization of their own to build separately. A conference between the housing committee and the contractor was held yesterday. After cost figures have been gone over, a public meeting will be held at which all interested home builders will be given complete details.

NO INCOME RESTRICTIONS

No income restrictions will be placed on owners of the privately constructed homes, Major Walker stated, and it is probable that those residents now over the Greenbelt income limit will be allowed to remain in their present quarters until the new houses are ready for occupancy. GROUND RENTS; LOT SIZES; TAXES

Ground rents, it appears, will be a reasonable figure on the average size lot. In order to make maximum use of present utility, sewage and water connections, lots cannot be as large as the half acres that some persons had hoped for. Any unusually large lots will be rented in two segments: 5000 square feet at perhaps $20 each year for 99 years; additional square feet at a higher price per year and for a fewer number of years. Taxes will be in addition to the ground rent and will depend on Greenbelt and county assessments and rates. It is hoped that $10 per month will cover both ground rent and taxes. RESTRICTIONS

Farm Security also made clear its attitude toward Farm Security also made clear its attitude toward restrictions. It will pass upon the basic ground plan of any development, the exterior of the houses, and the uses to which the land will be put, as for example, the raising of pigs. One other restriction will probably be insisted upon----no dogs. Further developments, Chairman Hull reports, can be expected part week.

EASTERN CO-OP LEAGUE PLANS SUMMER INSTITUTE

Greenbelters interested in a vacation with the Co-op label may want to attend the Annual Summer Institute of the Eastern Cooperative League, in Amherst, Massachusetts, July 28 to August 3. This week of planned activity includes morning sessions on various phases of cooperative work, evening forums ledby well-known cooperative leaders, and opportunities for varied forms of recreation.

Eight courses are being offered for the morning sessions this year: Co-op Journalism; First Aid for Housewives; Problems Facing Board Membersy Discussion Leadership; Recreational Leadership; Credit Union Problems; Methods of Consumer Education; and Problems of Store Operation. The last named course continues for a second week, ending August 10.

Recreational facilities include a modern swimming pool, 24 tennis courts, picnic and trips to historic spots.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED IN G.C.S. PERSONNEL

Several changes in personnel were reported by General Manager Sulo Laakso to the board of directors of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., at its regular meeting last Saturday evening. Mrs. Merry Pharis of Laurel, Maryland is the new beauty operator to assist Mrs. Gertrude Brenon in the beauty shop. In the lunch department, Hugh Hawkins of Winchester, Virginia, is the new manager. Lionel C. Patrick of New York has been added to the meat department staff in the food store.

Owing to the pressure of other work, Earl J. Swailes resigned as chairman of the board's membership committee. Donald Wagstaff, new board member, was selected to fill the vacant chairmanship by unanimous vote.

The board voted to send Mrs. Carnie Harper and Walter Volckhausen to Maynard, Massachusetts in August to investigate the possibilities of cooperative milk distribution.

A Summer flying school at the University of Maryland will extend from June 15 to September 15, open to any college sophomore between 18 and 25. Ten per cent of the enrollment may be women.

Att the second

"The County National Bank of Bennington has just given me the pleasure of reading your note of the first which came in with the contribution from the children of Greenbelt to the Children's Crusade. The contribution is very welcome, and equally so is your kind note, expressing such warm appreciation of the purpose of this effort to make a gesture of international good will. It is most heartening to know that the children were interested and that their feeling of brotherly helpfulness was widened.

"You will be interested to know that your note will be part of the permanent record of the Children's Crusade as the Library of Congress has asked us to collect and preserve all letters, articles, posters, ---records of every kind---connected with the Children's Crusade and deposit them there as source material for the future historian of our era. Have you anything in the way of the children's work done dur-ing the Children's Crusade which might be added to that permanent record---posters, compositions, draw-ings? We'd be so glad to have the Greenbelt schools represented.

Room, board and tuition are all included in the fee of $14 for the week. The only other cost is transportation.

Several persons from Greenbelt attended last year's session, including Mrs. Bertha Maryn, Mrs. Carnie Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Chinitz, Joseph P. Loftus and Bernard Jones. Movies of the 1939 meeting were shown at the last general membership meeting of G.C.S.

Anyone interested in attending the Institute this year should get in touch with any member of the board of directors or with the G.C.S. office.

First Major House Fire Occurs In Dodson Attic

Greenbelt's first major house fire was quelled in a few minutes last Tuesday by the local Fire Department. The blaze, which occurred in the attic of the Linden Dodson's of 2-G Gardenway, was put out by a few shots from the hose on the fire truck, which was inserted by breaking through the ventilator.

The only damage was to personal property which the Dodsons had stored in the attic.

Konsum To Have New Home in July

Konsum, Washington's cooperative gasoline station, expects to move to its new quarters the middle of July. Now on the south side of Virginia Avenue, between the 21 and 22 hundred blocks, it will re-locate on the north side, between the 26 and 27 hundred blocks.

Gas pumps are being installed in such a way that six or eight cars can be served simultaneously, and will be covered with canopies for the benefit of consumer and attendant. Indoor facilities for complete lubrication and car-cleaning, together with practic-ally every type of repair work, will be provided, and the air towers will be located so that they will not interfere with traffic flow.

not interfere with traffic flow. The building will be roomy enough to provide of-fice space for both the D. C. Cooperative League and the Konsum Credit Union, but there will be ample space left on the 8,500 foot lot for patrons' cars. At the present time Konsum, which is three years old, has about 800 regular patrons of whom more than 625 are share-holders.

