Space Center Opens At End of August

The first major installation of the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., will be placed in operation in late August, according to Dr. Michael J. Vaccaro, business manager of the center, as reported in county newspapers.

Dr. Vaccaro, addressing the Prince Georges Chamber of Commerce recently, said that by November this major laboratory of the National Space Agency will have 1230 people working there. A small unit is already at work at the Center.

By June 1961, an additional 800 people will be installed at the Center. In April 1962, a large subdivision of the Center presently situated at Langley, Va., will be brought to Greenbelt.

Dr. Vaccaro explained that the Center will be the location of the research and development work of "deep space probes." Workers there will build prototypes or first versions of space vehicles. Commercial plants will then construct production models.

Goddard is located on a 550-acre tract on Glenn Dale rd., a few miles east of the Greenbelt exit of the Washington-Baltimore Parkway. Although actually located on the Department of Agriculture Beltsville farm tract, the Space Center will use Greenbelt as its postoffice address.

Local Churches Join In Billy Graham Crusade

The Protestant churches of Greenbelt are cooperating in the Billy Graham National Capital Crusade at Griffith Stadium which begins Sunday afternoon, June 19 at 3 p.m. and concludes the following Sunday.

Members of the various churches have been invited to participate in the thousand voice choir, as ushers and as counselors. Dr. William J. Crowder, 4 Woodland Way, is serving on the executive committee.

In order for the citizens of Greenbelt to have adequate transportation since parking facilities are limited, the Greenbelt Ministerial Association has arranged for anyone who desires to secure reserved seat tickets and round trip bus transportation for 50c for each of the eight meetings.

Please phone any of the following churches to make your reservations for any of the meetings: Baptist Church, GR. 4-4040 or GR. 4-9424

Rev. Gill Plans Visit To Europe, Far East

Rev. Charles Gill, pastor of the Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church in Greenbelt, has been named a delegate from the World Council of Churches to the World Christian Teaching Conference in Strasbourg, France, during July. Participating in this conference will be a selected group of teachers and students from churches throughout the world.

In connection with this Conference Rev. and Mrs. Gill will spend the summer on an extensive tour of Europe and the Far-East. In the Far-East the Gills will visit Mrs. Gill's parents who are with the Methodist Church in Malaya, returning from the Far-East in September to continue as pastor of the Mowatt Memorial Church.

Recently Mr. Gill was awarded a $1000 scholarship from the Lilly Foundation for Senior Honors works. This grant was awarded by the American Association of Theological Schools. During their absence from Greenbelt, Rev. Clark Main will assume the duties of the Church as Interim-Pastor for the summer.

In connection with his trip abroad, Rev. Gill is seeking the loan of some selected slides of the Washington-Greenbelt area, or slides of special interest for their reflection of American life or scenery for use this summer in presentations all over the world. "I feel that this is the chance to show something of the people and their lives as we see them to others."

Anyone having slides for loan is asked to mark them with their name on the cardboard edge and then call the Methodist Church during the next week. These slides will be used before student groups, teachers, church and civic groups in Europe and the Far-East.

Little League Chatter

By Bud Dean

Monday the Pepsi Cola Athletics, maintaining their lead in the American League, stayed in front, downing Co-op, 24-11.

Tuesday the GHI Giants keeping pace with the Athletics swamped the Greenbelt Pharmacy Orioles, 29-3.

Wednesday the DAV Tigers still snarling at the rest of the League won over the Greenbelt Lions, 18-6 for their eighth without a loss.

Thursday the National Guard Indians minus the services of their Manager Dave Nickelson (who is hospitalized) relied on the services of Lonnie Palmer, manager of the Tigers, who led them to a victory over the American Legion Cardinals, 10-4.

Friday the Giants with a grand slam homer by Shegogue swamped the Co-ops, 25-1.

These scores are not a true indication of the type of ball these boys can play. They seem to be having a little trouble getting together and we hope in the second half they will find themselves and play the kind of ball they are capable of.

Schedule for the week of June 20
Monday—Lions vs. Indians
Tuesday—Cardinals vs. Tigers
Wednesday—Lions vs. Co-ops
Thursday—Giants vs. Indians
Friday—Cardinals vs. Orioles

FOR CRYING OUT LOUD—$2

Hawkers, peddlars and solicitors must register with the city and obtain a $2 permit good for a year to operate in Greenbelt, the city council decided last Monday night. The new ordinance also prohibits the making of any noise in connection with the conduct of business after 8:30 p.m. Civic, religious and charitable organizations are not subject to the permit fee.

