The Big Snow Brings Greenbelters Together

by Kyla Hanington

“I just thought that was wonderful,” said Bunny Fitzgerald of Greenbriar on discovering her upstairs neighbor had shoveled out her car. “I couldn’t clean off my car because the snow was too high. But I went out on Sunday and everyone in our building and the building next door was out shoveling snow. The young woman who lives above me shoveled out my car,” Fitzgerald explained happily.

Both Fitzgerald and Mayor Emmett Jordan, who also lives in Greenbriar, were happy with the work of Public Works and CVI, the management company of Greenbriar; crews were working as early as Friday night shoveling, salting and sanding walkways around the complex. “They’ve done a beautiful job,” said Fitzgerald.

Jordan, speaking on Saturday, noted that the driveway to his complex was clear. He walked around parts of Greenbelt that day and observed that Greenway Center was open and the parking lot clear for people who had emergencies and needed to get to the grocery or drugstores. Likewise, Roosevelt Center was cleared and the Co-op grocery store, closed on Saturday, was back in operation on Sunday and had a steady stream of shoppers. The Old Greenbelt Theatre opened every day, with some free shows for children during the days such as Pixar Shorts on Monday and Frozen on Tuesday, as well as its originally scheduled movie lineup. Members received email notice that the theater was open.

Public Works

According to Jordan, Public Works ran round-the-clock staff during the storm, with the crews “working really hard. They are on rotating shifts; they’re on call, on duty, sleep there.” Jordan explained that Public Works was focused first on getting major roadways clear, then residential streets and then public walkways and sidewalks. Already most streets are clear, excepting where people have shoveled snow back into the roads as they clear off their cars. Some of the inner walkways have been plowed and salted. “I think they’re doing a really good job,” said Jordan.

GSA Requests Bids for New FBI HQ, D.C. Hoover Building Swap

by James Giese

On Friday, January 22, the General Services Administration (GSA) announced that it had issued Phase II of its Request for Proposals (RFP) for the Federal Bureau of Investigation Headquarters Consolidation Project. It also announced that President Barack Obama’s Fiscal Year 2017 budget proposal to Congress will include funding in support of full consolidation of the project.

The following is the GSA release:

Washington —The U.S. General Services Administration today issued Phase II of the Request for Proposals to the bidders that will compete for title to the J. Edgar Hoover Federal Building in exchange for the construction of a new 2.1 million rentable square foot Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) headquarters facility. To ensure that GSA can make an award for the project in FY17, GSA also announced that $1.4 billion in construction funding will be included in the President’s FY17 budget to be released on February 9, 2016.

“The Administration is committed to acquiring a consolidated new headquarters facility for the FBI, a member of the intelligence community,” said Bill Dowd, project executive for GSA’s Public Buildings Service. “The consolidated headquarters facility will allow the FBI to perform its critical national security, intelligence and law enforcement missions in a new modern and secure facility. We appreciate Congress’ support of the project through the inclusion of $390 million in the Fiscal Year 2016 Omnibus.”

In October, GSA notified the short-listed bidders that they had been selected to participate in Phase II. In Phase II, bidders will submit proposals to construct the consolidated FBI headquarters in exchange for the J. Edgar Hoover Federal Building. The project will bring together FBI headquarters functions currently housed at the Hoover building, as well as those dispersed at multiple locations across the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area.

Three potential sites Greenbelt, Landover and Springfield, VA for the new FBI headquarters facility have already been identified: The National Environmental Policy Act evaluation process is underway and GSA released the draft environmental impact statement in November, held public meetings in each of the three local jurisdictions, and is in the process of reviewing public comments.

GHI Board Approves City’s Request to Buy 10-A Crescent

by Kathleen Gallagher

Eight members of the Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. voted unanimously at their January 21 meeting to allow the City of Greenbelt to acquire the use of the house at 10-A Crescent Road for the purpose of expanding the space available to the Greenbelt Museum, which currently occupies the other half of the duplex, 10-B Crescent Road. Board Member Diana McFadden was ill and did not attend the meeting.

