

New Auxiliary Police Class To Start Tonight

A new auxiliary police training class will start tonight, Friday, February 19th, at 7:30 in the Fire House, according to an announcement made by Auxiliary Police Chief Buddy Attick last Monday night. Because of the many vacancies existing in this defense unit's ranks, Chief Attick urgently requested that all residents interested in taking this training be at the Fire House tonight.

The new class will also serve as a refresher course to many of the former auxiliary police and everyone desirous of learning more about the duties of the auxiliary police force are invited to be present at the first meeting of the group. Police Officer Robert Dove will instruct this class and will deliver a brief address pertaining to police procedure.

Servicemen Wanted

Men in the armed forces who cannot officially join a civilian defense unit but who may be useful as instructors of demobilization or military organization classes are requested to contact Chief Attick or Commander Arthur Rysticken.

Residents of the new areas of Greenbelt are urged to attend this first auxiliary policemen class, as many men are needed for the defense home areas.

Legion Donates Flag

Thanks to the American Legion, Post No. 136, Greenbelt High now owns two standard sized flags, an American Flag and a Maryland State Flag. The gift was presented for use in the Victory Corps during drilling and demonstrations.

Greenbelt Directory To Appear Shortly

A town directory will be available for Greenbelters shortly after the last houses in the northern part of town are filled, Dr. James McCarl promised this week.

Some months ago the local American Legion post made arrangements with the town administration office for the publishing of the new directory. The names, addresses and phone numbers will be taken from town office records.

Readable print is going to be used, Dr. McCarl said, in describing the book. A durable cover is planned, and a picture of the Elementary School will be included. Consideration is being given to the possibility of publishing a map in the book.

Special Section

Besides a listing of all residents, the directory will offer special pages of town information needed for general use.

Besides Dr. McCarl, who is chairman, there are on the committee Allen Morrison, Roy S. Braden, Tom Freeman, and E. H. Estes.

Greenbelt has had three town directories in its five-year history. The first one was published by the Cooperator in January 1938. In January 1940 the Mothers' Club put out a second edition. The most recent was issued August 20, 1941 by the mothers of the Nursery School.

Ride Wanted

If some civic-minded Greenbelters with a kind heart and an automobile will leave Cooperator copy at the print shop on his way to work and pick up proofs on his way home several times a week the staff can continue to give you your paper free every Friday night as usual.

Since the editors and most of the staff either work in Greenbelt or ride the bus we are facing a transportation crisis for the town paper.

Last autumn we were forced to call for volunteers for this task and we appreciated the help which several of our neighbors gave. Now here we are again. Please call C. M. George, phone 6827, and say you will.

The names of any students who have earned these grades and whose report cards are not yet in will appear later.

High School P-TA Continues Meetings

Transportation difficulties notwithstanding, the High School Parent-Teachers Association decided at its last monthly meeting that the Association would meet regularly on the second Tuesday of each month. Everyone present agreed with the decision, after considerable discussion.

Thomas K. Freeman, president, appointed a "ways and means" committee to help raise money for the P-T. A. In this way the organization hopes to be able to contribute toward some of the high school needs. The committee includes the following:—Mrs. Elmer Nagle, Mrs. Harry Bates, Mrs. Salvatore Gussio, Mrs. Swales, and Mrs. Burke.

Foreign Letter Read

Mrs. Dykstra, vice president and program chairman, read a letter which she had received from her husband concerning his trip from Cairo to Calcutta. Considerable interest was shown in what he had to say about the various cities, their customs, and living conditions. Mr. Dykstra is now continuing work in Chungking.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 9. The program is now being planned by Mrs. Dykstra and refreshments will be served.

Local Administrators Attend Training School

Members of the local administrative staff who are employed in supervisory capacities are attending "school" this week in order to learn how to better train employees in their various departments. The class is being taught by Paul Gard, of the Civil Service Commission.

Another group of local Town and Federal employees will attend the classes next week.

The course is being given in Federal agencies with the cooperation of the Manpower Commission as a part of the effort to utilize employees to the best advantage.

