Daniel Colton’s Guilty Plea Released, Shows Extortion, False Statements

by James Giese

A second holder of an owner-sirand, greenbelt Metropark, LLC, Daniel Colton of napolis and Raleigh, N.C., pledged guilty under seal on Sep-ember 13, 2010, to conspiracy to emit and to have made false stateements to the Federal Election mission. Unsealing of the guilty plea was owed to a sealed guilty plea on Septem-

30, 2009. Absent from this list-ng of actions by Colton is the term “term” which had been cluded in Ricker’s guilty plea that had been announced on May 30.

In exchange for such bribes, state and local officials had pered and agreed to perform favorable official actions for Colton, Ricker and other developers, business owners and their companies. According to the torney’s announce-such official acts or in obtaining approval letters for the Greenbelt Station Detailed Site

Colton’s plea agreement further admitted that state and local officials had concealed items they or by misrepresenting their are and value. Further, Colton and his co-conspirators concealed campaign contribu-ions to state and local officials that were above state and federal legal limits by using conduits and to in-kind contributions.

Specifically, Colton and his co-conspirators recruited “straw donors,” including family mem-and employees, to make state and federal campaign con-ions with funds provided by

City Council Holds Worksession On Storm Water Management

Just as unmanaged storm water runoff in the Anacostia Watershed gathers debris, chemicals and sediment and flows to-ward the river, storm water management projects gather competing priorities when they flow from idea to implementation.

That’s one way to look at the city council worksession on storm water management Wednesday night, June 1.

A full council discussed three storm water management stream mitigation at Greenbriar Park, county storm water management regulations (CB-15-2011) and stream restoration at Greenbelt and Hillside Roads.

Hunt the Parrot Is Home Safely

Just wanted to let everyone know that our Quaker parrot “Hunter,” who escaped last Tuesday, was safely returned on Friday. We want to thank all of our neighbors for their concern – especially the gals on Hillside Road who not only coaxed him out of a tree but provided him with a drink of water until we got him home. We also want to thank the mother and daughter who brought up some fresh fruit to help us try to entice him out of a tree near their home on Wednesday.

Our little green rebel is none the worse for his “rumspringa” and has a lot to talk about!

Registering Now Very Important to Schools

Thinking of Moving Your Children? Please do it now. It is hard to think of next school year as being just around the corner but for the teachers and administrators already they are planning for next year. And already the numbers of children for each grade are being counted.

Schools are assigned teachers because of the number of en-schools are losing teachers (for next year) because of the predicted decrease in student population. If possible, we would like to keep all our good teachers. To Join World’s Largest Swimming Lesson

How big is it? On Tuesday, June 14 at 11 a.m. the Greenbelt Civic and Fitness Center will participate with organizations across the nation to present “The World's Largest Swimming Lesson.” Pools, waterparks and aquatic facilities around the world will cooperate to build awareness of the vital importance of teaching children to swim to help prevent children from drowning, the second largest cause of accidental death among children 14 and younger.

Host locations will give free swimming and safety lessons simultaneously around the world to draw attention to the program while also attempting to break a Guinness world record.

For more information on the event in Greenbelt call the Aquatic and Fitness Center at 301-397-2204.

Cassels Service Award Applications Sought
The Greenbelt Consumer Co-operative is accepting applications for the 2011 Cassels Service Award. This award is $1,000 grant to be used to initiate and implement a new project or activity in 2012. Applications are considered by a panel of members of the cooperative.

Throughout his years in the Greenbelt community, Jim Cassels was an outstanding cooperator. Whether helping local groups, managing new cooperatives, guiding the formation and realization of senior housing or getting up at the crack of dawn to deliver newspapers in Green Ridge House, he was tireless in making Greenbelt the place all love to be.

Applications for this award should complete the application form available at the Co-op’s office or online at http://cassels.org/cassels_award. Applications should be returned to the Co-op or submitted online no later than November 15. The award ceremony will be held at the Co-op’s annual meeting this fall. For more information contact Jim Cassels at 301-349-3809 for more information.

