$15,000 Loan Approved For Municipal Center

The Federal Government has agreed to loan the city more than $15,000 to pay for the advance planning of the proposed three-unit municipal center, the city council learned at its regular meeting on Monday, July 8.

Final approval of the loan now awaits the appointment of an architect by the city and the signing of the agreement which binds the city to make every effort to construct the center. The funds are equally apportioned among each of the three buildings. Whatever funds are used do not have to be paid back if that building is not built.

The city's next step was to request City Manager McDonald to set up a series of meetings between the council and various architectural firms interested in the job. Between three and five firms will meet with the council one at a time to present their ideas on building the municipal center.

The Fire Department and Rescue Squad, which will occupy one of the three units, has been pressing the city to move ahead rapidly. New equipment expected to arrive by Christmas time will not fit into their present building. The council, however, felt there was little chance that a referendum on floating a bond for the new center would be ready for the ballot in the city election in September. It was felt that the matter should not be rushed and that a referendum in which the citizens would decide whether to support the municipal center, could be held separately at a later date.

Hi-Point Girls Honored

Two girls from High Point High School, Betsy Fontaine, 37-E Ridge, and Donna Irwin, Takoma Park, were honored by the American Legion Auxiliary Unit no. 136 of Greenbelt, when they were chosen to attend the annual Maryland Girls State program at Annapolis, June 24-29. Both girls were further honored at the convention—Betsy by winning fourth place in the talent contest and Donna by being chosen as a county official by her fellow Girl Staters.

Helen Kurth, chairman of the Auxiliary's committee in charge, states that both girls feel that their participation in the program has helped them to acquire a better understanding of governmental functions.

CUB PACK 746

By Smoky Stover

The highlight of the June meeting of Cub Pack 746 was a skit, archaeology, the theme of the archeology the theme of the month. The Flag Ceremony beginning the program was led by the Webeles Den. Following the skit, awards were presented by Nate Rothstein, using the much admired new Pack ceremonial board, which had been made by David Nicholson.

Pack activity continued into July with their participation as marchers in the Independence Day Parade. Two of the more popular concessions afterwards at the Lake, the pony ride and the coke ring toss, were managed by the Cubs, together with these others: Charles Helwig, Dick Hoffman, Nicholson, Bernard Krug, Robert Varney, Mr. and Mrs. Fink, Mr. and Mrs. Rothstein, and Miss Carol Wertz.

All Cubs and their families are looking forward to a picnic, Saturday, July 13, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Lake.

Local Girl Enters Convent

Kathleen, older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Moroney, 14-N Hillside, has been accepted as a postulant by the Order of the Sisters of the Holy Cross.

Miss Moroney was graduated in June from St. Patrick's Academy, Washington, D. C., where she was a top student and active in glee club and sports, especially basketball, since her freshman year. She is planning a quick visit with her paternal grandmother in New York, after which she expects to leave very soon for the Novitiate at Notre Dame, Indiana.

The Moroneys are well known in Greenbelt, having lived here more than 14 years. Kathleen's sister attends St. Patrick's Academy and her brother is a senior at DeMatha High School. Mrs. Moroney is now working at the Co-op Food Store. Mr. Moroney is employed by the Bureau of Engraving in Washington.

The faculty of St. Hugh's School in Greenbelt are Sisters of the Holy Cross Order.

Junior Marching Unit

Thursday, July 4, marked the first anniversary of American Legion Post no. 136's Junior Marching Unit.

Just one year ago that date they entered their first parade, the annual Independence Day parade in Greenbelt. And a proud day it was! Not only did they get their "baptism of fire," but they also walked off with top honors as the best marching unit.

Since then they have spread their fame through much of Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, and their talents are known even in Virginia.

Having taken seven first-place and one second-place awards, they are a well seasoned outfit, ready to begin what is hoped will be an even better second year.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Finishing up the first round of play finds the St. Hugh's team and Athletic Club tied for first place. The Athletic Club team defeated the Methodist Church 22-2. The Baptist Chapel won their first league game by forfeit from the Fire Department. The Community Church gave the G.A.C. team its first defeat 17-9.

