City Council Reaps Rich Harvest Of Information in BARC Meeting

by Jennifer D. Sciubba

To the casual observer, the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) may seem an anachronism among the Metro stations, strip malls and bustling highways that surround it. The thousands of acres of farmland with meandering cows and barn-dotted hillsides seem to have little relevance to suburban D.C. life.

In truth, BARC is one of the world's premiere agricultural research facilities. Its scientists have been responsible for releasing the popular New Guinea impatiens to the U.S., for publishing nutrition guides used to develop K-rations during World War II and for introducing DEET to fight disease-carrying pests. Now BARC's administration is directing funds from its $136 million research budget toward finding ways to turn chicken manure from the Eastern Shore into bioenergy.

At a July 27 Greenbelt City Council worksession with BARC representatives Dr. Ronald Korcak, associate area director for the Beltsville director's office, noted that one of the best things about BARC is the freedom it accords its researchers to explore new arenas. "We're always looking for unique things we can try out," said Korcak. The manure project is just one of those.

On a national level, the center plays a vital role in research on some of America's top problems such as human nutrition and alternative energy. On a local level, it brings prestige to the area and provides Greenbelters a pleasing break from the expanses of concrete and asphalt that surround the city.

Council Concerns

Though BARC is still a lively and leading center of research, at the worksession councilmembers expressed some concern that the approaching departure of Senator Paul Sarbanes (D-MD), who has been a champion of BARC's mission, will endanger its future. Greenbelt City Councilmembers and citizens are particularly concerned that parcels of land may be sold and developed, changing the landscape of this part of Prince George's County. As Korcak noted, however, BARC has already turned down one four-lane road and an exchange proposed by the University of Maryland to build Terrapin Parkway on the southern end of the farm. In the trade being considered, BARC would cede the granary by the railroad tracks behind Circuit City in exchange for a piece of private property on the corner of Rhode Island and Sunnyside Avenues. This exchange would streamline use of BARC property by allowing BARC to farm the land on the corner lot.

Some other changes to the property are likely to occur as well. Part of a strategic plan under consideration is the consolidation of buildings when feasible. Moving the buildings in use closer to each other saves money on snow plowing and landscape maintenance, among other things. As Korcak and John Van de Vaarst, director of Facilities Administration and Safety Division, informed council, there will be a groundbreaking ceremony for a new poultry facility near the intersection of Powder Mill and Poultry Roads on September 9.

Council has been concerned, however, that some of the build-

by Shamla K. Shakir

Greenbelt American Legion Post #136 hosted a dinner Tuesday, July 25 for young women from around the country specially selected to attend a week-long politics and government camp in Washington, D.C., from July 23 through July 30.

The 59th annual session of Girls Nation, organized by the American Legion Auxiliary (ALA), gave 96 rising high school seniors a "first-hand introduction to the structure and function of the federal government," a press release stated. Two girls from every state except Hawaii and Louisiana represented their state as "senators" as they toured the nation's capital and participated in mock legislative procedures, including creating and debating bills.

"They learn about government, patriotism and getting along with other people," said Sandi Dutton, the 2004-2005 ALA national president who was a citizen of Girls State in 1975. Dutton, a Beltsville resident, served as director of Girls Nation in 1997. She said it was "one of my proudest moments."

Girls State, which teaches members about local, county and state governments, sends two members to Girls Nation every year to learn about government on a national level. There can be 200 or more members in Girls State, Dutton said, explaining how Girls Nation members are "the top 2 to 3 percent of students in the country."

Approximately 35 people volunteer with Girls Nation and the ALA raises money for the program through membership dues and fundraising, Dutton said.

Rosita Dietrich, ALA president of Greenbelt Unit 136, said, "It's a wonderful program and a great opportunity for girls to learn about our government." She added that the Legion volunteered to host the dinner.

National Girls State Chairperson Mary Harper said, "We hope to instill in these ladies a love of their country and patriotism and a sense of involvement."

Harper added: "They are very energetic, intelligent young ladies who come from all across the U.S.; they are a wonderful representation of our youth. And I know with folks like these that our country is in good hands."

During the week tours included trips to Capitol Hill, Arlington Cemetery and the White House. During daily senate sessions the girls learned about parliamentary procedure and ran for various political offices including president and vice president.

Girls' Responses

"It just really makes you realize that everything that happens in textbooks is real," said Beth Brantley, 17, a senator from Alabama and presidential candidate for the "Nationalist Party."

Brantley, who plans on majoring in psychology or political science in college, called it a "humbling experience" to stand in places she knew the president had stood. She said she also enjoyed the opportunity to meet the other girls. "I've been so impressed with everyone . . . Along with being sharp and intelligent, everyone has been ridiculously nice."

Brantley calls herself a "conservative with liberal tendencies." Right now, she said, she is concerned with the issue of Social Security. "I'm not a big fan of Bush's privatization plan but I do have to commend him for trying," she said. "I'd like to see our generation think about it."