Registration Is Now Open for Students
Registration is ongoing for new incoming students at all local public schools. Parents are encouraged to register their children as soon as possible, since the number of students increases throughout the beginning of the summer, based on current enrollment numbers.

To register, bring the child’s birth certificate, proof of residence and immunization record. For more information contact the local school or go to http://www1.pgcps.org.

ASG Star Party To Be Saturday
Everyone is invited to join the Ancient Starry Sky Society of Greenbelt (ASG) for a star party Saturday, evening June 11 at the City of Greenbelt Observatory at Northway Fields. In addition to the telescope in the observatory, several members will share personal telescopes and binoculars for the enjoyment of all. Observing will begin as soon as it is dark enough, probably around 9 p.m.

About 80 percent of the sur- face of the moon will be illuminated, offering excellent views of several craters. In ad- dition to the moon, objects to be observed include the planet Saturn as well as several nice double stars. ASG members will be available to answer questions and provide guidance should anyone getting started in this hobby.

The star party will be can- celled without notice if it is cloudy. Attendees are asked to park in the ball field lot at the bottom of the hill unless bringing a telescope. Warm weather has brought swarms of mosquitoes so bug repellant is strongly encouraged.

Mary Gardner
Mary Gardner, longtime Greenbelt resident, died on May 13, 2011. Greenbelt had been her home for 44 years. Having graduated from Philadelphia School of Nursing in 1947, she married Joseph “Joe” Gardner. With three children, Jim, Tom and Carolyn and a nursing job in the DC area, they arrived in Greenbelt in 1967 and she and Joe were very pleased at what they found here. They found a community for families, with activities for each age group. There were annual community events, local schools, playgrounds everywhere and the “Center,” with its pool, Co-op grocery store, etc. Both Joe and Mary had their turn as president of the Golden Age Club, a club she was still active with. She also belonged to the local stitching/crochet club and loved to donate items she had made for veterans and cancer patients.
Mary’s favorite times were spent with family and friends. She loved to tell jokes and would travel to be a part of reunions and family events.
She and Joe were regulars at local square dancing events and she made all of her own square dancing dresses and some matching skirts, too!
Her husband Joe died in 1988. She is survived by her three children, Jim, Tom and Carolyn; four grandchildren, Jim, Tim, Cassie and Doug; and two great-grandchildren, Piper and Addy and a brother, Howard.
Mary did every thing she could to remain independent and her wish was that she had grown to love so well.
Those wishing to make a donation in her memory are asked to send it to the Greenbelt CARES program, 25 Crescent Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770.

2011 Youth Sprint Triathlon

On the morning of Saturday, June 4, the Greenbelt Recreation Department held a Youth Sprint Triathlon for children age 8-15. As an official Let’s Move city and to support the Get Active Greenbelt initiative, the city offers this event as one of several programs throughout the year designed to encourage Greenbelters to live more active and healthy lifestyles. The race was held on Greenbelt Day Weekend and began with a 50 meter swim at the Greenbelt Aquatic and Fitness Center outdoor pool. Upon completing the swim, the children advanced to a transition area where they mounted their bicycles to ride a .75 mile bicycle course. After completing the biking portion of the race, participants ran a .7 mile course around the Buddy Atlick Park, lake path to the finish line at the park’s bandstand. The first participant to cross the finish line was 12 year old Eric Freeman, Jr., who was also the top overall finisher the previous year. Each participant received a medal, a Get Active Greenbelt water bottle, and a Youth Triathlon t-shirt. Trophies were presented to the top finishers in each age group. Congratulations to all participants and thanks to the Greenbelt Recreation Department staff for a successful event! The following were the top finishers of the age groups represented in the race with their respective finish times.