Big Fireworks Show Slated for Fourth

A spectacular fire works display co-sponsored by the City and the Volunteer Fire Department will climax the annual Fourth of July Carnival in Greenbelt which will be held July 1, 2 and 4.

The Carnival, sponsored by the Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, will be held in the area between the swimming pool and the bowling alley. There will be a Ferris Wheel, Kiddie rides, ponies and Greenbelt's own "old" fire truck. A few booths are still available. Anyone wishing to run one of those booths during the Carnival is advised to contact Gil Wiser at GR. 4-8241.

This brings together Earl's Contractors and the Leaders of the Prince Georges County Recreation Softball League. TREE PRUNING

Tree pruning operations being conducted in Greenbelt this week have been contracted for by Pepco. Branches too close to power lines have been removed.

Council Seeks Delay on Liquor License Sought by Local Group

By Isadore Parker

The city council urged the county liquor board to "postpone a decision" on the application of the Greenbelt American Legion Post 136 for a Class C liquor license. The council action followed a plea by two local ministers, Rev. Kenneth Wyatt and Dr. Glenn Samuelson, to follow previous council decisions and express disapproval of liquor sales in Greenbelt.

Kids Compete Saturday In Bicycle Rodeo Here

Saturday, June 18 will be Greenbelt bicycle rodeo day for boys and girls, 12 years old and under at the Center School. There will be four trophies awarded—first and second for boys and first and second for girls.

The rodeo, under the joint sponsorship of Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, with the Lions Club furnishing the "safety inspected" stickers Dr. James Elam, head of the Methodist Commission on Social Relations is directing the rodeo and Police Chief James Williams heads the JCC committee for the sponsoring organizations.

Bicycles will be inspected at the rodeo for safe mechanical condition but they must be registered with the city. Contestants will have an opportunity to learn the rules of safe riding, rules of the road and show their skill in riding. The scoring is such that both the younger and older children have an equal opportunity to win.

The contests will be in the form of games and are patterned after the national association program. In case of rain the rodeo will be held the following Saturday, according to Dr. Elam.

Adults are needed to conduct and judge the rodeo. Those interested should call either Dr. Elam or Chief Williams.

High Point Graduation; Five Win Scholarships

Five Greenbelt young people were among the members of the graduating class at High Point High School to receive scholarships for college or university training. Their awards were announced at the annual Senior Night, held at the school on June 9.

Greenbelt winners, with the donors, are as follows: Sandra Greenaway, Alpha Delta Kappa; Susan Boggs, National Honor Society; Jane Halperin, George Washington University; Wilson Rowe, University of Maryland; and Herbert Laflamme, Veterans Administration Scholarship to Middlebury College.

Parents of the 383 graduates were guests at the annual Senior Night. Frank LaParle of Greenbelt, President of the senior class, acted as master of ceremonies.

In addition to the scholarship winners previously cited, several award winners were also announced. Frank LaParle and Carole Pines received awards from the College Park Rotary Club and John McCarthy received an award from the Prince Georges Kiwanis Club.

Leroy Richardson was a member of the Senior Team from High Point High School which had compiled the highest score of all high schools in Prince Georges County in the George Washington University Interscholastic English Examination.

Leroy Richardson placed fifth in the annual math contest conducted by the Mathematical Association of America for the Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia region.

Carole Pines and Marion Ryss received High Point school letters for having over 110 activity points. This includes clubs, school organization, citizenship, scholarship and other school participation.

Senior Week at High Point included Baccalaureate Services, the Graduation Ball, a class picnic and yearbook signing party, and reached its climax with the graduation program on June 15. The graduation ceremonies were held on the school football field with parents and friends present.

A hearing on the application took place this morning in Upper Marlboro. City Manager Charles McDonald was instructed to appear on behalf of the city to ask for the postponement and to cite the following reason: a previous application for a liquor license is now pending, following an appeal by the applicant; the Legion home is near a contemplated elementary school site; the Webb and Knapp development adjacent to the Legion may be affected adversely during its preliminary program; the "zoning exception" permitting the Legion home to operate may make its eligibility for a liquor license questionable; a previous instance of non-compliance with the existing beer permit disqualified the Legion from successfully obtaining a liquor license earlier, and the situation may not have changed; and the Legion home site is within 100 yards of a federal park.