The motion to support was made by Treasurer Chuck Hess, who listed the board’s two conditions for the approval. One was that the city agree to sign new commercial Mutual Ownership Contracts (MOCs) for both 10-A and 10-B, since the MOC for the second house would otherwise be based upon a more recent template than the first. The second condition was that the city pay all legal costs associated with the creation of the MOCs for the two houses.

Speaking of Costs

It appeared that some GHI members had been concerned that there would be costs to the membership if the unit were occupied by the city for the museum. Board Member Bill Jones said it should be understood that “GHI will neither receive any less money nor spend any more money than [if the occupants were] natural-born members.” In short, he said that although the unit would be removed from residential occupancy, there would be no financial loss to other members as a result.

Vice President Susan Ready added that, in fact, the situation was quite to the contrary. “The City of Greenbelt has always been a good member at 10-B,” she said. “Not only do they always pay their co-op fee on time, they always pay it a year in advance.”

The next steps involve the city’s review of the draft MOC. President Steve Skolnik indicated that the draft MOC for 10-A is based not on the MOC for 10-B but on another commercial membership. The 10-B MOC will be redrawn from that commercial membership. Hess recommended that the city’s attorney first look at the draft, with review by GHI’s attorney to follow, including any queries or requested changes from the city.

Mutual Benefits

City Councilmember Judith Davis, who was also present at the meeting, reinforced the idea that having the Greenbelt Museum located in a GHI house really is a benefit to both the city and to GHI, since people’s first

Letters to the Editor

Neighborly Behavior?

My wife and I have been Greenbelt residents since 1970. We have raised our two kids here who attended Greenbelt Elementary and Middle schools and then Eleanor Roosevelt High School. They participated in many of the activities provided by the schools and by the city. For almost all of those years my wife and I have volunteered for many city-sponsored activities as we have tried to be good neighbors to our community. And we continue to volunteer now. Like many others, I was shoveling out my driveway Saturday morning. A gentleman approached me and asked if he could borrow my snow shovel so he could dig a path in the snow. He offered to give me some money. I told him that I had a second shovel that he could borrow and that I didn't want any money for it. It seemed like the right thing to do in our community. I just asked that he return it when he was finished. I took a break and went inside for a while. When I went back out, I saw that the gentleman had returned my shovel as asked. But I noticed that someone had taken my other shovel. This is not the first time that I have lost a shovel. Over the years, we have had a motorcycle and many potted plants stolen from our carport, had our car broken into and had our house broken into and trashed. For some time, people have been telling me that we should move out of this area. If our neighborhood is not going to be a community of people helping each other, I may have to consider making such a change.

Bob and Betty Sonneveldt

Thank You

I would like to offer a big thank you to Public Works plow drivers Mike and Freddy, who helped clear Orange Court Monday morning as I needed to get to the airport for a flight on Monday evening. Earlier attempts at plowing our court had put a berm of snow and ice on our side making it impossible to get out. They took the time to make sure our driveway entrance was clear and then put down sand over the ice.

G-CAN Co-sponsors Book Discussion

A discussion group is forming on the book, Active Hope: How to Face the Mess We're in Without Going Crazy. This book gives specific ways to stay involved in life, even when much of what is happening in the world is discouraging. Joanna Macy and her co-author Chris Johnstone have developed strategies to help people move past despair and fear over the climate crisis and stay hopeful and active. This event is free of charge and co-sponsored by Greenbelt Climate Action Network.

There will be eight or nine sessions, probably twice a month, but dates and frequency of meetings will be decided by the participants. For more information or to indicate interest, please leave a message at 301-474-1353 or contact marjory.donn@verizon.net.

Toastmasters to Meet

The next meeting of the Greenbelt Toastmasters Club will be on Wednesday, February 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Social Hall of Greenbelt Community Church at Hillside and Crescent Roads. The Social Hall is at the rear of the church on the lower level of the main building.

Toastmasters offers professionals, students, stay-at-home parents and retirees a supportive environment to improve skills in communication and leadership. Members learn to lose the fear of public speaking, become better listeners and build skills for success.