Negro Housing Project Contemplated

According to last week's "News", a 2000-family housing project for Negroes is contemplated mer Ber-wyn. Part or all of the land is under option, and New York capital is reported behind the move. FHA commented to reporters that there had been considerable correspondence between its organization and the backers of the new project.

A rezoning permit from the Maryland Park and Plan-ning Commission is necessary before any housing project in the state gets underway, and it was reported last week that this body might condemn the property in question for a parkway and join it to the proposed Anacostia River park system. Roy S. Braden states that the proposed housing site lies in the northeast corner of the intersection of Branchville Road with the Baltimore Pike. In his opinion, the proximity of the congested highway would preclude permission to any housing project to build there.

The American Medical Association, together with other local medical organizations and 21 individual doctors, must stand trial in the United States District Court this fall on the charge of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

This is the latest development in a wrangle between organized medicine on the one hand, and the Group Health Association in Washington, on the other started when the former group attempted unsuccessfully to prosecute Group Health on the charge of selling insurance without a license and on the charge of practising medicine without a license.

Group Health then successfully brought suitagainst organized medicine on the charge of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, which forbids combinations acting in restraint of trade. The defendants' demurrer to the indictment handed down by the Grand Jury that medicine was a profession rather than a Jury that medicine was a procession rather than a trade was upheld by Judge Proctor, at a later hear-ing. The United States Court of Appeals, however, overruled the judge's decision, and the American Medical Association's recent attempt to gain a re-trial before the Supreme Court'has also failed.

Lawyer Abraham Chasanow (just call him Chaz), who is currently working on the briefs, says the case is the first of its kind in American legal history.

Town Employees Have Picnic

Greenbelt town and federal employees steamed down the Potomac to Marshal Hall Amusement Park last Saturday night to enjoy a picnic and dance. Recreational activities and eating were the popular features during the daylight hours, and dancing was in order until midnight.

On the arrangement committee were Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer, Miss Doris Dungan, Har-vey Vincent, Wallace Mabee, Vincent Holochwost, and Roy Braden, Chairman.

Greenbelt Musicians Participate In Musical Evening

The last musical evening of the season held at Dr. Isador Lattman's spartmentin Washington Friday evening, again included members of the Greenbelt musical group. These were George Fair, cellist in the U.S. Navy Symphony Orchestra, and Dr. Isador Alpher, vio-linist. A composition for piano and strings by the late Ernest Schelling, famed conductor of children's concerts was featured in honor of the presence of his sister, Miss Julia Schelling.

Miss Schelling, at the age of 83, has just completed two years travel through South America, the Orient, and western Europe. In her earlier years she was an intimate friend of Cosima Wagner, and was the first woman to lecture in the English language at the famous Bayreuth Festival. She is a composer as well as a lecturer, and writer on musical subjects. At present she is devoting herself to the publishing and popularizing of the hitherto unpublished works of her deceased brother, Ernest Schelling.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY PACKS AUDITORIUM

Greenbelt High School's first Senior play, "Hobgoblin House" by Jay Tobias, entertained a jam-packed audience in the Elementary School Auditorium last Friday, bringing in a gross of $30. This sum, less expenses, will be used for a Senior gift to the High School and a 1so finance a party for the cast and the supporting play committees.

Frank Loftus, as hunchbacked Darius Krupp, and Phyllis Warner, who played the part of a maiden aunt, put in the stellar performances, and Theresa Hedges! portrayal of the English maid, accent and all, also won favorable comment. Sidney Henes, teacher of English and social studies at the High School, was ably assisted in direction by Louise Archer, mathe-matics teacher, and Claire Warner. Ellen Krebs prompted and Theodora Murray applied the grease paint.

The action, in general, was convincing, but the pace of the production suffered from faulty memorization of lines, despite clever ad libbing by Mr. Loftus and Miss Warner.

2,050,000 More Incomes Face Taxes in Doughton Bill

If passed, the Doughton bill for increased income taxation, to meet national defense expenses is expected to bring a billion dollars annually for the next five years. Now facing income taxes for the first time are married persons making $2,000, and single individuals making $800 annually. Thus 2,050,000 additional incomes will be taxed.

A ten per cent "super tax" on all individual and corporate incomes, increased surtaxes on incomes between $3,000 and $6,000, and taxes on commodities such as gasoline and cigarettes, are also provided in the bill, which was drafted by the House Ways and Means Sub-committee.

The following unofficial table published in last week's "New Tax" heading, and shows how the new proposed increases would affect groups earning up to $4,000 a year.

	SINGLE PERSONS
Income	Present Tax	New Tax
$ 800	Nothing	Nothing
1,000	Nothing	$ 4.40
1,500	$ 14.00	24.20
2,000	32.00	44.00
2,500	50.00	63.80
	MARRIED PERSONS
Income	Present Tax	New Tax
$2,000	Nothing	Nothing
2,500	Nothing	$ 11.00
3,000	$ 8.00	30,80

Persons entitled to lawful deductions for dependents, and the ten per cent deduction on earned income, should make these subtractions before checking with the table. The earned income deduction, however, is subject to possible change on the basis of new normal or surtax rates.

BOOK FIGURES IN FICTION AND FACT

Total book circulation for the library last month amounted to 2,173. Adults read 431 non-fiction and 918 fictional works. Children accounted for 111 non-fiction and 713 fiction.

Nose-counting revealed an adult attendance of 1,407, which the children topped with 2,064.

Fifty-seven books were added to the shelves, bringing the book total to 2,528. One replacement had to be made. Fines brought in $23.20.

Dorothy Detzer, of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, last week suggested that people relieve their emotions about the war by helping the cuase of the refugee children.