Her vice presidential candidate, Ediz Andiroglu, 17, from Miami, Fla., said with a smile that she considers herself a "liberal with conservative tendencies."

"I love politics. I love get-

The Arts Advisory Board proves that art has many faces.

The Who and What of AAB

by Pauline Grant

" . . . Meeting adjourned at 9:53 p.m. As board members departed into the mystery of the night, two large nimbus clouds parted overhead, revealing the soft light of an April spring moon. All was well indeed!" And so conclude the minutes of a recent Arts Advisory Board (AAB) monthly meeting.

The members of the AAB enjoy the arts and one of the delights of being a member is that we can, and do, take poetic license! Hopefully, our passion enables us to make the arts a special part of life for residents of Greenbelt. I think I speak for each member when I say we do think the arts should play an important role in our everyday lives.

The mission of the AAB includes advising the city council on matters relating to the arts and supplementing city staff as liaisons to local arts organizations. Board members meet annually with the city's contribution groups in the arts to review and discuss their activities and the groups' requests for city support.

Current members of the Arts Advisory Board include Adrienne White, chair; Pauline Grant, vice chair; and members Sharon Anderson, Tatiana Ausema, Tom Baker, Shawn Burke-Storer, Pam Hagerhorst, Jeri Holloway, Andria Jones, Robert Schafer and Ginny

New City Skate Park Awaits Minor Adjustments, Permits

by Al Geiger

The News Review asked Joe McNeal, assistant director of operations, Department of Recreation, about the status of the skate park. Questions had been raised in letters to the editor about the lack of progress on construction. McNeal said that Bradley Site Design, the company which will construct the park, and California Landscape Design, the park's designers, have been "tweaking" the design to fit the park site and now are ready to obtain county permits. A three-month period is needed to complete the construction.

Meanwhile, the Residential Planned Community (RPC) zoning controversy previously reported in the News Review has delayed issuing permits for several projects in the city, including the skate park.

Recently passed county legislation has cleared the way for the county planning staff to resume issuing building permits in the city. However, the legislation does not go into effect until September 12, after which the necessary skate park permits can

Expectations Exceeded for a First-Timer

I was a giddy first-time art exhibitor breaking in at the New Deal Café Arts world. Barbara Simon, the arts coordinator, was very kind to help me from start to finish, giving all the encouragement and support I needed to prepare for this event.

Agnes Conaty poses by her watercolor paintings at the New Deal Café.

My husband Austin was my financier, all-around helper and assistant, installation manager and shock absorber rolled into one. Eight and one-half months pregnant, I was too heavy to climb up ladders to install my own paintings and photographs. Thankfully, my supervisor at the College Park Aviation Museum, Jane Welsh, the education curator, volunteered to bring her own ladder and hammer on the night of the installation on July 31. It was an offer I could not refuse.

At the opening night reception on August 7, an intimate group of relatives and friends, Greenbelt residents, including Mayor Judith Davis, dropped by to look at my two-year's worth of art work. In my guest book, Davis wrote: "I'm happy to see someone has captured the highlights of our wild Greenbelt Lake, in both watercolor and photograph. Beautifully done." I was honored to be visited by our mayor.

At the end of the evening I had sold 10 of my photographs and four of my watercolor paintings, an outcome which far exceeded my expectations.

I am very grateful to the New Deal Café Arts, the Prince George's Art Council, the College Park Aviation Museum, the American Art Make-A-Frame, Jane Welsh and Austin Conaty for all the sponsorship and support they have extended to me as a new artist of Greenbelt.

More Deer Sightings

On Wednesday, May 25 my husband was leaving for work around 4:30 a.m. and saw two deer coming from near the Greenbelt Museum across Crescent near the tunnel behind the library. On Tuesday, June 6 I was walking around the lake around 7 a.m. and saw a doe and a fawn, which I guessed to be the same two, coming up from the lake and crossing the path in the area near the apartments where there are thick woods on both sides of the path.

Today, Tuesday, August 9 as I came out of the lake path about 7:30 a.m. a lone doe was nibbling on the trees between Braden Field and the St. Hugh's parking lot.

be requested. According to Planning and Community Development Director Celia Craze, obtaining permits can take from a couple of weeks to months, depending on the complexity of proposed construction.

Since it will be at least the end of September before permits are obtained, there probably will not be a three-month construction period available before winter. (Concrete cannot be poured in temperatures below freezing.) This probably means that construction cannot begin until April 1, 2006.

McNeal said that a lump sum amount has been negotiated with Bradley Site Design and has been authorized by the city. McNeal also said that he is available to answer questions from the public. He may be contacted at 301-397-2200.

“Mayors for Peace” Next P and J Film

Next in the Progressive Film Series by the Peace and Justice Coalition of Prince George’s County is “Mayors for Peace: 2020 Vision Campaign,” which will be shown at the Community Center on Sunday, August 21 at 5 p.m.

