

New Rooms Made In Fire House Alterations

Alterations were being made this week to the rear of the fire-house to provide additional facilities for police and civilian defense activities.

Provided in the plans are new police headquarters, a civilian defense conference room, a new storage room for fire apparatus, and an office for the director of public safety.

The new police headquarters will include a squad room, the 24-hour switchboard, fingerprinting facilities and files, and a general storage room.

The civilian defense conference room will be the meeting place for the regular periodic conferences of the block wardens and will contain the air-raid warning controls.

The work is scheduled to be completed within about three weeks.

Local Catholics Forming Sodality

A group of Catholic women met at the home of Mrs. Herbert Brien, 2-Q Gardenway, Monday evening, March 15, to form a Sodality, in order to give the Catholic women of Greenbelt a stronger spiritual unity.

Before the election of officers, a general discussion was had as to the program of the organization. Many suggestions were advanced for constructive activities to be carried on in the future. It was definitely decided to inaugurate a sewing project, to aid the Chaplains who are leaving our country during this war. Women interested in this work have divided into four groups. They will meet March 29, at the following places: Mrs. Loftus, 7-J Crescent Road; Mrs. Castaldi, 11-V Ridge Road; Mrs. Murray, 6-N Hillside, Mrs. McConnell, 73-A Ridge Road.

Anyone who is not at the meeting, but who is interested in sewing is invited to meet at any of the above addresses at the above date. All materials will be furnished by the Sodality.

Officers elected for the coming few months are: Mrs. J. P. Murray, 6-N Hillside Road, Prefect; Mrs. F. J. McConnell, 73-A Ridge Road, and Mrs. C. R. Tuvell, 11-D Laurel Hill Road, Assistant Prefects.

The next election of officers will take place in May. The Sodality meets the first Monday after the first Sunday of the month in Room 224 of the Elementary School.

All women interested are cordially invited.

Plane Spotter Head Leaves

Mrs. James W. Schultheis resigned last week as official instructor of the Aircraft Warning Service in Greenbelt. Before leaving, Mrs. Schultheis recommended a few persons who she thought were eligible to fill the vacancy, but up to this writing, no one has been chosen. Since joining the A.W.S. last May, Mrs. Schultheis devoted a great deal of time and effort to the post.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultheis, residents of Greenbelt for the past five years, left Greenbelt to take up residence in Flagstaff, Arizona, as a result of Mr. Schultheis' transfer to a field office of his government agency. Upon leaving, Mrs. Schultheis expressed the desire to resume her work with the A.W.S. as soon as she was settled in her new home.

Greenbelters Wed In Berwyn Ceremony

Miss Marita Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Freeman of Greenbelt, became the bride of Lieutenant Stanley J. Provost in a marriage solemnized Wednesday morning by Father Finley in the Rectory of the Holy Redeemer Church at Berwyn.

Following the ceremony the party went to the Roger Smith Hotel in Washington for wedding breakfast.

Miss Varina Craig served as maid of honor, and Lynn Ashley was best man.

Lt. Provost is the son of Mrs. M. D. Provost of Greenbelt. Both the bride and groom were graduated from Greenbelt High School in 1939. Lt. Provost is to be stationed at Camp Blanding near Jacksonville, Florida, where he will go following a wedding trip. His bride will join him there in April.

University Women's Chorus Sings Sunday

The Women's Chorus from the University of Maryland will present a program in the Elementary School auditorium this Sunday evening. The group was invited to Greenbelt by the Community Church and will begin its program at 8 p. m.

Dr. Harlan Randall directs the chorus and will sing several solos. Other numbers will include piano duets and selections on the vibroharp. The chorus is composed of 35 voices.

Barrel Garners Stockings

A barrel has been placed in the Variety Store for the collection of old silk and nylon stockings. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Greenbelt Post of the American Legion provided the barrel and will use any stockings collected for defense purposes.

Branchville Men Give This Area 24-Hour Service

In these times of rationed gas and expensive ambulance service, the services of a group such as the Branchville Rescue Squad are inestimable. A Greenbelt woman was recently stricken with appendicitis. Her husband called an ambulance company which quoted a prohibitive rate, so he asked the operator to send the Rescue Squad, which got the woman to the hospital just in time and refused any remuneration.