"Jake" Hoffman, former Post commander, disclosed that the local post has 713 members, 266 of them Greenbelters. He said a majority of the members, both Greenbelters and non-Greenbelters, favor the license. Only two members publicly voice opposition to the license, Hoffman added. The Greenbelt post is the eighth largest in Maryland and the only one of the eight that does not have a liquor license, Hoffman said.

Dr. Samuelson and Rev. Wyatt reported the members of their congregations have voted to oppose the liquor license and reiterated remarks made at the council session on the Chasanow application in opposition to the sale of hard liquor in Greenbelt. They also read a letter in support of their position from Rev. Charles Gill of the Methodist Church.

The Class C license permits the sale of hard liquor to members and guests at the Legion home. Presently holding a beer permit, the Legion often uses a "one-day" permit, allowing the sale of liquor. The application calls for the transfer of a license presently held by American Legion Post 115 in Upper Marlboro. This is the third time in five years that the local Legion post has applied for a liquor license.

Disqualifying himself from voting on the question, councilman Edgar Smith disclosed that he is employed by a county attorney, Oscar Buley, a long-time legal representative of the Legion post. The council took a 30-minute recess before voting.

Mayor Alan Kistler declared that liquor boards expect opposition from ministers nearby residents and civic groups but usually base their decision on legality rather than opinion. He added that there was no evidence heard that night that changed his opinion that the citizens of Greenbelt do not want the sale of liquor inside the corporate limits of Greenbelt.

Greenbelt Splits With Burtonsville

In a doubleheader last Sunday at Braden Field Greenbelt won 1-0 in the first game and lost the second 8-0. Gary "Butch" Brown pitched brilliantly for Greenbelt in the opener, striking out 17 and walking only 1.

Brown would have had a no-hitter but an infield hit in the second inning was the lone hit. Richie Stevenson doubled home Doug Sullivan for Greenbelt's run.

Gerry Athey outpitched Bill Moore in the second game striking out 11 to Moore's 12 but the difference was Tyson Baker's bat for Burtonsville. He collected 2-home runs, a double and a single. Greenbelt meets Laurel in a rival contest June 19 at Laurel then return home June 26 for a double-header with Songsville.

Local High Point Student Wins Top Award, Will Work in University Lab

By Russ Greenbaum

Having just won a top scholastic award, Greenbelt's Stephan Mintz, a junior at High Point High School, will begin a career in science at the University of Maryland this summer. Steve, as he is generally known, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mintz, 1-C Westway.

At a special ceremony at High Point High School last week Steve was given the prize Harvard Book Award for achieving the highest scholastic average of any boy in the junior class. Steve maintained a 3.826 average even though all his classes were in the speeded-up program for academically talented students.

He was presented the award by Dr. Howard J. Laster of 15-A Ridge, representing the Harvard Club of Washington. Laster is associate professor of physics at the University of Maryland. Coincidentally Professor Laster directs the special program at the University which hires outstanding scientific-minded high school juniors and seniors to serve as summer research laboratory assistants.

Steve is one of four High Point students selected for the program this summer. Only 18 high school students are chosen throughout the state. Young Mintz will have the special privilege of working with the internationally known physicist and space pioneer Dr. Fred Singer, who is himself a resident of Greenbelt.

The young potential scientist will work a full eight-hour day beginning June 23, the day after regular school ends, for a period of nine or ten weeks. He will receive $40 a week. Steve will not only assist Dr. Singer in his work but he will also be given a chance to carry out his own research project.

Steve won his first honors in the scientific field in his last year at Greenbelt Junior High School. His six-inch telescope, which he built himself, including the laborious process of grinding and polishing the lens by hand, won him a first prize in the Prince Georges County Science Fair that year. He is now at work on the lens of a 12-inch telescope.

In addition to his stiff course of study at High Point, Steve is a member of the Russian Club, an informal group of students interested in learning the language, the World Politics Club, a discussion group and the Math Club. A month or so ago he added to his schedule a special after-school advanced class in algebra.

Despite all this book work, Steve is tall and husky. Just turning 17, he is an expert swimmer and last summer earned his junior life-saving certificate. On top of everything else, Steve is a talented painter. Studying under Mrs. Sari Shiren in Greenbelt and later at the Corcoran Art Gallery, he has won praise from professionals for his work.