• 8 years old – Rylee Roberts (19:10)
• 9 years old – Corina Miko (19:08)
• 10 years old – Alex Freeman (12:45)
• 11 years old – Eric Freeman, Jr. (12:15)
• 12 years old – Katie Warner (13:40)
• 13 years old – Clara Becker (14:25)
• 15 years old – Manuel Avas (13:03)

Conrad of Prince George’s, won’t support upgrades to PGCPS facilities required by MDE as terms for its grant be done by ESA.

The city council worksession on storm water management gave a glimpse of the competing interests that pop up in efforts to address these issues. The city council worked on storm water management in the City Council Administration Building.

On the other side are developers and – as a recent Prince George’s County Clean Water Coalition letter suggests – fear that changes and rents in Prince George’s won’t support upgrades to [its] water quality requirements, creating “disincentives for redevelopment projects in older communities,” the letter says.

Greenhill and Hillside

In the third discussion Hruby recommended that the low bid be awarded to Donnell Landscape be placed on the next regular council meeting agenda.

Staff also recommended that $23,000 in additional inspection services required by MDE as terms for its grant be done by ESA.

During that time council will take a step back to consider the project in its budget and begin looking for funding.

The project is complex. It aims to reduce sediment and chemicals entering Greenbelt Lake by the grading of stream banks, installation of a coastal plain, outfall creating a series of step pools and two bed sills and removal of a failing culvert at the pedestrian tunnel under Greenbelt/Hillside Road.

Late last year, six vendors bid on the project and city staff recommended that the low bidder, Brookville-based McDonnell Landscaping, Inc. at $299,900, be selected (after ESA’s concerns about its experience had been addressed). Until recently, city staff has been working with the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) to fund a $166,800 funding gap so that construction can begin.

Now that MDE has agreed to provide an additional $147,990, the city is only $18,810 shy of closing the gap (provided the gap does not expand due to last-minute change orders). At the worksession, city staff recommended the decision to award the project contract to McDonnell Landscaping be placed on the next regular council meeting agenda.

Girl Scouts Paint Mural For City Animal Shelter

by Matthias Early

As animals from the Greenbelt Animal Shelter watched, members of a local Girl Scout troop painted a colorful mural on the side of the shelter this Memorial Day weekend. Four members of Troop 4816 were working on their Silver Award which, as Girl Scout Molly Noone-Meng described it, is for “doing stuff for the community and developing leadership.” Four girls from the troop, – Krissy Beauchamp, Rosie Harrington-Walton, Noone-Meng and Kaylee Romagna – all participated in the project.

It had taken these four Scouts many weeks of meetings and detailed planning to finally arrive at the two days of painting. The girls had been given approval by the Animal Shelter and the city and had designed a mural that would promote the shelter’s mission to find good homes for abandoned or unwanted pets. The four girls had taken photographs of the site and had decided to make a simple yet eye-catching design, almost like a text message, consisting of a letter U + (drawing of a dog and a cat’s face) = (image of a big heart with a person holding a cat).

When these Girl Scouts arrived at the shelter last Sunday, ready to paint, two kittens watched through the window. The Scouts first marked up the wall with chalk outlines of their design and then proceeded to paint the background neon green, a color chosen to represent the shelter.

Fanny, from the shelter, a few years earlier, Molly told me that she “wanted to help the animal shelter.”

The Greenbelt Animal Shelter has helped many people, including Molly, find a dog and many dogs, including Fanny, to find a new home. Molly’s mother Pat Noone said, “Fanny was adopted by her own owner. She had difficulty getting adopted because she was not good with other dogs. However, at the Labor Day Festival the Greenbelt Animal Shelter had several of their rescued dogs walking in the parade. Fanny picked out Molly from the crowd and came over to sit down next to her. Several days later, we checked out Fanny at the Animal Shelter, then the shelter checked to see if we would be good owners and then finally, we brought Fanny home.” Fanny now lives with Molly, gets lots of love in her new home and eats more than her share on a regular basis. Hopefully, the new mural painted by Troop 4816 will encourage other pet owners to consider adopting from the Greenbelt Animal Shelter.

