Greenbelt Bucks Trend; Vote Goes Democratic

by Al Skolnik

Bucking the national and State trend, Greenbelt voters gave the Democratic presidential ticket of Stevenson and Kefauver 1219 votes to 882 votes for the Eisenhower-Nixon slate in Tuesday's balloting. About 70 percent of the 3,048 eligible voters in Greenbelt cast ballots.

Stevenson's absolute majority of 337 votes was considerably better than his performance in 1952 when he squeezed out a 51-vote margin over the President in Greenbelt. Stevenson polled 58 percent of the vote this year as compared with 51 percent in 1952.

Democratic Senatorial aspirant George P. Mahoney fared better than Stevenson, defeating incumbent Senator John Marshall Butler in Greenbelt by a vote of 1337 to 711 votes. Mahoney's majority was 65.3 percent as compared with 54.3 percent in 1952 when he ran a losing battle against J. Glenn Beall for the Senate.

Pre-election estimates that a Greenbelt majority of more than 57 percent for the Democrats presaged a winning State Democratic ticket were not vindicated by Tuesday's results. Both Stevenson and Mahoney garnered more than 57 percent of the votes, but lost the State—Stevenson by an estimated 180,000 votes, and Mahoney by some 50,000 votes.

Representative Richard E. Lankford was the best vote-gatherer on the Democratic ticket, carrying Greenbelt over challenger William B. Prendergast by a margin of 1447 to 620 votes. His majority of 70 percent was higher than the 67 percent received in 1954 and indicated that he would have no difficulty in carrying the Fifth Congressional District.

Greenbelt voters also approved 7 constitutional amendments which were relatively non-controversial.

While the proportion of registered Greenbelt voters going to the polls this year was lower than in 1952 when 82 percent voted, the actual number of citizens who cast ballots was the highest in Greenbelt history. The previous high of 2081 in 1952 was exceeded by this year's 2128 ballots cast.

North End Pupils Vote for Ike Too

by Sandy Vaughn

The 5th and 6th graders at the North End School held a mock election on Monday. It was part of a culminating activity to wind up three weeks of hard work in studying about the coming election. They made a complete study of all the issues and debated the various planks of the Republican and Democratic platforms. The result was an Eisenhower victory in the election over Stevenson. Eisenhower tallied 27 votes and Stevenson tallied 24 votes.

Greenbelt Lake Drained In Restocking Program

Autumn hikers wandering down to the Greenbelt lake this week are due for a big surprise. Instead of rippling waters they will face a huge mud hole, filled with rusted beer cans and other debris. The reason for all this is the completion of a five-year project by the Maryland Game and Inland Commission to restock Greenbelt lake.

Heading up this work is amiable and informative Charles H. Milton, regional fish culturist. "The commission is interested in providing more and better fishing", asserts Milton, "and the service is given to all community lakes and ponds."

The study of the structure of the Greenbelt lake, made in conjunction with a research staff at the University of Maryland, involves studying the types of fish in the water now; poundage per acre; species most suitable to thrive in type of water present; age and development of each fish. The 24 inch pipe running under the lake to the creek beyond the spillway has been opened and with the water come the fish which are caught in nets and then systematically weighed and measured to the tenth of the ounce and pound. The fish are identified and a sample of the scales are taken which will later be used to judge the age of the fish. The data will be used to restock the lake with a balanced fish population.

The two streams and five springs which feed water into the lake will with normal rainfall replenish the water supply within a week to ten days. As a side study, Milton hopes to discover the source and nature of the pollution in the lake.

Asked whether the Commission will clean the debris in the lake, Milton said their force was not large enough to do the job but urged community groups to round up the man or boy power this weekend to do the job.

City Acquiesces in County Action; Laundry Trailer Stays in Center

by Emanuel Dondy

Monday's city council meeting was highlighted by a discussion of the trailer which the Q & S Laundry has set up under GCS auspices in the rear of the co-op store. The trailer is now operating under a six-months temporary usage permit issued by the County Building Inspector's Office. City manager Charles McDonald pointed out that this permit was granted in spite of the fact that neither the city council nor the Gilbert interests had given their approval to the project, as required by law. This was done to cover up an earlier perfunctory OK granted by a signmaker in the County Office, according to McDonald.