Organized in 1939
This Rescue Squad was organized as a branch of the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad in 1939. It was one of the first of its kind in the world and covers the largest amount of territory for any one squad in the county. Its territory ranges from the Montgomery County line in the south to the eastern side of Greenbelt, Coltail Hill above the University of Maryland and as far north as Muirkirk Bridge above Beltsville. It renders 24 hour service to this area.

Dr. Leonard of Riverdale organized the rescue squad which has 48 Red Cross trained, licensed drivers, all of whom hold regular jobs and volunteer time to the emergency squad. The association has two ambulances fully equipped with cots, stretchers, inhalators, splints, etc. The men are called to the fire house by a siren.

Before gas rationing the group answered a large number of accident calls but has had comparatively few in recent months.

No Salaries Paid
The rescue squad is financed entirely by donations, charitable bequests, benefits, etc. The county gives $1000 annually for equipment; no salaries are paid.

The dance being held in Greenbelt tomorrow evening will contribute to this fund as an expression of appreciation for the service this squad is rendering Greenbelt.

Benefit Dance Aids Branchville Squad

The Branchville Rescue Squad will be the main beneficiaries from the proceeds of the dance being given by the Citizens' Association tomorrow night in the Elementary School Auditorium.

The Rescue Squad, which was organized in 1939, has served residents of Greenbelt on many occasions. It is financed entirely by contributions for a county appropriation of $1000 annually for equipment.

Dancing from nine to one will be to the music of "Van" Van Camp's new Greenbelt dance band. Other Greenbelt members of the band are Dick Althaus, Art Freda, Cleve Caviness and Al Alciban, with Dick Crooks imported for this dance.

Tickets at 50 cents may be obtained from any auxiliary fireman or policeman, or may be purchased at the door.

Proceeds from the refreshment concession to be operated by women of the Citizens' Association will be contributed to the American Red Cross War Fund.

Elementary P.-T. A. Meets Monday Night

The Elementary School Parent-Teachers Association will meet on Monday, March 21 at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium.

A short business meeting will be followed by a program commemorating Founders' Day. A skit will be given reviewing the six years of accomplishment of the Greenbelt P.-T. A.

A social hour will conclude the program. Mrs. Charles Henneberger will be in charge of refreshments.

Health Board Election

A. N. Gawthrop was elected president of the directors of the Health Association last night. Hyman Black was chosen vice president, and Mrs. Katherine Arness, secretary. Bill Moore resigned from the board.

Garden Limit Set at One To a Family

Only one garden plot will be assigned each applicant it was learned from Arthur L. Rysticken this week, due to the fact that about 300 more applications for gardens have been received than there is ground available.

There have been 862 requests for garden plots including 123 for two plots. There are only 565 available.

Those who hold permanent gardens may keep those they have registered since they have plowed and fertilized them entirely by themselves Mr. Rysticken said. The town takes care of these services on the assigned plots. Permanent garden holders, however, will not be allowed assigned plots along with their permanent ones.

Mr. Rysticken says another new plot of ground is being considered for gardens, but it is known the soil will not be as suitable as the ground which has been worked for several years.

County Initiates Consumer Courses

A program of special short courses on wartime consumer problems has been announced by the Prince Georges County Board of Education. A paid instructor will be provided for any group of six or more who wish to form a class.

In Greenbelt the courses will be sponsored jointly by the Adult Education Department and the Consumer Information Group of the Co-op. A meeting to organize the classes will be held Monday, March 22, at 3:30 in room 224 of the Elementary School. Mary Jane Kinzer at the Administration Office, Mary Trumbull at the G. C. S. Office, or Edna George of 3-D Laurel Hill Road, chairman of the Consumer Information Group, will be glad to answer any questions. The plan is to organize classes in different neighborhoods around town, wherever interest is shown, probably meeting in private homes.

How to adjust to new values in money, "points", and nutrition under rationing and wartime shortages; how to plan meals, market, and budget food in wartime; how to conserve food values in preparing, cooking, and canning foods, are the three units considered to be of most immediate interest. Each unit calls for three or more meetings of about two hours each with group discussion, actual group work, and well planned demonstrations.

The program differs from others offered in the county Adult Education Program in that an attendance of only six is required to form a class, that each unit is short—may have as few as three meetings, and that there is no fee charged. Existing women's groups such as sewing clubs, and bridge clubs may form classes.

