Ricker Appointed Check Cashing Probational At Food Store Up for Review GCS Manager

Thomas B. Ricker has been named acting general manager of Greenbelt Consumer Services for a period extending through September, it was announced Sunday. This is a probational appointment given to Mr. Ricker by the board in order that he may have an opportunity to prove his ability to assume the position permanently.

Of 21 applications received and considered by the board, all except two were gradually eliminated as the directors carefully considered their qualifications. Charles M. Beltt, a man of considerable experience in the management of cooperatives in Minnesota, and Mr. Ricker remained as the two can-didates being considered last Saturday.

Meeting from 5 o'clock to past midnight Saturday, with only a short recess for dinner, the board members interviewed both Mr. Beltt, who was invited to Green-belt for this purpose, and Mr. Ricker.

Trial Period Seems Best

Finally, after two and a half hours of earnest deliberation following completion of the last in-terview, the directors decided to continue Mr. Ricker in the capacity of acting manager for a trial period during which he would be given an opportunity to further prove his qualifications for the position.

It was stated that during the short time that he has been temporarily acting as general man-ager, due to George E. Hodsdon's reporting for military duty on April 2, he has demonstrated cer-tain qualities which indicate that he is enable. he is capable.

Because of the responsibilities placed on the shoulders of the general manager of G. C. S. dur-ing these trying times, the di-rectors decided upon the proba-tional appointment. This will give Mr. Ricker a fair chance to prove himself. himself.

himself. Mr. Ricker was appointed as-sistant manager of G. C. S. in May last year. On the occasions that Mr. Hodsdon was absent from the community during that time, he was in active charge of the cooperative. He has participated in the management affairs of G. C. S. at all times since his ap-pointment as assistant manager. At the same time he directed the operthe same time he directed the operations of the garage and service station as manager of those enter-

This year's first quarterly meeting of the members of Greenbelt Consumer Services will be held on Wednesday, May 6, it was announced last week. One of the features of the meeting will be an address by Miss Loda May Davis of the Office of Price Administration. Her subject is to be "The Consumer in Wartime."

The membership will be asked to take action upon two matters, according to the agendum of this meeting. First will be the election of three members to the auditing committee.

Members of this committee, which provides the membership with an independent check upon the activities of the board and the management, are elected once a year. This is done at the May meeting. They serve a term of one year.

To be brought up for discussion will be the matter of cashing checks by the Greenbelt stores. The question is whether or not the cooperative should charge for this service. For several months the banks have been charging for items in such a way that every check cashed costs G. C. S. several

The cooperative cashes a large number of checks each month, both Government pay checks and per-sonal checks. The volume has been so large during recent months that the bank bill for servicing these checks has added a substan-tial increase to the operating costs of the stores of the stores.

This meeting will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the audi-torium of the Elementary School Building.

Sugar Registration Starts Here Monday For All Residents

Greenbelt families will register for sugar ration cards at the Elefor sugar ration cards at the Ele-mentary School, beginning Mon-day, May 4, and continuing through Thursday, May 7. Each family must be represented in or-der to get individual cards for each member. "A neighbor can not get your family's cards for you. The family must be person-ally represented," said Thomas Jeffries, manager of the food store.

Council To Hold Public Hearing Of New Ordinance

Postponing action on a new or-dinance which would eliminate season and monthly passes for the swimming pool because of the shortage of purifying chemicals, the Town Council has scheduled a special meeting and public hear-ing for May 4 at 7:30 p.m. to enable Greenbelt citizens to make known their reactions to the proposal. Although the prices for single admissions and strips of 10 tickets are unchanged from last year, season and monthly passes are not to be available. In discussing the proposed ordinance, Assistant Town Manager Arthur L. Rysticken explained that practically no swimming pools are offering passes this year since puri-fying chemicals can not be purchased in quantities larger than one month's supply.

Although the Council discussed the possibility of limiting the use of the pool to Greenbelt residents, it was pointed out that last year the pool revenue from Greenbelt residents was only $900 while the revenue from others amounted to $5,100. It was further brought out that any serious reduction in revenue from the pool would cur-tail the spring and summer recreation program.

After disclosing that some cur-tailment of town services has been necessary because the sums in lieu of taxes which are to be paid by the Federal Works Agency have not been received, the Town Council unanimously passed a motion requesting Town Solicitor Ralph W. Powers to explore the legal means available to obtain payment of these sums. Mr. Powers is to be invited to attend the next receipter motions of the the next regular meeting of the Council.