The film follows the international network Mayors for Peace 2004 mission to the United Nations. It shows the delegates speaking to the General Assembly, meeting with officials of varied organizations and UN member nations and visiting Ground Zero of the September 11, 2001, attacks. Mayors describe obstacles facing the nonproliferation treaty and their continuing resolve to make it work as a major tool in the campaign for a nuclear-free world.

Made for the Mayors for Peace delegation by Halo Company Ideas, the film runs 45 minutes.

Discussion leader will be John Steinbach, long an activist on nuclear-power issues and chair of the Hiroshima/Nagasaki Peace Committee. Greenbelt Access Television will videotape the event to show later on local cable TV.

This month marks the 60th anniversary of the nuclear bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The Peace and Justice Coalition reminds everyone that this is a fitting time to remember the dead and the survivors – or Hibakusha, many of whom are still suffering – and to see how international activists still struggle to move the world away from the nuclear precipice. Mayors for Peace was founded in 1982 by Takeshi Araki, then Mayor of Hiroshima. For details visit www.pcf.city.hiroshima.jp/mayors.

Greenbelt Seniors Split Two Games

Greenbelt beat highly regarded Carroll County, 17-5, on August 3, then grabbed a five-run lead on Monday, August 8 against Bowie Bronze. Unfortunately, they lost, 10-7, in the Baltimore Beltway Senior Softball League.

Against Carroll, only one of Greenbelt’s 13 batters failed to hit safely. Leading the way with 3-for-4 were Dave Kerr, Harlan Park and Manager/Pitcher Ray Reed, who gave up no bases on balls. Getting two hits for the home team were Eli Flam, John Benish (plus a walk) and Rodney Hull. Lefty Smith drove in two runs with a double; Greenbelt made only four errors in a second-straight win that broke Carroll’s five-game winning streak.

Against Bowie, Greenbelt got seven hits and a sacrifice fly for its five runs in the first inning but added only nine more singles and two walks the rest of the way. (Kerr and Reed were 2-for-2.) In the eighth inning they loaded the bases with no outs but hit a pop-up and grounded into a double-play. Greenbelt has already won a dozen games for the season, two more than last year’s total with 11 games left.

Friday Star Party To View Perseids

The Astronomical Society of Greenbelt (formerly the Greenbelt Astronomy Club) will host a special star party this Friday evening, August 12. This event will be held to view the Perseid meteor shower shortly after its peak. Although the best time for meteor viewing may not occur until 4 a.m. on Saturday morning, members of the society will begin setting up to view a variety of celestial objects at approximately 8:30 p.m. on Friday evening. In the event of rain or hopelessly cloudy skies, this event will be cancelled without further notice.

Information about other events can be found at: <http://www.greenbeltastro.org/events.shtml>.

Boxwood Scholarship Forms Available

The Boxwood Village Civic Association offers an annual scholarship to a resident of Boxwood Village. The scholarship, valued at $500, is available to graduating high school seniors and to full-time (12 or more credit hours per semester) undergraduate students. The scholarship is partially funded through the proceeds from the Zoo Dip booth at the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival.

The application form should be completed and returned by September 30. The scholarship committee is composed of five Boxwood Village residents who will review the applications and determine the recipient.

For further information and/or to pick up an application form, call Jean Cook at 301-345-2597 or Judy Ott at 301-474-0222.

Greenbelt Park Seeks Festival Participants

Greenbelt Park will present a fall festival on Saturday, October 8 from noon until 5 p.m. with a rain date on October 9. The festival is a celebration of vibrant colors of leaves from the many species of trees, brisk autumn air and the end of summer. It’s also designed to encourage family use of the park and increase awareness of services and organizations available to the community.

Greenbelt Park, a unit of the National Park Service, is located at 6565 Greenbelt Road. The park is comprised of 1,100 acres and offers to its visitors, camping, hiking, biking, picnicking, environmental education programs and special events.

Last year, hundreds of community visitors participated in a fun-filled day of activities for all ages. This year’s festival will bring the community together with live music, games, arts and crafts, clowns, a magician, hay rides and more. The festival will also feature Greenbelt Park heavy equipment, United States Park Police community programs, Smokey the Bear, pumpkin painting and more.

Local groups and community organizations are sought to participate via demonstrations, exhibits and public awareness information booths.

Groups wishing to participate should contact Park Ranger Martin for additional information at 301-344-3944 no later than Friday, August 26.

Greenbelt Initiates CERT Training

A community response team is now forming in Greenbelt. In the hours and days following a major disaster, many communities may have to fend for themselves. Roads are likely to be impassable, power will be out and emergency services will be overwhelmed. Members of the community will be the most important resource available. The Greenbelt Public Safety Advisory Committee is forming a Community Emergency Response Team (CERT).