All who are interested in forming a class or joining one should come to the meeting next Monday at the school. Anyone who would like to qualify as an instructor should get in touch with Mrs. Kinzer.

Garden Club Meets Monday

Ploughing, fertilizing and choosing seed will be the main topics of discussion at the Garden Club meeting at 8:30 Monday evening, March 22nd, in room 121 of the Elementary School.

Oscar Zoellner, president of the club, says the discussions will be planned to help club members use their victory gardens to the best advantage. New members will be accepted at the meeting.

Monday of this week was the last day for applying for gardens and for registering permanent gardens in the administration office. Arthur L. Rysticken, assistant community manager, says the office is in the process of assigning the gardens this week.

Thanks, Neighbors!

A "thank you note" from Greenbelt to the Branchville Rescue Squad will be presented in the form of cash proceeds from tomorrow evening's dance.

With the lack of hospital facilities locally, it has been necessary for many Greenbelters to call the rescue squad, chiefly for emergencies. Although those who do use this service sometime contribute a small sum for it, the expense of buying and maintaining the equipment is far greater than sums received.

None will question the value of this neighborly service. If you haven't already had its use—you may. So let's see you enjoying your contribution by attending tomorrow evening's dance.

So You're Having a Victory Garden!

By The Greenbelt Gardener

The severity of the food rationing program emphasizes the need for Victory Gardens and doubtless many Greenbelters are now planning to grow as many vegetables this year as possible. The novice will at once find many puzzling questions confronting him and even the gardener with some experience will need to make his production unusually efficient this year. A number of important preliminaries should be considered and consideration to certain details will avoid many disappointments. Even the most inexperienced person may expect to accomplish a great deal by securing reliable information and outlining a sensible and systematic program of action.

The standard garden plot for Greenbelt gardens is 50 x 50 feet. This is a reasonably generous area of the average family, and if the soil is well prepared and the season favorable, enough vegetables may be secured for the use of five or six people, plus a generous allowance for canning and fall or winter storage. Although the more intensive crops should be emphasized, there should be some room available for some of the vegetables which require more space such as sweet corn, pumpkins, and Irish or sweet potatoes.

No definite selection of vegetables to be grown can be given since the tastes and requirements of families vary. However, in all cases a map of the garden plan should be prepared and followed. The paper plan is highly important if proper succession and companion crops are to be grown to utilize the space to the greatest advantage during the whole season. The distance between the rows should vary for the different crops and these should be indicated on the map. The laying out of the plan on paper will also help avoid such errors as having a tall crop overshadow a low growing one in an adjacent row.

The amount of seed required for planting the various lengths of row desired in the garden may be calculated from tables given in the seed catalogs of some of the larger firms. The Extension Service of the University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland has an excellent free bulletin entitled "Victory Gardens" which may be obtained upon application. This bulletin is invaluable to every Maryland gardener in drawing up a plan for his individual garden. It also lists recommended varieties for vegetables to be grown in this area. This is an important consideration also since many excellent varieties are only suited for certain local soil or climatic conditions. Also some seedsmen list a good many quite inferior varieties of vegetables since they are in active demand by the older generation of gardeners who have grown particular sorts for many years.

Those who desire a fuller source of information will find "The Pocket Book of Vegetable Gardening" by Charles H. Nisley worth many times the small price of 25 cents. This book is on sale on the book rack of the Greenbelt Bus Station.

Seeds should be secured without delay. In a few lines there will probably be severe shortages this year, probably in carrot seeds, onion sets and some others, but the supply will be adequate on most items. In ordering from a mail order house remember that deliveries are often slow this year because of reduced staffs and therefore some of the seeds which need to be planted earliest might best be obtained locally. We may possibly find tomato or cabbage plants somewhat difficult to obtain at the proper time this year and therefore we suggest starting a few plants in window boxes or frames where practicable.

We suggest that the yellow varieties of vegetables such as sweet corn, turnips, and others be grown in preference to the white as much as possible since these have a higher content of vitamin A. The new tangerine colored variety of tomato, Jubilee, offered this year should be worth a trial for this reason. The high protein vegetables such as beans or peas should be emphasized this year also.