In a brief ceremony, Mr. Ry-sticken announced that Director of Recreation Vincent Holochwost had successfully completed a course in municipal recreation given by the Institute of Munici-pal Administration.

Sponsored by Frank J. Lastner, Councilman Frank J. Lastner, a resolution was passed which provides for circulating to new members of Greenbelt material which wel-comes them, invites them to be-come acquainted with the vari-ous organizations, and to attend Town Council meetings.

Citizens Association To Establish Working Transportation Plan At Monday Meeting at 8 P. M.

Greenbelters are expected to make Monday's Citizens Association meeting one of the largest ever held locally when the pressing business of transportation will be publicly aired and definite plans made to meet the most serious transit problem faced by the town. Also scheduled is election of officers for the association.

Night Manager Chosen For Drug Store

William Siegel of 23-D Ridge Road was appointed night manager of the drug store last week. He serves in the afternoons and eve-nings when Mrs. Elsie V. Steinle, is manager of the store, is off duty. Mr. Siegel has had considerable to morehandising. He experience in merchandising. He gained most of his knowledge con-cerning the sale of merchandise as cerning the sale of merchandise as a youngster and young man in his father's place of business where variety items, novelties and other merchandise were sold. He was born 'and reared in Tompkinsville, Staten Island, N. Y., where at the age of 24 he served for a period of time as president of the Victory Demo-cratic Club. At one time he was employed in a U. S. Marshal's office. office.

For about seven years Mr. Siegel has been with the Agricultural Ad-justment Administration. He is presently stationed at College Park, Md. Mr. Siegel is also treasurer of the Greenbelt Athletic Club.

Mr. Siegel is married and has two daughter, Carole Ann and Lena Elizabeth. His wife, Mrs. Mattie Siegel, used to serve on a part-time basis as a nurse at the Greenbelt Hospital.

Pilot Badly Hurt in Crash at Schrom's

A plane crash at Schrom's Air-A plane crash at Schrom's Air-field yesterday afternoon badly injured G. O. Gainer of Capitol Heights, Md. The plane cracked up at the south end of the run-way after the motor stalled in a take-off. The pilot suffered head and arm injuries.

Rationing Hits Drivers

The rationing of gasoline, which gether with the existing tire short-age, will break the backbone of Greenbelt transportation, when private automobiles are forced off the roads leading out of town.

the roads leading out of town. One of the chief objects of Mon-day's meeting will be to set up an active committee of citizens whose job it will be to secure the most favorable allowance possible for local drivers when the actual rationing of gasoline takes place.

Expansion of present bus service to accommodate the increased humber of local residents who will have no other means of transportation, is expected to command most attention at the meeting. The committee which will be voted to represent the town will prob-ably be empowered to negotiate with the Capital Transit Company for increased and improved bus service. The present schedule, ac-cording to best advices, is hardly enough to meet current require-ments and will be swamped when Greenbelters abandon private cars under the pressure of gas ration-ing. Citizens at the meeting are expected to instruct the committee members to insist on direct service to a central location in Washington.

Big Crowd Expected

Officers of the Citizens' Asso-ciation stress that the success of the meeting and resultant action will largely depend on the size and spirit of the turnout Monday. As an example of what civic ac-tion could accomplish they point to the halt order issued on April 19, by the Public Service Commis-19, by the Public Service Commis-sion, on a plan which would have substituted shuttle bus lines for through service on most of the Prince Georges County Capital Transit lines. Protests of Citizens' Associations caused a last-minute order cancelling the plan.

In contrast to previous functions Monday's Citizens' Association meeting will start at exactly 8 p.m. There will be no door prize. The order of business will be limited to allow the widest possible discussion of transportation. In-duction of elected officers is scheduled for the close of the business meeting after which refreshments will be served.

Extensive Training Shown

Mr. Ricker is a graduate of Business High School and Poteet's Business College in Washington. His education at both institutions was preparatory to an extensive training in local business administrations.

Before coming to Greenbelt in 1938, he operated his own service station and garage business in Sil-ver Spring, Md. Previous to that Mr. Ricker supervised the manage-ment of four Gulf Oil Corporation stations.

For the past three years Mr. Ricker has served as a member of the Town Council and has been acin the affairs of G. C. S. tive for four years.

In the field of outside activities, he was elected to and has served two and a half years on the board of directors of the Gaithersburg Petroleum Cooperative, an organization which did a business jast year of $1,500,000.

With reference to G. C. S., Mr. Ricker stated that he "feels that because of the critical times this cooperative has a better opportuthan ever before to demonstrate to the people of Greenbelt the real value to be derived from cooperation as consumers."