As a case in point, she said that transports and rreighters taking Canadian soldiers and war supplies to Europe come over empty, when they should be loaded with children. "Make your senators and congressmen feel that we will lose our souls as a nation if we don't rescue those kids", she told a "peace lobby" school at the Raleigh Hotel.

CREDIT UNION BORROWING LIMIT RAISED

Senate résolution S-2568, sponsored by Senator Sheppard was passed by the House of Representatives and sent to the President last week which is of interest to members of the Federal Credit Unions of which the Greenbelt Credit Union is a member. If the President signs this bill, it will mean that Credit Union members can borrow $100.00 with no security, other than the regular pledge of shares. The present limit is $50.00.

Senator Sheppard's original draft set a $300.00 limit, but this was reduced "in committee".

The resolution is an amendment to the Federal Credit Union Act of 1934.

MONTGOMERY WARD ORDER OFFICE

PAINTERS READY FOR FINAL STEP

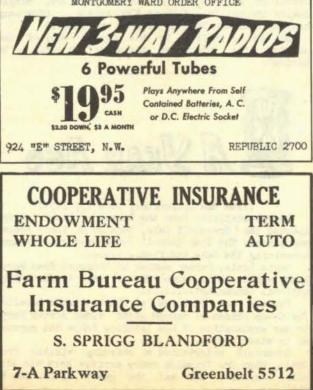

As most of the Greenbelt residents may have noticed, the painting squad has been busy for the past several months making repairs to cinder block walls in the houses and apartments. The cinder block has developed a number of small cracks which have been filled and painted in order to make the walls watertight.

According to 0. Kline Fulmer, assistant town manager, the work of chipping and filling is now complete, and the painting of the walls is about to start. Practically all the cinder block buildings in town will be painted on the exterior this summer.

In doing this work it will be necessary in some cases to remove vines which have grown against the wall. The landscaping department is assisting the painters in this work so that the vines will not be harmed, but will be only temporarily retarded in growth. This necessary pruning is regrettable but more desirable than water leakage in the buildings next winter.

Mr. Fulmer wishes to extend his thanks to the residents for their cooperation and patience with the residents for their cooperation and patience with the painters while doing this work, and urgently requests their continued cooperation until this work is completed.

			Child Hazards

Though our community is off the beaten track to some extent and has provided more play opportunities for children than exist elsewhere, there still is needed a reasonable degree of parental supervision -particularly for the smaller youngsters. No matter how fine a neighborhood feeling exists, our preschool children require the disciplinary and character-building help that only parents can give.

Traffic hazards are fewer in Greenbelt but there always will be some which endanger the little ones. Accidents take a high death toll in the United States and our parents should aid in keeping them to a minimum here.

Group play is a fine recreational feature and it helps, also, in training minds and bodies. But some children are less careful than others; some likewise are rougher. Parents must be counted on to assist in guarding and guiding the play of the younger children.

Similarly children-especially those whose sex education has been neglected in the home---seek information from their comrades. Sometimes this leads to childish experimentation which, though usually harmless physically, is undesirable and may result in the formation of undesirable habits. Good home training and a reasonable degree of parental supervision will go far towards preventing the start of these practices.

Parents don't want their children exposed to measles, whooping cough, colds and other health haz-ards. Here, too, prevention should start at home. Don't send your child out to mingle with others if you have any reason to believe that either he or any of his potential playmates has or is developing any one of these communicable diseases. If all parents heed these few simple suggestions, the health and happiness of our neighborhood will increase and everyone will share in the benefits.

From New York Times

It would appear from the following excerpt from the New York Times of Sunday, June 9, that men whom circumstance has forced into unemployment and relief may become the victims of conscription. Although no positive steps have been taken in this direction, it seems that pressure will be brought to bear on these men to enlist, not because they might wish to, but because they happen to be receiving public assistance.

"New Jersey State Relief Director Arthur Mudd has recently instructed his field representatives to "....inquire of relief directors whether they have on their rolls single persons or single men in relief families eligible for military service, as we know there are today ample opportunities for citizens to enlist in the armed forces of our country, and it is a patriotic duty, particularly for those receiving public assistance, to enlist." " While it is probably not yet the right time to issue a general bulletin of instructions to relief directors on the subject, field representatives in their contacts can accomplish much in this regard."

(Part 1)

By A. Arundel

Long before Professor Harwood dies serious financial difficulties had arisen. The two daughters struggled to conceal their poverty from their father. After his death conditions became much worse. Most of the law-suits were unsuccessful. The old ladies had only one fixed notion about managing their properties, to hold on to everything they possessed. They continued to live in their enormous mansion, surrounded by priceless furniture, hoarding jewels and other antique heirlooms although they lacked fuel to heat the building. They were nourished by pride and secret contributions of food left on their doorstep by neighbors. They refused fiercely to sell a single object from the house although art dealers and antique merchants besieged them often. Even though the sale of a few articles would have kept them in comfort for years, the sisters held on to every trinket in fiery, foolish pride. It was indeed a terrible, insame pride which permitted them to accept baskets of food from people whom they would snub a few hours later on the street. Occasionally the sisters consented to rent one or the other of the wings of the house, providing no modern improvements were made. Kerosene lamps and kitchen ranges and the sense of living in the past must recompense anyone who wanted to live there for such comforts as electricity and steam.

The children of Annapolis were not as forgiving 88 their elders to the follies of the old ladies. When the latter stepped out to stroll in their untended garden, small boys would appear to annoy them by shouting, by racing through the garden, dodging through broken portions of the fence. There grew up a ritual about such occurrences. The sisters would retreat with dignity to the house and return quickly, Miss Lucy in the lead, flourishing an immense old dwelling pistol, calling out threats to shoot at once. No one ever knew if the weapon were actually loaded and the uncertainty would send the lads scampering.