March 1—Date for New Town Office Service

Although an exact date cannot be given, it is expected by town officials that the 24-hour telephone service in the administration office will be installed about the first of March. Information as to how to call the operator and what calls will be taken at the switchboard will be given to the local paper for publication prior to March 1st.

Red Cross Class Meets

The first meeting of the new Red Cross home nursing class was held Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the office of the Public Health Nurse, 2 A Gardenway.

Mrs. Stouffer stated that there is room for a few more enrollees in the class.

No Hope for New School, Says Braden

It now seems quite certain that there is no hope for a new elementary school nor for an addition to the present building during the current school year, according to Town Manager Roy S. Braden.

This announcement was made following a meeting with Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools. Mrs. Catherine T. Reed, principal of the local school, and Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer, director of the local department of adult education, also attended the conference.

Mr. Braden said that although the elementary school is greatly overcrowded it is still not operating at 200 per cent capacity as it probably will be before the semester is over. Classes will continue to run on a double shift schedule.

Disposal of Metal Scrap Nets $72

Last week Greenbelt's heap of scrap metal gathered last autumn was finally hauled away by the scrap dealer holding the contract with the Prince Georges County Civilian Defense organization.

Arthur Rysticken, local civilian defense commander, announced that the sale of the salvaged metal has established a $72 for the Greenbelt Civilian Defense Corps, to be used against the next order of equipment and supplies for this community.

Information made available to the Cooperator covered the sale of metal scrap exclusive of some aluminum and rubber which was known to have been collected.

The town's tin can collections took a turn for the better last Friday morning with 2630 pounds of cleaned and flattened cans picked up and sold in Washington.

Hospital at Cheverly Approved by W.P.B.

Announcement this week that the War Production Board has approved construction of a county hospital in Greenbelt, according to Roy S. Braden, Community Manager. At one time Greenbelt was being considered as a site for the county hospital.

Meanwhile Greenbelt at present has a separate application for authority to construct local hospital facilities pending before the U. S. Public Health Administration where it was submitted by Mr. Braden early in January. County and town authorities worked in conjunction in surveying hospital needs, and the institution at Cheverly was not designed to meet Greenbelt's needs, he declared.

The new hospital at Cheverly will be of 100-bed capacity, and will be known as Prince Georges County Hospital. It is estimated to cost $612,000.

Ration Book No. 2 For Consumers Will Be Distributed Next Week At Greenbelt Elementary School

Ration book No. 2 will be distributed Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, February 24, 25, and 26, at the Greenbelt Elementary School. The hours of registration will be from 9:00 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. each day.

The registration will be facilitated if all who possibly can will register according to the following alphabetical groups, Principal Paul Barnhart advised.

Wednesday—A to I

Thursday—J to R

Friday—S to Z

All classes will be suspended on the above dates so that the teachers will be free to issue the ration books. However, classes will be in session Monday and Tuesday for all grades.

Bring Book No. 1

The person who registers for each family should bring with him Ration Book One for each member of his household. He should know the number of pounds of coffee owned on November 28, 1942, and the number of cans of commodities coming under the new rationing which his family owned on February 21, 1943. Stocks in excess of one pound of coffee per person over fourteen on their ration books, and five cans per person in the household will have to be declared. The form of the declaration is carried by most daily papers and may be studied there.

Under the point rationing system each can or jar of fruits, vegetables, juices, soups, and a package of dried fruits will have an announced "point value"—the same in all stores. The shopper will be able to buy just a certain number of "points' worth" for each member of the household during a specified time. Newspapers, radios, and the stores themselves will publicize the details as soon as they are announced.

Good Supply

The Food Stores have a good and varied supply of these commodities with which to start the rationing, according to Thomas B. Ricker, general manager of Greenbelt Consumer Services. The inventories the stores will be allowed to carry in the future, however, will be limited by the O. P. A. on the basis of the number of points taken in by the stores during the month of March. This means that the more points are spent in the Co-op during the first month of rationing, the larger the inventory Greenbelt shoppers will have to choose from in the following months.