What is a trailer; when is a trailer not a trailer; what tax revenue can it produce and under what tax classification; what have been the people's reactions to it; these and many other questions were discussed. The majority of the council was opposed to the trailer because of the precedent it sets, its temporary quality, its looks, the uncertainty about its value to the community as a tax revenue producer, and the lack of planning it represents. Councilman Smith was the one council voice who backed the Q & S trailer. This was based on his feeling that the trailer had a right to be where it is, since that is GCS property used only for commercial vehicles servicing the Co-op. In addition, Mr. Smith believes that the trailer is not of the honky-tonk variety but instead is a definite tax-producing asset to Greenbelt, installed at considerable expense by the laundry.

Representatives of Q&S and GCS stated that the trailer is an experiment. They would be better able to state at the end of the 6-month permit period whether the trailer would move out, be turned into a permanent building, or be continued on a temporary basis. Both GCS and Mr. Markle, representing Q&S, stated that the reaction of the community to the trailer will determine its future. GCS representatives Bob Morrow and Basset Ferguson said that the trailer has been placed in dead space, it has been built attractively and especially for its purpose, it will furnish competition in Greenbelt, and it will be a back-stop hiding the rear of the store, thus taking the place of some previously planned screening.

The Council, feeling that the issuance of the temporary permit ties their hands for at least six months (despite McDonald's statement that the permit could be revoked immediately for cause), ended the discussion by requesting the following information from the City Manager: 1. Can the trailer become real property, in contrast to the personal property tax it now seems to come under? 2. How is the trailer taxed? 3. How have other cities handled such problems?

When this information is obtained, a special council meeting will be called to devise a zoning code.

Bus Fare Changed

The present system of a 15c bus fare has been changed to a zone system by unanimous vote of council. This will go into effect after reasonable notice has been given to the public. A three-zone division, at a 5c fare per zone, will extend from Laurel-Ridge to the American Legion, from the American Legion to Edmonston-Greenbelt and from Edmonston-Greenbelt to U.S. 1. This means that the ride from Greenbelt to U.S. 1 or Branchville will still cost 15c, but rides from North End to the shopping center area or from any place in Greenbelt to the Armory will cost only 5c. It is hoped that additional revenue will be raised by new short-run customers, and if business warrants it, the schedule may be extended throughout the day. Under the new regulation, children from 6 to 12 and all school children under college level will be charged no more than 5c, and children under 6 and riding with a responsible adult will ride free.

Miscellaneous

Other matters discussed during the 4-hour council session were:

1. The possibility of extending the Greenbelt bus route to include trips to Seabrook to meet the Pennsylvania RR trains going to and from Washington. The train ride from Seabrook to Washington takes 12 minutes and the bus ride from Greenbelt to Seabrook about 13 minutes. McDonald expressed willingness to run a paid questionnaire in the News Review to get the sentiments of Greenbelters on the subject.

2. McDonald proposed that a large sign be built at the Ridge-Southway intersection to direct people to the various churches, the shopping center, the library, the GVHC office, the health and dental centers, and the municipal offices. The council wholeheartedly backed this plan and suggested further study.

3. A change in the trash collection to three times a week, at a slightly higher cost to each family, is also being studied. During this experimental stage, residents are warned that there may be some disruption of present schedules. It is felt that more frequent pickups will prevent overloaded trash cans and closets, as well as help the health of Greenbelt, particularly in the summer.

4. It was noted that at 10 a.m. on November 21 a zoning hearing will be held in Hyattsville concerning the old gas-station site. The Maryland Park and Planning Commission is recommending C-1 classification with exceptions for this site. The council, which earlier had recommended C-2, agrees now that C-2 zoning would be too unrestricted and will therefore probably go along with the Planning Commission's recommendation.

5. Permission was granted to transfer $3500 from surplus funds to purchase two no. 6 oil burners, for the community building.

Citizens Will Discuss Sewage Problem Mon.

Greenbelt's sewage disposal problem will be the main topic of next Monday's meeting of the Citizens Association, beginning at 8:30 in the downstairs social room of Center School.

To present various viewpoints on the problem, the association has invited City Manager Charles McDonald, reporter Al Skolnik, GVHC board member Bruce Bowman, and a representative of the Warner-Kanter organization which hopes to expand the city's residential section if adequate sewage facilities can be provided.