Select disease resistant varieties of vegetables as much as possible. We prefer the Marglobe or Rutgers Tomato for this reason. On soils where gardens have been made before, a variety of cabbage resistant to "yellows" disease may be advisable.

The average gardener will do well to avoid planting crops such as cauliflower or celery which require special attention for success. Certain crops require more attention in the matter of insect control than others, but since every garden with a full assortment of vegetables will require some dusting or spraying this is no reason for excluding any particular crop.

Some authorities advocate laying out the rows north and south to receive as much light as possible. At any rate the tall growing crops such as sweet corn should be planted at one side of the garden where they will not shade other rows. Crops which are on the garden area during the entire growing season should be grouped together and likewise the early crops which are removed to make space for the late planted crops. Typical examples of the early crops which are cleared off to make room for the later are spinach, radish, lettuce and green onions. These can be followed by cabbage or sweet corn and others. Companion crops are another method of saving space. In these a rapid maturing crop such as lettuce, radishes, spinach or kale is interplanted between a slow growing late crop. Remember also that succession plantings are needed with some vegetables such as radishes, beans, carrots, beets and others to assure a constant supply of the vegetable for use in the kitchen.

Local Historical Authority Has Her Own Eventful History

By Anne Hull

It's impossible to condense into one article all the adventures and activities of this issue's biographical subject. She depreciates her education, but has a working knowledge of French, German, Russian and Spanish. She has had broad medical training and experience, yet found time to practice archaeology on the side. Being a doctor's wife and consequent "slave to the telephone," besides mother of a lively little girl, has not kept her from writing a book, now almost completed. Lest anyone be in doubt, the lady's name is Fredericka Martin Berenberg, to be subsequently referred to by her usual title of "Freddy."

Social Worker

Our heroine comes from Cooperstown, New York, a place haunted by Indian lore and legends. "Anyone born there is a pushover for an arrowhead," explains Freddy, when asked how she first became interested in the ancient history of departed races. After high and a normal school training course she suddenly decided that social service work was her mission in life, and connected herself with Episcopal Trinity Church in New York City, under whose auspices she ran winter and summer recreational programs for underprivileged children in the neighborhood. A subsequent decision that she could better serve humanity as a nurse landed her in the training course at Christ Hospital in Jersey City. After graduation she served on the staffs of Bellevue, Fordham, and Lying-In Hospital of New York City.

In Spanish Civil War

The significance of world events was not passing her by, immersed as she was in nursing responsibilities. In 1934 after Hitler came into power, she became active in aiding Germans fleeing his political ideas and persecutions, and served on many anti-Nazi committees. In 1936 it was only natural that she was chosen by the Medical Bureau to Aid Spanish Democracy to accompany the first American Hospital Unit to Republican Spain. As Head Administrator she set up eight hospitals in this horribly war-torn country, and being Freddy, also found time to skim through the ruins of one old Roman town. After 14 dangerous, weary months of war nursing she returned to this country to go on a lecture tour to raise money for more medical aid. Then Barcelona fell. Freddy's efforts now were concentrated upon getting her friends safely out of Spain. As a member of the German American Committee for the victims of Fascism, she also continued to aid German refugees.

Freddy came to be the first superintendent of the newly opened Greenbelt Hospital in May, 1939, attracted by the prospect of living in a "cooperative" town, and intrigued by the problems inherent in setting up a hospital in units designed for private dwellings. (The hospital filled the two middle sections at 30

Local Students Enjoy Final Students' Concert

Twenty children from the fourth and fifth grades of the local elementary school journeyed to Constitution Hall on Saturday morning, March 13, with their teacher, Miss Clinard, to hear the final Students' Concert conducted by Dr. Hans Kindler. Hundreds of other children from Washington attended the concert. It is reported the children were thoroughly entertained by Dr. Kindler, who explained each piece in language they could understand. They especially liked excerpts from Carmen, Mozart's "Sleigh Ride," and "Polka" by Shostakovich. The concert included a real Scotchman dressed in complete Scotch regalia who marched through the hall playing his bagpipe.

Local Canteen Aids Beltsville Donors

Three members of the Greenbelt Canteen group served the blood donors and staff in Beltsville last Wednesday. The group expects to go to Beltsville every six or eight weeks. Last week they served approximately 83 donors plus the staff. Among those giving blood were several Greenbelt folks who work in Beltsville.