The Consumer Information Group of the Co-op is organizing to explain the point rationing system to all residents. These women will be at the school during the peak hours of registration and at the stores during the first week of rationing to answer all questions.

To do the job more thoroughly as many as twenty-five more volunteers could be used. All those interested are urged to meet with the group at 8 o'clock next Monday night, February 22, in the Credit Union room over the Drug Store.

50 Men Attend Athletic Club Open House

Approximately 50 Greenbelt men attended an open house held at the Athletic Club Wednesday night.

New residents of town were guests of the club members for the event. Cards were played and refreshments served before a warm blaze in the fireplace.

President L. M. Sanders was in charge of the affair.

Elementary School P-T. A. Honors Founders

The Elementary School P-T. A. will celebrate Founders Day at its monthly meeting Monday evening, at 8 p. m. in the Auditorium. After the business session is completed a pantomime will be given to commemorate the founding of the association.

High School Play Cast Announced

On March 3rd and 4th, the Greenbelt High School Dramatics Club will give its interpretation of the original Andy Hardy play, "Skidding". This play, written by Aurania Rouverol, is the one on which the first of the movie series was based.

The cast includes Barbara Dupuy as Mother Hardy; Ralph Jones as Judge Hardy; Robert Simmons as Andy; and Marion Ball, Nancy Lou Medley and Jerry Andrus as Andy's older sisters. Aunt Milly is played by Leah Sauer; Grandpa Hardy by James Anzulovic. Joe Cashman takes the part of the Judge's campaign manager, Oscar Stubbins. Wayne Trenton, Marion Hardy's fiance, is played by Harold Kidder.

The students expect the many friends of the Hardy family to enjoy the play. Admission will be 15 cents for children and 35 cents for adults. Tickets will be on sale this week.

Recreation Dept. Sponsors Dance

A dance for soldiers from the Beltsville Ordnance School will be held tomorrow night following a basketball game at the Elementary School under the sponsorship of the Recreation Department, Ben Goldfaden, director, announced this week.

About 75 service men are expected to be guests for the occasions. Girls will attend by invitation.

Preceding the dance, from 8 to 9 p. m., the Greenbelt High School basketball team will play a fraternity team from the University of Maryland. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 p. m.

Refreshments will be donated by the Women's Club. Van Camp's Orchestra will provide the music.

Feeder Band Registers Tonight and Next Friday

Registrations for the Feeder Band will be received in room 225 of the Elementary School this evening and next Friday evening from 7:30 to 9:00, according to S. Hartford Downs, president of the Parents Board.

Final assignments of instruments will not be made till all registrations are in. Mr. Downs expressed the desire that all registrations be completed as soon as possible so the band can be organized and begin practicing.

Parents are requested to accompany the children to register.

Tires Start Rolling Back

Consumers with rationing certificates have a chance now to apply to tire dealers for those extra tires that were turned in when people registered for gasoline.

Some 10 million tires of good, bad and indifferent quality went into the government's stock pile. About half have been found to be unusable except as scrap. Many others, needing repair, are being put in the best possible condition for redistribution. Starting immediately, usable tires are being routed back to tire dealers where they can be purchased by holders of certificates.

Your local War Price and Rationing Board at Hyattsville will tell you whether or not you are entitled to a certificate.

'Here Is Tomorrow'

We of Greenbelt should be more aware than other persons of the promises of the world of tomorrow, living as we do in the tradition of the social, economic and political democracy of this nearly unique community.

Greenbelt represents a number of advances toward the community of tomorrow, particularly in the directions of adequate housing standards, functional city planning, and democratically controlled business enterprises.

However, there is some feeling that the people in the new defense area do not belong to the community in the sense that residents of "old" Greenbelt do. This is unfortunate, and does not represent a true situation.

Our new residents, even though they may know that they are here only temporarily, should feel prompted and invited to learn the real significance of Greenbelt through joining and supporting community activities.