Miss Hester, Miss Hessie as almost any Annapoli-tañ calls her still today, was completely dominated by her older sister. And at Miss Lucy's feet must be laid the blame for the heartbreak which rounds off the story of the Hammond Harwood house. No one remembers whether Miss Lucy had beaux or not. But Miss Hessie fell in love with a midshipman at the Academy. Since he was a Yankee from Ohio, Miss Hessie tried to keep her romance a secret. One day Miss Lucy found a letter commencing, "My Darling Hessie,". Miss Lucy needed no more damning indictment. Such language was impermissible, even between an engaged couple. The man must be a scoundrel, a consummate villain and must be dismissed at once. So poor Miss Hessie sent her lover away and settled to obey Miss Lucy for the rest of her days. Only after Miss Lucy's death, did she blossom out as an individual woman for a little while. At seventy there were few outlets for her new-found independ-She decked herself out in some of the family ence. jewels, bought some false teeth and enjoyed a few quarrels of her own making. The latter were very refreshing since Sister Lucy had always been the agressor in previous feuds.

Then her mind began to return to the past. She felt that her lover was still true to her, that from some important post in Washington he was watching over her, (of course, as a true gentleman he could no longer approach her since she had ordered him out of her life) and she troubled herself no more about financial worries. She even tore up her will be-cause all her affairs were in his hands. Probably this harmless mania, the pleasant nightly conversations she held with him, provided her with the happiest days of her frustrated life.

When Miss Hessie died in 1924 she left no heirs but the estate was so heavily mortgaged that creditors demanded a quick settlement. Word had spread quickly that the house and its furnishings were to be auctioned. Probably no more famous auction has been held in America. All the dealers in art ob-jects and antiques who had been trying in vain even to see these treasures, came and hundreds of other curious people. The streets were crowded with people who could not get into the house. Separate pieces of furniture were sold for fabulous prices. Single chairs brought from $180 to $300 apiece. (How many tons of coal and baskets of food per chair!)

Letters to Editor

To the Editor:

Our neighbor, Mrs. Gerst, should thank her God she is living in a fine house built by a country that will still allow newspapers to print letters of her type; and again thank Him with all her heart and that our good President Franklin Delano Roosesoul velt is going to keep on doing the things he hopes will keep it that way and I for one am beginning to think he and his advisors are in a little better position to know what's right than the Greenbelt housewives (the poor overworked creatures) or those great heroes of our town the underworked, underpaid ernment clerk-husbands.

If a few of our journalistic minded Greenbeltians would stop and ask themselves, "What the ---- do I know about it?", and then start that editorial or letter to the editor; we might have a paper full of interesting items about our own little town, instead of a printed cross between "Time and "The Daily Worker".

-L.M. Slaughter.

THOSE WHO DID NOT ATTEND

To the Editor:

Greenbelt citizens recently passed a resolution, published in last week's Cooperator, putting Greenbelt on record as being opposed to the United States entry in the present conflict abroad. There was no reference, however, to the specific vote of 59 to 26. The Cooperator did state the attendance was 300 and the Washington press put it at 400. However, a point not brought out by either, was that many left before the resolution was introduced. Even if all had remained and voted with the 59, they would not have represented even half of the populace. For various reasons many find it impossible to attend these meetings, yet should not be denied the expression of opinion on such vital issues. A house to house canvas by volunteers or the distribution of ballots with the Cooperator seems to be the answer if we are to continue proclaiming to the nation what we are for or against. I believe we who oppose this resolution owe it to our town and our Government to draft a similar resolution re-affirming our allegiance to those institutions and principles for which others have died to keep them intact. How much more commendable it would be to inform the President and Congress that as our duly chosen representatives, we in Greenbelt stand firmly behind them in their de-cisions. I shall be glad to join with any sharing these sentiments in a movement designed to emphasize our stand in this matter.

Peace Lobby Holds Mass Meeting

Last Friday a peace lobby of 500 citizens from different parts of the country descended upon Congress to ask their Senators and Representatives what they were doing to keep America out of the European war. The lobby was part of the program of the "People's Anti-War Mobilization", whose four objectives are: to keep Congress in session; to prevent the United States from taking further economic or military steps leading into a war; to ensure rational, not hysterical, national defense; to maintain democratic government and safeguard living standards.

A mass meeting was held by the group Friday night at the Raleigh Hotel, addressed by Senators Wheeler, (Democrat, Montana); Downey, (Democrat, California); Representatives Burdick, (Republican, North Dakota); and Van Zandt, (Democrat, Pennsylvania); Bishop Paul Jones of Antioch College; Dorothy Detzer, executive secretary; Women's International League for Peace and Freedom; Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president; and W. R. Border, associate editor, Yale Daily News. John T. Flynn, economist and writer, presided. Advertisements appearing in the Washington papers stated the meeting was "pro-American". The largest representative bodies attending were from the colleges, women's organizations, the A.F. of L., C.I.O., and the Railroad Brotherhoods, the Farmers' Union and the Grange. Sponsoring organizations included the National "Military fighting at its best is a negative defense for the things we hold dear", said Rev. Oscar F. Blackwelder to Bliss Electrical School graduates in Takoma Park, Maryland one night last week. "The positive and constructive preservation of our American way of life and of our liberties is ultimately in the hands of our educational forces and the Christian faith".