Members of the Greenbelt Canteen met last Thursday night with members of the other Canteens of Prince Georges County to discuss mutual problems.

Ridge Road, with the addition of the floor above Dr. McCarl's offices). In her free time Freddy investigated the early history of local Maryland, exploring old houses and hunting through dusty records. Her investigations came to the attention of the Maryland Historical Society, which accepted her into its membership in January, 1941.

Year In Alaska

While in Greenbelt Freddy had met and married Dr. Samuel Berenberg of the Health Association Staff, and accompanied him the following June to St. Paul in the Pribilof islands, when he accepted a position with the Bureau of Fisheries. St. Paul was the center of the United States fur seal industry. It and surrounding islands in the Aleutian chain were inhabited mostly by about 800 Aleuts, the last remaining representatives of their race, about whom little is known and less written. Having a baby in September did not prevent Freddy from delving eagerly into Aleut history, from ancient times into the modern era. Not content with studying Russian under the local Russian Orthodox priest, she also began a study of the Aleut language. Arctic scholars and explorers became her friends and guides: Ales Hrdlicka, authority on early Eskimos; Vilhjamur Stefansson, explorer and author, John Harrington, senior ethnologist of the Smithsonian Institute; Richard Geoghegan, Orientalist and one of the world's greatest linguists, an extraordinarily interesting old man living in Fairbanks, Alaska. When he heard that Freddy hankered to study Celtic, the tongue of her Irish forefathers, he immediately set about composing a glossary and grammar for her benefit, and sent Gaelic fairy stories to her through the mail, with special notes on idiomatic structures.

Writing Book

Anyone who has ever read one of Freddy's fascinating letters written from St. Paul is eagerly waiting an opportunity to peruse the book she now has in preparation. It will be an important contribution to our knowledge of the Aleuts, besides dealing with a region of peculiar interest to our country today, as parts of it are now occupied by landing parties of Japanese, whom the Army is attempting to dislodge. Freddy and her husband supervised construction of the first air raid shelter on the islands, designed for their hospital patients, and later helped evacuate the Aleut women and children, and most of the men, to the Alaskan mainland.

Friends of Freddy and Sam were overjoyed when they returned safely to Greenbelt last fall, Sam to resume his duties with the Health Association, Freddy to begin work on her book. When not at the Smithsonian, she may be found pounding away on her typewriter at 4 Woodland Way, surrounded by reference works ranging from "Alaskan Wild Flowers" to Congressional Reports on the Fur Seal Fisheries. The house is filled with seal teeth, walrus tusks, whale vertebrae, Eskimo handicraft both ancient and modern. Some day little Tobyanne will read in her mother's book how it all got there.

Switchboard Active

Telephone operators on the twenty-four hour shift report that "All's well" has been the order of the day, and night. The girls say that most of the calls come in to the switchboard during the periods just after office hours and after six o'clock in the morning.

Don't be a ten percent War Bond housewife if you can be a fifteen or even a twenty percent one.

OUR NEIGHBORS

So now Greenbelt's expecting triplets. Yes, indeed, tomorrow's the day. The Fred Merediths are moving into 4-H Laurel Hill Road tomorrow with their first, second and third children, all of which put in their initial appearance at the same time. Looks like Mrs. Meredith has her future cut out for her.

A friendly scribe sends the paper this note: "The immortal Shade of William Shakespeare, Esquire, must be evoked to describe doings on Woodland Way these days. Herkus Letkemann has essayed to reenact the drama of the 'Taming of the Shrew.' An impatient Petruchio, he has incarcerated his Katherina in a milk bottle to subdue her revolt against domestication more quickly. Katherina's imprisonment delights the neighbors as she is one of the culprits who has been tunneling under their lawns. Katherina is, in fact, a furry little busybody, known scientifically as the Maryland shrew or still more scientifically as Sorex fontinalis Hollister."

Mrs. Deutchmann, of Plateau Place, played fireman last Thursday when heat from an iron and hot ironing board caused nearby curtains to "go up in smoke" along with a couple pairs of women's hose. It was necessary for the carpenters and painters to do some repair work around a window frame near which the fire broke out, but the fire company was not called. It seems "junior" plugged in the iron and it got overly hot.