Twisted at Roosevelt Rescheduled

Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) presents Twisted, the story of Aladdin told from the perspective of evil Vizier Jafar. The student-production musical features a full pit orchestra and 12 performers. The show is performed in the new Sally Wagner Black Box Theater at ERHS in Room 004. Show dates, rescheduled because of the snow, are January 29, February 2 and 4 at 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door. This show is not suitable for children.

Annual Climate Change Update

Greenbelt Climate Action Network will hold a Climate Change Update on Wednesday, February 3 from 7 to 9:15 pm at the Community Center, Room 114.

Chris Barnet will provide an entertaining summary of the recent science of climate change. The presentation will be an overview of hundreds of the most recent scientific papers. Topics will include historical (paleo) climate analogues, recent climate change modeling predictions as well as recent measurements of climate change. He will also present an analysis of fossil fuel emissions and conclude with an analysis of potential solutions. Barnet hopes to engage the audience with a broad brush of topics and then lead an impromptu conversation of any or all of these topics.

Barnet has lived in Greenbelt for over 25 years. In his early career, he modeled planetary atmospheres and used Voyager Spacecraft and Hubble Space Telescope sensors to understand the climates of Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. For the last two decades, he has developed algorithms for monitoring the Earth's weather and climate from advanced Earth-orbiting sensors.

As always, the last portion of the evening will be used for local announcements and updates on Greenbelt sustainability projects.

For more information, contact Lore Rosenthal at lore@simplicity-matters.org or 301-345-2234.

City Offers Rain Garden Workshops

The Department of Public Works is offering a series of three free workshops for those who have thought about planting a rain garden but felt that they needed some help. The first workshop, Stormwater Audit, will be held January 30 from 10 a.m. to noon. Attendees will learn how to assess a property for stormwater problems and opportunities and how to site a rain garden.

On February 27, a workshop will feature a tour of local rain gardens so attendees can view displays and talk with local landscapers. The third, a Rain Garden Clinic on March 19, will allow attendees to get real-time help with rain garden design and a Rain Check Rebate application.

All workshops will be held at the Public Works Office, 555 Crescent Road; door prizes and refreshments will be included. To register go to: signupgenius.com/go/20f084eaaa72eaaff2-rain.

Our condolences to the family of Chuck Ashurst who died on January 5.

Within the cold temperatures and the blowing snow, we found that the blizzard of 2016 provided yet another example of why Greenbelt is great! Main roads in Greenbelt were cleared quickly, and proper machinery was used to move the snow and not just push it. Most importantly, our neighbors stepped in to help those in need and even cleared interior walkways. We hear many reports of courts working together to lessen the snow piles plows left behind or helping elderly who would otherwise be unable to clear their sidewalks. Others ventured to Roosevelt Center to see a movie, take in a puppet show, or shop at Coop Supermarket. The City of Greenbelt took to social media to provide thorough updates on snow clearing and city service openings/closings.

Congratulations to James Blue on receiving his Bachelor of Computer Science degree from the University of Maryland. He lives on Plateau Place. His parents both grew up in Greenbelt.

Get well wishes to John H. Crisman who is recuperating at home in Virginia.

Share your accomplishments, milestones or news for the next Our Neighbors column. To send information for Our Neighbors, email editor@greenbeltnewsreview.com or leave a message at 202-957-3072.

Obituaries

Charles “Chuck” Ashurst

On Tuesday, January 5, 2016 Charles “Chuck” Roderick Ashurst, 64, of Greenbelt died peacefully in his sleep at home. Originally from Fowler, Colo., he served as a teletypist for the U.S. Army during the Vietnam War. He then moved to Alexandria, Va., where he started his government career at the Bureau of Public Debt. Later while working at the National Archives, Mr. Ashurst completed his bachelor’s degree in history. In the mid-1980s, he worked briefly as a cab driver before transitioning to the U.S. Postal Service, where he spent 15 years serving Hyattsville and Riverdale. He completed his doctor of law degree at the University of the District of Columbia in 2000, joining the Maryland Bar Association and practicing family law in Prince George’s County.