Rev. Blackwelder, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, further declared that the World War failed to make the world safe for democracy, in spite of the military victory, because constructive and positive forces such as education and religion were not made use of in settling the conflict.

PRINCE GEORGES STREETS RENAMED OVER PROTESTS

Although there have been vigorous protests, the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission is going ahead with plans to rename streets and renumber houses in the metropolitan area of Prince Georges County.

The project is to make continuations of Washington streets conform with the District nomenclature. Greenbelt is included in the metropolitan area, but since none of our streets intersect with those of any other town, their present names will be retained.

One of the Commission's plans to "keep everybody happy", according to last week's "News", is that dissenters be permitted to keep their old street numbers until they "come around".

The Morning is Near Us by Susan Glaspell

A combined mystery and psychological novel, the scene of which is a small American town. It develops the story of the tangled relations of the Chippman family, which are gradually brought to light when Lydia Chippman returns to her old home after nineteen years of wandering in foreign countries.

This is a distinctly original book which has a subtle kind of excitement about it. Having once started "The Morning is Near Us" it will be practically impossible for one to lay it down until he has penetrated its mysteries.

The character of Lydia is delicately and charmingly drawn. Her gay heart, in spite of her perplexities, her strength of character even when she detects the mumuring of disapproval - all this is finely shown. Lydia is so kind and likeable that it seems that her sunny good-will is to be victorious over the shadows of the past.

shadows of the past. The story will be spoiled if the reader peeks at the last chapter so in order really to enjoy the spell of this delightful book do not read the last few pages until the very end.

Community Health

By Dr. S. R. Berenberg, Director Department of Public Health

The responsibility for the mental health of childhood belongs to no one individual. It should be the active concern of and the subject of intelligent interest to the doctor, the teacher, the parents, nurse, social workers and judges. The teanwork of these authorities should be able in time to erase the phrase "problem child" from our daily speech. But no matter how much assistance the parents of a particular child receive from the others, the child's problem can not be separated from those of his family. In every instance his difficulties are an integral part of the family situation.

The whining, petulant, non-cooperative, sullen, spoiled, dishonest, or truant child is created by circumstances. He may have widely different constitutional endowments of intellectual deficiency, emotional instability and poor biologic organization but his surroundings make this endowment better or worse. Home, to be constructive in its influence, must give the child a sense of unity in his relationship. Father and mother are his prototype of human perfection and from them he derives his ideals of honor, responsibility and affection. He is affected by nagging, quarreling, tears, indifference, by the slight-est disharmony between his parents. For example, it is often difficult for a physician to aid the parents in improving the appetite of a child, for the real cause of lack of interest in food may be the sense of tension between the adults around the table. The physician may suspect that the family atmosphere is tinged with friction but can not always lead the parents to admit their own private difficulties and so he can not point out the real cause of the lagging appetite with resultant ill effects upon the health of the child. Neither is he able to prescribe a cure in such instances, for a tonic will not give the child the sense of well-being and security which is needed.

Parenthood is a mixed blessing. People are not necessarily good parents just because they have children. Parents must strive to live harmonious, same, well-integrated lives in order to provide their children with the mental and emotional foundations for proper development.

"Hardwood Age" reported that wholesale consumer cooperatives in the United States sold about three per cent of all the hardware sold by American hardware jobbers in 1938. It then asked the question: "If hardware jobbers are transferring merchandise from manufacturing to retail channels with maximum efficiency, why is it possible for a new type of hardware wholesale, the wholesale consumer cooperative, to do even three per cent of the total wholesale hardware business?"

Last month town employees busied themselves by cutting and raking grass, replacing road stakes, cleaning picnic areas, and supplying them with wood, filling sand boxes with new sand, cleaning and repainting the swinming pool, preparing the ball diamonds for use, and laying a tile drain in the softball field.

Governor O'Conor has assured T. Howard Duckett, chairman of a special Keystone Auto Club committee, that he will take steps to construct a by-pass at the Baltimore Boulevard-Defense Highway bottleneck at Bladensburg.

VOLUME 4 NUMBER 19

I cannot agree with the contention of certain members of the Citizen's Association that we as individuals or as an association should not presume to advise those we have elected to serve us in Washington. In fact, I heartily disagree.

I, too, have confidence in the integrity and good judgment of my representatives. I, too, am grateful to the present government for such social-minded acts as the establishment of Social Security acts and the building of the Greenbelt towns.

But that is no reason, as has been held, why we should approve everything projected by the present administration. Nor is it any reason why we should not keep closely in touch with our representatives in matters of major import.

The key to my point is found in the word "representatives". Those men in Washington are there to do our will, not to boss us. They are servants, not puppet-masters. We are their constituents, not their puppets.

On small detail items we leave the decisions to our representatives. On broad issues we tell our representatives what we want, and pay them, not for making the decision, but rather for seeing that it is put into effect.

Even if you do not agree that this analysis is correct, or that the situation is as it should be, the fact is that if we don't tell Washington what we want, we forfeit much of our chance of getting the sort of government we want. No matter how honest, how well-intentioned, how intelligent and informed our representatives are, they cannot help but be moved by the constant pounding of organized interest groups with their lobbies, their newspapers, and their sob-sisters all insisting that they know what is good for the country and what we citizens want. Unless we actually make our wants known, our representatives may well be misled into acting against our wishes.

Certainly an alert citizenry that knows what it wants and makes it's wants known to its leaders is essential to a democracy.

--- Howard C. Custer

DUST USED TO TREAT SINUS AND NASAL DISORDERS

The latest treatment for sinus and nasal disorders resulting from dust is a series of injections made from the very dust which caused the trouble. Dr. Frank K. Hansel of St. Louis recently described the treatment at the annual convention of the American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otological Society.