CERT volunteers will receive free training designed by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and conducted in conjunction with the Prince George’s County Office of Emergency Preparedness. The initial training is 20 hours, covering first aid, fire prevention, disaster preparedness and light search and rescue among others.

Volunteers are needed to undergo training and get Greenbelt’s CERT team up and running. Anyone interested in assisting their community in this way is invited to come to an organizational meeting on Tuesday, September 13 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Community Center multipurpose room.

Topics to be discussed include training, organization, planning and what to expect. Questions will be answered. Volunteers need only invest as much time as they wish.

Bereavement Group Begins Anew

The Patuxent Widowed Persons Service (PWPS) offers a program to help widowed persons adapt to their new circumstances. A six-week mutual support group led by trained volunteers will be given in the Greenbelt Community Center. This program is co-sponsored by AARP/PWPS and the Greenbelt Senior Citizens’ Advisory Committee. Both emotional support and practical information are provided.

The group will meet in the Community Center’s Game Room on Thursdays, starting September 22. The six weekly sessions take place from 7 to 9 p.m. through October 27. The program is free and open to widowed men and women of all ages, races and creeds but registration is required.

Residents Remember 1945 Nagasaki with Library Vigil

by Doug Love

At Eva Barnett's suggestion on a Greenbelt listserv, about 17 Greenbelters assembled on the lawn in front of the Greenbelt library Tuesday night to remember Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Poetry was read, candles were held, stories were told, kids played around us and birds and ambulances circled us on a pleasant August evening.

Shirley Middleton was the organizer and started with a poem. Brecken Swartz told us stories of her life in Japan, where the folks of Nagasaki wish to make visiting Americans comfortable with being there. I told a story of a farmer who took a long time to reach Nagasaki with his vegetables on the day of the bombing and arrived too late to die. Carl Gregersen warmed my chair and remembered a poignant rock song lyric while I ran to the library to get a Ray Bradbury story that was named for and contained a Sarah Teasdale poem, "There shall come soft rains." I shared some experiences from the early August camporees run by my church, where I occasionally floated candle boats on the baptismal pool as a Nagasaki remembrance.

Barnett wrote down the names of everyone that came. They included CC and Nale Lachaye, Susan Jones, Eva Barnett, Yvett King, Shirley Middleton, Lawrence Klaess, Nancy, Aaron and Isaac Solomon, Jessamyn and Jeremy Daniel, Ben Scott, Carl Gregersen, Brecken Swartz, Tery Vanzetti, Doug McNeill and Doug Love. Old friends were greeted and new ones made.

After a period of contemplation, we mentioned the showing and discussion of the film "Mayors for Peace" sponsored by the Peace and Justice Coalition August 24 and we shared some other things, such as how we can bring our concerns to our religious and academic groups. It was a time of sharing, remembrance and gratitude that a nuclear holocaust hasn't happened here yet and a renewed dedication to keep it from happening anywhere ever again.

Did you know?

Islam is considered by its followers, as a way of life rather than just a religion, as it gives guidance in every aspect of human life.

"O you who believe! Let not a group scoff at another group; it may be that the latter are better than the former. Nor let (some) women laugh at others; it may be that the latter are better than the former. Nor defame nor be sarcastic of each other, nor call each other by offensive nicknames. How bad it is to insult one's brother after having Faith. And whosoever does not repent, then such are indeed wrongdoers."

Need for Blood Donors Continues

Doctors Community Hospital and the Greenbelt Lion's Club in partnership with American Red Cross will hold a blood drive on Wednesday, August 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the hospital campus at 8118 Good Luck Road, DSE Room, 5th Floor, Medical Office Building.

Blood is a precious resource for which there is no substitute. With the life span as little as five days for platelets and 42 days for red cells, the American Red Cross depends on healthy members of the community to give blood each and every day. Over 1,300 blood donations are needed daily to supply the needs of patients in the community. Each blood donation can be separated into components and may help three or more sick or injured people.

To be eligible to donate blood, people must be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good general health. Donors can safely give blood every 56 days. Bring some form of identification such as a driver's license, blood donor card or work or school ID photo.

It only takes 20 minutes to donate; it is a simple, safe, life-saving and selfless gift that millions of Americans can give. Join in a day of giving. Call 301-552-8060 to make an appointment. Walk-ins are welcome.

Notice of Amendment to the City Charter Change in Eligibility to Vote by Absentee Ballot

At its July 11, 2005, meeting, the City Council adopted a resolution to amend Sec. 27 of the City Charter. The charter amendment resolution will become effective on August 30, 2005, unless a proper petition to submit the amendment to the voters on a referendum is filed as permitted by law.