Friday Arts Program Engages SHL Students

by Anne Gardner

Every Friday, as soon as school ends, a group of excited children hurry to the Springfield Lake Elementary cafeteria for their weekly art class. They spend an hour exploring many different media including paintings, collages and sculptures. Students learn techniques utilizing traditional art materials. They also learn to see creative potential in free materials all around, such as recyclable items and natural elements.

Art instructor Lucy Dirkson is delighted to bring art to the children and to provide a safe, nurturing place for them to go after school. She explains, “The children are excited about creating new pieces. They are willing to explore the creative process, which enriches their education.”

The Greenbelt Recreation Department set up the free after-school art program at the school in 2009 after being approached by Principal Natasha Jenkins. Jenkins was concerned that many children had nowhere to go after school if their parents were still at work. She wanted to give them the opportunity for enrichment activities outside of school hours.

The initial program was funded with one-time city scholarship money plus proceeds from a benefit concert and silent auction. The program proved to be popular, with over 130 students participating.

The students were then split by grade level into four groups, each with the opportunity to take a 6-week class. At the end of the school year the children’s art was exhibited both at the school and at Beltway Plaza mall. In order to continue the program this year, a grant was obtained from the Prince George’s Arts Council. Volunteers from the University of Maryland art department have been assisting with the classes, enjoying the opportunity to share their skills with the community and taking inspiration from the children’s enthusiasm.

The school held a well-attended art display and performance on Thursday, June 2. The event showcased students’ work from their in-school art programs, the after-school drama club organized by a group of teachers at the school, the after-school cooking club and the Recreation Department’s after-school art program.

School and Recreation Department staff hope the program can continue next school year. Another Prince George’s Arts Council grant proposal has been submitted and a benefit concert is being planned for Sunday, September 11 featuring local Greenbelt bands Harp 46 and Plutonic Crossing.

Meanwhile, students will continue to spend happy Friday afternoons giving free rein to their creativity.

GHI BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

Tokey Boswell was elected president of GHI for 2011-2012 by the Board of Directors at the Board meeting on May 26. Boswell had served as vice president the previous year.

Other officers elected by the Board were Laura Moore (vice president), Chuck Hess (Treasurer), and Ed James (Secretary).

Boswell, Hess, and Moore, who had run successfully in the recent GHI elections, were sworn in at the Board meeting, as was Bill Jones, also newly elected to the Board. (Re-elected director Pat Novinski was unable to attend the meeting.)

MORE INFORMATION

More information about the Board can be found at www.ghi.coop under the “About GHI” tab. Information about the powers and duties of officers can be found in the GHI Bylaws at http://ghi.coop/member-resources/governing-documents/ bylaws. The code of ethics can be found at www.ghi.coop/content/directors-code-ethics.

Is your Air Conditioner doing its job?

If not, now is a good time to replace it with an Energy Star unit. These units use at least 10% less energy than conventional units, and you can take advantage of the special incentives Pepco is providing this summer. Members could receive a $25 rebate for the purchase of a new ENERGY STAR room air conditioner, and larger rebates of 20% for commercial units.

To apply for a rebate, please contact the Pepco Conservation Customer Service Center at 1-877-779-PEPCO or visit www.pepco.com/cool.

ELLEN FOLKEE RETIRES

Ellen has worked at GHI for over 32 years. That’s a long time. She deserves her retirement; however, we could not let her go without saying a proper goodbye. On Ellen’s last day, May 3, 2011, staff met for a reception in Ellen’s honor.

Ellen was born in Yorkshire, England, and came to the United States well over 60 years ago. She has worked in GHI’s Finance, Maintenance, and Member Services departments. When a GHI member stops in, it is not unusual for Ellen to chat a bit. Not only did she work here, she lived in GHI for 31 years, so she has developed personal relationships with many members.