"Relief of symptoms may follow the avoidance of house dust," he said, "but as a rule this is not possible, so the patient must be treated by administration of a series of injections made from the house dust. The result of treatment in properly selected cases is most satisfactory and in some cases dramatic".

The extract is made, he said, from fine sweepings taken with a vacuum cleaner from carpets, draperies, upholstered furniture, mattresses and pillows.

RECIPES

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

One-half cup butter, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup peanut butter, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup granulated sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup brown sugar, $\frac{1}{4}$ cups flour, $\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon soda, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking powder, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt, 1 well-beaten egg. Cream butter and peanut hutter, add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Add well-beaten egg. Sift flour, soda, baking powder and salt together, and add. Chill dough well, then form into balls the size of a small walnut, and place on lightly greased baking sheet. Flatten with fork dipped in flour, making criss-cross pattern. Pake 10 to 12 minutes in a hot oven, or at about 375 degrees. Makes 48 cookies.

SMART FELLOWS, THESE ANTS

I've just heard something that pleases me very much. In fact, I actually feel set up about it. I've always disliked ants. Even before I had to worry a-bout them from a housekeeper's standpoint. I've disliked them --- as a very lazy child who preferred to sit on a pier and fish rather than lend myself to worthy activities. I grew weary of hearing about the ant full of industry and sterling worth. He who toiled and played not: he who walked straight behind his mother and never felt the urge to scamper or curvet in the summer sun. "Rats on ants! Uninteresting things! Who wants to be an ant?" thought I. And yet, way back in my heart, I couldn't help saying "but they are smart!"

And now, today I find that they aren't smart at all---I'm pleased, like you are when you meet your husband's old girl, and she has crow's feet at the corners of her eyes. My old meany has been conquered. I have unmasked the villian. Listen to this---

Mary Todd had ants. And being a careful housekeeper, she didn't like having ants. So she called the exterminators. They came --- three times --- and did their worst. But her ants, being smart fellows, just lay low for a while and when they were sure the exterminators were gone, out they came and began to march around her place again, Indian file.

Mary Todd hesitated to put down anything poisonous on account of the children in her neighborhood, and in account of the children in her neighborhood, and finally, sprinkled a little cinnamon around her ant highways. What happened? What would you expect to happen? Well it didn't at all. The ants all left, and didn't come back. And Mary Todd told her neigh-bors and they sprinkled around a little cinnamon and their ants left to their ants left too.

And so, if you have ants in your pantry, don't spray with insecticides: don't put down poison bait: don't fuss and fume--just get out the cinnamon can and put them to flight. Smart fellows, these ants!

WHAT GOD MADE MOTHERS FOR Part Four

3. To Shelter Life. The greatest storms that sall for shelter are not in the physical realm. One of the most beautiful secrets of motherhood is the power of its spiritual resources to provide comfort. Does not every mother know how miraculously a kiss can make a pinched finger stop hurting? Or a bit of cuddling will replace a tear with a smile? Life has so many hurts to which no adhesive tape can bring re-lief, but mother love can. It is good when neartaches, disappointments, heartbreaks, fears-yes, and sins-come, to have a mother who understandsand heals. A mother's kiss, even though from with-ered lips, is still a "shelter in the time of storm." That's what mothers are for.

HOUSEWIVES INSPECT MEAT DEPARTMENT

The meat department of the Greenbelt Food Store held open house last Wednesday afternoon. Some 30 housewives in search of better meat buying habits attended. They inspected the cold storage room where the uncut "quarters" of meat are kept.

Explanations were given concerning the various cuts of meat, the parts of the enimal from which they come, and the best method for using such cuts. The meat department staff answered questions and offered cooperation in helping the housewife make the best choice in buying her meats. Mimeographed sheets with tips for cooking meat were distributed. Refreshments "on the house" ended the very pleasant and instructive afternoon.

Better Buyers Briefs

The first meeting of the newly elected Better Buyers executive committee was held June 3 at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Cooper.

Committee chairmen were appointed as follows: Mrs. Ethel Morganstein, social; Mrs. Gladys Hughes, publicity; Mrs. Marion Slaugh, membership; and Mrs. Pauline Fitzpatrick, education. Some time back the group had voted to send one of their members to the Cooperative Institute at Amherst, Massachusetts. Part of the tuition has already been raised and in order to raise the rest the executive committee discussed the possibility of running a community supper.

The next leaders meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Slaugh, 20 F Crescent Road, at 2 P. M., Thursday, June 20.

Mrs. Eva Laakso was given a surprise luncheon at the home of Mrs. Janet Mielke, June 4th. A spring menu was served to twelve members of Group 13. The prizes for the afternoon's bingo games were won by Mrs. Iva Low Rowett and Mrs. Ethel Morganstein.

The members of Mrs. Laakso's group expressed enthusiasm for her leadership and hoped she would again take charge in the fall.

last gathering of the "Nifty Shoppers" on Wednesday, June 5. Fourteen members attended, and were told by the treasurer that a balance of $5.00 would be sent to the Red Cross, as agreed at a previous meeting. The group will resume its activities in September.

WITH THE REPS

By John P. Murray

Opposition for the Reps arrived in town last Saturday under the banner of the Irish War Veterans and the Community Business Men of Mt. Rainier. Both teams were composed of good guys and everyone liked them immensely but their billing as ball players seemed a bit exaggerated. Goldfaden's Gauchos amassed a record total of four home runs, one triple, two doubles and 21 bingles to win both tussles, the first 19-1 and the second 16-8.