Jeffries, manager of the food store.

Wholesale quotas are based on 1941 sugar sales, according to Mr. Jeffries, who this week filed an appeal at the rationing board in Hyattsville for an increase in Green-belt's quota, as the local popula-tion in 1942 is expected to double that of 1941.

Monday, April 27, the final day of sugar sales before preparations for registration were commenced, one ton of sugar was sold in fivepound lots, at the food store here. Approximately 1500 pounds more are in reserve, said Mr. Jeffries. He urged that everyone register for the cards whether or not they need suga, as the sugar ration cards will be used for all future commodities which may be rationed.

One-half pound of sugar per week will be allowed each person. More than two pounds of sugar per person on hand at the time of registering must be reported. Local teachers will conduct the registration, between the hours of 1 p. m. and 8 p. m.

It has been suggested that an alphabetical order be followed by those whose last names begin with the letters "A" to "E" registering on Monday, "F" to "J" on Tues-day, "K" to "O" on Wednesday, and "P" to "Z" on Thursday.

By Francis Fosnight

Last week we received a letter from one of our new residents questioning the amount of electric current billed and the method of computation. We immediately wrote a letter to Community Manager Roy S. Braden for complete information and as a result the following facts are again presented.

Those services for which no charge is made to the occupants of the residences:

Street Lights. The street lighting system is on a separate circuit from the service that is rendered to the residences.

2. All municipal functions such as sewage treatment plant, fire station, offices, soft ball field, swimming pool, medical center, school and municipal center and all of the cooperative stores. These services are directly metered; we have about 40 meters in use.

The following services charged to the occupants of the homes: the oilburners, the dryers in the apartments and the hall lights in apartments, The water is heated by the furnaces and the only current required for this is that amount necessary for the operation of the burners in the summertime. In the winter monthe the burners are necessary of course for the general heating progam."

We made inquiry as to the method of payment and the amount paid and again we quote Community Manager Braden, we will say that the following is the method of payment that is used:

60 kwhr 3.8 cents per kwhr 3.4 cents per kwhr 190 khrw 1.750 kwhr 2.4 cents per kwhr 23,000 kwhr 1.2 cents per kwhr 25,000 kwhr 1.1 cents per kwhr Additional kwhr 0.7 cents per kwhr

This means that the Government pays the same schedule of rates as any private consumer but get the advantage of the lower rates as computed on the large amount used. This is only possible because of the single meter set up. If additional or individual meters are used in any of the living units or stores, the consumers must pay the basic rate and lose the benefit of the volume rate. Mr. Braden goes on to say that the period for reading the meters covers one full month, but last month they chang-ed the date which added about four days to the period and this was one cause of the cost going up. It will probably be less this month because we notice that, except in the winter months, when a bill is higher one month it seems (Continued on Page 4)

Special importance is attached to the election of officers for the citizens association on Monday, since this is regarded as a critical period in Greenbelt's history. Expansion of the town's population is reportedly creating many new problems in a number of fields other than transportation. Already being felt, especially by residents of the new defense homes, Greenbelt's growing pains, it is estimated, will cause serious difficulties and shortages in local public and social facilities. According to town leaders, Greenbelt's greatest wor-ry is not the lack of expansion in civic facilities but the gradual break-down which is taking place now under the pressure of the war emergency.

Difficulties Listed

mong the more prominent difficulties now prevalent and expected to grow worse, are listed the lack of a local hospital, transportation, an inadequate school sys-tem, and the general absence of coordinated town activities. While Monday's meeting will be more or less limited to the transportation question and selection of officers, the Greenbelt Citizens 'Association is expected to play an important part in Greenbelt's future activi-(Continued on Page 3)

Military Discipline

(Editor's note: In answer to several questions and comments by residents who are about to become draftees the editor requested a well-known local officer in military service to describe "Military Discipline." The following is his reply-good enough, we think, for an editorial.)

When the civilian joins the armed forces he enters into a distinctly different mode of existence. He finds himself beset with a variety of emotions, their nature and intensity depending on his education and previous experience, his personal habits and former acquaintanceships, his ability to mingle well with people of many walks of life, and finally, the attitude he has assumed as the vocational change took place.

The recruit's mind is, at the outset, a military void ringed with question marks. If he is receptive, willing to cooperate, and desirous of getting the most good he can out of the venture while simultaneously giving his best, that void will soon absorb much interesting and valuable lore. He will in time become a good soldier and a swell guy to have around for a beer, badminton, or a battle.