As a mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Ellen values family. She previously worked for St. Hugh’s as a physical education teacher, Ben Franklin Store as a computer operator and Seatle’s Dixy as an audit clerk, but fell in love with GHI’s workplace because of its family atmosphere. Over the years, Ellen became devoted to a number of the GHI endeavors, offering them advice and counsel on many issues. Many of them consider her family, as well. A reception was held for Ellen so that everyone could extend best wishes and say goodbye – but it would not surprise anyone if she dropped in from time to time. Because above all – she values family.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE

There are so many ways your skills, talents, and interests can contribute to making GHI a thriving and enjoyable community. You don’t have to be on a committee to be support our co-op activities. Would you like to have a GHI Yard Sale this year? Why not volunteer to help plan the GHI Day Parade? It can happen if interested members offer their time and talents. You can express your interest in these or any other activities you would like to start simply by accessing our website, www.ghi.coop and choosing the activities you would like to start simply by accessing our website, www.ghi.coop and choosing the "I want to Volunteer" selection on the home page. Other available options include sending an e-mail to mgmtoffice@greenbelthomes.net or calling Sheri Swaim, at 301-474-4161 ext 148. You can be the one to make a difference.

COMMUNICATIONS SURVEY

What do you think of the Communicator and the GHI News in Review? There is still time to fill out the survey. Go on line, www.ghi.coop, or call the GHI administration office. All responses received before June 30, 2011 will be included in the Survey Response Report.

Special Thanks - To the volunteers who assisted the Nomination & Elections Committee at the Annual Meeting. The friendly faces behind the registration tables belonged to Sandy George, Barbara Havekost, Hilary Howes, Barbara Logan, Jackie Magness and Liz Roslewicz.

GHI’S SOCIAL MEDIA INITIATIVE: Building a Community in a Community

By Sheri Swaim

Are you one of the over ½ billion Facebook users? Do you tweet? Now you can keep up with the latest happenings and upcoming events in GHI on both Facebook and Twitter!

GHI has gotten on board with social media! We have heard members’ many requests for more and better methods of communication and we are listening. By using Facebook and Twitter, we now offer fast, easy and virtual ways to keep GHI members informed. All you have to do is “Like Us” on Facebook or follow us on Twitter.

We have been told that some people in GHI still prefer to receive their information on paper, and we will continue using that medium when appropriate. But by using electronic communications, we can get information to you almost instantly, as well as provide a forum for feedback and the exchange of ideas between members. Digital communications offer great potential for improving communication. It’s fast and economical – that’s good for both GHI and the environment!

Like the Wizard of Oz, there is a person behind the curtain of GHI’s Facebook and Twitter accounts. Sheri Swaim, Special Assistant to the Management Office and Marketing/Communications Analyst, will be working with Management to ensure that correct and appropriate information is shared.

Register on July 5 For GED Classes

Greenbelt CARES will hold its Summer 10-week GED course starting Tuesday, July 5 and continuing through Thursday, July 28. Registration for the course will be held on Tuesday, July 5 from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The first class of instruction will be held on Thursday, July 7.

GED I is held from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and is for students who need review of basic math (addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions, decimals, percentages and word problems) and English grammar skills.

GED II is held from 1 to 3 p.m. and is for students who have successfully completed GED I and/or are ready to learn algebra and geometry, English literature and writing skills and prepare to take the GED test.

GED classes are held every Tuesday and Thursday for four weeks in the Municipal Building Conference Room at 25 Crescent Road. Students are required to show proof of residency (i.e., current lease, phone or electric bill, driver’s license or Motor Vehicle ID card).

There is no charge for Greenbelt residents. Nonresidents are required to pay a $75 registration fee.

Friends Community School Celebrates First 25 Years by Peter H. Curtis

On Sunday, June 5 more than 200 people took part in the celebration of Friends Community School’s (FCS) 25th anniversary at the school’s site off Kenilworth Avenue adjacent to Greenbelt Park. Current students and parents, graduates of the K-8 school, current and former teachers and parents and members of Adelphi Friends Meeting (which founded the school) gathered to celebrate its success.