The more generally the new people can be brought into the life of Greenbelt while they are here, the more extensive and constructive will be our influence in shaping the pattern of the community of tomorrow.

Tire Inspection

We are glad to learn that application has been made to have the the Greenbelt Service Station designated as a tire inspection station. Car owners—there are about 600 of them in town—have been grumbling for weeks about the inconvenience of having to go to College Park or Hyattsville for the necessary service.

In a town off the main highway and possessing only a single service station it is particularly necessary that adequate inspection and rationing registration facilities be provided. The people of Greenbelt have tried to be patient during the hectic early days of war restrictions, even when some of the requirements meant taking time off from war jobs and making numerous long trips to Hyattsville. Now that the trial and error period is past we are looking forward to better attempts by the County rationing board. Issuing gas ration books during evening hours is the sort of convenience we have in mind. This arrangement proved very welcome to local motorists. Designation our Greenbelt Service Station as an official tire inspection station would be another example of attention to the needs of the County's communities.

An Appraisal

Under a heading "Co-Ops Win Air," the magazine "Business Week" of February 13, states in part—

"Since its beginning in the United States, the cooperative movement has fought such stigmas as radicalism and communism, has sought recognition as a $700,000,000 a year business rather than as a political ideology. Now the Cooperative League of the U.S.A. (has launched) a series of coast-to-coast Sunday afternoon radio programs, significant chiefly because in allowing subsidiary stations to sell time to the co-ops, the major radio networks indicate acceptance of co-ops' economic rather than political status."

Timber! Here Comes a Member!

Remember what I said last week about keeping up the trapeze swinging and cat lashing so we could put on a good show next January? And you weren't just sure of what I meant or how you could qualify for an animal trainer? Well, this is the dope, and I ain't kiddin'. Board meetings are generally open to members, at least they are in this man's town. And what's more, the board members would be darn glad to see you. From what they tell me, you don't suddenly become a seventh daughter of a seventh daughter when you are elected to a board, and there are plenty of times when a little mind reading would come in handy, only nobody can do it. And that, friends, is where you come in. Go along down to a meeting and listen to what goes on, and if you have any ideas, speak up. They'll not only listen to you but will greet you like manna from heaven. They're always glad to have somebody to pass the buck to, even if it's only a member. If you don't know when the meetings are, (and I confess I don't, either. That's the kind of a cat lasher I've been) call up the GCS office or the GHA office and find out. I'm going to do it, and that's fair warning to you boards. You'll see a lot of my face from now on. See you at the meetings, neighbor.

What's Cooking?

Bless their hearts, those cute little seniors at the High School. Out gunning already with their cakes and cookies. Any of you gay young bloods who've been admiring long eyelashes and lipstick can get your chance to see how she can cook. They're putting on a bake sale in the Food and Variety Stores Saturday morning. And you young rug cutters who've been counting on the jive to fix you for life, better whip up something nice for the event. You'll be nice to come home to when you've got a little flour on your cheek and a cake in the oven.

P.-T. A. celebrates its Founders Day Monday, 8:00 p. m. in the auditorium of the Elementary School. With pantomime and pleasure. All you parents please note. Nothing your child likes better than to have you attend the P.-T. A.

Place to Gripe

Council meets Monday night, in the Council Room (over the Food Store, newcomers). Something you don't like about this town? That's the place to air it. And even if you don't have a gripe, it's a mighty good place to brush up on your cat lashing.

Poor Hattie. Man am I glad I don't have to do the marketing! spend hours trying to wonder what became of that last quarter she let me have for spending money, and going through my pockets looking for it. What on earth would I do with a point system ration book? You know they're coming up, but soon. I have been formally notified that "Ration Book No. 2 will be issued Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, February 24, 25 and 26, at the Elementary School." So there you have it.