Serious Baseball

Warren G. Leddick, Greenbelt Recreation Director, has found out that Greenbelt takes its diamond action seriously. Two weeks ago, as an observer at a Little League baseball game, Leddick was knocked unconscious by a wicked line drive hit by one of our aspiring Micky Mantles. Last week, deciding to take things easy by playing with the Baptist Chapel team in the men's softball league, Leddick found his path to home play blocked by catcher Whitey Lawrence of the Methodist Church team. Result was two stitches and a broken bone in Leddick's left hand and four stitches over Lawrence's right eye. Both players insisted that they will be back in action within a week. But not until "Warren doubles his insurance," says Mrs. Leddick.

Oh, yes, the Methodists won, 20-9.

The standings of the teams follow. The league is well balanced with a three-way tie for first place.

Stepperettes Win

For the second consecutive year the high-stepping, precision-drilling Stepperettes marched away with the first-place trophy in the Independence Day parade. Second place went to the Beltsville Midgerettes.

Two days later the Stepperettes had another big day when their annual picnic held at the Lake from 1 to 5:30, drew 160 people. Games and prizes were under the direction of Mrs. Helen A. Kurth, Second Vice-president of the Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. Raymond Hudson and Mrs. Mel Meriam were in charge of food. The Stepperettes particularly wish to thank these women and all the other parents who donated their time to make the picnic a success.

The girls will show their skill again when they march in the Beltsville parade on July 20 at 6 p.m. and at Griffith Stadium on July 21 at the American Legion All Star game.

City Council Gets New Police Report, Discusses Juvenile Cases For June

by Russell Greenbaum

The city council at its regular meeting on Monday, July 8, saw for the first time in cold statistics what Greenbelt's juvenile problem looks like. A new monthly report instituted by the new chief of police, Jim Williams, revealed that city police handled 65 juvenile cases during the month of June.

The report, which was presented as part of the regular monthly city departmental report, also noted that 95 other cases, presumably all involving adults over 18, were also investigated by police during the month. The 65 juvenile cases were broken down as follows: 17 disorderly, 6 vandalism, 15 thefts, 4 ball playing, and 23 miscellaneous.

The city council was pleased to see that such a report is now available and was favorably impressed by the fact that all of the juvenile cases were marked closed—that is, all necessary action has been completed. However, Councilman Jim Smith characterized the situation revealed by the report as "disgraceful" and something in which the city could not take pride. (City Manager Charles McDonald later told the News Review that the number of juvenile cases was about average for this time of year.)

Business Review

By Chuck Boynton

Readers may have noticed the half-page ad in the News Review announcing the opening of Hoffman Cleaners and Laundry (formerly the Q & S). Located in "The Center", Hoffman in its second week of business reports the response to its opening has been very encouraging.

Joyce and Jake Hoffman are a husband and wife team engaged in operating the business - Joyce handling administrative matters, while Jake handles deliveries and other tasks that might arise. Jake currently is holding down a job with the National Security Agency, so necessarily can't devote full time to their venture, but hopes he will be able to in the future, if business warrants it.

The Hoffmans have been residents of Greenbelt for fourteen years. Joyce has had considerable experience in the laundry and dry cleaning business, having been employed in the Valet Shop (before going out of business it was located in the space now occupied by Tanner's) for over thirteen years. Jake, meantime, was busy with the Park Police for over thirteen years, until an unfortunate collision with an unlighted dump truck one night led to a long period of hospitalization, causing eventual retirement in 1955. Legionnaires of Post 136 know him as their former Commander (in 1955-56).

Joyce and Jake will continue to have their laundry and dry cleaning done by Q & S. They are renting the building housing their business, which was built by GCS. They feature one day service—anything in by nine will be returned by 6, and offer free pickup and delivery, plus alteration service and the famous "Stay-Nu Process." Of interest also might be the fact that all employees of Hoffman are Greenbelt residents.

Jake reports the amount of potential he has encountered while engaged in pick-up and delivery during the past week is enormous. Closets full of clothes needing cleaning have been encountered as Jake has made the rounds. He has been doing his pick-up and delivery work with the family car, but hopes to purchase a delivery truck in the future.

Plans for the future also include "specials," although their present level of prices are low. Stop in and see for yourself!

Veterans Liquors Wins Prize In Two Parades

A News Review advertiser won first place in the 4th of July parades in Greenbelt and Hyattsville. Veterans Liquors, owned and operated by Mr. Plackos, entered a dramatic float in the "Safety" division that warned against drinking while driving.