Mr. and Mrs. James Xavier Dowd, Jr., 46-M Ridge Road, announced that a son, Donald Eugene, was born on November 21, 1942, in Providence Hospital.

On January 17, a son, Alvin John, Jr., was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin John Wiegale, 4-E Plateau Place, at Providence Hospital, Washington.

Community Church

"What Crucified Christ" will be the theme of the sermon to be preached Sunday morning at 11:00 a. m. at the Community Church by Reverend Wilmer Pierce Johnston.

A nursery is provided on the second floor for all parents who leave their children while they worship.

At 9:30 a. m. the church school will meet. Ample provision is made for all who desire to spend a period in Bible study and worship.

The Men's Bible Class, taught by Mr. Roy S. Braden, the town manager, has volunteered to furnish the worship service for the Maundy Thursday Communion Service. This will be a pageant, the reproduction of Da Vinci's great painting, "The Last Supper". This will mean a considerable expense and much hard work for the class in preparation and is done as the class contribution to the Lenten and Easter program for the Church.

Mr. G. Byron Roshon has been elected choir director of the Community Church to take the place of Mr. Walter Slocomb, Jr., who has been transferred from Greenbelt to Boston. Rev. Johnston says that the church will miss Mr. Slocomb greatly as Director of Music, but is exceedingly fortunate in securing Mr. Roshon.

Monday at 8:00 p. m. the regular monthly meeting of the church school officers and teachers will take place at the church office at 8-B Parkway.

Hebrew Congregation

The Hebrew Congregation will meet in the Elementary School this evening at 8:30 p. m. A special service in which children of the Sunday School will dramatize the Book of Esther, has been planned. This will be followed by special readings from this Book by Emanuel Mohl. Everyone is urged to attend.

Library Report

The library report to Council for the month of February shows its facilities were used by 1,754 adults and 2,524 children. Also during the thirty day period, 3,743 books were circulated.

High School Court Season Ends With Boys, Girls in Thrillers

The Greenbelt High School's fourth annual All-Greenbelt-Night produced, among many other colorful events, two very stupendous basketball games. The first game brought together a pair of excellent girl teams, Montgomery-Blair and our Grizzlies; while the night cap saw Briarly Military Academy mixing it up with the Grizzlies.

The previously unbeaten champs of Montgomery county bowed to the locals by 32 to 31 while the boys were trimmed, 25-23. Both contests were decided in the final few seconds and were keenly played throughout.

Ora and Marion
Little Ora Donoghue played the best game of her career and accounted for 19 of her team's points; while Marion Benson, gathering momentum as she went along, contributed 11 points. Betty Dickson registered the other pair of points. Lois Forrester was Greenbelt's outstanding guard.

Shirley Noonan looped in 17 points to lead Blair. Betty Kemp sunk 10 points and Telma Rundvold made the remaining 4 for the losers. Betty Jane Turner played the best guard game for the visiting lassies.

Cool As Ice
As the game went into its closing moments the visitors were in front. Dickson's only tally brought the Green to one basket back at 27 to 29. Ora Donoghue's lay-up shot tied things up. Miss Rundvold's two-pointer gave Blair its last lead dangerously near the finish, only to be matched by Marion Benson's set shot that brought a bedlam of cheers from the large crowd.

Applause reached its height when Ora Donoghue sank a freebie after being fouled. The young ladies did what they had but remotely hoped to do, win over the much publicized Montgomery-Blair.

Brewer Goes Well
Donnie Brewer rose to stardom in the boys' scramble with Briarly, scoring 10 points against the Cadets. Jim Scordellis made 6 and Mahlon Eshbaugh 4 in their fine effort to win.

The team showed a real will to win that was barely thwarted in the very last moment of play on a conversion from a jump by Winny Lodge.

R. H. Bates Joins Army Air Force as Gunner

Richard H. Bates, another Greenbelt boy, is now in the Army Air Force at Miami Beach undergoing training as an aero machine gunner. Dick was active as a member of the Community church, the auxiliary fire squad, Sea Scouts, and was made a corporal in Co. 924 of the Md. Minute Men.