Charter Amendment Resolution 2005-1

A Resolution of the City of Greenbelt Adopted Pursuant to the Authority of Article 11E of the Constitution of Maryland and Section 13 of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland, (1957 Edition as Amended), Title, "Corporation-Municipal," Subtitle "Home Rule" to Amend the Charter of the City of Greenbelt Found, in Whole or in Part, in the Compilation of Municipal Charters of Maryland (1983 Edition as Amended), as Prepared by the Department of Legislative Reference Pursuant to Chapter 77 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1983, by Repealing and Reenacting with Amendments Section 27, Titled "Absentee Voting" to Expand Eligibility for Absentee Voting The resolution will make the following change to the charter on "Absentee Voting":

Existing Text: Any qualified voter of the City of Greenbelt, by reason of religious beliefs, physical condition or absence from the city on the day of an election, may vote by absentee ballot. The procedures for applying for an absentee ballot, for casting the ballots, and counting it shall be established by ordinance.

Amended Text: Any qualified voter of the City of Greenbelt may vote by absentee ballot. The procedures for applying for, casting, and counting absentee ballots shall be established by ordinance.

The purpose of the change is to give an additional option to voters and thereby make it easier to vote in municipal elections. Voters who are not able to come to the polls on Election Day may still vote absentee, just as before. Voters who prefer to come to their polling place on Election Day and use a voting machine may still do so, just as before. But any voter may now choose to vote absentee, since it is no longer required that one provide a reason or excuse for doing so.

As required by Maryland law, this resolution will be posted in its entirety for 40 days, until August 20, 2005, at the Municipal Building at 25 Crescent Road. It can also be found on the Greenbelt CityLink Web site at <http://www.greenbeltmd.gov>. A copy may also be requested from the City Clerk.

For additional information, call or e-mail Kathleen Gallagher, at 301-474-8000 or kgallagher@greenbeltmd.gov.

ings with historical significance, such as one which has been standing since the 1700s, will be torn down. In response, BARC representatives point out that they have a long-standing relationship with the Maryland Historical Trust and consult them whenever they consider decommissioning buildings. Additionally, BARC sometimes allows the Prince George's Fire Department to train in some of its dilapidated buildings after the asbestos and lead are removed, putting them to use instead of tearing them down or simply letting them rot.

At the worksession, Mayor Judith Davis expressed apprehension over the county's proposal to widen Kenilworth Avenue and inquired as to the involvement of BARC officials in this development. Korcak, Van de Vaarst and their Deputy Area Director Robert Serrano quickly assuaged council's fears by stating that any widening would be on the east side of the road, which is mostly pastureland, instead of encroaching on the forests and wetlands to the west.

Protection Effort

Ninety-nine percent of the research center is in the Anacostia Watershed and BARC officials touted their involvement with the Chesapeake protection efforts and reforestation initiatives. At the worksession, Councilmember Rodney Roberts inquired about extending the National Wildlife Refuge from the Patuxent River area to BARC. Van de Vaarst's opinion was that this change in status would not afford any more protection than BARC's own efforts to protect the lands. BARC is currently conducting an endangered species inventory using a global positioning system to track its plant population.

As it stands, Congress must approve the sale of all BARC lands; this legal protection, coupled with BARC's internal stewardship efforts, will help the center thrive and strengthen its harmony with Greenbelt.

In addition to reforestation efforts, there is also progress in cleanup of some sites determined several years ago to be contaminated. There are about 30 sites with needs ranging from simple trash and debris removal to more complicated chemical disposal. There are few plans for road improvement in the center; as the officials pointed out, the project is too expensive to be feasible since some of the roads have no road beds and reconditioning could cost in the millions. They also believe improving the roads will bring unwanted traffic.

Councilmembers will be following BARC's construction and environmental efforts in the coming months. Citizens who desire to get involved in these efforts can contact the Friends of Agricultural Research - Beltsville (FAR-B) to see how they can help. FAR-B's website is: <http://hydrolab.arsusda.gov/farb.html>.

ting involved in local organizations . . . I can't reiterate enough how important every level of government is," Andiroglu said.

She added that the week has "been phenomenal. The whole experience is very enlightening."

Regarding current affairs, Andiroglu said she is concerned with education. She said she would like to see public schools rank at equal levels across the nation.

The presidential candidate for the opposing "Federalist Party," Blair Knowles, 17, from Allegheny, N.Y., also stated the importance of education. "I feel like it [education] can be so diverse through the nation. It can be like winning the lottery, to go to a good school."

Although she started the week as a liberal, Knowles said, "I've learned that I have to be more open with my political views. There are a lot of conservative issues that I agree with."

She added, "I really liked the girls and getting to know a whole bunch of political nerds just like [me]."

Nesse Godin

The evening included a speech by Silver Spring resident and Holocaust survivor Nesse Godin, 77. Godin, who was born in Siauliai, Lithuania, said that she did not come as a speaker just "to share memories" but to prevent similar atrocities from happening ever again. Germany occupied Siauliai in June 1941. Shortly afterward, Nazi "Mobile Killing Units" ran through the city, picked up Jewish men and boys and put them in city jails with the promise of "relocation."

In reality the people were taken out of the city, stripped and forced to dig holes. Then they were lined up and shot.

