June Public Hearings to Be Held On Major Changes to Bus Routes

by Betsy Likowski

The bus routes serving the Greenbelt area will be changed when metro comes to town in December. In some cases the changes will be extensive: three of the five routes serving Greenbelt will be eliminated, part of Greenbelt will lose bus service, late evening bus service will be lost to the core of Greenbelt, and buses will no longer go into Beltway Plaza or Prince Georges Plaza. Perhaps the greatest change of all is that Metro-rail will be only a few minutes bus ride away.

Much of the bus service will remain the same—both as to times and actual routes. But this means that there still will be no bus service on Sundays, during late evening hours on other week days, and no increase in frequency of buses. Most of the daytime buses will still run once an hour in Greenbelt.

In this review of the proposed Metro bus changes how each part of the city is affected and how traveling by bus to points outside of Greenbelt will change will be discussed in depth. These plans will be reviewed and may be revised before they take effect in December.

Several opportunities exist in the near future for citizens to give their opinion of the proposed bus route changes. This issue will be discussed at the Greenbelt city council meeting on Monday, June 14. Two public hearings will be held in the near future: one at Eleanor Roosevelt High School on Wednesday, June 23, and one at Northwestern High School on Adelphi Road on Thursday, June 24. The public is requested to write five days ahead to reserve speaking time at these public hearings. Call 202-962-1092 for information and to reserve speaking times or write to: James Miller, Secretary, Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, 600 Fifth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001.

Central Greenbelt

Two of the three bus routes serving the central part of Greenbelt will be discontinued, but the third will be kept mostly as is. The R11 rush hour commuter route to New Carrollton will be eliminated. And the F6 route that currently runs from Roosevelt Center west to Silver Spring will be so radically reconfigured as to lose almost all of its existing route, including current service to Greenbelt and Beltway Plaza.

The loss of the F6 means people west of Southway, including University Square, Charles-towne, and parts of GHI will have no bus service.

The results of these bus changes are that everyone in this part of the city will rely on the one remaining route—the T15—to go anywhere. The T15 is a renaming of the T16 route. It appears there will be no increase in frequency of bus service—so there still will be no bus service on Sunday, buses will run once an hour on Saturday and during non-rush hours on weekdays and buses will run every 30 minutes during rush hour.

Loss of the F6 route means loss of late evening hour bus service for all residents of this section of the city. For example, currently the last F6 bus leaves Beltway Plaza heading for Greenbelt at 9:58 p.m. and the last T16 headed in the same way is 8:05 p.m.

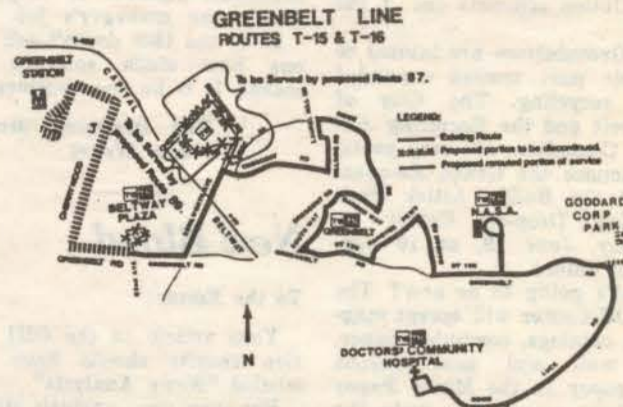

When the Greenbelt Metro station opens, the end of the line for the T15 will be the Metro station, not Beltway Plaza, as it is currently. In fact, it is proposed that the T15 not go in Beltway Plaza at all. Shoppers will have to get out of the bus on Greenbelt Road and walk across the parking lot and will have to cross the parking lot and Greenbelt Road to catch the bus home.

Other changes to the T15 route include that it will not serve Capital Office Park or the new courthouse. But it will now serve Goddard Corporate Park during rush hours.