This and that about our All Greenbelt Night games.—

Our lassies had every reason in the world to fold completely when their favored guests pulled away from them by 18 to 11 midway in the contest, but they are not the folding type of kiddies. Ora Donoghue, Marion Benson and Bets Dickson coolly rammed home points while Doris Asher, Pat Bell and Lois Forrester check-reined the blond scorers of Blair.

Thelma Rundvold, Betty Kemp, Shirley Noonan and Co. were high in their praises of our smoothies.

Coach Rose Nudo and principal Paul Barnhart, acting for the hospitalized coach, Ben Goldfaden, awarded letters to the Greenbelt squads.

Doris Asher was signally honored when her mates chose her as captain for the victorious season. The girls had alternated captaincy in all the games until the final when they met to choose their favorite. Jim Scordellis has captained the Grizzlies all year.

Seniors playing their last games for the Green and White were Marion Benson, Lois Forrester, Flo Raum, Doris Asher, Patti Day, Vern Richards, Joe Cashman and Jim Scordellis. Team managers, Louise Ritter and Dickie Day, will also be graduated before next court season.

Lou Gerstel and the high school collaborated to give the winning lassies a delightful surprise in the awarding of neatly engraved gold basketballs to Miss Nudo and her varsity and Manager Louise Ritter.

Wooden stands from the softball field made a fine roost for the crowing section. Cheering punctuated each successful shot for the best such effort all season.

Speaking of cheering, the Montgomery-Blair kids really gave out with a unique Blair conga line cheer in the latin manner after rolling up their healthy lead at half time.

Donnie Brewer really went to town as the boys put up their best scrap all year before bowing by a close 23-25. Don registered 10 points, to the delight of his sailor brother, Jack, who was in the audience.

Mahlon Eshbaugh and Jim Scordellis gave forth commendable exertions toward a successful conclusion of an anemic season.

A Farm Bureau life insurance policy for each of your children can assure a good education and a fair start in life. It can help to develop character and the habits of thrift and savings plus an appreciation of the value of life insurance.

What finer token of love and esteem can you give your child than a Farm Bureau life insurance policy? There are several excellent plans to choose from—may I explain them to you soon?

Navy Shades O.E.M. 14-13; Leroy Clark Cages 16 Points

Glen Wilbur's Navy Department quintet assumed the role of giant killer March 11 when they succeeded where all other league teams had failed—they beat O. E. M. in a low scoring and until late, a one sided game, 14 to 13.

Richardson was the big poison to the first half champs by reason of his 8 points. Frank Geiermann's 5 points were the best accumulation for the losers.

In other games the Greenbelt High Alumni trounced Berwyn Aces by 41 to 14 while the Greenbelt Athletic Club and Maryland Alumni were taking forfeits from the Co-Opers and the Navy Yard Builders.

March 25 will bring together Navy Department vs Berwyn Athletic Club vs X-Hi; Maryland vs Co-Opers; Navy Yard Builders vs O. E. M.

Leroy Clark was the big drive in the power-house upset of Berwyn by the X-Hi boys. The slim, army-bound Clark exhibited the kind of basketball that he played as a Grizzly a couple of years ago in running up the biggest score yet made in the recreation league.

Outlaws On Top After Long Fight Trim Eagles 2-1

The Outlaws clipped the Eagles' wings last week to take over first place by pin margin from their victims in the Greenbelt Athletic Club Bowling League. The Birds took the first game but just didn't have it in the next two. The Rivals are tied for first in the matter of games, won and lost, but pinfall makes the new leader.

The Jesse James lads moved into first place without the services of their captain. Big Ben Goldfaden was taken to the hospital the same evening to be operated on for an injury sustained during one of his recreation classes. Ben had

Mr. Goldfaden sparked the recent drive of the Lawless Lads and will be missed in future games.

Bauer Bowls Briskly
George Bauer, whose average has been about hat size all season, came smartly to life with a chest size average to aid Lloyd Mac-

Ewen and Al Schaffer in wallowing the Eagles. Lloyd had the evening's big game at 53.

Les Sanders' Corne Delicatessen and the "never-say-die" Commandos copped three games apiece to keep the top-flight clubs in a cluster of five with but two games separating them. The surprising Barons are now occupants of sixth place and could go higher.

Harold Estes didn't hurt himself or his team when he blasted out a keen 381 set. His Legionnaires downed Vitamen, 2 to 1.