All Greenbelters are automatically members of the Citizens Association, which has served in past years as a community forum for discussion. Present officers, who are serving until successors can be elected, invite residents to attend with suggestions for candidates. A nominating committee will be set up at the Monday meeting. In addition, residents will discuss the formation of a city planning commission to work on problems of planning and zoning.

Jr. High Parents Go Back to School Tues.

A "Back to School" movement will highlight next Tuesday's meeting of the Greenbelt Junior High School PTA, when parents will follow their children's Tuesday schedule from class to class, meeting their teachers and hearing brief explanations of the material to be covered in their various courses of study.

In a short business meeting, before parents disperse to their classes, the PTA executive committee will request approval for the year's budget and for a proposal to contribute to the County Council's scholarship fund.

The executive committee at its last meeting voted to change the time of its meetings to the first Monday of each month, as the former Tuesday date prevented attendance of our representatives at the County Council meetings.

Letters to the Editor

TAKEN TO THE CLEANERS

The city of Greenbelt has been known for many pioneer achievements, but the latest experiment in trailer-camp shopping centers is a trek into the hinterlands of the "honky-tonk" pushcart era. It is also another instance of the willful disregard for the public welfare of the citizenry displayed by Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., our local management-dominated "co-op." Not only is it a blow to all the months of planning and zoning discussions of the city council and the park and planning commission; it also paves the way for disintegration of our fair city into a commercial cross-road which will bring further financial burdens to her residents.

The overnight advent of a "temporary" trailer to assist in a normal business transition has suddenly become a six-month fixture after a hastily-procured permit from the county office was granted. By the time the council met to consider the matter, the deed was done. It was pitiful to watch our city fathers sit helplessly, smother their initial anger, and meekly agree "it's a nice-looking trailer, but we can't do anything about it for six months."

As a matter of fact there is something that can be done, and done immediately. The council can ask the county commissioners to rescind the permit. The trailer certainly does not meet the standards of a "building" when it loses its trailer wheels and goes up on wooden footings. No provision has been made for additional parking space to accommodate the additional sales. This trailer, no matter how disguised, may be suitable for a used-car lot; it is only a makeshift eyesore in our civic center.

The city council required Alfred Gilbert, owner of the remaining commercial buildings in the Center, to appear before them, display his plans for expansion, and acquiesce to safeguards concerning zoning and parking and new building. Gilbert complied agreeably with all the demands. By allowing the trailer to remain in Greenbelt, the city can hardly expect Gilbert or any other interested party to seek the council's agreement on any future commercial projects. "Get it done, then go to council" will be the byword.

Unless the council acts quickly to rid the city of this laundry-trailer, it may as well forget all the time and energy it has spent on planning and zoning to control the development of Greenbelt in an orderly pattern. In fact, to this frequent observer, the present city council may be recorded as having met the most hours, spoken the most words, and turned out to be the most inept, of all city councils so far.

Lee Palmerton and Al Skolnik emerged victorious in the 5-table duplicate bridge game last Friday night, with the Fran Miller-Ethel Fisher twosome second and Joy and Jim Anderson in the third spot. Like the proverbial election night winner, the Andersons left the game thinking they had finished second, but the discovery next day of an erroneous entry in an individual score sheet led to their displacement by the Miller-Fisher combine.

Contrary to notice in last week's News Review, the next duplicate bridge game will be on Friday, December 7.

Library News & Notes

By Mary Kenan Hadley

Whether you want to listen to classical music or dramatizations of history, phonograph records of the type you enjoy are at your disposal at the County Library.

You can take the records out, as you would check out books. More than 3,475 single disks are available. These include standard and long playing records. Classical music selections range from the symphonies of Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms to the lesser known compositions of Schoenberg, Bartok, and Purcell. Jazz lovers have their choice of records by such artists as Bix Beiderbecke, Joe Oliver, Earl Hines, and Louis Armstrong. Outstanding selections in the popular realm are the scores of "South Pacific," "Call me Madam," "Kiss me Kate," "My Fair Lady," and other musical comedies. There are also complete performances of operas, including "Faust," "Carmen," and "La Boheme."