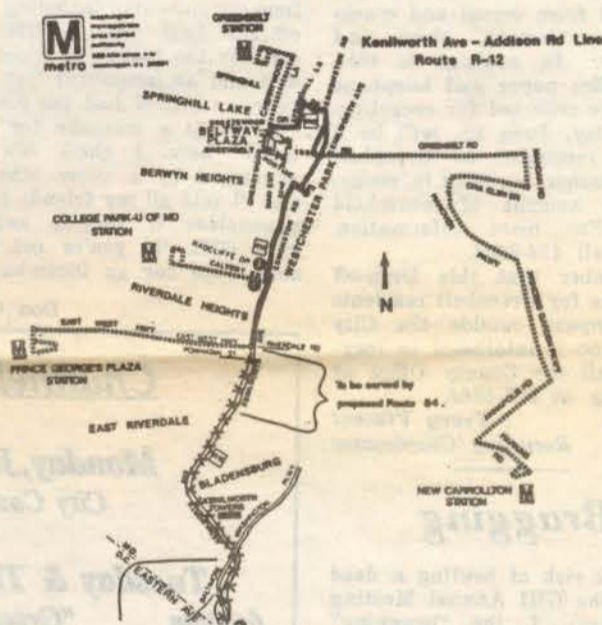

Springhill Lake

When Metro comes to the city, Springhill Lake residents will have only a short bus ride to the station. The current R12 bus route will be modified so that it begins at the Metro station instead of Beltway Plaza. The portion of the route going through Springhill Lake will be the same as it is now. The R12 will not go through Beltway Plaza at all and its closest point to Beltway Plaza will be Breeze-wood Drive.

The R12 route will be greatly See BUS ROUTES, page 12

The new T15 bus route will be similar to the existing T16. The big changes will be: it will not go up to Beltway Plaza, it will go to the metro station, and it will not go into Capital Office Park.

While the R12 bus route stays the same in Springhill Lake, it adds service to Greenbelt East, and the Greenbelt, College Park, and Prince Georges Plaza metro stations. The southern half of the existing route will be eliminated. The R-12 will not go into Beltway Plaza.

Design Alternatives for Community Center Reviewed by City Council

by Virginia Beauchamp

At the city council work session on May 28 concerning renovation plans to turn Center School into a Community Center, council members followed along as Deputy City Manager Michael McLaughlin took them through a series of deduct alternatives to keep initial renovation plans within the city's budget. Among these were three "big ticket" items: elimination of the proposed black box theater, at a saving of $470,000; phasing in of replacement windows, thus postponing the expenditure of $310,000; and substituting roof repair instead of replacement of the whole roof, a savings of $100,000.

If these deductions were approved, the revised project cost would be $4,920,000, McLaughlin showed. Since available funds are $4,300,000, the funding gap would be changed from the previously estimated $1.5 million, if everything desired were placed in the package, to $620,000. If other smaller items were also deducted — an amount totalling $180,000 — the differential between funds now available and the amount needed to begin construction work would be further reduced to $440,000. Such smaller items included new gym windows; renovation of historic classroom millwork; installation of a wooden dance floor, mirror and rail; carpeting; and an allowance for equipment and specialties.

Roof Repair

If replacing the old roof were to be postponed, except for one small section in great disrepair, and roof repair substituted, an expenditure of about $31,000 would be incurred up front. With such repairs the existing roof would then be estimated to last two to five more years.

"Is such an expenditure, for such a short interval, cost-effective?" asked Councilman Rodney Roberts.

Yes, was the answer from Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, if there is the possibility of receiving a construction grant from the state of Maryland. Since such moneys are always tied to a commitment by the receiver to provide matching funds, holding off major expenditures in order to be able to provide such a potential match in the future could be a very good investment, he explained.

Earlier Weidenfeld had queried whether expenses previously paid by the city could be interpreted by the state as matching funds for a grant to be made later.

Farewell to Center School

The closing of the historical Greenbelt Center Elementary School will be commemorated with an open house there on Saturday, June 12 from 2-4 p.m. All former and current students, parents, staff, and other interested community members are welcome.

The ceremony will feature an ongoing slide show, a display of photos, newspaper clippings, and other mementos, and a brief presentation at 2:30 p.m.

Anyone with mementos they would like to make available for this event may contact Mary Wade at 345-9356. Donations of snacks and flowers are also welcome.

"Not likely" had been the response of City Manager Daniel Hobbs.

In any case, the one small section of the roof to be replaced would cost about $16,000—an amount that would not have to be incurred later on.