Plackos, one of the most consistent advertisers in the News Review, is now conducting a campaign to bring beverages of high quality to local residents at low prices. His free delivery service has been long popular in the community but he announced this week that even greater savings could be made by shopping directly at the store. Veterans Liquors is located at 11620 Washington-Baltimore Boulevard, just past the Beltsville overpass.

SWIMMING TEAM

All members interested in trying out for the Greenbelt swimming team please report at the pool at 11 a.m. Friday morning. We have a list of 12 meets to compete in.

By coincidence the council was informed of the details of one of the vandalism cases involving more than $100 worth of damage to property of the residents of the 19 court of Hillside. Three housewives residing in that court wrote the council to complain about the lack of action by the police in the case. It developed later, however, that the letter had been written prematurely and that the case was solved by the police to the complete satisfaction of all the residents involved.

Involved in the case were five juveniles who had apparently gone on an all-night camp-out party near the 19 court. In early hours of the morning they raided the court, carrying off blankets and clothes on the lines, lawn furniture, and garden equipment. The boys carried their loot back to the camp site and made a bonfire with it. They were all apprehended by the police, and restitution was made by their parents, who contributed $25 each. An exception was the parents of one of the boys who have insisted that he earn the money himself to pay it back. City Manager McDonald noted that only one of the five boys had been in trouble before.

The letter suggested that a curfew might help to cut down juvenile problems, and McDonald indicated that he would be very much in favor of a curfew. The council, however, did not pursue this matter.

High Hedges

The problem of excessively high hedges surrounding homes at street intersections was also discussed by the council. The council agreed that these hedges constitute a serious traffic hazard since they block the view of motorists of the intersecting street. The matter of the hedge at 18-D Hillside was referred to the council by the Greenbelt Veteran Housing Corporation because a large part of it is on the city right-of-way. McDonald reported that the home owner refuses to keep the hedge cut down since it is on city property. It appears that the other hedges involved, particularly one at Southway and Ridge, may also be on city property enabling the city to take action.

GVHC also asked the council to act in the matter of a fence being built by a resident of the 25 court of Ridge which is blocking passage of a common sidewalk used by other residents of the court. Part of the fence extends out into city property. The council requested the city manager to coordinate with GVHC on the hedges and the fence situation prior to turning the cases over to the city solicitor for legal action.

In another matter the council supported the action of the city manager in denying the request of Warner-Kanter to install septic tanks in the four model homes on display on Greenbelt Road. This would permit the homes to be sold to individuals. McDonald said no permission would be granted until Warner-Kanter made the four homes part of a development which would include a complete lay-out for water lines.

Vol. 21 Thursday, July 11, 1957 No. 49

My Town

By Russ Greenbaum

Let's face it. The 1957 edition of Greenbelt's Glorious Fourth will go down in history as a fanforana-ding fiasco. Before hundreds of onlookers, many of them attracted from miles around to see Greenbelt's famous fireworks display by the cool lake, Greenbelt laid an egg with a thud that must have rocked the Washington Monument. In the words of the immortal Shakespeare, "What' hoppen'?" Frankly, no one seems to know—not even the Greenbelt Fire Department and Rescue Squad which was sponsoring the event for the first time, although they're trying to find out. The GFDRS, which was passed the job by the Boys' Club like a hot potato several weeks ago, is not happy. When the last flare had fizzled out in the brief span of no more than 15 minutes, they were hopefully looking around for a fire to go to or an accident to happen.

Actually, they were almost accommodated during the fireworks display itself. It soon became obvious that some of the fireworks men had a grudge against some of the people in the crowd—or perhaps against all Greenbelters in general. At any rate, there were a few of the rockets that headed straight for the audience like guided missiles. Fortunately, they did not actually land in the crowd, but several people were sure they felt their hot breath. (Since I work for the Navy, I'm tempted to say that these rockets must have been fired by Air Force employees—but, no, I won't say it.) At any rate, the mystery of the missing fireworks order or "who stole our thunder?" will probably be filed with such other unsolved local mysteries as why did Warner-Kanter buy our land.