The Library is also developing a collection of folk dance music from all parts of the world. Here are some tips on how to care for records. Be sure the needle you use fits the speed of the record you have on the turntable. The needle used for 78 rpm is far too large for LP records. Be sure you aren't using a worn needle. A worn needle chips away at the sensitive grooves like a chisel chipping away at granite. Always buckle the jacket when removing a record. This prevents scratching the fine grooves by dust or the cover itself. Wiping the record with the proper cloth or brush before use helps control dust.

Greenbelt now has an organization known as "Friends of the Library" which will mean much to the work of the library. There are many ways in which friends can assist the library in helping to solve the many problems that arise from time to time. This group of citizens, men and women, as it becomes familiar with the library's program, its services, its needs and its problems, will in turn interpret these things to the community at large. Friends have helped to secure new locations for libraries, donated audio-visual materials, phonographs, and other materials so much needed for the progressive program demanded by adults and children.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

EDITOR, JOHN PETER ZENGER, JAILED WITHOUT TRIAL FOR CRITICIZING THE ROYAL GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK, SPENT TEN MONTHS WHISPERING EDITORIALS THROUGH THE KEYHOLE OF HIS PRISON DOOR TO HIS WIFE, WHO CONTINUED SECRETLY TO PUBLISH HIS PAPER EACH WEEK.

LIBERTY QUOTES

"IT IS A RIGHT WHICH ALL FREE MEN CLAIM, TO COMPLAIN WHEN THEY ARE HURT—FREE MEN HAVE A RIGHT PUBLICLY TO REMONSTRATE AGAINST THE ABUSES OF POWER IN THE STRONGEST TERMS—TO PUT THEIR NEIGHBORS ON GUARD AGAINST THE CRAFT OR OPEN VIOLENCE OF MEN IN AUTHORITY."—Andrew & Hamilton

THE MAN WHO DARED

ANDREW HAMILTON, RISKING HIS REPUTATION, DEFYING THREATS, DARED TO DEFEND ZENGER. HE FORCED A TRIAL AND WON ZENGER'S FREEDOM.

PATRIOTIC AMERICANS TODAY CARRY ON IN THE SPIRIT OF ZENGER AND HAMILTON FIGHTING TO UPHOLD THE INALIENABLE RIGHTS OF ALL AMERICANS.

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

This is the story of Mortimer Wragg—family man, motorist, good provider, responsible citizen. Mortimer isn't with us any more. But this is his story.

Mortimer worked hard and never slapped his kids. Indeed, it was a dark day in the Wragg household when he even so much as screamed at them, and he never raised his voice to his wife. In business, in good works and charitable pursuits, Mortimer was a model of what an upright citizen should be. It was only when he "mounted to the cabin" and put his foot on the gas that he became a menace to society. And to himself.

Mortimer drove his car as if convinced that every other motorist on the road were expendable. That is, he regarded every other driver as a threat to the Four Freedoms in general, and to Mortimer Wragg's share of these Freedoms in particular. Whenever another motorist tried to pass him, he took it as a personal affront and reacted violently. He considered pedestrians a nuisance that should be abated, and he did his best to abate them.

At home a perfect husband and helpmate, Mortimer in the driver's seat was a free-wheeling catastrophe. His wife told him he should have more care for the safety of others, if not for his own. Business associates expostulated. Policemen warned him and smothered him with traffic tickets. But Mortimer smiled and kept on driving—his way. He said: "This is a free country."

"Mortimer is balmy," his friends declared. "In fact, he's nuts." But they couldn't convince Mortimer. Even a psychiatrist, called in by Mrs. Wragg, gave up in despair and took to his own couch, talking to himself.

One thing Mortimer never could stand was being forced to drive behind another car. To pass whatever might be in front of him, he fractured all speed laws, cut in and out of traffic, and ignored all highway signs and safety markers. He was a schizo on the go, and he took his split personality down the road as if he were roaming the lone prairie.

No one has ever been able to explain how Mortimer avoided disaster for so many years. And no one has ever been able to estimate the miles of shattered nerves he left quivering in other drivers.

But, as it must to all such fools, disaster finally came to Mortimer and it was quite final. Tearing down a highway, fortunately alone, he ignored the brilliant reflective marker that spelled out in the beam of his headlights: "Dangerous Curve."

After they had separated Mortimer from the good earth of his native county, they put up a monument to him—a simple thing bearing this simple inscription: "This Is the Only Sign that Ever Stopped Him."