Mrs. Greenbelt at Home

By Vivian Greenbaum

A few weeks ago we moved, for what is again positively the last time. As moves go, it was successful—we did not misplace anything of value, and Russ and I are still speaking to each other. Although our possessions had doubled since our last move, this one seemed easier because the children could help. Rachelle packed all of our books and Eric can fetch and carry very nicely now.

And then there's Russ, of course. I know that there are some wives who feel that husbands are no help at moving. They encourage their husbands to go to work or to a ballgame. It is these wives who give husbands a bad name. I maintain that husbands can be of assistance at moving time, but you must bear in mind that they require more supervision than children.

Russ took a few days off while we were packing, and one morning he announced that he was going to clean out the attic. Up Russ went, and that was the last I saw of him for three hours. When I went to call him for lunch, I found him sitting on the floor surrounded by stacks of Life magazines. The one he was reading dated back to 1953.

"We are not going to move those things again," I announced firmly. "Out they go. The only time you ever read them is when we are moving."

"Are you out of your mind?" Russ asked. "They're valuable source material. Our children will be able to use them some day."

The Life magazines came down from the attic, all 40 cubic feet of them and were packed in cartons. It's a comfort to know that if our children ever want to know how many college boys got into a telephone booth in 1957 or who gave the outstanding debutante party in 1954 that this information is on tap for them.

And so we moved. After the movers had deposited that last chair and carton and had departed, I surveyed the cartons stacked three deep.

"Well, now to dig in and get to work," he said.

I began to go through some of the cartons. I was looking for a frying-pan to heat up corned beef hash, provided I could find the corned beef hash. After a fruitless search, I hunted up Russ to see if he remembered where we had packed the kitchen stuff. I found that he had hooked up the television set and was watching a ball game. After a spirited exchange of words he agreed to do something useful. He located the cartons of Life magazines and stacked them carefully away on my linen closet shelves. Then he took a shower, after which he went out and took some pictures of the house.

I didn't see him all the next morning, but he appeared at lunch, looking very pleased with himself.

"Well, I've put in a good day's work," he announced. I moved the bookcases into the study and put all the books on the shelves.

"Oh no!" I cried. I dashed into the study. It was true. Russ had loaded three heavy walnut bookcases with several hundred pounds of books, all of which would have to be taken out of the room so the rug could be laid. It was at this point that I suggested that his office must be terribly handicapped without him.

I still maintain that husbands can be a great help during moving. Provided, that is, that you have time to supervise them properly.

Ben Kolbenschlager was named state director.

New York City Had It

By Barbara Skolnik, age 12

On June 10 at 8 a.m. a Federal Lines Double decker with 41 passenger zoomed out of Greenbelt to New York City. The passengers were the North End sixth graders and their chaperons, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Loughlin, Mrs. R. Newkirk, and Victor Fisher. This was the first time an overnight trip was planned. Mr. O'Loughlin organized the trip with the help of the students.

The first stop on the way to glorious New York City was the Delaware bus stop in New Castle, Delaware. There the group refreshed themselves and had a mid morning snack. The scenery along the New Jersey Turnpike was not much, but the kids still enjoyed themselves.

The group arrived in New York at 12:30 p.m. and went directly to the Statue of Liberty, where they ate their box lunch. Then they toured Rockefeller Center. Our guide put on a little mystery show. We all thought it was very exciting. Afterwards, we all hoped to go to the President Hotel but because of a delay we went to the Garden Cafeteria. After dinner, we took a walk in Central Park.

Hayden Planetarium was next on our itinerary. It was glorious and beautiful. Everybody enjoyed the showing of the stars. Directly after the performance, we boarded our bus and traveled to the Hotel President. We slept there overnight (really, nobody slept much).

At 7 a.m. Saturday morning almost everybody was up. Our first stop that morning was the automat. We spent lots of nickels for breakfast. Then we took a thrilling ride on the subway. Just before getting on the subway, Mr. O'Loughlin gave us final instructions. And guess what? We didn't lose a single person!

Afterwards we assembled at Radio City Music Hall to see a

UJA DRIVE UNDER WAY

The United Jewish Appeal Drive is under way in Greenbelt. This year American Jews have a great creative opportunity to clear up many serious problems faced by 600,000 Jewish men, women and children in Israel, Europe, the Moslem lands, and the United States.