As a recruit, however, he wonders many wonderings, some of which are: "Do we salute warrant officers?" "How in the name of Ickes can I get the cosmoline out of this d-d rifle?" "What is left oblique?" and "When is chow call?" He also feels some qualms about this "military discipline" his Dad had been saying would do him a lot of good.

Private Doe gets most of his basic questions ironed out, learns how and whom to salute, how and why to take extra good care of his rifle, and finds out about left oblique and a lot of other drill movements he never dreamed about. In the process of learning about the Army and his particular use to it and functions within it, he is constantly exposed to, and operating under the rules of military discipline but doesn't realize any compunctions about it or even give it much thought. He is too busy to be bad, so to speak, and obviously any one who behaves himself properly is not the recipient of discipline.

After a few weeks in training, Private Doe goes home on leave and is mercilously pumped by all relatives and the populace in general as to his liking for "Army chow," his ability to hit the side of the hill with his "weepon," and his reaction to military discipline. Most of his inquisitors seem to take great glee in grasping at the term "military discipline" and waving it over the unfortunate soldier's pate like the legendary blade of Damocles. In the midst of the "trial," Private Doe suddenly realizes that this discipline business was one of the things he had been worrying about, too, and here he is without a complaint to register on that score. He resolves to look into the matter upon return to duty.

The fact of the matter is that military discipline is something NOT to be worried about in the least. It is a logical, inherent ingredient worked into all the training the recruit and the soldier receives, and it doesn't hurt a mite, popular civilian notions to the contrary. It is a bugaboo which seems to bother the civilian more than it does the soldier who lives by it.

Catholic Church

Catholic life in Greenbelt dawn officially on a Sunday morning in October, 1937, with the pastor, the Rev. Leo J. Fealy, offering for the first time in the community the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass in the Home Economics Boom of the Elementary School.

Later transferred to the Social Room for larger quarters and finally, for the same reason, to the Greenbelt Theater, the Holy Sacrifice is now offered there every Sunday morning at 9 o'clock for the some-what over 250 Catholic families of Greenbelt. Sunday School for the children not attending Catholic schools, immediately precedes the Mass at 8:30 a.m. Catholic families not attending the 9 o'clock Mass in Greenbelt can attend the 7, 9 or 11ff30 a.m. Masses at Berwyn. The Greenbelt Catholic Church is in mediately precedes the

The Greenbelt Catholic Church is in reality a mission of the mother church in Berwyn and therefore is a part of Holy Redeemer Parish. Pastor of the entire parish, the Rev. Leo J. Fealy, aided on week ends by priests from the Redemptorist Seminary in Washington, attends to the spiritual needs of both communities.

Confessions, heard for four years at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Moore, have been transferred since the Moores' removal to "A" block, to a more central location, and are now heard each Saturday evening from 7:30 to 9 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Madden, 17-E Ridge Road.

Cathelic children of Greenbelt, transported daily to Berwyn by school bus, are there taught in the elementary grades by the Sisters of Providence, a teaching order of nuns. Anxious to build their own church to take care of ever growing needs, the local Catholic community, backed by the savings of past years, was about to embark upon a drive for funds with which to start immediate construction of the church, when all building was halted temporarily by the War Board order stopping all construction projects. The drive will go on, however, as soon as clearance is obtained

When we pry into the situation we find out that military discipline is merely the every-day garden variety of personal conduct rules bearing a special label to indicate its connection with the military service.

By way of comparison, suppose you have three youngsters of the 5-to-10-year-old age group. The oldest boy. we will say, persists on walking the danger side of the highway and you exhort him to walk facing traffic or stay in the house for a spell. In the Army, the First Sergeant says, "Private Doakes, dammit if you don't stay out of that restricted area after nine p.m. you'll be lunked in the You have applied your particular version of clink!" child management; the Top Kick has utilized military discipline.

Private Simple turns up after maneuvers minus his bayonet and mess kit and the appropriate alibis. He is disciplined, too, but his pay-off is termed "military discipline" because he is supposed to be a military man in a military organization.