Sad to say, the "dazzling" fireworks display (which might be summed up as "too little, too late"), was the climax to a celebration that was not our best effort, to say the least. In the morning there was an alleged parade that was actually a vaudeville show for the reviewing stand at Centerway, following which the players straggled off into the wings—that is, the rest of the parade route. For the parade watchers down near the end of the route it took so long for the units to get to them that they must have wondered if they were coming from the Center via the New Jersey Turnpike. At that, the units would have made better time. Admittedly, it was enjoyable to see the five-minute performances at the Center of the baton twirling young ladies, the Indians, the drill team, bands, etc., but in all that heat! Anyway, next year as a grand climax to the fireworks, the GFDRS plans to blow up the city offices. They figure that's the only way they're sure of getting a new city center.

The city council is really scratching its collective heads (assuming anyone wants to collect their heads), to figure out ways of drawing crowds to the swimming pool on Saturday mornings. One suggestion was that the council itself attend en masse and advertise it as a "meet-your-councilman" event. This idea is definitely intriguing. The way to meet your councilman in the pool would be to grasp his shoulders firmly and then, following your request for action, steadily dunk him beneath the waters until he guaranteed you action. Another suggestion was that the trash pick-up trucks carry signs advertising the pool. The only trouble is that these trucks whiz by the courts so fast that few would read the signs. (I'll back my trash man to break the world's 100-yard dash record any time, but that's another column).

My own suggestion is for a "Mrs. Greenbelt" bathing beauty contest with the preliminaries held on Saturday mornings at the pool. Think of all the Greenbelt husbands who are dying to ogle their neighbors' shapely wives (yes, there are some) but know that the looks from their own wives would burn them down quicker than a solar furnace. In the contest I have suggested, however, this could be easily done and justified as a community project. The judges would be selected by lot and be obligated to serve if chosen. After all, everyone should perform his civic duty.

During the year, the Club sponsored the following groups: Brownie Troop No. 418 the "Pirates" in Little League Baseball; Contestant for queen in the Labor Day Festival Trip for the North End School Safety Patrol the Greenbelt Junior High School band in the Annual Lions Club Band Contest, National Guard Armory and a Citizenship Award to a worthy senior at High Point High School; at a total cost of approximately $250.00.

Participation in Community affairs include: Fourth of July Parade; Labor Day Festival; Bringing Santa Claus to town at Xmas time; the Easter Parade and Egg Roll; at a total cost of approximately $100. Charitable donations to needy families, plus purchase of eye glasses and a donation to the Lions Eye Bank, total approximately $250.00.

Other projects include: Donating 32 pints of blood to the Red Cross; Willing 5 corneas to the Lions Eye Bank; Gathering up books from the Community for the Library at High Point High School.

The Greenbelt Club received high mention and many awards at the Annual Lions Convention of this District held last week in Atlantic City, N. J.

Lions Review 1956-57

A review of activities of the Lions Club of Greenbelt for the past fiscal year indicates a highly successful period in terms of fellowship within the group and of service to the community.

Gathering twice a month for dinner meetings at the Community Church, the Club has had the pleasure of hearing the following guest speakers: Dr. Homer Elkins, president of Maryland University; Tommy Mont, football coach of M.U.; a representative of the Narcotics Squad of the Metropolitan Police Dept.; Dr. Comeau of the Prince Georges Heart Association; Mr. McCloskey of the Prince Georges Safety Dept.; two representatives of the Maryland State Police; a representative of the Atomic Energy Commission and George Brasfield of the Investors Information Service; plus many high ranking Lion officials in the Washington area and several professional entertainers.

Major fund raising projects consisting of the Annual New Years Eve Dance, selling of fruit cakes, and participating in an auto raffle, produced approximately $800 profit.

Constitution Service

The Formal Service of Constitution for the Greenbelt Baptist Church will be held on Sunday afternoon, October 20 rather than July 14 as originally planned. The change was made so that more people could attend this service, which marks another step in the growth of the Chapel.

The Greenbelt Baptist Chapel, which will celebrate its fourth anniversary in October, has already adopted the constitution. On October 20, it will become a self-governing church. The Metropolitan Baptist Church of Washington, D. C. has been the sponsoring church of the Baptist Chapel. The chapel will change its name to the Greenbelt Baptist Church.

Dr. Walter A. Pegg, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church, has been invited to be the main speaker for the Formal Service of Constitution. The Chapel tentatively plans to build on its four acre property in the spring or summer of 1958.