Exams Extended To Include Army Material

The examination for potential naval officers to be given in Greenbelt April 2, as announced last week, has been extended to include candidates for commissions as Army officers, according to instructions just received by Mrs. Glennis L. Kabat, high school counselor.

Several Greenbelt young men indicated an interest in the Navy College Training Program, and it is expected that others will be interested in taking this examination for the Army Specialized Training Program, now that the examination has been widened to meet both Army and Navy needs, Mrs. Kabat said.

Qualifications

The following qualifications must be met to take the examination as Army candidates:

1. High school and preparatory graduates who will have attained their 17th but have not reached their 22nd birthdays by July 1, 1943, regardless of whether they are now attending college.

2. High school and preparatory school seniors who will be graduated by July 1, 1943, provided they have attained their 17th, but have not reached their 22nd birthdays by that date.

3. Students who will have attained their 17th but have not reached their 22nd birthdays by July 1, 1943, who do not hold certificates of graduation from a secondary school, but who are now continuing their education in an accredited college or university.

All qualifications previously announced for acceptance into the Navy College Training Program (V-12) continue to apply.

Purposes

The purpose of the Army Specialized Training Program is to train, at the collegiate level, men in technical and professional skills required by the Army. Engineers of all types, doctors, psychologists, linguists, physicists, mathematicians and students of foreign areas are needed in large numbers, and the Army has established this program in those colleges and universities where such training can best be given.

Eligibility for the Army Specialized Training Program is not fully established until the candidate has completed the normal 12 or 13 weeks of basic military training immediately following his induction into the Army. Success on the proposed test, however, will provide the candidate with a certificate of qualification which, upon presentation at the time of voluntary or regular induction, will assure his assignment to a Replacement Training center as a potential Army Specialized Training Program trainee.

If it is then determined that he is potential officer candidate material, he will be assigned to an Army Specialized Training Unit as an enlisted man on active duty, receiving the pay of a private seventh grade, to pursue a curriculum of study for which he has shown himself qualified. Individual choice of courses will be given serious consideration, although the Army will assign each candidate to the curriculum for which his aptitudes indicate him best suited.

Application blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Kabat at the High School.

Diseases Decline

The Greenbelt Public Health Department reported a decline in communicable diseases during the past month. There were 12 chicken pox cases developed, one of measles and 27 of whooping cough. Thirty-five houses were quarantined during the month, according to the monthly report submitted to the town council by Dr. William Eisner, public health officer.

The reporter was told that the squad had answered four Greenbelt calls in the last three days. Mr. Horace King is president of the association; Henry Kirkpatrick, secretary; and Milton Hardy is treasurer.

Red Cross Drive So Far Nets $184

Mrs. Joseph Rogers, chairman of the Greenbelt Red Cross drive, reported that $184 was turned over last week to Mrs. Katherine Werber, captain of this district, as part of Greenbelt's pledges in the current drive. "With the committee doing its excellent work and with the need for funds so great at this time", Mrs. Rogers said, "we hope that this amount will be more than doubled when the drive is completed."

Tomorrow the volunteer workers will complete the house-to-house canvass. All those who have not been contacted and who are interested in contributing should contact Mrs. Rogers at 2-C Eastway or call Greenbelt 3171. Organizations have until March 25 to send in their contributions.

School Group Stages Maryland Exhibit

Group II of the Elementary School culminated a study of Maryland with an exhibit last Friday, to which parents and friends of the students were invited.

The program had the dual purpose of acquainting children from other states with Maryland, and to develop interests and materials suitable to the age group, Mrs. Catherine Reed, principal explained. "So many valuable materials developed from this project, that they are being preserved by the school as a little museum of Maryland. Each year we hope to add to the collection."

Every child had something on display which represented his contribution.

Greenbelt Orchestra Changes Rehearsals

The Greenbelt Community Orchestra was notified by the town administration this week that Sunday rehearsals can no longer be held as in the past since its organization, Borah Deutchman, director, announced.

"This week the rehearsal will be held on Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Music room of the Elementary school", he said. "All members are reminded to note this change of time", he stated. There will be no rehearsal on Sunday."

Bowlers Want Subs

Women bowlers of Greenbelt who are interested in bowling as substitutes with the Women's League are asked to contact Mrs. Lois Bowman, Greenbelt 4926.