Head of School Larry Clements introduced Altmann Pannell, the county council staff, who read a proclamation from Prince George’s County Council Chairperson Ingrid Turner. This statement praised the environmental stewardship, diverse student body, community contributions and high academic standards of the school. Presentation of the proclamation was followed by a Quaker Meeting for worship.

Clements spoke briefly about the past and future of FCS, emphasizing that the school’s success stemmed from the Adelphi Friends Community that had founded and nurtured it, as well as its continuing commitment to provide a high level of respect for each individual student as a child of God, good steward, peacemaker and a participant in peace and conflict resolution and service to the community.

Next the audience listened to the University Chorus of Adelphi University, Msgr. A. Clement, who emphasized the spiritual oversight of the institution.

The celebration concluded with refreshments and an appearance by Greenbelt’s own Greg May, who entertained the children with a variety of circus acts.

School History

How Friends Community School came to be located between Westchester Park and Greenbelt Park is a long story, involving simplicity and environmental stewardship. Carefully sited to avoid development of the land adjacent to Greenbelt Park in early 2003 and an intense capital campaign followed purchase of the land. (Greenbelters will remember that the city’s decision to purchase the property to keep it as forest land was circumvented by the Friends School purchase.)

Together with a large bank loan, FCS began to build its own home in 2005. Completed in 2007, the 27,000 sq. ft. building reflects basic Quaker tenets of simplicity and environmental stewardship. Carefully sited to avoid damage to wetlands, it is equipped with a green roof and exterior walls insulated with straw bales for maximum energy efficiency.

Enrollment growth from about 160 children to the current 204 (25 of them from Greenbelt) in grades kindergarten through eighth, in part due to the facility to the brim.

Peter Curtis is a News Review staff member of the Board of Trustees of Friends Community School.

Concert Series at Mishkan Torah Highlights Outstanding Young Talent by Carol Griffith

Usually one expects to receive gifts for a birthday rather than give them, but Sarah Saviet, in the second concert of the Young Performers Concert Series at Mishkan Torah synagogue, did just that, in a most spectacular way.

In keeping with this year’s theme of “From Generation to Generation,” the Mishkan Torah community organized the Young Performers Concert Series to showcase its aspiring young artists, and to “commemorate and celebrate that continuity from the old guard to a new, committed and highly talented younger generation.”

Saviet is a native of Washington, D.C., and is currently studying at the Jacobs School of Music at Indiana University. She also attended Peabody Preparatory where she served as concertmaster and was an invited member of the Conservatory’s Symphony Orchestra. For the second concert, March 13, Saviet was accompanied on piano by fellow student of the Jacobs School of Music Tel-Haim Samnon. Samnon was born in Israel and served in the Israeli army as a distinguished musician. Since the age of 7 he has performed in many concerts in Israel and Europe. Saviet performed two movements from the Sonata for Violin Solo No. 2 in A Minor by Bach, and was joined by Samnon on “Poeme” by Chausson, which contained a difficult series of double stops, and Schumann’s “Poeme” by Chausson, which was joined by Samnon on piano.

Saviet and master of ceremonies and tenor Ben Greenfield, the first performer in the concert series, gave the audience some background information on each piece and described the emotions embodied in the music, ranging from “passionate” to “tormented.”

After an enthusiastic standing ovation, the duo performed an encore, a selection by Austrian virtuoso Fritz Kreisler and afterwar the audience warmly sang “Happy Birthday” to Saviet both in English and Hebrew.

The third concert of the Young Performers Concert Series was held on May 15 featuring Joshua Rosen with a concert of French horn pieces. Rosen has grown up at Mishkan Torah performing first at age five. It’s hard to say who most enjoyed Rosen’s concert – the rapt audience or performer Joshua Rosen and his guest collabora-

The highlight of the concert was Rosen’s original composition of the “I Will Espouse You” text from the book of Hosea in Hebrew, written for his parents’ wedding anniversary. Tenor Ben Greenfield, whose talents were showcased at the first concert of the series, added the touching “vocals to Rosen’s Kraus” accompaniment.