Letters to the Editor

THRILLED

To the Editor:

Please renew our subscription to the Greenbelt News Review. I am so happy you, Iz Parker, Rhea and all my friends, Russ Greenbaum, etc. continue on it, with it, and for it. This marks a year that Morris and I left Greenbelt for Cleveland, but Greenbelt hasn't ever left us. Thanks to your paper. We and the children know so many of the writers and also the people mentioned in your stories and features. We follow it all with great interest, and will for a long time to come. For a little while each week we are back in Greenbelt, as we read its columns.

Also, remembering my association with the paper, how close it came so many times to extinction because of financial insecurity and insufficient help, I am thrilled to see it continue to serve the community.

GARBAGE COLLECTION

To the Editor:

The opponents of the three-times-per-week garbage collection schedule appear to have been either (1) owners of over-sized garbage cans; or (2) owners of smell-proof closets. Seriously, though, it is unfortunate that the three-per-week schedule was tried out when the cooler weather did not have its effects on garbage-decay processes.

The situation at my home on Sunday (garbage is collected early Thursday morning) is such that I have to keep the garbage can outside of the closet because of the odor problem. Admittedly, this presents a situation in public health, but at the same time the smell of garbage is not in anyone's best interests.

Even a half-dollar per month increase for this extra collection each week would be worthwhile from my point of view, to make Greenbelt a healthier city.

Phone calls and letters to our Council and City Manager may be the means to bring about "Operaper week).

Librarian's Notebook

by Louise MacDiarmid

Children who are Book Anglers are better readers, have you noticed? The Book Anglers Summer Reading Club is gaining members every day. Several branches have over 200 children reading to earn their certificates. In most branches this is done by written reports, but in the Hyattsville branch, the members meet for a weekly informal book discussion. The written reports are equally interesting and designed to bring out individual preferences.

You are invited to bring your children and meet the librarians. They will be happy to explain this program to you.

Schmidt - Birner

A very pretty summer wedding was solemnized Sunday afternoon, June 30, at the Saint John Lutheran Church, Garfield Heights, Ohio, when Nancy Louise Schmidt became the bride of Rev. Edward H. Birner, with the Rev. E. T. J. Birner, Mattoon, Illinois, officiating.

Miss Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt, Brecksville, Ohio, entered the church to the strains "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." The bride was attired in a princess style, waltz length, dress of white taffeta, wearing a short veil of illusion attached to a pearl crown. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations, stephanotis, and ivy. The bride was attended by her sisters, Miss Mary Jayne of Brecksville, and Mrs. Kay Streufert of St. Charles, Missouri, maid and matron of honor. Her bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Birner of St. Louis, and Miss Ellen Donahue of Forest Hills, New York. The bride's attendants, in gowns of candle glow polished cotton embroidered in threads of pink and gold, wore haloes of orange blossoms and carried bouquets of pink daisies. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Attending the groom were his brother, the Rev. Charles Birner, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, the Rev. Arlo Nau of Annapolis, Maryland, the Rev. David Koenig of Highland, Indiana, and Mr. Robert Bokenkamp of Champaign, Illinois. At the organ was Miss Marian Wissback, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, prior to the service, a recording of the Martin Luther Chapel Choir, a children's choir of thirty voices, as directed by Mr. Donald Brauer, was played.

Mrs. George Schmidt, the mother of the bride, wore a dress of embroidered beige eyelet with beige accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. E. T. J. Birner, mother of the groom, wore a blue lace dress with white accessories, and pink carnation corsage. After the marriage service a wedding reception was held in the St. John Lutheran School.

The bride is a graduate of Cuyahoga Falls High School, and the Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Illinois. Since her graduation she has been teaching first and second grades in the Martin Luther Christian Day School at Merchantville, New Jersey. The groom attended high school in Mattoon, Illinois, preparatory college at Ft. Wayne, Indiana, and is a graduate of the Concordia Seminary, in St. Louis. He is pastor of the Greenbelt Lutheran Church.

Following a honeymoon trip to the Smokey Mountains, North Carolina, the Rev. and Mrs. Birner will reside at 18-L Ridge Road in Greenbelt.

VOLUNTEER NOTES

By Charles T. McDonald, City Manager

As a guest writer for the column, Volunteer, in this week's issue I could express my true appreciation for the fine work of the Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad by repeating the words of Rev. Walter C. Smith, who was the guest writer two weeks ago; but I am sure that Mr. Lester Citron (on vacation) the regular writer of this column, would prefer that I dwell on the importance of the coordination of the public service groups in our community.