Any praise we might offer on the day's composite performances would sound rather empty considering the type of opposition and lopsided scores so we will confine the commentary department to amere---Jack Allen, the man in blue, never looked better, --in blue.

Next Saturday at 3 P.M. the boys take on Hal Steffes and his Maritimers. In their last session the two teams were forced to call the game in the first half of the fifth with the Sailors out in front 2-1. That one rankled because at the time the Reps were sporting an undefeated record and this struggle should be nothing less than titanic. On Sunday they go on the road to play Coopers Bakery at The Edgewood Park at Lincoln Road and Franklyn Street N.W. A party from the homestead will leave from the drug store at about 1:45 P.M.

Saturday June 15, at 8 P.M. on the old Athletic Field the Reps play host to the Ida Department Store team, who are holding down second place in the Sport Center Sunday Morning League.

The Greenbelt Athletic Club Softball League's short series swung into its final round with the Jokers still leading the American League while the Braves are setting the pace in the National League.

Monday night found the Esquires setting the Deuces down by the tune of 20 to 1 (sounds more like a cricket or football score). In the second game the Braves defeated the Pirates by a 21 to 8 count.

Tuesday, in one of the best played games of the past week the Badgers defeated the Aces by the score of 6 to 4. Following the example set by the Bad-gers in the first game, the Dodgers went after the Giants and won out by an 11 to 5 score. Wednesday night found the Jokers continuing to set the pace and added the Esquires' scalp to their belt to the tune of 8 to 3. In the second game the Braves received a scare when the Giants came within one run of tying thems Braves 9, Giants 8.

Thursday night found American League teams hold-ing the spotlight. The Deuces dropped their second game of the week when the Badgers fell on the pitching of Barker and came out on the long end of an 8 to 3 count. This game marked Barker's start in this league, evidently the Badgers hadn't heard of his record with the Reps. In the final game of the night, the Clubs defeated the Aces 21 to 2.

Only one game was played Friday. Another cricket score and again the Braves setting down the Pirates 31 to 1. Some fun, eh, boys?

Wednesday night, June 5, President Neblett called a special meeting to decide the fate of the two league system. After much discussion it was finally voted to continue the present system.

Something should be done about those Braves of the National League. They are defeating the merits of the two league system by retaining players of A-merican League calibre on their roster while other teams in the American League are sadly in need of material. As a result of the Braves' tactics, most National League games they have participated in re-cently have been won by such one-sided scores that spectators are conspicuous by their absence. How about it, boys; let's get in the game and stop playing for keeps and play for the fun of the game.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK Bauer's imitation of the Mighty Casey. "All American" Neale-telling Umpire Messner that his knees weren't away down here. (Maybe you were standing in a hole, Neale.)

Schulz trying to steal second. In the run down almost every member of the opposing team got his hands on the ball. Even at that, Schulz was able to scurry back safely.

Barker's initial appearance in this league and being greeted by a barrage of runs. Four runs were scored on four passed balls.

Trumbule and Bowman-the ideal battery combination. "No Hit" Reamy's fine hitting: He is setting the pace in the American League with a .625 average.

Goode Wins Field Day Event the Hard Way

The Community Church School enjoyed their annual Outing and Field Day on Saturday, June 10th, at the Greenbelt Lake. Approximately 375 happy but tired members returned home in the early evening proclaiming a wonderful time was had by all.

"Old Faithful" Pop Widger, of the Community Men's class was in charge of the athletic events while Sam Cregger acted as announcer.

Ice cream and soft drinks were served to everyone present. After the athletic events were run, everyone sat down to a supper picnic.

Snamrocks nammer I wo Dupont Pitchers

Pounding two Fort Dupont pitchers for a total of 13 hits, the Greenbelt Shamrocks had an easy time in capturing their fifth straight victory last Sunday afternoon by the score of 12 to 1. Ernie Boggs limited the visitors to just six hits, and had a shutout going into the eighth inning, but two hits and a stolen base gave Fort Dupont their only run. Boggs struck out 11 men and walked none.

He cannot bear the bodily pain In God's great plan to incarnate His name, But the mental anguish of a true father's mind May be equally hard to endure, you will find.

Father labors with all his might Often 'till the wee hours of the night, Fearful lest the sum he earns May not bring the hoped for returns.

His family's comfort is his pride For this he walks with manly stride But if want and suffering come to his door His heart is torn with anguish sore He cares for us both night and day, Through sunshine, sickness, in our play. --- A Daughter

CHLORINE CONTENT OF POOL REDUCED

Of interest to the local swimming pool addicts is the fact that this year it has not been necessary to use as much chlorine in the water as last year, when the pipes were new. Although the presence of this purifier may be unpleasant to the swimmers, it must be remembered that this precaution is protection against impurities and possible infection.

The reason for the low temperature of the water on its first day of use was because the freshly filled pool had not had enough time to absorb the warmth of the sun. The current temperature is quoted as being 72°.

TENNIS TEAM SET TO GO

The tennis team is about ready to go. Other teams in the six club Town and Country League include the Junior Varsity Squad from American University, two teams from the Interior Department's Recreation Association, Whittentide, and a group as yet unknown. Matches are to be arranged this week with the race opening next Sunday.

Teeing off in the very first inning Greenbelt lost no time in solving the slants of the first Dupont hurler, and nicked him for three hits and two runs. After lead-off men Bozek popped out Thompson singled, and scored when Uhrinak smote one to left center field for the first home run on the new diamond. The Shamrocks added three more in the fourth with the second Dupont pitcher in there, with two hits, a walk, a sacrifice, and a triple by Bozek. Boggs, also leading batsman in this game with 3 for 5, drove across the twelfth and final run of the game in the eighth with his third hit.