What's New!

Dear Citizens:

Paper represents 37% of municipal solid waste, and every ton of recycled paper saves: three cubic yards of landfill space, 17 trees, 7,000 gallons of water, 4,200 kilowatt hours of energy and keeps 60 pounds of air pollution effluents out of the air.

All Greenbelters are invited to do their part toward expanded paper recycling. The City of Greenbelt and the Recycling Advisory Committee are very proud to announce the Grand Re-opening of the Buddy Attick Park Recycling Drop-off Center on Saturday, June 19, at 10 a.m. (rain or shine).

What's going to be new? The Drop-Off Center will accept magazines, catalogs, computer paper, junk mail and miscellaneous clean paper in the Mixed Paper bin. Come prepared to make the first contributions to Greenbelt's recycling efforts and bring your household mixed paper. The Center will continue to collect cardboard boxes as well as paperboard from cereal and cracker boxes (empty, clean and crushed). In addition to this, white office paper and telephone books are collected for recycling.

Saturday, June 19, will be a day to remember as Greenbelt takes another big step in reducing the amount of household trash. For more information please call 474-8004.

Remember that this Drop-off Center is for Greenbelt residents only. Anyone outside the City limits who is interested in recycling, call the County Office of Recycling at 925-5963.

Not Bragging

At the risk of beating a dead horse (the GHI Annual Meeting is history). I, the "bragging" former board member, need to set the record straight. Mat Amberg misinterpreted me when he said I "served many years and never needed to know about salaries."

I had said I never found it necessary to know individual salaries of employees. That plain statement of fact is not "bragging" in my book.

Each year, the Board set the salary of the manager and the range of salaries paid to employees by occupational categories and grade levels. This method is similar to that used by the Federal Government for its employees.

I never considered it my business to know the salary of an individual plumber or carpenter. That's the manager's job.

Even the IRS doesn't tell anyone how much someone else makes. It is no ones business.

The Bragging Member
Norm Weyel

New Blood

To the Editor:

Your article on the GHI election results should have been labeled "News Analysis".

But even your analysis stopped short. Had you completed it, you would have seen a trend that has continued for two years: New people are the top vote-getters, at the expense of long-time incumbents, including GHI officers. Last year, a GHI officer was the lowest of those who won and an incumbent lost. This year, an officer lost the election.

There is a message for "new blood" here. I think it's best expressed by a voter who told me: "I told all my friends to ask themselves if they're satisfied with GHI. If you're not, then don't vote for an incumbent."

Seniors Softball

by Jerry Conway

The Greenbelt Senior Softball Team scored a smashing victory over Bowie Seniors by a score of 16-4. Our defensive fielding was outstanding, allowing them only one triple during the game.

However, the Greenbelt Seniors scored two triples by Jim McGann and Jerry Conway along with other good hitting and the score soared. The Greenbelt Seniors using 15 players in the age range of 62-80 won a close game on Braden Field by defeating Howard County 8-6. Each team scored one triple each, and Conway managed to get another triple for Greenbelt Seniors. Fun and good sportsmanship was shared by all players.

Our softball team and other interested players play scheduled games each Monday and Wednesday in the Baltimore Beltway League with half of the games played on Braden Field and the other half played at Dundalk, Catonsville, Columbia, Montgomery County, Parkville and Bowie. On Fridays, we practice on Braden Field. Any senior man or woman is welcome to participate in our softball experience.

Help Send Local Woman To Deaf Olympics

Greenbriar's Patio Party held on May 28 launched the summer events calendar for the year. It also was the scene of a spontaneous auction, with the proceeds going to help send resident Connie Franks to Bulgaria where she was selected to represent the U.S. Women's Basketball team for the World Games for Deaf Olympics.

"This event, held on the Patio the night before the pool opened, was well attended," said Linda S. Evans, Activities Director. "Door prizes included a special doll, which was won by Dorothy Pyles, who spontaneously decided to auction it off that evening for the benefit of Connie's trip to Bulgaria in July. With Bill Ayers serving as auctioneer, Rosemarie Culmone was the highest bidder. The doll was given to Connie as a symbol of good luck from her friends and neighbors at Greenbriar."