Rosen introduced his friend, fellow student and tuba player Hasil Chazanow, who performed a suite written for the unaccompanied tuba. The beautiful composition is a selection from the yézé- ope’s text, “The Pearl Fishers,” performed by French horn, piano, and trombone.

It was obvious by the hunter and smiles that the artists were thoroughly enjoying their collabora-

“Mary & Barry” Trips Are a Hit!

by Kathleen McFarland

The third “Mary & Barry” bus trip started off early from Greenbelt on a Sunday morning, April 3. The 37 travelers all were wondering: Would this trip South be as much fun and as interesting as the first two trips had been to the Smoky Mountains and Niagara Falls? Would Barry’s jokes still be funny? Would we still have grand hotel accommodations and tasty meals? Would we meet nice people and learn about new places?

The answer turned out to be “yes” on all counts.

Fort Bragg: On the way to our hotel in Lumberton, N.C., to spend the first night of the two-day journey, we stopped at Fort Bragg in Fayetteville, N.C. for a tour of the 18-year old Airborne and Special Operations Museum. A fantastic movie showed how paratroopers and other troops are trained and exhibits of scenes, uniforms and weaponry in military operations from 1917 to the present day rivaled the Smithsonian.

Monday: A surprise. Our leaders found that we had time for a detour to historic Charles- ton, S.C. In small groups we strolled the waterfront or checked out the marketplace teeming with tourists on the only really warm day of our trip.

Tuesday: After Monday night in Savannah with a delicious dinner at Houlihan’s restaurant and a restful stay in our luxurious hotel at Cathedral of St. John the Baptist and spent time in beautiful Forsyth Park.

Wednesday: Our afternoon destination was the restored home and garden where Juliette (“Daisy”) Gordon Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, was born and raised and later died. It has been owned and operated by the Girl Scouts of America since 1954. A charming young woman guide told us amusing tales of the family life of this amazing woman. This tour was to me, still a Girl Scout at heart, the highlight of the trip.

That evening our dinner was at the banquet center with several hundred other tourists. When a keyboardist entertained with music from all eras the visitors were soon doing the Mexican hat dance, the chicken dance and even jitterbugging. Bus riders from Texas ended the evening with an impromptu square-dance performance.

Thursday: While still on the bus, we had to show our IDs to a young Marine as we entered the famous Parris Island Marine training base, situated on an island amid the marshes of the “low country” of South Carolina and an entryway lined with large trees dripping with Spanish moss.

Friday: It was hard to believe it was time to head back. We left our luxurious suites early in the morning and had a last few hours in Savannah for shopping and lunch before starting on the trip north, reaching our hotel in Lumberton, N.C., by dinnertime.

The final day, Saturday, we had a brief stop at a J.R.’s discount store and watched old “Honeymooners” episodes on the bus TV, lunched at Cracker Barrel and then stopped for a short visit to the museum of the Virginia Historical Society in Richmond before pulling into Greenbelt at the library parking lot about 7 p.m.

Our leaders Mary and Barry had told us this would be their last trip for a while. But hearing our clamor for more, they relented. A new trip, to Asheville in western North Carolina in October, is in the planning stages.

“Vandergrift!” at Arts Center Recounts a True Story

by Jim Link

The bittersweet shock of recognition may well greet Greenbelters lucky enough to see “Vandergrift!” now at Greenbelt Arts Center. The true story of a southwestern Pennsylvania steel mill town, fictionally enhanced by author Tony Gallo, takes us through 50 years of community turmoil and evolution.

From the 1890s through WWII the citizens of Vandergrift have been racked by issues of union organization, race and immigration, environmental quality, history and aesthetics in a planned community meant to be a workers paradise.