Mr. Ashurst enjoyed gardening, cooking and helping others. He was an active church member for over 35 years, the last four at St. George’s Episcopal Church in Glenn Dale. He was known for helping others, especially the homeless and disenfranchised. His sense of humor lightened life for many people and he treated everyone equally, showing great patience while nurturing others, young and old alike. Mr. Ashurst spent several years accompanying his daughter Jenny in delivering this newspaper in Springhill Lake Apartments (now Franklin Park).

Mr. Ashurst is survived by his wife Luella Tabor, son Matthew (Anne) Ashurst and daughter Jenny Ashurst, grandchildren Angel and Christian Ashurst, sisters Christine MacLennon and Coleen Ashurst, and his mother Alice Franz. His father John R. MacLennon pre-deceased him.

A memorial service was held at St. George’s Episcopal Church on Saturday, January 16, 2016. Memorial contributions may be made in his name to the St. George’s Episcopal Church’s Ensuring Our Future fund, 7010 Glenn Dale Road, Glenn Dale, MD 20769.

Chrissy Wilkin's Art At New Deal Café

Currently on display at the New Deal Café is a solo show exhibiting the art of Chrissy Wilkin. This show features her paintings and drawings from 2014 to 2016; a variety of styles, themes and media are explored.

In the front room there is a collection of ink paintings on rice paper. While Wilkin was teaching art in China in 2015 she learned about Chinese painting and kept a diary of artwork. Also in the front room are illustrations created for a children's book written by Jerico Ortanez. Starting on the left side of the wall, read through the poem, moving from illustration to illustration. Wilkin incorporated spirals throughout the drawings, an innovative use of a classic children's toy, the spirograph.

In the back room of the café is a mixture of paintings and detailed illustrations. The illustrations are close-up graphic illusions of different animals: a lion made of mice, a bird made of feathers. The illustrations seem like watercolor, but they are entirely drawn with markers. Large paintings are interspersed throughout the show, showing an expression of emotion in stark contrast with the highly detailed drawings.

Wilkin has done an excellent job exhibiting her breadth of style, influence and technique. This is truly a dynamic collection of work by a multifaceted artist. Her work will be up in the New Deal Café through the end of February. The opening reception will be held on February 7 from 3 to 5 p.m., featuring a performance by The Lunchbox.

The show is sponsored by FONDCA and the City of Greenbelt. For more information contact ChrissySilver@yahoo.com.

Reception for Little At New Deal Café

Now through the end of February, the New Deal Café is showing wearable art by mixed media fiber artist and former Greenbelt Artist-in-residence Russ Little. Join the artist for a reception at the Café on Sunday, February 7 from 1 to 3 p.m., sponsored by Friends of the New Deal Café (FONDCA) and the City of Greenbelt.

The scarves on display began as plain white cloth. Little creates richly colored and patterned surfaces by painting, silk screening and block printing with dye and paint, through batik wax resist or through the Japanese bound resist known as shibori. Finished cloth, which often includes many layers of dye patterning, is then assembled into a scarf to wear or display.

Little's fiber work ranges from the wearable art displayed at the Café to large-scale art quilts, art cloth and liturgical textiles (altar hangings and vestments). Little's work is primarily non-figurative and abstract with what is often described as a mid-century aesthetic. He is inspired by the strong formal qualities of Richard Diebenkorn, the gestural qualities of Robert Motherwell, the color sense of van Gogh and Cézanne, as well as the work of contemporary fiber artists such as Nancy Crow and Dorothy Caldwell.

With an academic and professional background in geography and cartography, as well as IT management, Little seeks to merge the quantitative and qualitative sides of himself in his art, which tends to have a distinct inner structure but strives to embrace free-spirited spontaneity.

More of Little's work is on his website at russlittlefiberartist.com.

Hoover Federal Building
The FBI has occupied the J. Edgar Hoover Federal building since 1974. The building is situated in a prime location on Pennsylvania Avenue. The 1.77 million rentable square foot (2.4 million gross square foot) building sits on 6.7 acres of land and is a prime location for office, retail and residential uses.