Contributions to help send Connie Franks to the World Games are still welcome! Checks should be made out to: U.S.A.A. A.D., (American Athlete Assn. for the Deaf) c/o Mr. Sam Sonnestrahl, Chair, U.S. Team World Games for the Deaf, 8126 Mandan Terrace, Greenbelt, MD 20770.

People should be sure to indicate that this donation is for Connie Franks.

Center

tee. Both endorsed the view that a proscenium theater design would better fulfill the needs of the community than the earlier black box concept. The committee argued that a proscenium theater would accommodate a larger audience, in the neighborhood of 250 and would also provide more comfortable seating and better viewing. Not only would elimination of the black box theater reduce initial costs for the center but it would reduce estimated operating costs as well—about $58,000 in projected gas and electrical costs.

Marie Tousignant, president of the Greenbelt Arts Council, stressed, however, that the city's commitment to a theater was extremely important, or else no theater might be built at all. Such a commitment would be necessary to establish credibility for a fund-raising campaign.

Council member Toni Bram wondered if locating the theater in a separate space might not be a good solution to the perceived parking problem for the center. However, Barbara Simon disputed the claim that parking would be a problem. She emphasized that current philosophy decrees that all the arts should be in the same complex, if not the same building "for the viability of the arts." The arts committee recommended that the theater be located in roughly the same place, at the northeast corner of the newer wing of the school, as had been planned for the black box.

Phil Esocoff, the major design architect for the renovation, stressed that the best way to insure that a theater would be built would be to construct its outer shell at once. An amount for this purpose—$470,000—was already in the budget, he pointed out. If the theater design were to be changed, however, he advocated the hiring of a theater consultant, at an estimated cost of $14,000.

He said, however, that he did not feel the city needed a "two million dollar solution" for a theater. He disputed that separate lobby space and restrooms would be necessary, as the arts committee was proposing. The sharing of spaces, such as corridors and bathrooms, he said, is a way of "enlivening the community."

Minimum Initial Expenditures

According to McLaughlin, the bare minimum that would have to be expended to get the building to "base conditions" would be $2.6 million. This would include the elimination of hazardous materials and the installation of a new heating and air conditioning system as well as new electrical wiring and plumbing. "The systems cost so much," said Hobbs. "But we have got to do them. It is not cost-effective to do them in sections."

Currently available is $4,300,000, assuming that a grant application of $40,000 to the Maryland Historic Trust is approved and that the county provides other resources, an estimated $100-200,000, probably in the form of block grants money. "But what funds are available for matching grants?" asked Weidenfeld.

"The balance of the capital projects fund," Hobbs answered.

Changes in Plans

McLaughlin noted that two necessary changes in the original planning would increase costs: the decision to transfer the proposed adult day care facility to the basement space, which required redesign and a state requirement that the kitchen facility for the senior citizens space on the first floor be a commercial-type kitchen. It had been conceived of as a residential style kitchen.

These changes provided both good and bad news. The good news was that the adult day care center was now to occupy almost double the amount of square footage originally planned, thus increasing the city's revenue. The bad news was that funds would need to be set aside to hire a consultant familiar with state requirements for a commercial kitchen facility.

Council plans to formalize decisions concerning how much of the renovation work for the community center they would authorize were scheduled for the next council meeting, June 14.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello again !!!

Almost all of the cars we drive today have electronic ignition systems. These systems are the most reliable ever engineered. Because these systems have a lower failure rate than older systems, we tend to forget them.

Because electronic components are solid state and are non-adjustable, they have an increased lifetime. The problems with these components are heat and oil contamination or component destruction due to breakage.

Case in point: We recently had the opportunity to diagnose a non-start type of failure. The first thing to consider is the electronic ignition. After normal diagnostic testing and component testing the problem was located. After removing the distributor, replacing the installing components, and adjusting ignition timing, the engine ran better than ever.

Some problems are not so easy to diagnose and correct. Consider an undetermined problem: This will drive a good electronic diagnostician to the point of insanity.

The fact of the matter is that the distributor is no longer being used: computer electronics are now being added to all later vehicles and are controlled by computer. This new system is being used more and more in each major automotive manufacturing line.