Local farmers came and told Godin's parents how "the earth for many days moved - the Nazis didn't even bother to check whether they were dead or alive."

This is when she knew the Holocaust was happening to her, Godin said.

Many friends of the Jewish community refused to intervene, Godin said, because they were afraid to get involved. To Girls Nation, Godin sent a message - speak up for each other and for the world around you.

The next few years of her life included time in a ghetto, in concentration camps and on a death march before she was liberated by Soviet troops on March 10, 1945 - 16 years old and weighing only 69 pounds. Godin had lost her father during a "selection" in the ghetto as well as many friends and relatives during the death march.

"We cannot change the past but we can change the present and the future," she said. "You beautiful young ladies, you are the future of this country."

Godin received a standing ovation at the conclusion of her speech.

Hospital Offers Health Screening

Advanced registration is required; fees vary per screening. Call 1-800-542-5096.

BARC Announces New Food Products

Three new products are available for consumers thanks to research at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC.)

One product, fresh apple slices, is now available at McDonalds, some grocery stores and in the school lunch program. A calcium- and vitamin C-based coating prevents apples from browning and increases the shelf life of peeled apples up to four weeks without changing the texture or flavor, allowing them to become a practical retail offering and providing a conveniently healthy food option for consumers.

Another product is a zero-calorie fat replacer called Z-Trim that consumers can use to decrease fat and increase fiber in recipes as diverse as salad dressing, brownies and omelets without affecting taste or mouth feel. In addition to cutting fat and calories, Z-Trim can delay glucose absorption and lower insulin resistance, improving blood sugar management.

The Agricultural Research Service's newest improved catfish first hit the market in late 2002. Consumers won't notice anything different but the new catfish eat 10 percent more feed and grow 10 percent faster than other commercially farmed channel catfish - a great benefit to fish farmers.

Online Nutrition Database Available

What nutrients are in a smoothie? Is it a two-cup serving made with fruit? Or is it a 20-fluid-ounce smoothie made with fruit and yogurt? The answers can be found on the Internet, where free access is available to nutrient information on thousands of foods typically eaten in the United States.

Agricultural Research Service (ARS) scientists recently launched a searchable database on the Internet where users can view a 60-nutrient profile for each of more than 13,000 foods. The new resource is called "What's in the Foods You Eat - Search Tool."

By providing information on the nutrient values in typically consumed foods, the new online search tool will help consumers make informed decisions about food choices.

The tool was produced by nutritionists with the ARS Food Surveys Research Group, based in Beltsville and headed by Supervisory Nutritionist Alanna Moshfegh. ARS is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's chief scientific research agency.

The data are provided in commonly consumed portion sizes and weights and easy-to-use help screens are readily available. To access the database go to www.ars.usda.gov/foodsearch.

A user starts by typing descriptive words into the online search box. After the user hits "Enter" or "Search," all food names containing the key words will be displayed. The user can then select one of the displayed food names and request information on up to three different portion amounts for it.

The computer search program generates a customized table showing 60 different nutrient values for each portion amount chosen. The search result can then be printed.

Hearing Aid Seller Settles with State

The Maryland Consumer Protection Division has reached a settlement with the American Hearing Centers, Inc., a now-defunct chain of hearing aid stores that sold hearing aids to Maryland consumers from locations throughout the state. Under the settlement, American Hearing Centers, Inc.'s former owner, Mitchell Stein of Olney agreed to refund more than $20,000 to seven consumers who had cancelled their purchases of hearing aids and were not refunded their payments.

The settlement requires Stein to make full restitution to all consumers who properly cancelled their hearing aid purchases but have not received refunds of the payments they made for their hearing aids.

Stein agreed to post $20,000 in security for future claims. Stein also agreed to alter his sales practices to comply with the Hearing Aid Sales Act.

Consumers who believe they are entitled to restitution under the settlement with Mitchell Stein may contact the Consumer Protection Division by calling 1-410-528-1840.

Justice Dept. Awards Grant to Greenbelt

Greenbelt has been notified that the U.S. Department of Justice has awarded the city a grant under the Fiscal Year 2005 Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant Program. The grant, in the amount of $18,840, will be used to place mobile in-car video cameras in four patrol cars.

Pull Weeds At Patuxent

Non-native invasive plants are threatening wildlife habitats. Help stop them by joining the Weed Warriors on Monday, August 22 at the North Tract at 9:30 a.m. or on Sunday, August 28 at the National Wildlife Visitor Center at 10 a.m. Wear long pants and sleeves and bring gloves. Only a limited supply of refuge gloves is available.

Registration is required for this program. Call 301-497-5887 to register. Help to protect Patuxent from alien invaders, become a Weed Warrior!

City Notes

City staff inspected Belle Point Office Park, Greenbelt Office Park and re-inspected Beltway Plaza Mall.

Animal Control reports that two cats are currently available for adoption.