Collectors are Ethel Rosenzweig, Pearl Levine, Lillian Greenbaum, Pearl Ellerin, Sonia Garin, Ethel Gearing, Evelyn Barnett and Terry Herman.

stage show and movie "Pollyanna." Most of the boys were thrilled to learn that Annette Funicello was going to be on stage, alive.

Our next stop was the United Nations. We went on a guided tour and our guide was also very nice. We visited the General Assembly Room and the International Court of Justice.

At the Empire State we were allowed to romp around. Our ears started to pop as we went to the top floor.

After dinner at the Garden Cafeteria, we boarded the bus. We were driven through Chinatown but were not permitted to get off the bus.

Finally we started our long journey back home. We arrived in Greenbelt at 11 p.m., right on schedule. We unloaded our bus and thanked our wonderful bus driver who traveled with us and stood the noise. We all had a wonderful time in glorious New York!

When The SIREN BLOWS

By Rita Fisher

June 7

Well, Greenbelt's 25 year old fire engine went "into service" on Saturday. It made the rounds of our town for about eight hours as it helped to fill the ambitions of many children (and a few adults) as it piled the kids on the back for 10c a ride, rang the bell and blew the siren. About 605 tickets were sold at the Ladies Auxiliary's Bazaar for rides on the fire truck. The ladies are certainly appreciative of the many men in the company who manned this piece of equipment which circled the town time after time, always loaded with happy faces.

A reminder that the Standard and Advanced Course in First Aid will be taught at the new Firehouse (if its ready) starting on Thursday, June 30 at 8 p.m. Instructor Don Pratt advises that the course will still be given if other quarters must be used. Anyone interested in taking this course need just show up that evening in time to sign up for the first session.

There were three fire calls last week but none were of major importance. A car fire on June 3, which our equipment was called out for, was brought under control by another company which was the first to arrive on the scene outside of Greenbelt. A grease fire in a stove on Laurel Hill on June 5 had our equipment rolling. The grease had burned out by the time our men got there, and the additional note that the steak was not burned was on the report. Also on June 5, a woman showed up at the Firehouse and reported a fire at Edmonston and Crescent rds. but the men could not find anything when they got there.

On the matter of the grease fire in the stove, Chief Vince Dutton would like the people of Greenbelt to remember that the men would rather answer a call such as this and not feel embarrassed when the matter turns out to be a minor one.

I had one such experience like this. Quite a while ago, I decided to bake some apple pies. I used brown sugar in both pies and after cooking a while, the sugar ran over and there was a fire in the oven. I was not in a panic, but I decided to call the Fire Board for advice. However, rather than give the advice by phone, the man on the other end of the line said he would summon the Fire Department. Well, I could hear the triple siren go off as I went back to look at the fire in the oven. I turned the burner off and sure enough, the fire died out. By that time, I could hear the sirens on the equipment coming closer and then I was panicky. Just as I knew would happen, all my neighbors came out and kids came running from all over town. I felt so awful as I assured the men that the fire was out and showed them the oven.

Well, they left, I cleaned the oven and baked my pies again, this time using a piece of aluminum foil to catch the drippings. I certainly was embarrassed but still it was a good feeling to know that the aid was there if I needed it. It wasn't until much later that I told Chief Dutton about it, and it was then that he assured me that there was no need to feel embarrassed.

The Rescue Squad made a number of runs this week including one on June 4 which was to carry a man (a non-resident) who was picked up at 26 Crescent with a bad cut on the bottom of his foot which was caused by stepping on a broken pop bottle. He was taken to P.G. Taken to P.G. for a stomach pumping on June 2 was a three year old child who swallowed about 40 baby aspirins. The child was also returned home in the ambulance. The same evening, a woman from Hillside who was suffering from high fever and nausea was carried to George Washington Hospital.

What Does Money Cost?

At Twin Pines, where you assign the equity in your GHI house as security, it costs $60 per year to borrow $1,000 and pay it back in monthly installments. $120 is the cost for 2 years and so on up to $300 if you take 5 years to repay. This includes life insurance and all other costs. Furthermore, if you repay according to schedule you are eligible for a patronage refund at the end of the year. It will pay you to shop around and compare prices.