It so happens that recently I received word from the Housing and Home Finance Agency that approval had been given for the advancement of funds to the city of Greenbelt for the preparation of plans and specifications, for the proposed new fire department building, and I am sure that the members of the Fire Department and Rescue Squad and the citizens of Greenbelt would prefer that I take this occasion to announce the progress of this project.

The next step, of course, will be the preparation of architectural plans and specifications and the preparation of information to the citizens in connection with a proposed referendum in September.

I mention the new fire department building because this is one of the problems where very close cooperation between the Fire Department and Rescue Squad committees and the city officials is a MUST. Expenditure of any funds for municipal services, whether it be through bond issue or appropriations in a budget, will very definitely affect the tax rate. Consequently we will be working very closely together in the next few months to present to the citizens the importance of the need of a new fire department building in Greenbelt.

Greenbelt Profiles Co-op Expands Gas Station Facilities

By Barbara Gilmore

If you ever see several gigantic paintings walking out of 19-D Ridge, you can bet your bottom dollar that behind it all is professional artist, CONNIE LAWSON, off to exhibit her latest flights of the brush.

Connie succeeds in her field of endeavor justifiably and logically, having been interested and encouraged in art since second grade and having been fortunate enough to study at the spacious Cranbrook School in Battle Creek, Michigan.

Her magnificent assembly of stylization, composition and color create unusual and varied paintings realistic enough and with a touch of newness that make them appealing to almost everyone. One painting in particular that caught my fancy was an almost monochromatic "Worm's Eye" view of a farm cultivator, showing the large discs in gradation from bottom to center of canvas in contrast with the man in back of all this machinery in very deep perspective. Another was a "Bird's Eye" view of six rowboats done in blues, browns and white with black accents. Although her paintings all have the Lawson signature, and are basically studies in stylization, composition and color, they vary greatly in general overall appearance; an accomplishment difficult to achieve.

Connie's role as artist complements her life as housewife and mother, as one can easily see upon entering the Lawson home. The living room is a subtle chartrreuse with dark green upholstered furniture and bamboo drapes. On one side of the room a huge botanical specimen stands majestically, contrasted by a Japanese doll lantern hanging from the window. While I sipped delicious Italian coffee with lemon rind (you should try it some time!) Connie told me about her career as an artist.

Upon completing high school, Connie attended a vocational school where she studied art for about a year and a half. She then went on to Cranbrook where she worked very hard, and following her study went to work for a container corporation designing labels for bath cosmetics; then off to fashion illustration, via Hudson's Department store and finally into newspaper fashion illustration that helped lead her on the road to her career as a free-lance painter. An average painting takes her four or five days, while she can finish others in two; some take even longer. However discouraged Connie gets she still realizes, she says, that in these paintings that require so much time, she is learning, and this struggle enables her to "whip out" one in ten.

Last fall Connie had several of her paintings in the model home of House and Garden's House-of-the-Year. She also shows at the Baltimore Museum and many other places in the Washington - Baltimore area.

While at Cranbrook, Connie met Gordon, an accomplished ceramicist himself. They attended school together and were married. They moved on to Washington where Gordon is employed as a technical writer. Connie enjoys her Greenbelt home, as it gives her the opportunity to work in the garden as well as having a house without a lot of responsibilities.

Susan, the Lawson's lively 6 year old often works side by side with her Mommy creating endless works of art as children often do.

Connie's efforts can regularly be seen at the Artist's Mart in Georgetown, and if you're ever in that neck of the woods you ought to drop in and give your eyes a treat.

PLAYGROUNDS

At present there are two playgrounds in operation in Greenbelt. The North End School playground, sponsored by the County Recreation Department, is open 9 to 5 p.m. The Center School playground, sponsored by the City Recreation Department, is open 9 a.m. - 12 noon.

The Greenbelt Co-op is currently in the throes of major expansion of its gasoline filling station facilities in nearby Maryland. Only last October it completed the new $100,000 co-op filling station in Greenbelt on Southway.

The expansion program involves completion of one new station in Takoma Park, the building of another new one in the same community, and construction of an addition to the present filling station in Wheaton.

It is estimated that the total program will cost about $200,000.