Bus Routes

modified so that it will run from the Prince Georges Plaza Metro station to the College Park Metro station, through Springhill Lake, east down Greenbelt Road, through Greenbelt East, and to the New Carrollton Metro station. This new route will mean Springhill Lake residents can easily ride the bus to destinations they had to transfer to to get to in the past.

The R12 will not run on Sunday. It will run every 60 minutes on Saturday and during non-rush hours on weekdays, and every 30 minutes during rush hour.

Greenbelt East

Greenbelt East residents will lose the R15 commuter route, but the newly modified R12 route will travel almost the same route in this section of the city: Mandan Road to Ora Glen Drive to Hanover Parkway to Princess Garden Parkway to Annapolis Road to the New Carrollton Metro station. Two benefits come with this change: (1) Greenbelt East residents have the option of going to the Greenbelt or New Carrollton Metro stations and (2) since the R15 ran only during rush hour, the R12 will provide new service during the day and on Saturday. Greenbelt East residents will still have the same bus service by the T15 that they have had.

Metro

The biggest change in bus service is that Greenbelters will no longer have to ride a bus 30 to 60 minutes to get to a Metro station. In minutes Greenbelters can be at Metro and once there can quickly travel throughout the region. The long trek by bus to a Metro station will finally be over!

It is estimated that 1,100 people will get off the bus at the Greenbelt Metro station and board Metro trains each day, and that 3400 of the 13,000 who board the Metro stations on the new Green Line each day will arrive by bus.

The change in bus routes so as to feed into the new Metro stations involves 31 Metro bus routes and is one of the biggest plans of its type done.

Getting to and from some local points of interest by bus will be different if the proposed bus route changes take place.

The bus trips to some destinations will be the same as or very similar to what they are now, such as the bus trip to: Goddard Space Flight Center, the New Carrollton Metro station, and Doctor's Hospital. But some points of interest will be different or more difficult to reach. A review of some of these follows.

Beltway Plaza

No buses will go in to the shopping center to drop people off. Currently five buses stop next to F & M. Under the new proposals only the T15 and R12 will go anywhere near Beltway Plaza. The T15 will travel along Greenbelt Road and the R12 along Breezewood Drive. People wishing to go to the plaza will have to walk across the parking lot to do so. This is similar to the current situation at Greenway Shopping Center.

The C2 currently stops at Beltway Plaza but in the future the Greenbelt Metro station will be its final stop.

Capital Office Park

Although it is located in Greenbelt, city residents will have to take a bus to the Greenbelt Metro station and then catch the 87 or the 89 buses to get to Capital Office Park and the new courthouse.

University of Maryland

Travelling to the University of Maryland by bus will change quite a bit under the proposed plans. There will be no direct bus service from Greenbelt to the campus. Only one bus instead of the current three will go through campus, and late evening service will be curtailed. For example, presently the last F6 leaves the campus at 9:51 p.m. but this route will be eliminated. The last C2, which will continue, leaves campus at 8:56 p.m. To get to the University of Maryland from Greenbelt by bus, people will have to take the R12 or T15 to the Greenbelt Metro station and then transfer to the C2. The C2 will run every 30 minutes six days a week.

Prince Georges Plaza

The trip by bus to Prince Georges Plaza will be quite different under the proposed bus route changes. People in the central part of the city will have to catch a bus at the Greenbelt Metro station to get to Prince Georges Plaza.

The new R12 route will go to the Prince Georges Plaza Metro station. And the new R3 route will go from the Greenbelt Metro station to the Prince Georges Plaza Metro station.

Another option is to catch the C2 bus at the Greenbelt Metro station and then transfer to the F8 bus route where the C2 leaves the University of Maryland campus on the west side at Adelphi Road. The C2 route is changed so that it continues down University Boulevard at that point and so goes nowhere near Prince Georges Plaza.

All the buses will go to the Prince Georges Plaza Metro station and not the plaza. So shoppers will have to walk across East-West Highway and the parking lot to reach the plaza. However, there are optional proposals for each route to go into the shopping center.

Laurel

Greenbelters can finally get to Laurel by bus. The 87 and 89 commuter routes will be changed to all day service and will come to the Greenbelt Metro station.