Professional soldiers (and sailors and marines) agree that without military discipline our military force would soon become a dilatory mass. Any cooperative, sensible individual who respects duly constituted authority, who automatically is attentive to and obeys his leaders and, who has the good of the Nation and the safety and welfare of his comrades at heart, can roll along very smoothly in the military service under the guiding hand of military discipline without suffering any humiliation, unearned punishment, or loss of self-esteem or esteem for others. OUR NEIGHBORS

By SALLY MEREDITH

Hello, Greenbelt:

A plan has been suggested to help relieve the loneliness and homesickness of our newcomers. help Here's how it will work. Every other Saturday night, 5 or 6 old residents will each invite several couples of the newcomers and several older couples o their home to get acquuainted with each other. Parties aren't necessary. Just Parties aren't necessary. Just friendly talks or card games will suffice. You were new here once. You older residents know how long it takes to get acquainted. So, come on, let me hear from you if you'd like to help. And you new Greenbelters-let me hear from you if you've any suggestions. You can drop a note through our door over the drug store, or call me on Monday or Tuesday evenings after 8 p. m., at Greenbelt 3131. Or come on down and watch our paper being put together.

If you're a member of the American Legion Auxilliary, be sure to be on hand at the next meeting Thursday, May 7, at 8 p. m. Plans are going to be dis-cussed for the card party Saturday, May 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben Lash were in town this week, visiting daughter and son-in-law, the Leroy Smiths. They arrived last Saturday.

Mrs. Daniel Neff, president of the ommunity Church Guild, an-nounced Tuesday that a meeting of the Guild will be held at her home, 3-D Ridge Road, May 6, at 1:30 p. m. Guild Auxiliaries are urged to send their representa-tives with reports.

A surprise party was given Fri-day, April 17, in honor of Miss Mildred Seeger of 4-C Crescent Road, by Mrs. Eva Thomas of 38-E Crescent Road. Miss Seeger is shortly to be married.

shortly to be married. On Sunday, April 26, Rev. John-ston officiated at his first Green-belt wedding, that of the former Rachael Long Conrad and Clar-ence Goudy, at the home of Mrs. William Rupert, 3-E Eastway, niece of Miss Conrad. The bride and groom left Monday for Will-iamsport, Pennsylvania.

Pottery Class Plans

Picnic Expedition

The pottery class announces plans for a picnic-expedition this Sunday, May 3. The picnickers will start at 9 a. m. from the head-quarters at 21 Parkway Road.

Anyone who would like to go along is invited, and a good time is guaranteed to all. "Kindly bring your own lunches," the instructor advises. Monte L. Taeler, the instructor, will show where and how he ob-tains the clay used in his class. This should be of special interest to those who have not become acquainted with the art of pottery-making. Those who attend the picnic and who are not members of the class, will have an opportunity to meet the members and discuss their hobby. Mr. Taeler will ex-plain details of pottery-making.

By LOUISE BURKE Here I am—still on the same frequency this week. Suppose you couldn't fully understand all I said last week. The printer sort of overlooked the last part of it, which explained everything (al-most) that I said. All that dwelling in the ether was the result of my studying electricity and radio and such in physics, lately, and "I's got that spirit in me, boy, yes indeed!" The part that was left out was about the track meet last Wednesday. You probably wondered why so many people were wandering around Greenbelt that afternoon. The reason was that we got out of school about 12:30 and shortly after just about every one went after just about every one went down to Braden Field for the meet. Two other schools should have been there. Laurel and have been there, Laurel and Bowie. Bowie showed up but Laurel had no means of trans-portation. The meet was held nevertheless. Greenbelt won the nevertheless. Greenbelt won the boys' soft ball, girls' volley ball, and boys' volley ball; while we lost the girls' soft ball.

Hey! All you parents—this is to remind you that the last P. T. A. meeting of this school year will be held next Tuesday night. will be held next Tuesday night. A very interesting program is being arranged by the various clubs. As you know, the clubs meet during the first hour on Wednesday morning. Each club will in some way explain and dis-play their activities. One mem-ber of each club will give a five-minute explanation of their re-spective club, as a part of the program. So don't miss this meeting which was held earlier in the year for the parents to visit the year for the parents to visit their children's classes.