Reason for Costumes

Remember I told you about the Hebrew Ladies Auxiliary planning a masquerade box party? Well, now it comes. Saturday night, at 8:30 in the Home Ec Room. Everybody in costume. But why? Why, I ask you? Is it that the poor cooks will have a chance to dress up like Cleopatra and get their boxes chosen by a handsome man dressed like Mark Anthony, and nothing said about who cooked up this box? Or is it to spare the feelings of people who are found by the police, writhing in a gully with acute indigestion. It always sounds better for Mr. John Doe to have it appear in print that "a gentleman dressed as Napoleon was discovered in extremis on Ridge Road" than to have it said that "John Doe was picked up by the police in a bad state on Ridge Road". So much less embarrassing, and so much less likely to lead to gossip. Don't you think?

All fooling aside, I don't know a single lady in the Auxiliary who isn't a good cook, so if you are picked up by the police after the party, John Doe, we'll all know why. And you ought to be ashamed, you glutton.

Elderly Resident Recalls Early Years on 89th Birthday

By ANNE HULL

The lady who is probably Greenbelt's oldest resident celebrated her 89th birthday last Friday. A friendly little blue-eyed woman, she makes a home at 5 Woodland Way for her son and herself. She likes her Greenbelt house very much, except that the windows are placed too high for her to see out when she sits in her chair. "Maybe I'm more curious that I ought to be," she remarks with a twinkle.

Mrs. Michael Jamison comes of pioneer stock, her father, William Brent, being one of the first settlers in Warren County, Illinois. As a young girl she had the privilege of studying under Frances Willard, the famous suffragette, who had a preparatory school for girls in Abingdon at the time. Mrs. Jamison looks back on this experience as "one of the bright spots" in her life. She remembers arriving at the school "a green bumpkin of a girl" and being served a supper of baked potatoes and boiled onions at the dormitory, or "rest cottage".

Put On Honor Roll

Girls at Miss Willard's whose conduct needed no correction for a month were put on an Honor Roll. If they maintained this position for three months they were put on a "Self Government List" and given privileges and responsibilities. Mrs. Jamison, who was then Velma Brent, made the self government list within her first three months at the school, and felt her prestige keenly. It so happened that a married friend of Miss Willard, mother of several sons, who was living in Abingdon, was very critical of the strictness with which Miss Willard ran her establishment. She invited some of the girls to a mixed party at her home, promising them that she would see to it they were not expelled for staying out till after 10, which was the rule. Mrs. Jamison was one of the lucky girls to be invited to the party, and she was also the only one who left her "escort" and hurried back to the rest cottage to meet the deadline. "I can still see the hurt look in Miss Willard's eye when she found out about the party," says Mrs. Jamison. "Of course she couldn't expel the large group of girls who attended, but she gathered them together and spoke to them. I don't know what she said, but Miss Willard could make a girl feel very small indeed." Mrs. Jamison remembers her famous teacher chiefly as an inspiring presence rather than as a disciplinarian, however.

Memorizes Easily

Of her own scholastic ability Mrs. Jamison remarks that it was always easy to memorize pieces, but hard to work examples. She recalls that she always won the prize at Sunday School for learning the most Scripture verses. Her first Bible was a Sunday School prize. The superintendent gave her a choice among Bibles with black, brown, and red covers. "Of course I chose a red one," she smiles.

Varsity-Faculty Games To Girls And Men Teachers

The High School-Faculty games went no different than the eight or nine previously played double-headers, to wit: boys lose and girls win, by 30 to 26 and 26-11, respectively.

The first game was a walk-away for the girls. They piled up an 18 to 6 score by half time and coasted home with the second team playing more than they are accustomed.

Both Coaches High

The girls' coach, Rose Nudo, was high scorer against them, looping the hoop for seven points. Ora Donoghue, Fay Friedman and Marion Benson were high for the Varsity. Betty Simcoe played well and contributed 4 points.

Mary Engstrom, of the losers, Florence Raum and Marian Ball did clever guard duty in the fracas.

12 Points for Eshbaugh

Mahlon Eshbaugh tied his coach for high scoring honors in the second game with 2 points. Young Mahlon's were by way of half a dozen flips from the floor while Coach Goldfaden coupled two freebies with his 5 from the floor.