Reducing Federal Footprint
The FBI Headquarters Consolidation Project is part of GSA’s ongoing effort to meet the Obama Administration’s goals to reduce the footprint and operational efficiency by consolidating federal agencies into government-owned space and getting under-performing federal facilities off the government’s books. (end of release)

Washington Post
The Washington Post reported this announcement in its January 24 edition. It also reported that Obama is seeking $1.4 billion in appropriations in the FY17 budget which is to be released February 9. Senator Barbara Mikulski had previously obtained a $390 million set-aside, concerned that sale of the Hoover Building would not be enough to provide a feasible plan to build the proposed 2.1 million square foot building.

The Post article also said, “Although the agency has declined to name which teams remain, executives familiar with the search say there are four, led by Boston Properties, Lerner Enterprises, the Peterson Cos. and the JBG Cos. along with Vornado Realty Trust. Those firms have declined to publicly confirm their participation.” Lerner Enterprises has been part-owner in a number of Greenbelt development projects and built the University Square apartments. However, the company is also reported to be the owner of the former Landover Mall property which is in contention for the FBI headquarters. Ted Lerner is the principal owner of the Washington Nationals baseball franchise.

Mikulski also issued a press release on January 22. In it she is quoted as saying, “I’ve fought tooth and nail for the men and women of the FBI, working to secure a $390 million significant down-payment in the FY16 funding bill. And now that the President has requested full funding for the new headquarters. . . . I’ll work my earrings off to put the funds in the federal checkbook.”

The Post story notes however that, “House Minority Whip Steny Hoyer, D-Md., a proponent of the project, has said he is not a big fan of the swap idea because he believes the Hoover Building would probably bring in more money if it were sold independently, rather than offered only to companies that also have the capability and interest needed for building a campus.”

Unclear is whether the final arrangement will remain the lease-purchase deal originally proposed by GSA or if the government will construct the building with its own funds, although the proposed appropriation would indicate that the government will build and own the building. It is also unclear if land ownership could be an issue, since the Greenbelt site is owned by Metro and was to be made available for development on a long-term lease basis.

WMATA to Hold Hearing on FBI Site

The City of Greenbelt has received notice that the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, February 23 concerning revised plans for the redevelopment of the Greenbelt Station property by Renard Development Co., LLC to provide for commercial and office facilities and to provide a site for the location of the Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters. The hearing will be held at the Greenbelt Marriott at 7 p.m. with an information session at 6:30 p.m. Prior to the hearing, beginning February 6, WMATA personnel will be soliciting the views of passengers at the Greenbelt station. More information is available on line at wmata.com/development.

Police Blotter

Based on information released by the Greenbelt Police Department, www.greenbeltmd.gov/police Dates and times are those when police were first contacted about incidents.

Abduction

January 15, 4:50 p.m., 7500 block Mandan Road. A 12-year-old boy was walking home from the bus stop when a vehicle described as a red SUV pulled up to him. Four men, ages unknown, got out and showed him a photo of a person on a cell phone. They asked if he knew the person. He said he did not and started to walk away. The men got back into the vehicle but then got out again, ran up to the boy, forced him into the SUV and drove away. They asked him several more times if he knew the identity of the person pictured on the cell phone. The boy told them again that he did not know. The men then dropped him off in the 7200 block Hanover Drive. The boy was not injured.

Robbery

January 15, 9:54 p.m., 7400 block Frankfort Drive. Four men wearing ski-type masks approached two people walking home. One of the men displayed a handgun and announced a robbery. They took cellphones from the two people and fled on foot toward the 10000 block Greenbelt Road. They were described as one Latino and three black men, all approximately 5'10" tall, wearing trench coats.

Armed Person

January 17, 4:08 a.m., 7500 block Greenbelt Road. A man driving north on the Baltimore-Washington Parkway flashed his high beams at another vehicle as it drove past him at a high rate of speed. The driver of the speeding car then slowed and began following the driver who had flashed his high beams. The latter driver then exited the Parkway onto Greenbelt Road and was followed by the driver who had been speeding. The vehicles were side by side when they were stopped by a traffic light. The driver of the car that had been speeding displayed a handgun and then drove away. He is described as a black man, 6' tall, 180 pounds, wearing blue jeans, gray sweater and a black hat, driving a black 4-door Nissan.

