Businessmen Meet, Appoint Committee

by Virginia Beauchamp

Major actions at the second meeting of the newly organized Greenbelt Businessmen's Association were the election of Abram Chasanow of Greenbelt Realty as vice-president, the discussion of various means of promoting the Greenbelt shopping area, and the establishment of a promotion committee and a membership committee.

This meeting, held at 10 a.m. last Tuesday at the Greenbelt Theater, attracted representatives from several local businesses not participating in the organizational meeting two weeks ago. These were: Woody Love, manager of the Flying A Station; Mrs. Margaret Leibe and Allen D. Morison of the Credit Union; James Cassels of Twin Pines Savings & Loan Association; Benjamin Goldfaden of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co.; and local builder Frank R. Williams.

Among various means of promoting Greenbelt which were turned over to the promotion committee for further study, that most appealing to the group in general was the idea of several special promotions, such as a day-long barbecue or a "Greenbelt Night," to be held periodically throughout the year. Along this line, the group agreed to participate immediately in some way in the city's Labor Day Festival. Also delegated to this committee was the responsibility for preparing detailed plans, suitable for presentation to the City Council of the display signs which the organization hopes to erect at the edge of the city. Members of the promotion committee are Justin Baum of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Charles Walton of the Greenbelt Theater, Leon Strauss of the Greenbelt Pharmacy and Mrs. Virginia Beauchamp of the News Review.

The other committee, consisting of Cassels, Donn Liston of the Greenbelt Bowling Center and Fred Butt of the Greenbelt Pharmacy, was established to contact all other businessmen in the community who have not hitherto joined the group. One hundred per cent membership of the business community was deemed a necessary goal.

In a further action, the group authorized the giving of honorary memberships in the organization to the city manager, to the city councilmen, to various professional men, such as the physicians and dentists and to representatives of the various churches.

Next meeting of the association was set for 10 a.m., Tuesday, August 12, at a place to be determined.

Baton Twirlers, Note

A major highlight of the Greenbelt Labor Day Week End Festival will be a Baton Twirling Competition on Saturday, Aug. 30, sanctioned by the National Baton Twirling Association. Certified judges approved by NETA will officiate.

The morning contest will be open to Greenbelt residents only and will include a contest for Solo One Baton, Two Baton, Duets and Strutting. Age divisions for all contests will be: Tots, 9 and under; Juvenile, 10 and 11; Junior, 12 and 13; Senior, 14 and above. Trophies will be awarded to all first place winners and medals from second to fourth place in One Baton and Strutting and through third place in Two Baton and Duets. The contestant accumulating the highest number of points for placing in the various contests will be crowned the Greenbelt Festival Grand Champion Twirler and receive a special award.

The afternoon will be devoted to a corps competition also sanctioned by NETA with certified NETA judges. This is an open competition and all corps regardless of address may enter. Age divisions for corps will be Tots, 9 and under; Juvenile, 10 to 12; Junior, 13 to 14; Senior, 15 and over. Eight or more members will constitute a corps. Trophies will be awarded to the 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners. The judges will select from the four first place winners in the corps competition the best overall team, and they will receive a special award as The Greenbelt Festival Grand Champion Corps.

Applications for the individual baton twirling competition have been distributed to the leaders of the several majorette groups in Greenbelt. Anyone failing to receive an application and desiring to enter the competition should call GR. 4-6327. No entries for either competition will be received after Aug. 27.

Little League Starts World Series Saturday

The annual Little League World Series will open on Saturday, Aug. 9, at 2 p.m. at Braden Field. The Tigers, who won top honors in the National League and are defending league champions, will meet the winners of the American League, undetermined at deadline. The coach of the Tiger team is Lonnie Palmer.

All-Star medals will be awarded to the players in the All-Star game by the league commissioner, Bill Clark, prior to game time. Last Friday the Little League had its first no-hit game of the regular season pitched by Mike Youell of the Giants.

Local Rocketeers

Did you ever want to shoot a rocket to the moon? Harley Mann, amateur rocketeer of 2-F Research, has less optimistic but equally as exciting plans. For many years he cherished the idea of forming a club to blast off models of the huge rockets that men like Von Braun are working with. Harley, who has studied about rockets for some time, went to the Greenbelt Recreation Dept. for supervision and authorization of the club. He thought it was a very patriotic idea and offered to supervise as many young people and adults as would want to join such a club. For more information or to join, please call Harley at GR. 4-6656.

City Approves Rezoning to Permit Apartment Buildings off Parkway

by Russell Greenbaum

The rezoning of two parcels of land adjacent to the commercial center and near Parkway Road to permit the construction of two or possibly three modern luxury apartment buildings was approved by the city council in a unanimous vote at a special meeting on Monday, August 4.