The Shamrocks are in for a busy weekend this Saturday and Sunday. At 3 P.M. on Saturday they engage they St. Francis Xavier and on Sunday at 2 P. M. meet the Reliance Insurance Company Nine.

REPS CONTEMPLATES ENTRY IN MID-ATLANTIC TOURNEY

The Reps, as one of the vicinity's top teams, Prince Georges County champs and winners of the first half of the P.G.C. League current race, are contemplating a step into the big time of local softball. A tournament is to be staged at the Ballston Ball Orchard within the next month or so and the invited teams will be the cream of the countryside. Such famed names as Heurich, Standard Linen, Tru-Blue, I.S.M., will be among those to face the firing line in a field of about twelve teams.

The whole thing is under the sponsorship of the Middle Atlantic Association and teams representing Wilmington, Delaware, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond and Washington will give big league flavor and provide a brand of softball seldom seen in these parts. Under the tournament rules it will be a "one loss and out" affair, the same system that prevailed in last year's Prince Georges' race.

Manager Goldfaden is considering all the angles with the possibility of a rather steep franchise fee standing between the local hero clan and the national fame. As soon as definite steps are taken we'll let you know more.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE

The Sunday School Softball league played its first games over the week end. On Saturday the Caseys defeated the Jewish Community Church 12 to 5 and L.D.S. defeated the Holy Name 15 to 13. On Sunday the Jitterbugs defeated the Elues 14 to 9 while the Reds defeated the Stragglers 17 to 13.

High School Prom Ends Senior Activities

Tomorrow night the High School Senior Prom will swing into action to the music of the Royal Blues. The student committee who arranged the affair includes Frank Loftus, Shirley Friedman, Betty Andrus, Robert McClary, Nella Berkalew, and Larry Childress. Special guests of the Senior Class are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Braden, Mr. and Mrs. George Warner, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Woodman.

Co-op Institute Scheduled for August

Plans for a three-day institute for cooperatives to be held August 13, 14 and 15 at the University of Maryland, were made at a meeting of officials and representatives of cooperative associations and farm organizations held at the University April 12.

The University is sponsoring the institute at the request of a number of cooperative groups in the state. Attendance is expected to be made up of directors, managers, employees, leaders and members of the 58 cooperative organizations in Maryland and from similar groups in nearby states.

Tentative arrangements for the program include talks and practical instruction by persons with outstanding records in particular phases of cooperative work, such as "The Relation of Cooperatives to the Public", "Building Patronage", "Retail Credit", and "Management of Cooperatives".

It is expected that several representatives of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., will participate.

If There Are Ants on Your Plants

The following was released by O. Kline Fulmer as information pertinent at this season:

Considerable experimentation has developed that the best means of eliminating ants is by the use of Black Leaf 40 which may be obtained at the local drug store. This is a liquid which, when mixed with water, and sprayed on plants and bushes, satisfactorily exterminates ants.

Rabbits are the most ancient of living animals, according to Dr. William B. Scott, professor emeritus of geology at Princeton. Rabbits and opossums date back to Eocene times some 30 to 40 million years aro.

Author Appel Will Review Own Work at Bookshop

B enjamin Appel author of "The People Talk" recently reviewed by him at the Bookshop in Washington visited Greenbelt last week.

Mr. Appel's book gives answer to the question of what the real people of the United States, the Gloucester fishermen, the Chicago pig stabbers, Gadsdon tire builders, the Seattle clerks, are thinking and saying about Roosevelt, the war, unemployment, labor organization, the relief program, Henry Ford, Father Coughlin and other controversial subjects. The author of "The People Talk" attempts to give true expression to the ideas of the millions of Americans whose opinions and hopes never figure in the headlines.

Movies and a descriptive talk on cooperative projects in Nova Scotia were the main feature of a program presented Thursday, June 6, in the auditorium, by the education committee of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc.

Dr. Henry E.Carpenter, executive secretary of the Church and Mission Federation, Brocklyn, New York, who conducts summer tours through Nova Scotia's cooperatives, was the speaker. His movies showed visitors touring the various cooperatives---credit unions, food stores, lobster factories, and the processes of catching, drying and shipping herring. Dr. Carpenter reminded the audience that cooperative study was started in Nova Scotia, under the leadership of Fathers Coady and Tompkins, as a part of the extension service of St. Xavier University.

The audience showed enthusiastic appreciation for the three numbers sung by the Mens' class Glee Club, led by John W. Colliver.

An unexpected addition to the program was a short talk by E. R. Bowen, executive secretary of the Cooperative League of the United States, on the Interfaith Unemployment Conference which he attended last week in Washington. The conference was held in the Labor Department, with leaders from the various religious groups participating in the discussion of unemployment problems.

This program was one of a series planned by the G.C.S. education committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Bertha Maryn.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The nine members are elected by the membership from the membership. They serve without pay for one year terms, five being elected in January and four in August. They meet regularly twice a month and hold special meetings when needed.

The Board is responsible to the membership for all the affairs of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc. commercial, educational and organizational. It makes all decisions except in matters of major importance when it carries the question to the membership meeting for a vote by the membership at large.

The Board hires the General Manager who is directly responsible to it for the operation of the stores. A Management Committee of Directors meets with the General Manager and the Store Managers to study the store problems. The By-Laws Committee concentrates on organizational problems. Other committees are headed by Directors and include regular members of the cooperative----Membership Committee, Education Committee, and Price Checking Committee.