The dumpster issue at University Square Apartments has been resolved. All but two dumpsters were put back into their original locations.

The city cleaning crew performed routine cleaning of all city buildings.

The parks crew completed installation of the new playground equipment at 5 court Gardenway and prepared Braden Field II for the Women's Fast Pitch Tournament this weekend. They repaired fences of city residents which were damaged by fallen trees.

Public works collected 10.94 tons of paper, 3.92 tons of commingled recyclable materials and 35.28 tons of refuse.

A new exhibition was installed at the Greenbelt Community Center Art Gallery featuring paintings by Christopher Hoeting, a faculty member of the University of Maryland Art Department.

Public Works Builds Recycling Shelter

With a grant from the Maryland Environmental Service, public works staff recently constructed a shelter for the used oil recycling area. Located at the recycling center between Buddy Attick Park and the public works building, the shelter cost approximately $2,500.

The shelter will prevent rain water from accumulating in existing used motor oil recycling drop-off areas. The shelter also will protect the area when people accidentally spill oil.

White Hot Gas Prices

Area motorists hoping for relief from the searing heat and sizzling prices at gasoline pumps are finding little to comfort them. According to the latest Daily Fuel Gauge Report from AAA Mid-Atlantic, gasoline prices reached a new all-time high for the ninth time this month in the Maryland suburbs.

Maryland residents are now paying an average price of $2.34 per gallon of unleaded regular gas. Prices have jumped 14 cents a gallon here since last month, according to AAA. The average price a year ago was $1.92.

The Department is offering a reward of up to $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect in any of the unsolved crimes reported in the blotter. Citizens may anonymously report suspected drug activity by calling the Drug Tip Line at 301-507-6522.

Fire & Rescue Log

The Fire Department Log is a monthly report of the activities and news from the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc. (GVFD&RS) The report includes recent incidents, news and upcoming events, fire safety and other fire department related information.

In the month of July the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department responded to a total of 127 engine and 153 ambulance calls. Among those calls GVFD responded to 52 reports of smoke or fire, two gas leaks, 52 motor vehicle accidents and 115 medical calls.

Why Volunteer

The GVFD&RS is always looking for volunteers to become firefighters, emergency medical technicians, members of the Ladies Auxiliary or administrative aides. We also offer a junior program for teenagers 13 to 15. Volunteering is a great way to give back to the community while making new friends and learning valuable skills. Often the work is challenging and difficult but there is nothing more satisfying than knowing someone has been helped in a time of need.

There are currently members from all walks of life and many different professions. People do not have to have any previous experience to be a valuable asset. In fact, many people possess skills and training in their current career that may be useful to GVFD&RS. The station is in constant need of help with many tasks, for example, fundraising, administrative tasks and general maintenance.

Volunteers are provided training and uniforms for free. The time requirements outside of the initial training are minimal and flexible. The only requirements are that the volunteer be 16 or over and that those working as firefighters or EMTs have a minimal health and fitness level. All applicants are subjected to a background check and drug test.

Other than the satisfaction of helping those in need, the benefits are many. Volunteers who meet minimum participation requirements each year receive a $3,500 state tax credit after three years. Also, there is a pension after 25 years of active service. Many of the required courses also offer college transfer credit and volunteers wishing to study fire science or emergency medicine can receive tuition reimbursement from the state. The station also offers a live-in program to those wishing to trade running calls at night for free rent.

The GVFD&RS offers ride-along programs for both the engine and ambulance as well as station tours to those wishing a close-up view of operations. Those interested in learning more are asked to call the station at 301-345-7000, visit the website at www.engine35.com or stop by the station. Questions and comments regarding this report or any fire department issues can be directed to 301-345-7000 or public-info@engine35.com.

Volunteers Needed

The Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club basketball program needs volunteers to help improve the lives of the city's youngest citizens. The basketball program runs from November through March, with practices beginning in November and games starting in January.

Volunteers need not be club members or reside in Greenbelt. The club has a place for anyone who has the time to volunteer.

Anyone wishing to explore these opportunities may attend the coaches' organizational meeting on Sunday, August 14 at the Greenbelt Youth Center from 6 to 8 p.m. or call 301-474-7874 or the club's hot line at 301-794-0100.

Registration is being held throughout August for basketball, cheerleading, football and soccer. Register at the Greenbelt Youth Center from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays this month.

Volunteering is the lifeline of the Boys and Girls Club. Without program leaders the club cannot offer activities for the kids. Without coaches there would be no teams and without teams the club lets down the children who are members.

Consider the impact of children having limited access to sports and physically healthy activities.

The answer is simple – more volunteers means more opportunities for kids.

For more information call Coach Doug Mangum at 301-474-7874.

School Board Urges Parents to Join In

The county executive and public school system have come together to urge parents to bring their children to school on August 22, the first day of school, in an outreach program called "Embracing Our Village."