Pete Labukas also had 5 successful shots for 10 points and second high honors and Paul Barnhart shoved home 7 to account for all of the male faculty's tallies save a lone free shot by Sheldon.

Jim Scordellis, Donnie Wolfe and Allan Gillen backed up Eshbaugh with not quite enough points to win, 4, 4 and 3 respectively.

Moonlight Ice-Skating

Greenbelt Lake was officially opened to ice-skaters for the first time this season Thursday night, and a full moon added to the scene enjoyed by a large number of persons.

Three and one-half inches of ice were reported on the eastern end of the lake by George F. Panagoulis, director of public safety.

Petite Ora Donoghue has already eclipsed Helen Voellner's scoring record of last season. The swift little forward has scored 145 points as against 120 for last year's Grizzliette star. Ora may reach Bob Egl's high mark for a new school record before the season is over.

The other half of the girls' scoring punch is supplied nearly evenly by Marion Benson and Betty Dickson with 77 and 76 points to date.

Grizzliette manager Louise Ritter reports that in going back through the book to get at all the scorers she finds that Fay Friedman and Betty Simcoe have tallied 8 points apiece. Lois Forrester, now excellent guard duty, has scored 4 points.

Secretary Eddie Eymon, of the Washington Senators Baseball Club, has indicated that the Senators could well afford to play our Shamrocks a series of games during the Major League spring training season. The Senators will occupy Maryland University facilities for their limbering up festivities and will be practically neighbors to the Shamrocks.

Efforts are still being spent in the direction of obtaining the Griffmen's last year's home uniforms for Shamrock use this coming season.

Pete Lubukas worked last Monday and then left for home. He will be inducted into the Army February 23. Pete's move is the third exit from the recreation department. He follows Vince Holchvost and Johnny Picco into the armed services of our country.

Goldfaden's Harrisburg pro job folded under him when the league disbanded last week. Too many players were being drafted and the transportation troubles were piling up.

Outlaws Win 14th, Tie For High Set; Bowman Rolls 385

The Greenbelt Athletic Club Bowling League's Outlaws have swept four matches in as many weeks since taking two out of three from the Dodgers five weeks ago, making a neat record of 14 wins in the last 15 games. Their victim of February 16 was the American Legion.

Beat Legion. Tie Mark

In conquering the Legion the lawless lads turned on the steam and tied the former's high team set mark at 1,652. Frank Lastner's creditable 349 set was shaded by the efforts of Al Scheaffer and Ben Goldfaden, who rolled home 347 sets to aid the winning cause. Lloyd McEwen was not up to his high class standard but was spelled nicely by the above pair.

Corner Del struck back at the Eagles, with Al Bowman in the saddle, to cop two games and a measure of vengeance and leave the Eagles but two games in front of the marauding Outlaws. "Brownie" put together games of 147, 106 and 132 for a 385 set, good enough to tie Jim Wolfe's long-standing high set mark recently topped by Lloyd MacEwen by a pin.

Jim Mathers made the Commandos "holler uncle" with a 350 set as his Co-Opers snatched three games from the erstwhile second place holders to bring their own record back to the .500 mark.

Barons Are Sly

While so much fuss has been stirred up over the creditable performance of the Eagles, Outlaws and the rest of the upper crust the Barons have been quietly going along winning games to the extent that they are now in 8th place.

Five weeks ago, when the Outlaws started their spectacular spree, the Barons were in last place! Eddie Timmons' 351 set aided their cause against the Dodgers this time.