The new station in Takoma Park is being built on a 14-acre tract being developed by the co-op. It is located at the corner of New Hampshire Ave. and East-West Hwy. It will be a six-bay station costing approximately $65,000. The facility is scheduled to open in October. The new station will replace the one presently leased by the co-op across the street next to the Co-op Super Drug Store. Ultimately the co-op plans to erect a multi-million dollar, ultra-modern shopping center on the same 14-acre tract.

A glistening new 4-bay, $50,000 co-op service station will be opened next month by GCS at Piney Branch Rd. and Flower Ave. The site is adjacent to the new co-op general store which is now under construction and is scheduled to open about October 1.

The third step in the filling station expansion is construction of an addition to the rear of the Wheaton service station to make more automobile repair service available to the co-op members and the general public in that area. The addition is expected to cost $20,000 and will feature factory-trained mechanics doing expert repair work. The customer will be able to watch the work himself, if he chooses.

The co-op petroleum division, headed by Ed Burgoon, employs 50 men now. When the new facilities are completed, that figure will be increased to 75.

TENNIS INSTRUCTION

A tennis class for adults 21 and over will begin on Wednesday, July 17 at 6:30 p.m. on the tennis court. The class will be for beginners and intermediates. Each person is required to bring his own racquet; balls will be furnished. Instruction will be furnished by Stan Kushner.

Recreation Committee

By Elizabeth Iseli, Vice Chairman

The Greenbelt Recreation Coordinating Committee held its second meeting Monday, July 1, in the City office. The chairman, Percy Andros, called the meeting to order at 8:30 p.m., with eight interested people present, along with Officer Bud Zoellner and recreation director Leddick.

This committee is trying to figure a way in which more parents can be encouraged to help and support the various activities of the city. It will try to make known to all residents the time, place and description of adult and/or children's functions which are taking place. Some have been organized, such as the Golden Age Group, which is doing so well that they are helping to entertain other groups. Many could be formed with enough interested people.

Please don't stay home and wait for someone to call or ask you to do something you would like to do. Call Warren Leddick and introduce yourself and tell him that you want to be a part of some activity, either to instruct or get instruction, or both. A day in your life and mine is not so long, but it means a lot to a youngster. Instead of worrying about how good you can do a thing, or suggesting someone else for a job, offer him your support.

Anyone interested in helping to improve the tot playgrounds in any way, such as the one in "A" block which has just been painted by neighbors, call Leddick and give him your name and address. Mr. Fonda gave left-over paint for this project; that is why there are so many colors. Maybe your neighbors and you can do the same thing. Maybe you have a better idea.

Let your youngsters see that their parents have an interest in the playground and that it belongs to them along with a lot of other happy, healthy children. Help them to want to take care of the equipment because their Dad repaired it; to keep it clean because their mother picked up broken glass; to want to share and play with the other children because Mom and Dad worked with other Moms and Dads to fix that area. Before anything is started check with Leddick so he can record your name as a volunteer helper.

GAC Beats Navy 4-1

The Greenbelt Athletic Club baseball team defeated the Departmental League Navy team in Greenbelt, Sunday, by a score of 4 to 1.

The Athletic Club's opening game was a real thriller, each team getting only 3 hits. However, in the tight spots it was Greenbelt's Phelan who pitched himself out of trouble by striking out the side on two occasions. Lewis of the Navy team recorded 9 strikeouts as Phelan mowed down 15 Navy batters. The Navy team scored in the top of the fourth inning to lead our boys by a score of 1 to 0. In the fifth inning Greenbelt tied the score when Rector walked, stole second, advanced to third on Randolph's fly to center-field and scored on Hoffman's sacrifice out.

The Athletic Club went out front in the sixth inning when Curtis opened with a single, the first Greenbelt hit. Johnny Lewis followed with another clean hit and Hospan walked to load the bases. Curtis and Lewis both scored on sacrifice flies by Canning and Miller. Hospan tallied the third run of the inning on a pass ball. Canning received the other Greenbelt hit in the eighth inning.

SWIMMING NOTES

Last Friday morning 30 boys and girls actively participated in the survival swim test. After the hour long test they were treated to sandwiches to replenish their energy.

If you are interested in competition, all candidates should report to the pool any day next week at 11:30 a.m. Greenbelt is going to have a swimming team. There are events for boys and girls 12 years and over. The team will book swimming meets with other pools in the area.