Parents, grandparents, teachers, government employees and elected officials, faith-based leaders, business leaders and community advocates are joining to show support for the work of students and educators by taking active roles in the education of their children.

Parents are especially encouraged to attend Back to School Night activities, join in or organize PTA or PTO at their children's school, volunteer at the school, attend parent-teacher conferences, chaperone field trips, attend awards assemblies and attend community meetings called by the school system.

Museum Celebrates Air Mail Day Sunday

On Sunday, August 14 from noon to 4 p.m. the College Park Aviation Museum will celebrate the 87th anniversary of the first U.S. Postal Air Mail flight with air mail related stories and crafts.

The Air Mail Day activities are included in the admission cost. An adult must accompany all children. The museum is located at 1985 Cpl. Frank Scott Dr. For information call 301-864-6029, TTY 301-864-4765.

Patriotic Bracelets Aid Area Veterans

Through the generosity of customers, Giant Food and affiliate Stop and Shop stores have raised more than $700,000 to aid American soldiers wounded in Iraq and Afghanistan.

In a little over a month, customers at the stores have purchased more than 350,000 Hero Band wristbands emblazoned with an American flag motif. All proceeds from Hero Band sales go to the Coalition to Salute America's Heroes, a nonprofit organization providing aid to the severely wounded in the states where the stores are located.

On July 28, County Councilmember Douglas J.J. Peters presented a $26,500 grant check to the Eleanor Roosevelt High School Parent, Teacher & Student Association (PTSA) that will provide 50 percent of the funding for construction of a new press box at the school's athletic field. Peters (far right) was joined by (from the left) Principal Sylvester Conyers, PTSA President Joy Exner and Treasurer LaDonna Monaldo for the presentation on the field. The Prince George's County Council makes Special Appropriations Grant Funding available to nonprofit organizations serving Prince George's County residents. In Fiscal Year 2005, which ended July 1, 2005, Peters allocated $115,000 in funding to 40 groups in the 4th County Council District.

GIVES Members Elect Two New Officers; Plan Festival Booth

by Virginia Beauchamp

In a follow-up to GIVES' annual meeting – this one on July 16 – the membership elected both a new president and new secretary. Marsha Voigt took over the position as chair, long-held by John Taylor, who had chosen not to run for re-election, and Mary Chapman succeeded Ruth Huggins, also long-serving as secretary. As in years past the membership voted to sponsor a booth at the Labor Day Festival representing the organization.

GIVES, which is an acronym, expresses the dedication and general spirit of the group. But its full name – Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteer Exchange Service – makes clear how the organization works. Its motto is even clearer: "Neighbors helping neighbors."

Like many Greenbelt organizations, GIVES is a cooperative. In this case, members perform services for one another, although the exchange is mediated through a central switchboard rather than directly. Thus someone who needs a ride to a medical appointment may offer equal time to the central exchange by performing some wholly different kind of service – perhaps stuffing envelopes or weeding a garden for someone else.

Some members earn exchange hours by staffing the GIVES phone located in the Senior Lounge of the Community Building. Here exchanges for other members are arranged and records are kept. The GIVES phone number is 301-507-6580, where those interested may call for further information about the organization and how to join. Membership is free. As the organization's name implies, persons of any age may become members.

At the July 16 meeting the group agreed that revising the GIVES brochure has become necessary, both to reflect board changes and to highlight new relationships that have developed since the hiring by the city of its Resource Advocate Christal Parker Batey. Some GIVES members have been assisting Batey in the delivery of food sacks in a county-sponsored program.

Big Bird Blues in Greendale

According to a bylined story by Karl Lydersen in the National News section of The Washington Post July 24 issue, a large blue Big Bird is creating neighborhood problems in Greendale, Wis. Greendale is a sister city to Greenbelt, one of three model planned communities built by the Resettlement Administration of the Franklin D. Roosevelt New Deal Administration in the mid-thirties. Unlike the homes in Greenbelt, many of the Greendale original homes were free-standing one-family units each with its own coal furnace and chimney. These homes are arranged along short alleyways called courts.

On Bluebird Court, according to the Post story, there resides an artist known as Al Emmons. Emmons has made decorative art work for over 100 of his neighbors to be placed on their chimneys. Neighbors and tourists alike have been charmed by his sculptures of butterflies and pineapples, according to the story.

For himself, Emmons created a Mickey Mouse sculpture for the chimney. On another home which he owns he created a bluebird for the chimney. What could be more suitable for a home on Bluebird Court?

The problem is that Emmons modeled his bird after Sesame Street's Big Bird. It is based on the story in which Big Bird is kidnapped and painted blue.

Residents have declared the three-foot plaster and stucco bird to be unsightly, tacky and dangerous. They have complained to the village plan commission, which denied a permit for the statue and recommended that the village board have it removed, according to the story in the Post.

Emmons is quoted as saying, "If my neighbors would be neighborly and just ask me to take it down, I would do so in a heartbeat. But they just holler at me and scream at me."