Well, here goes on some of the stuff that Bill Schoeb and Henry McFarland like as reading Henry McFarland like as reading material . . . For a starter I'd just like to mention one little thing about Bill and Henry and few more of their friends. Last Sunday those poor boys were given a bum steer. From what I could gather they were search-ing for a cute little blond all day and finally found out that somebody was just trying to ocsomebody was just trying to oc-cupy their time . . . Oh, and say you haven't seen much lately if you naven't seen much lately if you missed seeing "the eligible bachelor" Nanna and Blake Palmer waging war and all on the account of a certain Carolyn Reed . . By the way, Bobby Hall, who was that girl I saw you with down at the bus depot the other afternoon and what WERE you doing? . . During the other afternoon and what WERE you doing? . . . During the last week or so our poor teachers haven't had much time to themselves what with sugar rationing and the like . . . Miss Younger along with all the other troubles has the senior play on her mind, too. Every time we had a practice last week she wold grab a bite to eat and rush over to the auditorium in the nick of time to begin practicing . . . over to the auditorium in the nick of time to begin practicing . . . Speaking of theatricals, I saw quite a few Greenbelt people at the minstrel in the Hyattsville Elementary School last Friday. It was presented by the Knights of the Cross which has several Greenbelt boys as members. Those from Greenbelt and the high school who had a part in it were Bill Baxter, Joe Brosmer, Elden Lewis, two of the McCollum boys, Parker Bogan and Dick Burke. Parker Bogan and Dick Burke. Several of these boys rendered musical selections in a manner that surprised many present.

Post War Planning Wins First Battle In House Committee

By John Carson Cooperators have won their first big victory in the effort to estab-lish an efficient agency for post war planning. The House Commit-tee on Labor has reported, favor-ably and unanimously, the Voor-his-Wagner resolution. It is now before the House for action and the strenous efforts made by some political leaders in the House to bury it have ended in failure.

Congressman Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House Committee on Labor, probably will ask the House Committee on Rules grant a special rule now for considera-tion of the resolution at a partic-ular time and under conditions which will provide for adequate debate. Congressman Jerry Voor-his, author of the House resoludebate. Congressman Jerry Voor-his, author of the House resolu-tion, prefers to have a rule estab-blished. Chairman Norton could attempt to shove the resolution through the House without a rule but, while that plan would save time, it might imperil the success of the entire effort.

time, it might imperit the success of the entire effort. Cooperators are entitled to much of the credit for the victory in the preliminary, but most import-ant, battle. The resolution was buried in the Committee on Labor. Mrs. Norton and every member of her committee favored it, but Speaker Sam Rayburn, boss of the Democratic party in the House, desired to keep the resolution in the Committee. A speaker usually dominates committee chairmen. Committee chairmen, who are, act-ually, sectional party leaders, must obey the Speaker and the Demo-cratic floor leader, or risk their political positions. Mrs. Norton, convinced beyond any question that this resolution should be ap-proved, risked her political posi-tion by opening the door for her committee to act and the commit-tee acted without hesitation. Ray-hurn still has tremendous power tee acted without hesitation. Ray-burn still has tremendous power. He can put all kinds of obstacles in the path of this resolution - as in the path of this resolution - as he already has - unless coopera-tors and others continue to make it clear to their Congressmen that this resolution must be passed. Cooperators, and leaders in the religious organizations, as well as some leaders of labor organiza-tions, began to write their Con-gressmen several weeks ago and the force behind the resolution be-came impressive. "We have never had so much

"We have never had so much support for a bill or resolution from able and intelligent people as we have had for this one," said a member of the House Committee. "This has been a remarkable show-ing We have never score conthing ing. We have never seen anything like it."

It was that showing of interest which enabled Mrs. Norton to carry the unanimous vote of her com-mittee into the House in support mittee into the House in support of the measure. When members of the Commit-tee on Labor were asked what the next step should be, they said, "Carry on. Everyone interested in this resolution should admire what Mrs. Norton has done and should assure her of support Your should assure her of support. Your members should write their Congressmen now to tell them to support Mrs. Norton before the Com-mittee on Rules of the House and they should send Mrs. Norton or Congressman Voorhis a copy of their letter. You can win this fight you want to and it may most important fight made in the public interest."

Kindergarten Expects To Enroll 200 by Fall

A temporary solution to the crowded school conditions has been reached insofar as the kindergar-ten is concerned by converting the Hobby Room to kindergarten use. Although the present enrollment of 5 year olds has thus been taken care of, there still exists the prob-lem of accomodating those who will be 5 years old before January 1, 1943.

will be 5 years old before January 1, 1943. Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer, tenant selection head, said Monday that out of the 300 new homes already occupied, 30 children will be eli-gible for kindergarten in Septem-ber. "On this basis," said Mrs. Kinzer, "the remaining 700 homes should produce 70 additional child-ren for this class, which, together with the expected 90 from original Greenbelt residents, will bring the total to nearly 300." The present class has started a

The present class has started a project of home building. An in-door Victory garden has been started by the children in conjunc-tion with the home project.

America has always been a land of "success stories"—a land where small beginnings lead to great developments-your Co-op is one of these, and you should be proud of the part you have played in it.