Arrest

January 16, 2:12 p.m., 6000 block Greenbelt Road. A 21-year-old resident was arrested and charged with trespass and theft during a theft investigation. She was released on citation pending trial.

January 17, 6100 block Breezewood Court. Two non-residents ages 16 and 18 were arrested for theft from auto after the car owner saw both of them inside her vehicle. They fled on foot but were located nearby and positively identified by the owner. The adult nonresident was also found to be in possession of property taken from her car. He was released on citation pending trial. The youth was released to a parent pending action by the juvenile justice system.

DWI/DUI

January 18, 3:43 p.m., 7500 block Mandan Road. A 47-year-old Greenbelt man was arrested and charged with alcohol- and traffic-related offenses after officers responded to a call about a suspicious vehicle.

Theft

January 14, 2:55 p.m., 100 block Westway. A taxi driver reported that he picked up a woman passenger in Rockville and drove her to the 100 block Westway. Upon arrival she said she had to go inside her home to get money to pay for the ride. She never returned to pay the driver.

January 19, 5:14 p.m., 9300 block Edmonston Road. A parcel package was taken from the front stoop of a residence.

Disorderly Conduct

January 16, 5:27 p.m., 58 Court Ridge Road. A 57-year-old resident was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct after officers responded to a report of a person sitting in a vehicle revving the engine. She was released on citation pending trial.

Burglary

January 18, 8:24 p.m., 9100 block Springhill Lane. A 16-year-old Greenbelt youth was arrested for burglary after he was located in a vacant apartment. He was released to a parent pending action by the Juvenile Justice System.

January 19, 4:58 p.m., 6100 block Springhill Terrace. A maintenance worker entered a vacant apartment to do some work when a man and a woman walked out of the bathroom. The worker left the apartment and walked to his truck in the 9200 block Springhill Lane. Once inside the truck he saw the man walk up to his truck and puncture two tires on it using a knife. He then fled on foot.

Vehicle Crime

One vehicle was stolen, a silver 4-door 2002 Oldsmobile Alero, taken from the 9100 block Edmonston Road on January 16.

Two vehicles were recovered. A 2004 Ford Crown Victoria reported stolen by Prince George's County Police was recovered on January 14 in the 9300 block Edmonston Road. A 2001 Dodge Ram pickup reported stolen December 30 from the 5900 block Cherrywood Lane was recovered January 19 by D.C. Metropolitan Police in the 3500 block 17th Street, N.E.

One theft from auto was reported in the 6200 block Springhill Drive, where the driver side window was broken and an in-dash CD player, speakers and amplifier were removed.

Two incidents of auto vandalism occurred. In the 6200 block Breezewood Drive a rock was thrown at the rear window, breaking it and damaging the body. In the 9100 block Edmonston Terrace graffiti was written on the hood of a vehicle and two tires were slashed.

introduction to GHI often comes through the museum.

City Manager Michael McLaughlin attended the meeting, as did Museum Board Member Anna Socrates and Sheila Maf-fay-Tuthill, education and volunteer coordinator for the museum.

Pending City Ordinance

On January 11 council introduced for first reading an ordinance to authorize the city to acquire by negotiated purchase the rights-to-use 10-A Crescent. The ordinance was scheduled to return for second reading and adoption on council's January 25 agenda. Because of the snow over last weekend, the meeting is currently rescheduled for Thursday, January 28. While there is thus one step left to close the loop, little doubt exists that council will adopt the ordinance at the first possible snow-free opportunity.

The city's ordinance stipulates the sale price to be up to $200,000, plus any related costs or fees. Since GHI is a cooperative, the sale would not actually be for the real estate at 10-A but rather to enter into a mutual ownership contract (MOC) with GHI that would give the city a right to perpetual use of the unit. Since the city is already a GHI member by virtue of its MOC for 10-B, it would still be allowed to hold only one membership vote following the purchase of 10-A.