Mayor Tom Canning had proposed that a decision be delayed until the council's regular meeting one week later to permit further public discussion. However, the council felt that the matter of rezoning for the apartments had been sufficiently publicized in the News Review to allow objections to be raised that night. The only protest was a petition from about 40 residents of the Parkway Rd. apartments who said they wanted the natural beauty of the Parkway area to be maintained.

Sid Feldman of the 56 court of Crescent Rd. raised the point of a possible traffic hazard if a service road was cut through off Crescent to the apartments. However, Charles Bresler, representing the builder, Dan Ostrow, stated that the lay of the land indicated that this was highly unlikely and that the service road which now comes off Parkway into the city parking lot would probably be used.

Bresler exhibited drawings of three types of apartments, indicating that the architect would decide which would be suitable for the land available in Greenbelt. All of them feature individual patios for the first-floor apartments and balconies for upper level tenants. The buildings will be constructed of brick and aluminum. Parking space for the tenants will be behind the buildings.

In addition to a three-floor and a two-floor apartment building, one of the types is a three-story building with two-level apartments on the second and third floor. (The living-dining room area and kitchen is on the second floor and two bedrooms on the third level.) Bresler said that one definite feature is that all apartments will be air-conditioned throughout and contain garbage disposal units. Where possible, washing machine roofs will be on the apartment floors rather than in the basement.

Bresler said that the anticipated rentals will be $80 for a one-bedroom and $90 for a two-bedroom apartment, with the possibility of a few dollars higher at the most. There will be mostly two-bedroom apartments. Construction will begin sometime this fall, with the apartments expected to be ready for occupancy shortly after the first of next year.

Bresler also extended an invitation to the present residents of Parkway to let him know about any concern they might have about the new building and indicated that his company would compromise wherever possible. It will be necessary to tear down the 26 garages owned by Gilbert Realty adjacent to 9 Parkway. City Manager Charles McDonald said that these compound garages are completely outmoded and that he welcomed a start at getting rid of them.

BAPTIST NEWS

Because the steel girders and frames have not yet been delivered, erection of the Baptist Church building has been somewhat delayed. The girders and frames, prepared according to the architect's specifications, are expected to be delivered to the church property within ten days. After these are in place, the brick work will be started. According to the builder, C. M. Hale, the superstructure should be completed during August and September.

The Rev. Glenn W. Samuelson will preach Sunday morning on the subject, "Patience Is a Virtue," at the 11 a.m. worship service held in the Center School auditorium. The subject for the evening service, beginning at 7 p.m. will be, "Not Many Talents, But Faithful." Sunday School is held at 9:45 a.m. and Training Union begins at 6 p.m.

Mogel Enlists Units For Labor Day Parade

Heading the parade committee for Greenbelt's Labor Day Weekend Festival is Robert W. Mogel, whose chairmanship of the Spring Clean-up campaign won him a special commendation from chairman Edgar L. Smith of the Prince Georges County Clean-up committee and from County Commissioner Frank Lastner. Because of the short period of time remaining before the event, Mogel has asked the News Review to make public his general invitation to all units and organizations within the city of Greenbelt to participate in the parade. He asked that all such groups desiring a place in the parade inform him by card or phone, so that he could arrange their positions in the line of march.

"We would like to see all the organizations in the City be represented in this parade," Mogel stated, particularly urging the need for more floats and marching groups.

Unlike the recent Fourth of July parade in which each unit stopped before a central reviewing stand, the Labor Day parade will be run on a "timed" basis, with judges along the line of march as well as at the reviewing stand. Final judging will take place after the best three or four units have been called back for a demonstration and an elimination contest. There will be no stopping in front of the reviewing stand and no delaying along the line of march, Mogel noted.

The parade, which will start at 10 a.m., will feature several divisions, each with music, marching units and floats.

In a concluding comment, stressing the need for immediate enlistment of participants, Mogel stated: "This committee needs more bands, judges, official cars, and more participants; that's all."

Ping-Pong Tournament

The first annual Greenbelt table tennis tournament will be held at the Greenbelt National Guard Armory on Aug. 26-28, according to David Grego, chairman of the tournament. The matches will be sponsored by and held in conjunction with the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. They have been sanctioned by the United States Table Tennis Association and the District of Columbia Table Tennis Association.

Competition in the singles division will be in the following categories: men's, women's, junior miss boys and girls and senior. In the doubles division there will be men's, women's, mixed, juniors and senior doubles. Entrance fees are 50c for the adult singles matches and 35c for youngsters. Doubles fees are 75c for adults and 50c for juniors.

Closing date for entries is Aug. 22. Entry blanks can be obtained by calling Grego at GR. 4-6317 or by contacting him at the Co-op food store. They can also be obtained from the D. C. Table Tennis Association, 419 Ninth St., N.W.