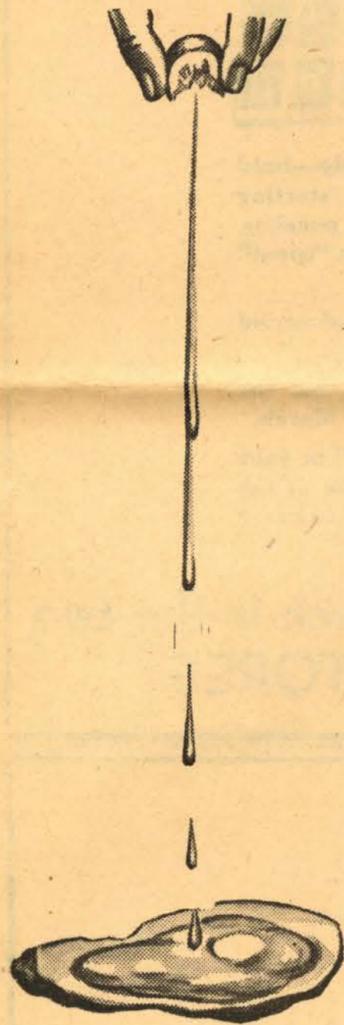

Frank Lastner's and Al Bowman's good night edged them ahead of Harold Estes and just back of Lloyd MacEwen in the league averages. Lastner also went ahead of the list in the matter of spares with 138 and is but one strike from the lead in that department.

Gabfest

The league is going to hold a membership meeting at the club house on Friday night, February 26. Plans for the bowling party will be discussed. The rule prohibiting teams from adding men to their rosters after the start of the second half will be the subject of much debate. Reason for such is the fact that so many men have left and are leaving Greenbelt due to the war crisis.

Glasgow Tallies For Navy Yard O.E.M. On Beam

Now that the Yankees have been broken up (by age and not to the demands of prejudiced baseball people), it is likely that the boys around the gym on Thursday nights will take up the cry to "Break up O. E. M." in a basketball sense, of course.

"Touchdown" Twins

Behren and Ramsdell sparked their Office of Emergency Management team to a second-half, curtain-raiser victory over the Aces of Berwyn. Behren tallied 11 points, and Ramsdell marked up one less in their 26 to 19 conquest.

Ray Glosgow, a right-handed Shamrock pitching aspirant, led the Navy Yard Builders to their maiden league victory by 26-21 over the Athletic Club. Big Ray chalked up 15 points to be the evening's high score artist.

Glenn Wilbur's Navy Department five downed the Old Liners 23 to 19 on the strength of Dick Richardson's bakers' dozen of points.

14 for Laden

Laden went one up on Ricardson's mark as his Greenbelt High Alumni downed the Co-Opers by 38 to 25. Bob Egli supported with 9 points to match Paul Barnhart's high for the losers.

Other players with busy scoring nights were Rabenhorst, A. C. 9, Schaeffer, A. C. 7, Smith, Aces 6, Blanchard, Maryland 9, Blacker, Navy Department 6 and Sheldon, Co-Opers 6.

Elderly Resident

her second year at Miss Willard's. "I never regretted my marriage", Mrs. Jamison asserts, "But I have regretted not getting more of Miss Willard."

Mr. and Mrs. Brent gave to their daughter and son-in-law an 80 acre farm, which they planted and managed together, and where were spent the "happiest and the saddest days of my life." Her husband died before the birth of their seventh child and at the insistence of relatives the young widow sold the stock and rented the place, though she would have preferred staying on and running it herself. When the children grew older she kept them in school by acting as companion and nurse for various elderly persons.

Today Mrs. Jamison has four daughters and one son living, five grandchildren, and one great grand-daughter, a girl of 15 whom she has never seen, who lives out in Montana and rides horseback five miles each day to school. She writes frequently and has promised her great-grandmother a picture.

Mrs. Jamison's most recent adventure was a three year stay in the Philippines with a daughter and son-in-law who were sent out by the Bureau of Education some years ago to build up the school system. Nowadays she doesn't get around very much, but she enjoys reading, a bit of sewing, and a few radio programs. "The Christian Advocate", "The Upper Room", and "Readers Digest" are her favorite publications, and on the radio she especially enjoys the Church of the Air and Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Before the reporter left Mrs. Jamison repeated her mother's favorite poem, and in reference to her own infirmities quoted a bit from the Book of Job. "Come back and see me again", urged this friendly little woman who has met life with courage and with patience.