Prime mover of this utopian vision is the morally ambiguous millionaire industrialist George McMurtry, who funds his noble dream purely to maximize profits and to break the dreaded “social- ized” labor unions. The philistine McMurtry is convinced he can slap a patina of high culture and fragile civility onto Vandergrift by contracting with Frederick Law Olmsted to design the town. To McMurtry the distinguished architect is little more than a hired gun.

However, the fishbone in Mc- Murtry’s throat, his indefatigable antagonist, is the fearless muckraking journalist Ida Tarbell, who has already spoken truth to power by exposing John D. Rockefeller’s Standard Oil Company’s monopolistic criminality. McMurtry’s other nemesis is John Donnmore, the hard-drinking union organizer who evokes into a respectable married man and effective city councilman.

In the course of the play, Big George actually grows fond of Tarbell’s integrity and charm, even after she forces him to ad- mit that Olmsted’s faux-Greek municipal center is nothing but a “Scotch-Irish Acropolis.” He is particularly impressed with her answer when he asks why she keeps tilting at windmills.

“I once thought I could not re- construct the world because I am a woman,” she says. “But then I realized I could reconstruct the world because I am a woman.”

As decades pass, the audience is treated to snippets of “Over There” by George M. Cohan, “Take Me Out to the Ball Game” by Jack Norworth and Bruce Springsteen’s “My Hometown.”

The cast, from Anthony Gal- lo’s Seventh Street Playhouse in Washington, D.C., packed with trouper, is uniformly excellent. Jan Forbes (George McMurtry) has appeared onstage in over 100 productions since 1965, Helenmary Ball (Ida Tarbell) ages beautifully right before our eyes. A talented actress, Ball is also director and costume designer.

Find out how this troubled town reacts to the Japanese economic resurgence and the use of outsourcing. Do yourself a favor and see “Vandergrift!” on Friday or Saturday at 8 p.m. or Sunday at 2 p.m., on June 10, 11 and 12.

Safeway Fundraiser For Prostate Cancer
During June all Safeway stores are focused on the annual pros- tate cancer awareness and fund-raising campaign. Safeway is a major long-term corporate supporter of cancer research and outreach in both prostate and breast cancer. It has contributed more than $65.4 million, with customers invited at checkout stands to make donations.

In the past 14 months four new drugs have been approved by the FDA for patients with advanced prostate cancer, three of them supported in part with funds from the annual Safeway campaign. Safeway partners with the Prostate Cancer Foun- dation, the world’s largest philanthropic supporter of prostate cancer research.

Early American Wine Tasting, Book Reading at New Deal Café

by Don Comis

Come to the New Deal Café on Sunday, June 12 from 2 to 4 p.m. and drink a free toast – with early American wine – to Walt Whitman, who was born in Greenbelt and – Dr. Daniel Norton, an obscure medical doctor who was the first American grape breeder that could withstand disease and make a world-class wine. Dr. Norton lived in Richmond and bottled the first Norton’s Virginia red wine in the 1820s, beginning a new age for American wine. Norton’s Virginia went on commercial production in 1848, six years after Dr. Norton died.

As novelist/memoirist Darin Strauss wrote recently in a guest piece, "The Norton wine is rugged, soulful, earthy, wild, bold on the palate. It is America. It is the Norton grape returned 50 years after Prohibition ended, California wines were dominating the nation. But the resurgence of the native American grape has Norton vineyards growing again in Missouri and Virginia as well as other states. One of the two Norton wines being tasted at the Café comes from the Chrysalis Vineyards, in Aldie, near Middleburg, Va., owned by Jeff Cloud, formerly Michael Marsh, who figures prominently in Kliman’s "The Norton Doctor’s Legacy.""

And that is the real point of the book, a celebration of America’s native wine growing region – to peel away the layers and unravel the secrets of Norton wine, paired with free appetizers and free appetizers and copies of the book, a celebration of America’s native soil.