Work Begun on Park Area

The National Park Service began work last month to develop Greenbelt Park into an 1100-acre recreation area that will include public camp sites and an 19-hole golf course.

Rep. Richard E. Lankford (D-Md.), introduced a bill April 17 to direct the Park Service to undertake the project. His announcement was confirmed by Conrad L. Wirth, Director of the Park Service and Harry T. Thompson, Superintendent of National Capital Parks.

The park land, acquired in 1950, lies astride of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway east of College Park. It is now undeveloped except for sewer facilities.

Thompson said a small fund would be made available in next fiscal year's budget to build an access road, clear trails and install some picnic tables.

Next year, he said, a larger sum probably will be sought to carry on the work.

A master plan for development is being prepared to include parking facilities, roads, picnic areas with servicing and cooking units, facilities for nature study and camping, a police station, administrative headquarters and the golf course.

Lankford who has urged development of the tract for more than two years, said he was gratified by the announcement. "I have been most fearful that unless it was developed into a park soon, it might be declared surplus and sold for a private real estate development," he stated.

Lankford described the tract as "the only natural unspoiled area of its kind in the close-in Washington suburban area."

Last December the National Capital Regional Planning Council urged its development either by the Park Service or by local or regional agencies.

How do you mark your place when you are reading a book and are interrupted? Do you "dog-ear" the page, insert a piece of paper, or hunt up a pencil to place between the pages?

What you use to mark your place is very important; it can make a difference in the life of a book. "Dog-earing"—turning down the corner of a page—causes the corner to fall off eventually. That not only gives an unsightly appearance to the book; it often destroys valuable printed matter. Heavy objects, such as pencils or scissors, are equally harmful. They force the binding apart, and break the back of the book. Placing an open book face down has the same effect on the binding.

What IS the best method of keeping your place? One of the BOOK-MARKS provided by the Prince Georges County Memorial Library at each of its branches and bookmobiles! They are attractive, colorful pieces, designed and drawn by Mrs. Carolyn Price, Branch Librarian at Forest Heights, and run in the Office on the multith.

Those Living Behind Locked Doors

by Rita Fisher

On my second trip to St. Elizabeth's, with my Mowatt Memorial Church group, I became more familiar with the living habits. For one thing, most of their dresses looked alike, although the colors were different, and they were baggy looking. These women are not able, in most cases, to take care of themselves or their laundry. I noticed a large room out in the hall which seemed to be the place where all the clothing and accessories were kept. This also was entered through a locked door, and the keys were kept by the attendants. Their sleeping quarters were plain. Just metal beds, white sheets—no bureaus, tables, ornaments. This is the way things have to be since so many are incapable of taking care of their personal belongings, and others would take anything left lying around since they could not know what was wrong with doing it. It became evident by just looking at their faces and clothing as to which of the patients had intelligence enough to participate in group games.

I walked out to the porch and noticed the lady who was taking shorthand the last time I was there. This time she was crocheting. I wanted to talk to her, and I was determined to try, no matter how she reacted. I walked over to her and she shooed me away. She did not want any part of me. Her features and language were that of a normal woman. She was small of build and neat looking. She said she had enough trouble with the ones she had to live with. She did not want nor have to put up with us "Church-people." I tried to explain that we were not there to preach, just to give a little party and have a good time. I remarked to her that I thought her crochet work was lovely. I said I was sure I couldn't do as well, which is true. She came back with, "Well, if you were in here and had as much time to work on it as I have, you'd do just as well." I guess she was right!

I saw Mrs. D. again. She is such a lovely and sociable old woman. Tall, gray hair and so neat looking. She showed up a little late, her reason being that she had eaten lunch in her room. The last time she had spent the day away from the hospital, she had taken some things back with her so that she could make her own sandwiches from her own things at lunch time.

One of the women came over to talk to me. She asked me to tell the ladies not to give the prizes away at the Bingo games. Her "friends" were insulted because some of these prizes were actually heirlooms and belonged to her friends. Why, Mrs. Vanderbilt, one of her friends, was over nine hundred years of age. And they were taking their anger out on her. She hated to have to tell us, but after all, she didn't want these people angry at her. We said we'd see what we could do. That was the way we treated them. We listened and did not argue.

An hour and a half, once a month! So much is accomplished in so little time. I'm sure there are some of you who would like to come with us. Call me at 9689 after Aug. 18, and I will arrange it.

Wilson, founder of the world's largest health organization, American Health Studios and Silhouette Figure Form, International, charged that this country's designers are ruining the health and beauty of American women and that the healthy, All-American girl is a "Vanishing American." Wilson, who presently has more than 2,500,000 studio members in his national health program, said, "While our organization helps make women more curvaceous these so-called fashion stylists try to cover them up with bags and sacks — it's unnatural, unhealthy, and Un-American!"