The house at 10-B was acquired by the city for use by the museum as part of its 50th Anniversary celebration in 1987. At the time, it was recognized as extraordinary good luck to have a house become available in a location so near the town center, the Municipal Building and what eventually became the renovated Community Center.

Ever since then, the staff and friends of the museum have hoped that in time it would be possible for the museum to occupy 10-A as well. The additional space would permit consolidation of some museum functions currently located in the Community Center, which in turn would enable the museum to offer more tours and be open to the public for increased hours. Space might also be provided for use by researchers studying Greenbelt.

Genealogists Meet

The next meeting of the Prince George's County Genealogical Society is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Wednesday, February 3 at the New Carrollton Municipal Building, 6016 Princess Garden Parkway. John-Peter Thompson, chairman of the Prince George's Historical Preservation Committee, will speak about Dr. John Bayne and the Salubria plantation that was originally part of the Oxon Hill tract.

There will be time at the meeting to network with others searching for their roots and to learn new tips to assist your own research. Refreshments will be served.

Events at Patuxent Research Refuge

Weather Forecasters, True or False? On Saturday, January 30 from 1 to 2:30 p.m., celebrate the famous weather legend Punxsutawney Phil with a craft and a story for ages 3 to 6. Hear tales about animal behaviors and signs in nature that may help predict the weather. Are any of these amazing tales true? Registration is required; call 301-497-5887.

Stop by the Visitor Center to see the Hollingsworth Art Gallery's artists. January features work by the students of Jing-Jy Chen and February will feature work by artist Jim O'Leary. For more information about the Hollingsworth Art Gallery artists visit fws.gov/refuge/Patuxent/visit/gallery.

The National Wildlife Visitor Center is closed to the public on Thursdays.

Hunting may be occurring in various areas of the refuge through January 31. Stay on marked trails at all times and find out about closed areas when visiting.

Mindfulness Meditation Workshop

"Mindfulness means paying attention in a particular way; On purpose, in the present moment, and nonjudgmentally."
Jon Kabat-Zinn

Please join me from 2:30 pm to 5 pm on February 6th for an introductory workshop on the concept of mindfulness. Whether you are hoping to become a more mindful person, spouse, parent, friend, supervisor, or coworker, this workshop may be for you. Spend an afternoon cultivating your self-awareness, self-compassion, and loving kindness. This 2.5 hour event will include mindfulness meditations, a mindful eating activity and individual support to help you start your own meditation practice. The workshop cost is $50 and will be facilitated by Christine Chianese, PsyD.

Please contact Dr. Chianese at 240-473-2104 or pointbalanceat@gmail.com to register.

amount of snow received over the last few days was “crazy.” While the two agreed that the snowfall of 2010 seemed worse, on Tuesday they were still trying to dig their car out and Anne said, “I didn’t believe there would actually be this much snow.” A walk around Franklin Park Apartments that day showed clear staircases but snow still thick, albeit trampled down on walkways.

Greenbelters rallied together helping friends, neighbors and total strangers dig cars out of the heavy snow. Between asking (and answering calls) for help on social media, stopping mid-walk to assist someone shoveling and groups of neighbors spontaneously gathering to dig out cars, Greenbelters banded together in a spirit of camaraderie post-storm. Young siblings Leah and Logan Magnotto sat in the snow on Saturday watching their father scrape the family van. Of the snow, then falling lightly, Leah said, “I like it, it’s fun!” Eight-year-old Logan reflected that his favorite part of the snow is throwing snowballs at the family dog, while Leah prefers throwing snowballs at Logan.

On Woodland Way, Jim Heagy spent the weekend enjoying the storm. “I really love the snow,” he said. “It makes you think about being a kid again. We are so busy with our workday worlds, and when the snow comes you can just stop and be – well, you can be a kid again.” Like many Greenbelters, he planned on going sledding with his family, friends and neighbors. On Saturday he thought about what could make the weekend even better. “I kind of hope we lose power – but not for very long. Then it’s like camping. You don’t have television so you read books or play music and just come together as a family.”
